If we look at the men to whom young free-born Americans are expected to surrender themselves in these days if they become Masons, we shall find nothing to counteract the tendency which Masonry gives towards inebriation. A young man might serve under the eye of such a character as the Duke of Wellington, Justice Story or Bishop Huntington with so much ambition and elevation of sentiment as to entirely abstain from strong drink. But But what is to prevent the young American from a rapid decline into drunkenness and other vices if he enlists under such men as Benedict Arnold, Thomas Smith Webb, Albert Pike, Rev. Mr. Tyng, General Sickles, Ben. Perley Poore, General Butler, Albert G. Mackey, William M. Tweed, Winslow the forger, Jefferson Davis and numerous other principal magnates of the lodge?

The very fact that a noble minded man descends to do things on the sly gives him the feeling of a criminal, and tends to drive him to drink to relieve the sense of uneasiness occasioned thereby.

AMERICAN.

MASONRY VERSUS CHRISTIAN DISCIPLINE.

[Continued.]

Shortly after the disgraceful conduct of the Masons in this Masonic persecution of Fait were made public. the pastor (who claims to be neutral) advised Fait to decline filling his office as deacon until the Masonic brethren had become reconciled. Fait complied, and on the same morning the pastor requested P. Sisterhen, an accuser, to take charge of the vacant office.

Agreeable to the pastor's request Fait sat back as one already condemned (without trial) for several weeks; but, seeing no effort made to reconcile the Masonic brethren he requested the pastor to remove the ban and free him from the suspicion of the congregation, which began to arise on account of his ceasing to act officially. The pastor refused, whereupon Fait determined to go forward in his official capacity until good reasons were shown why he should be placed under condemnation of the church, which he accordingly did. However, when Fait, with the other deacons, was passing the emblems a most disgraceful scene occurred. The Masons who had brought the charges either refused to take the emblems from his hands, or, on being approached by Fait took seats where they could be served by the other deacons. After this Fait made no further effort to fill the office to which he was chosen by the church. It is very probable that the disorderly brethren were acting under the advice, or at least in accordance with the wishes of their chief elder, G. W. Chapman. It is in proof of this statement that at the close of the meeting in which the above disgraceful scene occurred, the chief elder, instead of reprimanding the disorderly brethren or in any way showing his disapprobation of their conduct, presented Fait with a new set of charges in behalf of the disorderly brother Masons. After some questioning Chapman admitted being the author of said charges, but claimed to act in behalf of many brethren. They were first presented without a signature. Fait insisted that Chapman should put his name to his complaint; this he refused to do, but finally affixed two other names which also appeared in the first set of charges. Fait then received it for consideration requesting that, when called for trial, Chapman allow some disinterested person to act in his place in passing judgment upon said charges. Fait asked to be tried before the other two elders and some evangelist that they might choose. Chapman, however, could not be prevailed on to trust his charges in the hands of others; and evidently withheld his signature only that he might with some degree of plausibility sit in judgment upon the case. Before the trial came off Elder Richmond also requested Chapman to allow some preacher or elder from another congregation to act in his place during the trial but could only get an evasive answer.

Up to this date G. W. Chapman and C. W. Stites refused to let the church hear Fait's answer to the charges, but demanded that the officers alone had a right to witness the trial. But upon the presentation of a new set of charges Fait was called for trial before the whole congregation or as many as saw fit to be present. This action may seem strange to some, but to the thoughtful observer the reason is apparent. The first set of charges are such that an intelligent reply would prove to the most limited understanding that the charges were preferred unscripturally and maliciously. A proper investigation of them would also elicit a discussion of the principles and practices of Freemasonry, which is by virtue of Masonic obligations avoided by the shrewd members of the craft. On the other hand the second set of charges were drawn up by a member of the craft with a view of avoiding any discussion of Freemasonry although the real complaint was the same as in the beginning. Consequently outsiders, as well as the church, were permitted to attend this trial, notwithstanding the elder could not be induced to permit the congregation to hear when the principles of Masonry would necessarily have to be discussed.

At this juncture of the proceedings it became apparent that the Masonic church dignitaries were studiously and vigorously endeavoring to prejudice the public mind against Fait preparatory to a final exclusion, which was evidently already determined upon by the Masons, as the following will show. It was on two different days publicly announced that "Bro. Fait, with the officers of the church, will remain a short time after the congregation is dismissed." And lo! in the one instance Chapman only wished to inform Fait that the elders had decided to have a trial of his case before himself and the other two elders, the church not being permitted to attend, on the next Thursday evening. Fait was also within a few feet of all the elders and could have been readily consulted after the meeting was dismissed. As yet the congregation was not in possession of any knowledge of the charges; but these public invitations for Fait to remain with the officers of the church were evidently for the purpose of making the congregation believe Fait an unruly member who was causing the church much trouble. By the time the church officers had three or four meetings, and all about Fait, the congregation was made to believe evil of him even before they had heard the charges, and he was already being denounced for causing so much trouble to the church. This being accomplished during the space of about two months, the church rulers were then ready to take action for Fait's exclusion from the church. At the last public announcement referred to it was desired merely to present Fait with the new set of charges already referred to which should have been, according to Scripture, presented first alone, after this with two or three witnesses, and finally, if necessary, to the church. But the Scriptural way did not suit these church rulers. Thus by frequent and various methods the whole secret element of the church, which is by far the larger part of it, was set against Fait. After which they were ready to call a public meeting to exclude him from the church upon the following charges:

To the elders of the Christian church worshiping at Ligonier:

1. We the undersigned members thereof, complain of Bro. C. G. Fait that he has attempted or sought to bring odium, and contempt upon the church by being accessory to the publication in the Christian Cynosure, (in the 92d and 93d Nos. thereof) of two articles purporting to be written by one John T. Kiggins, in which is found an incorrect statement of facts and scurrilous comments by the author.

2. We further complain of Bro. Fait that he has unjustly assailed the character, impunged the motives, and condemned the conduct of our beloved pastor, by and in a communication written by himself, or over his name, and published in the 99th No. of the Cynosure.

3. Again, we charge Bro. Fait with willfully falsifying, by stating that he made no concessions to the church after a former trial, in which he was defendant and Bro. Peter Sisterhen and others complainants, and that Bro. Harris had made the statement or concession that he did without being authorized by him; when at the same time the statement was made by Bro. Harris Bro. Fait sat by and consented thereto.

[Signed.] PETER SISTERHEN.
J. E. BRODEN.

[To be Continued.]

LET BOTH GROW TOGETHER TILL HARVEST.

BY ALPHA BETA.

It is strange, but not less true than strange, that even among anti-secret men there are those who fellowship secretists and other flagrant offenders, and when challenged in reference to the propriety of such conduct as being inconsistent with a true Christian practice, they will quote and apply the words of our Saviour in the parable of the wheat and tares, "Let both grow together till harvest." If questioned as to where they are to grow together, they answer, "Why, in the church, for Christ said, 'The kingdom of heaven is like to a man that sowed good seed in his field,' and the kingdom of heaven, or God, means the church."

To say that the phrase means church is to give the flat contradiction to the interpretation of Christ to his disciples. "He that sowed the good seed is the Son of Man, the field is the world, the good seed is the children of the kingdom." Is the church the world? No. Is the world the church? No. Then it is in the world that the wheat and tares are to grow together, and not in the church, and it is an inexcusable blunder, if not worse, to pervert the plain teaching of Christ to screen a secretist, or other offender in the church. If the phrase means church, then the exercise of discipline is a bold usurpation, nay, more, it is direct rebellion against the command of Christ, "Let both grow together until the harvest." It is a brazen presumption to assume the prerogative of Christ himself, who by a supernatural power will "take out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them that work iniquity," and brings Christ and Paul into antagonism on the subject of discipline (see 1 Cor. 5, throughout; 1 Tim. 5: 20; Titus 3: 10) and makes Christ inconsistent with and contradictory to his own teaching in Matt. 18: 15–17.

It is not strange that secretists, and other flagrant offenders, are admitted, retained and excused in organizations claiming to be the church of Jesus Christ, when such inconsistent, erroneous and papistical teachings emanate from popular commentaries, professors of theological seminaries and and colleges practiced by church officers.

Experience as well as Holy Writ teaches us that the organization does not control the secretist and other offenders if admitted to membership; but that they control the organization, so that the truth cannot be spoken nor a wholesome discipline exercised, and soon the whole organization becomes permeated with the wrong. "Know ye not that a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump?" The reception of an unworthy character into the membership of an organization does not make him any better, but it lowers the moral standard of the organization to his level. "What! know ye not that he that is joined to a harlot, is one body, for two saith he shall be one flesh." The history of Anti-masonic practice, after the Morgan excitement, is full proof to the point; they attempted to put down politically what they carefully folded and shielded in the arms of the church, and so gave secrecy a respectability and influence that the ballot box could never control; and at the present time we see the sons of leading Anti-masons of forty years ago, now prominent men in the ranks of secretism, and for this none are more responsible than the churches; they practiced on the erroneous idea that the wheat and tares should both grow together until the harvest and never intimated that secretism was a blot on the Christian character. And when the young men saw the churches receiving secretists into their membership and their fathers communing with them, they could not be blamed for coming to the conclusion that secretism was not so bad after all. Slavery is another example of the influence gained by being admitted to the communion table. When the church declared that slavery as it existed in the Southern States was no bar to Christian communion, it made them bold to demand equal privileges for their "pet institution," and made the Northern States a hunting ground for their panting fugitives, and the Northern freeman a bloodhound to do duty at the beck of their Southern master. This could never have occurred had slavery not found protection in the arms of the church.

The Christian has no moral right to enter a carnal or worldly organization, with the expectation of furthering the Master's interests. Neither has the carnal or worldly any right to enter the church of Jesus Christ, or any right to be enrolled among the regenerated ones. "Wherefore, he saith, awake thou that sleepest and arise from the dead (carnal) and Christ shall give thee light;" that is separate from among them; "have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them;" they have but "the form of godliness, but deny the power thereof" to separate from sin and sinful associations; "from such turn away." "Wherefore come out from among them and be ye separate, and touch not the unclean thing." What unclean thing? In this connection the apostle told the church of God at Corinth that they should not colabor, commune or fellowship with those of opposite theory and practice to what they had been taught; it was an unholy alliance, a forbidden association, and all that they participated in it would be unholy and unclean. So that even the elements representing the broken body and shed blood of the Lord from heaven are unclean; hence the necessity of separation and coming out from among those walking disorderly. But the practice has come down to us from the papacy unchallenged of letting the wheat and tares grow together until the harvest, until the tares have got control of the church to a fearful extent throughout Christendom. The papists hold that all baptized ones are members regardless of character, and Protestants hold and treat all who enter the church regularly as members regardless of their associations. Even a noted D. D. affirmed publicly that he would commune with the devil if he entered the church regularly. And practicing still on this principle secretists and other offenders are received into the church and treated with respect and consideration regardless of the injunction, "We command you in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, that ye withdraw from every brother that walketh disorderly and not after the tradition received of us." No man can comply with this solemn command and have communion and fellowship with them. To maintain a Christian character and to exemplify the power of godliness there must be a separation, there must be a distinct line of demarcation between the clean and the unclean, between him that serveth the Lord and him that serveth him not. To proclaim a paper testimony or to preach against a wrong and to receive the wrongdoer, without evidence of repentance or to commune with such, is but a solemn mockery of the requirements of the religion of Jesus, and high-handed rebellion against his authority. Can it be plead successfully "Let both grow together until the harvest" as a bar in arrest of judgment in the great day of accounts? Nay verily.

July 3, 1877.

A young preacher once solicited the advice of Bishop Asbury. He said that he should probably, in his travels, need Masonic help; the venerable bishop replied: "If you travel in God's dominions you will not need Masonic help."

Romish Schools.

A great many Protestant parents send their children to Roman Catholic schools. Thousands of children from Protestant homes are in training at the present time in schools taught by Roman Catholic teachers and controlled by the Romish church. These children are not sent to these schools that they may become Romanists. The idea is that the schools are good schools in spite of their being Romish, not because they are Romish; and that scholars who attend them will gain much that is desirable apart from distinctively Romish teaching.

As a matter of fact, many of these schools are very good schools—in their way; good schools for the purpose to which they are designed. They are established to promote the interests of Roman Catholicism, and they are admirably planned and managed to that end. They do well the work to which they are set. Their instruction and influence tend to make Romanists of their pupils. It is not insisted that those who attend these schools shall be Romanists; but care is taken that Romish doctrines and Romish ceremonies are held before the pupils in an attractive light, and that as many as possible of the scholars are led to adopt Romanism as their religion.

There is really no unfairness or deceit in all this. It would not, we think, be denied by the conductors of these schools that this is a fair statement of the case. Religion—religion, according to the Romish view of it—is given the first place in the atmosphere and direct teachings of these schools. And many of the children from Protestant homes, who attend the Romish schools, become Romanists. It could hardly be otherwise. If, therefore, Protestant parents want their children to become Romanists, they would do well to send them to Romish schools. But if the parents object to the doctrines of the Romish church they had better keep their children away from the schools of the Romanists, however highly they may think of the advantages of learning French or music in those schools.

As showing what are the doctrines taught in these Romish schools, the Episcopal bishop of Georgia recently quoted at some length from a work entitled, "Familiar Explanation of Christian Doctrine, Adapted for the Family and More Advanced Students in Catholic Schools and Colleges," published in 1875, in Baltimore, Md., and officially approved by the present archbishop of Baltimore. Here are a few of the questions and their answers: "Since the Roman Catholic church alone is the true church of Jesus Christ, can any one who dies outside of the church be saved?" "He cannot." "Have Protestants any faith in Christ?" "They never had." "Why not?" "Because there never lived such a Christ as they imagine and believe in." "In what kind of a Christ do they believe?" "In such a one of whom they can make a liar," etc. "Will such a faith in such a Christ save Protestants?" "No sensible man will assert such an absurdity." "What will Christ say to them on the Day of Judgment?" "I know you not, because you never knew me." Again, not long ago, the Catholic Review, in bringing out the distinctive doctrines of its church, showed that these are among the teachings of Romanists: "That Mary is the mother of God; that baptism obliterates both original and actual sin in those who receive it with the proper disposition, and that without it not even the soul of an infant can enter heaven; that no one can have God for his father who has not the church for his mother; that the Pope of Rome is Christ's vicar upon earth, and that no one can be a member of the mystical body of Christ who is not in organic union with its visible head."

Now any parent who wants his children to be taught these doctrines would be in a fair way to have his wish granted by sending his children to a Romish school. That is where they teach these doctrines.—S. S. Times.

Half Lodge, Half Christ.

Will those professors of the Christian religion who belong to the lodge give heed to the apostle's admonition? (See 2 Cor., vi. 14–18.) Can they preach to others to join the church, or be baptized in Christ's name, and thereby become half-brothers to the secret fraternity? Or can they pray for the Holy Ghost and the Word to convert sinners when they refuse to hear Paul or their own brethren, whose hearts are pained to see this monster in the churches? I know persons who say they see no advantage in joining a church which holds lodge members, as they would become half-brothers to the lodge. I have avoided saying anything about the inner workings of the lodge in this article, but I will simply say that it is a religious society. It is not Christian nor Jewish no Mohammedan, but all these combined; a religion common to all, calculated to take all to the Grand Lodge above. Just think of a minister of the gospel being in an upper room, and the tyler, with his sword, guarding the door for his congregation and his brethren there assembled with unbelievers, making a Christless prayer to God in behalf of the lodge, purposely omitting the name of cause it would be an offense to his brethren, because he must not bring his peculiar religion into the lodge.

Are these Christian (?) lodge members governed by the word of God in their dealings with their fellow man? Or are they governed by the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge?—D. Gans in Brethren at Work.

What Might be done with the Money Wasted in War.—Give me the money that has been spent in war and I will purchase every foot of land upon the globe; I will clothe every man, woman and child in an attire that kings might be proud of; I will build a school house upon every hill-side and in every valley over the whole habitable earth, and will supply that school house with a competent teacher; I will build an academy in every town and endow it, a college in every State and fill it with able professors; I will crown every hill with a church consecrated to the promulgation of the gospel of peace; I will support in its pulpit an able teacher of righteousness, so that on every Sabbath morning the chime on one hill should answer to the chime on another round the earth's broad circumference, and the voice of prayer and the song of praise should ascend like an universal holocaust to heaven.—Dr. Stebbins.

Memorial Services for the late Mary Birchard, Fayetteville, Vermont.

Our readers will probably remember that Miss Birchard was a victim of the Ashtabula disaster that occurred on the 29th of last December, and by which many lives were lost. As her remains have not been discovered her friends concluded to have religious services held in memory of her death, and the 18th of July was appointed for the purpose. A large assembly of the family and of the deceased assembled on that occasion, and several clergymen officiated. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Mr. Burnham, Miss Birchard's pastor. The attendance was large and persons were present from distant parts of the Union.

As the Hon. Austin Birchard, the father of the deceased, has always been an active Anti-mason, and has recently served as Vice-president of the Windham County Anti-masonic Society, on the same ground where he was a prominent Anti-masonic leader half a century ago, it is thought that the readers of the Cynosure might be interested in the remarks that, among others, were made on the occasion by our fellow laborer, Gen. J. W. Phelps. These remarks were as follows:

Friends: I am but little fitted to express the sentiments due to this occasion, though it behooves me, a particular friend of our worthy fellow citizen whose loss we deplore, to give utterance to that condolence which we offer to him and his afflicted family. Mr. Birchard was the life-long friend of my father, and he has done me the honor to extend to me the same generous disinterested friendship that he entertained for him. Together, their united ages cover a period of one hundred years, the entire period of the existence of Vermont as a State; for our venerable friend has already far surpassed that limit of time which is usually allotted to the life of man. He is eighty-four years of age. He brings down to us from the earlier days of the State, undiminished, all the better and higher aspirations and influences of those times; for his long life has been one continued, even course of cheerful, constant, patient, commendable well-doing in the cause of republican government and Christian society which he has ever had at heart.

We come together to-day to offer our sympathy to our noble friend and his family on an occasion of sadness the cause of which is well known. Though our friend's personal life has been remarkably peaceful, serene and even, yet some of the darkest shadows have been thrown over it, distinguishing it in a most signal manner from ordinary lives. You all remember, perhaps, as the clergyman has told us, that not many years since a brother living to the eastward of us in Dummerston, was lost in the conflagration of his own house. A sister, living upon the hills to the northward, was struck by lightning and killed. A son, his youngest child, whom he loved as the patriarch loved his favorite son Joseph, the hope of his house, and whom he offered to the country in its extremity as a trained soldier, lost his life in the prison-pen of Andersonville, the horrors of which are better imagined than described. And lastly, a beloved daughter, the prop of his declining years, has met with a death more tragical than all.

I saw her about a month before she left her father's house. She was then returning to him after a summer's visit to the Centennial, with renewed health and spirits, with a heightened tone of patriotic feeling which that event was calculated to inspire in one of her character, and with cheering anticipations of soon seeing her sister and other relations in the West, among whom was her cousin whose election to the presidency, rendered peculiarly dubious and uncertain, was then pending, but whom she expected to congratulate on success. With such feelings she left home at that season of the year when all Christian hearts are made glad with memories of the birthday of the Saviour of mankind. But as the darkest shades had fallen upon her father's life, generally so calm and even-tenored, so there were dark cloud-shadows upon the bright prospects before her. Sad forebodings colored all her thoughts. She was deeply impressed with a vague presentiment of coming evil, similar to which many instances, I am told, are given in her journals. Being a lady of deep sensibilities, she felt deeply and prophetically. Arrived at Springfield, Mass., she was advised to wait over one train, which she did. Had she gone directly on, her life would probably have been saved. At Erie, Pa., she was urged by a friend, as it was stormy, to stop and stay over night. But from a sense of duty that distinguished her, not willing to disappoint a brother-in-law who was waiting for her at Cleveland, she decided to go on. But between Erie and Cleveland there proved to be a frightful chasm. On went the cars, bright and pleasant within with lights and happy company; with not a suspicion of present evil, they entered upon the bridge at Ashtabula which was made of iron, and had been traveled over day after day, month after month, year after year. There was a sudden crash—

You all may have seen the photograph of the net-work of iron bars and rods beneath which the most of that fair freight of human beings perished. Hardly ever is the aspect of the king of terrors acceptable to us; and never did he appear more stern and dread than on that night. A December snow-storm was prevailing, one of the wildest that has ever swept over the prairies of the West, and there, beneath a chaotic wreck of cars, while the dark ice-clogged waters went murmuring by, wounded, maimed and imprisoned human beings, with cries of pain, anguish and despair, were being hushed into the silence of death by devouring fire. Though some were rescued and others recovered from among the dead and unconsumed, yet from that day to this hardly a trace of Mary Birchard has ever been found. Search, immediate and diligent search has been made, yet sickened hope has grown faint and fainter, until at last it has wholly expired, and we can have no expectation of seeing her again on this side of the grave.

It was fitting, therefore, that some occasion like this, in this pleasant season of the year, calculated to assuage the grief of pained and stricken hearts, should be appointed to show our sorrow for the departed, and our respect for her father, relations and friends who are so worthy of our sympathy.

My friends, nothing ever occurs by chance. A sparrow never falls without the recognition of Him who has weighed the worlds in a balance. We who have come here to-day to offer our sympathies to our venerable friend—it is we who are honored thereby rather than he. We do ourselves honor by sympathizing with him in his afflictions. Whenever I see him, so old and worthy of honor, I am reminded of some primeval forest tree that has escaped the leveling axe, and rises towering midway above the surrounding growth, so much does he appear the representative of better times and of stronger men than ours of the present day. He has been constant, faithful, true to all his duties and all his early inspirations, abiding in the hope, as an exemplary citizen of a Republic and member of Christian society. The afflictions that in the mysterious dispensation of providence have visited him, should turn our attention to his virtues and his example, and we should strive to honor and console him by imitating them. And may it please Providence to still lengthen his years, free from others of those dark tragical events by which his life has been so signally marked, but by which the excellence of his character has been the more distinctly pointed out to us for our sympathy and esteem.

After the services were over, the assembly took leave of Mr. Birchard and his family and departed to their homes. The day was a pleasant one, intervening between two days of excessive rain. Some of the best representatives of Windham county were present on the occasion, and there has not probably been so large a gathering of such persons in the county for many years.

Reform News.

From the Wisconsin Work.

Byron, Wis., July 14, 1877.

Dear K.—I have just stopped to breathe and wipe off the sweat at Bro. B. C. Vaughan's. At Fond du Lac I spoke eight times in five days; preaching three times, lecturing three times on secrecy and twice on temperance, which you know is a little out of my line; but I am always ready and never afraid to do my best on every reform question. The pastors of Fond du Lac treated me as I treated them, viz., let me entirely alone; and the editor of the only paper I saw "condescended" to notice my lectures in Opera Hall as "airings of ignorance." The attendance, all things considered, was good, and I was encouraged by the "spiteful" or "sheep-dog" looks of the Masons as I passed along the streets, and the occasional hearty greetings of friends. I noticed too as a favorable omen that groups of men were discussing the merits of secretism here and there. I started a paper to obtain signatures of persons wishing to unite in an organization, and just before leaving I saw the gentleman having it in charge, who was quite sanguine in the expectation of getting a hundred names. After attending to matters of some importance to our publishing interest I took the train this A. M for Oakfield, three miles from this place, where I was fortunate enough to find quite a crowd, but unfortunate in not finding any team coming out this way; so I took my valise and started in the beaten and rather dusty path. A little effort and perseverance brought me to this place on time. I have since been to see Bro. Gray, pastor of the Wesleyan Methodist church and arranged to preach twice for him at Waupun to-morrow and return here for a lecture or sermon in the evening. Bro. Vaughan is from home but hourly expected. I shall probably remain and speak here Monday evening and return on Tuesday A. M. to Fond du Lac to complete some business there; thence to Chicago, as the friends at Menomonie are not ready.

Fond du Lac, Wis., July 17.

I wrote you before from Byron, nine miles from here, at the house of Rev. B. C. Vaughan. The appointments contemplated were filled and I purpose leaving this region by the next train. I have spoken in all twelve times; have received $1.26 for my services, and my expenses sinces leaving the city of Chicago have been $3.65, and if I should allow myself to dwell simply on the human side of this trip it would not present a very attractive theme. But there is another side which is the bright side. I was never more cordially received than by many whom I have met. Our meetings have been well attended and a very commendable degree of interest manifested, and my faith is that "when the books" are opened it will appear that these continuous and somewhat exhaustive efforts have not been in vain. If I never meet again on this earth these good brethren and sisters whom I have seen for the first time, I hope to meet and know them better in heaven.

At Waupun Bro. Dean was very cordial and is indefatiguable in his in his labors. Bro. Amadon stands firm and Bro. Hart is not unmindful of his responsibility in contending for the faith. Bro. Gray as in duty bound gave a good account of Bro. Snyder's labors at the dedication of their very neat house of worship, and there was but one voice among all the people who were greatly blessed by the coming of this good brother among them. Did time permit I should like to speak of others but hope they will speak for themselves for I know the many readers of the Cynosure would be glad to hear from them.

J. P. Stoddard.

Byron, Wis., July 16, 1877.

Editor Cynosure: Rev. J. P. Stoddard preached in the Wesleyan church here Sunday evening, July 14. The following evening he lectured with telling effect on the anti-Christian character of Masonry. Those two hours of logic, irony and eloquence poured a flood of light on the mystic fraternities, and left a large audience face to face with the duty of choosing this day whom they would serve. At the close of the address an Odd-fellow from Beaver Dam arose and accused the speaker of falsehood. The discomfiture of this knight errant of secrecy was complete and elicited prolonged laughter and applause.

Mr. Stoddard's visit to this part of the State has been a moral as well as a financial success.

There are firm friends of the cause in eastern Wisconsin, but, for the want of organization, they have slept on their arms or accomplished but little. Now, at the call of a competent leader, they are coming to the front to do more effective service for the right.

Yours truly, W. W. Warner.

Northern Illinois.

Elgin, Ill., July 7, 1877.

Dear Bro. Kellogg: It is some time since I have reported any work to your readers, and yet I have not been idle. Leaving home on the 2d of July I went to Aurora where I met a respectable audience in the City Hall who listened with excellent attention. One of the pastors, who glories in Masonry, was invited to respond, but had nothing to say. Another pastor who has — in the days of his moral darkness—taken seven degrees in Masonry assured me of the correctness of my statements and his hearty sympathy. Another seceding Mason expressed his hearty approval. On Tuesday morning the friends commenced making arrangements to secure the services of Mr. Ronayne.

On the evening of the 3d I reached Algonquin and found that my appointment had not been given out. In the course of an hour the people were notified and quite a congregation met at the new Free Methodist church and gave me an attentive hearing. I met here Father Chittenden of Crystal Lake, who aided in getting out the appointment and added his pointed testimony. Riding home with him, six and a half miles, after the meeting, I spent the 4th visiting friends and soliciting aid for our cause. The 5th took me to Geneva Lake, Wisconsin, where I met some earnest friends of our reform who show their faith by building a Wesleyan church and taking measures to secure the preaching of a pure Gospel. In the meantime they have not forgotten the Cynosure nor the Publishing House enterprise. By the kindness of Bro. Mathews, a tried friend of our cause, I took, on the 6th, an excursion to the upper end of Geneva Lake.

This beautiful sheet of water is nine miles long and from one and a half to three and a half miles wide. Its banks are moderately high and there are no marshes on its borders. It has a great depth, said to be 270 feet, or nearly as deep as Lake Michigan. The water is very pure, being fed entirely by springs. The town at the lower end of the lake is becoming more and more a place of resort. There are some splendid residences on the borders of the lake and a considerable number of permanent camps for the use of excursionists. There are five steamers on the lake, two good sized boats for the use of the public, which make regular trips round the lake every day, and three others are private boats, very expensive and beautiful. Keyes' Park near the head of the lake has a fine hotel, a museum, a large fountain, beautiful walks and groves, and is a place of much resort. Camp Collie, nearly opposite, is on a promontory covered with oaks. It is a collection of small houses in the grove, a town from which there is a fine view of the lake, a wharf and many boats. It is named from the pastor of the Congregational church in Delavan, who here takes his summer rest and recreation. Just now it is occupied by a convention of Christian workers who are there to spend some days in combined work and recreation. On the afternoon of the 6th but few had assembled and the prospect of a successful meeting did not seem good. Indeed the place seemed to me ill-advised. Pleasure seekers do not want to go to a religious meeting, and true Christian workers will have no need of pleasure seeking. They will find something better to do.

Our homeward trip was charming. A fresh breeze sent a gentle ripple over the blue waters of the lake and quite a number of sail boats spread their white canvass to the wind and moved rapidly over the waters. The town with its large hotels, its fine Female Seminary buildings, and its many beautiful residences is pleasant to look upon and desirable to reside in.

There are left so many pleasant recollections of Geneva Lake that I could almost forgive the churches there for wishing more to please the Freemasons than the friends of truth, and excluding me from their houses of worship. How sad it is that Satan now, as of old, seeks out the Edens and scatters moral desolation and death, and that so many seemingly good people love to have it so.

H. H. Hinman.

Winnebago, Ill., July 17, 1877.

I spent last Sabbath at Belvidere, preaching twice for the Free Methodists. From there I went back to Union and addressed a full congregation in the Congregational church. On the preceding Friday evening I had spoken in the same place, to a full house, to the evident gratification of the friends of truth, but to the great disgust of the friends of Masonry. Last night I spoke of the relations of Masonry to civil society, and was listened to by quite a number of adhering and several seceding Masons. Among the latter were the former master and the junior warden of the Masonic lodge in that place. At the close of my lecture both gave their testimony as to the correctness of the expositions of Masonry and faithfully warned the people against its frauds and wickedness. Past Master Frisbee, after giving a most kind and Christian statement of facts, proceeded to give the laughable side, and brought down the house with a roar of laughter and applause. Masonry has doubtless received its death blow in Union, and the Masons are very angry.

The churches and pastors here are Anti-masonic. They are not afraid to stand for the right, and the Lord is blessing them. A good state of religious interest exists and some conversions are taking place. Bro. Ronayne is here (Winnebago) working the degrees, but expects to go to Marengo, and from there to Aurora. The work in this region has seemed so important and pressing I have concluded to put off my visit to Iowa until after the harvest. May the Lord of the harvest grant us a great gathering of souls into his garner.

Yours for the Lord,

H. H. Hinman.

Ronayne at Winnebago.

Winnebago, Ill., July 20.

According to appointment Bro. Ronayne of Chicago, commenced a course of lectures opposed to Masonry in the Free Methodist church, Monday 8 P. M.; house crowded to overflowing. While working the first degree the audience was still and solemn. As the point was reached where the candidate was taking the horrible oath in this degree and in explanation of the validity of that oath a Mason denied that the compass and square were put above the Bible. Masonic proof was brought forward of the strongest kind to sustain the fact as stated. At the close of the lecture the pastor of the M. E. church arose and

[Continued on page 9.]

Correspondence.

Coming to the Surface.

Chicago, July 18, 1877.

The following, from the Post, of this city, July 13th, sent by special correspondence from Fond du Lac, shows what is the real animus of the opposition to the executive and administrative head of Wheaton College:

"Rev. Stoddard, the supporter of President Blanchard, of recent notoriety, is here trying to kick up a dust over secret societies. He was refused the Congregational church last Sabbath evening, to his disgust."

It is not true that "Rev. Stoddard" was refused the Congregational church, for he did not ask for it. But it is true that some of the "fraters" were not well pleased with my lectures, and one of them told me that he feared trouble with the ladies, for dissatisfaction on the part of some was already apparent and intimated that it was less than a square from the house he lived in. Possibly some of the intelligent ladies whom I met at my lectures may be asking their "lords" and "sovereigns" why it is that if Masonry and Odd-fellowship are so good and pure, the wife must be called a "cowan" (i. e., dog; see Mackey, Lex. 8,101) and left out in the "profane world" while her husband enjoys such superior advantages within the "sacred precincts" of the lodge. Is it not time the ladies of Fond du Lac gave some attention to this matter in an earnest and Christian way?

J. P. Stoddard.

The Lutheran Synods.

Dear Cynosure: In your issue of the 28th ult. I find an article from Bro. A. R. Cervine, concerning the position of the Lutheran church in this country on secret societies, especially in the so-called General Council and the Synodical Conference. Mr. C. is evidently laboring under a false impression in regard to his own General Council, as I myself did while a member of the same body.

I will try to let a little light on this matter, that your readers may have a clear understanding in regard to our Lutheran church in numerical strength, as well as her position on the subject of secretism. There are four general Lutheran bodies in America, nine independent synods, and many congregations purely Lutheran, but in no synodical connection whatever:

1. The General Synod (North) numbers 24 synods and 755 ministers.
2. Synodical Conference, 17 synods and 997 ministers.
3. General Synod (South), 5 synods and 95 ministers.
4. The General Council, 11 synods and 576 ministers.
5. Independent, 9 synods, with 283 ministers.

TOTAL.

Ministers	2,701
Congregations	4,835
Communicants	640,415

From the above it will be seen that the General Council, instead of standing second in numerical strength, stands third. I am not aware that the General Synods, North and South, have taken any action in opposition to secretism, yet I am very confident that ministers in those bodies may be found opposed to such orders; perhaps many. Among the independent synods, some I know to be actively opposed to all oath-bound secretism.

As to the Synodical Confence, the largest and most consistent of all Lutheran bodies in this country, all the world may know where she stands, as, from the beginning, she has been in the fight against secretism.

The so-called General Council has declared herself against secretism as a vile thing, yet not only tolerates it among ministers and lay members, but secretists are admitted to full membership in her churches, and the Masonic lodge, by some, is defended, as it, in turn, defends certain council churches and helps with money and otherwise to carry on opposition to really Anti-masonic Lutheran congregations of the Synodical Conference.

Bro. Cervine no doubt thinks the General Council honest in her utterances against secretism, as some of her ministers doubtless are; but if he wants proof to the contrary I stand ready to furnish abundance of it. I myself was a member of the Council through its Masonic district of Ohio, attended several meetings of the General Council, and am now suffering much in consequence of the aid and comfort given by members of the Council to the Masonic lodge, in trying to wrest my congregation from me and pilfer our church property, only because of our opposition to secretism. Let Bro. Cervine beware fighting Masonic lodge men while the General Council occupies her present position on secretism. I fear the dear brother will be brought to grief unless his synod has the back-bone to stand for the truth in the trying hour, regardless of the General Council as such or any of its officials.

A. S. Bartholomew.

An Iowa Seminary and Anti-masonic Bigotry.

Editor Christian Cynosure: The annual sermon in connection with our seminary, preached by Rev. H. W. Bennett of Mason City, was certainly a success on his part, if the object was to deliver a few side thrusts into the ranks of the Anti-masons. His text was selected in order to show the many enemies of the church. In his discourse, the last enemy named was bigotry. That he said was "the lowest, meanest, sneakingest foe the church had to contend against." He got worked up to the top of his voice, when lo! out came the wonderful fact that Anti-masonry was one of the bigots of the church. The quotation, "In secret have I said nothing," he said had no more reference to Masonry than it had to blacking boots. And since the Rev. Mr. Bennett says this, therefore it is so. O sublime logic!

This Rev. Mr. Bennett was one of a committee of three who were appointed and waited on the Rev. Dr. Richey of Albion, asking him to stop talking against Masonry, or he would be compelled to sever his connection with the ministry. But the Doctor would not scare, but spoke out boldly against "that thing of evil," and for so doing, the reverends of the M. E. church turned upon him the cold shoulder. Will the M. E. church always foster that "child of the devil?" Will the time never be, when it will compel its applicant to renounce his allegiance to Masonic sins before he can take upon himself the sacred obligations of a follower of the meek and lowly Jesus?

But what will not the minister do who is bound by that mystic tie? Only a few months has elapsed since a presiding elder of the M. E. church, a high Mason, preached the funeral sermon of a brother Mason, and landed him safe on the "evergreen shore," when this very man had stolen over than forty thousand dollars from the public treasury, and came to his death by the dreadful use of strong drink; and yet these same "well-fed" preachers, proclaim in thunder tones to us the dangers of sin, after having left the lodge-room where they "met on a level and parted on the square" with the infidel, the profane and the drunkard. Surely such men cannot possess the purity and goodness of him who spake as never man spake.

Oh! how the "craft" hate us here! They do everything to cripple us; such as breaking up our cornet band, bribing some of its players to leave town, mercilessly discharging laborers who will not defend the "evil thing." Let them howl, they are only bringing to light their true character, which is, and has always been, "rule or ruin."

Only a few weeks ago Rev. C. of Marshalltown, thought he must do something for his brethren of Albion, so he published a report of the last term of school of our seminary, in which he intimated that the Anti-masonic spirit was ruining the institution. Now the gentleman knows, and knew before he put it upon paper that such statements are utterly false. But why comment further. It is a truth not to be denied that Masonry brings all its members to think and act in unison. There are no good, no bad, all are one down deep in the soul.

Buckeye.

Note from Father Preston.

Lockport, Ill., July 17, 1877.

Editor Cynosure: In your issue of 5th inst. a correspondent at Springerton, Ill., writes: "A few years ago nearly all the papers and many pulpits lauded and almost or quite worshipped Henry Ward Beecher. Many still cling to this idol, while very many have left him and are crying Moody, Moody, Moody. We would not say Mr. Moody is a bad man by any means; but we do say that while his are called 'Gospel meetings,' there is but very little Gospel in his sermons. What we want is less Moody and more Christ."

Now, gentlemen, I would charitably hope and trust that the writer of the above paragraph never heard Mr. Moody preach, or ever read one of his sermons, for if he ever has he perfectly well knows he never heard any living man "preach Christ and him crucified" more fully and unequivocally and constantly than Mr. Moody does, and I do think the columns of the Cynosure can be put to a much better use than the publication of such twaddle.

For and in behalf of truth and common honesty, as ever

Truly yours,

Isaac Preston.

A Severe but Merciful Providence.

W. B. McFail, Vassar, Mich., sends the following in connection with a lengthy communication on the interference of the lodge with religious interests:

After a few months a family moved next door to us, the mother of which was a Free Methodist who knew that there was a Holy Ghost and that Jesus was her personal Saviour. She was greatly opposed to Masonry. Her husband was a lawyer and belonged to the lodge and was unconverted, but her prayers went up daily and her tears flowed for his salvation. They were both taken sick and brought very low; he thought he was going to die and promised God that if spared he would repent. God did raise him up, and he did partly repent and felt justified in a measure. But he returned to the lodge again, his wife pleading with him all the time to come out from it and "have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness but rather reprove them;" but she could not prevail on him to do so. She frequently expressed to me her fears that some great calamity would befall them worse than had ever happened, if he did not cease to do evil in that direction. About a year after this three of his children were taken sick with scarlet fever, two of which died in one week. I assisted in taking care of them while sick and in consigning them to the tomb. Those two seemed to be nearer if possible to the father's heart than any of the rest, indeed they were very remarkable children for loveliness and admirable qualities. While their bodies lay cold and silent in death in the house, the father feeling this heavy stroke was a special interposition of Divine Providence to call him away from his idolatrous practice, took the hand of his wife and then and there in the presence of many, and of his own free will, amidst sobbings and sorrowings, promised in the most solemn manner, calling on heaven to witness and seal the obligation, that he never would again enter the Masonic lodge. I never had anything stir the very depths of my soul as that did and could but think there must be something terrible in the principles of Freemasonry to cause a man to go through such an ordeal under such circumstances.

Yet Another Proof.

Editor Cynosure: On the 21st ult. I wrote you per postal card to send one copy of the Cynosure to Chris. Wilkenning. I would remark by way of further evidence of the criminal character of Freemasonry, that the craft, while he was yet a resident of Germany, through forgery robbed him of his father's and grandfather's estates and then poisoned him into the bargain to get rid of a possibly troublesome customer. But thanks to that Providence who doeth all things well, his life was spared to bear testimony against the works of iniquity. He endured all manner of Masonic persecution in Germany, the craft keeping him under strict surveillance while he continued to live in that country, and even when he came to this country through their system of lodge espionage kept a close watch upon him for some considerable time. Not fearing him so much now as when they first committed the forgery and robbery above alluded to, the craft have slackened their surveillance and malignancy to a considerable extent. They would he were not, but yet he is, and a living testimony from whom they may finally hear in a way that may not suit them. Send him the Cynosure.

Respectfully,

J. H. H. Woodward.

Our Mail.

L. B. Lathrop, Hollister, Cal, writes: "The reason why I ceased writing for our county paper, was because the editor was forced to shut down on me to hold the patronage of the craft."

Is there not an argument in this fact for the increased circulation of the Cynosure?

Lemuel Lester, Sheridan, Ill., writes: "Please state in the Cynosure the name of its editor and his address."

President J. Blanchard of Wheaton, Ill, is senior editor, and Mr. H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill., is office editor.

Jonathan W. Moss, Cameron, W. Va., orders some Anti-masonic books and tracts and writes: "I have a business trip to make to Jollytown, Green Co., Pa., of about twenty miles and would like to have some books and tracts. A little seed sown may spring up to the glory of God."

Samuel D. Greene, Chelsea, Mass., writes: "I am getting a little more strength after a three weeks' relapse of erysipelas and neuralgia. I can walk some. It may be I shall be out to do some business yet."

John W. Fletcher, Centerville, Mich., writes: "I want my paper continued as long as I live. I am now almost 71 years old. I was living when Morgan was drowned in the Niagara river. I know all about it and have one of the first books written by him."

Darius Burtch, Antwerp, Jefferson Co., N. Y., writes: "I want to see this business hurried up. For I am seventy-seven years old and I want to see Masonry buried before I leave. We have a lodge here, but I think there are only a few that attend it. Five years ago they hired a large hall for a term of years. Last fall they said they could not pay the rent there was such a falling off of attendance. I take my papers with me and give them all away. I tell the people that with the knowledge that men may have if they will, none but knaves or fools will think of joining secret societies. I have lived here in northern New York for forty-five years, was the second voter on the Abolition ticket; remember all about the Morgan affair. I hate Masonry and all kindred orders of darkness."

Let us all do what we can towards accelerating the progress of this great reform. Send money for the Publishing House. Help on lectures. Circulate books, tracts, the Cynosure, etc. God will surely give a large increase when he finds his children ready for it.

H. H. Harris, Enola, Polk Co, Oregon, writes:

"Next to the Bible, I esteem the Cynosure the greatest help in putting down secretism, which I have been fighting for forty years; and expect to fight until truth and right prevail."

Sanford Ward, Adams, Jefferson Co., N.Y., writes:

"I believe prayer is being answered. It seems as though the great work is moving on."

Isaac Jackson, Harrison, Maine, writes an interesting letter in which he states:

"I have distributed tracts all over the county. The supplement takes first rate. Anti-Masons are delighted with it and Masons draw on a long face. I think I shall break through this blindness that hangs over the people in Maine."

I. R. Peipgras, Tomah, Monroe Co., Wis., writes:

"It is a hard place here in the western part of Wisconsin to get subscribers. We need a lecturer to open the road."

John Metcalf, Amboy, Hillsdale Co., Mich., writes:

"We were greatly favored on Thursday evening, June 21st, by hearing the Rev. D. P. Rathbun lecture on Masonry at the United Brethren church two miles south of Ransom Center; and again on the following Saturday evening at Ransom Center, in the United Brethren church, within a stone's cast of the lodge room. On both evenings he spoke to crowded and attentive audiences. He worked out the first three degrees of Masonry to the satisfaction of all present excepting the Hirams themselves. Bro. Rathbun is doing a glorious work in this section of country."

Rev. H. W. Hampe, Linesville Station, Pa., writes:

"This ground is hard to till but we have good prospects for the future."

John Shub, Larwill, Whitley Co., Ind., who has already had four different lecturers come to his county and has aided our reform in other ways, writes in regard to securing Mr. Ronayne. He is bravely working although nearly alone. He says:

"Friends do not slight this county of Whitley."

George L. Hotchkiss, Cheshire, Conn., writes:

"I wish to get Finney on Masonry to circulate. It is an excellent work and should be read by all."

A. C. Chittenden, Boulder, Colorado, writes:

"I have had occasion to talk against Masonry and Odd-fellowship as standing the way of the cause of Christ by leading men to trust in a religion that proposes to fit men for the Grand Lodge above without repentance toward and faith in our Lord Jesus Christ."

David T. Couch, Templestown, Victoria, Australia, writes:

"The Cynosure is a paper that I think should be supported by every Christian and patriotic man. May it continue to shine as a lamp that burneth exposing and holding up to execration and ridicule the hidden deformities of the lodge, one of the most unchristian things under the sun, which is undermining both church and state, law and order. I am posting Cynosures to different parts of this colony and Saymania in the hope that our young men may not be allured into the great meshes of the Masonic lodge net."

We will be glad to see the good seed springing up beyond the sea.

Drury Holt, Carthage, Rush Co., Ind., writes:

"I am still trying to do battle for the Lord against the rulers of the darkness of this world; against spiritual wickedness in high places. I have now a debate pending with one of the Masonic high captains to come off the 25th to the 27th of the present July. The proposition is stated thus: Resolved, That secret oath-bound societies (of which Masonry and Odd-fellowship are types) are enemies to the church of Christ and to the American Republican government. * * * Our debate is to be held in Delaware county, some three or four miles west of Muncie."

Home and Farm.

The labor required to kill 100 weeds well grown and firmly rooted will kill 10,000 when just sprouted. It is easier, in every respect, to go over your ground three times when weeds are in the earliest stages of their existence than once after they have become firmly established. Another point of much importance is a proper arrangement of the crop and the use of suitable implements. A prominent New England horticulturist plants everything, when it is practicable, in drills, as straight as a line can be drawn, thus greatly facilitating culture either by hand or by horse power.

An exchange gives this timely suggestion: "Cooling off suddenly when heated sends many of our farmers' youth to an early tomb. It is often a matter of surprise that so many farmers' boys and girls die of consumption. It is thought that abundant exercise in the open air is directly opposed to that disease. So it is; but judgment and a knowledge of the laws of health are essential to the preservation of health under any circumstances. When overheated cool off slowly; never in a strong draft of air. Gentle fanning, especially if the face is wet with cold water, will soon produce a delightful coolness, which leaves no disagreeable results.

STARCHING ANE IRONING.—The Michigan Farmer says: First have the clothes well washed and well wrung out and laid in your clothes basket. Then make your starch—cook it until very thick; to every quart of boiled starch put in one teaspoonful of white sugar. Dip your collars and cuffs and the shirt bosoms in the thick starch, just as hot as the hand can bear; rub in well, wring out, shake, and hang up to dry. Fold down the evening before you want to iron. Before you begin to iron see that your irons are clean and smooth, and your fire well regulated. There are smoothing irons made on purpose for shirts, some of which have merits. Place a bowl of water with an old napkin in it on your ironing table; next take up a shirt, shake out well, as that helps to get rid of the wrinkles; iron all but the bosom, and then put in your bosom-board. stretch it out well, wring out your napkin, and give the bosom a good rubbing up and down; then iron it until it looks dry. Wring out your napkin and give it another good rubbing, and iron as before; continue in so doing until the glossy appearance suits you, as it will if you only persevere. Don't be afraid of rubbing with the wet cloth; in that way you can do away with all the wrinkles and blisters. Iron collars and cuffs in the same way, and have starched things dried well before laying away. If you want to use what is called cold starch, dissolve the starch in cold water, dip clothing in, roll and iron as above.

THE CELLAR WINDOW. Almost every house has one or more cellar windows, which are often unsightly objects. They may be made beautiful by filling about one-third part of the depth with rich earth, and then plant a sufficient number of all varieties of ferns to fill it, placing the largest at the back. Vines, bits of moss, shells, pretty stones, branches of wood covered with lichens, placed among the ferns, add to the beauty of the whole. From the outside the effect is beautiful, and from the cellar even more beautiful, as the light seems to bring every delicate fern leaf into view. It whiles away the time, when the "butter won't come," to catch a glimpse of the woods, even on so small a scale.—Inter-Ocean

EVARTS, BEECHER AND GOUGH AS FARMERS.

Our farmer readers will appreciate the following jocular description of gentleman farming, from the Rochester Democrat:

It has been of late proposed to raise by public subscription enough to enable Mr. Evarts to hold the office of Secretary of State without damage to his private interests. One of the best features in any such measure would be to abolish the Vermont farm, which is said to exhaust the best part of his income. He has 70 head of cattle, 200 sheep, 16 horses and 25 swine. The extent of land is 800 acres. Last year 200 tons of hay were cut, costing the proprietor not more than double the market price. More than 2,000 bushels of corn were raised, at an estimated loss of 50 cents a bushel, and, therefore, ought to be of good quality. His pork is estimated at 20 cents a pound, and his chickens at $3 a pair.

Beecher last year raised about 15,000 bushels of onions on his Peekskill farm. They cost him $1 50 a bushel, according to estimate, and, as the market in this city was $1, any one can see how much he made. Beecher can send beef to the New York market at 50 cents a pound, and can raise oats at as low a mark as $2 a bushel. His butter is reckoned at $1.25 a pound, and his eggs at 75 cents a dozen. He cleared $40,000 by lecturing last winter, and if he maintains such an income he will be able to continue farming.

Gough lectures five times a week, his fee being $200. He has a farm in Worcester which at one time contained 175 acres. He has no children, but his expenses are very heavy, and, to bring matters in a snug shape, he sold a part of his land and reduced the farm to 125 acres, which is as extensive as his income will admit. A few years ago his wife, who was a Yankee girl, undertook to raise fancy fowls, which some say are very profitable. She got a very nice variety, and at a rather reasonable expense, for the Shanghais did not cost more than $75 a pair. The Cochin Chinas were a little cheaper, and bantams could be rated at from $25 to $30. After stocking the place with these rare birds, Gough, it is said, found that if they were to be kept up he would "be obliged" to lecture on Sundays as well as on week days to make a living. When it costs $15 to winter a chicken a man needs a good income. The system was, therefore, changed, the fowls were abolished, and regular crops were tried with decided success. As long as Gough's rye does not cost more than $5 per bushel, and the other crops are kept at an equally reduced rate, his present income will enable him to live in a very decent manner. There is nothing like a farming life for men who have plenty of money.

ANTI-MASONIC BOOKS.

(Not our own Publications.)

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO
13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

FOR CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS OF EZRA A. COOK & CO., See page 15 of the CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

☞ All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent. discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Freemasonry Self Condemned.

BY REV. J. W. BAIN.

We now have a small supply of this deservedly popular book in paper covers, Price 20 cents each by mail.

Elder Stearns' Books.

Stearns' Inquiry Into the Nature and Tendency of Masonry With an Appendix.

138 Pages, in Cloth.....60 cents.
" " Paper.....40 "

Stearns' Letters on Masonry.

Showing the antagonism between Freemasonry and the Christian Religion.
Price, 30 cents.

Stearns' Review of Two Masonic Addresses.

In this scathing review the lying pretentions of the order are clearly shown.
Price, 10 cents.

Levington's Key to Masonry.

This is Rev. Mr. Levington's last, and in the judgment of its author, best work on Masonry.
The contents of the Eleventh chapter are thus startling:
"Knights of the Golden Circle—Graphic account of them by a seceding Knight, and remarks thereon, showing the identity of the order with Masonry—Quotations from Sir Walter Scott."
This work is thrilling in statement, and powerful in argument. Price. $1.35. 425 pages.

Light on Freemasonry

BY ELDER D. BERNARD,

TO WHICH IS APPENDED A

Revelation of the Mysteries of Odd-fellowship by a Member of the Craft.

The whole containing over five hundred pages lately revised and republished. Price $2,00

The first part of the above work, Light on Freemasonry, 416 pages in paper cover, will be sent post paid on receipt of $1.

FOR SALE BY

United Brethren Publishing House,
DAYTON, O.
and by
EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Ave, CHICAGO

Finney on Masonry.

BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE $1.00.

CHEAP EDITION,

Twenty-five dollars per hundred, by express and not less than 25 copies at that rate.

BY MAIL, POST-PAID:

Per doz.....$3 75.
Single copy.....35 c

GOOD TEMPLARISM EXPOSED.

Obligations, of the Initiatory Fidelity, Charity, and Royal Virtue Degrees.

This is a small book containing only the Obligations and some of the Odes of the Good Templars.

Single Copy, Post paid,.....10cts
Per Doz. " 75
Per 1 by Express,.....$4.50

Bernard's Appendix to Light on Masonry,

Showing the Character of the Institution by its terrible oaths and penalties. 25 cents.

ODD-FELLOWSHIP

JUDGED BY ITS OWN UTTERANCES;

Its Doctrine and Practice examined in the light of God's Word.

BY REV. J. H. BROCKMAN.

This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-Fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. It was originally published in German.
Price, bound in Boards, 75 cents. Paper Covers 40 cents.
GERMAN EDITION, Entitled "Christian and ——." Paper Covers 50 cents each.

HOW TO DEFEAT

Masonic Scoundrelism

Within the Court House.

BY J. H. H. WOODWARD,

This pamphlet as its title indicates is designed to put all non-Masons on their guard against lodge trickery and especially to show how to meet and successfully cope with Freemasonry in our Courts
Single Copy, Post Paid,.....10 cts.
Per Doz. 75 cts. Per 100 by Express $5.00

Every Freemason a Blasphemer.

As proved by the Highest Masonic Authority.

BY J. H. H. WOODWARD.

By quotations from a score of masonic works of unquestioned authority, the fact of the blasphemous ceremonies and teachings of Freemasonry are so clearly demonstrated as to make it evident that every initiate is of necessity a blasphemer.
10 cents each. 75 cents per Doz. by mail; By Express, per 100 $6 00.

The Christian Cynosure

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JULY 26, 1877.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

THE FUNDS OF WHEATON COLLEGE.

PEORIA, Ill., July 21, 1877.

DEAR CYNOSURE My attention has been called to statements concerning the funds of Wheaton College by a former trustee resigning his office, in the Chicago papers of the 20th instant, to which I wish to reply.

First. "The endowment funds are being used in payment of the debts of the College. Large sums have already been sunk in that way."

Answer. This statement is not true. No endowment funds are now "being used in payment of debts," nor has one dollar of them been "sunk."

A little over fifteen thousand dollars endowment money were borrowed to pay debts to the builders who by law have preferred claims on buildings erected. No further loans from the endowments are needed or contemplated. The Board is taking vigorous measures to replace those already borrowed under the hard pressure of the times, and nearly the whole fifteen thousand dollars have been pledged since our Commencement to the funds of the College (including $2,000 pledged previously) by men as good as Philo Carpenter of your city, and Moses Pettengill of Peoria, where I am now writing.

2nd Statement. "To use these funds under cover of borrowing them for other purposes is a breach of trust."

Answer. Not true again. The State of Illinois borrowed the College and Seminary Fund of this State "for other purposes," for very many years, and until the Normal University was established, when the State repaid those endowment funds with interest, as Wheaton College hopes speedily to do, and has a just and rational prospect of doing. The same thing has been done here by Peoria county. School endowment funds have been here "borrowed for other purposes;" and no "breach of trust" perpetrated or alleged.

3rd Statement. "The funds for the chair of Logic and Rhetoric were chiefly given by the friends of Prof. Webster for the sole purpose of endowing that chair and placing him in it." * * * "Now that they (the funds) are wanted for other purposes, it is attempted to thrust him out of the way," etc., etc.

Answer. Rev. W. G. Pierce, as chairman of the committee, brought in and advocated a majority report to "retire" Prof. Webster on an annuity of $500 a year—less than half the income of the endowment! ! ! The Board voted to retire Prof. Webster according to Mr. Pierce's report; but differed from him only in voting a fixed sum and not an annuity. Now if Prof. Webster is illegally, and by breach of trust, "thrust out of the way," Rev. W. G. Pierce is guilty of the crime of "thrusting him" which he, with great severity of language, charges on men whose Christian record is as good and much more consistent than his own. If he says he agreed to "thrust Mr. Webster out" because he saw the majority were for it, that is the very crime of subserviency which he charges on his former associates in the Board. If it was illegal and wrong to rob Mr. Webster of the whole income of his endowment it was equally wrong to rob him of one-half, which Mr. Pierce proposed to do. But neither was illegal or wrong. Mr. Webster held his post as the rest of the instructors do, i. e., while he discharged its duties acceptably.

4th Statement. "Wheaton College is known and felt to be an Anti-masonic society rather than an educational institution."

The writer makes this statement in face of the fact that the exercises of Commencement week, which were resplendent and satisfactory to a crowded audience, contained, so far as I can recollect, none, or next to no allusion to the anti-secret reform. He attended the Commencement and heard the graduates; and knows that Commencement is the index of the College.

I have heretofore esteemed this brother highly, and have with pain written the above, from which it must appear how unreliable and worthless are his opinions, where his sympathies have prejudiced, and his prejudices have blinded him.

J. BLANCHARD.

PRESIDING ELDER RICHARD HANEY.

STREATOR, Ill., July 16, 1877.

This aged minister of the M. E. church preached in Streator Sunday night, July 15, inst.

Some eight or nine months ago I learned that some members of his charge asked him the question:

"Are you a Mason, Elder Haney?" He answered:

"I never was inside a Masonic lodge in my life."

Of course, intending to be understood that he was not a Mason. To others I learn that he represents himself to be a Mason. Whether he was initiated in a private room, hall or tent, and so never was in a regular lodge room, or not, his answer was an intended deception, or "making a lie," within the fearful meaning of Rev. xxii. 15.

In the theory of Masonry, he was "inside a Masonic lodge" if initiated at all. For the master of a lodge, in the theory of the order, is supposed to carry the lodge with him, and has power to confer degrees in a tent or private room, which becomes a lodge for the time being.

I learn, in Streator, that Elder Haney is lately married to a woman of property, and removes to Monmouth, Illinois. If he is not a Mason, he surely should say so, for the lodge has no right to his name and influence. If he is a Mason, the thought of an aged and venerable minister of the gospel practicing deception on the members of his charge who trust his, is horrible beyond words to express it.

Every minister of the gospel, of whatever denomination, is interested in saving the Christian ministry from the popular contempt into which prevarication and deception must surely sink it.

I therefore request President Wallace, of Monmouth College, or, in his absence, Rev. Mr. Barnes, of the United Presbyterian church in the city of Monmouth, to visit Elder Haney, converse with him, and do him justice. He has a son who is at once a Methodist preacher and a Mason, and it is fearful to think of the influence such a man is exerting to draw young men into the organized deism of the lodge.

We shall look for a speedy reply from Monmouth and shall give it to our readers.

—The address before the late Iowa convention, on our 12th page, has been delayed through illness in the family of Bro. Grinnell, and arduous pastoral labors succeeding.

—The Chicago papers announced, the other day, that the Oriental Consistory of 32d degree Masons are to have a picnic, and that, "on the occasion, the "uniformed Sublime Princes will appear in full regalia." It passes conception how such Oriental, celestial, majestic and sublime beings could enjoy the gross and sublunary pleasures of a picnic. Will our young tailor, after stretching his legs into a proper dignity, or the butcher, cleaned from his grease, or the green grocer, deserting his peas and cabbages, and all having donned their imperial toggery and titles—will they yet seek for sensuous gratification? How can they munch sandwiches through a forest of collars and decorations, or eat ice cream from the point of a sword; or what after dinner speech would not be lost after passing such an ambush of titles as turns up after every John Smith or William Jones in the company?

—A correspondent of the American Freeman presents a novel suggestion in regard to receiving church members. He urges that, before the solemn day of their union with the people of God, every candidate have a Webb's Monitor, or other Masonic book of like character placed in his hand, and, after reading, he be examined regarding his acceptance of its teachings. His replies will be sufficient to justify the church in receiving or rejecting the case.

—The General Agent returned from his Wisconsin trip last week. The report of his meetings at Fond du Lac and vicinity may be read in the Reform News, part of it sent by a member of the junior class of Wheaton College, spending his vacation at Byron, Wisconsin.

—The expositions at Winnebago and Marengo, Illinois, last week were in every way successful. Bro Miller reports the former briefly At Marengo Bro. Ronayne had the assistance of three seceding Masons who were well known in the community. He visits Aurora this week, and we understand Bro. Ehman accompanies him to assist in the arrangements, having postponed his visit to Iowa till after harvest.

—Many of our readers who have read the telegraphic report of the obituary services at Fayetteville, Vt., will be pleased to see it more fully given in our columns this week. Pres. Hayes, cousin of the deceased Miss Birchard, was invited, but from the probability that his presence would attract a crowd of the curious which would interfere with the proper solemnity of the occasion, he declined to come, regretting, in a letter of condolence, the occasion of his refusal.

REFORM NEWS.

[Concluded from th page.]

said he had thought of joining the Masons, but he could not endorse what had been proven true that night. The first night's work was a decided success. At the meeting closed one man cried out, "You have made one convert for the Masons to-night." But before the third lecture had closed he was crying out against the craft worse than he had ever done in its favor.

The second night was good and house full. No contradictions were heard and the interest was increasing.

Wednesday the town is in an uproar. Masons and Anti-masons on every corner and the topic is, What is that man doing? Masons tembling and Anti-masons rejoicing. Some threats were made by the friends of Masonry, but to no purpose. At night the house was packed full and a crowd at every window. After a good application of Bible truth the third degree was taken up. Brother R. worked like a man in earnest five and a half hours; while some laughed and some cried, and some looked pale and angry. But the truth took hold of the people in a wonderful manner. We went home feeling that Masonry had got a death blow in this town. I know of four men who are saved from this horrid evil by these lectures and I expect to hear of many more. God bless our dear brother and save him to this good cause until the monster evil is swept out of existence, is my earnest prayer. C. P. MILLER.

MARENGO, Ill., July 21, 1877.

There is nothing which helps on any movement like genuine enthusiasm, and this is what we are having along the line of the Northwestern railroad. After our interesting and successful meetings at Union, I went to Winnebago, where Mr. Ronayne worked the three degrees of Masonry on the evenings of the 16th, 17th and 18th. The meetings were held in the F. M. church, which was too small for the crowded congregation, some of whom could not get into the house. In the main, excellent attention was paid, and there was a diligent spirit of inquiry as to whether these things are so. This was not only true of Anti-masons, but the honest opponents of our reform asked publicly many questions, which were kindly and candidly answered. So much time was taken up in this way that on the last night the third degree was not finished until about one o'clock, and yet hardly any had left. The pastor of the M. E. church said that he had seriously thought of joining the Masons, but if it was true that Masonry excluded Christ from its ritual it was an unholy institution. He said that if the name of Christ was not thus excluded, the Masons owed it to themselves and to the cause of religion to deny the charge, and, inasmuch as it was not denied, he felt bound to admit it.

From Winnebago, Mr. R. came to Marengo, where, on a very brief notice, a large hall was packed full of attentive listeners, to witness the work of initiation in the first degree. Excellent attention was paid for over three hours, and Mr. R. thought he had rarely, if ever, addressed a more respectful, attentive and intelligent audience. From here he goes to Aurora, and arrangements are being made for working the degrees in Belvidere. The county convention in this county will be held Aug. 22, when it is expected that Mr. R. will again visit this place. One thing is quite apparent, that Mr. R.'s lectures and expositions are thoroughly pervaded with the spirit of the gospel, and tend powerfully to promote faith in evangelical religion.

Yours in the Lord,

H. H. HINMAN.

Religious Intelligence.

—The Freedmen's Mission of the United Presbyterian church lately received a $500 donation from Wm. Boyd, Sr., of Belmont, Ohio.

—The Christian Instructor of Philadelphia, (United Presbyterian) says that Rev. A. T. McDill has resigned the Presidency of Amity College, at College Springs, Iowa. Rev. S. C. Marshall has been chosen to the position, and it is expected will accept it —In the Mennonite Conference held in Kansas some time ago the following subjects were discussed: 1. The necessity of brethren dealing with each other in accordance with Matt. 18: 15, "If thy brother trespass against thee go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone." 2. The folly of taking likenesses which has become such a common practice at the present time. 3. The inconsistency of swearing oaths and going to law. 4. Marrying out of the Lord. The sisters were also exhorted to observe the apostolic injunction to have their heads covered when engaged in prayer, or what the apostle in 1 Cor. 11, denominates prophesying. It was also decided that since the sisters are exhorted to adorn themselves in modest apparel that the brethren also consider themselves bound under the same obligations so that we may all "be of the same mind one to another."

—In the Pan-Presbyterian Council, among other important papers read was one by the Rev. Dr. McCosh, of Princeton, on Discoveries in Science and Philosophy; and one by the Dr. F. L. Patton, of Chicago, on Infidelity. Rev. Dr. Sloane, of Allegheny, spoke on intemperance in the United States. He said there were 150,000 saloons, and 500,000 habitual drunkards, of whom 50,000 die yearly. The Council adopted a resolution as to the value of the Sabbath Day, and the conduciveness of intemperance to irreligion. The Council adopted an address to the Queen, signed by 333 representatives, commissioned by 49 Presbyterian churches in 25 separate countries. The voting of the address terminated the proceedings of the Council.

—The annual report of the British and Foreign Bible Society states that considerable attention has been given to the armies engaged in the Eastern conflict. Four thousand copies of Scriptures have been given to Turks and Sclaves in 65 hospitals; the Austrian agency has distributed 144,000 during the year. Operations have been conducted also in Bosnia, Montenegro, Herzegovina, and almost every part of the Turkish empire. The present circulation of the Turkish agency is 28,000, and in Russia 270,000 copies were purchased last year. Within five weeks 13,000 volumes were sold among the Russian troops in Bessarabia. In France 62 colporteurs circulate 98,000 copies yearly. In Italy 58 colporteurs have disposed of 44,000 copies. The total issue for the year was 2,670,742 copies, making a grand total in the 73 years of the society's existence of of 79,103,465. The income of the last year was £206,987, while the outlay was £212,408, showing a deficiency of £5,000.

News of the Week.

—The latest from the war is given in the following dispatches:

NEW YORK, July 23, 4 A. M.—A special correspondent at Bucharest telegraphs under date of 10 : 30 o'clock at night as follows: I have just returned from the neighborhood of Rustchuk, and can say from actual observation that the place is completely surrounded, the Russians being on the Danube seven miles above and eight miles below the town with a line of communication between these two points describing a radius to the southward which cuts the main road to Rasgrad and the railroad to Varna. The Turks still maintain their communication with the posts upon the islands of Pyrgos and Parapan, but the Russians have now changed front and and it matters to them very little how many guns there are in these forts.

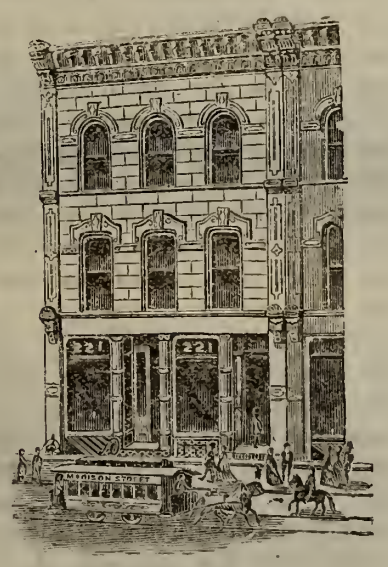
—After a fight on the 17th, in which only some two hundred men were lost, the Russians captured the important town of Kezanlik, south of the Balkans. The place commands the descent of one of the mountain roads to the plains of Rumilia, and secures that line of communication to the invaders. From Kezanlik to Adrianople there are good roads.

—Official Russian advices announce the occupation of the Schipka pass and the best military road through the Balkans, by a single regiment with two guns.

—England is preparing in earnest. A Portsmouth dispatch says men have been working on the troop ships all to-day (Sunday). It is reported that five hundred troops will be dispatched in the Euphrates on Thursday next for an unknown destination, and that fifteen hundred more will follow on Friday in the troop ship Crocodile. Orders have been received at Aldershot for the 2d, 8th and 16th regiments to embark for foreign service on Wednesday, and the 19th and 100th regiments will be held in readiness for immediate embarkation.

M. S. Telford, Scranton, Jefferson Co., Pa., writes:

"I need the Cynosure for my own information. I need it for my family, and I need it for the benefit of others who are not able or willing to take it, but are willing to read it. May God bless the work and workers."



Front view of the CARPENTER DONATION, a fine, stone front building No. 221 West Madison St., Chicago, now occupied by the National Christian Association. The fee simple will be given by Mr. Carpenter if other friends raise $30,000 by Apr. 1st 1878, in cash or "good, negotiable, interest-bearing notes" to establish a Publishing House and headquarters of the reform. Send donations to the Treasurer at 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The National Christian Association.

PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.—Pres. H. H. George, D. D., W. Geneva, Ohio.

SECRETARIES.—Rev. W. H. French, D. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; H. L. Kellogg, Chicago.

PRESIDENT OF THE CORPORATE BODY.—Rev. J. B. Walker, D. D., Wheaton, Ill.

VICE-PRESIDENT. — Philo Carpenter, Chicago.

DIRECTORS.—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, Archibald Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, H. L. Kellogg, E. Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, J. B. Walker, A. D. Freeman, Thos. Hodge.

RECORDING SEC'Y.—Thos. Hodge, Chicago.

COR SEC'Y AND GENERAL AGENT.—J. P. Stoddard, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TREASURER.—H L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The object of this Association is:—

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the Churches of Christ from being depraved; to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform to aid the Association in either of these ways: (1) to establish a Publishing House and Head-quarters in Chicago; (2) to carry on the general work; (3) to maintain the State agents. All donations, (drafts or P. O. orders) should be sent to the Treasurer; general correspondence, etc., direct to the Corresponding Secretary

FORM OF BEQUEST.—I give and bequeath to the National Christian Association, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, the sum of——dollars for the purposes of said Association, and for which the receipt of its Treasurer for the time being shall be a sufficient discharge.

State Auxiliary Associations.

CONNECTICUT.

President, J. A. Conant, Willimantic.
Secretary, D. J. Ellsworth, Windsor.
Treasurer, C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.

President, S. B. Allen, Westfield.
Rec. Secretary and Treasurer, H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
Lecturers, H. H. Hinman, Wheaton, and J. P. Richards, Bowensburg, Hancock Co.

INDIANA.

Pres't, W. P. McNary, Bloomington.
Rec. Sec'y, H. Teter, Westfield.
Treas., Peter Rich, Westfield.
Lecturer and Cor. Sec'y S. L Cook, Albion.

IOWA.

President, M. S. Drury, Western, Linn Co.
Cor. Sec'y, M. R. Drury, " " "
Rec. Sec'y, E. J. Grinnell, Charles City.
Treasurer, John Dorcas, Shiloh.

KANSAS.

President, H. T. Besse, Sterling, Rice Co.
Secretary, J. Dodds, Winchester.
Treasurer, C. A. Sexton, Topeka.

MICHIGAN.

President, H. D. Inman, Coldwater.
Cor. Sec'y, C. B. Remington, Fentonville
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Bruce, Hickory Corners
Treasurer, C. Quick, Weston.
Lecturer and Agent, D. P. Rathbun, Hickory Corners.

Communications for the Agent concerning lectures or the interests of the cause may be addressed to, or in care of, E. W. Bruce.

MISSOURI.

President, N. E. Gardner, Avalon.
Cor. Sec'y, A. D. Thomas, Arbela.
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Carpenter.
Treasurer, Wm. Beauchamp, Avalon.
Lecturer, E. G. Cooper, Albany Gentry Co.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

President, J. F. Browne, Lewiston, Me.
Secretary, S. C. Kimball, Center Strafford.
Treasurer. E. Smith, Center Strafford.

NEW YORK.

President, L. N. Stratton, Syracuse.
Secretary, W. A. Sellew, Rochester.
Treasurer, M. Merrick, Syracuse.
Lecturers—L. N. Stratton, Syracuse; Woodruff Post, Rochester; A. F. Curry, Almond.

OHIO.

President, H. H. George, W. Geneva.
Treasurer, J. G. Mattoon, West Unity
Sec. and Lecturer, Wm. Dillon, Dayton.

PENNSYLVANIA.

President, A. L. Post, Montrose.
Cor. Sec'y, N. Callender, Green Grove.
Treasurer, W. B. Bertels, Wilksbarre.
Rec. Sec'y, and Lecturer, J. W. Raynor, Montrose.

WISCONSIN.

President, E. L. Harris, Delavan.
Secretary, U. D. Lathrop, Millard.
Treasurer; Joshua Parish, Delavan.

Address of Anti-masonic Lecturers.

General Agent and Lecturer, J. P. STODDARD, Christian Cynosure Office, Chicago.
For STATE LECTURERS State Ass'n list.
Others who will lecture when desired;—
C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
R. B. Taylor, Summerfield, O.
N. Callender, Starrucca, Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
P. Hurless, Polo, Ill.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Mercer Co., Ill.
J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
Josiah McCaskey, Fancy Creek, Wis.
C. F. Hawley, Damascoville, Ohio.
W. M. Givens, Center Point, Ind.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
D. S. Caldwell, Clyde, Sandusky Co., O.
A. Mayn, Promise City, Wayne Co., Mich.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
C. F. Wiggins, Angola, Ind
E Ronayne, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.
W. M. Love, Baker, St. Clair Co. Mo
A D. Freeman, Downers Grove, Ill.
Jas. Springer, Springerton, Ill.
A. D. Carter, Deersville, Harrison Co O
James McCleery, Monroe, Iowa.
R. Faurot, Kendallville, Ind.
J. W. Barlow, Ridgetown, Ont., C. W.

The Home Circle.

One by One.

One by one thy duties wait thee,
Let thy whole strength go to each;
Let no future dreams elate thee,
Learn thou first what these can teach.

One by one (bright gifts from heaven)
Joys are sent thee here below,
Take them readily when given,
Ready, too, to let them go.

One by one thy griefs shall meet thee;
Do not fear an armed band.
One will fade as others greet thee,
Shadows passing through the land.

Do not look at life's long sorrow,
See how small each moment's pain;
God will help thee for to-morrow,
So each day begin again.

Every hour that fleets so slowly,
Has its task to do or bear,
Luminous the crown and holy
If thou set each gem with care.

Do not linger with regretting,
Or for passing hours despond,
Nor, the daily toil forgetting,
Look too eagerly beyond.

Hours are golden links, God's token,
Reaching heaven; but one by one
Take them lest the chain be broken
Ere the pilgrimage be done.

In Working Order.

God uses men to perform his work—how important, then, that they be ever in working order. He who goes to battle with a blunted weapon courts defeat. He who desires to be used of the Lord in his work must seek that constant preparation which shall enable him to act at once under the impulsion of a divine hand.

There are many persons who desire to be used of the Lord for his service, to be instruments of blessing in his hand; but they are never ready for his work. They shrink from crosses; they neglect duties; they indulge appetites; they foster lusts; they commit sins, and, consequently, are never ready for his hand. They would be soldiers, but they do not put on the whole armor; they would be workers, but they will not in patience learn the work that he would have them do. Evil habits fetter them; sensual indulgences debase them; fleshly lusts war against their souls; unholy tempers unfit them for Christian helpfulness; the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and, while professing to be free, they are themselves the servants of corruption. Pride, ambition, discontent, ingratitude, worldliness, lust, and the germs of all kinds of sin lurk within their hearts and crop out in their lives, rendering them useless in the Lord's work and burying in the earth what talents they possess.

God uses "chosen vessels," and who would choose an unclean vessel for a holy use? God will have "polished shafts" hidden in "his quiver," and ready for instant and effective service; but no man who is sullied by sin and crippled by wrong-doing can answer the purpose which he designs a man to serve. They must be "clean that bear the vessels of the Lord." None but holy men can be the honored servants of a holy God.

God waits to bless us, but we are not ready to be blessed. The pure waters of life cannot flow through stained and polluted channels. We must be empty ere he will fill us. We must be ready ere he well use us. It is vain for us to crowd ourselves forward, with the stain of sin upon our souls and the spots of fleshliness upon our garments. We must seek in "the blood of sprinkling," in the "sanctification of the Spirit," and in "the washing of water by the Word" that preparation for the Master's service which shall make us ever ready for the Master's use.—The Christian.

Worth.

Two hundred years ago, in England, a benevolent man died, and ordered in his will that the following epitaph should be engraved on his tomb. It is there to-day, three short lines, which I read:

"What I spent I kept,
What I saved I lost,
What I gave I have."

It is the philosophy of experience. Only that which you give you keep. It is God's law. We ask, when a wealthy man dies who has spent his substance on himself, "How much was he worth?" and angels answer, 'Worth! worth nothing. His money was worth something; his body was worth something to fertilize the soil, but he was worth nothing." Then we vary the question: "How much did he leave?" and angels answer: "He left houses, lots, bonds, stocks, gold, merchandise, farms. He left all. He has brought nothing with him. Naked he came into the world, naked he has come out of it. He has brought with him not even the blessing of the poor." His neighbor dies—a man not known on 'Change, nor in the tax-list, and what has he left? The angels say: "He has left nothing, but brought much with him. He comes loaded with the gratitude of the poor, the blessing of the helpless, the young, the aged, the widow, the orphan, the destitute and friendless. He comes crowned with the blessings of those whose poverty he has relieved, whose ignorance he has enlightened, whose miseries he has assuaged, whose bodies and souls he has fed."

A girl who makes herself too cheap is one to be avoided. No young man, not even the worst, except for a base purpose, wants anything to do with a cheap young lady. For a wife none but a fool or rascal will approach such a woman. Cheap jewelry nobody will touch if he can get any better. Cheap girls are nothing but the refuse, and the young men know it, and they will look in every other direction for a life-long friend and companion before they will give a glance at the pinchbeck stuff that tinkles at every turn for fascinating the eye of any that will look. You think that it is quite the "correct thing" to talk loudly and coarsely, be boisterous and hoydenish in all public places; to make yourself so bold and forward and commonplace everywhere that people wonder if you ever had a mother, or home, or anything to do! So be it. You will probably be taken for what you are worth, and one of these years, if you do not make worse than a shipwreck of yourself, you will begin to wonder where the charms are that once you thought yourself possessed of, and what evil spirit could have so befooled you. Go on, but remember, cheap girls attract nobody but fools and rascals.—Macmillan's Magazine.

The Power of Testimony.

Of the revival in Boston, it is said: "A feature which has characterized the work everywhere is testimony. Night after night meetings have been taken up with the testimonies of converts. The power of testimony has been newly proved. A gentleman whose religion, if he has one, is Parkerism, after attending a prayer meeting of this kind, spoke with considerable contempt of the simple words of the children. 'Children,' he said, 'cannot instruct me. But,' he added, 'I am impressed by this—that these converts, young and old, men and women, speak so well. I could not speak as well, I am certain. I should break down. On any other subject they would break down. But I have not heard a confused sentence. Simply, modestly, all over the room, I have heard the same testimony. Some in language that, for its clearness, delights me. I do not understand it. The explanation which you give, that it is the influence of the Holy Spirit, is better than any that I have to offer.' A well-known lawyer was so struck with what he heard at a similar meeting that he frankly said: 'In hearing these testimonies I am confounded. I have not been a religious man, but here is a body of evidence which I cannot dispose of. If one man should testify to what I have heard this evening, I might explain it as the result of some mental or nervous disorder. But here are fifty witnesses, old and young, of both sexes and all conditions, testifying in different ways, with absolute agreement, to the same substantial fact, viz.: supernatural conversion — a new life. It has been the business of my life to deal with evidence. I know the laws which regulate it. And I am bound to own that these witnesses made out their case. I could not break it down. It would stand in any court. I am conviuced. I must look into this matter. If I can have what these converts have, I am determined to get it.' He was converted soon after. and has himself become one of the witnesses." —Ex.

Spurgeon says that the great goddess Diana, now-a-days, is "unsectarianism," and that the advice given to ministers is, "try and be unsectarian, and all that is sweet and soothing, and velvety and treacly, and you will succeed." Spurgeon's trumpet gives no uncertain sound. He says: "I wish to bear this witness, not about myself, mark, but about the truth which I have preached. Nothing has succeeded better than preaching out boldly what I have believed, and standing to it in defiance of all opposition, and never caring whether it offended or whether it pleased."

Giving Without Money.

The poor give more than the rich. This proposition holds good as a general principle. Money is by no means the only thing to give in this world; neither do large gifts necessarily contribute more to the happiness of the receiver than small gifts.

Go into any country community and converse with the people. Ask who ministers most to their happiness. You will very likely be told of some venerable clergymen, whose salary has never been more than enough to barely support him; or of some poor widow, who goes from house to house, like a ministering angel, wherever sorrow and suffering demand consolation or relief.

It is astonishing how much one without money can give! A kind word, a helping hand—the warm sympathy that rejoices with those that do rejoice, and weeps with those who weep!

No man is so poor, no woman is so poor, as not to be able to contribute largely to the happiness of those around them.

The Formula of Concord.—The Lutheran church properly dates its birth from the 29th of May, A. D. 1577, upon which date the Formula of Concord was promulgated. Martin Luther had united much of the liberal element in Christendom against the church of Rome under the banner of the Augsburg Confession; but the bond of mere hostility to the Holy See was too slight to keep Protestant Germany from splitting up into small sects, each making its sole life to hinge upon some small dogma self-enacted upon, oftentimes, an immaterial point of doctrine. To correct this tendency, the Elector Augustus of Saxony brought together the theologians Andreae, Selnecker and Chemnitz, assisted by Chytraus, Musculus and Cornerus who drew up the "Concordiæ Formula" in a convent near Magdeburg. This instrument was the means of uniting the various sects of Lutherans, and hence the honor in which the anniversary of its promulgation has been held by the church ever since.

The people of England are beginning to turn their attention very earnestly to the frightful effects of the wide-spread traffic in alcoholic liquors. Mr. Dawson Burns recently sent a communication to the London News, containing statistics of startling significance. He states that in 1876 there were purchased twenty-nine million gallons of British spirits, more than eleven and a half million gallons of foreign and colonial spirits, more than eighteen million gallons of beer, and eleven million gallons of British wine, cider, etc., making a total of intoxicants for the year 1876, of 102,732,-898 gallons. The original cost of all this is £133,632,021; add to this the increase in retail prices, and it makes a total of £147,000,000. Those who do not move outside sober circles and never study estimates of national habits, would hardly believe it possible for a Christian nation to produce such figures in the nineteenth century. It involves some eighty-one million gallons of alcohol, a quantity sufficient, if distributed among all the inhabitants of the earth, and swallowed at one time, to kill every man, woman and child then living on the globe.—Christian Statesman.

Children's Corner.

The Angry Father.

Theon was one day reading in the Holy Scriptures, when he suddenly closed the book and looked thoughtful and gloomy.

Hillel perceived this and said to the youth, "What aileth thee? Why is thy countenance troubled?"

Theon answered: "In some places the Scriptures speak of the wrath of God, and in others he is called Love. This appears to me strange and inconsistent."

The teacher calmly replied: "Should they not speak to man in human language? Is it not equally strange that they should attribute a human form to the Most High?"

"By no means," answered the youth. "That is figurative — but wrath—"

Hillel interrupted him, and said: "Listen to my story. There lived in Alexandria two fathers, wealthy merchants, who had two sons of the same age, and they sent them to Ephesus, on business connected with their traffic. Both these young men had been thoroughly instructed in the religion of their fathers.

"When they had sojourned for some time at Ephesus, they were dazzled by the splendor and the treasures of the city, and yielding to the allurements which beset them, they forsook the path of their fathers, and turned aside to idolatry, and worshiped in the temple of Diana.

"A friend at Ephesus wrote of this to Cleon, one of the two fathers at Alexandria. When Cleon had read the letter, he was troubled in his heart, and he was wroth with the youths. Thereupon he went to the other father, and told him of the apostacy of their sons, and of his grief thereat.

"But the other father laughed, and said: "If business do but prosper with my son, I shall give myself little concern about his religion.'

"Then Cleon turned from him, and was still more wroth.

"Now which of those two fathers," said Hillel to the youth, "dost thou consider as the wiser and the better?"

"He who was wroth," answered Theon.

"And which," asked the preceptor, "was the kinder father?"

"He who was wroth," again answered the youth.

"Was Cleon wroth with his son?" asked Hillel.

And Theon replied: "Not with his son, but with his backsliding and apostacy."

"And what," asked the teacher, "thinkest thou is the cause of such displeasure against evil?"

"The sacred love of truth," answered his disciple.

"Behold then, my son," said the old man, "if thou canst now think divinely of that which is divine, the human expression will no longer offend thee.—From the German.

Boys' Books.

There can be no question that the modern literature for boys is not what it should be. Many of the stories published for them confound vice and virtue, and throw a glare and glamour over things which are in reality untruthful and impure. The staple reading of our boys is steadily undoing what parents and teachers are trying to do for their growth and nature. There is no censorship of the press in this country. Publishers will print almost anything that people will buy, and books that appeal to the spirit of adventure in boys, and excite their passions by dramatic and highly colored representations of recklessness and rowdyism, are naturally more popular and salable than books that are instructive in character and wholesome in influence. Parents cannot be too careful to discourage the reading of such books, by creating a taste for the best literature at an early age. The more gold the less brass.

The Story of a Jewel.

When Maximilian and Carlotta were preparing to go to Mexico, they visited the Pope of Rome to receive his fatherly benediction. They entered Rome in great state and were received by the Roman Pontiff with the respect and consideration due to the most illustrious personages. They both belonged to royal families of Europe, and Maximilian was regarded with great favor because he was brave and manly; and the beautiful and accomplished Carlotta was beloved by all who knew her. The Pope, who favored the Mexican adventure, received them with great favor and gave them his blessing, and at parting presented a diamond cross of great value to Carlotta. She was almost overcome with joy and gratitude, and kissing his hand told him it should henceforth be her talisman. "With this cross and your blessing, Holy Father," she said reverently, "I could ask for nothing more: victory and success are certain." The Pope in turn called her "Daughter of the Church," and so they parted. Shortly afterward they were received with royal honors at the royal palace in France, where she wore as her chief ornament her diamond cross.

They were feasted, and toasted, and flattered at the French court; for the whole expedition had been planned there, and men and money were pledged to carry on the adventure.

With flags and banners streaming and a royal salute, they bid farewell to France. Daily on the journey Carlotta kissed reverently her precious cross, as the blue sky bent lovingly over them, and favoring gales sped them on to the land they were to claim as their own.

I need not tell you all the history. They were received with royal honors by the French troops and those who favored their coming, and for a little while there was a show of imperial authority.

But the mass of the people preferred a republican form of government, so it was not long till an army was in the field to expel Maximilian from the country.

Several hard battles were fought and Maximilian lost heavily; and to add to his embarrassment the French troops were ordered home.

He had no money to sustain his army, and the wealth of the country was mainly in the hands of the priests. He demanded of them money: and being refused, confiscated their property and sent them into his army, for he had by this time been reduced to desperate straits.

This displeased the Pope, and he excommunicated Maximilian and barred the gates of heaven against him. But Carlotta still held to her precious cross as a talisman.

After due consultation it was decided that Carlotta should return to Europe. Her mission was to the court of France, with a view of securing aid, but down deep in her secret heart she had planned to visit the Pope and intercede for her husband.

The journey was a wearisome and perilous one. She traveled, with her maids of honor, in disguise until she reached the United States. And even then she received little attention, and paid her passage and looked after her luggage like an ordinary traveler.

Once on shipboard, steaming away in the direction of the blessings she hoped for, her spirits rose.

But three days before they gained the port, as she stood with her ladies on the deck of the steamer, looking and longing for land, the beautiful cross somehow slipped through her fingers and fell into the sea.

"Oh, my cross! my cross!" she screamed. "Will not some one undertake to recover my cross?"

But the ship was going at full speed, and the cross was sinking fathoms below. The captain refused to stop or even to try to find it.

"All is lost," she exclaimed in agony, and her maids had to hold her to keep her from leaping overboard after it.

She was in despair. She neither ate nor slept during the rest of the voyage.

There was no royal welcome for her when she landed in France. The Emperor, when forced to an interview, treated her in a heartless manner, denouncing her husband as a coward unworthy of support, in her presence.

"If he can't fight for his kingdom he is not worthy of it," he said.

It was not long after that till Napoleon was put to the same test himself. He fought for his own kingdom and lost it. I have often wondered if, during the long dark days after the inglorious defeat at Sedan, his words of reproach to Carlotta did not come back to pierce his own soul.

Eugenie, the Empress, made her a civil call, but she left Paris for Rome with the taunts of the Emperor ringing in her ears. If earth was lost, heaven was beyond. Her husband might be killed at any moment. She would go to the Holy Father and plead for his restoration to the church.

The Pope received her coldly. "No; your husband has laid sacrilegious hands on the priests and property of the church; I cannot restore him or forgive him, neither in this world nor the world to come."

In vain she explained, and pleaded with tears the exigencies of war. He repulsed and left her.

The next morning she was early at the Vatican, kneeling on the stone steps at the entrance door. There she waited with her attendants two long hours, in tears and agony, entreating an interview with the Holy Father. And when at last he came, she clung to his feet and plead for the soul of her husband. But he said, "No, neither in this world nor in the world to come will I forgive him," and he tore himself away from her clinging hands.

She shrieked frantically after him, pleading for forgiveness. Her attendants who stood tearfully beside her, gathered her in their arms and carried her to her carriage, and she was driven rapidly away. But reason had fled.

You know the rest. She is still looking for her cross, still pleading with Napoleon and the Holy Father, and expecting her husband to come home.

Her husband was captured and executed shortly afterward.—The Christian Woman.

The Sabbath School.

LESSON XXXI.—Aug. 5, 1877.—PAUL SENT TO MACEDONIA.

SCRIPTURE—Acts 16: 1-15. Commit 9-14.

1. Then came he to Derbe and Lystra: and behold, a certain disciple was there, named Timotheus, the son of a certain woman which was a Jewess, and believed, but his father was a Greek:

2. Which was well reported of by the brethren that were at Lystra and Iconium

3. Him would Paul have to go forth with him; and took and circumcised him because of the Jews which were in those quarters: for they knew all that his father was a Greek:

4 And as they went through the cities, they delivered them the decrees for to keep, that were ordained of the apostles and elders which were at Jerusalem.

5. And so were the churches established in the faith, and increased in number daily.

6. Now, when they had gone throughout Phrygia, and the region of Galatia, and were forbidden of the Holy Ghost to preach the word in Asia;

7. After they were come to Mysia, they assayed to go into Bithynia: but the Spirit suffered them not.

8. And they passing by Mysia, came down to Troas

9. And a vision appeared to Paul in the night: There stood a man of Macedonia, and prayed him, saying, Come over into Macedonia and help us.

10. And after he had seen the vision, immediately we endeavored to go into Macedonia, assuredly gathering that the Lord had called us for to preach the Gospel unto them.

11. Therefore loosing from Troas, we came with a straight course to Samothracia and the next day to Neapolis;

12. And from thence to Philippi, which is the chief city of that part of Macedonia and a colony: and we were in that city abiding certain days.

13. And on the Sabbath we went out of the city by a river side, where prayer was wont to be made; and we sat down, and spake unto the women that resorted thither.

14. And a certain woman named Lydia, a seller of purple of the city of Thyatira, which worshipped God heard us: whose heart the Lord opened, that she attended unto the things which were spoken of Paul.

15. And when she was baptized, and her household, she besought us, saying, If ye have judged me to be faithful to the Lord, come into my house and abide there; And she constrained us.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"I came to Troas to preach Christ's Gospel and a door was opened unto me of the Lord."—2 Cor. 2: 12.

TOPIC.—"Preach the Gospel to every creature."

HOME READINGS.

M.	Acts	2: 1-21	The Promise of Visions.
Tu.	Acts	9: 1-19	The Visions of Saul and Ananias.
W.	Acts	10: 1-33	The Visions of Cornelius and Peter.
Th.	Acts	18: 1-18	The Vision of Paul at Corinth.
F.	Acts	22: 1-21	The Vision of Saul at Jerusalem.
S.	Acts	27: 9-44	The Vision of Paul on Shipboard.
S.	2 Cor.	12: 1-21	The Mysterious Vision of Paul.

TWIGS.

No one need be discouraged if God does not immediately open a door to preach the Gospel in a neglected district. When he closes a door it is that a better one may be opened. He may seem to delay, but if he will not be a moment to early, neither will he be a moment too late. Ps. 104: 27; 145: 15; Rom. 5: 9; Gal. 4: 4; 6: 9; 1 Tim. 2: 6; Tit. 1: 3; 1 Pet. 5: 6.

The Holy Spirit will be a guide to all those who sincerely and trustfully ask him for direction. God's children are not left blindly to wander on the face of the earth. He has given to them an infallible counselor. "Thine ears shall hear a word behind thee, saying: This is the way, walk ye in it." Ps. 25: 9; 32: 8; Prov. 3: 6; Is. 30: 21; 42: 16; 58: 11; John 14: 26; 15: 26, 27; 16: 13, 14.

There are two calls to missionary work that the church cannot pass unheeded. One is the Macedonian cry, "Come over and help us," that comes from every heathen country; the other is the command of Christ: "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature." Matt. 9: 38; Mark 16: 15, 16; Luke 24: 46, 47; Acts 8: 26-31; 9: 38; 11: 13, 14; Rom. 10: 13-15.

All revival work is in vain that is unaccompanied by the influence of the Holy Spirit. Paul may plant and Apollos may water, but it is God that giveth the increase. Prayer, therefore, should be recognized as the power that gives vitality to preaching. Ps. 119: 18; Prov. 16: 1; Is. 50: 5; Luke 24: 45; John 6: 44, 45; Rom. 9: 16; 1 Cor. 3: 6, 7; Phil. 2: 12, 13; Eph. 1: 17, 18.—Nat'l S. S. Teacher.

OBITUARY.

HALL.—Fell asleep in Christ and in peace on Saturday, April 21, 1877, Mrs. Olivia W. Hall, wife of C. B. Hall of Paw Paw, Mich., in the fifty-eighth year of her age. The deceased was born in Jefferson county, N. Y., August 23, 1819. She publicly confessed her faith in Christ in the twenty-third year of her age and united with the First Baptist Church of which she was a faithful member until death. During her illness which was short, but with great suffering, she was cheerful and ambitious to do good as long as she had strength. She leaves a husband and two daughters and a dear little boy, Bertie, whom she took to care for, and who was treated with all the tenderness that a fond mother could give. In her the family loses a loving wife and an affectionate mother; the church, a faithful member and a devoted Christian; the community an obliging neighbor and a warm-hearted friend. May the Lord who is rich in mercy sanctify this afflicting dispensation to the spiritual profit of the bereaved family. May they find comfort for their wounded souls in the precious promise of God's Word to strengthen them in this their hour of trial. Her husband and children can say with the Psalmist, 'We took sweet council together and walked to the house of God in company." She loved the church of God, the people of God; in short she had a loving open heart for every one. The memory of her devoted Christian life will be her best monument. She was an earnest but prudent opposer of all secret societies. We can truly say that we believe her example worthy of imitation, and the two daughters she has left are trying to follow in her footsteps. May the Lord strengthen them and keep them. MRS. D. C.

ADDRESS OF REV. E. I. GRINNELL,

BEFORE THE IOWA STATE CONVENTION AT OSKALOOSA, APRIL 26, 1877, AND VOTED TO BE PRINTED.

MR. PRESIDENT, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN: It is the privilege of American freemen to discuss any subject pertaining to the general welfare and the maintenance of our civil and religious liberties. In the exercise of this right, we are here to enter upon the discussion of a subject of vital importance to both church and state, a subject the investigation of which is most unpleasant to those who, in the language of holy writ, "love darkness rather than light, because their deeds are evil," and they give abundant proof of their love of darkness by meeting when nature spreads her mantle of night over the landscape, in upper rooms, with darkened windows and well guarded doors, which open only to those who are bound by oaths of secrecy, extra-judicial, profane and murderous.

In opposing secret societies, our assaults are mainly directed against Masonry, for the same reason that the Washingtonians aimed their chief attacks at distilled liquors. As John Hawkins said, "When the old sow and her pigs get into your corn, you do not weary yourself with chasing the pigs, for you know that if you drive the old sow out the pigs will follow."

Therefore, in our effort to diffuse light on this subject of secrecy, the "old handmaid" will be the point of attack. As we are somewhat clerical in our modes of thought, we invite your attention to the following language, found in Mackey's Masonic Lexicon, page 16, which we shall use as a text to illustrate the means of freeing from sin through the medium of Masonry:

"ACACIAN. A term derived from akakia, innocence, and signifying a Mason, who, by living in strict obedience to the obligations and precepts of the fraternity, is free from sin."

Our text, taken from a standard lexicon of the order, is positive in its statement. "Is free from sin." If this language does not convey the idea of a means of salvation, then it is impossible for the English language to convey it. "Well," says the admirer of the lamb-skin fraternity, "if Masonry will do this, is it not a good institution?" Yes. If it does this in accordance with the principles of the religion of Jesus; otherwise it stands convicted of hypocrisy and fraud, for, "Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." (1 Cor.. iii. 11.) Any system which offers freedom from sin and is without Christ as a foundation is a base, hypocritical system; hence, if Masonry is devoid of Christ, the only foundation, though it may prate of freedom from sin through obedience to its obligations and precepts, it is, nevertheless, a deceptive and vile system, and should receive the unqualified condemnation of every disciple of our Lord.

Let this now be tested by investigating the means of this freedom from sin. We are told that it is "by living in strict obedience to the obligations and precepts of the fraternity."

First, then, as to the obligations. Masons tell us that of these we know nothing, and they would have us believe that we are to remain in ignorance unless we submit to the degradation of being stripped, blindfolded and haltered, and are led into the lodge room, and with knees "bare bent," are obligated in due and ancient form. The day is past for them to successfully deny the fact that their rites and murderous obligations are published to the world. They themselves are too often the unwilling witnesses of it by their cry of "perjured villain" and their unceasing persecution of those who have the manhood and Christian integrity to break from the iron-clad power of the lodge. Behold the spirit manifested toward those who renounce the lodge, reveal its obligations and expose the institution. Morgan was murdered in accordance with Masonic law. Miller, his publisher, was taken by a mob of Masons, on a sham warrant, the tyler's sword was brandished over his head, and but for the prompt action of S. D. Greene and the citizens of Batavia, New York, he would doubtless have met the fate of Morgan.

The Masonic spirit is the same now. In the year of our Lord 1870, "Rev. D. P. Rathbun, a seceding Mason, residing in Buena Vista, New York, was invited to lecture on Masonry while spending a few days in Sullivan county, Pennsylvania. After consenting to do so he was met by a man claiming to be a Freemason, with whom he entered into conversation concerning the promised lecture, the Mason extolling the fraternity by saying that 'No such brotherly love exists in any church on earth.' He also asked Bro. Rathbun 'from whence he came' and what was his nearest railroad station. He told him 'Canisteo, on the New York and Erie railroad.' The Mason then asked him if there were any Masons at that place. He replied, 'There is a lodge there.' The Mason then said to brother Rathbun, 'I do not think you understand Masonry, or you would not oppose it.' Bro. Rathbun stepped up to him and whispered in his ear, which made the Mason very much excited, who, with an oath, told him 'to keep his head shut.' The above conversation occurred Tuesday, June 7. The evening of the next day Bro. Rathbun lectured in that place. After the lecture this Mason began to talk roughly and loudly; so much so that an officer told him to keep still or he would arrest him. Bro. Rathbun spoke kindly to him in Masonic language, saying, 'We met yesterday on the level, let us now part on the square.' The reply was. 'No, not by a d——d sight.' On Friday Bro. Rathbun returned to Buena Vista. In a very few days word came from Canisteo to him, charging him with having lectured against Masonry while in Pennsylvania. In a morning or two after receiving this word he found a paper stuck up in his barn, with a coffin and a pair of scales drawn on it. Thursday evening, June 16, he attended a prayer meeting at the church in Buena Vista. After meeting, he and others remained at the church to practice singing. While there, at about eleven o'clock, he thought he heard his horse kicking in the barn. He ran without a light to see to his horse, entered the barn, and found the horse all right. Here opens a scene of different character. Just as he stepped out of the barn he was caught by the collar, and at the same time struck by a ruffian in the face with such violence as would have knocked him down had he not been held up by the grip of his foes. Then he was so badly choked as to become unconscious until they had dragged or carried him about forty rods. On becoming conscious he found himself surrounded by a mob of six or eight persons. They then took a rail and put him on it, and it upon their shoulders, with one holding to each limb, and in this way they jammed and jerked him. Then changing the programme, they took him from the rail and drew him through a mud-hole, feet first, on his back, then through again on his face, violently forcing his head and face under the mud and water until he became strangled and choked, after which they took him out. On recovering strength enough to speak, he asked them what he had done to merit such treatment; whereupon, cursing him, they said, 'Kill him! Kill him!' and caught him and tore his shirt, pants and vest nearly off of him in front. Then they threw him into the mud again, on his face, and, jumping upon him, stamped him down in the mud. Then drawing him out, said to him, 'This is not meeting on the level and parting on the square,' and added that they would give him just thirty days to leave the vicinity or they would cut his d——d throat, swearing most bitterly they would do it.

If possible, the most fiendish and villainous of the whole treatment was a free use of the spirits of turpentine upon his lacerated flesh, torn by the rail, the particulars of which modesty forbids me to narrate." They left him nearly lifeless, being interrupted in their hellish work by the cries of his wife, who was in search of him and calling him.

Observe that the same language was used concerning the level and the square by the mob in Buena Vista, New York, that Bro. Rathbun used to the Masons eight days previous at the close of the lecture in Sullivan county, Pennsylvania. This, with the Masonic emblems placed upon his barn, shows that it was an act of Masonic vengeance upon him for uttering the truth concerning Masonry. Nor is this all; the same minister, Rathbun, was shot in the wrist by an unseen foe while, with others, he was returning from an Anti-masonic lecture held at the Ford Street school, in Pike township, Bradford county, Pennsylvania, September 30, 1872. A third effort was made upon his life while he was a passenger on board one of the steamers that ply on the great lakes. He had talked freely with his fellow passengers on the subject of Masonry. One of his opponents, a Mason, gave him an apple, which, upon eating, was found to have contained poison; and but for the timely aid of a German physician who was on board, he would have doubtless been another victim of lodge murder. His would-be murderer was put ashore secretly and escaped. Bro. Rathbun still lives, and, as State lecturer, is among the good people of Michigan, hurling the thunderbolts of truth against the secret power.

Two years after the abduction and murder of Wm. Morgan, who sealed the truthfulness of his testimony with his blood, one hundred and three seceding Masons, in convention assembled, at Le Roy, New York, indorsed Morgan's Masonry and published the higher degrees. In consequence of the excitement growing out of the Morgan tragedy and subsequent events, Masonry was driven to the wall. "Rob Morris, alluding to those days, in an address to the Iowa Grand Lodge, says, 'There were then fifty thousand Masons, of whom forty-five thousand left their lodges in the Morgan discussion, to return to them no more. In consequence, fifteen hundred lodges in the free States went down.'" In this historical fact, stated by high Masonic authority, we have evidence that the obligations of Masonry were truly revealed.

[Continued next week.]

Masonic Books.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

☞All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Those who wish to know the character of Freemasonry, as shown by its own publications, will find many standard works in the following list.

No sensible Mason dares deny that such men as Albert G. Mackey, the great Masonic Lexicongrapher, and Daniel Sickels, the Masonic author and publisher, are the highest Masonic authority in the United States.

All the books advertised here are used by Masons, but Duncan's Ritual, Allyn's Ritual and Richardson's Monitor, are not publicly acknowledged as Masonic authority, because they tell too much.

GENERAL AHIMAN REZON AND FREEMASON'S GUIDE.
By Daniel Sickels, 33°

The most perfect Masonic Monitor published in the United States. Embellished with nearly 300 Engravings, and Portrait of the Author, Containing Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow-Craft, and Master Mason, with Explanatory Notes and Lectures; with the Ceremonies of Consecration and Dedication of New Lodges, Installation of Officers, Laying Foundation Stones, Dedication of Masonic Halls, Burial Services, Masonic Calendar, Ritual for a Lodge of Sorrow, Masonic Trials, etc.
Bound in fine cloth extra, large 12mo.....$2.00

DUNCAN'S MASONIC RITUAL AND MONITOR,

PROFUSELY Illustrated with Explanitory Engravings, and containing the entire Ritual and work of the Order for the Seven Degrees, including the Royal Arch. Scores of Masons have privately admitted that this is a Standard Text-Book in the Lodge, and is strictly correct; but publicly it is not acknowledged as authority, though almost every officer of the Lodge makes use of it. Price in cloth, $2.50.

MACKEY'S MANUAL OF THE LODGE.

Or Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, with Ceremonies Relating to Installations, Dedications, Consecrations, Laying of Corner stones, etc. Price, $2.

Allyn's Ritual of Masonry,

ILLUSTRATED by a large number of Engravings, and containing a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, Orange and Odd-fellows' Societies. Price, $5.00.

MACKEY'S LEXICON OF FREEMASONRY,

CONTAINING a Definition of Terms, Notices of its History, Traditions, and Antiquities, and an Account of all the Rites and Mysteries of the Ancient World. 12 mo.; 526 pages; $3.

MACKEY'S TEXT-BOOK
Of Masonic Jurisprudence,

ILLUSTRATING the Laws of Freemasonry both written and unwritten. This is the Great Law Book of Freemasonry—570 pages. Price, $2.50.

MACKEY'S MASONIC RITUALIST;
or Monitorial Instruction Book,
BY ALBERT G. MACKEY.

PAST General High Priest of the General Grand Chapter of the United States, Knight of the Eagle and Pelican, Prince of Mercy, etc. Price; Cloth, $1.25; Tuck, $1.75.

MOORE'S MASONIC TRESTLE BOARD.

THIS work was originally prepared by order of the National Masonic Convention held at Baltimore, Md., in 1843. It is known among Masons everywhere as the "Blue Book," and has long been considered a standard work. Price, $1.75.

WEBB'S MONITOR O FREEMASONRY.

LARGE Edition, with Notes by Rob. Morris. Price, $1.50. Pocket Edition, 75 Cts.

TRUE MASONIC CHART; OR, HIEROGLYPHIC MONITOR.
By Jeremy L. Cross, Grand Lecturer.

With a Memoir and Portrait of the Author, Containing all the Emblems explained in the Degrees of entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason. Designed and arranged agreeably to the Lectures.
12mo. Cloth.....$1 50

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry.

A PRACTICAL Guide to the Ceremonies in the Degrees conferred in Masonic Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated edition. In cloth, $1.25; paper, 75 Cts.

Although this Monitor is extensively used in the Lodge, especially in Conferring the higher degrees, it is publicly called an "exposition," and not allowed as authority.

FEMALE MASONRY.
Manual of The Order of The Eastern Star.

Containing the Ritual, Symbols Lectures etc., of the five Degrees of "Adoptive Masonry:" Jeptha's Daughter; Ruth, Esther, Martha and Electa, profusely illustrated and handsomely bound.
Price.....$1 00

Knights of Pythias Illustrated

A Full Illustrated Exposition

OF THE

Ceremonies of the Three Degrees

OF THE

SUBORDINATE LODGE.

Entered According to Act of Congress in the year 1877
By Ezra A. Cook & Co.,
In the office of the Librarian of Congress at Washington., D. C.

[CONTINUED.]

Chancellor Commander.—"Should you waver in your purpose, there is yet time to withdraw." (Pause.) "Do you still desire to proceed?"

Candidate answers.

Chancellor Commander.—"The Master at Arms will conduct the stranger to the Prelate of this Lodge, who will administer to him the solemn and binding obligation of the First, or Initiatory Rank of Page, of this Chivalric Order."

Master at Arms conducts stranger round the lodge three times, or until everything is prepared for administering the obligation. Immediately upon leaving the station of the Chancellor Commander the attendants should, as noiselessly as possible, stand ready to turn down the lights very low, and to light the urns that are stationed at each end of the open coffin, containing a complete human skeleton. As soon as all is in readiness the Master at Arms brings the candidate opposite and in front of the Prelate.

Master at Arms.—"Prelate, by direction of the Chancellor Commander I present to you a stranger who desires to take upon himself the solemn and binding obligation of the First, or Initiatory Rank of Page, he having so signified his desire and willingness to conform thereto."

Master at Arms, (to candidate).—"Stranger is this your desire?"

Candidate answers.

Prelate.—"Master at Arms, why is the stranger brought before me in this garb?"

Master at Arms.—"To indicate the purity of his intentions, white being the emblem thereof."

Prelate.—"I most willingly and cheerfully accept the emblem, indicating as it does, that purity of heart and rectitude of conduct which are essential to obtain admission into this, the First, or Initiatory Rank and Grade of our Chivalric Order. Has the stranger been instructed as to the serious, solemn and binding obligation he is about to take upon himself?"

Master at Arms.—"He has."

Prelate.—"Stranger, is this so?"

Candidate answers.

Prelate.—"Master at Arms, you will place the candidate in proper position, by his kneeling upon both knees, his left hand on the left breast, over his heart; his right hand extended, palm down, and resting on the Book of Law and Swords of Defence."

The Master at Arms causes the candidate to kneel by the side of the open coffin containing a human skeleton, the Prelate on the opposite side, and places his right hand on the Holy Bible, that rests on the (two) Swords of Defence which lie across the coffin and rest on it, handles of swords towards the Prelate, crossed with points towards the candidate, and his left hand on the left breast over his heart. The officers and members assembled around the Prelate all kneel, the members covering him with their lances, if so armed, until the candidate has assumed the obligation, when the lances are raised to a perpendicular position, and remain so until he leaves the room. (See diagram.)

CANDIDATE TAKING OBLIGATION, FIRST, OR INITIATORY RANK.

The cut shows the Prelate administering the obligation. The Chancellor Commander is at the head of the coffin, the Vice Chancellor at the foot, the Past Chancellor at the right of the candidate, the Master at Arms at the left, the Prelate opposite the candidate as shown. On each side of the Prelate is a Knight and the rest of the Knights kneel in rows in a semicircle back of the Prelate

Master at Arms.—"Prelate, the candidate is duly prepared."

Prelate.—"Stranger, as you are about to subscribe to an obligation of great solemnity, it is but just that you should be in rightful possession of all your mental faculties, and as by the rules of our order you have hitherto been deprived of sight, for reasons which must have been evident to you, the Master at Arms will now remove the bandage, that you may be able to see as well as to hear."

Master at Arms removes bandage. Prelate kneels opposite: the brethren kneeling in a half circle opposite and facing candidate, with lowered lances.

Prelate.—"You will now repeat after me:"

OBLIGATION FIRST RANK.

"I, (your name) in the presence of these true and tried brethren do most solemnly promise, declare and swear, that I will never reveal to the day of my death and will keep secret all the mysteries of which I have been, or may be hereafter instructed in; and that I will keep forever sacred within the deep recesses of my heart, even in the sanctuary thereof, veiled from all human eyes, all the passwords, grips, signs and countersigns, together with each and every secret that I may hereafter be instructed in; except it be in a regular Lodge, duly instituted and working under proper legal authority, of the Order of Knights of Pythias, or to an authorized officer, or duly qualified member of the Order, of proper rank; and to the latter only after strict and satisfactory examination, sufficient to warrant my conversing with him or them on or about the same.

"I further promise and declare, that I will ever and always relieve a distressed brother; that I will warn him of any danger which I may know to threaten him, and will fly to his succor and aid whenever and wherever I may be convinced by eye or ear that he is in need thereof.

"I further declare and say, that I am not now, nor will I ever so long as I remain a member of the Order of Knights of Pythias, become a member of, or affiliate with any body, under whatsoever name, claiming to be a higher, a branch, or side degree of the Knights of Pythias, unless under the control, guidance of and fully recognized as such by the Supreme Lodge Knights of Pythias of the World.

"I further promise and declare, that I will observe all the rules and regulations required by the Constitution and By-Laws of this or any other Lodge of this Order that I may become a member of, and to the best of my ability will live up to all the requirements of the Order.

"In evidence of which I herewith pledge my sacred word of honor. So help me God, and keep me steadfast in this my first and binding obligation in the Order of Knights of Pythias."

Prelate.—"In token of your sincerity you will now kiss the Book that is open before you, which is our Book of Law, and is the Holy Bible."

Candidate does so, and while peforming this act the following is chanted:

INITIATORY ANTHEM.

"Mid the deep hush that o'er the earth is creeping,
Father, I come to thee;
With humbleness of heart I kneel entreating—
Be merciful to me."

When through, the Prelate, Chancellor Commander, Vice Chancellor, Master at Arms and candidate all rise, (the rest remain kneeling), and while standing in their different positions, the Prelate says:

Prelate.—"Stranger, you have taken upon yourself an obligation of great solemnity. It is perhaps needless for me to enjoin upon you the great necessity of your living up to, in each and every particular, all the requirements therein contained. You have pledged your most solemn word of honor—all that man can pledge of inestimable worth. You have called upon the Supreme Ruler of the Universe to help you in keeping inviolate the trust confided to you. As a retainer, (for by that title I can now address you), I feel that you will keep sacred this obligation, and I have every reason to believe that you will become a faithful friend, a good companion and an exemplary Page. This obligation you have taken over the Skeleton of our honored and revered patron saint, Pythias. This you can never forget. With pleasure I present you with a sprig of myrtle, emblematic of Friendship, which is the motto of this Rank. This you will retain carefully until you may be called upon to relinquish it. Finally, I would call your attention to the arrangement of the Book of Law and Swords of Defence in this Rank. (Explains them.)

Prelate, (addressing Master at Arms).—"Master at Arms, you will now conduct the Retainer to the ante-room and prepare him to receive further and full instruction, that will entitle him to the Rank and Grade of Page."

All remain kneeling till they retire from the room. The lights are then turned up, the Coffin removed, flambeaus extinguished, etc. The Master at Arms prepares the candidate, by removing the White Robe and investing him with his coat and vest. He is then brought back to the door.

Master at Arms raps.

Inner Guard.—"Who comes here?"

*The word here is optional with the Prelate. He may use either of the following words: Emblem, Symbol, Remains or Skeleton.

[To be Continued.]

Descriptive Catalogue of Publications of Ezra A. Cook & Co.

13 Wabash Ave. Chicago.

BOOKS.

☞ Books at Doz. or Retail Prices sent post-paid. Not less than one-half doz. sent at dozen rates. By the 100 (25 Copies at 100 rate,) Expressage or Postage extra.

☞ Books sent by Mail are not at our risk.

Books at retail or by the dozen, ordered by Express are sold at 10 per cent discount, and SENT AT OUR RISK; party ordering to pay

FREEMASONRY EXPOSED,

by CAP'T. WILLIAM MORGAN.

THE GENUINE OLD MORGAN BOOK:—republished with engravings showing the Lodge Room, Dress of candidates, Signs, Due Guards, Grips, Etc.

This revelation is so accurate that Freemasons murdered the author for writing it. Thousands have testified to the correctness of the revelation and this book therefore sells very rapidly.

Price 25 cents.

Per Doz. Post Paid..... $2.00
Per hundred by express, (express charges extra.).....$10.00

ODD FELLOWSHIP ILLUSTRATED.

A complete exposition of the Lodge Encampment and Rebecca (Ladies') Degree. The Signs, Grips, &c., shown by engravings.

Single copy, post paid,.....$ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per Hundred, Express charges extra,..... 10 00

EXPOSITION OF THE GRANGE.

EDITED BY REV. A. W. GREELIN.

Illustrated with Engravings showing Lodge Room, Signs, Signals, etc.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 10 00

Judge Whitney's Defense Before the Grand Lodge of Ill.

Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the Lodge when S. L. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the Lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 20
Per Doz. " " 1 50
Per 100, Express charges extra..... 8 00

History of The Abduction and Murder Cap't. Wm. Morgan.

As prepared by Seven Committees of Citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan.

This book contains indisputable, legal evidence that Freemasons, abducted and Murdered Wm. Morgan, for no other offence than the revelation of Masonry. It contains the sworn testimony of over twenty persons, including Morgan's wife, and no candid person after reading this book, can doubt that many of the most respectable FREEMASONS. in the Empire State, with others were concerned in this crime.

Single Copy, post Paid,..... 25 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $2,00.
Per 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 10.00.

Valance's Confession of The Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan.

This confession of Henry L. Valance, one of the three Freemasons who drowned Morgan in the Niagara River, was taken from the lips of the dying man by Dr. John C. Emery, of Racine County, Wisconsin in 1848; The confession bears clear evidence of truthfulness.

Single copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $1.50.
Per 100 Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

The Mystic Tie or Freemasonry a League with the Devil.

This is an account of the Church Trial of Peter Cook, and wife of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a Reverend Freemason; and their very able defence presented by Mrs. Lucia C. Cook, in which she clearly shows that Freemasonry, is antagonistic to the Christian Religion. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents
Per dozen, post paid..... $1 50
Per hundred Express charges Extra,..... 9 00

NARRATIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

Showing the Conflict of Secret Societies with the Constitution and Laws of the Union and of the States, by FRANCIS SEMPLE.

The fact that Secret Societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of Law is here clearly proved.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20
Per doz. " " $1.75
Per 100 Express charges Extra..... 9.00

THE BROKEN SEAL.

OR PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF Wm. MORGAN,

By SAMUEL D. GREENE,

Price in cloth, $1.00. | Paper covers, 50 cents.
In Paper Covers per Doz. Post paid.....$4 50
" per hundred by express (ex. charges extra $25.00

Capt. Wm. Morgan was Mr. Greene's neighbor in Batavia, N. Y., and a member of the same lodge with him at the time of the great excitement in 1826. The titles to these chapters are sufficiently exciting to give the book a large sale:—"The Storm Gathering;" "Abduction of Morgan;" "Attempted Abduction of Miller and his Rescue;" "What became of Morgan;" "What Morgan Actually Revealed;" "Confession of the Murderer;" "Allegations against Freemasonry, etc."

THE ANTI-MASON'S SCRAP BOOK, CONSISTING OF 21 CYNOSURE TRACTS.

In this book are the views of more than a Score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of Secret Societies.

The dangerous tendency and positive evil of organized Secrecy is here shown by the most varied and powerful arguments and illustrations that have ever been given to the public.

Lecturers and others who wish to find the best arguments against the Lodge, should send for this book.

Those who wish to circulate Antimasonic Tracts ought to have the book to select from.

Single Copy, post paid,.....20 cents.
Per Doz. " $1.75
Per 100, Express charges Extra.....$10.00

Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion.

A clear cutting argument against the Lodge, from a Christian Stand point.

Single Copy post paid.....$ 05
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 3 00

PHELPS' SECRET SOCIETIES Ancient and Modern.

A NEW BOOK OF GREAT INTEREST.

This work is particularly commended to the attention of Officers of The Army and Navy, The Bench and The Clergy.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

"THE ANTIQUITY OF SECRET SOCIETIES, THE LIFE OF JULIAN, THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES, THE ORIGIN OF MASONRY, WAS WASHINGTON A MASON? FILMORE'S AND WEBSTER'S DEFERENCE TO MASONRY. A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRESS OF MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES, THE TAMMANY RING, MASONIC BENEVOLENCE, THE USES OF MASONRY, AN ILLUSTRATION, THE CONCLUSION."

Single Copy, Post Paid..... 50
Per Doz " " $4 75
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$25 00

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' LETTERS to Col. Wm. Stone, Edward Livingstone,

and others, on the nature of

Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties.

Price, post paid..... $ 50
Per Doz., " 4 50
Per 100, Express Charges extra..... 25 00

COLLEGE SECRET SOCIETIES.

Their Customs, Character and the Efforts for their Suppression.

BY H. L. KELLOGG.

Containing the opinion of many prominent College Presidents, and others, and a FULL ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER OF MORTIMER LEGGETT

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 35
Per Doz " " 2 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 15 00

MINUTES OF THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION,

Containing addresses by Rev. B. T. Roberts, Chas. D. Greene, Esq., Prof. C. A. Blanchard, Rev. D. P. Rathbun, Rev. D. S. Caldwell, Mrs. M. E. Gage, Elder J. R. Baird and others. Unpublished Reminiscences of the Morgan Times, by Elder David Bernard; Recollections of the Morgan Trials, as related by Victory Birdseye, Esq., and presented by his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Miller; Secretary's report; roll of delegates; songs of Mr. G. A. Clark; paper by Enoch Honeywell; Constitution N. C. A.; reports of committees, and a report of the political meeting.

Single Copy, post paid, ... 25
Per doz. " " $2.00
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 10.00

Proceedings of the Pittsburgh Convention.

Containing Official Reports; Addresses by Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. Rev. B. T. Roberts, Rev. G. T. R. Meiser, Prof. J. R. W. Sloane, D. D., Prest. J. Blanchard, Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D., Rev. Woodruff Post, Rev. Henry Cogswell, Prof. C. A. Blanchard, and Rev W. E. Coquiette, also Report of the POLITICAL MASS CONVENTION, with Platform and Cadidates for the Presidential Campaign of 1876.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25 cts.
Per doz " $2.00
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 10.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. W. P. M'NARY,

Pastor United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Ind.

This is a very clear, thorough, candid and remarkably concise Scriptural argument on the character of Freemasonry.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 5
Per Doz,..... 50
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra,.....$3 00

THIRTEEN REASONS

Why a Christian Should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong.

The author states his reasons clearly and carefully, and any one of the thirteen reasons, if properly considered, will keep a Christian out of the Lodge.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 5
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100, Express charges extra, ... $3.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. JAMES WILLIAMS.

Presiding Elder of Dakota District North-western Iowa Conference, M. E. Church, A SECEDING MASTER MASON.

Published at the special request of the Nine Clergymen of different denominations and others.

Single Copy, post paid..... 10
Per doz. " " 75
Per 100, Express Charges Extra.....$4.00

MASONRY A WORK OF DARKNESS

ADVERSE TO CHRISTIANITY, and Inimical to a Republican Government.

BY REV. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG, [Presbyterian.]

A Seceding Mason of 21 Degrees.

This is a very telling work and no honest man that reads it will think of joining the lodge. Single Copy, post paid,.....20cts.
Per doz, post paid,..... $1.50.
" 100, Express Charges Extra..... 8.00.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy.

Address of Prest. J. BLANCHARD, before the Pittsburgh Convention.

This is a most convincing argument against the lodge.

Single Copy, Post Paid .....$ 05
Per Doz " " 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON SECRETISM

BY REV. R. THEO. CROSS.

This is a very clear array of the objections to Masonry that are apparent to all.

By Rev. R. T. Cross, Pastor Congregational Church, Hamilton, N.Y.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

Its relation to civil Government and the Christian Religion.

By Prest. J. BLANCHARD, at the Monmouth Convention.

The Unchristian, anti-republican and despotic character of Free masonry is here proved from the highest masonic authorities.

Single Copy, Post Paid,.....$ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP AND OTHER SECRET SOCIETIES

By REV. J. SARVER, Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church, Leechburg. Pa.

This is a very clear argument against Secretism of all forms and the duty to disfellowship, Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications.

Single Copy, Post Paid.....$ 10
Per Dozen " 75
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 4 00

Sermon on Secret Societies,

BY REV. DANIEL DOW, Woodstock, Conn.

The special object of this sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the Character of Secret Societies, no matter what object they profess to have.

Single Copy, post paid.....$ 05
Per Dozen, " " 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 3 00

President H. H. GEORGE, On Secret Societies.

A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian Churches, to disfellowship Secret Societies.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 10 cts.
Per doz, " ..... 75 "
Per 100, Express charges Extra, ... $4.00.

History of the National Christian Association.

Its origin, objects, what it has done and aim to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought; The Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association, Conditions of the Carpenter Donation with engraving of building to be donated by Mr. Carpenter; tablet, showing the number of pastors and communicants in churches that exclude members of Secret societies; tabular view of local, county, State and National Conventions, and list of organizations Auxiliary to the National Christian Association. Brief opinions of eminent men on secret societies, and testimonies of religious bodies against them. This book will be found invaluable by all who wish to know the character of this reform and how they may do the most to further its objects. It should be in the hands of every Anti-mason.

Price, post paid, 25 cents each; per doz., $1.50. 25 copies or more by express at 8 cents each.

NEW BOOKS

HAND-BOOK OF FREEMASONRY.

BY EDMOND RONAYNE, late Past Master of Keystone Lodge, No. 639, Chicago. A full Illustrated Exposition of the Three Degrees of "Ancient Craft Masonry;" Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft and Master Mason, embracing the "Standard Work" of the Order.

Single Copy, $0 50. Per dozen, $4 00. Per 100 $25 00.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WITH SIGNS OF RECOGNITION, PASS WORDS, GRIPS, Etc., and the RITUAL of the MACHINISTS AND BLACKSMITHS' UNION. (The two bound together.)

Single Copy, $0 25. Per dozen, $2 00. Per 100 $10 00.

Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees of Freemasonry

Nothing can more clearly show the abominations of this system of iniquity than its horrible Oaths and Penalties.

Single Copy, $0 15. Per dozen, $1 00. Per 100 $6 00.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret Societies.

A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons the Christian Church.

Single Copy $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100, $4 50

Secrecy v. s. The Family, State and Church.

BY REV. M. S. DRURY. The antagonism of Organized Secrecy with the welfare of the Family, State and Church is clearly shown

Single Copy, $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100 $4 00.

ANTIMASONIC TRACTS

NOW HAVE 25 ENGLISH TRACTS, 6 MAN, AND ONE SWEDISH

These tracts are sold at the rate of $1.00 per 1000 pages.

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together, and is just the thing to select tracts from. Price 20 cents. See advertisement

For information about Free Tracts see advertisement headed "Free Tracts."

Address EZRA A. COOK & Co.,
18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TRACT NO. 1:

HISTORY OF MASONRY.

BY PRESIDENT J. BLANCHARD, OF WHEATON COLLEGE.

This is now published in three tracts of four pages each. Price of each, 50 cents per 100; $4 per 1000.

TRACT No. 1, PART FIRST—Shows the origin of Speculative Freemasonry, and is entiled "HISTORY OF MASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART SECOND—Is entitled "DESPOTIC CHARACTER OF FREEMASONRY"

TRACT No. 1, PART THIRD—is entitled "FREEMASONRY A CHRIST-EXCLUDING RELIGION"

TRACT NO. 2:

MASONIC MURDER,

By REV. J. R. BAIRD, of Pleasantville, Pa., a seceding Mason who has taken 17 degrees. A 2-page tract at 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 3:

SECRETS OF MASONRY,

BY ELI TAPLEY.

This is a 4-page Illustrated Tract, showing the signs, grips and pass-words, of the first three degrees. 50 cents per 100, or $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 4:

GRAND! GREAT GRAND!!

BY PHILO CARPENTER.

This is a 2-page tract, calling the attention of the public to the despotic and ridiculous titles of Freemasonry. Price 25 cents per 100; $2 00 per 1,000.

TRACT. NO. 5.

Extracts From Masonic Oaths and Penalties, as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.

This tract is a reprint of a tract published in 1834, and is a very weighty document. A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 6:

Hon. John Quincy Adams' Letter.

Giving His and His Father's Opinion of Freemasonry (1831.);

AND

Hon. James Madison's Letter,

Giving His Opinion of Freemasonry (1832).

Both of these letters, in one 4-page tract, at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 7:

SATAN'S CABLE-TOW.

A 4-page tract. This is a careful analysis of the character of Masonic oaths, and shows them to be most blasphemous and unchristian; and the Masonic Cable Tow is clearly shown to be the able Tow by which Satan is leading thousands to eternal death cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 8:

Is a 2-page double tract, "ILLUSTRATED." The first page represents a Mason proclaiming the wonderful wisdom and benevolence of the order, with an article below, entitled "Freemasonry is only 152 Years Old," and gives the time and place of its birth.

The second side is entitled, "Murder and Treason not Excepted," and shows that the Masonic order is treasonable in its constitution, and is both anti-Republican and anti-Christian Price 25 cents per 100; $ per 1000.

TRACT NO. 9, ILLUSTRATED:

FREEMASONRY IN THE CHURCH.

Copy of a petition for the higher degrees of Freemasonry, in which Blasphemous and Despotic Titles are enumerated and prayed for. The Copy was printed for the use of "Occidental Sovereign Consistory S. P. R. S.," 32d degree—a Chicago Lodge—and was ordered by a deacon of a Christian Church who is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ill

TRACT NO. 10:

CHARACTER AND SYMBOLS OF FREEMASONRY.

A 2-page tract, (ILLUSTRATED) by its "Grand Secretaries, Grand Lecturers, Perfect Prince Freemasons, Grand Inspector, Inquisitor Commanders, Grand High Priests," etc. The wonderful symbolical meaning of "the Cable Tow." "the Square and Compass," "the Lamb Skin, or white Apron," and "the Common Gavel," are given in the exact words of the highest Masonic authority. 25 cents per 100 or $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 11;

Address of Niagara County Association, New York,

TO THE PUBLIC,

Concerning the Morgan Murder, and the character of Freemasonry shown by this and other Masonic murders. 50 cents

TRACT NO. 12:

JUDGE WHITNEY AND MASONRY.

This tract contains a condensed account of Judge Whitney's Defense before the Grand Lodge of Illinois, on charge of unmasonic conduct in bringing Samuel L. Keith the murderer of Ellen Slade. and a member of his Lodge, to justice, with Judge Whitney's subsequent renunciation of Masonry,

An 8-page tract, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 13:

DR. NATHANIEL COLVER ON MASONRY,

and

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D.,

Chancellor of the University of New York, on SECRET SOCIETIES

A double 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 14:

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

ITS RELATION TO CIVIL GOVERNMENT AND THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION

Opening address before the Monmouth Convention, by PRES. BLANCHARD of WHEATON COLLEGE. This is a 16-page tract at $2 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 15:

MASONIC OATHS NULL AND VOID.

A clear and conclusive argument proving the invalidity of an oath or obligation to do evil. By REV. I. A. HART, Secretary National Christian Association. Published by special order of the Association. 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 16:

HON. SETH M. GATES ON FREEMASONRY

PROOF THAT THE INSTITUTION THAT MURDERED MORGAN IS UNCHANGED IN CHARACTER

This is a letter to the Monmouth Convention by Hon. Seth M Gates who was Deputy Sheriff of Genesee County, and also Secretary of the Leroy Lodge at the time of Morgan's Abduction A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 17:

Origin, Obligations and Expenses of The Grange.

WITH A CONSTITUTION OF A FARMERS' CLUB.

This little tract ought to be put into the hands of every Farmer in the United States. Four-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4 00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 18:

HON. WM. H. SEWARD ON SECRET SOCIETIES

Extracts from a Speech on Know-nothingism in the U. S. Senate in 1855. The testimony of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, MILLARD FILLMORE CHIEF JUSTIC MARSHALL and others is added.

A 2-page tract, 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 19.

BRICKS FOR MASONS TO LAY.

WASHINGTON, MADISON, MARSHALL, RUSH, HANCOCK, ADAMS AND WEBSTER, give brief clear testimony against the Lodge A 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT

OBJECTIONS TO MASONRY,

By A SECEDING MASON, of Cornton, Vermont

This tract contains many strong arguments against the Lodge drawn from personal experience, observation and study of its character A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 21.

MASONIC CHASTITY

BY EMMA A. WALLACE,

The author, by wonderfully clear illustration and argument, shows the terribly corrupt nature of Freemasonry. No true woman who reads this will ever speak with approbation of this institution A 4 page tract 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT No. 22.

LINUS CHITTENDEN ON FREEMASONRY.

The Author a Seceding Master Mason states his objection to the Lodge, drawn both from experience and observation, in a clear concise and forcible style.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 23

MASONIC OATHS AND PENALTIES.

ADDRESS OF REV. A. M. MILLIGAN AT THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION

This is the clearest and most conclusive argument to show the wickedness of masonic oaths and the duty to disregard and repent of them that we have ever seen.

A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 24.

SHOULD FREEMASONS BE ADMITTED TO CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP?

The principles and teachings of Freemasonry taken from the highest masonic authorities are compared with those of the Bible, several Masonic Oaths are given in whole or in part with the comments of Rev's. Moses Stewart, Nathaniel Colver, and Charles G Finney, on this character. Those who love a pure Christianity should aid in the circulation of this tract. A 4 page tract, 50cts. per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 25.

The American Party,

ITS OBJECT, ORGANIZATION, PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES.

Some of the ablest men in the nation have pronounced our platform the best that has been presented to the American people for the past fifty years Our Candidates are men of acknowledged ability and honesty, and if every voter in the United States could read this our "POLITICAL TRACT," our Candidates could undoubtedly be elected. One friend pledges a dollar for every other dollar contributed and this 8 page tract costs but $1.00 per 100, or $8.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 26.

FREEMASONRY A RELIGION.

This Tract is made up of quotations from Standard Masonic Authors and nothing could more clearly demonstrate the fact that Freemasonry claims to be a Christless and therefore Anti-christian religion.

An 8 page Tract, $1 00 per 100. $8 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 27.

Duty and Ability to Know the Character of Freemasonry.

Thousands seem to consider it a virtue to know nothing about the character of Secret Societies. This is shown to be a great error if not a crime and our duty to use the knowledge within our reach. especially when of such vital importance, is clearly enforced

A 4 Page Tract, 50 cents per 100. $4 00 per 1000.

Cynosure Tract No. 28.

FREEMASONRY REVEALED.

A LEGAL ATTESTATION BY EDMOND RONAYNE

To the correctiness of the published expositions of Freemasonry. The author very briefly states the mode of preparation and initiation in the various degrees, with the mock murder and resurrection of the candidate in the personification of Hiram Abiff in the 3d, degree and the penalties of each.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100. $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 1, IN SWEDISH,

translated by Prof. A. R. CERVIN. A 15-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

ENOCH HONEYWELL'S TRACT.

TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA. Postage 5cts per 100.

TRACTS FREE

GERMAN CYNOSUCE TRACT A

Six Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason.

By Rev. A. GROLE, Pastor, German M. E. Church, Worchester, Mass

This is our first German Tract, and it is a good one; it ought to have a large circulation. A 4 page tract, Price 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

FREE TRACTS.

A Tract Fund for the Free Distribution of Tracts

HAS BEEN SECURED AND SHOULD NEVER BE EXHAUSTED. A friend has pledged this fund a dollar for every other dollar received, so EVERY NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TRACT FUND COUNTS DOUBLE, and thus $10.00 pays for 20,000 pages of tracts.

The distribution of these tracts has already saved hundreds of young men from the lodge, but there is a great lack of funds to supply the constantly increasing demand for Free Tracts.

During the year 1876 were gratuitously sent out, mostly in very small lots. The present demand is fully 100,000 pages per month, but funds are lacking to meet it.

Many of our most earnest workers in this cause of God are poor men, who would be glad to circulate thousands of pages of Antimasonic literature if they could have them free.

SHALL WE NOT HAVE AN INEXHAUSTIBLE TRACT FUND

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together and is just the thing to select from. Price 20cents. See advertisement page 15.

Enoch Honeywell Esq., pays for an unlimited number of his tract addressed "To THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA." It is an excelent tract, bearing the printed endorsement of Executive Committee of the National Christian Association. He has furnished the pu over 150,000 pages of these tracts during the past year.

TRACTS FREE. If sent by mail, 5 cts per 100 is charged postage,

Send Contributions and orders to

EZRA A. COOK.

Secretary of Tract Committee 18 Wabash Ave, Chicago, Ill.

Publishers' Department.

John Hoffman, Berlin, Waterloo Co., Ont., sends a club of eleven subscribers for a year each and writes: "This is a small result of Mr. Ronayne's lecture in this vicinity."

Will not friends wherever possible follow lectures and other Anti-masonic meetings with a vigorous canvass for subscriptions?

Wm. Worth, Starksboro, Addison Co., Vt.. sends $15.00 for a club of ten, together with two of the names, expecting to add the eight others when obtained.

A full club of ten with $15.00 is received from James Auten, Galion, O. He writes: "I have been trying to get subscribers for the Christian Cynosure for three months without success. I here send the money these hands have earned by hard work for others good, that they may learn their duty and do it." These clubs are peculiarly welcome at this time of the year, because scarce.

Hiel Lewis, Amboy, Ill., writes: "I spent nearly three days working for the Cynosure; have made thirty applications; have met the usual excuses of hard times, etc." Mr. Lewis sends two renewals and two new subscriptions for a year each. In the fall the list of subscribers from Lee county will grow still larger we trust.

Rev. J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa. sends a new subscription with his renewal and writes: "I will do all I can for the work."

Ezra Grinnell, Bellevue, Mich., writes: "I will be able to send you ten new subscriptions or more this fall."

John Ward, Owaneco, Ill., sends another subscription with his renewal and writes: "I will have some subscribers for you this fall, if nothing prevents. Money matters here are very close at present. There are a great many folks here who would take the Cynosure if they felt able to do so."

Hopewell Sabbath School, Lincoln, Tenn., orders two copies of the Cynosure for a year each. The Cynosure always contains the Sabbath school lesson and is a valuable paper for Bible classes.

A. W. Dunbar, Elkhart, Ind., writes: "The times are hard, money is close and it is uphill business getting subscribers for the paper at present; but I am in hopes of getting enough to make up a club of ten after harvest."

Rev. Isaac Bancroft, Belmont, Wis., adds another name to his list of fifteen and writes: "After harvest I think I can add several more."

Jacob Markle, Maquoketa, Iowa, sends two renewals and writes: "I will use every means I can to get subscribers."

Miles Belden, North Caanan, Ct., writes: "After traveling for miles I have obtained one subscriber."

Such a spirit of work for the circulation of the Cynosure is what will give the paper and the reform it advocates success. May it come on many of its readers.

Books and Tracts sent Week ending July 21, 1877.

By Express.

J F Ruggles, J Hoffman, R Faurot, J W Moss.

By Mail.

I Brooks, J C Corning, H D Bliss, E W Everts, R Chadwick, S H Falley, S Pierce, W A Welsh, W Worth, Mrs B Hill, J Shaw, G W Pye, C C Osborne, C F Wilkins, F Deemer, D S Kennedy, I Stearns, W H Hitchcock, N B Blanton, L Emmel, P P Johnson, J Overhalser, H H Hinman, A Wesner, E Ferguson, Z A Rawson, J A Green, O D Cone, M F Wiese L J Markhus, S D Glines, H C Glenn, E A Jackson, G C Barker, D Glaspie, J L Morgan, W F Darling, B L Dyer, W McGinnis, A E Lightfoot, U P Bible House, C M Forman, G H Hazen, T W Redman, A G Hayden, J M Parson.

Donation to Tract Fund.

Josiah Shaw $3.50.

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED DURING WEEK ENDING JULY 21, 1877, from A Brenham, H Braley, J Brenneman, M Belden, D C Cone, J L Condon, J G Christopher, D P Conant, Mrs C Church, R Cox, B L Dyer, M Elliott, W Easton, D T Goodrich, M Guy, A Good, R H Hench H H (3), Hinman, J Hoffman, W Hosford, I Kretzinger, H L Kellogg, N R Luce, S Love, M Long, D Leffingwell, T B McCormick, R T McCrea, W McGinnis, T Osgood, S Pierce, J O Risheil, S F Thompson, J M Snyder, J P Stoddard, J Steele, J C Tyson, L Wing, W Worth, H Warner, W Wishart, M Wood, S White, W Whitaker, S Wardner.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO, July 23, 1877.

GRAIN—Wheat—	No. 2	1 40	1 41
"	No. 3		1 20
"	Rejected		90
"	Minnesota	1 41	1 45
"	Winter	1 35	1 40
Corn—No. 2		47	47⅝
Rejected		44½	45
Oats—No. 2		28¾	30
Rejected		20	21
Rye—No. 2			57
Bran per ton			11 25
Flour—Winter		6 50	9 25
Spring		4 00	7 75
Hay—Timothy		8 00	10 00
Prairie			7 50
Mess Beef		10 75	12 00
Tallow		7¼	7⅝
Lard per cwt			8 62½
Mess pork, per bbl			12 25
Butter medium to best		12	28
Cheese		5	10
Beans		2 40	2 60
Eggs		11	12
Seeds—Timothy		1 55	1 65
Clover			7 50
Flax		1 30	1 45
Potatoes new per brl		1 50	1 75
Broomcorn		3½	7½
Hides green to dry flint		6½	16
Lumber—Clear		30 00	34 00
Common		9 00	11 00
Fencing		9 00	11 00
Shingles			2 50
WOOL—Washed		30	43
Unwashed		23	27
LIVE STOCK Cattle Choice		5 60	6 40
Good		5 00	5 50
Medium		3 75	4 75
Common		2 50	3 50
Hogs		4 90	5 20
Sheep		3 00	4 75

New York Market.

Flour	$3 00	11 00
Wheat—Spring	1 54	1 61
Winter	2 00	2 20
Corn	57	61
Oats	27	61
Rye	74	78
Lard		9¾
Mess pork		14 40
Butter	10	20
Cheese	5	10
Eggs	16½	17½
Wool	10	56

CALIFORNIA

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the WEST and NORTH-WEST, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between CHICAGO and all points in ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, NORTHERN MICHIGAN, MINNESOTA, IOWA, NEBRASKA, CALIFORNIA, and the WESTERN TERRITORIES. Its

Omaha and California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in NORTHERN ILLINOIS, IOWA, DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, COLORADO, UTAH, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, CHINA, JAPAN, AND AUSTRALIA. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for NORTHERN WISCONSIN and MINNESOTA, and for MADISON, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, DULUTH, and all points in the Great Northwest. Its

Winona and St. Paul Line.

Is the only route for WINONA, ROCHESTER, OWATONNA, MANKATO, ST. PETER, NEW ULM, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for JANESVILLE, WATERTOWN, FOND DU LAC, OSHKOSH, APPLETON, GREEN BAY, ESCANABA, NEGAUNEE, MARQUETTE, HOUGHTON, HANCOCK, and the LAKE SUPERIOR COUNTRY. Its

Freeport and Dubuque Line

Is the only route for ELGIN, ROCKFORD, FREEPORT, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago and Milwaukee Line

Is the old Lake Shore Route, and is the only one passing through EVANSTON, LAKE FOREST, HIGHLAND PARK, WAUKEGAN, RACINE, KENOSHA to MILWAUKEE.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

are run on all through trains of this road.

This is the ONLY LINE running these cars between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our Sleepers connect with the Overland Sleepers on the Union Pacific Railroad for all points West of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago and North-Western Railway LEAVE CHICAGO as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, Two Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four Through Trains daily. Pullman Cars on night trains, Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta, La Crosse and Winona and points in Minnesota. One Through Train daily, with Pullman Sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains.

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, Two Trains daily. Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, Four Trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points you can have from two to ten trains daily

New York Office, No 415 Broadway; Boston Office, No. 5 State Street; Omaha Office, 245 Farnham Street San Francisco Office, 121 Montgomery Street; Chicago Ticket Offices: 62 Clark Street, under Sherman House; Kinzie Street Depot, corner W. Kinzie; Wells Street Depot, corner Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agents, apply to

W. H. STENNETT, Gen. Pass. Ag't, Chicago. MARVIN HUGHITT, Gen. Man'g. Chicago.

[Eastern.)

NEW CLUB RATES

FOR

Either Renewals or New Subscriptions.

Papers addressed to one or different Post Offices as desired.

CLUB RATES INCLUDING POSTAGE.

2 to 4 Subscribers, at $2.00 a year.
5 to 9 " at 1.75 "
10 or more " at 1.50 "

Names for a Club may be sent at different times; THE MONEY FOR THE CLUB TO BE SENT WITH THE FIRST LOT OF NAMES; but other Subscriptions may be added at same rates after Club is full.

The effect of Club Rates is to give the Commission to those who compose the Club and no commission can be allowed on these rates.

THE SABBATH OF THE LORD,

BY JOHN J. McKAYNew York.

Contents, Sabbath Profanation, Sabbath Sanctification, Hindrances to Sabbath Sanctification and the evils of Sabbath Rail Road Traveling and Transportation, Also THE CLAIMS OF THE SABBATH AGAINST THE ASSUMPTIONS OF REV. HENRY WABD BEECHER.

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO., 13 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Price, 25 cents each, $2.25 Per Doz. by Mail.

AGENTS double their money selling Dr Chase's Improved ($2) Receipt Book Address Dr. Chase's Printing House Ann Arbor, Mich. [3Aug765t,]

How to Send Money.

Post office orders, checks or drafts on Chicago or towns east of Chicago, and currency by express may be sent at our risk. If it is not possible to send by either of the four ways named, money in a registered letter may be sent at our risk, but it is not as safe.

MONMOUTH COLLEGE,

Monmouth, Illinois.

The next term opens Tuesday, Sept. 4th, 1877. For Catalogues, address the President.

David A. Wallace.

MASON & HAMLIN,

Cabinet Organs!

The only Organ declared to be of First Rank by the Judges at Philadelphia.

Gold Medals and Diplomas of Honor awarded them at all the great World Expositions.

Being the only American Organs which have ever obtained any award in Competition with the best European makers.

These celebrated instruments are now offered to the public in New and Elegant Styles at the very Lowest Prices consistent with Best Material and Workmanship. They may be purchased on

Easy Monthly or Quarterly Installments

or Rented until Rent pays for them.

Every organ warranted to give satisfaction. Illustrated catalogue free.

Mason & Hamlin Organ Company.

Boston, 154 Tremont Street,
New York, 25 Union Square,
Chicago, 250 & 252 Wabash Ave.

Agents Wanted!

TO SELL THE PUBLICATIONS OF

EZRA A. COOK & CO.

Liberal Terms Offered.

Capable persons who are in need of pecuniary aid may clear

Handsome Profits,

While at the same time aiding the cause of Reform. Apply to EZRA A. COOK & CO., No. 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1 square, 1 insertion,		$2.00
1 square (1 inch deep) one month		7.00
1 " "	2 "	10.00
1 " "	3 "	15.00
1 " "	6 "	25.00
1 " "	12 "	40.00

Discount for Space.

On 2 squares 5 per cent, On 3 squares 10 per cent
On 4 " 15 " " On 5 " 20 "
On ¼ col. 25 per cent On one col. 30 per cent

SOMETHING NEW.

A CHART OF MASONRY

Showing the degrees from the first to the thirty-third, entitled

Degrees of Ancient Accepted Scottish Freemasonry,

According to a Manual by Wm. M. Cunningham 33d Degree.

Designed by Rev. P. Stoddard, to explain Freemasonry, as shown by Morgan's Exposition and Richardson's Monitor.

A Neat Lithograph 22x28 Inches.

Single copies finely colored, post paid	$ 75
Per dozen " " " "	5 00
Per 100 " " " " Express charges extra	35 00
Single copy, colored, varnished and mounted post paid	1 00
Per dozen colored, varnished and mounted, post paid	7 50
Per 100, colored, varnished and mounted, express charges extra	50 00

25 COPIES OR MORE SENT AT THE 100 RATES.

TERMS FOR THE CYNOSURE.

$2.00 per annum, in advance.
20c " " " " for postage.

All who canvass for the CYNOSURE are allowed a cash commission of twenty per cent. or twenty-five per cent in books at retail prices, one-half this percentage on renewals, and any one sending $100. for the CYNOSURE during three months, will be entitled to an extra five per cent.

All responsible persons who desire to promote this reform are authorized to act as agents.

Discontinuances.

Unless we receive orders to stop the paper sooner, we continue the Cynosure a full month after the time expires. Those wishing their paper discontinued are requested to notify us AT THE TIME THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS EXPIRE.

ADDRESS all letters with subscriptions or orders for books, tracts, and donations to the tract fund, to Ezra A. Cook & Co., No. 13 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Renewals.

The date at which subscriptions expire, is with each subscriber's name on the address label.

Please send renewals before this date occurs. Notice if the date is changed to correspond soon; if not, or if the paper fails to come, write without delay.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

"In Secret Have I Said Nothing"—Jesus Christ.

EZRA A. COOK & CO., PUBLISHERS, NO. 13 WABASH AVENUE.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, AUGUST 2, 1877.

VOL. IX., No. 44.—WHOLE NO. 384. WEEKLY (post paid) $2.20 A YEAR.

Contents.

	Page
EDITORIALS:
TOPICS OF THE TIMES	1
The National Convention	8
A Good Move	8
Dr. Quint	8
CONTRIBUTED AND SELECTED:
The Conflict (Poetry)	1
Secret Societies Inconsistent with the Genius and Spirit of Christianity	1
Our Foreign Letter	2
No Social Reform without Christ	3
St. John—His Day	3
Masonry vs. Christian Discipline (concluded)	3
Whom Shall we Trust?	4
REFORM NEWS:
To Iowa Reformers; Lecturing under Difficulties	5
CORRESPONDENCE:
The Outrages; Old-time Reminiscences; Molly Maguires and Masons	6
Address of Rev. E. I. Grinnell	12
Knights of Pythias Ritual	13
Home Circle	10
Children's Corner	11
Home and Farm	7
Sabbath School	11
Religious Intelligence	4
News of the Week	9
Publishers' Department	16

Notices

THE TENTH NAT'L CONVENTION. of the National Christian Association will be held in Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 23rd to 25th next, beginning on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 23rd with a preliminary meeting for social converse and prayer in the afternoon of the same day. Let every friend of the reform do what he may be able for the success of this meeting: by arranging his affairs so as to be present; or, assisting to send a delegate; by having the editor of his local paper print the notice of the meeting; by suggesting some topic for practical discussion to the programme committee; but, above all, by prayer to God for his blessing upon the meeting. Let every local or auxiliary association arrange to be represented.

Topics of the Time.

A history of the Great Strike is now in order. Who that felt its force shall say it does not deserve one? Inaugurated in West Virginia by a secret order it spread by the watch fires of burning trains and the Gaelic token of blood until in a week the railroads of the States north of the Ohio and Potomac from New England to the Missouri were like a vast arterial system swollen to bursting with a feverish, foaming tide of blood. Bridges, depots, shops, tracks, cars, engines, loaded trains and other railroad property has been destroyed, until the estimated loss amounts to from ten to fifteen million dollars; while the loss to other property is millions more. Above all this is the loss of life. The bloody conflicts at Martinsburg, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Reading, Buffalo and Chicago, with the several railroad accidents resulting directly or indirectly from the action of the strikers, will make an awful total of over one hundred killed and thrice as many wounded. Who slew all these? and who shall be charged with this loss? And answering, who shall say that the violent and lawless measures undertaken by the secret lodges to correct a real or supposed abuse for the benefit of the working classes should not henceforth be utterly suppressed by the unpitying force of law in their very beginnings, and the secret cause of these disorders be broken up and the doors of their lodges forever closed.

The use of force in such disturbances is a question only for the politician. The man who wants the votes of the mob will hesitate to arrest his backers or drive them with the bayonet. It is alleged that for this reason troops of boys and young ruffians, whose rags and vicious faces were their banners and whose hands were never guilty of honest labor, were allowed to march all over such cities as Chicago and St. Louis and in the name of labor drive working men from their benches and bellows; while hundreds of stalwart policemen sat idle in the stations, any dozen of whom could at first have scattered these mobs of hoodlums, and arrested half of them, thus stamping out the riot at once. Business men and working men have been anxiously asking why this should be so. One answer is in the fact that here in the hottest of the Chicago riot ex-Aldermen and ex-Congressmen were seen mingling with their cursing crew, encouraging them in their war on society and the civil power with an eye to the next election. Had some stray bullet taken from earth a few of these ringleaders in crime, community would have less reason to mourn. But political sympathy is not altogether to be blamed for this unreining of the mob. A timid official, beside the natural horror of bloodshed depending upon his word, remembers that vigorous and stern measures for the suppression of rebellion are always beset with plenty of loud-mouthed backers of a pernicious philosophy, falsely named mercy. The only charity a mob can have is suppression. Cromwell was a true philosopher, as well as statesman and soldier, when he suppressed the Irish rebellion at Drogeda. But his merciful severity, which gave Ireland a more peaceful state than she has known since, has ever been cursed by a class of shallow persons who assume a kind of philanthropy.

In the brief supposed advantage of riot over law it is significant that every class with a long-nursed grievance immediately sets itself in arms. The railroad men cleared the way for many, too, who did not know they were oppressed in tasks or wages until the panic struck them. Silk-weavers in New Jersey, tailors in Chicago and operatives of other sorts in other places all raised a foot to stamp out their enemy, monopoly, at once and forever. While in San Francisco the anti-Chinese mob were set on by the same panic, until that city was in as great a war as any other to save its coolies from the infuriated street gang.

While the restoration of order and the supremacy of law is the first point to be reached, the grievances, great or little, which produced the strike must be likewise met and settled. This should not be done, however, till it shall cease to have the nature of compulsion from either class. Public sympathy has been largely given to the railroad men, some of whom have experienced two reductions of their wages within a short time. The companies have by this time learned that it is poor policy to retaliate upon their employes for losses sustained in cut-throat wars with each other. It may be necessary that legislature shall interfere in this question as they did in the settling of railroad charges; but, if so, let it be done without an appeal to partisan politics.

The combatants in Europe are experiencing all the horrors of horrid war. Rough-riding Cossacks on one side, and vengeful Circassians and fierce Bashi-Bazouks on the other, exaggerate the desperation and cruelty of the more regular warfare. A correspondent, writing of the scenes among the Turkish wounded, says:

"With all my experience in several European wars, I never saw such a frightful spectacle as met my gaze when the wounded were brought to the little railway station on the Shumla and Rutschuk line, whither I had gone to gather details. The men had been driven for seven hours in carts without springs, under a hot sun, and their cries and groans, occasioned by the sufferings they endured from their undressed wounds was something never to be forgotten. They were hurried off in a train to the hospital at Varna. All the wounded were Turks. How significant this last remark may prove to be we hardly dare surmise." Another saw the effects of letting loose the Turkish irregulars upon the unarmed villagers, and writes: "Three thousand Bulgarians have just arrived there half starved and naked. Many are horribly wounded, and have marched three days without food to escape the Circassians and Bashi-Bazouks.

THE CONFLICT.

BY H. BURGESS.

I dare encounter every ill,
And mingle in the battle's din,
To give me nerve, to give me will,
For sorrow is life's discipline!

I dare to battle for the right,
I dare proclaim unwelcome truth;
To be myself a man, and fight
Till earth regain her sinless youth.

I dare the battle! let it come!
I give my name, my toil, my life—
O for a voice to wake the dumb,
A mightier arm for such a strife!

O for some power to stir the soul,
To make each sense a rushing host,
And cause the tide of battle roll,
From heart to heart, from coast to coast!

What though our blood in torrents flow,
Our ashes mingle with the clay?
From out that dust shall harvests grow,
That blood produce an armed array!

That harvest shall the millions feed,
That host eternal warfare hold
Till every fettered soul is freed,
And lodges sink to depths untold.

I love the freshness of the spring,
I love the poet's magic page,
I love the rocks and flowers which cling
Like youthful memories on age;

But far above I love the man
Who dare perform what conscience tells,
To free our land from secret ban
Tho' worlds oppose, tho' fate rebels!

SECRET SOCIETIES INCONSISTENT WITH THE GENIUS AND SPIRIT OF CHRISTIANITY.

BY REV. W. P. M'NARY.

In this article we do not propose to speak of any particular society, except by way of illustration, but of secretism as a principle, as being opposed to the spirit of Christianity. That privacy is sometimes proper in things pertaining to families and corporations no one will deny. That secrecy is sometimes a necessity is possibly true; but such necessity can only be explained in consequence of the sin that is in the world.

In considering this question we must take into account the difference between privacy and secrecy. This distinction is not drawn by Webster as clearly as it is in common usage, but yet the distinction is made. A thing that is private affects only the person keeping it, whereas, a secret may affect either the person keeping it or any other person or persons; but, by common usage, it is generally something that affects others. Webster says that a private matter is anything "unconnected with others," or "peculiar to a number in a joint concern." A secret is anything "hid" or "concealed." If, therefore, a man has some secret deformity, some unknown disease, some great sorrow, it is his own private affair; but if he conceals it from the woman who is about to unite her life and fortune with his, and whose happiness will be materially affected by it, it is no longer a private matter, but a secret. Anything in the affairs of a family that affects only the members of the family is private; but if it is something that materially affects another family, it is no longer a private matter, but a secret.

Now, with reference to keeping private affairs secret, we ought to be governed by a sense of propriety and the dictates of common sense. There is an offensive garrulousness that offends our sense of propriety by obtruding private affairs upon others, and a habit of tattling that is often the means of doing harm. There is, on the other hand, a habit of secretiveness that always suggests a dark, scheming and treacherous disposition.

Upon the whole, the world admires and naturally trusts the open, frank disposition, and dislikes and reasonably suspects the man who hides his council in his own bosom. It is a glorious thing for a man or for a family so to live that there is no necessity for cultivating a habit of secrecy to screen every action from the knowledge of the world. When a family so lives that they can throw open their windows and doors and let the light of day shine upon all their actions, they have and are entitled to the confidence of their neighbors. But what would community think of a family that would bind its members by solemn oaths to keep everything the family does secret? Even if a family shows a studied effort to keep all family affairs secret, it is almost conclusive evidence that there is something not right about the house. The right of families, however, to keep private affairs to themselves has nothing to do with the right of men to form secret societies.

Secret societies are not families, and, besides this, the nature of the great majority of secret societies in this country is such that their secrets cannot be called private affairs, but such as necessarily affect community at large. There is no analogy whatever between the private affairs of a family or a business firm and the secrets of a secret society. Are they benevolent societies? Then, unless they are utterly selfish and exclusive in their benevolence, all the world is interested, not only in knowing how it is done, but in helping to do it. Are they political societies? Then they materially affect every citizen of this country. An association organized for the purpose of doing good cannot, in the very nature of the case, be a private association. A company of college students may form a literary club for mutual improvement or the cultivation of mutual friendship. They may meet in private, keep their affairs private, and no one has a right to intrude or say aught against it, but when such a club uses its secrecy to plot and scheme for the purpose of obtaining for its members the college honors, to promote its members, by intrigue, over others more worthy, it is no longer a private affair, but a secret society, a conspiracy against the rights of others. The very fact that a society imposes an oath or a solemn obligation of any kind upon its members, and attaches so much importance to that obligation as to make it a matter of serious violation of society law to reveal any of the secrets of the association, is prima facie evidence that the outside world is interested in what is kept secret.

The Word of God is not in the least ambiguous as to the attitude of Christianity toward all such secrecy. Indeed, in scripture language, secrecy, or "darkness," used in the sense of secrecy, is almost synonymous with sin, and light, which is the opposite of secrecy, is synonymous with purity. 1 John, i. 6: "If we say that we have fellowship with him, and walk in darkness, we lie, and do not the truth; but if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another." John, iii. 19: "This is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil." Acts, xxvi. 18: "To open their eyes and to turn them from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God." The Bible also classes all evil doers as lovers of darkness, the word darkness being used again in the sense of secrecy. John, iii. 20: "Every one that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be reproved;" "but he that doeth truth cometh to the light, that his deeds may be made manifest that they are wrought in God."

The experience of the whole world proves that men who strive to do good do not desire to do it in secret. All men are willing to take the credit of the good they do, and it is not natural for men to keep secret their good works. "He that doeth truth cometh to the light," says holy writ, and no one will deny that that is a universal principle of human nature. Moreover, it would be vain for secret societies to endeavor to convince the world that it is modesty or a praiseworthy humility that induces them to keep their good deeds from the light; they are only too ready to reveal all their benevolent deeds. Indeed, it is not too much to say that they are universally boastful and self-laudatory with reference to all their good deeds. Why, therefore, do they keep anything secret, if it is not to cover tracks that they do not wish the world to see?

It is not in accordance with scripture teaching to keep our good works secret, even if it could be supposed that such was their motive. Jesus said, Math. v. 16: "Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in heaven." Concerning himself, who is our perfect example, he said (John xviii. 20): "I spake openly to the world, and in secret have I said nothing." Concerning the secret societies which existed in the New Testament times, and to which some secret societies, to their own shame, vainly endeavor to trace their origin, Paul said (Eph., v. 11); "Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them; for it is a shame even to speak of the things that are done of them in secret. But all things that are discovered are made manifest by the light."-Every true Christian lives for the glory of Christ. This is the foundation of a Christian life, the principle from which all true Christian life and labors spring. Letting the light shine, glorifying God by our good work, cannot be in any way reconciled with the principles of secrecy, the very object of which is to put our candle under a bushel.

It is true that secrecy is sometimes a necessity, but this necessity can only be explained by the prevalence of sin in the world. War is sometimes a necessity, but who would pretend to reconcile war with the spirit of Christianity? It was necessary for the early Christians to meet secretly in tombs and catacombs, in cellars and garrets, but it was most repugnant to their tastes and inclinations. The spirit of their religion would have inclined them to open their doors and let their light shine, but they dare not, for the safety of their lives. It is necessary to keep the secrets of state, but the purer the State is in its own administration, and the purer the statesmen with whom it has diplomatic relations, the less necessity for secrets. In fact, the keeping of secrets implies sin, either in the person keeping them, or the persons from whom they are kept.

For instance, if a society, organized for the sole purpose of doing good, finds it necessary to keep its work concealed from society, it implies a deplorable state of society, and it would be repugnant to the taste of every Christian man to do good in that way.

If a church court, when sitting upon a case of scandal, finds it necessary to sit with closed doors, it implies that there is a hungry rabble outside that would gloat over the evidence and magnify the scandal. It may be a necessity in extreme cases, but it is repugnant to the spirit of every church court and the taste of every Christian man. So secrecy may sometimes be a necessity with Christian men, because of the sin that is in the world, but it is out of harmony with the genius and spirit of Christianity. But societies that deliberately form their organization upon secrecy as a basis, that teach and inculcate secrecy as a virtue, and professedly do all their work in the dark, are, in their very nature, antagonistic to the spirit and genius of Christianity.

Our Foreign Letter.

Frankfort on the Main — A City Unique in Plainness—The Judengasse and the Cradle of the Rothschilds—Babies' Joys and Trials—A Miniature Prairie - Peculiarities of German Farming—Fenceless, but not Defenceless.

Frankfort, formerly a free city, and one of the important commercial towns of Germany, lies in a level plain on the right bank of the Main. The river is of moderate width—a little sluggish, and with water immoderately muddy. Three bridges connect it with the suburb of Sackenhausen across the river, one of which was constructed in 1342. Frankfort has nothing in common with other cities of the old world—no prominent buildings of size and appearance to give it character, or peculiarity of location to mark it. Its cathedral, which is undergoing restoration, and whose spire is unfinished, when completed may make something of a show. I can never think of Munich without seeing the helmet shaped domes of the towers of the Frauenkirche, which tower above the city and are visible for miles before reaching it; nor of Heidelberg without again seeing its beautiful heights and valleys, and its ruined castle overlooking the Necker; nor of Nuremburg without there again rising before me her ancient fortifications and watch-towers,—and yet in her way Frankfort has distingnished characteristics. Many European cities have a new and old quarter, with lines between the two somewhat sharply drawn. Frankfort differs in this respect from such, perhaps one short street alone excepted. She is neither new nor old, nor partly new and partly old, in the sense of having the two portions distinctly separate from each other. In many places her ancient and modern structures are confusedly mingled together, and I saw repeatedly ancient buildings, quaintly odd, almost side by side with structures of exquisite taste. She has a few art treasures of rare value, and a number of attractions.

But what interested me most was not Lessing's "Huss defending his doctrines at Constance," one of the most magnificent pictures I have seen in Europe; nor Dannecker's "Ariadne on the panther," a marble group of exquisite beauty; nor her splendid palm garden, her most popular place of public resort in the summer,—but strangely enough a short, dirty and narrow street called the Juden-gasse, or Jews' street. I cannot describe its dingy and antiquated houses, stretched along in a straight row, of equal height, width and filthiness of appearance, and of equal antiquity. They may have seemed older than they were, but not more repulsively attractive. Their fronts were filled with windows from ground floor to gable peak, the windows many of them full of holes, and from one end to the other, and from basement to garret this street was swarming with the, I am sorry to say, not over cleanly descendants of Israel. This street of to-day was founded in 1462, and until 1806 Jews were allowed to live nowhere else in Frankfort. Every evening the gates of the street were closed, and also every Sunday and holiday, and no Jew was suffered to venture then into any other portion of the town under heavy penalty. Until the end of the last century there was one market place, the Romerberg, which the Jews were never permitted to enter. One of the narrow, insignificant houses of this street attracted my particular attention, because it was where that wealthiest of all families, the Rothschilds, originally resided and started in business. Their present Frankfort offices are hardly more than a block away from their former dingy quarters. At the present time I think that we are apt to forget the petty and often cruel tyranny to which this hated race of the Jews have, until even comparatively modern times, been obliged to submit.

Frankfort was once a walled city. The fortifications have been removed and in their place are shady "Aulagen," or pleasure grounds, circling the original city, and containing fountains, little lakes and pleasant walks. I thought that all the babies and little children of the city with their nurses were gathered here as I walked through them about four in the afternoon. By the way, I have noticed in many cities of Germany how careless these nurses were of the eyes of the infants in their care, often exposing their upturned faces for minutes at a time to the fierce glare of the sun, and thinking not at all of shielding their eyes from it. Can this be one cause why the German more than all other nations is proverbial for the number of its spectacle wearers? Ill lighted school houses and badly constructed benches and the studious habits of the people may also tend to the same result.

Beyond Frankfort on the way to Cassel, which is one hundred and twenty-four miles north and a little to the east of Frankfort, the train passes through quite an extended plain. I was just fancying myself traveling over an Illinois prairie, when in the distance on either hand appeared the inevitable hills and mountains. The main products along this route were hay and grain. I saw that day and have seen since meadows in Germany actually containing as many as fifteen acres each. I hardly understand the German way of raising grain. I saw some plots of rye and perhaps wheat nearly ripened. Most of the grain fields were in different stages of maturity. Some seemed but recently up, others a third grown, and others nearly mature. I want to emphasize doubly, what I have stated in a former letter, that there are no fences on the continent, or none worthy of the name, at least so far as I have been. In and near the cities of course there are enclosures; also on the side hills where thrive the vineyards, stone walls are frequently numerous, but they are evidently there to keep the hills from running away, rather than for the purpose of separating property. But the country, the valleys, the farming land, have no fences at all. And yet the division of the land is clearly visible, even though there be neither hedge nor fence nor wall. It is the division, however, which various kinds of grain, grass and vegetables, accurately planted and neatly cared for make. The rye patch comes up to the verge of the potato and does not trespass on its neighbor, nor the potato upon the rye. Wheat nearly mature stands side by side with grain or grass but a few inches high. All these plots and patches have the line of division as distinctly marked between them as if a fence located by a surveyor and laid to a line separated them. I have walked miles through farming regions between villages and cities and the winding wagon road through which I traveled was as clearly defined as it passed through and by innumerable fields. The dust of the road came up to the verge of cultivation and no further, and no grain stalks were allowed to spring up on land belonging to the road.

B. T. Pettengill.

No Social Reform without Christ.

At a great public meeting in Boston the following weighty words were uttered:

"President Seelye, of Amherst College, followed in an elaborate address on the exclusive power which the Gospel exercises on questions of social reform. There is no social life in India. The women are shut out from the society of the men. Christianity alone makes the family relation sacred, and is the sole fountain of social reforms. He graphically described a great religious feast given by one of the principal men of Calcutta, which he attended. The flowers were as beautiful, the porcelain as costly, the viands as various, the dresses more rich and even gorgeous, the great idol, decked with costly offerings, was placed in the midst, but not a woman was there! The host was rich, learned, accomplished. He could speak English as well as his American guest. He was thoroughly and highly educated, but he was an idolater! One could see in that man what culture without religion can accomplish. His wife never sat at his table, never rode with him upon the street. She never wished to, he said, which meant simply that she would no more conceive it proper or possible than you ladies would that you should go up in a balloon! Outside of Christianity there is no social reform, progress or life. In all classic literature there can be found no portraiture of a perfect man any more than one of a perfect god. The elevation of manhood, the real basis of all fraternity and brotherly love, comes to us from God through Jesus Christ in the Bible."

St. John—His Day.

The Knights Templar and several other bodies of Freemasons yesterday afternoon decorated themselves in all the panoply of white feathers, cocked hats and enameled harness, and, sallying forth from their temple, fearless as so many Cids and Bayards, marched boldly through the streets to Grace church. The occasion was the feast of St. John the Baptist, and the knights were determined to celebrate it at all hazards. In order to avoid any misapprehension, it may be well to mention here that St. John the Baptist was not a Mason. No, indeed. If there ever was a man who had no use for Masons, free or otherwise, that man was St. John the Baptist. For all he cared, there need not have been a bricklayer or plasterer, aye, or a tailor, or a baker, or a butcher on the face of the green earth; for St. John lived in the open air, had one untanned sheepskin for his whole wardrobe, and ate just such wild green stuff as he could pick up along the banks of the Jordan. Were he to appear to-day in his favorite costume, he would hardly be admitted to the polite circles in which the gallant and heroic Knights Templar love to exhibit their gay apparel and handsome figures, unless, indeed, he might secure an introduction from Dr. Stocking. But, as before mentioned, the gallant knights sallied forth, and, conquering every obstacle in their path, they reached and took possession of the best seats in Grace church, the ladies and others being relegated to the galleries, whence, as in some tournament in the olden days, they gazed admiringly upon the assembled heroes. Bishop McCoskry, Dr. Stocking and Rev. Mr. Webster officiated in the solemn services that followed, and Dr. Stocking preached the sermon.

It treated of the history of Masonry, the temple of Solomon, and the heroic deeds of the Templars of old in defence of Christianity. He told how, in the ancient time, the Masons were scoffed and laughed at, even as they have been ever since, and continue to be at the present time; but the Masons were brave fellows, and the temple was built on very solid ground, and they didn't care how much fun was made of them. The reverend gentleman then followed with a short biography of St. John, who was pronounced the inventor par excellence of a large number of the principles that moved the great body of Masons in their every act, social, business, political and religious. Christianity and Masonry were pictured as pretty much one and the same thing. The square, compass, cross, trowel, ark and other paraphernalia of the order were eulogized as symbols made glorious by the Bible, which, being gathered together by the Masons, made a cathedral—a sculptured sermon. A touching allusion was made to the terrible calamity that had befallen St. John, New Brunswick, and a collection taken up for the relief of the sufferers. After more music, there was the rattling of armor, the waving of plumes, and the Masons were seen filing out of the church doors on the way to their temple, much to the admiration of the small boys and girls on the line of march.—Detroit Daily.

Masonry versus Christian Discipline.

[Continued.]

The first evening set for the consideration of the above charges was the evening of Sept. 25, 1873, when R. Faurot, of Newville, Steuben county, Ind., was present and made unavailing efforts to effect a compromise.

The second Lord's day after the meeting it was publicly announced by G. W. Chapman that on the next Saturday evening the church would meet and make a final settlement of Fait's case.

On the evening of Oct. 11 the officers and members met and, after some delay in endeavoring to get the attendance of the pastor, Chapman stated the objects of the meeting and read the charges, offering Fait the privilege of making a brief reply, if confining himself strictly to the charges. Whereupon Bro. Fait arose and raised the following objections to the proceedings:

1. That the proceedings thus far in the prosecution of the case are unscriptural, because not one of my accusers ever came to me to make reconciliation before presenting me with a copy of the charges.

2. There is no court in the universe, so far as I know, that would grant any man the privilege of sueing another in court and then allow him to sit in judgment upon the same. As Chapman is the author of the charges and the chief adviser in arraigning me before the church, he has no right to sit in judgment upon these charges.

But G. W. Chapman, being both the chief judge and author of the charges, the objections were ruled out, C. W. Stiles also objecting to a vote being taken in regard to the validity of the objections offered. After the ruling out of the objections Fait proceeded to answer to the charges. His reply having been published in full in the American Independent Quarterly, No. 3, vol. 1, published by John T. Walsh, of Newbern, N. C., extracts only need be given. He began by saying:

"If it can be proven that the Masonic church is the church of Christ, I plead guilty of the first specification. Again, If it can be proven that the Disciple church of Ligonier is a Masonic church, I plead guilty. Otherwise, I deny trying to bring odium upon the church as charged. Brethren, do you not all know very well I have only attempted to bring odium upon those secret oath-bound societies claimed by your best Masonic authors to be, in principle and practice, the societies I conceive the Apostle Paul to condemn in Ephesians, v. 11–12: 'But have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them, for it is a shame even to speak of those things done by them in secret?'

"For obeying this divine injunction, you have brought this serious complaint against me. Now, brethren, you that are in doubt in this matter, let me assure you, the distinguished Dr. Adam Clark and other commentators say the apostle here alludes to secret oath-bound societies, termed Eleusinian and Bacchanalian, and your most learned Masonic authors, such as Rebold, McCoy and Albert G. Mackey, affirm that these same societies, especially the one known as Eleusinian, is the highest or most refined order of ancient Masonry. With these facts before us, you ought to be willing to admit that the apostle, in Ephesians, v. 11–12, did allude to Masonry. Are you not also willing to admit that these charges were also brought against me for obeying the Apostle Paul in trying to reprove those who adhere to the unfruitful works of darkness?"

In reference to the publications referred to in the first specification, Fait expressed his willingness to be responsible for the truthfulness of the narrative, but, as to the comments made by Mr. Kiggins, Fait claimed it was a matter over which he had no control.

To the second specification Fait replied, disproving any injustice to Rev. Mr. Harris, and claiming that he himself should be treated with equal fairness with his pastor. He disclaimed the charge of wilfully falsifying. He had made no promise to say less against Masonry than he had before the charges were prepared. He did not deny that he had, for the sake of peace, made some concession to his brethren, but such concession was no acknowledgment whatever of any part or parcel of any of the charges. In closing, he stated: "If I have wronged my brothren in publishing the articles occasioning their complaints, it was done because I was unable to see any injustice in the case. But, not wishing to deprive others of a different opinion, I would say, if I have assailed any one's character unjustly. or offended any of my brethren for doing what I conceived to be my duty, I ask my brethren to forgive me for so doing."

When Fait closed his reply, after various interruptions by Elder C. W. Stites, G. W. Chapman arose at once and stated to the congregation that Elder Richmond said he had not read the articles referred to in the Cynosure, and that Elder Stites and himself had decided that the charges are sustained.

He made this statement, however, without regarding the facts in the case, as Elder Richmond affirms that he had read the articles in question, being a regular reader of the paper at the time. Bro. Richmond also affirms that Chapman made this statement without any authority whatever from him. But the elders favoring Masonry decided the charges sustained, and so announced to the congregation. No witness was called upon to prove the accusations. No questions were asked by the judges. The two judges or elders favoring Masonry felt capable of deciding the case without the aid of witnesses. Immediately after the decision was announced, Chapman stated that the elders wished to have it ratified by a vote of the church. (The decision of the elders was final, whether their decision should be ratified or not, the vote of the congregation being merely an expression of its reception of the elders' decision.) Before the final vote, the chief judge, Chapman, spoke at length upon Fait's guilt, not confining himself to the charges at all, but introducing the first set of charges, which he read and commented upon for some thirty minutes. These charges, be it remembered, were brought up and this lengthy plea made by the chief ruler of the church, who was also acting as one of the judges on the case, and Fait was not permitted to answer to them before the congregation, nor to Chapman's comments thereon. Chapman also introduced some new and very grave charges and insinuations. to which he denied Fait a reply. Among the gravest are the following, viz:

He accused Fait and the three witnesses who made affidavits with him in denial of one of the charges, of swearing to that which was false, while he himself was not in possession of one affidavit or any other reliable testimony in confirmation thereof. He also made great effort to prove that Fait was responsible for all of Mr. Kiggins' article but the italicised words.

This Masonic elder and judge, in his plea for Fait's exclusion, insinuated that Fait had swindled a man out of $50 (a story started by the leading secret order men of the church just before the trial.) But Fait was denied the privilege of replying to this accusation also. The whole story was fabricated upon a mistake made by the Singer Sewing Machine Company, in indorsing $50 on a wrong note, whereby Fait was nearly wronged out of $50, beside the interest, $2.50, as the company's receipts and letters in his possession show.

As this charge came from a ruler in the church and a professed minister of the gospel, it had, for a time, the effect on the membership to cause them to inwardly exclaim, "Away with him!" As some were heard to say after the trial, "This alone is enough to put Fait out of the church." How strange, yet true, that Elder Stites, while acting as moderator and judge during this trial, should so frequently caution Fait to stop talking or adhere more strictly to the charges, yet never once interrupt or caution Chapman in his lengthy speech against Fait.

After Chapman's speech of an hour or more, to prejudice the congregation against Fait, he called for a vote of the church to ratify his decision, and in taking the vote the parties bringing the charges and arraigning him before the church, were permitted, with their wives and daughters, to vote, and Clark G. Fait was excluded.

A resolution was offered by Chapman to the effect that all members who do not wish to affiliate longer with Masons and Odd-fellows can have a letter of dismissal or withdrawal from the church by paying all their church dues. Chapman maintained that the church could not grant a letter to those not in good standing, and that those who were behind with their church dues were not in good standing.

We are aware that the above test of good standing is adopted by most, if not all, secret fraternities, but cannot see the propriety of making one's ability to pay a test of good standing in the church. But the resolution passed with the above interpretation and became a law of the church, thus adding a new article to its creed, while upon the church steeple is written, "The Bible is our creed."

The result of the foregoing trial and the exclusion of Fait from the church has been very disastrous. The community has been injured by it by losing confidence in the sincerity of professors, and, no doubt, some have been lead to disbelieve in Christianity altogether. Some of the members have since quietly absented themselves from the church, becoming chagrined and mortified at the conduct of its rulers, while eighteen others left in one body, giving to the public the following reasons for so doing:

We, the undersigned members of the Christian church, hereby and herein publicly withdraw our fellowship from all brethren upholding or defending the institutions condemned by the Apostle Paul in Ephesians v. 11–12, or any other secret oath-bound institution; and also from those brethren not recognizing our grievances, as given below:

We have, in our opinion, endured an act of injustice and willful partiality upon the part of the eldership (and especially upon the part of G. W. Chapman, who controls that board) in its exclusion from the church of J. M. Fry and Sister Rufina Fry; and we believe this result was brought about by G. W. Chapman publicly declaring, with his fist upon the Bible, that the church could not hold Fry and himself at the same time; and also in Chapman being permitted to choose the committee that decided the difficulty between himself and them.

We have also been advised from the pulpit, by G. W. Chapman, to treat our brother S. N. Pence as a heathen and a publican, and also advised that if we treat him as a brother we would be partakers of his evil deeds, while it is well known that Bro. S. N. Pence was not charged with any immoral or unchristian conduct. This advice we believe unscriptural, unchristian and wicked.

We have also been aggrieved to know that G. W. Chapman endeavored to disgrace Bro. S. N. Pence by going through a sham of excluding him from the church nine months after he had publicly and peacefully withdrawn his membership from said organization.

We, as Anti-masons, have also endured, we believe, unjust persecutions during the last year, and especially we have endured injustice in the act of a certain Masonic clique bringing up charges against Bro. C. G. Fait concerning what he said in a public debate in reference to secret, oath-bound organizations. We believe these charges were maliciously brought against Bro. Fait, and unscripturally entertained and unjustly acted upon by the eldership in the interest of a domineering Masonic clique, that rules out of the church every one who dares to show their unlawful and unscrupulous ruling.

We have also been aggrieved to know that G. W. Chapman called in question the testimony offered by Bro. Fait in his defense against a certain charge brought against him, consisting of the affidavits of S. N. Pence, A. Humphreys, J. M. Fry and C. G. Fait, which we believe was done with a most malicious and unchristian spirit, in the interest of this Masonic clique, of which he himself is the ruler.

We feel also aggrieved at the action of G. W. Chapman in drawing up and writing out what we believe he knew to be false charges against Bro. Fait, and handing them to certain favorite brethren to obtain signatures thereto, and then claiming the right to sit in judgment upon said charges, although strongly protested against by Bro. C. G. Fait; and, while he was acting in the capacity of elder or judge, he also resorted to a low pettifogging, not becoming either a gentleman or a Christian; and, in taking the final vote, permitted these brethren signing these charges against Bro. C. G. Fait, together with their wives and daughters, to vote his exclusion from the church; which acts of injustice we think would disgrace the common courts of any half-civilized nation.

And believing we can have no redress for these our grievances under the ruling of G. W. Chapman, we obey the injunction of the Apostle Paul in 2 Thessalonians, iii. 6, and withdraw our fellowship from these disorderly brethren, committing these unchristian deeds of partiality.

Theron Teal, Eliza Pence, Elizabeth Teal, Edmond Squire, Mary E. Hays, Julietta Campbell, John Francesco, Harriet Niles, John Minier, Wm. Hays, Sarah Fry, Rufus S. Turner, Millie Fait, Abbie Chapman, John Squire, Elizabeth Hays, George W. Campbell, Adeline Turner.

Whom Shall We Trust.

"Thus saith the Lord, cursed be the man that trusteth in man, and maketh flesh his arm, and whose heart departeth from the Lord."—Isa., xvii. 5.

Does not this "curse" rest upon every man on the face of the earth who is a member of any society organized for mutual temporal relief? Is not this virtually counting the Lord out? It is surely trusting in man. All such virtually dispense with that confiding passage of the Lord's prayer, "Give us this day our daily bread."

It is like this: "Trusting the Lord is very good when you can't do anything better, but, as for me, I want something a little more reliable." Or this: "I'll trust the Lord, but I want something to fall back on if he should happen to fail." Very well, dear brother, go on. But remember that "He hath appointed a day in the which He will judge the world."

Are not his promises "rich and free?" May we not trust him? What has he promised? "He will withhold no good thing from them that walk uprightly." "Seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." "He will be a husband to the widow and a father to the fatherless." "Once I was young, but now I am old, but never have I seen the righteous forsaken or his seed begging bread."

The scriptures are full of precious promises, any one of which is sufficient, if we have faith. The Lord never disappoints them that trust in him, but, "in some way or other, the Lord will provide." "Are ye not of more value than many sparrows?" And yet He cares for them. —Banner of Holiness.

The following is an extract from Wesley's journals: "I went to Ballemena (Ireland) and read a strange tract, that professes to discover 'the inmost recesses of Free-masonry; said to be translated from the French original, lately published at Berlin.' I incline to think it a genuine account. Only, if it is, I wonder the author is suffered to live. If it is, what an amazing banter upon all mankind is Freemasonry! And what secret is it which so many concur to keep? From what motive? Through fear or shame to own it?" Wesley wrote the above June 18, 1773, when he was 70 years old.

And I slept and dreamed again, and saw the same two pilgrims going down the mountains, along the highway, toward the city. Now a little below these (Delectable) mountains, on the left hand lieth the country of Conceit; from which country there comes into the way in which the pilgrims walked a little crooked lane. Here, therefore, they met with a very brisk lad that came out of that country, and his name was ignorance.—John Bunyan.

Religious Intelligence.

—Several Chicago churches are closed entirely this summer season, while their ministers are away taking their ease. Why should not such churches be opened for live Christians, who can stand hot weather, to gather in a portion of the riotous classes with whom the city has just had such an experience?

—It is said that there are in the United States 38 independent Presbyterian organizations and 10 in Scotland.

—The Congregational church at Tonica, Ill., Rev. Henry Avery, pastor, has a rule excluding Freemasons and other secretists, as have other churches of that denomination in the State. A Freemason, in the face of this regulation, lately applied for admission to the church, and so break down its testimony. The church voted strongly to retain the rule and reject the unrepentant Freemason, thus sustaining their faithful pastor in his efforts for a pure and holy church.

—The Board of Trustees of the Congregational Union have been compelled to publish a reply to a severe criticism of the policy and cost of the society. The expenses amount to nearly 30 per cent. of the gross receipts, about two fifths of said receipts being raised and disbursed, it is claimed, without the necessity of any society. It seems that the first object of the society is to collect and publish facts respecting the history of the Congregational churches; the next is to help feeble churches in building.

—Within the past twelve years over one hundred and fifty Presbyterian churches have been formed in Missouri, and almost all of them are living and thriving still.

—The Russian synod has completed the translation of the Bible into the vernacular; the work of twenty years has been accepted by the authorities, and the czar has thanked the synod for its labor.

—An interesting illustration of the operations of Providence, whereby the wrath of man is made to praise God, comes from Africa: Rev. W. A. Fair, an Episcopal missionary at Cape Palmas, Africa, writes that a heathen town near Hoffman station, the head town of the Gedebos, has passed a law, which is strictly observed, making Sunday a day of rest. In their war with the Liberians, the latter attacked them one Sunday morning in overwhelming force, and, being surprised and unarmed, they ran away; but, for some unexplained reason, the Liberians became panic stricken and retreated without taking possession of the town. The people, believing that the Liberians were punished by God for breaking the Sabbath, have ever since observed it, and show a desire to learn more of Christianity.

—A movement for the evangelization of Africa has been started in the Congress recently held in Brussels, called by the king of Belgium. It was proposed by this representative body, the king making the proposition, that all Christian nations unite in opening roads into the interior, establishing places of entertainment for travelers, explorers and missionaries, and to adopt measures that will effectually suppress the slave trade. The Congress organized an international society to accomplish the object named, its principal work to be done by national auxiliaries.

Installation at Lima, Ohio.

On Sunday, the 22d inst., Rev. Geo. T. Cooperrider, A. B., of the Evangelical Lutheran Theological Seminary, at Columbus, Ohio, was installed associate pastor of Lima, Ohio, pastorate, of which Rev. A. S. Bartholomew is pastor.

The installation services were held in two congregations of the pastorate, viz., Zion's church, in Lima, and St. Paul's church, in Perry township, three and one half miles south of the city. Both churches were filled to overflowing with devout, earnest and zealous Christian people who appreciate true Lutheranism without the General Council Lutheran admixture of lodgism, such as Masonry, Odd-fellowship, false unionism and hierarchism. By appointment of the President of the Evangelical Lutheran English District of Joint Synod of Ohio, the senior pastor, Rev. A. S. Bartholomew, preached the sermon and conducted the installation services. Pastor Cooperrider does not conceal his opposition to secret-societyism, and will most heartily co-operate with the pastor in charge in laboring to rid the church and keep it pure from the foul pollutions of Masonry and kindred deistic orders. That the Lord may permit his blessing to rest upon this new and important pastoral relation is the humble prayer of the writer.

BETA.

Reform News.

To Iowa Reformers.

SHILOH, Iowa, July 21, 1877.

EDITOR CYNOSURE: Permit me to say to friends of the reform in Iowa that articles of incorporation have been drawn up for the Association of the State of Iowa; but owing to the busy time of year since they were drawn up there could not reasonably be a meeting got together of the executive committee and other friends who would be needed to sign the instrument as corporate members. This will be attended to as early as possible. As soon as this business is attended to the treasurer will give the necessary bonds so that it will be safe for those who desire to give notes towards raising the $50,000 to carry on the work in this State, and also for those that wish to assist in getting the Freeman started according to the plan as stated by Bro. Vandever.

There should be a meeting at as early a time after harvest as possible. I think Cedar Rapids or Western would be as suitable as any other place. Would be glad to hear from friends in the State as to time most suitable. JOHN DORCAS.

Lecturing under Difficulties.

LOSTANT, Ill.

Rev. H. Avery, of Tonica, Ill., accepted an invitation given by the Hope Town Christian Association, to lecture in the Baptist church in Lostant on June 18. As announced in the notices, the subject was Christianity and Freemasonry compared. The assertion of Mr. Ronayne that two Masons will rule a church has proven true in this case. After due consideration, the board of trustees refused the house for the lecture, assigning as a reason for their decision that they "had Masons in the church and feared such a lecture would disturb the peace of the church." What sort of a peace is this church enjoying while harboring something they fear to have compared with Christianity. It is saying "peace, peace, when there is no peace." In justification of the action of these trustees, pious Masons are saying, "They did right. Nothing unholy should be admitted into church buildings." Now, what is unholy about the above-named subject? Not Christianity, most certainly. Knowing, as they do, the abominable nature of the doings and teachings of Masonry, this pious sentiment on their part is, no doubt, an outgrowth of their belief in the apostle's teaching that it is a "shame to speak of the things done by them in secret."

Shut out of the house, the lecturer consented to speak out of doors. Some are saying he was disgraced on this account. The same ignorance would prompt such persons to say Christ was disgraced in being laid in a manger at a Jewish inn. A limited knowledge of gospel truth would teach such persons this is a kind of "disgrace" for the patient endurance of which men are said to be blessed. It is reported that one of the trustees, fearing an attempt would be made to forcibly enter the house, armed himself with a wagon spoke and stood guard over the building. He thus allowed his Masonic zeal to subject him to a great amount of ridicule. This deluded brother should know the weapon we purpose using in this contest is not "carnal." It is the "sword of the spirit," a weapon "mighty in pulling down the strongholds of Satan." No wonder Masons became so terrified at the prospect of having their pretended divine institution compared with Christianity, and made such frantic efforts to prevent it. They gave a plain demonstration of the truth that "He that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be reproved." The extreme air of sanctity assumed by Masonic church members in talking about desecrating church buildings in admitting such lectures as this was too transparent hypocrisy to deceive any person. They only convinced people there was something they wanted to keep concealed. Bro. Avery showed most plainly, from the teachings of Masonry, that there is no semblance of Christianity about it, and showed the great inconsistency of professing Christians in adhering to it. Some minister, willing to preach "the faith once delivered to the saints," without wresting the scriptures to suit the faith claimed to have been once delivered to Hiram, Adoniram, etc., would find many willing hearers in this community. We haqe already had too much of the latter kind; enough to almost engulf us in moral ruin. It is not here desired to cast any reflections upon the Baptist minister lately come among us. Judging from the tone of his preaching, it might be well for some of his flock to caution him against treading on Masonic corns, as he may thereby "disturb the peace of the church." As the churches here have set themselves up as a shield to prevent the rays of gospel light from shining within the dark recesses of the lodge, a necessity has arisen that a building be provided in which to have lectures. Elder Osgood has stepped nobly to the front and is at present building a hall which will be available for that purpose. As soon as it is finished, we intend, if possible, to have an exposition by Mr. Ronayne. It is our desire that when lecturers come within reach of us they inform us of their whereabouts, that we may secure their services. Communicate with Rev. A. Osgood, Lostant, Ill.

S. G. WHITE.

Correspondence.

[The Outrages.

Editors Cynosure: I report another instance of the great advantage the "old handmaid" is to society and the world at large. This time it is only a murder—a mere trifle to be sure—nothing more than a man wantonly and maliciously killed for no cause at all. The victim was a German by the name of Heiderscheid, who lived at Enfield, Illinois. He had the misfortune to owe a debt of about three dollars, and was murdered for it by a Mason by the name of Thomas Pointon, who was not personally interested in the claim! This occurred six or seven years ago. Pointon was a man, or rather fiend in human shape, who, from his great fighting qualities and brutal instincts, had been purposely employed in the case to serve a capias or warrant on Heiderscheid and bring him before the court. On Pointon making his business known, Heiderscheid honestly objected to being rushed off from his then present duties for so trifling an affair, and said to Pointon that he would call at the magistrate's office and settle the debt soon. This admission of the claim by Heiderscheid, would have been amply sufficient for Pointon to have appeared in evidence before the court, and had judgment entered against Heiderscheid without any further proceedings on his part or an that of the plaintiff either. But Heiderschied's promise did not satisfy Pointon, so when Heiderschied, who was in his own store and behind his own counter, was in the act of stooping down for something, Pointon struck him with a blunt, heavy instrument directly across the head, as he raised up. The blow felled him senseless to the floor. He was promptly removed to a couch or bed and medical assistance immediately called; but all to no purpose, he lingered in a half-unconscious condition for a few days and then died, leaving a heart-broken widow and several small children to mourn his untimely taking off, and grapple and contend with such fiends and devils as the Masonic order are constantly inflicting upon society. Pointon at once left the tragical scene, fleeing to the house of N. M. Wallace, a brother Mason, at or near Springerton, Illinois, for protection, and got it. Wallace mounted one of his best horses and rode in great haste to C. C. Woodrow's, a brother-in-law's, with a view of getting him to help them, saying: "A brother Mason has killed a man and I will run every horse I have into hell before he shall suffer for it." Woodrow, though importuned for aid, was not a Mason. Wallace desired him to become one, and offered to pay his initiation fees, but he refused. After the necessary preliminaries could be arranged, which required a few days, Pointon gave himself up and was "tried"—eh? Yes, upon the square, for the verdict of the jury was the usual Masonic farce, "not guilty!" Comment is unnecessary. It is the old, old story and speaks for itself.

If Anti-masonic friends will but send for my little circulars, headed: "To the Victims of Masonic Outrage," and scatter them broadcast, hundreds and thousands of cases of villainous Masonic conduct will be brought to light, and add a mountain of testimony to the iniquitous character of the "old handmaid." This kind of proof is what the public require. It was the wrongs inflicted upon the slave that gave anti-slavery its impetus. The wrongs inflicted upon the outer world will give Anti-masonry a like impetus as they become known. Send for the circulars and try their effect. Cost price, sixteen cents per thousand delivered, postage inclusive. J. H. H. Woodward.

Old-time Recollections.

Rosendale, Wis.

Editor Cynosure: A little over one year ago I was favored by a friend with a copy of your valuable paper and I was so well pleased with its straightforward, manly and independent tone, that I resolved to subscribe for it as soon as I could get the means. I enclose the requisite amount for the same for one year.

In reading the paper reminiscences of olden times come up. Over fifty years since Wm. Morgan became, what might well be said, a martyr to the truth of what we advocate, the evil tendencies of the secret orders. When I speak thus I refer to the principles and the tendencies inhering in the same, and not to the individuals composing the fraternity. Many individuals I greatly respect as men, but the institution with its iron-clad oaths is the objective point of our warfare, and not alone against the horrid oaths, but against the silly and cowardly secrecy with which these societies are bound. I think that when the great battle comes, and I think it cannot long be deferred, it will then be found that these lesser lights, these satellites, will be pressed into the service of this giant institution; they subserve the purpose of stay-laths or braces to Freemasonry. It may be said that this is all imaginary, and that I am not a true exponent of the popular view in this matter. Be it so; I will gladly bide the time for the fulfillment or failure of the prediction.

I have been solicited to join the Good Templars, and although I am a temperance man, or prohibitionist, to the back-bone, yet from this cowardly secrecy I must, for good reasons, keep aloof. For first, the only argument even the wisest of its advocates can use is altogether of a negative character. For instance, there is no harm in what little secrecy is invested in the Good Templars, Temple of Honor, Sons of Temperance, etc. But it may be said that Masonry of to-day is not what it was in Morgan's day. It is true that the game of Morganizing is played out. President Finney was threatened with assassination through the medium of anonymous letters, but their caution (the better part of valor) ultimately prevailed, and they probably concluded to let him die a natural death. But the "mark of the beast" is still visible; the same spirit permeates the whole mass of the fraternity towards seceders now as of olden time; the same malignity pervades the breasts of Masons toward seceders as it does in the Catholic church toward heretics—"no faith is to be kept with them." The cloven foot was not so clearly seen in the murder of Morgan as was evinced in the trial of the conspirators afterwards by courts of the State of New York. I lived in the State of Vermont at the time and read the proceedings of the court at several different sessions; and one great noticeable feature was that a number of the witnesses said they could not answer certain questions put to them with safety; here the whole secret was in a nut shell. It was ascertained that Masons manipulated the witnesses, and also facilities were afforded to obtain packed juries; hence the whole judiciary system was found to be practically in Masonic hands. The motto of the Jesuits, when they first entered on their career was, to "strike effectually, but conceal the hand." I recollect well, during the Morgan excitement in 1829-30, after many prominent Masons had renounced their allegiance to Masonry that the adhering Masons said with great emphasis, that Father Leland, who for many years previous held the office of Lieutenant Governor of the State, "would not belong to any society so corrupt as you Anti-masons represent it to be, and as almost every man has confidence in him we are ready to appeal to him." This was ta a time when a Mr. Mulford of New Jersey had published that a man in his neighborhood who was a Mason and was indicted for murder, the evidence against him being conclusive in the minds of most of the people, was acquitted to the great wonder of all except the Masons. But when he [Mulford] told how this was done the mystery was solved at once. Masonic signs were exchanged from the bar to the bench, and from the bench to the jury; believing in the paramount claims of Masonic over other oaths all was plain; and among the letters of both parties sent to Father Leland, as a referee, were interrogatories relative to this affair. Through the medium of the press, and to answer once for all, he said that during his long life as a Mason he had never seen a like occurrence, but said that he could not reasonably doubt the truth of Mr. Mulford's statement, from the fact that Masons possessed the requisite means and facilities for the accomplishment of such measures. It mattered very little, said he, whether this particular incident was true or false, so long as the door was open and facilities available for like transactions, and it was due the public that they should be apprised of the danger of a like occurrence.

This confession, emanating from the source it did, had a tendency to hang up Masonry to dry for over twenty years in the State of Vermont; but now there is a great mania for secret organizations, to be invested with some secret of which the masses are ignorant.

This institution claims to be a great stickler for the Bible, and by an exegetical interpretation peculiar to itself, and over-riding all common-sense interpretations, endeavors to press it into its service. To fraternize with so many discordant elements one must of necessity, virtually at least, renounce Christianity. I am no alarmist, but the signs of the times admonish us that a second revolution is inevitable if we would preserve our republican institutions intact. Masonry is more anti-Christian, and anti-republican, if possible, than Catholicism.

M. I. Lewis.

Molly Maguires and Masons.

There can be no doubt that the Molly Maguire clan was originated by Irish Freemasons. There are many reasons for believing this. Those who are well informed in regard to the two fraternities can see many points of resemblance. We will only call attention to one feature which both have, and that is the old Masonic plan of having the victims murdered by strangers brought from some distant lodge.

If the reader will make a careful comparison, he will soon perceive that there is not the slightest difference between the two orders, as far as principles are concerned, for both are so grossly immoral as to require the most horrible death penalties to seal the lips of the members and to hold them to their murderous and treasonable work. The Mollies have been more daring in their assassinations, but the Masons have more crimes and blood to answer for.

We now desire to call the reader's attention to the fact that whenever a Masonic cat-paw order gets too rampant the Masonic leaders use the national or State governments and also the troops to bring them to terms. They did this in the case of the Ku-klux and White League.

The Mollies, became too bold. They even made the coal regions of Pennsylvania too hot for their Masonic masters, and forced them to call upon the police and troops of the State to hang a few of their own most unmanageable cat-paw scoundrels.

The poor misguided Irishmen made a great mistake when they concluded to murder all outsiders whom they hated. They did not understand Masonry, and they never dreamed that they occsaionally killed men who belonged to a greater secret gang.

A Masonic Mollie named Kerrigan escaped, a Masonic detective worked up the case, and once more the Masons hold the courts of the coal regions.

E. J. CHALFANT.

Home and Farm.

LEMONS FOR CONSUMPTION.—A correspondent of an English medical journal furnishes the following recipe as a new cure for consumption: Put a dozen whole lemons in cold water and boil until soft (not too soft); roll and squeeze until the juice is all extracted; sweeten the juice enough to be palatable, then drink. Use as many as a dozen a day. Should they cause pain or looseness of the bowels, lessen the quantity, and use five or six a day until better, then begin and use a dozen again. By the time you have used five or six dozen you will begin to gain strength and have an appetite. Of course as you grow better you need not use so many. Follow these directions and we know that you never will regret it if there is any help for you. Only keep it up faithfully. We know of two cases where both the patients were given up by the physicians, and were in the last stages of consumption, yet both were cured by using lemons according to the directions we have stated. One lady in particular was bedridden and very low; had tried everything that money could procure, but all in vain; when, to please a friend, she was finally persuaded to use the lemons. She began to use them in February, and in April she weighed 140 pounds. She is a well woman today, and likely to live as long as any of us.

A SUBSTITUTE FOR RAIN.—M. Paraf, a French scientist, thinks he has discovered a means of avoiding the necessity for rain! Knowing that the air is full of moisture, and that the chloride of calcium would attract and condense it, for cultural purposes, he applied this chloride on sand hills and road-beds, on grass, on all sorts of soils, successfully, and and has ascertained that it may be applied in such proportions, as will produce the irrigation of land more cheaply and efficiently than by means of canals or other methods of securing artificial irrigation. One of M. Parat's applications will produce and retain abundant moisture for three days, when the same amount of water introduced by the present method will evaporate in an hour. He believes that his preparation will not only produce two blades of grass where but one now grows, but that it will render possible fields, meadows and prosperity, where now there is nothing but sand and desert waste.

WHY EGGS ARE SPOILED.—The following is given as the theory why eggs are spoiled and become rotten, by the Journal of the Farm: During a late conversation with one of our egg dealers, he advanced the theory that eggs spoiled because the yellow or yolk came in contact with the membrane between the white and shell, and if eggs were turned occasionally they would keep for an indefinite length of time. He further stated that if a setting hen did not turn her eggs every few days, they would invariably spoil. and fail to hatch. His theory was that so long as there was a portion of the white or albumen between the yellow and the shell, the egg was practically air-tight, but when the yellow came in contact with the shell it adhered to it, and allowed the access of air.

TANSY FOR BOTS IN HORSES.—A correspondent of the department of agriculture says: It appears from remarks made by different writers that none know of any certain remedy. I know of a remedy safe and certain discovered in the following way: About thirty years ago a friend lost by bots a very fine horse. He took from the stomach of the horse about a gill of bots and brought them to my office to experiment upon. He made preparations of every remedy he had heard of, and put some of them into each. Most had no effect, a few affected them slightly, but sage tea more than anything else; that killed them in fifteen hours. He concluded that he would kill them by using nitric acid; but it had no more effect on them than water; the third day they were as lively as when put in. A bunch of tansy was growing by my office. He took a handful of that, bruised it, added a little water, squeezed out the juice and put some in; they were dead in one minute. Since then I have given it to every horse I have seen effected with bots, and have never known it to fail of giving entire relief. My friend had another horse affected with bots, several years later, he gave him the tansy in the morning and a dose of salts in the evening; the next morning he took up from the excretions three half pints of bots.

ICE IN THE SICK ROOM.

Cut a piece of flannel about nine inches square and secure it by a ligature round the mouth of an ordinary tumbler, so as to leave a cup-shaped depression of flannel within the tumbler to about half its depth. In the flannel cup so constructed pieces of ice may be preserved many hours, all the longer if a piece of flannel from four to five inches square be used as a loose cover to the ice cups. Cheap flannel, with comparatively open meshes, is preferable, as the water easily drains through it, and the ice is thus kept quite dry. When good flannel with close texture is employed a small hole must be made in the bottom of the flannel cup, otherwise it holds the water and facilitates the melting of the ice. In a room with a temperature of 60 degrees Farenheit, Dr. Gamgee made the following experiments with four tumblers, placing in each two ounces of ice broken into small pieces: In tumbler No. 1 the ice was loose. It had all melted in two hours and fifty-five minutes. In tumbler No. 2 the ice was suspended in the tumbler in a cup made, as above described, of good Welsh flannel. In five hours and a quarter the flannel cup was more than half filled with water, with some pieces of ice floating in it; in another hour and a quarter the flannel cup was nearly filled with water, and no ice remained. In tumbler No. 3 the ice was suspended in a flannel cup made in the same manner and of the same material as in No. 2; but in No. 3 a hole capable of admitting a quill pen had been made in the bottom of the flannel cup, with the effect of protracting the total liquification of the ice to a period of eight hours and three-quarters. In tumbler No. 4 the ice was placed in a flannel cup, made as above described, of cheap, open flannel, which allowed the water to drain through very readily. Ten hours and ten minutes had elapsed before all this ice had melted.—Lancet.

Masonic Books.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

☞All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Those who wish to know the character of Freemasonry, as shown by its own publications, will find many standard works in the followiug list.

No sensible Mason dares deny that such men as Albert G. Mackey, the great Masonic Lexicographer, and Daniel Sickels, the Masonic author and publisher, are the highest Masonic authority in the United States.

All the books advertised here are used by Masons, but Duncan's Ritual, Allyn's Ritual and Richardson's Monitor, are not publicly acknowledged as Masonic authority, because they tell too much.

SICKELS' FREEMASON'S MONITOR,

CONTAINING the Degrees of Freemasonry embraced in the Lodge, Chapter, Council, and Commandery, embellished with nearly 300 symbolic Illustrations, together with Tactics and Drill of Masonic Knighthood. Also, forms of Masonic Documents, Notes, Songs, Masonic dates, Installations, etc. By D. SICKELS; 32 mo. Tuck. Price. $1.50. Cloth, $1.

GENERAL AHIMAN REZON AND FREEMASON'S GUIDE.

BY DANIEL SICKELS, 33°

The most perfect Masonic Monitor published in the United States. Embellished with nearly 300 Engravings, and Portrait of the Author, Containing Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Appreutice, Fellow-Craft, and Master Mason, with Explanatory Notes and Lectnres; with the Ceremonies of Consecration and Dedication of New Lodges, Installation of Officers, Laying Foundation Stones, Dedication of Masonic Halls, Burial Services, Masonic Calendar, Ritnal for a Lodge of Sorrow, Masonic Trials, etc.
Bound in fine cloth extra, large 12mo..... $2 00

DUNCAN'S MASONIC RITUAL AND MONITOR,

PROFUSELY Illustrated with Explanitory Engravings, and containing the entire Ritual and work of the Order for the Seven Degrees, including the Royal Arch. Scores of Masons have privately admitted that this is a Standard Text-Book in the Lodge, and is strictly correct; bnt publicly it is not acknowledged as authority, though almost every officer of the Lodge makes use of it. Price in cloth. $2.50.

MACKEY'S MANUAL OF THE LODGE.

Or Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, with Ceremonies Relating to Installations, Dedications, Consecrations, Laying of Corner stones, etc. Price, $2.

Allyn's Ritual of Masonry,

ILLUSTRATED by a large number of Engravings, and containing a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, Orange and Odd-fellows' Societies.
Price, $5.00.

MACKEY'S LEXICON OF FREEMASONRY,

CONTAINING a Definition of Terms, Notices of its History, Traditions, and Antiquities, and an Account of all the Rites and Mysteries of the Ancient World. 12 mo,; 526 pages; $3.

MACKEY'S TEXT-BOOK
Of Masonic Jurisprudence,

ILLUSTRATING the Laws of Freemasonry, both written and unwritten. This is the Great Law Book of Freemasonry—570 pages
Price. $2.50.

MACKEY'S MASONIC RITUALIST;

or Monitorial Instruction Book,
BY ALBERT G. MACKEY.

PAST General High Priest of the General Grand Chapter of the United States, Knight of the Eagle and Pelican, Prince of Mercy, etc.
Price, Cloth, $1.25; Tuck, $1.75.

MOORE'S MASONIC TRESTLE BOARD.

THIS work was originally prepared by order of the National Masonic Convention held at Baltimore, Md., in 1843. It is known among Masons everywhere as the "BLUE BOOK," and has long been considered a standard work.
Price. $1.75.

TRUE MASONIC CHART; OR, HIEROGLYPHIC MONITOR.

BY JEREMY L. CROSS, Grand Lecturer.

With a Memoir and Portrait of the Author, Containing all the Emblems explained in the Degrees of entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason. Designed and arranged agreeably to the Lectures.
12mo. Cloth..... $1 50

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry.

A PRACTICAL Guide to the Ceremonies in the Degrees conferred in Masonic Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated edition. In cloth, $1.25: paper, 75 Cts.

Although this Monitor is extensively used in the Lodge, especially in Conferring the higher degrees, it is publicly called an "exposition," and not allowed as authority.

ANTI-MASONIC BOOKS.

(Not our own Publications)
For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO
13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
FOR CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS OF EZRA A. COOK & CO See page 15 of the CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

☞All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent. discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Freemasonry Self Condemned.

BY REV. J. W. BAIN.

We now have a small supply of this deservedly popular book in paper covers. Price 20 cents each by mail.

Elder Stearns' Books.

Stearns' Inquiry into the Nature and Tendency of Masonry
With an Appendix.

338 Pages, in Cloth..... 60 cents
" " Papor..... 40 "

Stearns' Letters on Masonry.

Showing the antagonism between Freemasonry and the Christian Religion,
Price, 30 cents.

Stearns' Review of Two Masonic Addresses.

In this scathing review the lying pretentions of the order are clearly shown.
Price, 10 cents.

Lovington's Key to Masonry.

This is Rev. Mr. Lovington's last, and in the judgment of its author, best work on Masonry.
The contents of the Eleventh chapter are thus startling:
"Knights of the Golden Circle—Graphic account of them by a seceding Knight, and remarks thereon, showing the identity of the order with Masonry—Quotations from Sir Walter Scott."
This work is thrilling in statement, and powerful in argument Price $1.38. 428 pages

Light on Freemasonry

BY ELDER D. BERNARD

TO WHICH IS APPENDED A

Revelation of the Mysteries of Odd-fellowship by a Member of the Craft.

The whole containing over five hundred pages lately revised and republished. Price $2.00

The first part of the above work, Light on Freemasonry, 416 pages in paper cover, will be sent post paid on receipt of $1.

FOR SALE BY
United Brethren Publishing House,
DAYTON, O.
and by
EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Ave, CHICAGO

Finney on Masonry.

BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE $1.00,
CHEAP EDITION,

Twenty-five dollars per hundred, by express and not less than 25 copies at that rate,
BY MAIL, POST-PAID:

Per doz..... $3 75.
Single copy,..... 35 c

GOOD TEMPLARISM EXPOSED.

Obligations, of the Initiatory Fidelity, Charity, and Royal Virtue Degrees.

This is a small book containing only the Obligations and some of the Odes of the Good Templars.

Single Copy, Post paid, ... 10cts
Per D. z. 75
Per 1 by Express,..... $4.50

Bernard's Appendix to Light on Masonry,

Showing the Character of the Institution by its enormities and penalties 25 cents.

ODD-FELLOWSHIP

JUDGED BY ITS OWN UTTERANCES,

Its Doctrine and Practice examined in the light of God's Word.

BY REV. J. H. BROCKMAN.

This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-Fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. It was originally published in German.
Price, bound in Boards, 75 cents Paper Covers 40 cents.
GERMAN EDITION, Entitled "Christian and ——." Paper Covers 50 cents each

HOW TO DEFEAT

Masonic Scoundrelism

Within the Court House.

BY J. H. H. WOODWARD,

This pamphlet as its title indicates is designed to put all non-Masons on their guard against lodge trickery and especially to show how to meet and successfully cope with Freemasonry in our Courts
Single Copy, Post Paid, ... 10 cts.
Per Doz. 75 cts. Per 100 by Express $5.00

Every Freemason a Blasphemer.

As proved by the Highest Masonic Authority.

BY J. H. H. WOODWARD.

By quotations from a score of masonic works of unquestioned authority, the fact of the blasphemous ceremonies and teachings of Freemasonry are so clearly demonstrated as to make it evident that every initiate is of necessity a blasphemer.
10 cents each. 75 cents per Doz. by mail;
By Express, per 100 $5 00,

The Christian Cynosure

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, AUGUST 2, 1877.

The National Convention.

What are the friends of reform doing for the success of the Dayton Convention, October 23d? Less than twelve weeks remain until we gather —little time enough to get thoroughly in order for the greatest convention the reform has known. Those to whom the preparatory work has been entrusted have not been idle. The hall is engaged; the State of Ohio districted and workers supplied for most of the State; able speakers are engaged; many delegates have been elected; and a strong general committee is appointed, composed of Dr. George, President of the Convention, Bishop Wright and the General Agent. So much is done for the success of the meeting, but what of the individual friends of the cause throughout the country? Are they making such preparations as will enable them to attend in person or by delegate from church or local society? Are they reckoning up the increase of the year and setting apart the Lord's portion? Are they estimating how much of this portion they should give to this reform? Are they informing their neighbors and interesting them in the work as far as possible? Are they prepared to offer suggestions to the general committee in regard to the arrangements of the meeting that will add to its success? Are they gaining any experience that will be worth reporting? Are they studying any particular feature of the reform so as to present some new idea which may be practically worked out to its advantage? These and other practical hints will occur to any mind that is active in promoting the truth against the secret lodge. A wide field for discussion, for suggestion and for earnest work is presented when we speak of the relations of the reform to our courts of law; to the South, and especially the colored race; to the trade unions and the working classes generally; to the churches of Jesus Christ, and especially those whose efforts are directed to the exclusion of the lodge from their folds; and not least, what shall be done to arouse the sleeping conscience of thousands now in the lodge and secure their release from its enchantments—how shall the noble company of seceders be increased? These practical questions of general interest will probably come before the Convention for earnest discussion in some form. The time of the Convention will be too short and valuable to be taken up with the vapidity of persons who talk to fill up the time, aimlessly and without preparation; but men who have got something to say, who have filled themselves with facts and arguments, and are bursting with ideas are always welcome.

From this hour let preparation begin, if it has not begun already. Even those who hold their talents at so low a rate that they are satisfied to only sit and vote may find some active employment for the furtherance of the reform, if they but give prayer and thought to it. A willing mind will find opportunities for work.

The Ounce of Prevention.

It is the first duty of our governments, National and State, to consider the causes of the desolating "strike" which has fallen like a thunderbolt on the business interests of the United States, and the means of preventing such earthquakes and stagnations in future.

Three times in the Old Testament, to wit: Lev. xxvi. 34, and xxxv. 43, and 2 Chron. xxxvi. 21, the desolation of the soil and cities of Palestine is attributed to violations of the Sabbath. "Then shall the land enjoy her Sabbaths; as long as it lieth desolate, because it rested not while ye were upon it." Until human nature changes, like causes will produce like results along our lines of railway traffic, as well as upon Judean hills.

The secret workmen's unions fix and fasten on the bright but ignorant train-boy, fresh from the farm or street-side, and, in the midst of scenic pomp which he has seen nowhere except in the circus, he is initiated and sworn till all ideas of veneration, religion, morals and the sanctity of oaths becomes a sea of swimming fancies before his bewildered mind, and he is robbed of sound ideas of religion and government. His lodge, for all the "unions" have lodges, consumes all the time and brains he can spare from his engine, switch, or brake, and hence our railroad men become mere caged beasts, to be turned out by the wretches who tame and handle them on their employers and the government of the roads.

Meanwhile let our communities and churches also seriously consider our condition? The mobs are quelled, not quieted; and resurgam is written on the tombless grave of every one who has fallen by bullets and bayonets, and he will "rise again" in his son and his son's son. Physical force settles nothing. Let us counsel and pray while we may save ourselves and our children.

—Our foreign correspondent, Mr. B. T. Pettengill, resumes his pen with new vigor. No reader who has any natural or acquired refinement of taste can begin his letter in this number and lay it down before completing it. Its pure, clear English, its minuteness of observation and precision of description make one feel at its close as if they had seen Germany in a kaleidoscope.

Dr. Quint.

The New Bedford (Mass.) Standard of the 16th inst. reports a late meeting of the Old Colony Conference of Congregational churches at Wareham, Mass. at which Rev. Alonzo H. Quint, D. D., was elected a delegate, with Rev. A. H. Heath, to the "National Congregational Council," to meet in October, at Detroit.

We lately (June 28) published some remarks made by Dr. Quint in New Bedford in January, 1872, in which he remarked that he was "proud of being the Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Masons, and anybody who don't like it can't help himself." A brief historical statement will help to the understanding of this remarkable speech. The National Congregational Council, which met in Oberlin November 15, 1871, was called by Quint as chairman of the National Congregational Committee. At that meeting he was elected the permanent secretary of that national body, though it was known that he was at the time holding the office of Grand Chaplain, and had, only two months before (Sept. 18), officiated in that capacity at a Masonic cornerstone laying. Although meeting in Oberlin, a center of the reform against the secret lodge worships; though attended by the venerable Finney, who had just issued one of the strongest protests against this abomination, in his book on Freemasonry; though many of its members were strongly opposed to the lodge, and were informed beforehand of the effort that would be made to swamp any Congregational protest against secret orders; though one association in Michigan, as we understand, sent, by the hand of the veteran George Thompson, a protest against the lodge, yet every intimation that there was such a system endangering the churches was studiously suppressed, and Quint was elected secretary by the votes even of professed opponents of secretism, who excused their action by saying that he had nothing more to do with the lodge—had outgrown it. How greatly they were deceived the New Bedford speech of January following, two months from the Oberlin meeting, is evidence enough, if nothing is said of the progress of the reform among the Congregational churches since. Whatever action the Detroit meeting may take which will affect the reform, for or against, is, of course, only in the nature of advice. The real work must be done in the individual churches, and here alone can the victory be gained and the testimony and practice of the denomination be set against this enemy of all righteousness.

—The ethical distinction between privacy and secrecy are always confused intentionally by secretists, who have nothing to lose but everything to gain by confounding all moral distinctions. We commend to every reader the careful and logical article in this number from the pen of Rev. W. P. McNary, President of the Indiana State Association, for a clearly drawn argument on this topic.

—After preaching at Marengo on Sabbath, July 22, Rev. H. H. Hinman returned to his home quite unwell, though not confined to his room. Let prayer be offered by all the brethren that he may be strengthened and restored by the Great Healer, and again take up his important work.

—In this connection, it is proper that the minds of the friends in Illinois be stirred up to more self-denial in sustaining the State work. But few have given or pledged anything for this year, and the donations for this object are falling off considerably from previous years. Make this a subject of special prayer and effort and let the contributions for the Illinois fund be so increased as to entirely pay off Bro. Hinman for his past services.

—Chiefly on account of the great strike and the accompanying excitement, Past Master Ronayne did not work the degrees in Aurora last week. A large meeting of workingmen assembled in the city hall on Monday evening, whom he briefly addressed in a happy manner. Meetings of the same character were held for two or three subsequent evenings. The extensive car shops of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy road are located at Aurora, and naturally great excitement existed among the workmen. Mr. Ronayne will probably visit Indiana during the early part of this month, and Belvidere, Ill., about the 13th inst.

—An interesting item in connection with the reform is in the record of expositions by Mr. Ronayne. Since December 1, 1876, he has publicly worked some one of the three degrees of Blue-lodge Masonry seventy-five times, and over thirty thousand people have listened to his addresses.

—The Humboldt Times of Eureka, California, of July 14th notices the lectures of Rev. Henry Cogswell at Rohnerville, Humboldt county in the northern part of the State. As the Times publishes nearly half a column of lodge notices its temper toward the California State lecturer may be imagined. He delivered three lectures, but the only opinion of them ventured in the Times is contained in the following:

"Wonder if the elder ever heard of a man named Morgan? This person, it is said, exposed the secret work of Masonry, and some how or other it is said he took a trip to parts unknown."

Two Deaths.—The last United Presbyterian briefly reports the deaths of Rev. R. H. Pollock, D. D., of Wooster, O., and of Rev. Robert Scott, of the Jane Street United Presbyterian church, New York. Dr. Pollock died very suddenly, it is supposed, of apoplexy. He was one of the most efficient ministers of the denomination, a devoted servant of Christ and an earnest reformer. He was secretary of the National Christian Temperance organization formed at Pittsburgh two years ago, and was State secretary of the National Reform Association of Philadelphia, while he actively co-operated in our own reform. His loss will be deeply felt in Ohio. Of Mr. Scott we know little, except that, as pastor of the Jane Street Church, he endeavored to maintain faithfully the Christian testimony of the United Presbyterians against the lodge, and for this endured much trial through lodge persecution. He was enabled through grace to maintain his position, and fell with his armor on. A paralytic stroke, while engaged in religious services, resulted fatally in a few days.

News of the Week

THE STRIKE IN CHICAGO.

The great strike panic reached Chicago on Monday of last week when a few railroad hands left work in the afternoon and at night. The next day their numbers increased but nothing was done but to stop a few freight trains. The employees in several shops thinking it best to strike while the iron was hot, applied to the companies for a restoration of former rates of wages where a reduction had been made, but only the Northwestern road restored the 10 per cent. reduction of July 15th. The others determined to wait the return of quiet rather than arrange wages by compulsion in the face of a panic. The Communists held a great meeting on Market street on Monday evening at which the most inflammatory speeches were made. On Tuesday Communist committees gathered several mobs of boys from ten to twenty years old, with a few grown men and strikers who marched with impunity through the streets armed with lath and sticks. They visited many of the foundries and manufacturing establishments in the central part of the city ordering the men to stop work with threats, and were in most instances obeyed. At night another mass meeting was broken up by the police and several arrests made. Wednesday the march was resumed with greater force, the number of idle men being increased, for manufacturing business had largely ceased, proprietors and men choosing to close up for a day or two rather than risk a fight with the mob. The police were active to-day in dispersing the mobs and making arrests while the two regiments of State militia quartered here were under arms and volunteer companies were forming. Toward night a fight with the mob resulted in bloodshed, several rioters being killed and wounded. Thursday the fight was continued near the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad tracks west of the river. Two passenger trains were stoned and one run off the track. The police were at length obliged to fire on the mob and all the military were ordered out together with a few companies of United States regulars halted here on their way east from the plains. During the day some 34 rioters were reported killed or mortally wounded while many estimate the killed alone at 50. A hundred or more were wounded, while many of the police force were injured with missles or pistol shots. This fight ended the riot though crowds gathered frequently to be dispersed by the police or troops during Friday and Saturday. On Friday business began to return to its former channels and the movement of all trains on most of the roads on Saturday restored the usual activity.

IN THE COUNTRY the strike extended to Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York, Missouri, Indiana, Illinois, Mississippi, New Jersey and Michigan, while it was feared it might also become general in Canada. Severe fighting and loss of life occurred at Reading and Buffalo, while Pittsburgh was practically in the hands of the mob until turned over to the troops. The vigorous measures of Governor Hartranft and General Brown cowed the mobs and with several thousand troops the trains were run on all the roads from that city on Saturday. The strikers had it all their own way in St. Louis during the week until the arrival of military both sides of the river compelled obedience to law. On Monday business had been largely resumed all through the country.

LATEST FROM THE STRIKE.

Chief Arthur, of the Brotherhood of Engineers, said the other day that the strike should not end until the railroads succumbed. The latest reports show that this powerful order is probably about to join the war. The Times of the 31st says:

"At a late hour last night the air was filled with reports and rumors of further railway troubles in consequence of a strike of engineers on all the leading railroads in the West. One report, apparently well authenticated, as it came from railroad men who are usually thoroughly posted, was to the effect that the engineers on the eastern division of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad struck at six o'clock last evening, and that in consequence all passenger trains out of the city on that line will suffer delay if not suspension to-day.

Another report, based upon the authority of a well-informed lawyer of this city, is that a general strike of engineers on nearly all of the roads leading out of this city, except perhaps the Milwaukee and St. Paul, will be inaugurated at noon to-day. These reports are given for what they are worth. They have their origin from sources that proved to be well posted in relation to the initiative movements of the strike upon the different roads last week.

FOREIGN.

—The Turkish army from Montenegro, under Sulieman Pasha, was defeated last week at Karah-Buhar. He lost ten guns and a large number of prisoners, and retreated toward Adrianople. Twelve thousand Russians are at Osman Bazar. The Russians also occupy Kasan, at the foot of the northern slope of the Balkan mountains. Fighting has been going on since Thursday between the Russians and the forces of Raouf Pasha, near Eski-Saghra, south of the Balkans. A second Russian army corps invested Silistria last week.—It is believed the Russians have completed their line around Rutschuk, which has been advanced in some places near enough for them to throw shells as far as the inner line of fortifications, but the actual siege had not begun on Saturday. Reinforcements have been sent from the czarowitch's army around Rutschuk to join the Russians before Plevna. —A special from Vienna, dated July 27, says that the peace rumors still circulate, and everybody is convinced they are the result of an understanding between three great powers. It is felt that a moment for action is approaching. The barbarities committed by Mohammedans at all points, as well as by Russians and Bulgarians, will no longer allow an unconcerned view of the position of the unfortunate Christian population. Austro-Hungary, in particular, is strongly interested. The schemes attributed to England of occupying, first, Gallipoli, and next, perhaps, Constantinople, do not preclude the belief in an early peace.—An old merchant ship, the Vesta, had an engagement off Kurtenje, lasting over five hours, with a Turkish monitor, which was much damaged by the Russian shells, one of which burst in her turret. The Vesta had her rudder injured, and went to Sebastopol for repairs. Two officers and nine sailors were killed, and six officers, among them the commander, and seventeen sailors were wounded. One officer has since died.

—Bismarck recently, to a deputation of Protestant clergy of Wurtemburg, spoke hopefully concerning the ecclesiastical conflict. He said the government, having enacted the necessary laws, quietly stood on the defensive, and could afford to wait for the Papacy to accept the situation.

Front view of the CARPENTER DONATION, a fine, stone front building No. 221 West Madison St., Chicago, now occupied by the National Christian Association. The fee simple will be given by Mr. Carpenter if other friends raise $30,000 by Apr. 1st 1878, in cash or "good, negotiable, interest-bearing notes" to establish a Publishing House and headquarters of the reform. Send donations to the Treasurer at 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The National Christian Association.

PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.—Pres. H. H. George, D. D., W. Geneva, Ohio.

SECRETARIES.—Rev. W. H. French, D. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; H. L. Kellogg, Chicago.

PRESIDENT OF THE CORPORATE BODY.—Rev. J. B. Walker, D. D., Wheaton, Ill.

VICE PRESIDENT. — Philo Carpenter, Chicago.

DIRECTORS.—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, Archibald Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, H. L. Kellogg, E. Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, J. B. Walker, A. D. Freeman, Thos. Hodge.

RECORDING SEC'Y.—Thos. Hodge, Chicago.

COR. SEC'Y AND GENERAL AGENT.—J. P. Stoddard, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TREASURER.—H L. Kellogg, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The object of this Association is:—

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the Churches of Christ from being depraved; to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption"

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform to aid the Association in either of these ways: (1) to establish a Publishing House and Head-quarters in Chicago; (2) to carry on the general work; (3) to maintain the State agents. All donations, (drafts or P. O. orders) should be sent to the Treasurer; general correspondence, etc., direct to the Corresponding Secretary

FORM OF BEQUEST.—I give and bequeath to the National Christian Association, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, the sum of——dollars for the purposes of said Association, and for which the receipt of its Treasurer for the time being shall be a sufficient discharge.

State Auxiliary Associations.

CONNECTICUT.

President, J. A. Conant, Willimantic.
Secretary, D. J. Ellsworth, Windsor.
Treasurer, C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS

President, S. B. Allen, Westfield.
Rec. Secretary and Treasurer, H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
Lecturers, H. H. Hinman, Wheaton, and J. P. Richards, Bowensburg, Hancock Co.

INDIANA.

Pres't, W. P. McNary, Bloomington.
Rec. Sec'y, H Teter, Westfield.
Treas., Peter Rich, Westfield.
Lecturer and Cor. Sec'y S. L Cook, Albion.

IOWA.

President, M. S. Drury, Western, Li n Co.
Cor. Sec'y, M. R. Dru y, " " "
Rec. Sec'y, E. J. Grinnell, Charles City.
Treasurer, John Dorcas, Shiloh.

KANSAS.

President, H. T. Besse, Sterling, Rice Co.
Secretary, J. Dodds, Winchester.
Treasurer, C. A. Sexton, Topeka.

MICHIGAN.

President, H. D. Inman, Coldwater.
Cor. Sec'y, C. B. Remington, Fentonville
Rec. Sec'y, E W. Bruce, Hickory Corners
Treasurer, C. Quick, Weston.
Lecturer and Agent, D. P. Rathbun, Hickory Corners.

Communications for the Agent concerning lectures or the interests of the cause may be addressed to, or in care of, E. W. Bruce.

MISSOURI.

President, N. E. Gardner, Avalon.
Cor. Sec'y, A. D. Thomas, Arbela
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Carpenter.
Treasurer, Wm. Beauchamp, Avalon.
Lecturer, E. G. Cooper, Albany Gentry Co.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

President, J. F. Browne, Lewiston, Me.
Secretary, S. C. Kimball, Center Strafford.
Treasurer. E. Smith, Center Strafford.

NEW YORK.

President, L. N. Stratton, Syracuse.
Secretary, W. A. Sellew, Rochester.
Treasurer, M. Merrick, Syracuse.
Lecturers—L. N. Stratton, Syracuse; Woodruff Post, Rochester; A. F. Curry, Almond.

OHIO.

President, H. H. George, W. Geneva.
Treasurer, J. G. Mattoon, West Unity
Sec. and Lecturer, Wm. Dillon, Dayton.

PENNSYLVANIA.

President, A. L. Post, Montrose.
Cor. Sec'y, N. Callender, Green Grove.
Treasurer, W. B. Bertels, Wilksbarre.
Rec. Sec'y, and Lecturer, J. W. Raynor, Montrose.

WISCONSIN.

President, E. L. Harris, Delavan.
Secretary, U. D. Lathrop, Millard.
Treasurer; Joshua Parish, Delavan

Address of Anti-masonic Lecturers.

General Agent and Lecturer, J. P. STODDARD, Christian Cynosure Office, Chicago.
For STATE LECTURERS State Ass'n list.
Others who will lecture when desired:—
C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
R. B. Taylor, Summerfield, O.
N. Callender, Starrucca, Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
P. Hurless, Polo, Ill.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Mercer Co., Ill.
J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
Josiah McCaskey, Fancy Creek, Wis
C. F. Hawley, Damascoville, Ohio.
W. M. Givens, Center Point, Ind.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
D. S. Caldwell, Clyde, Sandusky Co., O
A. Mayn, Promise City, Wayne Co., Mich.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
C. F. Wiggins, Angola, Ind
E Ronayne, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.
W. M. Love, Baker, St. Clair Co. Mo.
A D. Freeman, Downers Grove, Ill.
Jas. Springer, Springerton. Ill.
A. D. Carter, Deersville, Harrison Co O.
James McCleery, Monroe, Iowa.
R. Faurot, Kendallville, Ind.
J. W. Barlow, Ridgetown, Ont., C. W.

The Home Circle.

Rest in the Lord.

"Rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for him."

Rest in the Lord, and wait for him,
Is God's own balm for sorrow;
Rest in the Lord—leave, saith our God,
The burden of the morrow.

Rest in the Lord, and wait for him,
Is God's own cure for fretting;
Rest in the Lord, and find his Word
His peace in thee begetting.

Rest in the Lord, though faint and weak,
By foes and fears surrounded;
Faith in his name can ne'er bring shame,—
Shall never be confounded.

Rest in the Lord, and all that comes
Thou'lt find his will intended;
So shall his peace bid conflict cease,
By his own love befriended.

W. Poole Balfern.

Brotherly Love.

The duty of brotherly love is imperative. We are to "love as brethren," as brethren of the same family, or as Christian brethren. "To be kindly affectioned one to another with brotherly love," or in love of the brethren, and to be "of the same mind one towards another," is to answer Christ's prayer, "that all may be one." The measure of Christ's love to us, is the measure of our love to the brethren; as the measure of the Father's love to Christ, is the measure of Christ's love to us. "As the Father hath loved me, so have I loved you;" and "this is my commandment, that ye love one another, as I have loved you." So important is this holy affection, that should we "give all our goods to feed the poor, and our bodies to be burned," and have it not, "it would profit us nothing." Its possession is one of the strongest evidences of our love to God. "He that loveth God, loveth his brother also," and "he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?"

This is the badge by which true Christians are to be distinguished. Some are distinguished by wealth or learning or sect. Military men and distinguished officials are known by some peculiar insignia. Members of secret associations are known by some badge of their order. But "brotherly love," by which Christians are distinguished, scorns all these distinctions, and forces the world to say, "See how these Christians love," for "by this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one for another."

Brotherly love is frequently periled by the spirit of selfishness—advancing our own personal interests at the expense of others. This spirit is inborn in human nature, requiring no ordinary degree of grace to eliminate it. It was seen in the apostles before Pentecost. Two of the brethren were so anxious for official position, that they employed their mother to electioneer for them. But the fire of Pentecost—perfect love—so burned this spirit out of them that it was never seen afterwards.

True grace is on the ebb, self-seeking is at the flood, and its overflow sweeps away charity. This spirit is not rare in the ministry. Place seeking is the curse of the times. Just as though the church of Christ is the place where the "loaves and fishes" are to be dealt out to men of brains without piety. Men who scorn to "save souls with fear, pulling them out of the fire," as not sufficiently dignified; men who claim to be teachers, not humble, toiling soul-savers. In our own church it is seen in electioneering for the episcopacy, editorships, agencies, secretaryships, or anything under heaven but soul-saving in the trenches. In the conflict brotherly love is slaughtered. A Pentecost to such men would be a God-send to the church. It would rid them of unholy ambition, and fill them with a love which would "esteem others better than themselves."

Brotherly love is periled by ignoring personal responsibility. The church is a co-partnership. No person can of right claim to be a partner, receiving his full share of profits, while he assumes no responsibility. There are thousands who join the church, share its profits, and claim their full proportion of its honors, and yet feel as little personal responsibility in sustaining the holy cause as the man in the moon. The church claims more than mere membership; she needs the consecrated purse, the sanctified tongue, and the purified heart of each member of the firm. Any disposition to act contrary to these high and holy demands creates friction, engenders strife, encourages indifference, fosters disunion, and will, if persisted in, put an end to charity.

Brotherly love may be promoted by cultivating in ourselves a Christ-like spirit. As Christ comes in, this earthly, devilish spirit—selfishness—goes out. When Christ is fully formed within, no place remains for self-seeking. We sink self and elevate Christ. No matter what becomes of us if Christ can be glorified. With many it is no matter whose interests are periled, provided mine are secured; no matter who sinks, if I float; no matter who goes down, so that I go up. Such a spirit is as unlike Christ, as Christ is unlike Belial; and if persisted in, perils every spiritual interest, and puts an end to brotherly love.

If we cannot fight with the army let us not create insubordination in the ranks. The forces of hell are united; we cannot afford to be otherwise. The alien hosts of earth are united against Christ and spiritual Christianity; surely the saints must be one. Let us follow after charity, seek peace and pursue it evermore.—Christian Standard.

It is sometimes truthfully said that some men are willing to go to heaven providing they can ride on a "Masonic goat," but it so happens that the goats are all going to the other place, and he that trusteth himself to such a method of traveling will certainly be disappointed. —Brethren at Work.

Camp-Meetings.

The camp-meeting is an institution of great antiquity. The first mention made of it is in Lev. 23: 34. "Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, The fifteenth day of this seventh month shall be the feast of the tabernacles for seven days unto the Lord." "Ye shall dwell in booths seven days; all that are Israelites born shall dwell in booths." v, 42. "And ye shall keep it a feast unto the Lord seven days in the year. It shall be a statute forever in your generations: ye shall celebrate it in the seventh month."—v, 41. The seventh month of the Jewish year was the month Tisri, corresponding to our September. Their tents were made of the thick boughs of trees.

This feast was one of the three great religious festivals of the Jews. It was instituted to commemorate their passage through the wilderness. It lasted eight days, but the first and last were the most solemn. They returned thanks to God for the fruits of the earth they had gathered, and were forcibly reminded that they were but pilgrims in the earth.

The modern camp-meeting is an American institution. Its origin was providential. It commenced at a sacramental service held in a Presbyterian church on Red River, Ky., in the year 1799. The pastor, Rev. Mr. McGready, was assisted by two brothers, zealous evangelists, John and William McGee; the one a Presbyterian, the other a Methodist—and also by Rev. Mr. Hoge, also a Presbyterian minister. The Methodist preached the first sermon with great liberty and power. He was followed by others who also spoke in the Spirit. Under the preaching of Rev. Mr. Hoge especially, many of the people were affected to tears, and one woman broke through all restraint and shouted aloud the praises of God. The excitement ran high; Rev. Wm. McGee without seeming to know what he did, left his seat and sat upon the floor. John sat trembling under the power of God. William was expected to preach, but he arose and told the people that so overpowering were his feelings, that he could not preach, but earnestly exhorted the people to surrender their hearts to God. Sobs and outcries were heard on every hand, and many experienced the pardoning love of God. The news spread like wild-fire. The people flocked in from all directions, bringing in their covered wagons, provisions and bedding. Thus spontaneously, an encampment was formed. So great was the good evidently accomplished at this meeting that others were appointed soon after in different parts of that region of country. Many from all classes were converted at these meetings. Experimental piety took a deep root in the hearts of the people. So camp-meetings were adopted by aggressive Christians as an efficient means of grace.

At these gatherings have been manifested some of the greatest displays of saving power ever witnessed since the day of Pentecost. In these early meetings, at the outset, the Presbyterians and Methodists united. At the Cabin Creek meeting a Presbyterian minister who labored in it zealously for the salvation of souls, estimated the numbers present at twenty thousand. The scene is represented as awful beyond description. One who was present says: "Few if any escaped without being affected. Such as tried to run from it were frequently struck on the way, or impelled by some alarming signal to return. Great numbers fell on the third night; and to prevent their being trodden under foot by the multitude they were collected together and laid out in order."

At the Cane Ridge camp-meeting the same writer says: "The number that fell at this meeting was reckoned at about three thousand, among whom were several Presbyterian ministers." J. B. Finley says of this meeting that it is impossible "to convey anything like an adequate idea of the sublimity and grandeur of the scene. Twenty thousand persons tossed to and fro, like the tumultuous waves of the sea in a storm, swept down like the trees of the forests under the blasts of the tornado, was a sight which my own eyes witnessed, but which neither my pen nor my tongue can describe."

Meetings so owned of God were of course opposed by the opposers of God's work. But camp-meetings have won their way, and secured a position among the recognized means of grace. Camp-meetings should be kept to their original design, the salvation of souls. They are in great danger of being perverted into a means of pleasure. A locomotive on the track is powerful for good, off the track it is powerful for evil. It is so with camp-meetings. Take away the religious element and let the ruling motive be a love of recreation, and their influence will be pernicious in the extreme. They may make converts, but they will be of that sort who are lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God. They will resemble that ancient Feast of backslidden Israel, when the people sat down to eat and to drink and rose up to play.—Ex. 32: 6. The religion of Jesus Christ makes those who enjoy it truly happy; and they do not need croquet grounds, or boat courses, or plays to make their religious gatherings attractive. The center of attraction should be the cross of Christ. The object—the one object should be to promote the unworldly religion of Jesus in its purity.

With the lovers of pleasure will be associated the lovers of money. Where men are willing to pay for the gratification of their appetites, they will find those who will cater to their appetites for the pay. Hence there is danger that camp-meetings will become, like the great fashionable summer resorts—places where under the pretext of religion sharp men go to make money and the foolish go to spend money. * * To such gatherings the saints of God should give no countenance.—B. T. Roberts in the Earnest Christian.

The Need of Rest.

Do not devote all your time to action, but reserve a certain portion of it for meditation upon eternity. We see Jesus Christ inviting his disciples to go apart, in a desert place, and rest awhile, after their return from the cities where they had been to announce his religion. How much more necessary is it for us to approach the source of all virtue, that we revive our declining faith and charity, when we return from the busy scenes of life, where men speak and act as if they had never known that there is a God! We should look upon prayer as the remedy for our weaknesses, the rectifier of our faults. He who was without sin prayed constantly; how much more ought we, who are sinners, to be faithful in prayer!

Even the exercise of charity is often a snare to us. It calls us to certain occupations that dissipate the mind, and that may degenerate into mere amusement. It is for this reason that St. Chrysostom says that nothing is so important as to keep an exact proportion between the interior source of virtue and the external practice of it; else, like the foolish virgins, we shall find that the oil in our lamps is exhausted when the Bridegroom comes. —Fenelon.

Children's Corner.

Not too Young.

I'm not too young to sin,
I'm not too young to die;
I'm not too little to begin
A life of faith and joy.

Jesus, I love thy name;
From evil set me free;
And ever keep thy feeble lamb
Who puts his trust in thee.

—Baptist W. Noel.

Hold on, Boys!

Hold on to your tongue when you are just ready to swear, lie or speak harshly, or use any improper word.

Hold on to your hand when you are about to pinch, strike, scratch, steal or do any improper act.

Hold on to your foot when you are on the point of kicking, running away from study or pursuing the path of error, shame or crime.

Hold on to your temper when you are angry, excited or imposed upon or others are angry with you.

Hold on to your heart when evil associates seek your company and invite you to join in their games, mirth and revelry.

Hold on to your good name at all times, for it is of more value than gold, high places, or fashionable attire.

Hold on to truth, for it will serve well, and do you throughout eternity.

Hold on to virtue—it is above all price to you, in all times and places.

Hold on to your good character, for it is, and ever will be, your best wealth.

How the Oyster Builds His Shell.

The body of an oyster is a poor weak thing, apparently incapable of doing anything at all; yet what a marvelous house an oyster builds around his delicate frame! When the oyster is first born, he is a very simple, delicate dot, as it were, and yet he is born with his two shells upon him. For some unknown reason, he always fixes himself on his round shell, never on his flat shell; and being once fixed he begins to grow, but he only grows in summer. Inspect an oyster shell closely, and it will be seen that it is marked with distinct lines. As the rings we observe in the section of the trunk of a tree denote years of growth, so does the marking of an oyster tell us how many years he has passed in his "bed" at the bottom of the sea.

Suppose an oyster was born June 15, 1870; he would go on growing up to the first line we see well marked; he would then stop for the winter. In the summer of 1871 he would more than double his size. In 1872 he would add to this house. In 1873 and 1874 he would again go on building, till he was dredged up in the middle of his work in 1875, when he would be five and a half years. The way in which an oyster builds his shell is a pretty sight. I have watched it frequently. The beard or fringe of an oyster is not only his breathing organ—i. e., his lungs—but his feeding organ, by which he conveys the food to his complicated mouth with his four lips.

When the warm, calm days of June come, the oyster opens his shell, and by means of his fringe, begins building an additional story to his house. This he does by depositing very fine particles of carbonate of lime, till they at last form a substance as thin as silver paper and exceedingly fragile; then he adds more and more, till at last the new shell is at least as hard as the old shell. When oysters are growing in their shells they must be handled very carefully, as the new growth of shell will cut like broken glass; and a wound on a finger from an oyster-shell is often very troublesome. —Frank Buckland.

A Goose Battles a Bull.

A heavy-throated bull, near Middletown, N. Y., well known for his fierceness, accidentally stepped on one of a brood of goslings recently which a stately gander was holding watch and guard over with great solicitude. Straightway the gander attacked the bull, and seizing him by the tail with his beak, his wings lashed the animal's flanks with the greatest fury. In vain the bull wheeled around to reach his antagonist; the gander wheeled with him, all the while retaining his hold upon the bull's tail, and showering blows with his powerful wings with telling effect upon the bull's legs, until he fairly roared with pain and terror. At last the gander, apparently thinking that his adversary had sufficient punishment, let go his hold, and the bull took to his heels with the liveliest speed, only stopping when he reached the farther corner of the field.

Puzzle Drawer.

ANAGRAM.

Uamd Lumler, no a mersums ady,
Kedra het eadowm weset thiw ahy.

Neathbe reh rotn ath wolged het eawlth
Fo plesim tybeau dan ticrus eahlth.

Ginsing, hes thgwrou, dan reh ryrem egel
Het ockm-ribd oedech omfr ish eter.

Susie Baldridge.

Varick, N. Y., July 10, 1877.

J. C. Duncan of Pittsburgh, Pa., answers the puzzle in July 25th: "The Holy Bible."

The Sabbath School.

LESSON XXXII.—August 12, 1877—PAUL AND SILAS IN PRISON.

SCRIPTURE—Acts 16: 22-34. Commit 28-34 Primary vs., 31, 32.

22. And the multitude rose up together against them; and the magistrates rent off their clothes, and commanded to beat them.

23. And when they had laid many stripes upon them, they cast them into prison, charging the jailer to keep them safely:

24. Who, having received such a charge, thrust them into the inner prison, and made their feet fast in the stocks.

25. And at midnight Paul and Silas prayed, and sang praises unto God: and the prisoners heard them.

26. And suddenly there was a great earthquake, so that the foundations of the prison were shaken: and immediately all the doors were opened, and every one's bands were loosed.

27. And the keeper of the prison awaking out of his sleep, and seeing the prison doors open, he drew out his sword, and would have killed himself, supposing that the prisoners had been fled.

28. But Paul cried with a loud voice, saying, Do thyself no harm for we are all here.

29. Then he called for a light and sprang in, and came trembling, and fell down before Paul and Silas.

30. And brought them out, and said, Sirs, what must I do to be saved?

31. And they said, Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house.

32. And they spake unto him the word of the Lord, and to all that were in his house.

33 And he took them the same hour of the night and washed their stripes; and was baptized, he and all his, straightway.

34. And when he had brought them into his house, he set meat before them, and rejoiced, believing in God with all his house.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"And he hath put a new song in my mouth, even praise unto our God; many shall see it and fear, and shall trust in the Lord."—Ps. 40: 3.

TOPIC.—God is able to deliver.

HOME READINGS.

M. Ps. 31: 1-22....The Lord Delivereth.
T. Ps. 105: 1-45.... Delivereth and Careth for His People.
W. Dan. 6: 1-28 .. Delivered from Lions.
Th. Acts 5: 16-42....Delivered from Prison.
F. Acts 12: 1-25 ..Delivered from Prison.
S. Acts 27: 14-44 .. Delivered from the Sea.
S. Heb. 2: 1-18. ..Delivers from Temptation.

When the Gospel does its effective work and drives the evil spirit out of men, then the wicked are apt to charge that its disciples are making "trouble." The sure way of knowing that the devil is hurt is through the false complaints he makes concerning those who preach the Gospel. 16: 20; 17: 6 8; 28: 22; 1 K. 18 17, 18; Matt. 2: 3; John 15: 18 20; Rom. 12: 1; Jas. 4: 4.

Prayed and sang praises unto God. Nothing but the religion of the Lord Jesus Christ will give comfort in time of trouble. "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee." Ps. 85: 7, 8; Is. 9: 6, 7; 26: 3; 57: 19 21; John 14: 27; 16: 33; Rom. 5: 1; Eph. 2: 14-16; Phil. 4: 7.

And the prisoners listened. No Christian can sing songs in the night—can show himself to be joyful in the midst of sorrow because of his trust in God—without having listeners. There are those still in bondage to sin that are eager to listen to such songs. Would that there were more singers! Ps. 27: 6; 50: 23; 86: 9, 12; Rom. 15: 6, 9; Gal. 1: 24; Col. 1: 10; 1 Thess. 2: 12; 1 Pet. 2: 9.

Do thyself no harm. Paul's heart retained no desire for retaliation for the indignity and pain he had been made to suffer. "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, and pray for them that despitefully use you and persecute you." Ex. 23: 4, 5; Luke 6: 34, 35; 13: 34; Acts 7: 60; Rom. 12: 14, 20, 21; 1 Cor. 4: 12, 13; 1 Pet. 2: 23; 3: 9.—Nat'l S. S. Teacher.

What must I do to be Saved?—If this question should seem in advance of any light which the jailor could be supposed to possess, let it be considered (1) that the "trembling" which came over him could not have arisen from any fear for the safety of his prisoners for they were all there; and if it had, he would rather have proceeded to secure them than leave them to fall down before Paul and Silas. For the same reason it is plain that his trembling had nothing to do with any account he would have to render the magistrates. Only one explanation of it can be given—that he had become all at once alarmed about his spiritual state and that though a moment before he was ready to plunge into eternity with the guilt of self-murder on his head, without a thought of the sin he was committing and its awful consequences, his unfitness to appear before God, and his need of salvation flashed full upon his soul and drew from the depths of his spirit the cry here recorded. If still it be asked how could it take such definite shape, let it be considered (2) that the jailor could hardly be ignorant of the nature of the charges on which these men had been imprisoned, seeing they had been publicly whipped by order of the magistrates, which would fill the whole town with the facts of the case, including that strange cry of the demoniac from day to day—"These men are the servants of the most high God, which show unto us the way of salvation"—words proclaiming not only the divine commission of the preachers, but the news of salvation they were sent to tell, the miraculous expulsion of the demon, and the rage of her masters. All this, indeed, would go for nothing with such a man until roused by the mighty earthquake which made the buiding to rock; then despair seizing him at the sight of the open doors, the sword of self-destruction was suddenly arrested by words from those prisoners such as he would never imagine could be spoken in their circumstances, words evidencing something Divine about them. Then would flash across him the light of a new discovery. That was a true cry which the Pythoness uttered. "These men are the servants of the most high God which show unto us the way of salvation!" That I now must know, and from them as divinely sent to me, must I learn that "way of salvation." Substantially this is the cry of every awakened sinner; though the degree of light and the depths of anxiety it expresses will be different in each case. —Jamieson.

Read for Bible Help.—With V. 22.—Mat. 26: 47; Lu. 23: 1—Mat. 10: 17; 2 Cor. 6: 5; 11: 23; 1 Thess. 2: 2; 1 Pet. 2: 24.

V. 23.—Lu. 21: 12; 2 Tim. 2: 9; Rev. 1: 10.

V. 24.—Job 33: 11; Ps. 105: 18; Jer. 20: 2.

V. 25.—Acts 5: 41; Rom. 5: 3.

V. 26.—Acts 4: 31; Mat. 28: 2; Rev. 6. 12; 1 Ki. 19: 11.—Ps. 50; 15; Acts 5: 9; 12: 7.

V. 27.—2 Ki. 10. 24; 1 Ki. 20: 39; Dan. 2: 39.

V. 28.—Lev. 19: 18; Ps. 7: 4; 35: 14.

V. 30.—Acts 2: 37; 9: 46; Job 25: 4.

V. 31.—John 3: 36; 6: 47; 1 John 5: 10.

V. 32.—Acts 2: 46; Is. 12: 3; Rom. 5: 3; 1 Pet. 1: 8.

Address of Rev. E. I. Grinnell,

BEFORE THE IOWA STATE CONVENTION AT OSKALOOSA, APRIL 26, 1877, AND VOTED TO BE PRINTED.

[Continued from last week.]

While the attention of the country was engaged with the subject of slavery, and political issues arising therefrom, Masonry again came to the front. Since the organization of the National Christian Association, in 1867, we have had additional testimony concerning the obligations of the order, by those who have renounced it on account of its antagonism to our civil and religious institutions. All who renounce Masonry tell the same story concerning its obligations. From the victim Morgan to the sarcastic and logical Ronayne, all who have spoken or written anything concerning them invariably agree as to the statements made, principles inculcated, and penalties incurred. Other proof that the obligations of Freemasonry are correctly revealed might be furnished if needed; but it is not necessary. In the language of the sainted Bernard, "He who would reject testimony so strong and abundant is morally incapable of being convinced of any historical fact by any reasonable testimony."

Let us now look at the obligations as revealed. Be it remembered that it is first by "strict obedience" to these obligations that the initiate is to be "free from sin."

"Furthermore do I promise and swear, that I will keep the secrets of a worthy brother Master Mason as inviolable as my own, when communicated to, and received by me as such, murder and treason excepted, and they only at my option." (See Ronayne's Hand Book page 99).

"Strict obedience" to this part of the obligation, which every Master Mason has taken, be he a parson or a rumseller, instead of freeing from sin only leads further into sin. God says (Psalms 58: 18): "When thou sawest a thief, then thou consentedst with him and hast been partaker with adulterers." Masonry says, when thou sawest a thief and he comes and tells thee of his thieving, on the square, if thou art strictly obedient to thy obligation, and keepest his thieving a secret, thou art "free from sin." "No, no!" says the Mason, "that is not a fair conclusion. The keeping of secrets does not include crimes committed, and if it did we are not obliged to receive such secrets." We ask then, why is there any allusion to crimes in the obligation? Murder and treason are the only crimes which are excepted; as they only are excepted, it follows that all other crimes are included in the secrets to be kept.

As to your receiving such secrets, we answer, you know nothing of the nature of the secret to be communicated until it is told to you on the square, then, whatever its nature, your obligation binds you. In the Royal Arch degree as revealed by Elder Bernard and attested by all who have renounced Chapter Masonry, the initiate swears that he will keep the secrets of a companion Royal Arch Mason, murder and treason not excepted. (See Light on Masonry page 142.) Here we have a complete refuge for crime. If I were a Royal Arch Mason and a companion Royal Arch Mason should tell me on the square, that he intended to kill his neighbor, burn his house and take his money, "strict obedience" to my obligation requires me to keep his intended crime a secret, and let him do the deed. And with an effrontery more brazen than that of the prince of darkness, when he urged the Saviour to fall down and worship him, promising all the kingdoms of the world with the glory thereof; Masonry not only requires me to keep it a secret, but says that by "strict obedience" to obligations which require this I am "free from sin."

"Furthermore do I promise and swear that I will not give the grand hailing sign or sign of distress of a Master Mason, except in real distress, in case of the most imminent danger, within a regularly constituted lodge of Master Masons, or in some secure place for Masonic instruction; and should I ever see signal given, or hear the words accompanying it, I will immediately repair to the relief of the person giving it, should there be greater probability of saving his life than of losing my own."

If "strict obedience" to this part of the Master Mason's obligation be rendered under all circumstances, what would be the result? Let us see. The person giving the sign is a fugitive from justice, having murdered one of his fellow beings. The evidence against him will convict him if brought to trial. He is in "imminent danger." The person to whom the sign is given, is the sheriff in pursuit of the criminal. In "strict obedience" to obligations he slackens his pace, relaxes his efforts, and lets the guilty culprit escape. Take another case. The person giving the sign is a prisoner at the bar, on trial, and guilty of a capital offence. In "strict obedience" the judge, a Mason, by special rulings favors the prisoner. The jury, composed mostly of Masons, renders a verdict of "not guilty," or perhaps some of the main witnesses are Masons, and seeing the sign, in "strict obedience" to their obligations give evasive or meaningless answers to the questions, or refuse to answer at all, and this clears the prisoner. We find then, that "strict obedience" to the Master Mason's obligation "subverts justice, defies and defeats our laws, in the very courts set to execute them." This is no fancy picture. Two cases occurred a few years since in the courts of San Francisco, California: "Two Freemasons refused to answer to facts which they knew because they should perjure themselves to the lodge by so doing. One said to the judge, 'Your Honor knows how it is yourself.' One was excused, the other imprisoned for contempt; but neither of them answered. Both judges were Masons." "All who are conversant with the history of the Morgan trial know that it was impossible to elicit testimony from Masonic witnesses against their Masonic oath, and it was this fact that caused Justice Wm. L. Marcy to exclaim from the bench, "If men will defy heaven and earth what can human courts do?'"

That such conduct is considered Masonic we have no less authority than the eminent traveler and Masonic lecturer Robert Morris. We quote from "Narratives and Arguments against Secret Societies," by Francis Semple, Dover, Iowa, page 37. He says: "I have before me some extracts from one of the highest Masonic authorities, Rob. Morris. In regard to the obligations of Masonry the question is asked: 'Does the Master Mason's obligation debar his giving evidence in a judicial investigation when it is against a Master Mason?' He answered. 'If prior and weightier matters do not prevent, every man should be ready to give information when called upon to do so.' Question.—Ought not a Master Mason who loves strict integrity as well as Masonry, to stand up under all circumstances and tell the truth in evidence, though it condemns a guilty Mason? Answer.—Whatever is told must be truth; but we have intimated there are many cases in which we are not compelled to tell at all. Again, the writer instances a case in court and says: 'We hold that B. should not answer the question unless the lodge grant him permission. If the court is stupid enough let them send him to jail or impose a fine, we should glory in thus testifying to the strength of our Masonic integrity." In the above, from the pen of Rob. Morris, we have the sublime picture of Masonry teaching that a witness upon the stand, after swearing to "Tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth," if he is a Mason, and is asked to testify against a brother of the lodge, in "many cases" he ought not to tell the whole truth, not being "compelled" to do so. In some cases he "should not answer" at all "unless the lodge grants him permission." Instead of freedom from sin, perjury and a defiance of law are the fruits of "strict obedience" to Masonic obligations.

The Master Mason further swears that he will warn a brother of approaching danger if in his power. (See Ronayne's Hand Book, page 100.) There is nothing said about the source of the danger. It may proceed from the military or civil authority, and the brother Mason may be "in danger" of being brought to justice. He may be a spy in the American camp, is suspected of being such, and is in "imminent danger" of being arrested. "Strict obedience" requires that some cable-towed soldier should warn him of his danger and give him a chance to escape. "Strict obedience" would not make very loyal soldiers truly. Again, he may be guilty of theft or some other crime, and the papers are being made out; the sheriff, a Mason, aware of the proceedings must in "strict obedience" notify his brother of the intended arrest, and tell him to keep out of the way. "Strict obedience" would not in all cases make a good sheriff certainly.

The Royal Arch Mason swears among other things as follows:

"Furthermore do I promise and swear that I will aid and assist a companion Royal Arch Mason when engaged in any difficulty, so for as to extricate him from the same if in my power, whether right or wrong." (Light on Masonry, page 142.)

The Royal Arch Mason then, in "strict obedience" to his obligation, must extricate his brethren from all difficulties if in his power "right or wrong." The difficulties surrounding them may be the result of their crimes, nevertheless, "strict obedience" cries, "To the rescue!" Now, to aid and assist our fellow beings in wrong doing is to be partakers with them in the wrong done; this violates the divine precept, "Neither be partaker of other men's sins." (1 Tim. 5: 22.) "Strict obedience" to such obligations is made a means (in Masonry) of freedom from sin. O shame, where is thy blush! Condign punishment must sooner or later overtake the adherents of such a false system; for God says (Isaiah 5: 20), "Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil, that put darkness for light, and light for darkness." Does not God say to the churches that retain in their membership ministers and laymen who are bound by such obligations, as he did to his people anciently (Jer. 23: 14), "I have seen also in the prophets of Jerusalem an horrible thing: they commit adultery and walk in lies: they strengthen also the hands of evil doers that none doth return from his wickedness: they are all of them unto me as Sodom and the inhabitants thereof as Gomorrah."

When we contemplate Masonic oaths, with their death penalties, and especially the Royal Arch obligations, and remember that Masonry informs us in its own published works (see Mackey's Manual of the Lodge, page 216), that, "If a brother should be a rebel against the state they cannot expel him from the lodge, and his relation to it remains indefeasible;" and the Grand Lodge of Iowa decided in 1862 that "No civil commotion can sever Masonic ties, or render nugatory Masonic obligations," (see Iowa Grand Lodge Decisions of 1862, page 166), we find a reason for the imbecility of our government in rendering treason odious at the close of our last war. Henry Wirz, the inhuman keeper of Andersonville prison, was hung, and they placed their arms around one poor old Dutch lady and choked her to death; while the plotters of treason and leaders of the rebellion went "scot free," and many of them are now honored with seats in our national halls of legislation.

A word as to the horrid penalties of the obligations:

1st degree.—"No less penalty than to have my throat cut across," etc.

2nd degree.—"Heart plucked out and given as a prey to the beasts of the field," etc.

3rd degree.—"To have my body severed in twain, my bowels taken from thence and burned to ashes, and the ashes scattered to the four winds of heaven," etc., continuing worse and worse as you advance in Masonry.

"Strict obedience" to the penalties of the obligations requires the taking of human life in case the obligation is not kept inviolate; for if the language means anything the candidate swears consent to the taking of his own life in case he violates his oath; and as men do not exact more of themselves than they require of others, it follows that in consenting to the taking of his own life in case he violates his obligation, he asserts the right to take the life of his Masonic brother should he violate his oath, and "strict obedience" requires him to do it. We find, then, that instead of "strict obedience" to Masonic obligations rendering us "free from sin" that it requires:

1st. The secreting of crime, when the crime is committed by a lodge brother and the fact of its committal is told "on the square."

2d. "Strict obedience" requires perjury by refusing to answer to known facts when called upon in open court, if the case is against a lodge brother.

3d. It requires the assisting of criminals in their efforts to escape, if members of the lodge, by giving them notice of intended arrest.

4th. It requires the partaking of other men's sins, by espousing their cause "right or wrong" so long as they maintain their allegiance to Masonic power; when that is dissolved "strict obedience" requires the taking of their lives.

We find nothing in the obligations that savors of Christ. Let us now examine some of the precepts of the order. * * *

We now invite attention to a Masonic precept found on page 35 of Mackey's Manual of the Lodge:

"The common gavel is an instrument made use of by operative masons to break off the corners of rough stones, the better to fit them for the builder's use; but we as Free and Accepted Masons are taught to make use of it for the more noble and glorious purpose of divesting our hearts and consciences of all the vices and superfluities of life; thereby fitting our minds as living stones for that spiritual building that house not made with hands eternal in the heavens."

Now, a man with a mind and conscience divested of "all the vices and superfluities of life," and fitted as a living stone for that "spiritual building, eternal in the heavens" is, in a Gospel sense saved. This work the precept above quoted, from a standard monitorial work of the order, says "Masons are taught" to do with a stone hammer or gavel; hence we find in this precept farther evidence of the professions of Masonry to save.

But, does it propose to do this with Christ as a foundation? Let us see. Christ came into the world to save man from sin, and to prepare him for that "House not made with hands eternal in the heavens," and he emphatically declares "No man cometh unto the Father but by me." Now Masonry with the stone hammer or gavel, professes to do the very work that Christ came to do. This brings our Divine Lord on a level with a stone hammer, and contradicts his word, namely, that he is the only way to the Father. This virtually rejects him, for, if Christ is not the only way to the Father he is a falsifier, and Masonry by professing to do his work (in the precept above quoted) calls him such which in fact rejects him.

"Strict obedience" to this Masonic precept then, requires the Mason to ignore the blessed Saviour, and do as he is taught to do, use the stone hammer as an instrument of "divesting his heart and conscience of all the vices and superfluities of life; thereby fitting his mind as a living stone for that spiritual building that house not made with hands eternal in the heavens." With the result of "strict obedience" to the above Masonic precept before our minds, we ought to rise and sing the first verse of their installation ode found on page 145 of Mackey's Manual of the Lodge:

"Hail, Masonry divine!
Glory of ages, shine;
Long may'st thou reign,
Where'er thy lodges stand
May they have great command
And always grace the land;
Thou art divine."

[Continued next week.]

The National Sunday School Teacher has several departments connected with the lessons as "Geographical," "Biographical," "Antiquities" and "Philosophy," besides the "expositions." Few Sabbath school journals furnish the teacher better material for his work. Chicago, Adams, Blackmer & Lyon Pub. Co.

The Sanitarian for July is received with its usual valuable contents on public health and reforms looking thereto. Physicians and municipal officers will find this journal of great value. A. N. Bell, publisher, New York.

NEW CLUB RATES

FOR

Either Renewals or New Subscriptions.

Papers addressed to one or different Post Offices as desired.

CLUB RATES INCLUDING POSTAGE.

2 to 4 Subscribers, at $2.00 a year.
5 to 9 " at 1.75 "
10 or more " at 1.50 "

Names for a Club may be sent at different times; THE MONEY FOR THE CLUB TO BE SENT WITH THE FIRST LOT OF NAMES; but other Subscriptions may be added at same rates after Club is full.

The effect of Club Rates is to give the Commission to those who compose the Club and no commission can be allowed on these rates.

Knights of Pythias Illustrated

A Full Illustrated Exposition

OF THE

Ceremonies of the Three Degrees

OF THE

SUBORDINATE LODGE.

Entered According to Act of Congress in the year 1877
BY EZRA A. COOK & Co.,
In the office of the Librarian of Congress at Washington, D. C.

[CONTINUED.]

Master at Arms.—"Retainer John Brown, who is desirous of receiving further knowledge of the mysteries and work of the First, or Initiatory Rank of Page in this Chivalric Order."

Inner Guard.—"Chancellor Commander, Retainer John Brown applies for further instruction in the work of the First, or Initiatory Rank of Page in this Chivalric Order."

Chancellor Commander.—"As Chancellor Commander of this Lodge, it is my order that you admit him without further challenge."

Inner Guard (opening the door).—"Master at Arms, it is the order of the Chancellor Commander that he be admitted without further challenge."

The Master at Arms enters with, and conducts the candidate twice around the Lodge, and halts before the Vice Chancellor.

Master at Arms.—"Vice Chancellor, I present you Retainer John Brown, for further instruction in the work of the First, or Initiatory Rank of Page in this Chivalric Order."

Vice Chancellor.—"Has he conformed to the Law and taken the obligation?"

Master at Arms.—"He has."

Vice Chancellor.—"How am I as Vice Chancellor, to be convinced that he has subscribed and will conform to the obligation of this, the First, or Initiatory Rank of Page in this Chivalric Order?"

Master at Arms.—"He is in possession of the sprig of myrtle."

Vice Chancellor.—"To those of the First, or Initiatory Rank of Page in this Chivalric Order, what is the myrtle emblematic of?"

Master at Arms.—"Friendship, like unto that which bound Damon to Pythias."

Vice Chancellor.—"What does it teach?"

Master at Arms.—"Universal Fraternity and Benevolence, especially to those of the different grades of rank of our Chivalric Order, and to all worthy people, wherever existing."

Vice Chancellor.—"How does it instruct us?"

Master at Arms.—"It instructs us that, in the mind of a Page of this Order, those virtues should be as expansive as the azure arch of heaven, as binding as his obligation and pure as was that of our great prototypes, Damon and Pythias."

Vice Chancellor.—"Retainer John Brown I cheerfully accept the symbol as an earnest of your intentions, (takes it from him,) and will proceed to instruct you in the raps, secret signs, countersigns and passwords of this the First, or Initiatory Rank of Page, to which pay particular attention, as upon your knowledge of them will in part depend your future progress in this Order."

"Upon coming into the Lodge, you will knock at the outer door in any, or a usual manner. It will be opened by the Outer Guard, who will admit you to the ante room. After clothing yourself in the proper regalia, or insignia of this Rank, which is Blue, you will apply at the inner door, and give first one, then two, then three raps in this order, which will be answered in a like manner from within. You will then give your name and Rank, together with the name and number of your Lodge, and this password, Friend (whispers it in his ear,) which will admit you. You will then advance to the center of the room and salute the Chancellor Commander in this manner:

Form a link with the second finger of each hand, the back of the left hand up and the back of the right hand forward; the forearms forming the base of a triangle. [See cut.]

SIGN OF FRIENDSHIP OR COURTESY.

"This is called the sign of Friendship or Courtesy, and is always used on entering or retiring from the Lodge when open in the Rank of Page. It is recognized by the Chancellor Commander by giving the same sign or by a wave of the hand."

"There are three other signs, (in which, while instructing, you will please follow me.)"

THE SIGN OF RECOGNITION

Is given thus: Place your right thumb near the end of your two first fingers of same hand as though holding a pen to write, then smooth the hair back over the right ear with the two fingers, nails next to the head, three times, and is answered by the person saluted with the left hand in same manner.

The Sign of Caution, which is given in two ways, namely, audibly and inaudibly, is as follows:

INAUDIBLE SIGN OF CAUTION.

Raise right hand and with thumb and forefinger squeeze the wings of the nose. This is done three times, noiselessly, in quick succession drawing the hand six or eight inches from the nose after each squeeze.

AUDIBLE SIGN OF CAUTION.

Made in the same way as Inaudible Sign, but to attract attention give a quick snuff each time as thumb and finger are being withdrawn from the nose.

ANSWER.—Same as sign.

The Sign of Distress is given in this manner:

SIGN OF DISTRESS.

Strike the hands together three times, right hand uppermost.

There is a hailing word in connection with the Sign of Distress, which is nomad, (Damon backwards).

ANSWER.—Damon.

Vice Chancellor (addressing Master at Arms).—"The Master at Arms will now conduct the Page to our Chancellor Commander for final instruction."

Master at Arms.—"Chancellor Commander, under instruction of the Vice Chancellor, I present you Page John Brown for final instruction and examination in that Rank."

Chancellor Commander.—"Has the Page been taught the Signs and Passwords that will indicate his Rank as a Page?"

Master at Arms.—"He has been instructed therein by the Vice Chancellor."

Chancellor Commander.—"Page John Brown, as an evidence of the attention you have paid in what you have been instructed by the Vice Chancellor, you will be kind enough to give me the Sign of Friendship or Courtesy of this Rank?"

Candidate forms a link with second finger of each hand, forearms forming base of a triangle.

Chancellor Commander.—"How is it recognized by the Chair?"

Candidate.—"Chancellor Commander answers by same sign or by wave of his hand."

Chancellor Commander.—"The Sign of Recognition?"

Candidate quickly passes two first fingers of right hand, with ball of thumb near their end and nails next to head, back over right ear three times.

Chancellor Commander.—"Its answer?"

Candidate.—"Sign made with left hand in same manner."

Chancellor Commander.—"The Sign of Caution in both ways?"

Candidate.—"Thumb and forefinger drawn from nose three times, if for audible sign snuffing air, if for inaudible sign not doing so."

Chancellor Commander.—"Its answer?"

Candidate.—"The same."

Chancellor Commander.—"The Sign of Distress?"

Candidate.—"Strike hands together three times, right hand uppermost."

Chancellor Commander.—"In the absence of being unable to use it, what do you do?"

Candidate.—"Use word Nomad, which is Damon backwards."

Chancellor Commander.—"What is the answer?"

Candidate.—"Damon."

Chancellor Commander.—"It now only remains for me to instruct you in the Grip and use of the Gavel or Truncheon of authority. The Grip is given in this manner."

[To be Continued.]

Descriptive Catalogue of Publications of Ezra A. Cook & Co.

13 Wabash Ave. Chicago.

BOOKS.

☞ Books at Doz. or Retail Prices sent post-paid. Not less than one-half doz. sent at dozen rates. By the 100 (25 Copies at 100 rate,) Expressage or Postage extra.

☞ Books sent by Mail are not at our risk.

Books at retail or by the dozen, ordered by Express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK; party ordering to pay Express Charges.

FREEMASONRY EXPOSED,
by CAP'T. WILLIAM MORGAN.

THE GENUINE OLD MORGAN BOOK:—republished with engravings showing the Lodge Room, Dress of candidates, Signs, Due Guards, Grips, Etc.

This revelation is so accurate that Freemasons murdered the author for writing it. Thousands have testified to the correctness of the revelation and this book therefore sells very rapidly.

Price 25 cents.

Per Doz. Post Paid..... $2.00
Per hundred by express, (express charges extra.).....$10.00

ODD FELLOWSHIP ILLUSTRATED.

A complete exposition of the Lodge Encampment and Rebecca (Ladies') Degree. The Signs, Grips, &c., shown by engravings.

Single copy, post paid,.....$ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per Hundred, Express charges extra,..... 10 00

EXPOSITION OF THE GRANGE.

EDITED BY REV. A. W. GEESLIN.

Illustrated with Engravings showing Lodge Room, Signs, Signals, etc.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 10 00

Judge Whitney's Defense Before the Grand Lodge of Ill.

Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the Lodge when S. L. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the Lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz. " " 1 50
Per 100, Express charges extra..... 8 00

History of The Abduction and Murder Cap't. Wm. Morgan,

As prepared by Seven Committees of Citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan.

This book contains indisputable, legal evidence that Freemasons, abducted and Murdered Wm. Morgan, for no other offence than the revelation of Masonry. It contains the sworn testimony of over twenty persons, including Morgan's wife, and no candid person after reading this book, can doubt that many of the most respectable FREEMASONS, in the Empire State, with others were concerned in this crime.

Single Copy, post Paid,... ..... 25 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $2,00.
Per 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 10.00.

Valance's Confession of The Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan.

This confession of Henry L. Valance, one of the three Freemasons who drowned Morgan in the Niagara River, was taken from the lips of the dying man by Dr. John C. Emery, of Racine County, Wisconsin in 1848; The confession bears clear evidence of truthfulness.

Single copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $1.50.
Per 100 Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

The Mystic Tie or Freemasonry a League with the Devil.

This is an account of the Church Trial of Peter Cook, and wife of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a Reverend Freemason; and their very able defence presented by Mrs. Lucia C. Cook, in which she clearly shows that Freemasonry, is antagonistic to the Christian Religion. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents
Per dozen, post paid..... $1 50
Per hundred Express charges Extra,..... 9 00

NARRATIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

Showing the Conflict of Secret Societies with the Constitution and Laws of the Union and of the States, by FRANCIS SEMPLE.

The fact that Secret Societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of Law is here clearly proved.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20
Per doz. " $1.75
Per 100 Express charges Extra..... 9.00

THE BROKEN SEAL.

OR PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF Wm. MORGAN,

By SAMUEL D. GREENE,

Price in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.
In Paper Covers per Doz. Post paid.....$4 50
" per hundred by express (ex. charges extra $25.00

Capt. Wm. Morgan was Mr. Greene's neighbor in Batavia, N. Y., and a member of the same lodge with him at the time of the great excitement in 1826. The titles to these chapters are sufficiently exciting to give the book a large sale:—"The Storm Gathering;" "Abduction of Morgan;" "Attempted Abduction of Miller and his Rescue;" "What became of Morgan;" "What Morgan Actually Revealed;" "Confession of the Murderer;" "Allegations against Freemasonry, etc."

THE ANTI-MASON'S SCRAP BOOK, CONSISTING OF 21 CYNOSURE TRACTS.

In this book are the views of more than a Score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of Secret Societies.

The dangerous tendency and positive evil of organized Secrecy is here shown by the most varied and powerful arguments and illustrations that have ever been given to the public.

Lecturers and others who wish to find the best arguments against the Lodge, should send for this book.

Those who wish to circulate Antimasonic Tracts ought to have the book to select from.

Single Copy, post paid,.....20 cents.
Per Doz. " $1.75
Per 100, Express charges Extra,.....$10.00

Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion.

A clear cutting argument against the Lodge, from a Christian Stand point.

Single Copy post paid.....$ 05
Per doz. " 50
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 3 00

PHELPS' SECRET SOCIETIES Ancient and Modern.

A NEW BOOK OF GREAT INTEREST.

This work is particularly commended to the attention of Officers of The Army and Navy, The Bench and The Clergy.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

"THE ANTIQUITY OF SECRET SOCIETIES, THE LIFE OF JULIAN, THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES, THE ORIGIN OF MASONRY, WAS WASHINGTON A MASON? FILMORE'S AND WEBSTER'S DEFERENCE TO MASONRY, A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRESS OF MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES, THE TAMMANY RING, MASONIC BENEVOLENCE, THE USES OF MASONRY, AN ILLUSTRATION, THE CONCLUSION."

Single Copy, Post Paid..... 50
Per Doz " " $4 75
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$25 00

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' LETTERS to Col. Wm. Stone, Edward Livingstone,

and others, on the nature of

Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties.

Price, post paid..... $ 50
Per Doz., " 4 50
Per 100, Express Charges extra..... 25 00

COLLEGE SECRET SOCIETIES.

Their Customs, Character and the Efforts for their Suppression.

BY H. L. KELLOGG.

Containing the opinion of many prominent College Presidents, and others, and a FULL ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER OF MORTIMER LEGGETT

Single Copy, post paid.....$ 35
Per Doz " " 2 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 15 00

MINUTES OF THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION,

Containing addresses by Rev. B. T. Roberts, Chas. D. Greene, Esq., Prof. C. A. Blanchard, Rev. D. P. Rathbun, Rev. D. S. Caldwell, Mrs. M. E. Gage, Elder J. R. Baird and others. Unpublished Reminiscences of the Morgan Times, by Elder David Bernard; Recollections of the Morgan Trials, as related by Victory Birdseye, Esq., and presented by his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Miller; Secretary's report; roll of delegates; songs of Mr. G. A. Clark; paper by Enoch Honeywell; Constitution N. C. A.; reports of committees, and a report of the political meeting.

Single Copy, post paid, ... 25
Per doz. " " $2.00
Per 100 Express Ccarges Extra..... 10.00

Proceedings of the Pittsburgh Convention.

Containing Official Reports; Addresses by Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. Rev. S. T. Roberts, Rev. G. T. R. Meiser, Prof. J. R. W. Sloane, D. D., Pres't. J. Blanchard, Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D., Rev. Woodruff Post, Rev. Henry Cogswell, Prof. C. A. Blanchard, and Rev W. E. Coquilette, also Report of the POLITICAL MASS CONVENTION, with Platform and Candidates for the Presidential Campaign of 1876.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25 cts.
Per doz " $2 00
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 10 00

SERMON ON MASONRY,
BY REV. W. P. M'NARY,

Pastor United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Ind.

This is a very clear, thorough, candid and remarkably concise Scriptural argument on the character of Freemasonry.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 5
Per Doz,..... 50
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra,.....$3 00

THIRTEEN REASONS

Why a Christian Should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong.

The author states his reasons clearly and carefully, and any one of the thirteen reasons, if properly considered, will keep a Christian out of the Lodge.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 5
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100, Express charges extra, ... $3.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. JAMES WILLIAMS.

Presiding Elder of Dakota District North-western Iowa Conference, M. E. Church, A SECEDING MASTER MASON.

Published at the special request of the Nine Clergymen of different denominations and others.

Single Copy, post paid..... 10
Per doz. " " 75
Per 100, Express Charges Extra.....$4.00

MASONRY A WORK OF DARKNESS

ADVERSE TO CHRISTIANITY, and Inimical to a Republican Government.

BY REV. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG, [Presbyterian.]

A Seceding Mason of 21 Degrees.

This is a very telling work and no honest man that reads it will think of joining the lodge. Single Copy, post paid,.....20cts.
Per doz. post paid,..... $1.50.
" 100, Express Charges Extra..... 8.00.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy.

Address of Prest. J. BLANCHARD, before the Pittsburgh Convention.

This is a most convincing argument against the lodge.

Single Copy, Post Paid.....$ 05
Per Doz " " 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON SECRETISM
BY REV. R. THEO. CROSS.

This is a very clear array of the objections to Masonry that are apparent to all.

By Rev. R. T. Cross, Pastor Congregational Church, Hamilton, N.Y.

Single Copy, Post Paid.....$ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

Its relation to civil Government and the Christian Religion.

By Prest. J. BLANCHARD, at the Monmouth Convention.

The Unchristian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is here proved from the highest masonic authorities.

Single Copy, Post Paid,.....$ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP AND OTHER SECRET SOCIETIES

BY REV. J. SARVER, Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church, Leechburg. Pa.

This is a very clear argument against Secretism of all forms and the duty to disfellowship, Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications.

Single Copy, Post Paid.....$ 10
Per Dozen " 75
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 4 00

Sermon on Secret Societies,
BY REV. DANIEL DOW, Woodstock, Conn.

The special object of this sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the Character of Secret Societies, no matter what object they profess to have.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 05
Per Dozen, " " 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 3 00

President H. H. GEORGE, On Secret Societies.

A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian Churches, to disfellowship Secret Societies.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 10 cts.
Per doz, " ..... 75 "
Per 100, Express Charges Extra, ... $4.00.

History of the National Christian Association.

Its origin, objects, what it has done and aim to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought; The Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association, Conditions of the Carpenter Donation with engraving of building to be donated by Mr. Carpenter; tablet, showing the number of pastors and communicants in churches that exclude members of Secret societies; tabular view of local, county, State and National Conventions, and list of organizations Auxiliary to the National Christian Association. Brief opinions of eminent men on secret societies, and testimonies of religious bodies against them. This book will be found invaluable by all who wish to know the character of this reform and how they may do the most to further its objects. It should be in the hands of every Anti-mason.

Price, post paid, 25 cents each; per doz., $1.50. 25 copies or more by express at 8 cents each.

NEW BOOKS

HAND-BOOK OF FREEMASONRY.

BY EDMOND RONAYNE, late Past Master of Keystone Lodge, No. 639, Chicago. A full Illustrated Exposition of the Three Degrees of "Ancient Craft Masonry:" Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft and Master Mason, embracing the "Standard Work" of the Order.

Single Copy, $0 50. Per dozen, $4 00. Per 100 $25 00.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WITH SIGNS OF RECOGNITION, PASS WORDS, GRIPS, Etc., and the RITUAL of the MACHINISTS AND BLACKSMITHS' UNION. (The two bound together.)

Single Copy, $0 25. Per dozen, $2 00. Per 100 $10 00.

Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees of Freemasonry

Nothing can more clearly show the abominations of this system of iniquity than its horrible Oaths and Penalties.

Single Copy, $0 15. Per dozen, $1 00. Per 100 $6 00.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret Societies.

A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons the Christian Church.

Single Copy $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100, $4 50

Secrecy v. s. The Family, State and Church.

BY REV. M. S. DRURY. The antagonism of Organized Secrecy with the welfare of the Family, State and Church is clearly shown

Single Copy, $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100 $4 00.

ANTIMASONIC TRACTS

NOW HAVE 38 ENGLISH TRACTS, 6 MAN, AND ONE SWEDISH

hese tracts are sold at the rate of $1.00 per 1000 pages.

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together, and is just the thing to select tracts from. Price 20 cents. See advertisement

For information about Free Tracts see advertisment headed Free Tracts."

Address EZRA A. COOK & Co.,

18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TRACT NO. 1:

HISTORY OF MASONRY.

BY PRESIDENT J. BLANCHARD, OF WHEATON COLLEGE.

This is now published in three tracts of four pages each Price of each, 50 cents per 100; $4 per 1000.

TRACT No. 1, PART FIRST—Shows the origin of Speculative Freemasonry, and is entiled "HISTORY OF MASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART SECOND—Is entitled "DESPOTIC CHARACTER OF FREEMASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART THIRD—Is entitled "FREEMASONRY A CHRIST-EXCLUDING RELIGION."

TRACT NO. 2:

MASONIC MURDER,

By REV. J. R. BAIRD, of Pleasantville, Pa., a seceding Mason who has taken 17 degrees. A 2-page tract at 25 cents per 100; $2 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 3:

SECRETS OF MASONRY,

BY ELI TAPLEY.

This is a 4-page Illustrated Tract, showing the signs, grips and pass-words, of the first three degrees. 50 cents per 100, or $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 4:

GRAND! GREAT GRAND!

BY PHILO CARPENTER.

This is a 2-page tract, calling the attention of the public to the despotic and ridiculous titles of Freemasonry. Price 25 cents per 100; $2 00 per 1,000.

TRACT. NO. 5:

Extracts From Masonic Oaths and Penalties, as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.

This tract is a reprint of a tract published in 1834, and is a very weighty document. A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 6:

Hon. John Quincy Adams' Letter.

Giving His and His Father's Opinion of Freemasonry (1831.);

AND

Hon. James Madison's Letter,

Giving His Opinion of Freemasonry (1832).

Both of these letters, in one 4-page tract, at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 7:

SATAN'S CABLE-TOW.

A 4-page tract. This is a careful analysis of the character of Masonic oaths, and shows them to be most blasphemous and unchristian; and the Masonic Cable Tow is clearly shown to be the cable Tow by which Satan is leading thousands to eternal death. 5 cents per 100; $1.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 8:

is a 2-page double tract, "ILLUSTRATED." The first page represents a Mason proclaiming the wonderful wisdom and benevolence of the order, with an article below, entitled "Freemasonry is only 152 Years Old," and gives the time and place of its birth.

The second side is entitled, "Murder and Treason not Excepted," and shows that the Masonic order is treasonable in its constitution, and is both anti-Republican and anti-Christian Price 25 cents per 100; $2 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 9, ILLUSTRATED:

FREEMASONRY IN THE CHURCH.

Copy of a petition for the higher degrees of Freemasonry, in which Blasphemous and Despotic Titles are enumerated and prayed for. The Copy was printed for the use of "Occidental Sovereign Consistory S. P. R. S.," 32d degree—a Chicago Lodge—and was ordered by a deacon of a Christian Church who is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ill

TRACT NO. 10

CHARACTER AND SYMBOLS OF FREEMASONRY.

A 2-page tract, (ILLUSTRATED) by its "Grand Secretaries, Grand Lecturers, Perfect Prince Freemasons, Grand Inspector, Inquisitor Commanders, Grand High Priests," etc. The wonderful symbolical meaning of "the Cable Tow," "the Square and Compass," "the Lamb Skin, or white Apron," and "the Common Gavel," are given in the exact words of the highest Masonic authority. 25 cents per 100 or $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 11,

Address of Niagara County Association, New York.

TO THE PUBLIC,

Concerning the Morgan Murder, and the character of Freemasonry shown by this and other Masonic murders. 50 cents

TRACT NO. 12:

JUDGE WHITNEY AND MASONRY.

This tract contains a condensed account of Judge Whitney's Defense before the Grand Lodge of Illinois, on charge of unmasonic conduct in bringing Samuel L. Keith the murderer of Allen Slade, and a member of his Lodge, to justice, with Judge Whitney's subsequent renunciation of Masonry,

An 8-page tract, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 13:

DR. NATHANIEL COLVER ON MASONRY,

and

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D.,

Chancellor of the University of New York, on SECRET SOCIETIES. A double 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 14:

GRAND LODGE MASONRY,

ITS RELATION TO CIVIL GOVERNMENT AND THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION.

Opening address before the Monmouth Convention, by PRES. BLANCHARD of WHEATON COLLEGE This is a 16-page tract at $2 00 per 100; $15 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 15:

MASONIC OATHS NULL AND VOID.

A clear and conclusive argument proving the invalidity of any oath or obligation to do evil. By REV. I. A. HART, Secretary National Christian Association. Published by special order of the Association 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 16:

HON. SETH M. GATES ON FREEMASONRY.

PROOF THAT THE INSTITUTION THAT MURDERED MORGAN IS UNCHANGED IN CHARACTER

This is a letter to the Monmouth Convention by Hon. Seth M Gates who was Deputy Sheriff of Genesee County, and also Secretary of the Leroy Lodge at the time of Morgan's Abduction. A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 17:

Origin, Obligations and Expenses of The Grange.

WITH A CONSTITUTION OF A FARMERS' CLUB.

This little tract ought to be put into the hands of every Farmer in the United States. Four-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4 00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 18:

HON. WM. H. SEWARD ON SECRET SOCIETIES

Extracts from a Speech on Know-nothingism in the U. S. Senate in 1855. The testimony of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, MILLARD FILLMORE CHIEF JUSTIC MARSHALL and others added.

A 2-page tract, 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 19.

BRICKS FOR MASONS TO LAY.

WASHINGTON, MADISON, MARSHALL, RUSH, HANCOCK, ADAMS AND WEBSTER, give brief clear testimony against the Lodge A 2-page tract 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT

OBJECTIONS TO MASONRY,

By A SECEDING MASON, of Corunon, Vermon.

This tract contains many strong arguments against the Lodge drawn from personal experience, observation and study of its character A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 21.

MASONIC CRIMES

BY EMMA A. WALLACE.

The author, by wonderfully clear illustration and argument, shows the terribly corrupt nature of Freemasonry. No true woman who reads this will ever speak with approbation of this institution A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT No. 22.

LINUS CHITTENDEN ON FREEMASONRY.

The Author a Seceding Master Mason states his objection to the Lodge, drawn both from experience and observation, in a clear concise and forcible style.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 23.

MASONIC OATHS AND PENALTIES.

ADDRESS OF REV. A. M. MILLIGAN AT THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION.

This is the clearest and most conclusive argument to show the wickedness of masonic oaths and the duty to disregard and repent of them that we have ever seen.

A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 24.

SHOULD FREEMASONS BE ADMITTED TO CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP?

The principles and teachings of Freemasonry taken from the highest masonic authorities are compared with those of the Bible, several Masonic Oaths are given in whole or in part with the comments of Rev's. Moses Stewart, Nathaniel Colver, and Charles G Finney, on this character. Those who love a pure Christianity should aid in the circulation of this tract. A 4 page tract, 50cts. per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 25.

The American Party.

ITS OBJECT, ORGANIZATION, PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES

Some of the ablest men in the nation have pronounced our platform the best that has been presented to the American people for the past fifty years Our Candidates are men of acknowledged ability and honesty, and if every voter in the United States could read this our "POLITICAL TRACT," our Candidates could undoubtedly be elected. One friend pledges a dollar for every other dollar contributed and this 8 page tract costs but $1.00 per 100, or $8.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 26.

FREEMASONRY A RELIGION.

This Tract is made up of quotations from Standard Masonic Authors and nothing could more clearly demonstrate the fact that Freemasonry claims to be a Christless and therefore Anti-christian religion.

An 8 page Tract, $1 00 per 100. $8 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 27.

Duty and Ability to Know the Character of Freemasonry.

Thousands seem to consider it a virtue to know nothing about the character of Secret Societies. This is shown to be a great error if not a crime and our duty to use the knowledge within our reach, especially when of such vital importance, is clearly enforced.

A 4 Page Tract, 50 cents per 100. $4 00 per 1000.

Cynosure Tract No. 28.

FREEMASONRY REVEALED.

A LEGAL ATTESTATION BY EDMOND RONAYNE

To the correctiness of the published expositions of Freemasonry. The author very briefly states the mode of preparation and initiation in the various degrees, with the mock murder and resurrection of the candidate in the personification of Hiram Abiff in the 3d, degree and the penalties of each.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100. $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 1, IN SWEDISH,

translated by Prof. A. R. CERVIN. A 15 page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000

ENOCH HONEYWELL'S TRACT.

TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA. Postage 5cts per 100.

TRACTS FREE.

GERMAN CYNOSUCE TRACT A.

Six Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason.

By Rev. A. GROLE, Pastor, German M.E. Church, Worchester, Mass

This is our first German Tract, and it is a good one; it ought to have a large circulation. A 4 page tract, Price 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

FREE TRACTS.

A Tract Fund for the Free Distribution of Tracts

HAS BERN SECURED AND SHOULD NEVER BE EXHAUSTED. A friend has pledged this fund a dollar for every other dollar received, so EVERY NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TRACT FUND COUNTS DOUBLE, and thus $10.00 pays for 20,000 pages of tracts.

The distribution of these tracts has already saved hundreds of young men from the lodge, but there is a great lack of funds to supply the constantly increasing demand for Free Tracts.

During the year 1876 were gratuitously sent out, mostly in very small lots. The present demand is fully 100,000 pages per month, but funds are lacking to meet it.

Many of our most earnest workers in this cause of God are poor men, who would be glad to circulate thousands of pages of Antimasonic literature if they could have them free.

SHALL WE NOT HAVE AN INEXHAUSTIBLE TRACT FUND

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAPBOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together and is just the thing to select from. Price 20cents. See advertisement page 15.

Enoch Honeywell Esq., pays for an unlimited number of his tract addressed "TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA." It is an excellent tract, bearing the printed endorsement of Executive Committee of the National Christian Association. He has furnished the public over 150,000 pages of these tracts during the past year.

TRACTS FREE. If sent by mail, 5 cts per 100 is charged postage,

Send Contributions and orders to

EZRA A. COOK.

Secretary of Tract Committee 18 Wabash Ave, Chicago, Ill.

Publishers' Department

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED DURING WEEK ENDING JULY 28, 1877, from Wm Blair, Mrs A A Baker, Wm Brownell, John Bell, A Baker, R Cox, Rev L W Cronk, Dr S L Cook, J H Eaton, Geo Goodell, T Henderson, H H Hinman, S Harper, M I Lewis, W M Love, A McBride, W B McFail, M Pettengill, G W Park, A J Phillips, A C Pratt, E Ronayne, J G Smith, J Snyder, T R Shiner, Rev N F Surface, G Trot, B Ulsh, J Winklebleck.

Books and Tracts sent Week ending July 28, 1877.

By Express.

C C Block, Baker & Arnold.

By Mail.

J Keppey, J Wagner, E C Sanders, S D Spear, W M Denniston, W G Triece, T H Hooper, C Hummel, Rev H Schoneberg, W Schoefel, C Daniel, M R Jackson, Mrs A A Baker, W A Fleming, Rev J C Hench, H Avery, C Emerson, M Shay, H W Horner, E C Stratton, W Housman, J W Hillis, E Sanner, W B McFail, Rev J B Rath, J N Stupe, R E Collier, S R McClurkin, J K Snyder, S N Osborn, M D, J Wilson, H V Dudley, W F Wendish, J F Sytz, C McMillan, J W Searey, J L Dearing, M L Stimson, J C Perry, S J Ball, O L Snyder.

Donation to Tract Fund.

S M Good, $5.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO, July 30, 1877.

GRAIN— Wheat—	No. 2	1 27	1 28
	No. 3		95
"	Rejected	69	70
"	Minnesota	1 30	1 35
"	Winter	1 35	1 40
Corn—	No. 2	48½	48¾
	Rejected	45	45½
Oats—	No. 2	28	29
	Rejected	18	20
Rye—	No. 2		55½
Bran per ton			11 25
Flour—	Winter	6 50	9 00
	Spring	4 00	7 75
Hay—	Timothy	9 50	10 00
	Prairie		7 50
Mess Beef		10 75	12 00
Tallow		7¼	7½
Lard per cwt			8 62½
Mess pork, per bbl			12 25
Butter medium to best		12	23
Cheese		5	9½
Beans		2 40	2 60
Eggs		11	12
Seeds—	Timothy	1 55	1 65
	Clover		7 50
	Flax	1 80	1 85
Potatoes new per brl		1 50	1 75
Broom corn		3½	7½
Hides	green to dry flint	6½	16
Lumber—	Clear	30 00	34 00
	Common	9 00	11 00
	Fencing	9 00	11 00
	Shingles		2 50
WOOL—	Washed	36	43
	Unwashed	23	27
LIVE STOCK Cattle	Choice	5 75	6 50
	Good	5 00	5 60
	Medium	4 00	4 75
	Common	3 00	3 75
	Hogs	5 00	5 25
	Sheep	3 75	5 75

New York Market.

Flour	$3 00	10 50
Wheat— Spring	1 15	1 42
Winter	1 60	1 62½
Corn	58	65
Oats	30	60
Rye		70
Lard		9¾
Mess pork		14 40
Butter	10	20
Cheese	5	10
Eggs	15	17½
Wool	10	50

THE SABBATH OF THE LORD,

BY JOHN J. McKAY New York.

Contents, Sabbath Profanation, Sabbath Sanctification, Hindrances to Sabbath Sanctification and the evils of Sabbath Rail Road Traveling and Transportation, Also THE CLAIMS OF THE SABBATH AGAINST THE ASSUMPTIONS OF REV. HENRY WARD BEECHER.

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO., 13 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill. Price, 25 cents each, $3.25 Per Doz. by Mail.

ESTABLISHED 1867.

EZRA A. COOK & CO.,

STEAM PRINTERS

LITHOGRAPHERS,

STATIONERS

—AND—

Book Binders.

NOS. 7, 9, 11 & 13

Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

We were in the Stationery, Printing and Lithographing business before the Cynosure was started.

WE PRINT

Books, Pamphlets, Catalogues, Business Cards, Show Cards, Letter Heads, Bill Heads, Note Heads, Circulars, Hand Bills, Posters, Checks, Drafts, Notes, Certificates of Deposit, Certificates of Stock, Diplomas, etc.,

WE BIND

Blank Books, Magazines, Catalogues, Checks, Drafts, Notes, Certificates, Bank Pass Books, Etc., Etc.

WE LITHOGRAPH

Business Cards, Letter Heads, Note Heads, Bill Heads, Circulars, Checks, Drafts, Certificates of Stock, Certificates of Deposit, Plats and Charts; also elegant Diplomas for Colleges, Literary Societies, and Agricultural Societies, in one, two or three Colors. Samples and Prices sent on Application.

All work executed in the

BEST STYLE,

at the

LOWEST MARKET RATES.

WE FILL ORDERS PROMPTLY, and GUARANTEE GOOD WORK.

SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO ORDERS BY MAIL.

Samples and prices sent promptly when desired.

Address:

EZRA A. COOK & CO.,

7, 9, 11 & 13 Wabash Avenue,

CHICAGO.

CALIFORNIA

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the WEST and NORTH-WEST, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between CHICAGO and all points in ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, NORTHERN MICHIGAN, MINNESOTA, IOWA, NEBRASKA, CALIFORNIA, and the WESTERN TERRITORIES. Its

Omaha and California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in NORTHERN ILLINOIS, IOWA, DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, COLORADO, UTAH, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, CHINA, JAPAN, AND AUSTRALIA. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for NORTHERN WISCONSIN and MINNESOTA, and for MADISON, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, DULUTH, and all points in the Great Northwest. Its

Winona and St. Paul Line.

Is the only route for WINONA, ROCHESTER, OWATONNA, MANKATO, ST. PETER, NEW ULM, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for JANESVILLE, WATERTOWN, FOND DU LAC, OSHKOSH, APPLETON, GREEN BAY, ESCANABA, NEGAUNEE, MARQUETTE, HOUGHTON, HANCOCK, and the LAKE SUPERIOR COUNTRY. Its

Freeport and Dubuque Line

Is the only route for ELGIN, ROCKFORD, FREEPORT, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago and Milwaukee Line

Is the old Lake Shore Route, and is the only one passing through EVANSTON, LAKE FOREST, HIGHLAND PARK, WAUKEGAN, RACINE, KENOSHA to MILWAUKEE.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

are run on all through trains of this road.

This is the ONLY LINE running these cars between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our Sleepers connect with the Overland Sleepers on the Union Pacific Railroad for all points West of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago and North-Western Railway LEAVE CHICAGO as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, Two Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four Through Trains daily. Pullman Cars on night trains, Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta, La Crosse and Winona and points in Minnesota. One Through Train daily, with Pullman Sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains.

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, Two Trains daily. Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, Four Trains daily.

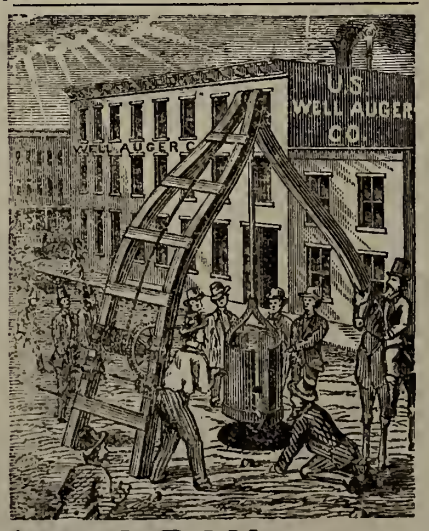
For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points you can have from two to ten trains daily

New York Office, No 415 Broadway; Boston Office, No. 5 State Street; Omaha Office, 245 Farnham Street San Francisco Office, 121 Montgomery Street; Chicago Ticket Offices: 62 Clark Street, under Sherman House; Kinzie Street Depot, corner W. Kinzie; Wells Street Depot, corner Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agents, apply to

W. H. STENNETT, Gen. Pass. Ag't, Chicago. MARVIN HUGHITT, Gen. Man'g. Chicago.

[Eastern.)



$25 A DAY SURE PAY.

This Well Auger will bore 2 wells 50 feet deep in one day, and from 1 to 4 feet in diameter. It bores through any kind of earth, hard pan, slate, coal and is a success among boulders and quicksand, where all other augers fail. Read below what great men say about it:

We, the undersigned, know of the reputation and merits of the above Patent Well Auger, and recommend it to the public as one of the most important, useful and practical inventions of the age, and we feel confident, from our knowledge of it, that a man can take it into good territory and make $25 per day clear of expenses. A. J. Faulk, Governor of Dakota Territory. Gov. O. A. Hadley, of Arkansas. Ex Governor Dow, Texas. Rev. D. Oglesby, of Richview, Ill.

The following persons have this Auger in operation. Write to them (enclosing a stamp), and see how they like it: Geo. M. Ward, Salem, N. J. (a good old quaker). S. M. Payne, Wilsonville, Shelby Co., Ala. Rev. E. Berry, Gratiot, Licking Co., O. C. F. Walter, Concord, N. C. C. W. Herrand, Lapeer, Mich. Gen. J. A. Lockhart, Van Buren, Ark. County rights for sale. Every Auger warrented. Send stamp for our large Auger Book, and address,

U. S. AUGER CO., St. Louis, Mo.

MONMOUTH COLLEGE,

Monmouth, Illinois.

The next term opens Tuesday, Sept. 4th, 1877. For Catalognes, address the President.

David A. Wallace.

MASON & HAMLIN,

Cabinet Organs!

The only Organ declared to be of First Rank by the Judges at Philadelphia.

Gold Medals and Diplomas of Honor awarded them at all the great World Expositions.

Being the only American Organs which have ever obtained any award in Competition with the best Enropean makers.

These celebrated instruments are now offered to the public in New and Elegant Styles at the very Lowest Prices consistent with Best Material and Workmanship. They may be purchased on

Easy Monthly or Quarterly Installments

or Rented until Rent pays for them.

Every organ warranted to give satisfaction. Illustrated catalogne free.

Mason & Hamlin Organ Company.

Boston, 154 Tremont Street,

New York, 25 Union Square,

Chicago, 250 & 252 Wabash Ave.

AGENTS donble their money selling Dr Chase's Improved ($2) Receipt Book Address Dr. Chase's Printing House Ann Arbor, Mich. [3Aug765t,]

Agents Wanted!

TO SELL THE PUBLICATIONS OF

EZRA A. COOK & CO.

Liberal Terms Offered.

Capable persons who are in need of pecuniary aid may clear

Handsome Profits,

While at the same time aiding the cause of Reform. Apply to EZRA A. COOK & CO., No. 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1	square, 1 insertion,		$3.00
1	square (1 inch deep)	one month	7.00
1	"	2 "	10.00
1	"	3 "	15.00
1	"	6 "	25.00
1	"	12 "	40.00

Discount for Space.

On 3 squares 5 per cent, On 3 squares 10 per cent
On 4 " 15 " " On 5 " 20 "
On ¼ col. 25 per cent On one col. 30 per cent

SOMETHING NEW.

A CHART OF MASONRY

Showing the degrees from the first to the thirty-third, entitled

Degrees of Ancient Accepted Scottish Freemasonry,

According to a Mannal by Wm. M. Cunningham 33d Degree.

Designed by Rev. P. Stoddard, to explain Freemasonry, as shown by Morgan's Exposition and Richardson's Monitor.

A Neat Lithograph 22x28 Inches.

Single copies finely colored, post paid	$ 7[illegible]
Per dozen " " " "	5 00
Per 100 " " " " Express charges extra	35 00
Single copy, colored, varnished and mounted postpaid	1 00
Per dozen colored, varnished and mounted, post paid	7 50
Per 100, colored, varnished and mounted, express charges extra	50 00

25 COPIES OR MORE SENT AT THE 100 RATES.

TERMS FOR THE CYNOSURE.

$2.00 per annum, in advance.
20c " " " " for postage.

All who canvass for the CYNOSURE are allowed a cash commission of twenty per cent. or twenty-five per cent in books at retail prices, one-half this percentage on renewals, and any one sending $100. for the CYNOSURE during three months, will be entitled to an extra five per cent.

All responsible persons who desire to promote this reform are authorized to act as agents.

Renewals.

The date at which subscriptions expire, is with each subscriber's name on the address label.

Please send renewals before this date occurs. Notice if the date is changed to correspond soon; if not, or if the paper fails to come, write without delay.

How to Send Money.

Post office orders, checks or drafts on Chicago or towns east of Chicago, and currency by express may be sent at our risk. If it is not possible to send by either of the four ways named, money in a registered letter may be sent at our risk, but it is not as safe.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

"In Secret Have I Said Nothing."—Jesus Christ.

EZRA A. COOK & CO., PUBLISHERS, NO. 13 WABASH AVENUE.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, AUGUST 9, 1877.

VOL. IX., No. 45.—WHOLE NO. 385. WEEKLY (post paid) $2.20 A YEAR.

Contents.

	Page
EDITORIALS:
TOPICS OF THE TIMES	1
The Railroad Strike	8
Sovereign Grand Inspectors General	8
CONTRIBUTED AND SELECTED:
The Origin of Strikes	1
Some Misapprehensions about Holiness	2
Judged by an Old Rule	2
Our Foreign Letter	3
U. S Courts on the Strike	4
The Publishing House	4
Address of Rev. E. I. Grinnell (concluded)	6
CORRESPONDENCE:
A Duty to Pastors; A National Warning; A Masonic Governor for Iowa; Political Action in Iowa; Hayes and Masonry	5-6
Knights of Pythias Ritual	12
N. C. A. Receipts for July	9
Home Circle	10
Children's Corner	11
Home and Farm	11
Sabbath School	7
Religious Intelligence	5
News of the Week	9
Publishers' Department	16

Notices

THE TENTH NAT'L CONVENTION.

of the National Christian Association will be held in Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 23rd to 25th next, beginning on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 23rd with a preliminary meeting for social converse and prayer in the afternoon of the same day. Let every friend of the reform do what he may be able for the success of this meeting: by arranging his affairs so as to be present; or, assisting to send a delegate; by having the editor of his local paper print the notice of the meeting; by suggesting some topic for practical discussion to the programme committee; but, above all, by prayer to God for his blessing upon the meeting. Let every local or auxiliary association arrange to be represented.

Topics of the Time.

The strike has taught the authorities of several cities a lesson they have been wilfully slow in learning. Pittsburgh, Chicago and several other cities closed all their saloons at their mayor's order; and none of the many proclamations of that mob week were felt to be more needed by all good citizens. It is in order now for journals like the Chicago Tribune and Alliance and H. W. Beecher's Christian Union to give the reasons of this notable failure of their light wine and lager beer philosophy. If such liquors are soothing and sedative, useful for promoting sociality, good cheer and friendly feelings why were not loads of the stuff distributed to the infuriated crowds? Why were not the mobs captured and turned into good citizens by the beer keg? Nevertheless all good citizens will rejoice to see sometime in more auspicious days a long rest from the rule of King Gambrinus. Perhaps the authorities of New York learned a useful lesson also, for they have just ordered the police to arrest on sight all violators of the liquor laws.

To understand the situation of the armies in Bulgaria, and the importance of the Plevna battle on July 24th and 25th, we must look upon the Russian columns penetrating like a wedge the hostile territory southward from the bridge at Sistova, across the Balkans, until Gen. Gourka with an army of nearly forty thousand was two-thirds of the way from the Danube to Adrianople. The sides of the wedge opened as if on a hinge, to force the Turks across the mountains on either hand. Nikopolis on the west fell to the invader and Rustchuk was almost surrounded, while the Russian army first across the Danube, in the swamps between the river and the sea, were ready to open on flank or rear. But a new administration at the head of the Turkish armies began a vigorous resistance. The army from Widin marched east, Mehemet Ali from Shumla marched west and Sulieman Pasha with what was left from the Montinegrin campaign, reinforced, marched north, all bearing on Tirnova, the Russian head-quarters. Advances on the east and south were checked and before either army on the west was aware of the other's presence the Turks were found in a strong position at Plevna. The Russians were beaten the first day. A council of war decided the Turkish advance to be too threatening to the whole Russian army to be allowed and a great battle was risked by Baron Krudener in command. After terrible fighting he drove part of the enemy from his first line, but the Turks fought furiously and held the field at night, when Bashi-Bazouks completed the horror by butchering the wounded. This battle is nearly a Bull Run to the Russians in the estimation of many, but it will prove probably only a serious check to the Russian advance. The immense reinforcements at his command will enable the Czar to recover and begin again, as he has in Armenia.

Mississippi will elect one of the five clamoring Democratic candidates for her governor in the fall. Last month the Republican State Committee met in Jackson and adopted an address to its colleagues throughout the State, explaining their reasons for giving over the State to the other party and withdrawing from the political contest. Though with thirty thousand majority in the State, the Republicans cannot find men to venture themselves as its candidates. "Fraud, intimidation and violence," says the committee, "have practically disfranchised the the Republican party in this State." "With the recollections of the campaigns of 1875 and 1876 fresh in our memory we decline to engage in a conflict which promises an increase of bitterness, with equally disastrous results." The committee, however, endorses President Hayes' "Southern policy," and tenders him prayerful sympathy and earnest good will, while rebuking his opposers North and South. The political condition under which they labor and which all good men deplore, existed, says the address, long before Mr. Hayes came to the presidency, and the course now adopted "had become a necessity before even he was nominated:" In 1873 the Democrats of the State declined to nominate, but to their dishonor it must be said that intimidation and massacre, as now, were not the reasons of their action.

The twenty-fifth annual session of the National Division of the Sons of Temperance was held in Detroit on the 20th of June. The efforts of this society, like all other temperance lodges, being directed more "for the good of the order" than for simple temperance reform, the following from the report of the "patriach," Louis Wagner of Philadelphia, is to the point: "While we have thus extended our territorial limits our actual membership has suffered a sad falling off in numbers, amounting to over twelve thousand. Only fourteen grand divisions have gained upon their reports of last year, and the decrease of some of the jurisdictions is perfectly frightful." Mr. Wagner also adds these figures: "Bro. Hodges, in his report as most worthy scribe to the session in 1868, showed a membership of 92,646; admitted since, 407.221; reinstated, 24,641; total, 524,328. In his report for 1877 he shows a membership of 76,883, showing a net loss, after nine years of active labor, of 447,445. Here we have a record of nearly half a million of people who have been induced, within the brief period of nine years, to enter our order, and who have passed away from us without leaving a trace behind. What a fearful waste of time and money to do so much and accomplish so little.'" Had this lodge served God with half the zeal it served itself it would not now be sounding forth such lugubrious notes. Let the Sons of Temperance and all other secret orders of the kind follow the honorable example of their brethren in Canada, throw away their follies and with singleness of heart and true love for fallen man use those open, Scriptural and most effectual means for his rescue which God has placed in their power.

THE ORIGIN OF STRIKES.

In a work before us, entitled "The Cradle of Rebellions," which was translated from the French of Lucien De la Hodde by Gen. Phelps, and which gives the history of the secret societies of France, we see that strikes are of French origin. They grew out of the education given to French workmen by secret societies. In 1840 thirty thousand workingmen of Paris deserted their workshops, spread themselves over the quays, the public places, and environs of the city, and occasioned the greatest concern and alarm among the people. They remained encamped for two days on the heights of Saint Chaumont, where they were worked upon assiduously by scheming demagogues who sought to direct them in an armed attack upon the government. The capital lay spread out before them with all its tempting riches; but in that capital were their wives and children, and all that they held dear; and on reflection they found, what all strikers must find, that to place the purse of the property holder under the exactions of the laborer is nothing but robbery, under which neither the rights of property, nor wages, nor the interests of civilized society are safe.

In short, these Parisian strikers found that they were sacrificing a real interest for the sake of chimerical advantages, and they quietly dissolved of themselves. They had been deceived by the ideas which they had acquired from the secret societies of Paris, and had come to conceive that the destinies of the nation were in their own hands. For this is the pernicious character of all secret societies: while claiming to possess all the virtues of benevolence, charity, patriotism, etc., in the highest degree, they naturally seek every opportunity to impress these virtues upon society and make the people happy. They are conspirators for the people's good, but are too impatient to take the people along with them in their schemes of social improvement. They would govern the world on the narrow, exclusive principles of secret association. They would blindfold men as they themselves have been blindfolded, and thus lead them to see a new light.

The "Internationalists" are regular descendants from the the French secret societies, whose career in France culminated in the disastrous conflagrations of Paris at the close of the Franco-Prussian war. This terminal pyrotechy, one would think, ought to have proved glory enough for one century, but we now find these incendiaries at work in the United States. The property destroyed by them in Pittsburgh alone is estimated at three millions of dollars. The misguided men who thus destroy the property which they cannot honestly possess, are giving the strongest plea possible for an increase of the standing army and the introduction of absolute government. One of their set of resolutions which we have before us points in that direction. The purport of these resolutions is that workmen on the various railroads will rise in mass to claim their just rights; that the government of the United States has allied itself with capitalists against "workingmen;" that the that the "workingmen's party" sympathises with the railroad employes in demanding "equitable remuneration for their work;" and that they array themselves on the side of those who suffer robbery and oppression, and will stick to them at all hazards to the end of the contest. This is the very old slang phraseology of the Communists of Paris previous to one of their insurrections against law and order.

The pretensions of these men amount to this: that if two men promise to do a piece of work, one for seventy-five cents and the other for one dollar, the capitalist or employer must prefer the latter, at the dictation of a secret society, which undertakes to decide which sum is equitable! In this assumption of dictatorial power we can see the spirit and teaching of Freemasonry, and not the justice, equity, and benevolence of the government of the United States. Freemasonry can be seen in every lineament of this great railroad strike.

Where the workingmen make their own government, as they do in the United States, it is absurd for them to resort to any other power for redress of grievances and least of all to this foreign power of Freemasonry, which originates and rules in England and France. The workingmen are in the majority in the United States; they make the government, both State and federal; and it is anarchy and confusion to rise up in a violent insurrection against the government of their own making. If workingmen had no votes here, then perhaps there might be some reason in demanding a dollar where the work can be done for seventy-five cents, and in keeping up prices when the laws of trade compel them to go down; but even then they would find their efforts futile. A man may be robbed with a pistol at his breast, but no one will willingly pay a dollar for what he can have at half the sum, whatever kind of government may prevail.

What is the motive of this strike which is so evidently got up by the aid and inspiration of Freemasonry? What emissaries have been at work among railroad men? Are they from foreign capitalists? Is the blow aimed against the government of the United States, or simply against the Republican party? Is it a means of bringing discredit upon the United States in the eyes of workingmen abroad, whose services may be needed at home for an European war? How many of these strikers are Americans? Where do their allies, the tramps, come from?

These questions are all worthy of examination, and they will serve to confirm us Anti-masons in the belief that it is high time for our party to come forward and take the balance of power into our own hands. They will confirm many of us in the persuasion that we should never pay one cent of money to a Masonic preacher; never vote for a Mason for office, nor never go to the Lord's table with men who persist in confounding the truths of Christ with the lies of Freemasonry. We who do this participate in the crime of dishonoring the Lord, and thus render all national government impossible.

Reader, do you believe in your heart that Freemasonry can ever represent the interests of the working men of the United States or any other country? Will you be deceived by this new dodge? Can men who have advocated slavery be relied on to form a trustworthy "workingman's party?"

AMERICAN.

Some Misapprehensions About Holiness.

BY REV. H. H. HINMAN.

All Christians admit that we ought to be holy and that no one ought to discourage any honest aspiration for a better life. If the doctrine of Christian holiness has been so presented as to be misunderstood, such misrepresentation, however sincere or well-intentioned, ought to be corrected. The special objection urged against this doctrine is that the Scriptures give no authority for, nor do they mention a single instance of any second conversion or second change after conversion, and that the Bible everywhere teaches that the soul at conversion is freed from sin. Many passages are quoted in proof of this, among others 1 John 1:9. The inference is that the highest state attainable is that in which we are brought at conversion, and that the most we can expect is a growth or maturing in the inward experience. Such a conclusion is at first view plausible, but is practically false and wholly unfavorable to the best Christian development. 1st. Because holiness is an absolute condition of our salvation; without holiness no man can see the Lord. And 2nd, Christians as a general fact do not live lives of continued holiness, and hence it follows necessarily that in order to see the Lord they ought to become holy, which they confessedly are not. To escape this dilemma the Catholics have the doctrine of purgatory in which souls are said to be purged from their sins and fitted for heaven, and the Protestants the doctrine of sanctification at or near death and as a result of dissolution. It is safe to say that neither of these doctrines has any authority in the Bible. The idea that Christians cannot become holy in this life is calculated in its very nature to discourage all aspirations after holiness, as we can never seek for what we hold to be unattainable.

What then is the truth?

1st. Every Christian at his conversion is made free from sin.

2nd. He is kept so so long as he abides in Christ.

3rd. Experience shows that he is exceedingly liable to fall into sin by reason of the weakness of his faith; and

4th. Hence the necessity that he shall have that fuller development of faith by which Christ shall "keep him from falling and preserve him faultless to the day of his coming." This further manifestation of grace is as truly a Divine work as when he first submitted to God, and he often feels its necessity and rejoices as greatly over its attainment. This is not a new birth; it is not a second conversion (except in the sense that all new truths when accepted implies conversion) but is a new experience and a higher Christian life. Now what is the evidence that such an experience is attainable by Christians?

1st. Historically; in all ages of the church both among Roman Catholics and Protestants and among almost all divisions of Protestants, there are and have been many who testify to this as a clear, unmistakable experience.

2nd. These Christians are among those who are universally regarded as living the best lives and most actively engaged in works of benevolence and Christian reform.

3rd. The Bible teaches that God commands it; that the Gospel promises it; that Christ and the apostles prayed for it, and Peter and Paul—if no others—professed and possessed it. Peter at or before the day of Pentecost came into a higher life, and in 2nd Peter 1:4 he has told us how it may be attained. And Paul was crucified with Christ. His life was hid with Christ, and Christ lived in him. This was entire sanctification. Let no one vainly oppose the truth because some have unfortunately presented it, but let us rather accept and rejoice in it.

Wheaton, Ill.

Observe the order in which Providence sends your mercies. See how one is linked strangely to another, and is a door to let in many. Sometimes one mercy is introductive to a thousand.

Judged by an Old Rule.

BY JAMES M'CLEERY.

It is an old adage that an individual may be known by the company he keeps. If we judge of secret societies by this rule they will appear bad. Men whose intentions are right do not usually shun the light, but those who are wrong. If men wish to advance the general prosperity of a neighborhood or country they do not form secret societies to accomplish this end. If they wish to form associations for the promotion of science, or arts, or education, or agriculture; or if they wish to form Bible societies, or Sunday schools, or to build public improvements, or to assist the destitute and suffering, they do not keep these things secret. The more the people can be made acquainted with all the facts concerning them and the more open and straight-forward all the transactions are conducted so much the better. But on the other hand secrecy is necessary to the success of tyranny and dishonesty. Tyrants will not suffer their acts to be brought into the light of public investigation. Thieves and counterfeiters and villains who conspire against society for the attainment of selfish and devilish ends have their associations, and these associations are invariably secret associations. They meet under cover of darkness with closed doors and windows, taking every precaution to prevent the detection of a single word or act. They have their signs and passwords; they are sworn under the strongest penalties to be true to their accomplices and let no secret escape them. Every one can see the importance of secrecy in such a combination as this; divulgence would break it up and send all its members to the penitentiary or gallows. But secrecy is not necessary to the success of a society which is substantially good.

It may be thought by some that although these societies are not founded exactly upon the right principle, yet the intention of their members is good and they cannot be productive of much harm and may do some good. This is mixing up good and evil more than we have any right to do. Our great Lawgiver has said, "No man can serve two masters, for either he will hate the one and love the other; or else he will hold to the one and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon." He has also said, "He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad." An organization which is as extensive as some of the secret societies of the present day, working as persistently as they do, and with all the appliances that they can make use of, should not be treated with indifference. An organized body has life and laws of its own which control the actions of the individual members who belong to it. If the nature of the organization be bad, mere individual excellence of character cannot long hold it in check or resist it. The good intention of the individual cannot control the evil operations of an organization which is essentially wrong, and the members of a society are not likely to remain for a long time better than the society itself.

There is nothing of the open, generous, confiding, catholic spirit in these societies; on the contrary they foster darkness, selfishness, suspicion and all the evil demons which distract society. They are hideous social parasites fastened upon society to prey upon it and suck its blood. They absorb into themselves the strength and vitality of all our institutions, and leave them like eggs sucked by vermin, nothing but hollow forms. They teach no one to stand on his own platform, and while looking to God alone, to confide in his fellow-man instead of colluding together to gain secret advantage by illegitimate combinations. Are secret society men willing to divest themselves of all the unfair advantage which they derive from their secret signs and grips and place themselves on the same level with the rest of their countrymen? Until they are willing to do this, until they exhibit this respect and confidence for their fellow-men their boasted excellence is but an empty name.

I can conceive of but two reasons for secrecy. One is, where persons are deprived of their natural rights they may resort to secrecy to enjoy these rights or to protect themselves from dangers which threaten them. The other reason is, where persons wish to practice some arts or gain some advantage which does not rightfully belong to them, they resort to secrecy to accomplish their object. If the object which these secret societies seek to accomplish is legitimate, and if they are not hindered by a tyranical government or otherwise, what is the use of reserting to secrecy, closed doors, sentinels, sworn obligations, grips, passwords, etc. It is unreasonable to suppose that any one would resort to such things without some cause; but in this free government no one is deprived of any essential right or privilege belonging to him; we must therefore conclude that these societies are seeking some advantage over others which does not rightfully belong to them.

It is an admitted fact that crime is on the increase in the United States, and it is a serious question whether this increase of crime is not owing, in some degree at least, to the increase of secret societies. Do not persons expect to be shielded by them from the consequences of their crimes?

"Be not deceived; God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the spirit shall of the spirit reap life everlasting."

Monroe, Iowa.

Our Foreign Letter.

History and art at Cassel—The Prison of Napoleon III—Hercules victorious as of yore—Eisenach and the Wartburg — Luther's friendly prison—The Management of German forests—Cows gone home—The art of war makes a garden of peace at Nuremburg—A country for female suffrage—Ratisbon and the Walhalla—Into Austria and adown the "beautiful blue Danube."

Cassel is a charming place of 53,000 inhabitants, or more accurately an uninteresting place in a charming location. The view of the country surrounding it is delightful, rolling swells of green and wooded hills are round about and in the distance on every hand. Its picture gallery is celebrated. I could get up but little enthusiasm for only one. "Jacob blessing the sons of Joseph," which is truly a masterpiece—one of Rembrandt's most celebrated productions. Cassel was formerly the capital of the electorate of Hesse and lies on the river Fulda. In its great Frederick's square is a good statue of the Landgrave Frederick II, that Hessian prince who loaned England 12,000 Hessians in consideration of the sum of twenty-two million thalers—to fight us when struggling for independence—some of whom so gloriously surrendered at Trenton. His statue represents him as a fine looking man, but in the light of history I could not but think of him as being contemptibly small.

Four miles from Cassel is the famous castle of Wilhelmshohe. Formerly this castle was the residence of the Elector of Hesse. Here Napoleon III. was kept during the latter part of the Franco-Prussian war (1870-71). It is an immense structure of sandstone, in the form of a semicircle. Behind it rises a forest-covered hill on the sides of which are its magnificent park and pleasure grounds. In the rear of the castle is its celebrated great fountain, which plays several times a week and also on special occasions, sending up a stream of water one foot in diameter and 200 feet high. On the summit of the hill, (1360 feet high) in the rear of the castle, is a bold octagonal structure of stone, consisting of three vaulted stories the highest of which is borne by 192 clustered columns 48 feet in height. The obelisk on the top of the octagon is surmounted by a colossal statue of the Farnese Hercules in copper, 33 feet in height. Some four or five of us ascended a winding staircase and got inside of the giant's club, which will contain eight persons at once, with a little squeezing. The sun having shone brightly all day, Hercules' copper club was blazing hot. We were satisfied with a very brief visit. The park of the castle is splendid, its walks and woods delightful; and the view from the summit of the octagon simply superb. It is like that I mentioned as seen from Cassel, only far more extended, varied and beautiful.

Between Cassel and Eisenach is a lovely country abounding in hills and pleasant valleys. Eisenach has two attractions, first the Wartburg, and second beauty of location and environs, it being on the verge of one of the loveliest portions of the Thuringian forest. The Wartburg, 624 feet above Eisenach, is a famous castle founded in 1070, and recently restored. As it appears now it presents a faithful picture, it is said of the condition of the castle in the 12th century. It is intensely interesting to go over it, and see its various apartments, halls, ball room, etc., decorated in the style customary in medieval times. But what I visited it particularly for, was to see the room in which Luther lived. It was to the Wartburg that Luther was taken, after the Diet of Worms, a prisoner by the hands of friends in order to secure him from the vengeance of his papal enemies. His room has undergone but little alteration since he occupied it. It contains his table, bookcase, drinking vessel, letters and other memorials of him. Here he worked diligently at his translation of the Bible from the 4th of May 1521, to the 6th of March 1522. The veiw of country from the Wartburg is even more beautiful and picturesque than that from Wilhelmshohe. I visited near Eisenach a beautiful wooded glen, or valley, called the "Annathal." Narrow, cool and shady, it was a romantic place; at the upper end it narrowed to a fissure, some three feet wide and four hundred and fifty feet long, being then bounded by perpendicular rocks twenty or more feet in height, completely covered with moss, which was moistened everywhere by perpetually trickling water. The train road from Eisenach to Nuremburg (some 150 miles south of east) traverses pleasant valleys and a large portion of the way skirts the western border of the Thuringian forest. These forests of Germany; such as the Black forest, the Odenwald, etc., of which we hear occasionally in the United States, are large tracts of wooded hills and mountains of moderate height. Often, and perhaps generally, they are wanting in specimens of large timber. It is the custom in many places to cut entirely away certain portions of the forest every year. These cleared portions are replanted thickly with little trees, which are raised by the foresters for the purpose of thus transplanting, and while every year sees a certain portion of the forests cleared away, it sees also as large a portion replanted with young and thrifty trees. If any thus set out die or are injured their places are immediately filled by the ever watchful foresters. In the heart of the Bavarian forest I learn, however, there is quite a region which for some reason has never been opened up, where the trees are large and the forest represents a wild wilderness wood.

If David had lived in Germany, as it is at present, he could have sung of "the thousand hills" but not of the cattle on them. There was something painfully wanting to me as I traveled along, and for a time, I could not tell what it was. One sees no cattle grazing anywhere. I have only seen two herds of cattle in my travels through Wurtenburg, Baden, Hesse-Cassel and Bavaria; one of them numbered twenty and the other ten; each had a herdsman. I saw plenty of cows in Baden, but in every case they were either hitched to a wagon or drawing a plow or some other farm implement. Nuremberg is in every respect an interesting city. It is ancient and unique. No other city in Germany bears in every respect so venerable an aspect. Its lofty walls and towers are imposing and in an excellent state of preservation. Outside the walls and encircling them is a large moat, one hundred and five feet wide and fifty feet deep. We enter the city at the various gates, over bridges thrown across this moat. Perhaps this moat was once filled with water; now it is empty and turned into a vegetable garden. The buildings of the city are peculiarly and richly medieval, yet like its fortifications affected but little by the flight of centuries. Durer's celebrated picture of the Burgomaster Holzschuher in the Germanic museum is a marvel of art. I never saw a portrait that equalled it. The house in which he lived near to the city castle is a curious and antiquated building.

Ratisbon, (29,000 inhabitants) lies some sixty miles to the southeast of Nuremberg. Between the two places I noticed exceedingly heavy crops of hay and clover. As a rule I see working in the field five women to one man. Where the men are I do not know. Some doubtless are in the army, for Germany requires a certain number of years of army service from each able-bodied man. If the peasants were well-to-do, I might imagine many of the men in coffee and drinking saloons; (such places in the cities are always full—these Europeans seem to have so much leisure time at their disposal) but to think so of the peasantry might be uncharitable. Ratisbon, now known by the name of Regensburg, is pleasantly located at the junction of the Danube and the Regen, and possesses a magnificent cathedral. It was here that I first saw anything like extensive lumber yards, some of them equalling in extent those seen in large towns in Illinois. From the top of the cathedral is an excellent view of the famous battle-field of Ratisbon, and the sacristan pointed out to me a little wood not far distant, where Napoleon Bonaparte was wounded on that day; he was more eager to tell me that he was wounded than that he won. I walked to the "Walhalla" some six miles to the east, overlooking the Danube. It is a celebrated structure, loftily situated and looks in the distance much like Girard College. It is built of massive blocks of unpolished, grey marble, is 246 feet long and 115 feet wide, and is said to have cost with its contents $3,350,000. The interior is a richly decorated hall 180 feet long by 50 broad and is 56 feet high. It contains some fine statues and 101 busts of celebrated Germans. Luther is among them, but was not admitted for a long time, and not until after the abdication of King Lewis, who founded in 1830 this "Walhalla" or "hall of the chosen," the paradise of the ancient Germanic tribes.

Passau is a picturesque town on the Danube where we entered Austria. At Linz we took the boat for Vienna at half past seven A. M. The Danube between Linz and Vienna is majestic and muddy. Its steamers are neither numerous or imposing. As far as looks go they are sort of third rate affairs. Little attention is paid by Europeans either to beauty or convenience in the structure of cars and vessels, and even houses, excepting in capitals and large cities. They appear to think that the scenery of their continent atones for all such deficiences. In everything that is useful and practical, they are generally far behind the times. Their hoes are awkward, their plows crude affairs, their wagons ungainly, their pitchforks crooked sticks with ill-shapen prongs at the end of them and their scythes are not to be mentioned. The scenery down the Danube is in many places quite picturesque. Often there were wooded islands in the stream. Sometimes we went through a narrow gorge. Much of the way the country was level on either side. We passed several wealthy, palatial looking Benedictine abbeys—one of them situated on a hill some four miles from the stream, resembled with its many towers and immense proportions more a city than a building. Another passed just before we reached Vienna, near the river bank, owns two-thirds of all the environs of Vienna. Only a small arm of the Danube enters the city. Just before reaching it we were transferred from our mean boat to a still meaner and smaller one and in this magnificent manner we made our glorious entrance into the imperial city of Austria.

B. T. Pettengill.

The Illinois Asylum for feeble minded children which has so long been located at Jacksonville, is now removed into its new building at Lincoln, Logan county. All communications, applications, etc., should be addressed hereafter to that place. The school term will not commence until the middle of September. Dr. C. T. Wilbur is Superintendent of the institution.

The U. S. Courts on the Strike.

In sentencing eight strikers arrested at Peoria for interfering with a road under control of the United States court, Judge Drummond spoke as follows concerning the rights and wrongs of labor:

We all acknowledge the rights of labor. It is simply the right of the man who performs labor to obtain the best price he can from his employer; and not the right of dictating terms to the employer. The rights of labor result from an agreement made among men, not by a statement, or an order, or a dictation from one man to another. The rights of labor as thus understood, we all admit, and it is not improper, perhaps, to call those rights sacred. But when the right of labor consists in the claim of not only refusing to labor, but interfering with the labor of others—in other words, trampling upon the rights of labor,—we of course can have no feeling of respect for any such right as that. It is criminal; it is unlawful; it puts an end to all the relations of life, and strikes at the root of everything in which the right of labor consists.

Another thing: We all admit what is called the hardness of the times. We know that the business of the country has been disturbed; that as to men who are willing to labor, it is difficult for them at all times to find an opportunity to labor, or to get such compensation for their labor as they desire to have. But when we hear, as we do, owing to what has occurred within the last few days, of the compensation which is actually given to many of the employes of our railroads, we certainly must be somewhat surprised at the dissatisfaction which is shown by so many of them. I venture to say that a majority of the people of this country live on, and support their families on, much less than is given to many of the employes of the railroads. It would be a subject well worth consideration and the investigation of all thoughtful minds, as well as those who do not sometimes think so much as they ought, if we would only call to mind how many of our fellow-citizens of this country live on $400, $500, $600, or $700, and many of them on less than that, and support their families. While we admit, therefore, that there may be some reason for dissatisfaction, still there are two sides to every question of this sort, and it is one of those questions that must be settled by a common agreement between the employer and the employed; by the demand and the supply of labor. And this must be borne in mind; that we cannot change the nature of man. We cannot change his capacity and habits. We cannot make all men alike. Superiority of talents, of skill, of industry, of capacity for business, will always have its influence. It cannot be expected, therefore, that even all those men who will labor are able to, or will, obtain the same price. There must be differences. Different kinds of labor receive different kinds of compensation. It is not possible that brakemen or switchmen can obtain as much as the superintendent. All these things must have their influence. But it is one of the glories of our common country that every man, if he will only exercise the talents which he has, the industry which he possesses, has the opportunity for rising as high as his talents, as his industry and his capacity for business will enable him to.

The Publishing House.

FROM THE GENERAL AGENT.

With no disposition to complain or wish to censure, I am constrained to say, in justice to our common cause, that I feel a degree of disappointment in the apparent tardiness of friends in pushing the Publishing Fund of our reform to an early completion.

Three weeks ago I published an accurate statement of the fund as shown by the Treasurer's books. The statement showed a deficiency of $5,000, and I suggested a plan for raising this amount. Thus far responses either in subscriptions or donations have been limited to small sums, and unless the friends take a more practical and conclusive interest in this matter, I see no assurance of reaching a successful issue. There is no man in Chicago who knows the merits or equity of a business transaction better than Philo Carpenter, and there is no man whose interest or liberality in a good cause will go beyond his, but it is neither Christian, manly or safe to presume too far on his generosity. When Bro. Carpenter starts a subscription for $50,000 with an offer of the fee simple of a property worth in these contracted times $20,000, or two-fifths of the whole amount, is it not a matter of simple justice to the cause that his proportion should be fairly met? Were the terms "cash in hand," some would doubtless find it burdensome and others impossible to contribute, but under the very liberal proposal tendered donors can retain the principal until such time as may be agreed upon, paying interest annually, to be used as the work requires and the Board of Directors order.

Our work is beset with many difficulties in addition to those attending other reforms, and experience has shown that simple collections or voluntary contributions will not supply adequate funds to sustain the field work. Without a more reliable base of supplies, but few, if any, even of our best workers could long withstand the pressure. Every friend would regret such an event as a great calamity, and the enemy would rejoice as victors who gather the spoil. The forces already at work are altogether inadequate, and to retrench at this juncture would be disastrous. Where one tract or book is sent out scores and hundreds are needed, and the demand is destined to steadily increase. The public mind is enlisted and the hearts and consciences of the people stirred, and the fields are white for the harvest. The recent and almost simultaneous uprising of mobs from their secret lairs, which has resulted in the destruction of millions of property and scores of valuable lives, which deranged for a time the whole commerce of the country and produced a reign of terror in some infected localities, has directed attention to the dangerous characters and destructive power of secret combinations. In connection with the trials and execution of a few leaders of the secret band known as the "Molly Maguires," it has been developed that this lawless band of murderers and free-booters include in its membership town, county and state officials, and controlled the courts in some localities by electing its own members as justices, constables, judges and sheriffs; and when the people read these statements they instinctively ask, Why may not Freemasonry and other secret orders do the same thing? What prevents them from manipulating politics, packing juries and protecting each other in the civil courts? And no one can deny but what Freemasonry can be and often is used for these very purposes.

The attempted rebellion and organized resistance to the righteous and decisive action of the last United Brethren General Conference, is destined to bring this large and widespread body of Christians into more active and pronounced antagonism with the empire of darkness, and to bring this whole subject more prominently before all the churches. Present indications are that the time is not remote when the enlightened sentiment of the country and the fidelity of the church to her living Head will allow no man, bishop, elder or preacher though he may be, to dodge this issue or remain neutral on so vital a question. To abandon our colors or to withhold our substance in such a time as this is to neglect the most favorable opportunity that God has ever given us to lead many of our benighted, oath-bound fellow-men out into liberty and light and to sustain and strengthen those contending for the faith, and to strike telling blows upon the already shattered ramparts of our adversary. Is not God calling by these auspicious omens upon any and all who have the means to come up to his help against the mighty and secure a fortress for his cause and greatly augment the power of the National Association for good? So it seems to me, and for the accomplishment of this end I will labor, pray and wait.

J. P. Stoddard.

—The United Presbyterian gives us a most sad and touching case of loss and poverty resulting from the mob in Pittsburgh. Heaven grant the record may cease with this! Mr. James Kerr, says that journal, an industrious and esteemed member of the Fifth Church, Allegheny, was driven from his work in one of the railroad shops on Saturday morning. In the afternoon he went over to see how things were, and while standing at a distance was shot and instantly killed. His friends found his body at an undertaker's the next day. For several days his wife was in convulsions and five small children are fatherless and dependent.

—The Secretary and Agent, Rev. J. P. Stoddard, visited Crown Point last Sabbath.

Religious Intelligence.

—The Presbyterian church in the city of Mexico received last year over five hundred converts.

—The Lutheran Ministerium of New York, regarding the action of the last General Council (to which it belongs) on the subject of pulpit and altar fellowship as being far too liberal, has adopted resolutions instructing its delegates to the next council to withdraw unless the Council will recede from its position. The Ministerium will probably connect itself with the Synodical Conference, with which it is in sympathy. The position of these two bodies, General Council and Synodical Conference, in respect to reform questions is well known.

—Mr. A. R. Dodd of the last class at Wheaton College is engaged to fill one of the pulpits of Macomb, Ill., during the ensuing year.

—A commemoration of the death of John Huss, which was to have been held at Prague upon July 5, and to which Father Hyacinthe had been invited, was forbidden by the Austrian government on the ground that it would be an anti-Catholic demonstration.

—Mr. Moody, it is announced, will attend the Methodist camp meeting at Martha's Vineyard in August. Mr. Sankey has just held a series of two weeks' meetings at Cohasset and Scituate, two towns on the Massachusetts coast. The meetings were well attended.

—The Free Methodist brethren seem to be almost the sole heirs of the old-fashioned camp-meeting. During the present month they hold over twenty grove meetings. Many have been already held this year and conversions have rewarded the efforts of the preachers at them all.

—The Fere Methodist Seminary at North Chili, near Rochester, N. Y., has buildings worth nearly $14,000. A committee appointed at the last meeting of the trustees to examine the accounts reports the cost of buildings, furniture, library, etc., at $17,400, with a debt yet remaining of $4,400.

—Bismarck recently to a deputation of Protestant clergy of Wurtemburg, spoke hopefully concerning the ecclesiastical conflict. He said the government having enacted the necessary laws, quietly stood on the defensive, and could afford to wait for the papacy to accept the situation.

—The Presbyterians on the Pacific Coast are anxious to have the General Assembly provide for the opening of missions among the aborigines of Alaska. It is said that they desire Christian teachers from the United States. A missionary in British Columbia has paid several visits to Fort Wrangle, and reports that the Indians heard him gladly, and asked for teachers.

—During a late severe storm at Aledo, Illinois, the United Presbyterian church in process of erection and nearly finished, was destroyed. To add to the trials of the congregation their young pastor, Rev. T. B. Turnbull, has been stricken down with a severe sickness so that for a time his life was despaired of.

—The Wesleyan churches hold eight camp-meetings during the present month, at several Rev. N. Wardner, connectional evangelist, is expected. He will also attend a holiness convention to be held in Cedar county, Iowa, at Dayton chapel five miles northeast of Clarence city, beginning on the 28th inst. All the annual conferences of this denomination west of Pennsylvania will be held during this month and next.

—Mr. R. Pearsall Smith has again entered upon his work as an advocate of a "Higher Life," after being laid aside for a time by a deplorable scandal which arose about his work in England.

—Miss Van Duzen, from the Erzeroum Mission of the American Board, says the missionaries regard the prospective triumph of Russia with satisfaction, believing it will greatly advance the condition of the Armenians and open the way for Gospel work. The American missionaries whose stations are in Asiatic Turkey have determined to remain, although they have removed their families to Trebizond and upon an island in Lake Van for safety. These are missionaries at Erzeroum, Harpoot, Van and Bitlis.

—Very satisfactory accounts have been received in England of the progress of the mission settlement in Central Africa. Matatea, a powerful chief, has sent to Bishop Steere, who has charge of the Anglican mission in Zanzibar, to request missionaries to be sent to him. Two years ago Bishop Steere visited this chief. A new road to Lake Nyassa is to be opened from Kilwa. The exertions of the sultan of Zanzibar have perceptibly checked the land slave trade. A mission is to be established at Lake Tanganyika.

—Rev. Benj. Larrabee, of the American Presbyterian mission in Persia, in writing from Oroomiah to the British Council of the Evangelical Alliance, says a great revival has been in progress, and has swept through these churches in a manner unparalleled in the history of the missionary work in Persia. Village after village has been the scene of special religious service of absorbing interest. Congregations have risen from scores up to hundreds. Some feeble churches, of which they had come almost to despair, report hopeful conversions which will give them an increase of a hundred per cent. The special meetings which have been held in the different villages have been conducted principally by the native preachers.

Correspondence.

A Duty to Pastors.

Editor Cynosure: The cases of the Rev. W. Post and many others, godly ministers, who are called on to suffer for the Lord's sake, because they cannot fall in with the wickedness of those men who are deists in their secret lodges and professed Christians in the pulpit, call for serious consideration. How are these cases to be met? How can they be sustained in their protest against their brethren? It is easy to say, "Come out from among them and be separate, and touch not the unclean thing." But the question is, How can this be done? Must they form a separate church out of the scanty materials at their disposal, on this issue alone? Doubtful.

The fourth resolution of the Anti-masonic convention held at Marengo, Ill., partially meets such cases. It calls for the withholding of support from ministers of the Gospel who fellowship foresworn societies, but it does not say anything about what is to be done with the funds which are to be withheld from the unworthy. The Lord has need of these funds. If some of his servants are unworthy, there are others who are worthy. Take, then, the talent from the unworthy bishop and his fellow-slaves of the lodge and give it to the free man who is willing to work in Christ's vineyard, and is working, but greatly hindered by his fellows, who will neither let him work nor eat. Shall he starve to death when there is abundance of work for all and support likewise?

Let the conferences to which belong many godly workers in Christ's vineyard, who are turned out of work to starve, do their duty to these men. Let them be cheered by the warm hearts and open hands of those who are restrained in giving to unworthy hirelings and wolves in sheep's clothing, that they may be confirmed in Christ's service.

Thus it shall soon be felt by them, when their supplies are cut off, that God is not mocked, and his people cannot be deceived. Then they shall be fast enough in the net which they have laid for others. Their pride will be laid low. Let this step become practical and we shall soon see good results. There should not be need for a minister starving in these days for doing his duty.

Yours truly, J. D.

A National Warning.

Des Moines, Iowa,
July 24, 1877.

Editor Cynosure, — My Dear Brother: I infer from the papers that you again have occasion to say, "Therefore do the heathen rage and the people imagine vain things." It seems wonderfully providential that you are furnished, just at this juncture, with an argument of such terrible proportions against the army of secret societies. Why! it almost takes one's breath away to look out upon the country to-day and reflect that all this harvest of riot and robbery and bloodshed is but the legitimate "fruit of that forbidden tree." And then to conceive of the yet ungathered harvest!!

Of the many, very many startling lessons which our government, our churches and our people ought to learn from this unprecedented mob epidemic, which now fills and convulses the country, the first and most patent is most surely the danger of secret associations. Lecky says that the Roman emperors would not tolerate any class of secret orders, lest they should do what? Exactly what they are doing in this country to-day, and which they have been preparing to do for many years, an "imperium in imperio" to rule their rulers and defy the laws. Well, if our nation and the churches can sleep out such a terrific moral tempest as that which is now raging all abroad, then is our ruin as a nation not very far removed. May the good Lord help you still to "lift up your voice like a trumpet and show the people their transgressions," and the American people their fearful sin and danger.

Be assured, my dear brother, of my sincere sympathy and most earnest prayer. Very sincerely yours,

M. N. Miles.

A Masonic Governor for Iowa.

Editor Christian Cynosure.—A little over one year ago I was solicited to act as an elector for my respective district, to act in conjunction with the American ticket. After carefully weighing the matter I responded, that while I considered myself sound upon the American platform, loving and cherishing the principles therein set forth, I thought it an impossibility to successfully sustain those very worthy and respectable candidates, partly from the fact that I thought the people were not ready to vote against secrecy, and partly because a good man upon the Republican ticket had been nominated who, it was held, was Anti-masonic in his views and was a very great temperance man, and by voting for them (Walker and Kirkpatrick) I would give the Democrats an advantage which I did not wish to do, hence I declined to be an elector. But since then I have been made wiser if not better; and while I see with the same eyes now as then, I see differently in regard to some things and would undo them if I could. Were I to choose again I should most assuredly vote the American ticket. I have arrived at last at this conclusion: To vote for no person who is an adhering member of any secret organization if I know it. Neither will I hear or even give support to a minister of the gospel who is affiliated with lodgeism. I have no use for them, because I have no confidence in them. With regard to this matter I feel I am not alone. This feeling is fast becoming prevalent, so much so that I feel I am justified in sending you the following letter and reply for insertion in the Cynosure:

Montrose, Iowa, July 16, 1877.

Hon. J. H. Gear—Dear Sir: By consenting to become Governor of the State of Iowa, you virtually ask me for my vote. This you are quite likely to obtain, providing you are not affiliated with lodgeism.

I have always voted the Republican ticket when I knew the nominees were not secret oath-bound men.

Will you please inform me by letter what are your views relative to secret societies? if you are now, or ever have been a Freemason or Oddfellow? Fraternally yours,

W. H. Hitchcock.

Answer came in due time: "I am now and have been for thirty years a Freemason. (Signed,)
J. H. Gear.

Political Action in Iowa.

Springdale, Cedar Co., Iowa, July 28, 1877.

As we have no paper published in Iowa at this time by which we can communicate with each other, I take this privilege of asking the readers of the Cynosure in Iowa to give their opinions in some form through the paper or otherwise of making nominations for State officers. I saw Bro. Vandever about a month since and he thought then he would have his paper take the place of the Iowa Freeman the next week so we could communicate through that medium and understand the sentiments of our friends, but it has not yet made its appearance and the time is getting short for work before election.

There seems to be a large number of the friends of the anti-secret cause who are so much attached to old party lines and think they can do more to work in that and secure anti-secret men on the nominations, but with such demonstrations as were made at the last Republican State Convention I think it a very favorable time for honest Republicans especially temperance men to bolt, for I do not see how any true temperance man can vote for J. H. Gear for Governor after giving the Temperance Alliance so evasive an answer on that question in connection with his former record on temperance.

As Bro. Hinman expects to visit Iowa soon, I hope he will give the sentiments of the friends on political action with other things in his correspondence. I think it was an oversight at our State meeting that we did not hold a political meeting at that time and discuss the question and prepare for future action, but the time was so fully occupied and so many of the leading members had to leave before its close to meet other engagements that we thought best to leave it. I understand the Temperance Alliance are talking of making nominations, but they will be very likely to be secret society men that I cannot and will not vote for if I know them to be such.

Hoping to hear from the friends of the cause in different parts of the State of Iowa, I remain yours for the cause. Moses Varney.

Sympathy in the South.

Savannah, Ga.

Editor Cynosure: There are many evangelical Christians in the Southern States who cordially indorse your efforts to neutralize the poison of secretism, which is sapping the foundations of our constitutional liberties, and spreading the abominable heresy that man can be saved without the atoning merits of the Lord Jesus Christ.

In the murders perpetrated some months ago by a secret, oath-bound association in Pennsylvania, known as "Molly Maguires," which, to the credit of the Roman Catholic church, was denounced and exposed, we see the evil effects of oath-bound secret societies.

Our political parties are controlled in their nominations by members of secret societies, and, shameful as the fact is, even some of the churches are under the baneful influence of secretism. Thos. J. Edwards.

Hayes and Masonry.

We have always had some hope that the President would be able to reform the civil service to the utmost extent of his powers. But our faith is getting weaker as time rolls on. The Masonic factions of Baltimore have just had a savage fight for the keys of the Baltimore custom house. The President decided to give them to John L. Thomas, Jr.

Now, as Mr. Thomas has been placed in so important a position by our executive, the readers of the Cynosure have a right to know what sort of a man he is, and how he got the bunch of keys.

Well, Mr. Thomas is a lawyer and a Mason. He has been an office-seeker all his life, and has been wonderfully successful. He has always had rich Masonic brethren to help him get into office..

Mr. Thomas and myself both belonged to the Fifteenth Ward Know Nothing Council of Baltimore. He was one of the ring-leaders and orators and office-seekers. And I regard him as a regular Masonic demagogue of the Andy Johnson type. There can be no doubt that the Royal Arch Masons are putting a blind bridle on the President, and he will not be able to see civil service reform much longer.

No party that will receive Masons and elevate them to office and positions of importance can ever reform anything or give us good government. We are not reasonable in expecting anything from the Masonic log-rollers of the once glorious Republican party. It is time for us to realize that the great anti-secret party is our only hope and the only hope of the Republic.

E. J. Chalfant.

T. L. Cuyler gives the following recipes for securing sunshine in the soul: "1. Look at your mercies with both eyes; at your trials and troubles with only one. 2. Study contentment. In these days of inordinate greed and self-indulgence, keep down the accursed spirit of grasping. What they do not have makes thousands wretched. 3. Keep at some work of usefulness. Working for Christ always brings heart health. 4. Keep your heart's window always open toward heaven. Let the blessed light of Jesus' countenance shine in. It turns tears into rainbows."

Address by Rev. E. I. Grinnell.

BEFORE THE IOWA STATE CONVENTION AT OSKALOOSA, APRIL 26, 1877, AND VOTED TO BE PRINTED.

[Concluded.]

Let us now look at another Masonic precept frequently quoted as evidence of the moral character of the order. "A Mason is obliged by his tenure to obey the moral law." (See Mackey's Manual of the Lodge, page 215.) Viewing the above precept from a Christian standpoint, we would conclude that "strict obedience" to its teachings would render the initiate measurably "free from sin," but when we learn that by the moral law Masonry only means "lex naturæ," or the law of nature, then it is that we find our first conclusion concerning it a delusion, and we behold Masonry stripped of its garb of hypocrisy and clothed in the true garb, with the vestments of infidelity. We quote from Mackey's Masonic Jurisprudence, page 502. After quoting the above precept, Mr. Mackey says: "Now, this moral law is not to be considered as confined to the decalogue of Moses, within which narrow limits the ecclesiastical writers technically restrain it, but rather as alluding to what is called the lex naturae, or the law of nature. This law of nature has been defined by an able, but not recent writer on this subject, to be the will of God relating to human actions, grounded on the moral differences of things; and, because discoverable by natural light, obligatory upon all mankind. This is the moral law to which the old charge already cited refers, and which it declares to be the law of Masonry. And this was wisely done, for it is evident that no law less universal could have been appropriately selected for the government of an institution whose prominent characteristic is its universality. The precepts of Jesus could not have been made obligatory on a Jew; a Christian would have denied the sanctions of the Koran; a Mohammedan must have rejected the law of Moses, and a disciple of Zoroaster would have turned from all to the teachings of his Zend Avesta. The universal law of Nature, which the authors of the old charges have properly called the moral law, because it is, as Conybeare remarks, a perfect collection of all those moral doctrines and precepts which have a foundatio.. in the nature and reason of things, is, therefore, the only law suited, in every respect, to be adopted as the Masonic code."

From the above we learn that "strict obedience" to the "moral law" of Masonry is to simply obey "the law of nature." The decalogue of Moses, embracing the general principles of all truly moral and religious systems, is said to be of such "narrow limits" that it is unfit "to be adopted as the Masonic code."

Here is a thought worthy the notice of the heralds of the cross and professed Christians who meet within the tyled recesses of the lodge. Lodge worship, in which you participate, only requires "strict obedience" to the "law of nature," as a means of freedom from sin. And said "law of nature" is "discovera ble by natural light." May we not ask you whether you really believe your Bible, which says, 1 Cor. ii. 14: "The natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God; for they are foolishness unto him, neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned? And, has not God made a mistake in sending his Son into the world, giving us a Bible, and his Holy Spirit to guide us into all truth?

Since, according to Masonry, a common stone hammer, or gavel, will do the work of Christ, and "strict obedience" to the "law of nature," "discoverable by natural light," is all sufficient.

Again, in the above quotation, we are told that the law of nature is "a perfect collection of all those moral doctrines and precepts which have a foundation in the nature and reason of things." The deistic idea you observe. Nature and reason substituted for the revealed will of God. The Divine standard is discarded as being of "too narrow limits," the "law of nature" being broad, and having its "foundation in the nature and reason of things," must take the place of the holy Scriptures as the "moral law" of Masonry. Now, morally speaking, men read nature differently. What one says is right, as he reads the "law of nature," by the aid of "natural light," another says is wrong. As the Divine standard is discarded as too "narrow," it follows that every person who reads the law of nature by natural light will erect a standard of morality of his own or in other words be a law unto himself. As the infidel Rosseau, a writer of the "Satanic school," expresses it, "I have only to consult myself concerning what I do. All that I feel to be right is right. All that I feel to be wrong is wrong. All the morality of our actions lies in the judgment we ourselves form of them." (See Horne's Introduction to the Bible, unabridged, vol. 1, page 32.) "Strict obedience" to the Masonic code, then, is to turn deist and embrace the tenets of the Rosseau and Voltaire school. Masonry is downright deism; nothing else; and if Masons are not all deists it is not because their Masonic precepts are not deistical.

As corroborative testimony that our conclusions are correct, we call attention to the language of Mr. Chase in his Digest of Masonic Law, page 206. He says: "According to what is generally received as ancient Masonry, a candidate must be a —— man of honor and honesty, and, before his initiation, must acknowledge his trust to be in God; any further religious test is not necessary, and to require that a candidate profess a belief in the divine authenticity of the Bible, or a state of future rewards and punishments, is a serious innovation in the very body of Masonry." Again, in the same book, on pages 207 and 208, we are told: "Blue lodge Masonry has nothing whatever to do with the Bible. It is not founded on the Bible; if it was it would not be Masonry; it would be something else." Can language be more positive?

If the Bible is not wholly ignored as a divine book in the above quotations from standard Masonic authority, then the language is devoid of any meaning.

The hypocrisy of the deist Voltaire, who, with bended knee and uplifted eye, adored the cross of Christ and received the host in the communion of the church of Rome, while, at the same time, he was plotting the destruction of Christianity and introducing the awful watch-word of his party, "Crush the wretch," is only equalled by that of Masonry in claiming divine sanction and offering a means of being "free from sin" while, with diabolical effrontery, she calls Christ an impostor by offering to do his heaven-assigned work with a stone hammer or gavel, and for her moral code adopts the "law of nature" instead of the law of God.

"Once in the history of the world avowed Bible rejectors controlled a nation." For ten years they had opportunity to try the experiment of ruling a people and of giving the world a specimen of a nation ruled by the light of nature and of human reason. "Public worship was utterly abolished. The churches were converted into temples of reason, in which licentious homilies were substituted for the proscribed service, and an absurd and ludicrous imitation of the pagan mythology was exhibited under the title of the religion of reason. Contempt for religion or decency became the test of attachment to the government. All distinctions of right and wrong were confounded. The grossest debauchery triumphed. The whole nation was converted into one vast field of rapine and blood. To contemplative men, it seemed as if the knell of the whole nation was tolled and the world summoned to its execution and funeral." May we not, as a nation, learn a lesson thereby? With a host of midnight clans in our midst, united and sworn under murderous and blasphemous oaths, and, in their midnight orgies, inculcating the principles of infidel France to their disciples, are our civil and religious institutions in no jeopardy? Judge ye.

Masons reply to the proof that they are guilty of rejecting the holy Scriptures as a moral code by saying that "the Bible is one of the great lights of Masonry, and is found upon the altar of every lodge." We answer that the square and compass are also great lights in Masonry, and are found in the lodges of all countries, while the Bible is used as one of the three great lights only in those countries where Christianity is the prevailing religion. (We quote from Mackey's Masonic Jurisprudence, pages 33 and 34.)

"It is a landmark that a book of the law shall constitute an indispensable part of the furniture of every lodge. I say advisedly, a book of the law, because it is not absolutely required that everywhere the Old and New Testaments shall be used. In all lodges in Christian countries the book of the law is composed of the Old and New Testaments; in a country where Judaism was the prevailing faith the Old Testament alone would be sufficient, and in Mohammedan countries and among Mohammedan Masons, the Koran might be substituted." We learn from this that it is not always the Bible that is found upon Masonic altars, nor (as the monitors inform us) that is "dedicated to God because it is the inestimable gift of God to man." The truth is, Masonry says to the Christian, "The Bible is the inestimable gift of God to man;" turning to the Mohammedan, she says, "The Koran is the inestimable gift of God to man," and to the disciple of Zoroaster the same language is used concerning the Zend Avesta.

An institution that thus brings the Koran, the Shaster and the Zend Avesta and places them on a level with the Bible cannot be said to have much reverence for the holy Scriptures, that inform us all we know concerning the mission of Christ.

Though, to catch the unwary, she may hypocritically parade the Bible on her altars, and call it a "great light," yet, as a moral code, she says it is of "narrow limits," and turns from it to the "law of nature" for counsel and guidance.

In our investigation of Masonic precepts we find that, like the obligations, they are Christless. And, notwithstanding this, she offers as high a state of grace as is taught in the Bible. Mackey's Manual of the Lodge, page 35, says: "The speculative Mason is engaged in the construction of a spiritual temple in his heart, pure and spotless, fit for the dwelling place of him who is the author of purity, and whence every evil thought and unruly passion are to be banished, as the sinner and the Gentile are excluded from the sanctuary of the Jewish temple." Brother Inskip, or any other advocate of the doctrine of holiness, never offered, in the name of Jesus, a higher state of grace than Masonry, in the above quotation, claims for its disciples. And all this by "strict obedience" to Christ-rejecting precepts, to obligations profane and murderous, and adherence to the "law of nature," founded "in the nature and reason of things," "discoverable by natural light." Can hypocrisy and devil worship be more apparent? The devil has clothed himself in Masonic attire, and, with his lamb-skin duly adjusted, the gavel in one hand, Masonic obligations in the other, with the "law of nature" for his platform, he exclaims: "You have no need of Christ or the Bible. Come and be stripped, blindfolded, haltered, and duly sworn; then, by "strict obedience" thou art "free from sin." Alas! many have gone after him saying, "Masonry (or devil worship), is good enough religion for me."

A few years ago professed Christians voted shackles on the Lord Jesus Christ, in the person of his children, because God had given them a skin of darkened hue, and he who raised his voice in behalf of the downtrodden of the land was greeted with eggs and the mob. To-day the enslaved are free and Frederick Douglass, once a slave, is now an officer of the United States government.

In this reform we have the same mob and rotten-egg power to contend with. The foe is more secure, being in ambush. Masonry has seven devils in it where slavery had one. Slavery assailed our Lord only in his humanity, while Masonry strikes at his divinity, and, with Satanic hate, seeks to drag him from his mediatorial throne by calling him an impostor in asserting that there is another way to the Father via the Masonic lodge.

Though the pulpit and the press have been largely "chloroformed by the lodge," they are being aroused to activity through the exertions of the National Christian Association and auxiliary societies, in spreading before the world the light of truth concerning Masonry. May the work of enlightening go on! The gospel, with its appliances has more power when put forth in purity and simplicity than the forces of Satan, even though they take refuge in secret chambers and communicate by means of murderous signs, used as types of murderous and blasphemous oaths, taken while "in search of light," and are led on by men in clerical gowns sworn to conceal crime, "murder and treason not excepted."

If we are faithful to Christ and the cause of truth, Masonry is sure to be overthrown. Ichabod is already being written on her temples of worship, on account of the better class coming out, while a lighter class is going in to her midnight orgies. God is raising up men in this cause. Men who can look the foe in the eye without blinking. Men iron-mailed with God's eternal truth, who can stand and let the bolts of the craft crash against their plated sides and fall harmlessly at their feet. Men of self-reliance, who, without learning it in the northeast corner of any Masonic hall, can stand up straight and tall amid the throngs of earth, and, with a consciousness that they are identified with the peerless royalty of God and the right, would disdain to bend to the secret foe. Men whom the fires of opposition and the prolonged heat of the conflict only crystallize into purer types of manhood and more lustrous forms of virtue. Men of cool heads and firm hearts, who can suffer and endure; who dare to do or to defy. With a band of such men, continually increasing, and the divine Christ as their captain, this reform will advance with the stately steppings of imperial triumph until Masonry, yielding to its conquering might, will be hurled to the abyss of darkness from whence it came. May God speed the day!

The Sabbath School.

LESSON XXXIII.—August 19, 1877.—THESSALONIANS AND BEREANS.

SCRIPTURE.—Acts, 17: 1-14. Commit 10-14.

1. Now when they had passed through Amphipolis, and Apollonia, they came to Thessalonica, where was a synagogue of the Jews.

2. And Paul, as his manner was, went in unto them, and three Sabbath days reasoned with them out of the Scriptures,

3. Opening and alleging, that Christ must needs have suffered, and risen again from the dead; and that this Jesus whom I preach unto you, is Christ.

4. And some of them believed and consorted with Paul and Silas: and of the devout Greeks a great multitude, and of the chief women not a few.

5. But the Jews which believed not, moved with envy, took unto them certain lewd fellows of the baser sort, and gathered a company, and set all the city on an uproar, and assaulted the house of Jason, and sought to bring them out to the people.

6. And when they found them not, they drew Jason and certain brethren unto the rulers of the city, crying, These that have turned the world upside down, are come hither also;

7. Whom Jason hath received: and these all do contrary to the decrees of Cesar, saying, that there is another king, one Jesus.

8. And they troubled the people, and the rulers of the city when they heard these things.

9. And when they had taken security of Jason and of the other, they let them go.

10. And the brethren immediately sent away Paul and Silas by night unto Berea: who coming thither, went into the synagogue of the Jews.

11. These were more noble than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind, and searched the Scriptures daily, whether these things were so.

12. Therefore many of them believed; also of honorable women which were Greeks, and of men not a few.

13. But when the Jews of Thessalonica had knowledge that the word of God was preached of Paul at Berea, they came thither also, and stirred up the people.

14. And then immediately the brethren sent away Paul, to go, as it were, to the sea; but Silas and Timotheus abode there still.

HOME READINGS.

Deut. 6: 1-25....Taught in the Family.
Ps. 19: 7-14....The Law Perfect.
John 5:24-47....Search the Scriptures.
2 Peter 3: 1-18... Keep us in Remembrance.
Eph. 6:10-17 and Rev. 1:9-18....The Sword of the Spirit.
1 Thes. 2: 1-20.. Paul's manner in Thessalonica. Study daily through the week the wonderful 119th Psalm.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"These were more noble than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind and searched the Scriptures daily, whether those things were so."—Acts xvii. 11.

Amphipolis—A city on the River Strymon, at the head of the gulf of that name, on the northern coast of the Aegean sea. It was 33 miles southwest of Philippi.

Appolonia—About 30 miles southwest of the above.

Thessalonica—Some 37 miles west of Appolonia, at the head of the Thermaic or Thessalonian gulf, at the northwestern point of the Aegean sea. This was the principal and most populous city in Macedonia, hence a most appropriate place for a starting point for the Gospel in Europe; as Paul said, in his letter to the church: "From you the Word of the Lord sounded forth like a trumpet, not only in Macedonia and Achaia, but in every place. (1 Thes. i. 8.)

Berea—Was 50 or 60 miles southwest of Thessalonica. It is yet a town of considerable importance.

There was probably no synagogue at the first two places. Though their persecutions arose almost universally from the Jews, yet the Apostles seemed to always select these places of meeting in which to begin their work. To begin with the Jews was Paul's "manner." His preaching was expository, proving from the Old Testament that Jesus fulfilled all prophecy concerning the Messiah.

The large majority of the converts were Gentiles as appears from 1st Thessalonians; not only those who had been proselytes but also idolaters. During his stay Paul supported himself by his own labor (1 Thes. 2:9; 2nd Thes. 3:7-9); he received aid also from the Philippian brethren (Phil. 4:15, 16.)

Jamieson remarks on the Bereans that "it is undeniable that the people no less than the ministers of the church, are entitled and bound to search the Scriptures; that they are entitled and bound to judge on their own responsibility, whether the teaching they receive from the ministers of the church is according to the word of God; and that no faith but such as results from personal conviction ought to be demanded or is of any avail."

READ FOR ILLUSTRATION.

V. 2.—And he came to Nazereth where he had been brought up; and, as his custom was, he went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day. Lu. 4:16; John 18:20; Acts 9:20; 13:5, 14; 14:1; 16:13, 19:8

And beginning at Moses and all the prophets, he expounded to them in all the Scriptures the things concerning himself. Lu. 24:27; John 5:39; 1:45.

V. 3.—Lu. 24:25, 26, 46; 1 Ps. 1:11; Is. 50:6; 53 10; Zec. 13:7; Acts 18 5, 28.

V 4.—Acts 28:17, 24; 1 Thess. 1:5-10; Acts 16:14.

V. 5.—Mat. 27:18; Acts 7:9; 13:45; 14:2. Mat. 13.45; Ps. 35:15.

V. 6.—Josh. 7:25; 1 Ki. 18:17; Lu. 23:5; Acts 16:20.

V. 7.—Lu. 23 2; John 18:36; Ps. 2:13.

V. 8.—John 19 12.

V. 10.—Acts 9 25; Mat. 10 23.

V. 11.—Pr. 1:5; Ps. 119:99; Mat. 13:23; 1 Thes. 1:6; Is. 8:20; 34:16; Lu. 16:29; John 5:39.

V. 13.—Ps. 25 9; 119:130; John 16:3.

THE ECLIPSE OF THE SOUL.—The moon in an eclipse, complained to the sun, "Why, O my dearest friend, dost thou not shine upon me as usual?" "Do I not?" said she; "I am sure I am shining as I always do. Why do you not enjoy my light as usual?" "O, I see," said the moon; "the earth has got between us." "Why, O Saviour," says the backsliding Christian, "do not I, as in former days, walk in the light of thy countenance?" "I am sure, troubled soul, I have not changed. The rays of my love are as warm and bright as ever. What can prevent them from reaching thee?" It is the world, troubled Christian, that has got between thee and Christ,

The Christian Cynosure.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, AUGUST 9, 1877.

The Railroad Strike.

Our national spasm, we hope, is over. Let us consider its cause, symptoms and means of prevention.

Two hundred and one years ago (1676) coals were hauled on wooden rails to the river from the mines of Newcastle, England. But the first passenger cars, on wrought iron or fish-belly rails, were run only fifty-two years ago, and the Union Pacific road across the American continent, uniting the two oceans, was opened in 1870, less than seven years since. In this short interval of less than fifty years the United States has invested in railroads $2,211,914,212, or above $50 to every one of our population. I know of no exact census of these roads, but the men employed on them and in the offices and shops are several hundred thousand, who, with their families, make an important part af the American people. But their numbers constitute the least element of their importance. They have in their hands the lives of all who travel, and their fingers are on the throat, veins and arteries of the commerce and comforts of the United States.

This railroad population, so material to our welfare, if not to our very existence as a nation, is, perhaps, more exposed to temptation and corruption than any other class of American industry.

Facilities for combination tempt owners to charge exorbitant rates, and managers to enormous salaries and the vices incident to luxurious living. And though six days would do the carrying business of the country better and cheaper than seven, the greed of commerce and the clamor of ungodly men, who hate the law of God, are perpetually driving trains over and through a broken Sabbath, though stockholders, managers and men would be benefited by keeping it sacred.

But the operatives who run the roads are, beyond almost all other classes, exposed to the causes which deteriorate character and destroy men. For the most part, they go upon the cars when mere boys, and are habitually away from home. If they were soldiers, they would have constant surveillance, at least; but when off duty, they are their own men; and they stop in the cities and villages, where, if anywhere, sharpers, loafers and gamblers inhabit; and if they ever have a Sabbath it is not because the road acknowledges itself bound to keep one.

Almost as soon as they set foot on the train they are beset to join a secret society, and are called "scabs" and persecuted if they refuse. The names of these "man-traps of Satan," as a Scotch divine called them, is legion. "The Trainmen's Union," which inaugurated the late strike, is but one of a multitude of "Brotherhoods of Engineers," "Labor Leagues," and "Workingmen's Unions," officered and run by ingenious and tonguey loafers, in their own interest.

This Trainmen's Union, which set on foot the bloody drama just now closed, was started by one A. R. Ammon, a man who was dismissed from the road at Fort Wayne. He first got somebody to swear him, took the oath, and flagmen, brakemen, firemen and conductors followed suit. The oath itself is not disclosed; nor is it necessary. These secret combinations are all children of one school, the Masonic lodge, which furnishes them their models, and whose head men watch over the whole dark brood to profit by their successes, and yet escape responsibility for their crimes.

The young brakeman or fireman is drawn into one of these halls. He is amused, puzzled, dazzled, initiated, fooled, awed and subjected to the unknown superiors of the invisible clan, which unknown superiors are often in league with both employer and employed. He pays his dues as regularly as a gambler his debts of honor, and commonly knows just enough of his "union" to become the tool of its paid and corrupted managers, who, like the noted Chartist, Fergus O'Connor, get their deluded followers shot or imprisoned, while they themselves escape, after a few days' confinement, perhaps, to expend their bribe-money in luxury and vice. To such human harpies a shrinkage of business from war-inflated prices is a rogues' millennium. Blinking the fact that prices, like fluids, must soon find their level, and that low wages must eventually make cheap bread, they draw and drive their followers to frenzy when a pinch comes in affairs, which a little patience and open, firm remonstrance might relieve or correct; and turn out of their secret dens a mob of crazed and miserable men, who have not only had bread but beer, to deny all title to property, either of others or their own, and thus dry up and destroy the fountains from which they claim and clamor for supplies.

If this were all, or the worst of this business, the evil were comparatively light. But every secret clan has and must have its oath and worship; something to bind conscience and obligate men. Else they could not wield masses as they do, and "strike" from Portland to San Francisco in a day. They therefore swear their dupes without God, by whom alone an oath is possible, and make them "worship, they know not what;" and their whole system of obligations, from a simple pledge of honor to a cut-throat oath, depend for their efficacy, not on God, but on the vengeance and proscription of the clan. This explains why mere boys could stop stalwart men from their work. Those men had sworn in secret to "obey signs and tokens," no matter who brought them; and they obeyed.

The remedy for this giant evil, so pregnant with disaster to all an American holds dear, is, first of all, to restore the Sabbath on the railroads.

This can easily be done. If all the Christians who own stock would request it, there are not non-Christian shares enough to run the road. And the reasons are overwhelming in favor of the six days' run, instead of seven; the even number, instead of the odd; even on the score of cheapness, system and self-interest.

But the argument of all arguments is the declaration of Almighty God that Sabbath-breaking ends in certain national destruction. "Then shall the land enjoy her Sabbaths as long as it lieth desolate, because it rested not while ye dwelt upon it." Lev. xxvi. 34. Nor have we to look to miracles and supernatural causes for this desolation. God, nature and just government are on the side of the laboring classes, and if these become corrupt society stagnates in its own blood. France, Spain, Mexico —these are illustrations. Let us, then, hold conventions, reason and remonstrate. Many excellent men now controlling our railroads hail with joy every effort of Christians to restore the Sabbath on their roads, and will do all they can to help us. Above all, let us pour light on the minds of the laboring masses until each toil-worn veteran, freed from the drainage of the dram shop and the bewildering blasphemies of the lodge, shall hail the returning Sabbath as the atmosphere in which the other nine commandments draw breath—the teaching day for them all—the day when labor forgets its toil and care its anxiety; when employers shall treat the employed justly, as their equal brethren; and the mechanic, losing all bitterness in the love of Christ, who himself toiled at his handicraft, shall stand erect in his disenthralled manhood, and "strikes" occur no more, because reason and religion reign.

Sovereign Grand Inspectors General.

This grand convocation of thirty-three degree Masons met in Rochester on the 20th of June this year, and was thus announced by the telegraph and daily press:

The Sovereign Grand Council of the United States of America convened in this city to-day at 10 A. M. The treaty between the Sovereign Grand Council of the United States and the Grand Imperial Council of England was ratified and adopted. The amendments to the constitution submitted by Sir Knight French at the last annual assembly were all adopted. Eminent Sir J. B. McLeod More, of Canada, was elected honorary member of the Sovereign Grand Council of the United States, and was given the rank of past grand sovereign. The next annual convention will be held in Philadelphia on the second Wednesday in June, 1878. The following grand officers were elected and installed in ample form: C. F. Knapp, of Pennsylvania, sovereign grand master; J. J. French, of Chicago, sovereign deputy grand master; R. B. Smith, of Illinois, sovereign grand viceroy; J. H. Willard, of Indiana, first lieutenant; C. E. Meyer, of Pennsylvania, second lieutenant; R. B. Caldwell, of Kentucky, grand treasurer; Gen. Alfred Creigh, of Pennsylvania, grand register; Gen. J. L. Young, of Pennsylvania, right reverend prelate; J. H. Drummond, of Maine, grand high chancellor; G. O. Tyler, of Vermont, grand seneschal; John Haigh, of Massachusetts, grand prior; George V. Hawk, of Indiana, grand chamberlain; James H. Miles, of Chicago, grand standard-bearer; J. D. Williams, of New York, grand marshal; H. C. Field, of Rhode Island, grand herald; T. Ballantyne, of Georgia, grand chaplain of the guard.

This body, not long since, was divided into northern and southern jurisdictions, the infamous Albert Pike being at the head of the latter. By some means, familiar only to the secret lodge, they have united and are engaged—these titled Americans—as a treaty-making power of this country with the aristocratic secretists of the Old World! To read of such performances excites a smile of ridicule, but the disastrous effects of these secret lodge leagues have been too often felt not to regard this announcement with indignation. Our nation, unless God in mercy prevents, will sometime learn that it has allowed these men to play with fire too often.

—Beside the articles upon the late strike in this number, which we hope will prove a valuable addition to the discussion going on through the press, we are happy to announce for next week a most able sermon, reviewing the outbreak in its relations to the secret orders and Christian government, preached in the Reformed Presbyterian church of Pittsburgh the Sabbath after the mob, by Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D. The mention of his name is guaranty for an able, full and instructive review of the causes and results of this unprecedented rebellion.

—Bro. Warner, who wrote the report of lectures by the General Agent in Byron, Wis., published last week, thinks there was a discrepancy in regard to the financial statements made by him and Bro. Stoddard. There was apparently, but none really. The collections at the meetings were small enough and misrepresented, we are sure, the warmth of sympathy of the friends toward the reform. On the other hand a donation of a large sum which our veteran friend Varney proposes to the cause was put in proper legal shape through the efforts of the agent.

—Our Iowa friends are reasonably dissatisfied with the nomination of J. H. Gear for Governor by the late Republican State Convention. Friend Hitchcock's letter gives reason enough—thirty years a Mason is time enough to destroy all the moral principle given to an average man. Mr. Gear is not an exception for he accepts the nomination upon a prohibitory platform, while his own ideas of prohibition are revealed in the fact that he has been indicted for the illegal sale of liquor. Let an upright man be nominated for honest voters.

—Special attention is due this week to the Publisher's department. The season for renewed activity for the financial condition of our paper is at hand. Good harvests, full barns, smile all over the land. "Freely ye have received, freely give," is true in more than the strict spiritual sense. Let a new zeal and strong faith approving itself by works crown the mercies of the year.

—The kind of hostility to secret societies the pretended friends of Wheaton College wanted in their late attack has just had an illustration at Muhlenburg College, Allentown, Pa. That institution is committed by its rules against such societies, but lately a hall was fitted up for a fraternity of students belonging to the institution and several ministers of the Pennsylvania Lutheran Synod took part in the festivities connected with its dedication to lodge purposes.

—The Christian Statesman tells in the following of a good and hopeful work in Canada among the temperance organizations:

"The orders of the Sons of Temperance and Good Templars in Canada, formerly connected with the organizations in the United States, have withdrawn, and uniting together, along with five similar organizations which were peculiar to Canada, have formed one grand temperance brotherhood in the Dominion. A very gratifying fact connected with this movement is that they have thrown aside the feature of secrecy, and made their ritual, rules, and proceedings as open as those of a church. No regalia is used, and the officers are simply President, Vice President, etc., as in any organization. Could not wise and earnest men in these societies secure similar action in America. The result which would certainly follow would make it worth a trial."

N. C. A. Receipts for July, 1877.

PUBLISHING HOUSE FUND:

Miss R. Wilcox, Aurora, Ill., by Illinois Agent	$5 00
O. M. Clark, Lee Center, Ill., (note)	10 00
John Shuh, Larwill, Ind., (note)	25 00
GENERAL FUND.
First Church of Christ, Wheaton, per James Grove	2 50
Collected by H. H. Hinman, Ill. Agent	5 95
INTEREST:
Jos. McCleery	1 00
John Shuh	2 50
RENT	95 66
Total	$147 61

H. L. Kellogg, Treas.

—German sentiment is growing hostile to England, and high authority at Berlin declares that her policy as to the occupation of the Dardanelles will not be permitted.

News of the Week.

—Wm. B. Ogden, the first Mayor of Chicago, about thirty years ago, and for many years closely allied with great public improvements, especially in the northwest, died at his residence near New York last Thursday.

—The leading rioters arrested in this city on the West side number 57. They were brought into court last week and remanded for trial.

—The strike tapered off last week into the mining regions of Pennsylvania, and some local disturbances among railroad hands at Galesburg, Cleveland and a few other points. At Pittsburgh it is said a large number of workmen are allying themselves with the labor movement and no doubt will become an important factor in the forthcoming political contests in the county and state. They demand that legislation be had requiring corporations to pay laborers $1.50 per day, and the abolition of the convict labor system. They ignore the so-called workingmen's friends, and insist that men shall be chosen to office out of their own number.

—Jay Gould, the great New York broker, was severely beaten on the street last Thursday by another operator who claimed to have been swindled by Gould.

—A fire broke out in a cigar-box factory in Cincinnati last Friday morning, in shavings near the furnace, and in a few minutes the whole building was in a blaze. Five girls were in the upper story, only two escaped. Three young men also perished. The fire occurred just before 7 o'clock; a half hour later the hands would all have been at work and the loss of life fearful.

—An accident occurred at the Ducy Furnace Company's works in Pittsburg, August 3, which resulted in the death of two men and the injury of five others. Seven men were engaged in lining the furnace were on a scaffold, which was supported by ropes. These took fire from the furnace, and the scaffold fell, precipitating the men into the furnace. Julius Harden and Michael Cussick were taken out dead, and the five others were so badly burned that they are not expected to live.

—On Saturday night at 11 o'clock a fire broke out in the poor-house on Norfolk county industrial farm, near Simcoe, Canada. It was a huge wooden pile, and by midnight the whole structure was destroyed. The water supply was defective and the brigade from town could effect little. The poor-house contained forty-three male and eighteen female inmates, paupers of the county. Desperate efforts were made to save life, but so quickly did the flames extend that seventeen of them were caught and burned to death, six women and eleven men.

—The latest returns received at the Agricultural Department show that the winter wheat crop, already safely harvested, is the largest produce in this country for many years. The spring wheat is also in excellent condition, and an unprecedented yield is anticipated. The cotton prospects are also more favorable than last year at this time, the product now being estimated at upwards of 4,500,000 bales. The wheat crop of last year was 260,000,000 bushels. This year it will be more than 325,000,000 bushels. The average export for five years has been 61,500,000 bushels. The largest amount ever exported in one year was 90,000,000 bushels. Of this year's crop not less than 100,000,000 bushels may be sent abroad.

—Advices from Ecuador, South America, state that the damage done by the late eruption of Cotopaxi amounts to $1,000,000. Many lives were lost, and over 1,500 head of cattle destroyed. A letter from Costa Rica says that Gen. Thomas Guardia, commander of the forces, on the 14th had deposed President Herrera, and taken possession of the government of Costa Rica. Herrera was confined as a prisoner in the Capital.

—The Russian defeat at Plevna on the 24th and 25th of July is regarded as a most serious check. It is even reported that the czar is laboring to secure intervention by some third power, and that Ausria, instigated by Germany, will lend her influence toward aiding Russia to secure a desirable peace. The Russians are so much stunned by their reverses that it will require ten days to reinforce themselves, to strengthen the points possessed before the late defeats. One report says the Russian defeat was owing to Turkish reinforcements coming up in the rear, and another claims that it is owing to jealousy and lack of cooperation among the commanders. The Russian army numbered 32,000 infantry, besides Cossacks and artillery. Their loss is said to be 3,000 killed and 5,000 wounded. The Turks also lost so heavily as to be unable to follow up the victory, and the Russians are intrenched six miles from Plevna.

Front view of the Carpenter Donation, a fine, stone front building No. 221 West Madison St., Chicago, now occupied by the National Christian Association. The fee simple will be given by Mr. Carpenter if other friends raise $30,000 by Apr. 1st 1878, in cash or "good, negotiable, interest-bearing notes" to establish a Publishing House and headquarters of the reform. Send donations to the Treasurer at 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The National Christian Association.

President of the National Convention.—Pres. H. H. George, D. D., W. Geneva, Ohio.

Secretaries.—Rev. W. H. French, D. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; H. L. Kellogg, Chicago.

President of the Corporate Body.—Rev. J. B. Walker, D. D., Wheaton, Ill.

Vice-President. — Philo Carpenter, Chicago.

Directors.—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, Archibald Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, H. L. Kellogg, E. Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, J. B. Walker, A. D. Freeman, Thos. Hodge.

Recording Sec'y.—Thos. Hodge, Chicago.

Cor. Sec'y and General Agent.—J. P. Stoddard, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

Treasurer.—H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The object of this Association is:—

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the Churches of Christ from being depraved; to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform to aid the Association in either of these ways: (1) to establish a Publishing House and Head-quarters in Chicago; (2) to carry on the general work; (3) to maintain the State agents. All donations, (drafts or P. O. orders) should be sent to the Treasurer; general correspondence, etc., direct to the Corresponding Secretary

Form of Bequest.—I give and bequeath to the National Christian Association, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, the sum of——dollars for the purposes of said Association, and for which the receipt of its Treasurer for the time being shall be a sufficient discharge.

State Auxiliary Associations.

CONNECTICUT.

President, J. A. Conant, Willimantic.
Secretary, D. J. Ellsworth, Windsor.
Treasurer, C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS

President, S. B. Allen, Westfield.
Rec. Secretary and Treasurer, H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
Lecturers, H. H. Hinman, Wheaton, and J. P. Richards, Ewensburg, Hancock Co.

INDIANA.

Pres't, W. P. McNary, Bloomington.
Rec. Sec'y, H. Teter, Westfield.
Treas., Peter Rich, Westfield.
Lecturer and Cor. Sec'y S. L Cook, Albion.

IOWA.

President, M. S. Drury, Western, Linn Co.
Cor. Sec'y, M. R. Drury, " " "
Rec. Sec'y, E. J. Grinnell, Charles City.
Treasurer, John Dorcas, Shiloh.

KANSAS.

President, H. T. Besse, Sterling, Rice Co.
Secretary, J. Dodds, Winchester.
Treasurer, C. A. Sexton, Topeka.

MICHIGAN.

President, H. D. Inman, Coldwater.
Cor. Sec'y, C. B. Remington, Fentonville
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Bruce, Hickory Corners
Treasurer, C. Quick, Weston.
Lecturer and Agent, D. P. Rathbun, Hickory Corners.

Communications for the Agent concerning lectures or the interests of the cause may be addressed to, or in care of, E. W. Bruce.

MISSOURI.

President, N. E. Gardner, Avalon.
Cor. Sec'y, A. D. Thomas, Arbela
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Carpenter.
Treasurer, Wm. Beauchamp, Avalon.
Lecturer, E. G. Cooper, Albany Gentry Co.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

President, J. F. Browne, Lewiston, Me.
Secretary, S. C. Kimball, Center Strafford.
Treasurer, E. Smith, Center Strafford.

NEW YORK.

President, L. N. Stratton, Syracuse.
Secretary, W. A. Sellew, Rochester.
Treasurer, M. Merrick, Syracuse.
Lecturers—L. N. Stratton, Syracuse; Woodruff Post, Rochester; A. F. Curry, Almond.

OHIO.

President, H. H. George, W. Geneva.
Treasurer, J. G. Mattoon, West Unity
Sec. and Lecturer, Wm. Dillon, Dayton.

PENNSYLVANIA.

President, A. L. Post, Montrose.
Cor. Sec'y, N. Callender, Green Grove.
Treasurer, W. B. Bertels, Wilksbarre.
Rec. Sec'y, and Lecturer, J. W. Raynor, Montrose.

WISCONSIN.

President, E. L. Harris, Delavan.
Secretary, U. D. Lathrop, Millard.
Treasurer; Joshua Pariah, Delavan

Address of Anti-masonic Lecturers.

General Agent and Lecturer, J. P. Stoddard, Christian Cynosure Office, Chicago.
For State Lecturers State Ass'n list.
Others who will lecture when desired:—
C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
R. B. Taylor, Summerfield, O.
N. Callender, Starrucca, Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
P. Hurless, Polo, Ill.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Mercer Co., Ill.
J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
Josiah McCaskey, Fancy Creek, Wis
C. F. Hawley, Damascoville, Ohio.
W. M. Givens, Center Point, Ind.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
D. S. Caldwell, Clyde, Sandusky Co., O.
A. Mayn, Promise City, Wayne Co., Mich.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
C. F. Wiggins, Angola, Ind
E Ronayne, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.
W. M. Love, Baker, St. Clair Co. Mo.
A D. Freeman, Downers Grove, Ill.
Jas. Springer, Springerton, Ill.
A. D. Carter, Deersville, Harrison Co O.
James McCleery, Monroe, Iowa.
R. Faurot, Kendallville, Ind.
J. W. Barlow, Ridgetown, Ont., C. W.

act according to its directions, as it is agreeable to the ambitious man to act according to the motives of ambition.—W. Law.

Children's Corner

A Sum in Arithmetic.

There came into our school one day
  A white-haired man. With pleasant smile
He greeted us and sitting down
  Said he would like to rest awhile.

'Twas time to have Arithmetic,
  The teacher said. "Now all give heed—
Put up your books and take your slate,
  And do the sum which I will read."

Our books went in, our slates came out,
  And then the teacher read the sum;
We tried, and tried, and tried again,
  But couldn't make the answer come.

And then the old man said to us—
  With kindness twinkling in his eyes—
"Who gets the answer first shall have
  A silver shilling for a prize."

Then Tommy Dole resolved to cheat,
  And slyly taking out his book,
When he supposed he was not seen,
  A hasty glance inside he took.

At once the answer Tommy finds,
  "And now I've got it, sir," he cries;
The teacher thinks Tom worked the sum,
  And tells him he has won the prize.

But that old man has seen it all;
  Those twinkling eyes had watched the trick,
"Well done, my boy," he said; "you seem
  To understand Arithmetic.

"But now, before I give the prize,
  I'll let you try a harder sum;
Another shilling you shall have
  If you can tell how that is done."

And then with kindest voice and look
  He gently said to Tommy Dole;
"What shall it profit you, my lad,
  To gain the world and lose your soul?"

Then Tommy Dole hung down his head,
  The tears began to fill his eyes,
And all the scholars wondered why
  He would not take the silver prize,

—Selected.

The Two Bills—A Fable.

Two bills were waiting in the bank for their turn to go out into the world. One was a little bill, only one dollar; the other was a big bill, a thousand dollar bill.

While lying there side by side, they fell a-talking about their usefulness. The dollar bill murmured out—

"Ah, if I were as big as you, what good I would do! I could move in such high places, and people would be so careful of me wherever I should go! Everybody would admire me, and want to take me home with them; but, small as I am, what good can I do? Nobody cares much for me. I am too little to be of any use."

"Ah, yes! that is so," said the thousand-dollar bill; and it haughtily gathered up its well-trimmed edges that were lying next to the little bill, in conscious superiority. "That is so," it repeated. "If you were as great as I am, a thousand times bigger than you are, then you might hope to do some good in the world." And its face smiled a wrinkle of contempt for the little dollar bill.

Just then the cashier comes, takes the little, murmuring bill, and kindly gives it to a poor widow.

"God bless you!" she cries, as with a smiling face she receives it. "My dear, hungry children can now have some bread."

A thrill of joy ran through the little bill as it was folded up in the widow's hand; and it whispered, "I may do some good if I am small." And when it saw the bright faces of her fatherless children, it was very glad that it could do a little good.

Then the little dollar bill began its journey of usefulness. It went first to the baker's for bread, then to the miller's, then to the farmer's, then to the laborer's then to the doctor's then to the minister's; and wherever it went, it gave pleasure, adding something to their comfort and joy.

At last, after a long pilgrimage of usefulness among every sort of people, it came back to the bank again, defaced, ragged, softened, by its daily use. Seeing the thousand dollar bill lying there, with scarcely a wrinkle or a finger-mark upon it, it exclaims:

"Pray, sir, and what has been your mission of usefulness?"

The big bill sadly replies: "I have been from safe to safe among the rich where few could see me, and they were afraid to let me go out far, lest I should be lost. Few indeed are they whom I have made happy by my mission." The dollar bill said: "It is better to be small, and go among the multitudes doing good, than to be so great as to be imprisoned in the safes of the few." And it rested satisfied with its lot.

Moral.—The doing well of little everyday duties makes one the most useful and hpppy.—Well Spring.

Filial Love.

One day some men, who had been condemned to hard labor on the public works for various crimes, were occupied in repairing one of the Vienna streets.

There passed that way a good-looking, well-dressed young man; he stopped near one of the convicts, embraced him affectionately, and went on.

A state official had been at his window during this scene and was much astonished at it. He had the young man brought to him, and said: "My friend, there is something very peculiar in embracing a convict in the street. What will people think of you?"

The young man said nothing for a few moments; but soon recovering himself, he replied:

"My lord, I only followed the dictates of duty and my heart, for the convict is my father."

Touched by these words, and admiring the noble conduct of the young man, the official hastened to tell the Emperor what had happened. The sovereign recognized the beauty of this filial act, and gave the convict's son an important post. He wished at once to show that the punishment of crime should be individual and not general, and that nothing should interfere with the divine precept, "Honor thy father and thy mother."

God of the grass and of the rose,
  Soul of the sparrow and the bee;
The mighty tide of being flows
  Through countless channels, Lord, to thee.
It leaps to life in grass and flowers;
  Through every grade of being runs;
While from creation's radiant towers,
  Its glories flame in stars and suns.

Disputing about a Shadow.

The Greeks had a proverb which ran thus: "To dispute on the shadow of an ass." This took rise from an anecdote which Demosthenes is said to have related to the Athenians, to excite their attention during his defence of a criminal, which was being but inattentively listened to. "A traveler," he said, "once went from Athens to Megara on a hired ass. It happened to be the time of the dog-days, and at noon. He was much exposed to the unmitigated heat of the sun; and not finding so much as a bush under which to take shelter, he bethought himself to descend from the ass, and seat himself under its shadow. The owner of the donkey, who accompanied him, objected to this, declaring to him that when he let the animal, the use of its shadow was not included in the bargain. The dispute got so warm that it got to blows, and finally gave rise to an action at law." After having said so much, Demosthenes continued the defence of his client; but the auditors, whose curiosity he had piqued, were extremely anxious to know how the judges decided on so singular a case. Upon this the orator commented severely on their childish injustice, in devouring with attention a paltry story about an ass's shadow, while they turned a deaf ear to a cause in which the life of a human being was involved. From that day, when a man showed a preference for discussing small and contemptible subjects to great and important ones, he was said to "dispute on the shadow of an ass."

The Names of Nails

The terms, "four-penny," "six-penny," "ten-penny," etc., as applied to nails, mean this: "Four-penny" means four pounds to the thousand nails, "six-penny," six pounds to the thousand and so on. It is an old English term and meant, at first, "ten pound" nails; (the thousand being understood;) but the old Englishmen clipped it to "ten-pun," and from that to "ten-punny"; and so it degenerated, until "penny" was substituted for "pound." So, when you ask for four-penny nails, nowadays, you want those a thousand of which will weigh four pounds; but in these degenerate times we question whether you will get as many as a thousand in that weight. When a thousand nails weigh less than one pound, they are called tacks, brads, etc., and are reckoned by ounces; (to the thousand) so you will see "8-oz." "10-oz." "16-oz." etc., on papers of tacks.

The Sea-Mouse.

The sea-mouse is one of the prettiest creatures that lives under water. It sparkles like a diamond, and is radiant with all the colors of the rainbow, although it lives in mud at the bottom of the ocean. It should not be called a mouse, for it is larger than a big rat. It is covered with scales that move up and down as it breathes, and glitter like gold shining through fleecy down, from which fine, silky bristles wave, that constantly change from one brilliant tint to another, so that, as Cuvier, the great naturalist, says, the plumage of the humming-bird is not more beautiful.

Home and Farm.

Saving Better than Earning.

There are neat farmers and there are slovenly farmers. This is proven by the appearance of different farms as one passes through the country. In the one case there is always loss, the "waste of neglect" being greater than all other wastes combined. We have seen slovenly farmers who were successful, but it certainly was not their fault, altogether. As a rule, neglect brings poverty, or at least brings it as near as circumstances beyond the control of the sloven will permit. And the trouble does not end with one generation. It is hereditary, but more from the power of example than from blood. Habits are soon formed by children which they can never break, and of all bad ones, this is among the worst.

Now is the time to reform if you have been wasteful hitherto. Waste is palpable; easily seen and brings direct loss with it. Resolve to be neat in all your operations. It is an easy matter to leave hay enough on a field to winter a dozen sheep, or materially help to carry a cow through. A bushel of grain on an acre makes but little show, but it represents in the case of wheat, enough to pay your subscription for a whole year, and may as well be saved as not. Much is actually lost by neglecting to cut grain until it shells out, or hay until half the nutriment is gone. No matter how plenty hay or grain is, it always pays to save what has been raised, and this saving, effected by neat, careful farmers, often represents the net profits from a field, or even a whole farm.

A Cheap Hanging Basket.—The Fruit Recorder gives the following: When you eat peaches, do not throw away the stones; save them until you have a considerable quantity. Soak them in water a few hours to loosen the fruit remaining in the dents; then scrub them clean with an old tooth brush, and split them in two. Now take an old two quart tin basin; punch three or more holes near the rim for suspending cords, and one at the center of the bottom for drainage. Paint the basin inside, or coat it with melted rosin, to prevent rust, and cover the outside of it with putty. Press the half peach stones into the putty on the outside, putting the largest ones on the bottom, and taking care not to cover the hole for drainage. Now cover the whole with a little asphaltum dissolved in spirits of turpentine. When the putty is dry you will have a handsome and unique hanging basket, resembling carved work, rich enough to repay you well for your trouble.

Cancer Cure.—The use of red clover tea is said to be an effectual cure for cancer, even if it be of long standing and malignant. The red tops should be boiled in water, and about a quart a day drank and the tea used as a wash twice a day. Missisquoi water will remove the offensive smell from cancer or sores.

Indian Dysentery Remedy.—Root and leaves of blackberry bush boiled down; a gill before each meal and before going to bed.

Relief for Consumption.—The following is recommended by an exchange: The common mullein, steeped strong, and sweetened with coffee-sugar and drank freely. The herb should be gathered before the end of July. Young or old plants are good, dried in the shade and kept in clean paper bags. The medicine must be continued from three to six months, according to the nature of the disease. It is good for the blood-vessels also; it strengthens the system and builds up instead of taking away strength. It makes good blood, and takes inflammation from the lungs.

The Home Circle.

Harvest Hymn.

Bright rays of autumn quiver
On the fields of fretted gold,
By purple hill and river
Wide o'er the land unrolled,
And while the reapers gather
The wealth of harvest days,
To thee, O bounteous Father,
We lift our song of praise.

The precious things of heaven,
Warm days and dewy nights,
Soft rain in season given,
Bright clouds and tender lights—
Their genial influence blending,
Matured the sowers' boon,
Till heavy ears were bending,
Beneath the harvest moon.

And now, like hands uplifted,
The sheaves in order stand,
To praise the Lord, who gifted
With plenteous store the land,
Our lips shall own his kindness,
And tell his love abroad,
To shame the wilful blindness
Of those who know not God.

Lord, while the whole creation
Bears witness to thy care,
O hear our supplication,
And grant thy children's prayer!
While thus our wants supplying,
Our table thou dost spread,
O feed our souls undying
With Christ, the Living Bread!

—Selected.

Inaccurate Quotations.

In seeking to search the Scriptures, as our Lord commanded, it is of prime importance that we become familiar enough with them at least to remember the exact words they employ. Inaccuracy in the citation of inspired proof texts is as needless as it is unfortunate. For an instructor of children this fault is deserving of singular censure. "Thou which teachest another, teachest thou not thyself?" Two rules are all that any one will find essential to put into service.

1. Be sure you are quoting that which is in the Scriptures. The governor of Tennessee had no right to introduce into his message the line, "Now is the winter of our discontent," as the utterance of "the prophet." It is not in the Bible that you will meet the sentimental figure of Lawrence Sterne, "The Lord tempereth the wind to the shorn lamb."

2. Be sure you are quoting the passage as it is in the Scriptures. No man would ever find in the Bible the absurd jumble he sometimes opens his prayer with, "O Lord, we would put our hand on our mouth and our mouth in the dust, and cry out unclean, unclean! God be merciful to us sinners!" Children sit with wonderment under a confusion of acts and images so incongruous and impossible. Four texts are spoiled to construct this nonsense. It was the afflicted Job that laid his hand on his mouth. It was the yoke-bearing youth in Lamentations that put his (not Job's) mouth in the dust. It was the leper in Leviticus that was directed to wear a covering on his upper lip (not his hand on his mouth) and cry, unclean. It was the publican (with hands beating his breast, and out of the dust altogether, in the temple) who said, Godbe merciful to me, a sinner. This is no way to quote God's language when speaking to him.

Further illustrations, almost without number, crowd upon our remembrance as we linger upon either of these directions. In one of Horace Walpole's letters occurs this paragraph. He was praising a childless couple, and the sweet life they were living, away one side, on a small estate. He says: "They may comfort themselves with having no children when they recollect that the earliest born of men committed murder with the jaw-bone of an ass—a deadly weapon, I am sure." William Hazlitt, with like carelessness, says it was "the Samaritan" who prayed, "Lord, be merciful to me, a sinner." Leigh Hunt declares that the poet Shelley, of whom he was writing a defence, "was a student of the book of Job, but for his Christianity he went to the gospel of Saint James." Thackeray states that it was Eli for whom his mother made some "little shirts" every year, instead of Samuel, for whom Hannah made a coat. And this paragraph we have cut straight out of the New York Herald, not five months ago: "There is a story in the Bible which tells that a certain Philip was recommended to bathe in the Jordan river, and that the great man objected to that obscure lavatory because of the argument that the Euphrates was the nobler torrent of the two." This is one of the bright authorities which insist that no minister of the Gospel must assume to speak of science, since preachers are not instructed in the details and the vocabulary.

Colonel Benton, once in the United States Senate, spoke feelingly of the man out of whom our Savior cast seven devils at one time. And Waddy Thompson, formerly our minister in Mexico, when describing the hospital he visited in that forlorn country, called "The Hospital of Lazarus," said "the inmates would have rivaled, in sores and rags, the brother of Martha and Mary."

Lord Kenyon, on the judicial bench, charged a jury thus: "Finally, gentlemen, I would call your attention to the example of the Roman Emperor Julian, who was so distinguished for Christian virtue that the Scripture called him Julian the apostle."—S. S. World.

"Three things," said Dr. Henry, "appear to have been uninjured by the fall: The song of birds, the beauty of flowers, and the smile of infancy; for it is difficult to conceive how either of these could have been more perfect had man remained holy; as if God would leave us something pure to remind us of the Paradise we have lost, and to point us to that which we shall regain."

In evil times it fares best with them that are most careful about duty and least about safety.

Obscene Literature.

There is no more alarming evil in our land than the trade in obscene literature. One bad book can work more mischief than a dozen bad boys. It can go into families where no bad boy could gain admittance, and penetrate into the private rooms of the most carefully guarded girls.

Liquor dealers tamper with their victims mainly in manhood; traders in obscene literature tamper with those in whom judgment is undeveloped. The former have first to create an unnatural appetite. The latter appeal to a natural curiosity, and to universal impulses, which are as beneficent as steam and electricity when duly regulated, but as destructive as a boiler explosion or as lightning when quickened in advance of reason and conscience, and aside from their proper object.

We think few fathers, mothers, and guardians of children are aware of the subtle and Satanic efforts made to reach the boys and girls of this country, for the purpose of selling them vile books. The sale of these books is made a regular business. Large amounts of money are invested in it. Skilled agents push it, using the mails as the means of reaching their victims.

They use various methods to get the names of the young. Catalogues of schools and seminaries are procured. To the names in these catalogues circulars are addressed, offering—professedly for honorable purposes—five cents each for other names of boys and girls. Advertisements of "games and puzzles," of "agents wanted, who can earn five dollars a day," etc., are inserted in respectable papers, and those who send for them are furnished with catalogues of vile publications.

And these efforts to get names are successful. Mr. Comstock, who is at the head of the Society for the Prevention of Vice, found at one establishment broken up by him 63,000 post office addresses, and at another 50,000 circulars, directed to boys and girls all over the country, and ready to be sent.

The various establishments dealing in different departments of the vile traffic sell the names to each other at from ten to twenty-five dollars a thousand. But the names of the boys and girls who order articles are held at a market value over eighty times as great! And many of these names are from some of the best schools and the best families in the country.

During the last five years Mr. Comstock has secured the destruction of over twenty tons of obscene matter. Eight tons of the books were ready for the market! Eight tons seized and destroyed - who can say how many scores of tons are now in actual circulation from hand to hand among our youth?

A single book of the vilest kind was found in the possession of a Brooklyn pupil, whose father was a Sabbath school superintendent, and it had been circulating for two years on its mission of debauchery. Think of eight tons, and possibly several times eight tons, with each book thus at work. Let us suggest to parents:

1. That they do not assume that their children are in "blessed ignorance" on delicate subjects. Let them secure their fullest confidence and guard them in time.

2. That they keep a sharp lookout in their own families with reference to the wiles and efforts of the vile traffickers.

3. That they aid, as far as it lies in their power, those who, at great risk, are laboring, by legal measures, to suppress this appalling evil. Such a work costs money. A healthy public sentiment must support the laws already enacted and demand others where they are needed. Youth's Companion.

Faith in the Family.

One of the most intelligent women I have ever known, the Christian mother of a large family of children, used to say that the education of children was eminently one of faith. She never heard the tramping of her boys' feet in the house, or listened to their noisy shouting in their play, or watched their unconscious slumbers, without an inward, earnest prayer to God for wisdom to train them, and for the spirit of the Highest to guide them. She mingled prayer with counsel and restraint; and the counsel was the wiser, and the restraint was the stronger for this alliance of the human and divine elements in her instruction and discipline. And at length, when her children became men and women, accustomed to the hard strife of the world, her name was the dearest one they could speak; and she who "had fed their bodies from her own spirit's life," who had taught their feet to walk, their tongues to speak and pray, and illumined their consciences with the great lights of righteousness and duty, held their reverence and love increased a thousand fold by the remembrance of an early education that had its inspiration in faith in God, and its fruit in the noble lives of upright, faithful men.

Living Religion.—Religion is not ours till we live by it; till it is the religion of our thoughts, words and actions; till it goes with us into every place; sits uppermost on every occasion; and forms and governs our hopes and fears, our cares and pleasures. He is the religious man who watches and guards his spirit, and endeavors to be always in the temper of religion; who worships God in every place by a purity of behavior; who is as fearful of foolish thoughts, irregular tempers, and vain imaginations, at one time as at another; who is as wise and heavenly at home, or in the field, as in the house of God. For when once religion has got possession of a man's heart, and is become, as it ought to be, his ruling temper, it is as agreeable to such a one in all places and at all times to speak and

ANTI-MASONIC BOOKS.

(Not our own Publications.)

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO
18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

FOR CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS OF EZRA A. COOK & CO., See page 15 of the CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

☞All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent. discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Freemasonry Self Condemned.

By Rev. J. W. Bain.

We now have a small supply of this deservedly popular book in paper covers, Price 20 cents each by mail.

Elder Stearns' Books.

Stearns' Inquiry Into the Nature and Tendency of Masonry, With an Appendix.

188 Pages, in Cloth.....60 cents.
" " " Paper.....40 "

Stearns' Letters on Masonry.

Showing the antagonism between Freemasonry and the Christian Religion.
Price, 30 cents.

Stearns' Review of Two Masonic Addresses.

In this scathing review the lying pretentions of the order are clearly shown.
Price, 10 cents.

Levington's Key to Masonry.

This is Rev. Mr. Levington's last, and in the judgment of its author, best work on Masonry.
The contents of the Eleventh chapter are thus startling:
"Knights of the Golden Circle—Graphic account of them by a seceding Knight, and remarks thereon, showing the identity of the order with Masonry—Quotations from Sir Walter Scott."
This work is thrilling in statement, and powerful in argument Price. $1.35. 425 pages.

Light on Freemasonry

BY ELDER D. BERNARD.

TO WHICH IS APPENDED A

Revelation of the Mysteries of Odd-fellowship by a Member of the Craft.

The whole containing over five hundred pages lately revised and republished. Price $2,00

The first part of the above work, Light on Freemasonry, 416 pages in paper cover, will be sent post paid on receipt of $1.

FOR SALE BY

United Brethren Publishing House
DAYTON, O.
and by
EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Ave, CHICAGO

Finney on Masonry.

BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE $1.00.

CHEAP EDITION,

Twenty-five dollars per hundred, by express and not less than 25 copies at that rate,

BY MAIL, POST-PAID:

Per doz.....$1.75
Single copy.....35

GOOD TEMPLARISM EXPOSED.

Obligations, of the Initiatory Fidelity, Charity, and Royal Virtue Degrees.

This is a small book containing only the Obligations and some of the Odes of the Good Templars.

Single Copy, Post paid,..... 10cts
Per Doz, " 75
Per 1 by Express,..... $4.50

Bernard's Appendix to Light on Masonry,

Showing the Character of the Institution by its terrible oaths and penalities. 25 cents.

ODD-FELLOWSHIP

JUDGED BY ITS OWN UTTERANCES;

Its Doctrine and Practice examined in the light of God's Word.

BY REV. J. H. BROCKMAN.

This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-Fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. It was originally published in German.
Price, bound in Boards, 75 cents. Paper Covers 40 cents.
German Edition, Entitled "Christian and Free." Paper Covers 50 cents each.

HOW TO DEFEAT
Masonic Scoundrelism

Within the Court House.

By J. H. H. WOODWARD,

This pamphlet as its title indicates is designed to put all non-Masons on their guard against lodge trickery and especially to show how to meet and successfully cope with Freemasonry in our Courts
Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 10 cts.
Per Doz. 75 cts. Per 100 by Express $5.00

Every Freemason a Blasphemer.

As proved by the Highest Masonic Authority.

By J. H. H. Woodward.

By quotations from a score of masonic works of unquestioned authority, the fact of the blasphemous ceremonies and teachings of Freemasonry are so clearly demonstrated as to make it evident that every initiate is of necessity a blasphemer,
10 cents each. 75 cents per Doz. by mail;
By Express, per 100 $6 00,

Knights of Pythias Illustrated

A Full Illustrated Exposition

OF THE

Ceremonies of the Three Degrees

OF THE

SUBORDINATE LODGE.

Entered According to Act of Congress in the year 1877
By Ezra A. Cook & Co.,
In the office of the Librarian of Congress at Washington, D. C.

[CONTINUED.]

GRIP, FIRST RANK.

Each extend the right hand opening the fingers between the second and third as shown in upper cut and grasp each other by the first two fingers, closing the other fingers as shown in lower cut.

Chancellor Commander.—"There is a word or cover key connected with this grip which I will show you how to arrive at."

The Chancellor Commander and Master at Arms holding each other by the grip engage in the following colloquy:

Chancellor Commander.—"Say what is this?"

Master at Arms.—"A good thing."

Chancellor Commander.—"Most people would say so."

Master at Arms.—"Some would."

Chancellor Commander.—"O, would they?"

Master at Arms.—"No doubt."

The first letters of each sentence spell the word Samson; the name of the grip, which means Strength as its name indicates."

Chancellor Commander.—"The Gavel is an instrument made use of to preserve order, call the Lodge to their feet and seat them. (One rap), one rap calls the Lodge to order, and in opening or closing calls up the officers addressed. (Two raps), two raps calls the Lodge to their feet. (Three raps), three raps seats the Lodge."

Chancellor Commander.—"Do you remember having heard these raps before, and if so, how and when are they used?"

Candidate answers and they are again explained to him by Chancellor Commander."

The knock at the inner door to gain admission to the Lodge when open in the first rank: The brother wishing to gain admission gives (1) rap; Inner Guard (1) rap; brother (2) raps; Inner Guard (2); brother (3); Inner Guard (3). Inner Guard then opens the wicket and the brother whispers his name and the word Friend to the Inner Guard who closes the wicket and reports his name to the Chancellor Commander who directs that he be admitted. In case it is a visitor from some other Lodge he will give his own name, the name and number of his Lodge and the password Friend.

Chancellor Commander.—"You have now received all the instruction that can be given you in this, the First, or Initiatory Rank of Page. It will be necessary for you to become proficient in all the secret work, so that you can make yourself known to members as having received the First, or Initiatory Rank of Page of this order.

"In conclusion, I have a few words to say touching the motto of this degree: Friendship has for ages been looked upon as the corner stone of every secret society. For the purpose of practically testing the great principle of fellowship, numerous orders have been established over the entire globe. Our honored patron, the valiant knight from whom our order takes its name, gave a most heroic example of pure Friendship, that the whole world might follow. Confined, at his own request, in a loathsome dungeon, a hostage for Damon, that his friend might see his wife and child ere death snatched him from them forever. The cruel tyrant that had condemned the friend of Pythias to the block, gave him but six short hours to live. Damon's wife and child were leagues away. Mounted on a swift steed, he flew to them; and when he had given them the last fond embrace, he starts to return, and finds that his slave, to save his life, had slain his steed. The hour approaches, the dread moment has arrived, and Pythias is brought to the scaffold to suffer for his friend. Does he falter there? No! Does he murmur? No! but with his face all radiant with smiles, exclaims: 'Tis sweet to die for those we love.' At the last moment Damon arrives, and Pythias is saved. The would-be sacrifice was prevented by an all-wise Providence. Let the teachings of that day remain fresh in the memory of all. The virtue, Friendship, should be emulated by us We, as a society, are sworn to exercise it in our midst. Let us not forget its teachings, but rather keep the motto ever in view, that when we are called upon to enter the dark valley of the shadow of death, we can pass from this earthly sphere with malice towards none, and at peace with the whole world."

Chancellor Commander (addressing Master at Arms)—"Master at Arms, you will now face Page John Brown to the Lodge, and clothe him in the proper regalia of the First, or Initiatory Rank of a Page of this Order."

Master at Arms faces candidate towards Vice Chancellor's station, and invests him with the proper regalia.

Chancellor Commander (two raps).—"Officers and Brethren of the First, or Initiatory Rank of Page of this Chivalric Order, permit me to introduce to you Page John Brown, who has been regularly initiated, according to the established formulas and ceremonies, as a Page of this Order."

After the public introduction, the Chancellor Commander gives one rap and says:—"The Lodge will be at ease until the sound of the gavel at the Chancellor Commander's station."

FORM OF PASSING FROM RANK OF PAGE TO THAT OF ESQUIRE.

The Lodge being at ease, the Chancellor Commander assumes his chair and gives one rap. Immediate observance must be given it. The officers repair to their chairs and members to their seats.

Chancellor Commander (one rap).—"Brother Master at Arms."

Master at Arms (rising promptly).—"Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—"Are you satisfied, from your previous examinations, that all present are qualified to remain in this Lodge of the First, or Initiatory Rank of Page?"

The Master at Arms, it is supposed, will always bear in mind the fact that members admitted between the first and second sections of the work have not been examined by him."

Master at Arms (looking around.)—"I am so satisfied Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—"Are you satisfied that all present are qualified to remain in the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire?"

Master at Arms.—"I a ot—as the case may be,) "so satisfied."

Should the Master at Arms respond in the affirmative, the Chancellor Commander gives the rap, calling the Inner Guard up, and passes fully to the Second Rank.

Should the Master at Arms answer in the negative, he will prove those in doubt, if there are any besides the candidate or candidates just initiated, and says:

Master at Arms—"Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—"Brother Master at Arms."

Master at Arms.—"I find all qualified except the Page (or Pages) just initiated, or awaiting to be proved in the Rank of Esquire."

Chancellor Commander.—"Brother Master at Arms, you will invite those not qualified to remain in the Second or Armorial Rank of Esquire to approach the altar, salute the Chancellor Commander and retire."

While they are at the altar, and having made the sign, any announcement required will be made to them, when escorted by the Master at Arms to the inner door, they retire from the lodge room and the Master at Arms repairs to his station.

Chancellor Commander (one rap).—"Brother Inner Guard."

Inner Guard (rising promptly).—"Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—"It is my order that —— Lodge, No. ——, Knights of Pythias, of the Grand Jurisdiction of ——, be now closed in the First, or Initiatory Rank of Page, and opened in that of the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire. This order you will communicate to the Brother Outer Guard, and bid him act in conformity therewith."

Inner Guard (going to the door).—"Brother Outer Guard it is the order of the Chancellor Commander that this Lodge be closed in the First, or Initiatory Rank of Page, and opened in that of the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire; you will perform your duties in conformity therewith."

Outer Guard.—"The commands of the Chancellor Commander shall be obeyed."

Inner Guard (returning).—"Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—"Brother Inner Guard."

Inner Guard.—"The Outer Guard has received your commands and will obey them."

Chancellor Commander.—"Therefore the officers and member will give strict attention that the Lodge is now open in the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire."

Chancellor Commander (two raps, all rise).—"Advance your shields by placing your left hand on the left breast."

All give that sign and while under it the Chancellor Commander says: "I am also satisfied in my triangle; Brother Vice Chancellor, are you satisfied in yours?"

Vice Chancellor.—"I am, Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—"Recover!"

All drop the sign and assume a standing position, arms down."

Chancellor Commander.—"All is well. Brother Master at Arms you will arrange the Book of Law and Swords of Defence." (See page —.)

After which Chancellor Commander gives three raps. (All seated.)

INITIATION.

SECOND, OR ARMORIAL RANK OF ESQUIRE.

PREPARATION.

The Page or Pages are taken to the ante-room in ordinary dress, and each one given a shield, which he is required to put on his left forearm and from thence to the door of the Lodge, on the outside of which is suspended a shield, on which the Master at Arms gives one rap."

Inner Guard (through the wicket).—"Who comes here! Who strikes upon the shield of this Lodge of the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire, in this Chivalric Order?"

Master at Arms.—"Page John Brown, who is desirous, if the officers and members will permit, of being further advanced in knowledge in this Chivalric Order, by being proved in the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire."

Inner Guard (closes wicket).—"Chancellor Commander, the Master at Arms presents Page John Brown, who asks that he may be further advanced by being proved in the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire in this Chivalric Order."

Inner Guard opens the door a few inches, that the candidate may hear the following dialogue:

Chancellor Commander.—"If there are no objections, he will be admitted."

Vice Chancellor (promptly, in a loud tone).—"Chancellor Commander, before the Page is admitted, I would like to inquire of the Keeper of Records and Seal, if he has served a proper time in that rank, and is qualified to bear arms in this, the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire, in this Chivalric Order?"

Keeper of Records and Seal.—"He has."

Prelate (promptly, in a loud tone).—"Chancellor Commander, has the Page shown by his strict fidelity to the Order that he is entitled to this, the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire, in this Chivalric Order?"

Chancellor Commander.—"To the best of my knowledge and belief, he has."

Master of Exchequer (promptly, in a loud tone.)—"Chancellor Commander, is the Page's reputation among the members of this Chivalric Order and his fellow men, such as should commend him to the Lodge as a proper person to receive the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire?"

Chancellor Commander.—"He has conformed to the law of the First, or Initiatory Rank of Page, and I see no reason why he should not be admitted to full fellowship with the Esquires of this Chivalric Order. No legal objection having been advanced it is my order, as Chancellor Commander, that the Page be admitted under the usual formulas."

Inner Guard (opens door).—"Master at Arms, there being no legal objection advanced, the Chancellor Commander orders that the Page be admitted."

Master at Arms enters with the candidate, conducts him twice around the room, and halts before the chair of the Vice Chancellor.

Master at Arms.—"Vice Chancellor, I have the pleasure of presenting to you Page John Brown, who has received that rank in this Lodge, and having served a proper time as such, is desirous of being further advanced in the mysteries of this Chivalric Order, by being proved in the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire,"

Vice Chancellor.—"Page John Brown it is with unfeigned pleasure that I greet you as an aspirant for the honors of the Esquire's Rank, heartily congratulating you on the progress you have made, and of being thought worthy to be entitled thereto. It becomes my duty before proceeding further, to interrogate you as to whether you are willing to take upon yourself a binding obligation to keep forever secret the mysteries of the Second, or Armorial Rank in this Chivalric Order?"

Candidate answers.

Vice Chancellor.—"Master at Arms, you will conduct the Page to our Prelate, who will administer the obligation of the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire in the Order of Knights of Pythias."

The Master at Arms presents candidate before the Prelate at the altar, opposite to and facing him.

Master at Arms.—"Prelate, by direction of our Vice Chancellor, I present you Page John Brown, who is desirous of being further advanced in the mysteries of this Chivalric Order, for the purpose of taking upon himself the obligation of the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire."

Prelate.—"Page John Brown, is this your desire?"

Candidate answers.

The Prelate rising from his chair goes to the altar, which is turned so as to bring the sword handles towards the Prelate's station and points toward the candidate, and says: "You will advance your shield by placing your left hand on the left breast, over your heart; the left foot thrown forward, raise your right hand perpendicularly, with the hand clinched, as if in the act of striking a downward blow; in which position you will repeat after me:

Chancellor Commander, (two raps).

OBLIGATION, SECOND OR ARMORIAL RANK OF ESQUIRE.

"I, John Brown, in the presence of the true and tried Esquires here assembled, covered by my shield, and of my own free will and accord, do pledge my word and most sacred honor, that under any and every circumstance or position in which I may be placed, I will keep inviolate all the signs, passwords, grips or tokens of this the Esquire Rank of the Knights of Pythias, except it be when given in instruction in course of duty as, or to a properly authorized officer of a regular Lodge of this rank, or deputized authority as an examining committee to demand the same.

"And I specially promise that I will not write or indite upon anything movable or immovable, any of the private work of the Rank of Esquire, by which the secrets may become known, or suffer it to be done by another, if in my power to prevent; and that I will at all times and under all circumstances, aid and assist an Esquire in distress; that I will warn, counsel or shield him from any danger which I may know to threaten him or any member of his family. All this I promise and declare without mental reservation. So help me God, and keep me steadfast in this my second obligation of the Knights of Pythias."

Prelate.—"In token of your sincerity, you will now kiss the book that is open before you, which is our Book of Law, and is the Holy Bible."

Chancellor Commander (three raps).

Prelate.—"Esquire you have now taken upon yourself the solemn and binding obligation of the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire. It now remains for you to regulate your acts that those of this rank may say of you: "He is indeed truly an Esquire," remembering always that your Shield of Honor must be kept so bright in its purity of polish, that he who would say aught against its purity of purpose and act, would be rendered blind by its bright surface reflecting the dazzling sheen of your injured honor."

"Asking your special attention to the arrangement of the altar, Book of Law and Swords of Defence, which you will find highly important hereafter," (explains them); "the Master at Arms will now conduct you to the Chancellor Commander, who will instruct you in the signs, countersigns, grip and password, of this the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire in this Chivalric Order."

Master at Arms presents candidate before the Chancellor Commander."

Master at Arms.—"Chancellor Commander, by direction of the Prelate, I present you Esquire John Brown, for instruction in the secret work of this the Second, Armorial or Esquire's Rank in this Chivalric Order, he having taken the obligation in regular form, under his shield, and is thereby entitled to receive the same."

Chancellor Commander.—"Esquire, it now remains for me to instruct you that you will be able to make yourself known to members as having attained the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire in this Chivalric Order, and also to prepare you, as of that rank, to take a seat in our midst.

"The numerical order of this Rank is that of the Second, or Armorial, wherein, as in olden times, you were permitted, for the first time, to carry a shield; the title of its members is Esquire, the motto is Caution, the color of the regalia or insignia, is yellow; the password is Watch; (pulls his watch from his pocket just before uttering the words); the sign of caution or courtesy, given on entering or retiring from the Lodge, when open in the Rank of Esquire, is:

SIGN OF CAUTION OR COURTESY, RANK OF ESQUIRE

Place right elbow in left hand and gently clinch the chin with the right hand. [See cut.]

COUNTERSIGN IN ANSWER: Same, or a wave of the hand by the Chancellor Commander.

THE ALARM; One rap.

[To be Continued.]

Masonic Books.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

☞ All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Those who wish to know the character of Freemasonry, as shown by its own publications, will find many standard works in the following list.

No sensible Mason dares deny that such men as Albert G. Mackey, the great Masonic Lexicographer, and Daniel Sickels, the Masonic author and publisher, are the highest Masonic authority in the United States.

All the books advertised here are used by Masons, but Duncan's Ritual, Allyn's Ritual and Richardson's Monitor, are not publicly acknowledged as Masonic authority, because they tell too much.

WEB'S MONITOR O FREEMASONRY.

LARGE Edition, with Notes by ROB. MORRIS. Price, $1.50. Pocket Edition, 75 Cts.

FEMALE MASONRY.

MANNUAL OF THE ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR.

Containing the Ritual, Symbols Lectures etc., of the five Degrees of "Adoptive Masonry:" Jeptha's Daughter; Ruth, Esther, Martha and Electa, profusely illustraited and handsomely bound.

Price.....$1 00

SICKELS' FREEMASON'S MONITOR,

CONTAINING the Degrees of Freemasonry embraced in the Lodge, Chapter, Council, and Commandery, embellished with nearly 300 symbolic Illustrations, together with Tactics and Drill of Masonic Knighthood. Also, forms of Masonic Documents, Notes, Songs, Masonic dates, Installations, etc. By D. SICKELS; 32 mo. Tuck. Price. $1.50. Cloth, $1.

GENERAL AHIMAN REZON AND FREEMASON'S GUIDE.

BY DANIEL SICKELS, 33°

The most perfect Masonic Monitor published in the United States. Embellished with nearly 300 Engravings, and Portrait of the Author, Containing Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow-Craft, and Master Mason, with Explanatory Notes and Lectures; with the Ceremonies of Consecration and Dedication of New Lodges, Installation of Officers, Laying Foundation Stones, Dedication of Masonic Halls, Burial Services, Masonic Calendar, Ritual for a Lodge of Sorrow, Masonic Trials, etc.
Bound in fine cloth extra, large 12mo.....$2.00.

DUNCAN'S MASONIC RITUAL AND MONITOR,

PROFUSELY Illustrated with Explanitory Engravings, and containing the entire Ritual and work of the Order for the Seven Degrees, including the Royal Arch. Scores of Masons have privately admitted that this is a Standard Text-Book in the Lodge, and is strictly correct; but publicly it is not acknowledged as authority, though almost every officer of the Lodge makes use of it. Price in cloth. $2.50.

MACKEY'S MANUAL OF THE LODGE.

Or Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, with Ceremonies Relating to Installations, Dedications, Consecrations, Laying of Corner stones, etc. Price, $2.

Allyn's Ritual of Masonry.

ILLUSTRATED by a large number of Engravings, and containing a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, Orange and Odd-fellows' Societies.
Price, $5.00.

MACKEY'S LEXICON OF FREEMASONRY,

CONTAINING a Definition of Terms, Notices of its History, Traditions, and Antiquities, and an Account of all the Rites and Mysteries of the Ancient World. 12 mo,; 526 pages; $3.

MACKEY'S TEXT-BOOK

Of Masonic Jurisprudence,

ILLUSTRATING the Laws of Freemasonry, both written and unwritten. This is the Great Law Book of Freemasonry—570 pages.
Price, $2.50.

MACKEY'S MASONIC RITUALIST;

or Monitorial Instruction Book,
BY ALBERT G. MACKEY.

PAST General High Priest of the General Grand Chapter of the United States, Knight of the Eagle and Pelican, Prince of Mercy, etc.
Price, Cloth, $1.25; Tuck, $1.75.

MOORE'S MASONIC TRESTLE BOARD.

THIS work was originally prepared by order of the National Masonic Convention held at Baltimore, Md., in 1843. It is known among Masons everywhere as the "BLUE BOOK," and has long been considered a standard work.
Price, $1.75.

TRUE MASONIC CHART; OR, HIEROGLYPHIC MONITOR,

BY JEREMY L. CROSS, Grand Lecturer.

With a Memoir and Portrait of the Author, Containing all the Emblems explained in the Degrees of entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason. Designed and arranged agreeably to the Lectures.
12mo. Cloth.....$1 50

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry.

A PRACTICAL Guide to the Ceremonies in the Degrees conferred in Masonic Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated edition. In cloth, $1.25; paper, 75 Cts.

Although this Monitor is extensively used in the Lodge, especially in Conferring the higher degrees, it is publicly called an "exposition," and not allowed as authority.

Descriptive Catalogue of Publications of Ezra A. Cook & Co.

13 Wabash Ave. Chicago.

BOOKS.

☞ Books at Doz. or Retail Prices sent post-paid. Not less than one-half doz. sent at dozen rates. By the 100 (25 Copies at 100 rate,) Expressage or Postage extra.

☞ Books sent by Mail are not at our risk.

Books at retail or by the dozen, ordered by Express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK; party ordering to pay Express Charges.

FREEMASONRY EXPOSED,
by CAP'T. WILLIAM MORGAN.

THE GENUINE OLD MORGAN BOOK:—republished with engravings showing the Lodge Room, Dress of candidates, Signs, Due Guards, Grips, Etc.

This revelation is so accurate that Freemasons murdered the author for writing it. Thousands have testified to the correctness of the revelation and this book therefore sells very rapidly.

Price 25 cents.

Per Doz. Post Paid..... $2.00
Per hundred by express, (express charges extra.).....$10.00

ODD FELLOWSHIP ILLUSTRATED.

A complete exposition of the Lodge Encampment and Rebecca (Ladies') Degree. The Signs, Grips, &c., shown by engravings.

Single copy, post paid,.....$ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per Hundred, Express charges extra,..... 10 00

EXPOSITION OF THE GRANGE.

EDITED BY REV. A. W. GREELIN.

Illustrated with Engravings showing Lodge Room, Signs, Signals, etc.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 10 00

Judge Whitney's Defense Before the Grand Lodge of Ill.

Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the Lodge when S. L. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Sladc. Judge Whitney, hy attempting to hring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the Lodge, bnt he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 2)
Per Doz. " " 1 50
Per 100, Express charges extra..... 8 00

History of The Abduction and Murder Cap't. Wm. Morgan,

As prepared by Seven Committees of Citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan.

This hook contains indisputahle, legal evidence that Freemasons, abducted and Mnrdered Wm. Morgan, for no other offence than the revelation of Masonry. It contains the sworn testimony of over twenty persons, including Morgan's wife, and no candid person after reading this hook, can donbt that many of the most respectable FREEMASONS. in the Empire State, with others were concerned in this crime.

Single Copy, post Paid,..... 25 ccnts.
Per doz. " .....$2,00.
Per 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 10.00.

Valance's Confession of The Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan.

This confession of Henry L. Valanco, one of the three Freemasons who drowned Morgan in the Niagara Rivcr, was taken from the lips of the dying man by Dr. John C. Emery, of Racinc County, Wisconsin in 1848; The confession bears clear evidence of truthfulness.

Single copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $1.50.
Per 100 Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

The Mystic Tie or Freemasonry a League with the Devil.

This is an account of the Church Trial of Peter Cook, and wife of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a Reverend Freemason; and their very able defence presented by Mrs. Lucia C. Cook, in which she clearly shows that Freemasonry, is antagonistic to the Christian Religion. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents

Per dozen, post paid..... $1 50
Per hundred Express charges Extra,..... 9 00

NARRATIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

Showing the Conflict of Secret Societies with the Constitution and Laws of the Union and of the States, by FRANCIS SEMPLE.

The fact that Secret Societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of Law is here clearly proved.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20
Per doz. " " $1.75
Per 100 Express charges Extra..... 9.00

THE BROKEN SEAL.

OR PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF Wm. MORGAN,

By SAMUEL D. GREENE,

Price in cloth; $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.
In Paper Covers per Doz. Post paid.....$4 50
" per hundred by express (ex. charges extra $25.00

Capt. Wm. Morgan was Mr. Greene's neighbor in Batavia, N. Y., and a member of the same lodge with him at the time of the great excitement in 1826. The titles to these chapters are sufficiently exciting to give the book a large sale:—"The Storm Gathering;" "Abduction of Morgan;" "Attempted Abduction of Miller and his Rescue;" "What became of Morgan;" "What Morgan Actually Revealed;" "Confession of the Murderer;" "Allegations against Freemasonry, etc."

THE ANTI-MASON'S SCRAP BOOK, CONSISTING OF 21 CYNOSURE TRACTS.

In this book are the views of more than a Score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of Secret Societies.

The dangerous tendency and positive evil of organized Secrecy is here shown by the most varied and powerful arguments and illustrations that have ever heen given to the public.

Lecturers and others who wish to find the best arguments against the Lodge, should send for this book.

Those who wish to circulate Antimasonic Tracts ought to have the book to select from.

Single Copy, post paid,.....20 cents.
Per Doz. " $1.75
Per 100, Express charges Extra,.....$10.00

Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion.

A clear cutting argument against the Lodge, from a Christian Stand point.

Single Copy post paid.....$ 05
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 3 00

PHELPS' SECRET SOCIETIES Ancient and Modern.

A NEW BOOK OF GREAT INTEREST.

This work is particularly commended to the attention of Officers of The Army and Navy, The Bench and The Clergy.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

"THE ANTIQUITY OF SECRET SOCIETIES, THE LIFE OF JULIAN, THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES, THE ORIGIN OF MASONRY, WAS WASHINGTON A MASON? FILMORE'S AND WEBSTER'S DEFERENCE TO MASONRY, A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRESS OF MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES, THE TAMMANY RING, MASONIC BENEVOLENCE, THE USES OF MASONRY, AN ILLUSTRATION, THE CONCLUSION."

Single Copy, Post Paid..... 50
Per Doz " " $4 75
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$25 00

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' LETTERS to Col. Wm. Stone, Edward Livingstone,

and others, on the nature of

Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties.

Price, post paid..... $ 50
Per Doz., " 4 50
Per 100, Express Charges extra..... 25 00

COLLEGE SECRET SOCIETIES.

Their Customs, Character and the Efforts for their Suppression.

BY H. L. KELLOGG.

Containing the opinion of many prominent College Presidents, and others, and a FULL ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER OF MORTIMER LEGGETT

Single Copy, post paid.....$ 35
Per Doz " " 2 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 15 00

MINUTES OF THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION,

Containing addresses by Rev. B. T. Roberts, Chas. D. Greene, Esq., Prof. C. A. Blanchard, Rev. D. P. Rathbun, Rev. D. S. Caldwell, Mrs. M. E. Gage, Elder J. R. Baird and others. Unpnblished Reminiscences of the Morgan Times, by Elder David Bernard; Recollections of the Morgan Trials, as related by Victory Birdseye, Esq., and presented by his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Miller; Secretary's report; roll of delegates; songs of Mr. G. A. Clark; paper by Enoch Houeywell; Constitution N. C. A.; reports of committees, and a report of the political meeting.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25
Per doz. " " $2.00
Per 100 Express Ccarges Extra..... 10.00

Proceedings of the Pittsburgh Convention,

Containing Official Reports; Addresses by Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. Rev. S. T. Roberts, Rev. G. T. R. Meiser, Prof. J. R. W. Sloane, D. D., Pres't. J. Blanchard, Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D., Rev. Woodruff Post, Rev. Henry Cogswell, Prof. C. A. Blanchard, and Rev W. E. Coquilette, also Report of the POLITICAL MASS CONVENTION, with Platform and Candidates for the Presidential Campaign of 1876.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25 cts.
Per doz " " $2 00
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 10 00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. W. P. M'NARY,

Pastor United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Ind.

This is a very clear, thorough, candid and remarkably concise Scriptural argument on the character of Freemasonry.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 5
Per Doz,..... 50
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$3 00

THIRTEEN REASONS

Why a Christian Should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong.

The author states his reasons clearly and carefully, and any one of the thirteen reasons, if properly considered, will keep a Christian out of the Lodge.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 5
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100, Express charges extra, ... $3.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. JAMES WILLIAMS.

Presiding Elder of Dakota District North-western Iowa Conference, M. E. Church, A SECEDING MASTER MASON.

Published at the special request of the Nine Clergymen of different denominations and others.

Single Copy, post paid..... 10
Per doz. " " 75
Per 100, Express Charges Extra.....$4.00

MASONRY A WORK OF DARKNESS

ADVERSE TO CHRISTIANITY, and Inimical to a Republican Government.

BY REV. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG, [Presbyterian.]

A Seceding Mason of 21 Degrees.

This is a very telling work and no honest man that reads it will think of joining the lodge. Single Copy, post paid,.....20cts.
Per doz. post paid,..... $1.50.
" 100, Express Charges Extra..... 8.00.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy.

Address of Prest. J. BLANCHARD, before the Pittsburgh Convention.

This is a most convincing argument against the lodge.

Single Copy, Post Paid .....$ 05
Per Doz " " 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON SCERETISM

BY REV. R. THEO. CROSS.

This is a very clear array of the objections to Masonry that are apparent to all.

By Rev. R. T. Cross, Pastor Congregational Church, Hamilton, N.Y.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

Its relation to civil Government and the Christian Religion.

By Prest. J. BLANCHARD, at the Monmouth Convention.

The Unchristian, anti-repnblican and despotic character of Freemasonry is here proved from the highest masonic authorities.

Single Copy, Post Paid,.....$ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Exprcss Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP AND OTHER SECRET SOCIETIES

BY REV. J. SARVER, Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church, Leechburg, Pa.

This is a very clear argument against Secretism of all forms and the dnty to disfellowship, Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as fonnd in their own publications.

Single Copy, Post Paid.....$ 10
Per Dozen " 75
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 4 00

Sermon on Secret Societies,

BY REV. DANIEL DOW, Woodstock, Conn.

The special object of this sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the Character of Secret Societies, no matter what object they profess to have.

Single Copy, post paid.....$ 05
Per Dozen, " " 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 3 00

President H. H. GEORGE, On Secret Societies.

A powerful address, showing clearly the dnty of Christian Churches, to disfellowship Secret Societies.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 10 cts.
Per doz, " ..... 75 "
Per 100, Express charges Extra, ... $4.00.

History of the National Christian Association.

Its origin, objects, what it has done and aim to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought; The Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association, Conditions of the Carpenter Donation with engraving of building to be donated by Mr. Carpenter; tablet, showing the number of pastors and communicants in churches that exclude members of Secret societies; tabular view of local, county, State and National Conventions, and list of organizations Auxiliary to the National Christian Association. Brief opinions of eminent men on secret societies, and testimonies of religious bodies against them. This book will be found invaluable by all who wish to know the character of this reform and how they may do the most to further its objects. It should be in the hands of every Anti-mason.

Price, post paid, 25 cents each; per doz., $1.50. 25 copies or more by express at 8 cents each.

NEW BOOKS

HAND-BOOK OF FREEMASONRY.

BY EDMOND RONAYNE, late Past Master of Keystone Lodge, No. 639, Chicago. A full Illustrated Exposition of the Three Degrees of "Ancient Craft Masonry:" Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft and Master Mason, embracing the "Standard Work" of the Order.

Single Copy, $0 50. Per dozen, $4 00. Per 100 $25 00.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WITH SIGNS OF RECOGNITION, PASS WORDS, GRIPS, Etc., and the RITUAL of the MACHINISTS AND BLACKSMITHS' UNION. (The two bound together.)

Single Copy, $0 25. Per dozen, $2 00. Per 100 $10 00.

Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees of Freemasonry

Nothing can more clearly show the abominations of this system of iniquity than its horrible Oaths and Penalties.

Single Copy, $0 15. Per dozen, $1 00. Per 100 $6 00.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret Societies.

A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons the Christian Church.

Single Copy $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100, $4 50

Secrecy v. s. The Family, State and Church.

BY REV. M. S. DRURY. The antagonism of Organized Secrecy with the welfare of the Family, State and Church is clearly shown

Single Copy, $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100 $4 00.

ANTIMASONIC TRACTS

NOW HAVE 25 ENGLISH TRACTS, 6 GAH, AND ONE SWEDISH

hese tracts are sold at the rate of $1.00 per 1000 pages.

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together, and is just the thing to select tracts from. Price 20 cents. See advertisement

For information about Free Tracts see advertisement headed "Free Tracts."

Address EZRA A. COOK & Co.,

18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TRACT NO. 1:

HISTORY OF MASONRY.

BY PRESIDENT J. BLANCHARD, OF WHEATON COLLEGE.

This is now published in three tracts of four pages each Price of each, 50 cents per 100; $4 per 1000.

TRACT No. 1, PART FIRST—Shows the origin of Speculative Freemasonry, and is entiled "HISTORY OF MASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART SECOND—Is entitled "DESPOTIC CHARACTER OF FREEMASONRY"

TRACT No. 1, PART THIRD—Is entitled "FREEMASONRY CHRIST-EXCLUDING RELIGION"

TRACT NO. 2:

MASONIC MURDER,

By REV. J. R. BAIRD, of Pleasantville, Pa., a seceding Mason who has taken 17 degrees. A 2-page tract at 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 3:

SECRETS OF MASONRY,

BY ELI TAPLEY.

This is a 4-page Illustrated Tract, showing the signs, grips and pass-words, of the first three degrees. 50 cents per 100, or $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 4:

GRAND! GREAT GRAND!

BY PHILO CARPENTER.

This is a 2-page tract, calling the attention of the public to the despotic and ridiculous titles of Freemasonry. Price 25 cents per 100; $2 00 per 1,000.

TRACT. NO. 5:

Extracts From Masonic Oaths and Penalties, as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.

This tract is a reprint of a tract published in 1834, and is a very weighty document. A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 6:

Hon. John Quincy Adams' Letter.

Giving His and His Father's Opinion of Freemasonry (1831.);

AND

Hon. James Madison's Letter,

Giving His Opinion of Freemasonry (1832).

Both of these letters, in one 4-page tract, at 50 cents per 100: $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 7:

SATAN'S CABLE-TOW.

A 4-page tract. This is a careful analysis of the character of Masonic oaths, and shows them to be most blasphemous and unchristian; and the Masonic Cable Tow is clearly shown to be the Cable Tow by which Satan is leading thousands to eternal death cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 8:

Is a 2-page double tract, "ILLUSTRATED." The first page represents a Mason proclaiming the wonderful wisdom and benevolence of the order, with an article below, entitled "Freemasonry is only 152 Years Old," and gives the time and place of its birth.

The second side is entitled, "Murder and Treason not Excepted," and shows that the Masonic order is treasonable in constitution, and is both anti-Republican and anti-Christian. Price 25 cents per 100; $2 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 9, ILLUSTRATED:

FREEMASONRY IN THE CHURCH.

Copy of a petition for the higher degrees of Freemasonry, in which Blasphemous and Despotic Titles are enumerated and prayed for. The Copy was printed for the use of "Occidental Sovereign Consistory S. P. R. S.," 32d degree—a Chicago Lodge—and was ordered by a deacon of a Christian Church who is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ill

TRACT NO. 10:

CHARACTER AND SYMBOLS OF FREEMASONRY.

A 2-page tract, (ILLUSTRATED) by its "Grand Secretaries, Grand Lecturers, Perfect Prince Freemasons, Grand Inspector, Inquisitor Commanders, Grand High Priests," etc. The wonderful symbolical meaning of "the Cable Tow," "the Square and Compass," "the Lamb Skin, or white Apron," and "the Common Gavel," are given in the exact words of the highest Masonic authority. 25 cents per 100 or $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 11:

Address of Niagara County Association, New York

TO THE PUBLIC,

Concerning the Morgan Murder, and the character of Freemasonry shown by this and other Masonic murders. 50 cents

TRACT NO. 12:

JUDGE WHITNEY AND MASONRY.

This tract contains a condensed account of Judge Whitney's Defense before the Grand Lodge of Illinois, on charge of unmasonic conduct in bringing Samuel L. Keith the murderer of Ellen Slade, and a member of his Lodge, to justice, with Judge Whitney's subsequent renunciation of Masonry,

An 8-page tract, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 13:

DR. NATHANIEL COLVER ON MASONRY,

and

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D.,

Chancellor of the University of New York, on SECRET SOCIETIES. A double 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 14:

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

ITS RELATION TO CIVIL GOVERNMENT AND THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION.

Opening address before the Monmouth Convention, by PRES. BLANCHARD of WHEATON COLLEGE. This is a 16-page tract at $2 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 15:

MASONIC OATHS NULL AND VOID

A clear and concisive argument proving the invalidity of an oath or obligation to do evil. By REV. J. A. HART, Secretary National Christian Association. Published by special order of the Association. 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 16:

HON. SETH M. GATES ON FREEMASONRY.

PROOF THAT THE INSTITUTION THAT MURDERED MORGAN IS UNCHANGED IN CHARACTER

This is a letter to the Monmouth Convention by Hon. Seth M. Gates who was Deputy Sheriff of Genesee County, and also Secretary of the Leroy Lodge at the time of Morgan's Abduction. A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 17:

Origin, Obligations and Expenses of The Grange

WITH A CONSTITUTION OF A FARMERS' CLUB.

This little tract ought to be put into the hands of every Farmer in the United States. Four-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 18:

HON. WM. H. SEWARD ON SECRET SOCIETIES

Extracts from a Speech on Know-nothingism in the U. S. Senate in 1855. The testimony of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS MILLARD FILLMORE CHIEF JUSTIC MARSHALL and others is added.

A 2-page tract, 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 19.

BRICKS FOR MASONS TO LAY.

WASHINGTON, MADISON, MARSHALL, RUSH, HANCOCK ADAMS AND WEBSTER, give brief clear testimony against the Lodge A 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000

TRACT

OBJECTIONS TO MASONRY.

By A SECEDING MASON, of Cornton, Vermont

This tract contains many strong arguments against the Lodge drawn from personal experience, observation and study of its character A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 21:

MASONIC CHASTITY

BY EMMA A. WALLACE.

The author, by wonderfully clear illustration and argument, shows the terribly corrupt nature of Freemasonry. No true woman who reads this will ever speak with approbation of this institution A 4-page tract 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 22.

LINUS CHITTENDEN ON FREEMASONRY.

The Author a Seceding Master Mason states his objection to the Lodge, drawn both from experience and observation, in a clear concise and forcible style.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 23.

MASONIC OATHS AND PENALTIES.

ADDRESS OF REV. A. M. MILLIGAN AT THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION.

This is the clearest and most conclusive argument to show the wickedness of masonic oaths and the duty to disregard and repent of them that we have ever seen.

A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 24.

SHOULD FREEMASONS BE ADMITTED TO CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP?

The principles and teachings of Freemasonry taken from the highest masonic authorities are compared with those of the Bible, several Masonic Oaths are given in whole or in part with the comments of Rev's. Moses Stewart, Nathaniel Colver, and Charles G Finney, on this character. Those who love a pure Christianity should aid in the circulation of this tract. A 4 page tract, 50cts. per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 25.

The American Party.

ITS OBJECT, ORGANIZATION, PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES.

Some of the ablest men in the nation have pronounced our platform the best that has been presented to the American people for the past fifty years Our Candidates are men of acknowledged ability and honesty, and if every voter in the United States could read this our "POLITICAL TRACT," our Candidates could undoubtedly be elected. One friend pledges a dollar for every other dollar contributed and this 8 page tract costs but $1.00 per 100, or $8.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 26.

FREEMASONRY A RELIGION.

This Tract is made up of quotations from Standard Masonic Authors and nothing could more clearly demonstrate the fact that Freemasonry claims to be a Christless and therefore Anti-christian religion.

An 8 page Tract, $1 00 per 100. $8 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 27.

Duty and Ability to Know the Character of Freemasonry.

Thousands seem to consider it a virtue to know nothing about the character of Secret Societies. This is shown to be a great error if not a crime and our duty to use the knowledge within our reach, especially when of such vital importance, is clearly enforced.

A 4 Page Tract, 50 cents per 100. $4 00 per 1000.

Cynosure Tract No. 28.

FREEMASONRY REVEALED.

A LEGAL ATTESTATION BY EDMOND RCNAYNE

To the correctiness of the published expositions of Freemasonry. The author very briefly states the mode of preparation and initiation in the various degrees, with the mock murder and resurrection of the candidate in the personification of Hiram Abiff in the 3d, degree and the penalties of each.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100. $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 1, IN SWEDISH;

Translated by Prof. A. R. CERVIN. A 15-page tract at $3.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

ENOCH HONEYWELL'S TRACT.

TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA. Postage 5cts. per 100, TRACTS FREE.

GERMAN CYNOSUCE TRACT A.

Six Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason.

By Rev. A. GROLE, Pastor, German M.E. Church, Worchester, Mass

This is our first German Tract, and it is a good one; it ought to have a large circulation. A 4 page tract, Price 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

FREE TRACTS.

A Tract Fund for the Free Distribution of Tracts.

HAS BEEN SECURED AND SHOULD NEVER BE EXHAUSTED. A friend has pledged this fund a dollar for every other dollar received, so EVERY NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TRACT FUND COUNTS DOUBLE, and thus $10.00 pays for 20,000 pages of tracts.

The distribution of these tracts has already saved hundreds of young men from the lodge, but there is a great lack of funds to supply the constantly increasing demand for Free Tracts.

During the year 1876 were gratuitously sent out, mostly in very small lots. The present demand is fully 100.000 pages per month, but funds are lacking to meet it.

Many of our most earnest workers in this cause of God are poor men, who would be glad to circulate thousands of pages of Antimasonic literature if they could have them free.

SHALL WE NOT HAVE AN INEXHAUSTIBLE TRACT FUND

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together and is just the thing to select from. Price 20cents. See advertisement page 15.

Enoch Honeywell Esq., pays for an unlimited number of his tract addressed "TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA." It is an excellent tract, bearing the printed endorsement of Executive Committee of the National Christian Association. He has furnished the printing over 150.000 pages of these tracts during the past year.

TRACTS FREE. If sent by mail, 5 cts per 100 is charged postage,

Send Contributions and orders to

EZRA A. COOK.

Secretary of Tract Committee 18 Wabash Ave. Chicago, Ill.

Publishers' Department.

AUGUST.

Will all whose subscriptions expire during this month renew promptly?

No one can successfully secure a large harvest of grain without having made previous and oftentimes expensive preparations for it. Barns and cribs are built, harvesting machinery and harvesters are engaged, to say nothing of all the cultivating of the land, sowing seed and preparing fences, which comes long before the harvest time.

A friend in New York writes: "I have tried to get some subscribers, but those to whom I have spoken had at that time subscribed for all they wanted for this year." The harvest time for subscribers in that locality was past.

The great harvest time for subscribers to the Cynosure commences about the first of November and continues for several months. Some are looking forward to it and preparing to secure new subscriptions for the Cynosure. They are getting friends to pledge themselves to take the Cynosure next year. They are scattering tracts, papers and books, etc., etc.

Let the preparations be increased —multiplied. "Turn each scheme and sharpen every thought."

The country is suffering, prosperity is blasted in the bud for want of a practical knowledge of the principles of the paper. Souls are blighted, ruined for time and eternity by the false ideas of God, charity, manhood and duty learned by the unsuspecting supporters of idolatrous lodge worship.

A great harvest is ripening, hundreds, thousands of persons are suffering for the Cynosure, and would hail it with joy. Their subscriptions will be secured during the coming fall and winter if those to whom God has intrusted this great reform realize the importance of circulating the Cynosure and put forth correspondingly great efforts, sustained by prayer, patience, love and perseverance.

Now is the time to enroll the names of the reapers. Will you be one and act well your part in the harvest field? Prepare to work in the harvest field—prepare.

E. Ronayne brings in a club of four for a year, one renewal for six months and five subscriptions for three months.

G. W. Park, Virginia, Mo., writes: "Five have promised to send for your paper as soon as they can get the means."

T. K. Buffkin, Lynnville, Iowa, writes: "I am going to try to enlarge our club here as soon as the farmers get something for their grain and are over the rush of work. The Lord is still bleessing his work here and I want to do my part in it."

W. B. McFail, Vassar, Mich., sends a new subscription and writes: "I hope to send in more names and more money soon."

Daniel L. Perkins, Decatur, Tex., writes: "I think I can get up a club for the Cynosure after cotton harvest. I am giving my neighbors the benefit of my Cynosure and some tracts."

A. J. Phillips, Maquoketa, Iowa, writes: "I have been trying to get some subscribers. * * * By the help of the Lord I will keep moving."

Books and Tracts sent Week ending Aug. 3, 1877.

By Express.

C Conkling, H H Hornack, J Garrison, H. Rolf.

By Mail.

J Lamont, C H Brown, L Baird, I N Davis, G Avery, D T Summerville, C C Dewey, H Tietjen, B L Dyer, D M Burriel, B M Davidson, A N Erickson, W H Wright, J M Welch, W Terry, W R Wilson, J Harrison, M E Sawyer, J H Woodward, O B Walworth, J B Lowe, C P Humphrey, B Pushaw, C W Backus, J B Bruce, A A Burnham, L B Richardson, A L Mauk, I Brooks, G W Daskam, W Haughanont, J T Sytz, A Redheffer, O J Townsend, T T Turner, J Hamilton, I O Savage, E J Curtis, J T Hobson, J Kilgore, T N McClung, E T Hudspeth, J Hartung, W E Stanley, L C Crowell, C E Chase.

Donation to Tract Fund.

L Sperry, 50 cts.

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED DURING WEEK ENDING AUG. 3, 1877, from G Avery, A Andre, J Blain, W A Bartlett, W M Casteel, D C Dagger, G Fyfe, J D Fowler, W Haughanont, G Johnston, R J King, H E Loomis, D Loucks, A N Lewis, T Marlow, E D Olmsted, A Sheldon, G Swanson, J M Shellabayer, W H Taylor, D W Woodsworth, C G Webb, J Young.

TERMS FOR THE CYNOSURE.

$2.00 per annum, in advance.
20c " " " " for postage.

All who canvass for the CYNOSURE are allowed a cash commission of twenty per cent. or twenty-five per cent in books at retail prices, one-half this percentage on renewals, and any one sending $100. for the CYNOSURE during three months, will be entitled to an extra five per cent.

All responsible persons who desire to promote this reform are authorized to act as agents.

SOMETHING NEW.

A CHART OF MASONRY

Showing the dogrees from the first to the thirty-third, entitled

Degrees of Ancient Accepted Scottish Freemasonry,

According to a Manual by Wm. M. Cunningham 33d Degree.

Designed by Rev. P. Stoddard, to explain Freemasonry, as shown by Morgan's Exposition and Richardson's Monitor.

A Neat Lithograph 22x28 Inches.

Single copies finely colored, post paid	$ 75
Per dozen " " " "	5 00
Per 100 " " " " Express charges extra	35 00
Single copy, colored, varnished and mounted postpaid	1 00
Per dozen colored, varnished and mounted, post paid	7 50
Per 100, colored, varnished and mounted, express charges extra	50 00

25 COPIES OR MORE SENT AT THE 100 RATES.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6 1877.

GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		1 19
" No. 3		95
" Rejected	69	70
" Minnesota		1 30
" Winter	1 21½	1 29
Corn—No. 2		47¾
Rejected	45	45½
Oats—No. 2	26¾	27
Rejected	18	20
Rye—No. 2		55½
Bran per ton		11 25
Flour—Winter	6 50	9 25
Spring	3 00	8 55
Hay—Timothy	9 50	10 00
Prairie		7 50
Mess Beef	10 75	12 00
Tallow	7¼	7½
Lard per cwt		8 85
Mess pork, per bbl		13 40
Butter medium to best	13	28
Cheese	5	9½
Beans	1 50	2 90
Eggs	10	12
Seeds—Timothy	1 40	1 60
Clover		7 50
Flax	1 30	1 35
Potatoes new per brl	1 50	1 75
Broom corn	3½	7½
Hides green to dry flint	6½	16
Lumber—Clear	30 00	34 00
Common	9 00	11 00
Fencing	9 00	11 00
Shingles		2 60
WOOL—Washed	36	43
Unwashed	23	27
LIVE STOCK Cattle Choice	5 7	6 50
Good	5 25	5 60
Medium	4 50	5 15
Common	3 00	4 25
Hogs	4 90	5 40
Sheep	3 00	4 50

New York Market.

Flour	$4 90	9 50
Wheat—Spring	1 28	1 43
Winter		1 43½
Corn	59¾	60½
Oats	27	58
Rye		70
Lard		9¼
Mess pork		14 30
Butter	10	24
Cheese	5	10
Eggs	15	17½
Wool	0	58

Agents Wanted!

TO SELL THE PUBLICATIONS OF

EZRA A. COOK & CO.

Liberal Terms Offered.

Capable persons who are in need of pecuniary aid may clear

Handsome Profits,

While at the same time aiding the cause of Reform Apply to EZRA A. COOK & CO., No. 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1	square, 1 insertion,			$3.00
1	square (1 inch deep) one month			7.00
1	" "	2	"	10.00
1	" "	3	"	15.00
1	" "	6	"	25.00
1	" "	12	"	40.00

Discount for Space.

On 2 squares 5 per cent, On 3 squares 10 per cent
On 4 " 15 " " On 5 " 20 "
On ¼ col. 25 per cent On one col. 30 per cent

Renewals.

The date at which subscriptions expire, is with each subscriber's name on the address label.

Please send renewals before this date occurs. Notice if the date is changed to correspond soon; if not, or if the paper fails to come, write without delay.

How to Send Money.

Post office orders, checks or drafts on Chicago or towns east of Chicago, and currency by express may be sent at our risk. If it is not possible to send by either of the four ways named, money in a registered letter may be sent at our risk, but it is not as safe.

THE SABBATH OF THE LORD,

BY JOHN J. McKAY New York.

Contents, Sabbath Profanation, Sabbath Sanctification, Hindrances to Sabbath Sanctification and the evils of Sabbath Rail Road Traveling and Transportation, Also THE CLAIMS OF THE SABBATH AGAINST THE ASSUMPTIONS OF REV. HENRY WARD BEECHER.

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO., 13 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Price, 25 cents each, $2.25 Per Doz. by Mail.

Discontinuances.

Unless we receive orders to stop the paper sooner, we continue the Cynosure a full month after the time expires. Those wishing their paper discontinued are requested to notify us AT THE TIME THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS EXPIRE.

ADDRESS all letters with subscriptions or orders for books, tracts, and donations to the tract fund, to Ezra A. Cook & Co., No. 13 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

CALIFORNIA

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the WEST and NORTH-WEST, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between CHICAGO and all points in ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, NORTHERN MICHIGAN, MINNESOTA, IOWA, NEBRASKA, CALIFORNIA, and the WESTERN TERRITORIES. Its

Omaha and California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in NORTHERN ILLINOIS, IOWA, DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, COLORADO, UTAH, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, CHINA, JAPAN, AND AUSTRALIA. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for NORTHERN WISCONSIN and MINNESOTA, and for MADISON, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, DULUTH, and all points in the Great Northwest. Its

Winona and St. Paul Line.

Is the only route for WINONA, ROCHESTER, OWATONNA, MANKATO, ST. PETER, NEW ULM, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for JANESVILLE, WATERTOWN, FOND DU LAC, OSHKOSH, APPLETON, GREEN BAY, ESCANABA, NEGAUNEE, MARQUETTE, HOUGHTON, HANCOCK, and the LAKE SUPERIOR COUNTRY. Its

Freeport and Dubuque Line

Is the only route for ELGIN, ROCKFORD, FREEPORT, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago and Milwaukee Line

Is the old Lake Shore Route, and is the only one passing through EVANSTON, LAKE FOREST, HIGHLAND PARK, WAUKEGAN, RACINE, KENOSHA to MILWAUKEE.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

are run on all through trains of this road.

This is the ONLY LINE running these cars between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our Sleepers connect with the Overland Sleepers on the Union Pacific Railroad for all points West of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago and North-Western Railway LEAVE CHICAGO as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California. Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, Two Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four Through Trains daily. Pullman Cars on night trains, Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta, La Crosse and Winona and points in Minnesota. One Through Train daily, with Pullman Sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains.

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, Two Trains daily. Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, Four Trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points you can have from two to ten trains daily

New York Office, No 415 Broadway; Boston Office, No. 5 State Street; Omaha Office, 245 Farnham Street San Francisco Office, 121 Montgomery Street; Chicago Ticket Offices: 62 Clark Street, under Sherman House; Kinzie Street Depot, corner W. Kinzie; Wells Street Depot, corner Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agents, apply to

W. H. STENNETT, Gen. Pass. Ag't, Chicago. MARVIN HUGHITT, Gen Man'g. Chicago.

[Eastern.)

NEW CLUB RATES

FOR

Either Renewals or New Subscriptions.

Papers addressed to one or different Post Offices as desired.

CLUB RATES INCLUDING POSTAGE.

2 to 4 Subscribers, at $2.00 a year.
5 to 9 " at 1.75 "
10 or more " at 1.50 "

Names for a Club may be sent at different times; THE MONEY FOR THE CLUB TO BE SENT WITH THE FIRST LOT OF NAMES; but other Subscriptions may be added at same rates after Club is full.

The effect of Club Rates is to give the Commission to those who compose the Club and no commission can be allowed on these rates.

MASON & HAMLIN,

Cabinet Organs!

The only Organ declared to be of First Rank by the Judges at Philadelphia.

Gold Medals and Diplomas of Honor awarded them at all the great World Expositions.

Being the only American Organs which have ever obtained any award in Competition with the best European makers.

These celebrated instruments are now offered to the public in New and Elegant Styles at the very Lowest Prices consistent with Best Material and Workmanship. They may be purchased on

Easy Monthly or Quarterly Installments

or Rented until Rent pays for them.

Every organ warranted to give satisfaction. Illustrated catalogue free.

Mason & Hamlin Organ Company.

Boston, 154 Tremont Street,

New York, 25 Union Square,

Chicago, 250 & 252 Wabash Ave.

AGENTS double their money selling Dr Chase's Improved ($2) Receipt Book Address Dr. Chase's Printing House Ann Arbor, Mich. [3Aug765t,

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

"In Secret Have I Said Nothing."—Jesus Christ.

EZRA A. COOK & CO., PUBLISHERS, NO. 13 WABASH AVENUE.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, AUGUST 16, 1877.

VOL. IX., No. 46.—WHOLE NO. 386. WEEKLY (post paid) $2.20 A YEAR.

Contents.

	Page
TOPICS OF THE TIMES	1
EDITORIALS:
The Work to do Next	8
Editorial Correspondonce	8
CONTRIBUTED AND SELECTED:
The Church Surrendered	2
The Contrast	2
Letters to Keystone Lodge, No. 6	2
The Lodge Hideous and Deceitful	3
The Struggle in France	3
REFORM NEWS:
From California; From Lake Co., Ind.; From Iowa; Cook and Faurot in N.E. Ind; D. P. Rathbun in Williams Co., Ohio	4
CORRESPONDENCE:
Why so Hard on the Ministers; Our Mail	5
Dr. Milligan's Sermon, "The Lesson of the Hour"	6
Knights of Pythias Ritual	12
Home Circle	10
Children's Corner	11
Home and Farm	11
Sabbath School	7
Religious Intelligence	12
News of the Week	9
Publishers' Department	16

Notices

DIRECTORS' MEETING:—The Directors elected at the last annual meeting of the National Christian Association will meet at the Carpenter building on Friday, August 17, 1877, at 10 o'clock, to organize and proceed with matters referred by the N. C. A. and such other business as may come before the meeting.

By order of the CHAIRMAN.

THE TENTH NAT'L CONVENTION.

of the National Christian Association will be held in Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 23rd to 25th next, beginning on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 23rd with a preliminary meeting for social converse and prayer in the afternoon of the same day. Let every friend of the reform do what he may be able for the success of this meeting: by arranging his affairs so as to be present; or, assisting to send a delegate; by having the editor of his local paper print the notice of the meeting; by suggesting some topic for practical discussion to the programme committee; but, above all, by prayer to God for his blessing upon the meeting. Let every local or auxiliary association arrange to be represented.

WISCONSIN STATE MEETING.

The annual meeting of the State Christian Association of Wisconsin auxilary to the National Christian Association opposed to secret societies, will be held at Baraboo, Sauk county, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, September 25th, 26th and 27th. The convention will be called to order at 2 P. M. on Tuesday, 25th. Rev. J. P. Stoddard, General Agent, and other distinguished speakers will be present. Mr. E. Ronayne will also attend and publicly work the Masonic degrees. Let every friend throughout the entire State work with such zeal and energy as to make this the best meeting of the kind ever held in Wisconsin and to secure ample means for carrying on this important work with renewed vigor.

E. L. HARRIS, Pres't.
U. D. LATHROP, Sec'y.

THE ILLINOIS STATE ASSOCIATION

Will hold its annual Convention at Streator, LaSalle county, beginning December 4th. Just after Thanksgiving the friends will be ready to begin the winter campaign. The churches will soon then open their protracted meetings. Let us hold such a meeting as will assure every Christian pastor that this reform can be taken up in the midst of his revival work with a blessing on himself and his church. Let all prepare for this meeting.

PAST MASTER RONAYNE will attend the National Convention at Dayton and the State meetings at Baraboo and Streator. Before the first of these, September 25th, he is at present unengaged. If any wish expositions let them arrange without delay, for after the Wisconsin Convention till January his services will be in continual demand. About October first he starts for Dayton speaking at several points on the way.

Topics of the Time

Political excitement in France reaches an exaggerated stage as the September election approaches. Though the nation is wholly at peace, the Bonapartists and papal party are urging the government to proclaim martial law and it is believed that a majority of the cabinet are in favor of such an extreme measure in order to carry the election against the Republicans. Germany watches very closely every movement, and nothing but dread of her displeasure prevents the adoption of measures that would bring on a fierce civil war. The MacMahon government is using every means known to the politician to carry the election. Newspapers hostile to him are not permitted to circulate in many sections. One publisher was fined for publishing a colored map representing the political complexion of the departments; another for refusing to print a speech of MacMahon's. In Paris Thiers' photographs are not allowed on sale while eighty thousand equestrian portraits of MacMahon are issued for distribution. Such extravagant measures point to to a certain victory for Gambetta and Thiers in the end.

Of all the Governors who took part in the strike, Williams of Indiana has been most blamed for his tender-hearted dealing with the rioters. He did not even begin the attack by proclamation until affairs were getting settled into the old ruts in other States. It has transpired that there is a circumstance connected with the strike which is being used, with more or less reason, against him. A son-in-law was on his way to the east with a drove of cattle when the strike caught him at Columbus, O., and he sadly turned back into less hostile domains, and his kind father furnished him a letter directed "To all whom it may concern," desiring that no opposition might be made to his return to the bosom of his family. The strikers recognized the pass and put Williams' son-in-law on board a mail-car.

Chicago has a School Board that is doing her more damage than twenty riots. Its principal business lately seems to have been giving attention to the animadversions of a member named Prussing, whose chief qualification and object in life appears to be, in the words of one of our dailies, "to guard against the possibility of school children being taught that there is a Supreme Being, a God, who controls the universe." Under the lead of this infidel a majority of the Board have been casting out all school books unpleasant to Mr. Prussing, though strenouusly opposed by the minority among whom are respected and excellent men. Last week a building which is under control of the Board (the old post-office, given the city for a reading room) was leased to a theatrical manager for a term of years. The question turned on the opening of the the theatre on the Sabbath. Unless entertainments were allowed on that day it could not be leased, as it could not be run with profit. The minority fought this bold and vicious proposition stoutly but in vain. Prussing used the occasion to insult the people of Chicago with suggestions about stopping the ringing of church bells, and that if a reduction was allowed for closing on the Sabbath it be charged to the Christian churches. Welch, an editor of the Chicago Times and author of the rule excluding the Bible thought that all the theatres would be open soon on the Sabbath. Such are the minds put forward to manage the momentous interests of education in this great city.

Mr. Blaine has engineered another rebuke at President Hayes; this time by means of the Republican State Convention of Maine. Resolutions were brought in on both sides by friends and enemies of the administration, and for a space the meeting was little better than a row, until Blaine coming forward moved to drop both resolutions and ignore Mr. Hayes; which, prevailing, has the popular effect of a rebuke. A more quiet but really remarkable feature of the meeting occurred earlier. Mr. Blaine called the convention to order, read the call, and nominated a chairman who was none other than the man who has until a few weeks ago held the highest place in the Masonic lodge in the country, Josiah H. Drummond of Portland, late Sovereign Grand Master of the Sovereign Grand Council of Sovereign Grand Inspectors General, thirty-third degree, and now Grand High Chancellor of the same body. Perhaps Mr. Blaine, as Knight Templar, jingled these titles over in his mind when he called his friend Drummond to the chair.

Last year the British Parliament refused to allow the local authorities in Ireland to regulate or stop the sale of liquor on Sunday, because the scheme was managed by the Irish Home Rule party. A few days ago the Irishmen became a very unruly party and most severely and factiously made the Commons feel the tribulations of being ruled at home. The number of obstructionists was but seven, but they kept six hundred lords and gentlemen in a state of rage and despair for a steady twenty-six hours over the South African annexation scheme, the longest single sitting ever passed through by a British Parliament. Their weapons for fighting off business were such parliamentary tactics, pretexts and divisions as they could well misuse to their purpose and though beaten at last by the friends of the measure, whose immense majority allowed them to rest and eat by relays, their pluck must provoke admiration and dread even if it prejudices Parliament and people against the Irish cause they are forever bringing to the front.

The apprehension of their friends for the missionaries in Turkey is well grounded. Those who have not already returned to this country have left their fields for places where life will be reasonably secure, or are contemplating such a move ere long unless the war ceases. In some portions of the impoverished and defenceless empire, it seems, the Mohammedans are likely to fare worse than the Christians. Miss Crawford of the Reformed Presbyterian Mission at Latakiyeh, Syria, writes home:

"We still dwell in the midst of alarms; the latest is, the Fellaheen threaten to attack Latakiyeh and destroy it. They are so enraged at their treatment by the government that they are ready to embrace the opportunity of revenge now, as the Turks are powerless to govern, they needing all their soldiers to fight the Russians.

A number of drafted soldiers have deserted rather than go to the seat of war, and they are making, by their depredations, the roads in every direction dangerous. The home guard have been called out to the seat of war. This state of Turkish matters is good for the Christians, but not for the Moslems, with such foes as the Fellaheen so near. The Fellaheen say they will not come near us, we have always been their friends. They are generally well disposed, too, toward the native Christians, but in the excitement of plunder, such barbarians are not likely to distinguish between friend and foe. If they do attack the town there will be a bloody reckoning for some of the Moslems, whose cruel oppressions have been very grievous."

The Church Surrendered.

Editor Cynosure: Several articles in the Cynosure of late in regard to Freemasonry in the churches, prompt me to send you a copy of a paper which was given me by Dea. Calvin Hatch of Farmington, Conn., whose renunciation is published in Finney on Freemasonry:

Farmington, Mar. 12, 1834.

Resolved, That this church approves the course of those professing Christians who have voluntarily separated themselves from the Masonic society, renouncing its errors and exposing its dangers; and that hereafter it will be required of every person desiring admission to this church who has been a member of the Masonic institution to give satisfactory assurance that he has discontinued all connection with that institution and intends to remain so disconnected during his life, and that he will not practice its ceremonies, use its signs nor yield obedience to its oaths or obligations.

The above is a true copy of record of the First Congregational Church of Christ in Farmington.

Attest, Noah Porter, Pastor.

I understand that some fifteen or twenty of the prominent members of that church seceded and renounced Freemasonry previous to the date of this resolution. Strange as it may appear the sons of those men do not honor the teachings of their fathers and remember their warnings. At the present time Freemasonry is no disqualification to being a member of that church.

A few years since a Mason was preaching as a candidate for settlement at that church and no objections were made, except on the part of Dea. Hatch.

I can but think that the great sin is being committed by the churches rather than by the lodges. If Christ meant any thing when he said to his disciples, "Ye are the light of the world," "Let your light shine," etc., have the churches obeyed this command? I think not; and what is worse do not appear to have any intention of doing so. From my acquaintance with the older members of the churches in this State I am satisfied that a large majority look upon Freemasonry as a great evil and a great obstacle in the way of pure religion, and yet hide the light they have under a bushel and hence no light in the house. How can we expect the young to avoid the lodge when those who stand in the place of teachers, by their silence give it countenance and support? I believe that there are thousands in our land who have been hoodwinked and cable-towed ard led on to ruin only for the want of faithful instruction and warning on the part of the Christian church.

Who is responsible? A sentinel on duty to guard the camp who refused to give the alarm at the approach of danger would be worse than none. Is a church which countenances and approves of Freemasonry any better than the lodge? If so, wherein?

Among the incidents that have been related to me in regard to Freemasonry is the following. My informant is a prominent Mason: At the time of the Morgan troubles two of the leading members of the Congregational church in Simsbury, Conn., were Freemasons; one seceded and publicl, confessed his error, the other kept his jewel of the lodge, i. e., a silent tongue. Both lived and died members of that church in good and regular standing. A relative of mine who was a Mason, not a member of the church, who had sense enough to know that such implied contradictions on the part of intelligent men implied a falsehood, remarked that one of those men was lying and both could not be consistent members of a Christian church.

The world expects the true church by its members to be the exponent of all truth and righteousness, and to oppose all ungodliness, and when they see the contrary have they not a right to questien whether it be a true church?

Do not all who fellowship Freemasonry and kindred evils in the churches without protesting by their silence give it their approval. If I am wrong I wish to be corrected. I hope this matter will be freely discussed in the Cynosure and at our conventions. Yours in the cause of truth. P. Bacon.

Weatogue, Conn.

The Contrast.

BY REV. J. J. HAYDEN.

All secret societies, in their nature and character, are opposed to the nature and character of God, as revealed in the kingdoms of nature and grace. Revelation is light; secrecy is darkness; Satan is the author of moral darkness; all who love darkness rather than light are his children, who are walking in darkness and refuse to come to the light, lest their deeds should be reproved. "But he that doeth truth cometh to the light, that his deeds may be made manifest that they are wrought in God." Secretism always conceals and never reveals, but Christianity is revelation; secrecy is darkness, but revelation is light. The children of the devil love darkness rather than light, but the children of God love the light rather than secrecy. Christ is the Christian's light, and in his name they pray and are saved; but secretism rejects Christ, and, therefore, is anti-Christ. Christ offers salvation to the poor, the blind, the lame, the African, the deaf, the dumb, the female, all of which are studiously rejected by the mother of secret harlots, Freemasonry, which offers its pretended benefits exclusively to the hale in body and mind, whom they beguile into their dark conclaves for money and price, contrary to the terms of salvation, which is without any equivalent, and accessible and free to all. Freemasonry, like phariseeism, professes to be a religion of a universal character, embracing the Jew, the deist, the Mohammedan, all of which reject our Lord Jesus Christ, the only hope of a fallen world, and, notwithstanding, presumptuously ask to be fellowshipped by the Christian church. O, shame, where is thy blush. Th Peharisee who wore a religious garb in order to be seen of and deceive men met with the severest castigation that Jesus ever administered in the way of a reprimand while on earth; and is an institution which is using every device to deceive and allure the Christian, by hugging his Bible and boasting of its charity, less deserving the rebuke than the hypocritical Pharisee, and the contempt of every Christian patriot, and to be spurned from Christian society, and hide its Ophydian form in the dark gulf from whence it came, and no more, by falsehood and deceit, infest either church or state? It will be a glorious epoch when this old accuser shall be cast down from the church, being overcome "by the blood of the Lamb and the word of their testimony." May God hasten the time.

Letters to Keystone Lodge, No. 6.

THE PREPARATION ROOM—CONTINUED.

To the W. M., Wardens and Brethren of Keystone Lodge No. 639 A. F. and A. M.:

Brethren: With your permission we shall now discuss together the third of "the usual constitutional questions" propounded by your secretary to the candidate preparatory to his initiation.

Question 3. "Do you seriously declare, upon your honor, before these gentlemen, that you will cheerfully conform to all the ancient usages and established customs of the fraternity?" Candidate answers, "I do."

Here the candidate pledges himself, on his sacred honor, to do what, under any other circumstances, he could not even think of doing. Let it be remembered that he is supposed to know nothing whatever of Freemasonry—of its laws, its usages, or its established customs. He has no means whatever, according to "Masonic teaching," of becoming posted as to their nature or character except through initiation and after study. He has no guarantee that "the ancient usages and established customs of the fraternity" may not, at some future time, lead him into rebellion against the government or to commit crime in some other way. He cannot, in his present condition as a profane (admitting what Masons say to be true), form the least conception of what the "ancient usages and established customs of the fraternity" are just now, as he stands in the preparation room; much less can he tell what they shall be one, five, ten, or twenty years from now. And yet, notwithstanding all this, he unreservedly pledges his "sacred honor" before these gentlemen, that he will cheerfully conform to ALL the "ancient usages and established customs of the fraternity." This same candidate, under any other circumstances, would have multitudes of questions to ask and ever so many objections to raise were you to ask his concurrence in any other matter. Present for his consideration and acceptance the very simplest doctrine of the Bible—tell him that "All have sinned and come short of the glory of God." Explain to him as briefly as you may that the word of God expressly teaches that "Man was ruined by the fall, redeemed by the blood, and regenerated by the Spirit." Ask him to believe the Bible, and what, in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, will he answer? "Oh, well, that's all very good, but how do I know whether that Bible is the word of God or not?" Ask him to believe in the atonement and place his whole trust and confidence for salvation in the finished work of the Lord Jesus Christ, and see how many very ingenious objections he will raise and how very many weighty excuses he will offer. But take him into the preparation room of a Masonic lodge and ask him, "in the presence of these gentlemen," "does he declare, upon his honor, that he will cheerfully conform to all the ancient usages and established customs of Freemasonry," and he at once, and in the most cordial and cheerful manner possible, will answer, "I do;" although, at that very moment, according to his own acknowledgment, and according to the assertion of every Mason you meet, he knows no more about the ancient usages and established customs of Freemasonry than he does of the compcsition of a comet or the transit of Venus.

Now, the candidate knows all about the "ancient usages and established customs of the fraternity," or he does not. If he knows all about them, the question arises, How did he obtain this knowledge? From what source did he derive his information? Are they printed and published and accessible to the outside world, or to those to whom Freemasonry applies the term profane? And if a man can know all about these "ancient usages and established customs," then evidently the women can be equally well informed, and hence the bare idea of compeling your candidate, a few moments afterward, to swear solemnly to keep the very "self-same "ancient usages and established customs" a profound secret from all but the duly and regularly initiated is sheer humbug, and calling upon God to help you to do this and to be a party to such a notorious fraud is the very worst form of blasphemy. But again, if it is possible for all outside of a Masonic lodge to become acquainted with "all the ancient usages and established customs" of your pretended craft, how is it then that we hear Masons every day, in reply to Anti-masonic lectures and others when condemning these very "usages and customs," use that most profound argument: "You know nothing at all about it. You never was made a Mason, and hence you know nothing about Masonry." If an Antimason or any other man outside of Masonry "knows nothing at all about it," then how does it follow that your candidate can know anything about it, and if the candidate knows nothing about it, then, in the name of common honesty, how can he truly and sincerely "declare upon his honor that he will cheerfully conform to" that of which he is in the most profound ignorance.

EDMOND RONAYNE.

[Continued next week.]

THE LODGE HIDEOUS AND DECEITFUL.

It is fequently remarked, why is the land howling out against the sluice-ways of living corruption, when the great reservoir of pollution that breeds, fosters aud sends them forth throughout the nations are scarcely mentioned or alluded to? Is it because the church proclaims the fountain head of corruption, Most Worshipful Grand Master, and does it homage and maintains there a sacrificial altar to propitiate infernal powers.

Scarce has the "Maguire order" (whose horrid vows copied Masonry) arisen, done its bloody work and passed its share of victims to be throttled at the gallows, died away before our ears are again pained with the holocaust of life and property, sent up by the sworn band of secretists, the "Trades-union," having no other excuse than that Masonry working in secrecy and darkness, subjugates her masses and with blasphemous vows chains and corrupts her minions that her leaders may trample under feet and walk over them to control society and government, and sway her Satanic sceptre over her subdued and pliant victims. The "Simon pure" communist asks that he may fatten as a depredator on those willing to work, to produce, to accumulate. Masonry goes farther than these, her legitimate offspring; proud and boastful of her strength to subdue, insult, enslave and tyrannize. Masonry does not join with the communist to ask for a division of goods; it asks to snatch the savings from the honest toiler, to bind him to its chariot by blasphemous vows, to sink his manhood, to overawe him with force and fear, to array him against truth, honor and principle, to disrobe him of power, and insult while it enslaves him by cunning, craft and force; in a word, to make him a cowan in life and an infidel in death. No, no, do not pass by the Masonic alma mater to attack its brood; they are younger in crime; they could not be hatched, could not live, exist, without this poisonous Masonic cockatrice.

The mere mention of a secret society to any man ought cause him to recede as from the sound of a rattlesnake at his feet. If a man goes once to one and is clasped in their toils, he is an object of sympathy; if he goes a second time he ought be given at least nine-tenths of a sidewalk in passing him. I have been a close observer in life of the effects of Masonry on men, and been greatly profited, pecuniarily and in all other respects, by adopting the rule never to credit, trust or place the slightest confidence in the act, word or deed of a man who approved of secret societies; he may be mechanically honest and believe himself to be honest, but deep-seated within he is foul with corruption to the core. If in the church he will play the role of Judas, although unconscious to himself, and is ever ready to exclaim, is thy servant a dog that he should do this thing? If a lawyer, he is a disguised thief to himself and others; yet none the less a thief at heart. If a physician, the mountebank and cheat ever crops out to the observant eye. If a business man, he may conform apparently to all that is superficially correct and honest on the surface, yet in heart and spirit deceptive, treacherous and corrupt. It is best to avoid and turn aside from them and their way.

Not to join a Masonic order when solicited is considered grounds to call forth their bitter hatred,—this was the offence of Adams, Everett, Seward, Thaddeus Stevens (who said Odd-fellows were the maggots crawling out of the dead carcass of Masonry), Webster and a host of worthies, whose names Masonry sought to load with shame and disgrace. Happy is the man who has God for his friend and Satan and all his emissaries for his enemy. The great need of the hour is men—men willing to act up to their honest convictions, who will stand up against the vomitings forth of the filthy slime and foaming froth and vituperation and slander and wild ravings of this monster Masonic beast; chase him to his hiding retreat and throttle him in his lair; then will the leper be shaken off, and the contagion of its leprosy cease to spread among the nations in the form of organized treason, rebellion, rings and conspiracies to defraud, extort, rob and corrupt.

Men have unnecessary fears of the power of Masonry. Their influence is much broken by the fact of their not believing one the other; as it is a way with them, when malice prompts, to send out an enquiry through the lodges after the individual they wish to slander out of society or crush in business, and then place in various lodges whatever slanders deemed best to successfully blacken reputation and oppose in business; then using their own alphabet and in symbolical language place it in a black book at the capitals of the nations of the globe, in order if the applicant sends in his ten or twenty-five dollars with request for membership, it may pay for looking up if any advanced member has ill-will against him, to order a black ball. Slander with them has expended its force, although a manager in the upper circles can command an advanced member in any other nation to make his quarrel his own, who will fight more malignantly and violently than a paid Hessian; yet their power to harm is much overrated, as they have such frequent recourse to that.

The fawning and flattering layman or clergy who have declared that according to ancient Masonry they had a desire to be made Masons, are in no position to denounce lawlessness and destruction by secret organizations, while for selfish ends or worldly prosperity they pet, aid and nourish the beast that brings forth the whelps. However much secular journals act upon the principles and maxims of the world to attorn most subserviency and deference to the greatest influence, wealth and power (as they are apt to market principle and truth to the highest bidders), it serves as no excuse to the citizen to palliate the nature of secretists. Let but secret organizations totter and tumble to their fall and cease to have power to wreak vengeance, and not a pulpit, religious or secular journal in the land but would exhaust all the billingsgate wrath they could command to denounce and hurl anathemas at any and every secret organization.

The nation is learning by bitter experience, and will continue to learn, that the fruits and disastrous consequences to society and mankind of the bandit and secretist and brigand are one.

O. S. O.

THE STRUGGLE IN FRANCE.

The following able review of the present crisis in French politics was written not long since by a gentleman in high position in France to the London religious press:

"It must not be for a moment supposed that this is a mere governmental and political crisis; it is the death struggle of the Catholic and aristocratic past with democracy and religious liberty. Undoubtedly this league of the old enemies of civil and religious liberty, which during the greater part of the century has been gathering up its strength, is associated with a veritable troop of bandits, the men whom we call in France, the 2d of December men—men who can resort to coups d'etat and coups d'main—who seek power as prey, and who, if to-day they are vociferously devout, may be ready to-morrow to pander to demagogy. They are men of no genuine convictions, the slaves of appetites and lusts; but they are adepts in the policy of terrorism and repression, and we shall soon see them not mere allies, but leaders in the present enterprise. They wear at present the very air of devotees, but they are wolves in sheep's clothing—in the clothing of the sheep who drink the waters of Lourdes and feed in the pastures Ultramontane doctrine. We may be sure that they will not long wear their disguise; anything is to be expected, everything to be feared, from the Bonapartist faction, the shame and the curse of France. For the moment these men are still hiding their clenched fists and representing themselves as the upholders of what M. de Broglie calls moral order. Under his banner are found, first, the Ultramontanes, who say, as the Count de Mun, president of the Catholic circles, said the other day, that war must be made, in the name of the Syllabus, on the French Revolution, on the liberal principles of 1789. Then come the Legitimists, who are always having waking dreams of the return of Henry V. These are less easily led than the Clericals, who are Clericals only; they will not have the way closed against their king; they want a promise that there shall be no combination by which he may be excluded, and especially that there shall be no patching up of the Republican edifice, on the ruins of which they hope to raise the throne of the eldest son of the church. Lastly, this league, formed not for the public weal, but for its woe, receives into its ranks Orleanists, accustomed to look with profound contempt on democracy, and altogether ignorant of the popular mind, never going beyond their salons, where they display their jeux d'esprit and their epigrams for the admiration of the grand ladies of the beau monde, who can never forgive the Republic for not having raised to power these sayers of fine things, who show to such advantage in the drawing-room circle.

"Such is the army which has just declared war on the majority of the representatives of the nation, and has done so without reason and without excuse; on the ground merely of certain lying accusations; for it is beyond a doubt that this majority, which faithfully represents laborious, liberal and intelligent France, has always been moderate. But it has touched the idol of the Vatican; it has declared that it would compel the Ultramontane church to respect the laws. This is its crime. It was evident that if things were allowed to take their normal course, the power of the clergy would be restricted, and the Legitimist and Orleanist dukes would find themselves under the necessity either of retiring from public life or of submitting to the will of the country. Hence the step was taken of first gagging the Chamber, and then demanding its dissolution of the Senate, without any reasonable cause to be assigned, and at the risk of provoking a perilous struggle, and of bringing back democracy in triumph, like the reflux of a strong tide. Well, in spite of all these provocations, the French democracy has remained admirably quiet. It has a firm faith in the goodness of its cause and in its strength, and even though it is well aware that in the approaching elections it will not be allowed fair play, that the new government will strain every nerve to throw into the electoral balance the weight of its administrative coercion and of episcopal authority, it is convinced that the attempts to enchain the liberties of a great people will fail, and that the Liliputians have not prevailed to throttle the giant in his sleep. The French nation is indeed no sleeping giant; it is wide awake and knows its own mind. Universal sufferage will give in a few months a decisive verdict, at which its enemies rage in anticipation.

"The scene in the closing sittings of the Chamber of Deputies baffles description. The Right attempted to drown by its clamor the voices of the Republican orators; it heaped on them unmeasured insults, and made every effort to intimidate them, but with no other result but that of making their eloquence more powerful and overwhelming. The other day Gambetta rose to the very zenith of oratorical art, while still retaining remarkable self-possession, so that he was prepared at once to reply to the foolish and libellous interruptions to which he was constantly subject. The pointed shafts of his irony were irresistible; one seemed to hear the arrow hiss in the wound. Then came the thunders of his burning eloquence, like the great voice of a united and indomitable democracy holding itself under perfect control. Those who witnessed the oration of M. Thiers in the same sitting of the Chamber will never forget it. As the Minister of the Interior ventured to pass by his name in speaking of the liberation of the territory, more than four hundred deputies rose, and, designating him, cried, 'There is the true liberator of the territory.' How must that old servant of his country whose vigorous faculties age had scarcely impaired, have felt himself avenged in that moment for all the cowardly outrages of which he has been the victim! It is he who will be again the leader of liberal France in the tremendous struggle which is impending, and which, God helping, will end in the dawn of a blessed day of liberty, political and religious, and will drive into the darkness all the birds of night that screech at the sun."

Reform News.

From California.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 1, 1877.

Dear Bro. Kellogg: Since my last to you of May 24th, I have been busily engaged in the work in various ways. I spent over two weeks in Lake county among the mountains of California. Here lives the warm-hearted, the generous and noble Bro. Black, who has prepared the way for the lectures, but never tires in this good cause. He received me warmly and treated me with every kindness. The United Brethren have a very nice house of worship. At Upper Lake I preached twice in their house, morning and evening, and lectured Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings to crowded houses. From there I went to Kenserville about 18 miles; here I preached morning and evening in the M. E. house and lectured several evenings to good houses. Many Masons were present on each occasion; every thing passed off quietly, but at each place it operated as at Woodland—set the town and neighborhood all in commotion.

On my return to Woodland my next trip was to the famous Humboldt region 225 miles from San Francisco by water. This county is celebrated for its red wood trees, some of which measure from 14 to 20 feet in diameter and run from 200 to 300 feet high. Here the crops never fail, as in the Sacramento valley. This county is celebrated for raising of peas, potatoes and oats that in some instances produce 100 bushels per acre, but its chief dependence is its lumber trade. There is no railroad to this county; it is reached by mountain stages 300 miles, or 225 miles by water. The people are looking and longing for the railroad which will come in due time. I commenced my work at Rhonerville under the guidance of Bro. Burtner, and commenced by preaching morning and evening in the U. B. house to good audiences, and each evening the lectures were over-crowded. After the first lecture I was attacked by two preachers, both Masons, who contradicted some things said; but what aroused their indignation was probably my allusion to ministers being used as decoy ducks to draw others into the lodge, etc. The Congregational preacher is a man of doubtful character, not standing very well in the community, I concluded to let him go his own way; but I found as in all other instances that I knew too much for these men and gave too much insight into lodge life, hence they cannot stand it.

From Rhonerville I went to Ferndale, the very nest of Masonry and other secret orders. Here also I preached twice in the M. E. meeting house; lectured three nights and at a school house to large audiences. I found the people came for 20 miles around, and if any man wishes to get notorious or speedily known he has only to lecture on Masonry, and it will not take long before he is known throughout this coast, and if he is not put out of the way it will be a great wonder. Intimations of that kind came to me and the excitement ran so high that I dare not lecture in Eureka on the coast. Here we have but few known Anti-masons and therefore it was not prudent to do so, as the place is given over to drinking, gambling and secret societies.

You that have not visited California have no idea of its depravity. It is one of the most God-forsaken places I have ever seen. Nearly all the preachers are secret society men and leaders in those societies, and you that have anxious desires for California the sooner you get rid of the feeling the better. Thousands would leave to-day because of the spiritual, moral and material distress, but they lack funds to return. I wish to say for the information of all, and this opinion is agreed in by almost every one I converse with, that this country is too highly colored; it is overdrawn and overdone, therefore I say to all stay at home if you have one, there is little chance of doing much here. If it was proper I could give you many touching experiences, but as my letter is now long enough I must conclude for this time, only stating that I am now in San Francisco.

Yours most truly,
Henry Cogswell.

From Indiana—The General Agent in Lake County.

Crown Point, Ind., Aug. 7, '77.

Dear K.: This field hitherto little disturbed opens encouragingly. The lodge has exercised its proscriptive power and largely controlled the actions of our friends by intimidation. They have hitherto been on the defensive, but there is no good reason to hope that this order of things will ere long be reversed. I have preached in the Presbyterian, Methodist and one of the Baptist churches since coming to the place and am to deliver my first lecture proper in the Presbyterian church this evening. I could enumerate quite a list of warm friends at this point already found, but think best to omit it hoping several will report as subscribers to the Cynosure. I am told that funds are in readiness to defray the necessary expenses of initiations by Bro. Ronayne, but it is thought from present indications that it will be best to wait until the farmers get their grain stacked.

I have not been wanting in efforts to secure something to add to the Publishing House Fund, but am sorry to say my success as yet has not been equal to my hopes. Indefinite promises, contingent upon the uncertain and ever changing future, are it is true sometimes, but not always realized. Here as elsewhere there are those who intend to help in completing the necessary amount, but not yet. I intend speaking here this and to-morrow evenings and shall then (D. V.) be in the city again, when I hope to hear from friends in regard to the anniversary especially several to whom I have written in Ohio. The harvest is past in that State and seems to have been abundant, and with the means thus committed to the hands of our friends and the favorable season for reform work, it seems but just to expect reports of stirring work from that part of the field.

J. P. Stoddard.

From Iowa.

New Sharon, Iowa, Aug. 6, 1877.

Dear Bro. Kellogg: I spoke Saturday evening, Aug. 4, to a large congregation in the Friends' meeting-house. The subject of secret societies had never been publicly discussed, and some Freemasons had crept into the society of Friends here. Good attention was paid and good order prevailed until a reply was invited, upon which the editor of the paper here, who is a prominent Freemason and Odd-fellow, commenced an abusive harangue, which was loudly cheered by the members of the craft. He, however, did not deny anything I had said, but such was the effect that the members of the church were afraid to have another meeting for fear of serious disturbance, and I expect to speak to-night in the city hall.

Last evening I attended at the M. E. church and listened to an able sermon by the pastor. He drew a contrast between worldly and selfish organizations and the churches, and it was one of the best arraignments of the secret orders I have ever heard. He assured me that I had his sympathy in my work. Masonry is strong here and very arrogant. Yesterday (Sabbath) a Mason publicly beat and kicked his wife, and another Mason who was present cursed the poor woman, whose only offense was that she talked against Masonry.

Yours in the Lord,
H. H. Hinman.

Cook and Faurot in Northeastern Indiana.

Larwill, Ind., Aug. 8, 1877.

Editor Cynosure: I would say to your numerous readers and the friends of Christ and reform that Dr. S. L. Cook and a Bro. Faurot arrived here on Monday, the 6th, for a lecture at Troy Centre schoolhouse. The house was full and the order was good. Bro. Faurot lectured for one hour in that calm, forcible and convincing way that made every one feel that he was a gentleman and a Christian, and, therefore, they kept their jewel. After that Bro. Cook fired some hot shot into the enemy's camp with telling effect. They were very uneasy under it, but had to bear it. Friends of reform, let us show to the world that we have been with Christ and learned of him, for I verily believe, could we make all men Christians, we would kill every lodge in the land.

We are making arrangements to get Ronayne here, but don't want him until in October. He can communicate with me; any of the friends that come this way I would be glad to have them call. I live one mile north of Larwill, Whitley Co., Ind. B. B. Salmon.

From Williams County, O.—D. P. Rathbun's Harvest.

Pioneer, O., Aug. 6, 1877.

Editor Cynosure: Permit me to report through your columns the progress of war with lodge power in these parts. For a time it seems that the world was made glad, and Satan rejoiced in the fact that a general armistice prevailed. Compromise, in a measure at least, was apparently the general arrangement and the many were ready to join in hearty acclaim, "How pleasant to dwell together in unity!" We agree that harmony of feeling and unity of action is much to be desired; but when, to effect this, we are called upon to bury truth and sacrifice principles of righteousnes, then let the cry be Separation. He who deems it unwise to countenance ungodly practices, or fails to approve of Christless institutions with their soul-destroying schemes and declines to engage in joint labor with Christ-rejecting men, is accounted uncourteous, selfish, bigoted, etc. When we began operations here we confess to having raised the black flag against Satan and his allies, finding no place for useless things. Thus a shell was lodged in the enemy's camp; the fuse being short it soon exploded, then the beast was hurt, and Hiram came to the rescue. We have always tried to give the devil his due, but this time he merited more than we could give, notwithstanding victory was ours. In due time help came in the person of D. P. Rathbun, who did not "whip the devil around a stump," but took him in the open field and gave him a complete flogging.

Brother Rathbun delivered several lectures on my field of labor recently, first at Pleasant View, then at Ransom, where "Satan's seat is," also at Otterbein. Notwithstanding the busy season the interest was intense, the churches failing to accommodate the crowds that assembled. The effect of his lectures are marked, they tell mightily against the lodge. Some who were halting between two opinions, and doubtless would have become victims to lodge mummery, have been rescued from its abominable influences. May God deliver him from cruel hands and speed him in helping to prosecute the war against this king-evil until lodge power shall tremble and fall before the triumphant march of sacred truth. D. B. KELLER.

WATSON, IND.

D. P. Rathbun lectured in the Miner school house to a large audience July 25th, 26th and 27th, it being exceedingly warm. Good order was strictly observed. His subject was the "Religion of Freemasonry and its effects on society." During his lecture he confined himself to Masonry and its sinfulness until the close, during which he spoke of Odd-fellows and grangers. No Mason present to reply; Odd-fellows bore it quite well, but grangers squirmed. He told them they were chickens now, but as soon as the feathers were grown out they would be full-fledged Masons. He proved in his lecture that Masonry was an immoral institution, opposed to Christianity and the Bible. May God help Bro. Rathbun to sow the good seed wherever he goes. The leaven is working in Watson. DAN'L LEGGET.

—Alas! it is not till time with reckless hand has torn out half the leaves from the book of human life that man begins to see that the leaves that remain are few in number, and to remember faintly at first and then more clearly, that upon the early pages of that book was written a story which he would fain read over again.—Longfellow.

Many who have escaped the rocks of gross sin have perished in the sands of self-righteousness—Dyer.

Correspondence.

WHY SO HARD ON THE MINISTERS?

WEST UNITY, O.

EDITOR CYNOSURE: Some time ago a friend advised us not to bear down quite so hard on the Masonic ministers in our articles to your paper, as we were injuring the cause, the church and ourself by so doing. We promised to consider the matter, and either take the advice or give our reasons for not taking it.

We have concluded not to take the advice, and now for our reasons. I suppose no one will deny our right to inquire into the character of any person, minister or not. In fact, we think, if ministers knew that their people were watching their actions and inquiring into the character of their associates a little more, we would perhaps have fewer of them in the lodge. How often a corrupt ministry is found to be one of the greatest obstacles in the way of reform. What Abolition lecturer, a few years ago, would have looked for success while lecturing to a church whose pastor held slaves? No matter how plain he made the sin of slavery appear, they would have pointed to their minister as a sufficient refutation of the whole thing. And the same is true of the temperance reform. If the shepherd took wine for his stomach's sake (whether he needed it or not), the flock would be very likely to take whisky for their's. There is no sin so hard to contend with as that one the church has thrown its mantle over; and we have no faith in the religion or honesty of the minister who will lend a religious cloak for such a purpose; and if he defends or fails to denounce a Christ-rejecting, soul-destroying error, though he may stand high as a pulpit orator, we doubt the genuineness of his commission to preach Christ. We think when God sends a messenger to warn the people of their sins, it means their pet sins more than any other. It means a little more than for him to inquire what sins they are guilty of and then declaim loudly against them. The Redeemer doubtless had this very class in view when he warned the multitude: "Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves." Satan no doubt still visits the world as an angel of light. We have never taken the time to count how often false prophets and false teachers are condemned in the Bible, but they were condemned oftener then than now. The reason for their being condemned, rather than others, is probably on account of their influence in leading others astray. Israel could sin under the shadow of Sinai, but Aaron must set up the golden calf, and how many golden calves are the priests of the present day setting up; and our friend would whisper in our ear: "Don't say anything; you might hurt the church." If the minister fails to see, or, what is just about as apt to be the case with many, if he finds it more profitable not to see evil creeping into the church, must it be let alone until the man sees it who is paid for closing his eyes that he may not see it? We think not.

If God should speak to his ministers now as he did of old, telling them where to go and what to do, and should command them all to cry against secret societies, it strikes us there would be more than one ship-load of Jonahs fleeing to Tarshish from the presence of the Lord. (Jonah i. 2–3.) If it is true now, as it was in Paul's day, "If I yet please men, I should not be the servant of Christ," we have a great many ministers who are not his servants; still they are drawing pay for preaching the Gospel, and though there may be, and doubtless is, an understanding between them and the world that they are to preach a fashionable religion and let its vices and follies alone, leading men to heaven through the Masouic lodge, or Odd-fellowship, or the grange, in fact, any way, except that old, thorny path; but to take pay for such preaching of a Christian we think is the meanest kind of stealing. If I see my neighbor's ox going astray the law tells me to turn him back; but when my neighbor is being led astray, my friend would say, "Let him go, or you might disturb the church." But are our Masonic friends as anxious for the peace and harmony of the church as they would have us be? Are the Anti-masonic ministers never spoken against by these sticklers for peace? Let the abuse heaped on the heads of such men as Finney and Bernard answer. Let the Masonic charity extended to such men as Post, Levington and Springstnie answer. Let the rotton eggs dripping from the skirts of such men as Stoddard, Hinman and Ronayne, and the mild rebukes that have been administered to D. P. Rathbun, from time to time, answer; but, until Masons cease using their favorite arguments against Anti-masonic ministers, we will write against Masonry. We are all ready to speak against the corruption in the Catholic church, but how many churches have we, if they should continue to grow corrupt as they have for the last twenty years, till they got as old as the Catholic church, that would be an intolerable nuisance even in such a city as Sodom? Southey's lines:

"Thou hast confessions to listen, and bells to christen,
And altars and dolls to dress,
And fools to coax, and sinners to hoax,
And beads and bones to bless,
And great pardons to sell for those who pay well,
And small ones for those who pay less."

applies, for the most part, at least, about as well to some of our Protestant ministers as to any others, and it is just such ministers that we are aiming at; and if we can make their number or their influence any less we will be satisfied.

Yours, etc., J. G. MATTOON.

OUR MAIL.

R. B. Smith, Aurora, Ill., writes:

"As fast as I read my Cynosure I send it away among my friends; and it is bringing forth good fruit."

Wm. Hosford, Grove City, Jeffries Co., Kan., writes:

"We have had a hard struggle in this community because that the United Brethren in Christ have had the entire sway and have tolerated their members in belonging to the grange and opposed Anti-masonic lectures. But I think their General Conference gave them a pretty good looking-glass to see themselves in."

Gassaway Trott, Summerfield, Ohio, quotes:

"Dare to be a Daniel,
Dare to stand alone,
Dare to have a purpose firm,
Dare to make it known."

And adds, "We would have a good many more Anti-masons if we had more Daniels in the land. But many or few, in God is our trust, and without him we can do nothing. If we abide in him we may ask what we will and it shall be done."

nathan W. Moss, Cameron, Marshall Co., W. Va., writes:

"The humble labor which I have been able to do in behalf of the anti-secret reform seems to have at length culminated in a state of excitement on the subject never before known in this community. You can likely recall the utter indifference which I described in former letters."

We hope the work will continue to widen and deepen in W. Virginia.

A friend living in Wise Co., Texas, writes:

"The Masons are as thick as flies in August. All the ammunition they uee here to defend Masonry is that old song that has 100 verses in it and all just alike. I will give you the first stanza:

Charity, charity,
Charity, charity,
Charity, charity.

"CHORUS.—What do you know about Masonry?

"When I show them the absurdity of their charity song, and that I do know something about Masonry some will get very angry. It is the wounded bird that flutters. When I was last in Denison I sold cotton to a Grand High Priest. He took my hand and gave me the grip which I returned. He said that we were on the square and that he was a Priest. * * He seemed to be very glad that I was so near the grand lodge above. I find there are some one-horse Masons that have only been stripped and halter-broke who know less about Masonry than the Anti-masons do. A Master Mason could make them believe the equinoctial line is used in the grand lodge above for a cable tow. I frequently hear Masons here laugh and tell how much money they have made by getting up counterfeit lodges for the negroes, obtaining their money and making them believe they were genuine Masons. * * The lodge seems to be an insurance office to insure men's souls for the grand lodge above contrary to the Bible and without a crucified Saviour. I do not vote for a Mason for any office, nor will I hear one preach if I know it; for I have no faith in this Masonic railroad that pretends to shorten the distance to the grand lodge above by taking the Masonic cut-off. I would have to leave my wife and children behind. They run nothing but sleeping cars and occasionally give its dupes an anodyne called 'ancient and honorable;' have no station for refreshment called Secret or Family Prayer. To-day is the Fourth of July. I see no stars and stripes raised. The people here are kind and hospitable. I feel perfectly safe here although there have been seven murders committed in this county and the same number in Denton county during last year and no one hung, because there is plenty of help here for the 'widow's son.'"

A stranger at Coleman City, Texas, writes:

I have got hold of a Christian Cynosure and find that there are some people in the world who have the same opinion that I have. * * Freemasonry now governs churches, yea, and civil law. * * This country is wholly given over to it."

A. Baker, Tiskilwa, Ill., writes:

"There are few good Anti-masons here who are as firm as a rock unmoved, fighting manfully the battle of the Lord. There is a strong influence here against the lodge and it is becoming quite unpopular."

C. C. Stowe, Deadwood, Dacotah Ter., writes:

"As I find there is already an organization of Freemasons here perhaps a little free thought scattered here would not be inappropriate."

The Lesson of the Hour.

SERMON BY A. M. MILLIGAN, D.D., IN THE REFORMED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, PITTSBURGH, JULY 29, 1877.

Ps. 127.1. Except the Lord keep the city the watchman waketh but in vain.

Our city has just passed through an ordeal of fire. Our proverbially peaceful city has been for a week under a "reign of terror." Law, authority, reason, have been trodden under foot, and the wildest passions, mob violence, burning and blood have held sway and run riot; and all this in the staid city of Pittsburgh, and in the United States of America. The last city in the last nation where such an event should have been expected. Is this an accident? Has this crop of fire and blood been produced without seeding? Has this curse come causeless? Is this a freak of nature? or is it a fulfillment of the law: What a man soweth that shall he also reap? Two weeks ago this city was as calm and tranquil as a summer lake; not the faintest appearance of danger. One week ago to-day thirty squares containing the greatest accumulation of the wealth of the city were a howling pandemonium and a raging sea of fire. Did those fires rage without fuel? Were those demons created on the spot out of good citizens without provocation? "Is there evil in the city and the Lord hath not done it?" Whether this be so or not the truth of my text is demonstrated that, "except the Lord keep the city the watchman waketh but in vain."

The world is watching our country with intense eagerness, with the question on its lip, Is republicanism a failure? Can the people govern themselves? Under the most favorable auspices we are trying the experiment, and if we fail the attempt need hardly be tried again. And yet look back twenty years and read our history. The greatest rebellion on record; the yet unreconstructed South; four millions of our countrymen without protection of law in the hands of their enemies; contemplate the agony in the election of our present chief magistrate. And now look at the red-handed fury that is running riot over four or five States calling for the national arm to be extended for our relief from the mob; and tell me, is there not a loud call for thoughtful, patriotic men to enquire for the cause? Many among ourselves are asking, Is not republican government a failure? I answer, no! but communism is. Red republicanism is a failure. The idea that the majority rule without the restraint of justice or morality, without recognizing the authority of God and his law, that idea is receiving its quietus. These events are God's beacon-fires to point out the danger and pilot us to a port of safety. If we obey the warning we will be saved; if we neglect it we will go to pieces and our fate will be another warning to the world. We have been over confident of our safety. We are being warned of our need of Divine help: "Except the Lord keep the city the watchman waketh but in vain." The danger is that regarding republicanism as a failure, we shall fly to the arms of the despot to save us from the fury of the mob, as the people of France have done more than once. Our duty is, as pioneers of the world's progress, carefully to examine what the error is which, in our otherwise excellent system of government, produces these evils. To that study I invite you to-night.

I assert that the error in our system, the fatal error which is the prolific cause of all our calamities, is that we have undertaken to govern a nation without the Governor of the nations—to govern ourselves without God; a thing which my text declares to be impossible: "Except the Lord keep the city the watchman waketh but in vain."

Cities are the most difficult parts of a nation to govern, and must be guarded by policemen by day and by watchmen by night, while the rural districts are unguarded; because here the worst elements of society congregate and because where such masses of inflammable material are gathered a single spark may at once kindle a conflagration. Hence the Spirit presents the city, and the night season, as the place and time in which lie a nation's danger, which most loudly calls for Divine guardianship. My text declares that God only can guard a nation. It follows, as a matter of course, that the nation should place itself under the Divine government as no one will or can protect that which he is not permitted to govern. Allegiance and protection are correlates.

The mistake made by republics is that while the people elect the rulers the people govern; both rulers and people are liable to make this mistake and it is a very dangerous one. Hence we hear the expressions used "The sovereign people;" "The majority govern;" "The will of the people supreme;" "The magistrate the servant of the people," etc., etc. All these expressions are fallacious; the idea which they express is false and pernicious. The people is not sovereign. The people's will is not supreme; God is the sole sovereign. He is the people's ruler; he alone is supreme. Neither is the magistrate the servant of the people; he is the servant of God and the ruler of the people. Rom. xiii. 1–5. "There is no power but of God. The ruler is the minister of God—wherefore ye must needs be subject not only for wrath but also for conscience' sake." The people cannot make law. The legislature of state or nation cannot make law. God has made law. All that legislatures can do is to interpret and apply the Divine law as it is revealed in nature and in the Bible. What force can a law that is manifestly in contravention of the Divine law have upon the consciences of a people. You ask them what are the rights of the people? I answer, simply the right to choose their rulers. The right to choose those who shall act as God's ministers to administer God's government over them, and even this choice must be regulated by the divine direction, "provide able men, such as fear God; men of truth, hating covetousness." Ex. 18:21; 2 Sam. 23:3. These rulers are to "take heed what they do for they judge not for man but for the Lord." 2 Chron. 19:6. If they manifestly fail to discharge this duty faithfully, the people may remove them and set up others in their place. This is the sum of popular rights in a true republican government. It may be humbling to the pride of a great people to accept such unwelcome truth, but it is essential to their safety. Government that does not hold the consciences of the people can never be stable or secure, and no government that does not emanate from God can hold the conscience.

This is eminently true of republics. Monarchy has power in the prestige of the throne and the hereditary occupant, in its guards and armies. A republic has none of these. The Railsplitter, Tailor or Tanner of yesterday may be the president of to-day, and his armies are tilling the fields and employed behind counters and in workshops. The strength of a republic is in the hold it has on the consciences of the people. So of law. What power has law to govern men where their interests are at stake, if it is nothing but the will of a base majority of an ever-changing people, and perhaps only a compromise at that. "Law has its seat in the bosom of God, and its voice is the harmony of the universe."

What power can a magistrate exert who is only "the servant of the people," and who is executing a law which claims to be only "the will of the people," in a great uprising of people against their law and their rulers, as in the late rebellion or in our present danger? The will of the people expressed by the popular uprising is directly opposite to the will of the people expressed in the written law. Which shall he enforce—which shall they obey? If he is but the steward of the people, which shall he serve, the people crying Hosanna or the same people crying Crucify? "Philip drunk or Philip sober?" The people at peace or the people in riot? If the people of Pittsburgh were not in sympathy with the mob in trampling under foot Pittsburgh laws, at least in the first lawless acts of last week, then appearances are very deceptive. God's law is not thus changeful. His servants can never be at a loss to know his will.

Now let us look at the events of the last twenty years in the light of these principles. How did this false principle bring about the rebellion in the South? In the first place the Constitution of the United States claims to be a simple compact or ordinance of the people; claims no divine origin for the government; recognizes no divine authority. The will of the requisite majority expressed in the Constitution is declared to be supreme law, simply because it is the will of the people. Then came the question of slavery. No one doubted then that it was wrong; no one dreamed that the application of the divine law of justice or the golden rule of the Saviour to the institution would at once put an end to it. But proceeding on the principle that the will of the people is law irrespective of the divine law, four compromises were introduced into the Constitution: continuing the slave trade twenty years; giving the slave-holder political power in proportion to the number of his slaves; binding the States to return fugitives; and binding the nation to suppress insurrection. It was intended and hoped by all this to get rid of the evil in some gradual way by thus giving it sanction. But does not every one see that the effect of this was virtually to set aside God's law and give the sanction of law to the evil, and deprave the conscience of the nation on the evil of slavery and make it appear right to hold slaves and wicked to seek their emancipation. It was made a penal offence to shelter a fugitive, and the favor of the master was the path to power. Slavery was right; abolition was wrong, and thus the conscience of a large part of the nation was prepared to make war upon the government in behalf of this most erroneous wrong. The government by legalizing injustice ceased to be considered a divine institution, "the ordinance of God" to resist which is to receive damnation, and was regarded as merely a human association to be removed at pleasure, and slavery so long sanctioned by law became a sacred right to be maintained by overthrowing the government. And the result was, that while quiet was maintained by compromise for a time, it was only the postponement and accumulation of wrath against the day of wrath, until a million graves were filled by bloody corpses and the nation crushed by a load of debt under which it is groaning and staggering to-day and which is producing our present financial distress.

Another result of this principle is that parties have been formed and operated with tremendous power to elect rulers; not to administer justice and rule in the fear of God, but to advance the interests of the party, until our elections have come to be but a mere scramble for power and plunder. What moral force can a government wield that comes into power for such ends and by such means? Reverence for law and respect for authority are fast becoming a thing of the past. When that result is reached the days of our Republic will be numbered.

Let us now contemplate the present situation in the light of the principle we have under consideration. The present situation is the result of a complicated state of affairs. In the first place the nation is in the midst of a fearful financial crisis, growing out of the rebellion which the nation brought on itself by rejecting the authority of God and throwing the ægis of its protection over human slavery. In this crisis capital has been severely strained, and, in many instances, made bankrupt. A large portion of the laboring class has been thrown out of employment, while the others have suffered reduction of wages, making the support of a family precarious and next to impossible, great numbers have been thrown upon public charity. In this state of things an issue arises between the Pennsylvania railroad and its employes, heavy charges are brought by each against the other, and community takes sides with the parties; a conflict ensues, and the result is before us. Millions of property is destroyed, lives are lost, and the good name of our city is dishonored.

I am not here to-night to decide the controversy between these parties, or to vindicate either the one or the other. But I am here to arraign all the parties before the divine Judge and demonstrate that national rejection of the authority of God has thrown us out from under the divine protection and directly brought these evils on us. First, let us try the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. It is charged against this company that it is a great monopoly, that it is managed by a self-constituted body of men, who operate the road for their own interests and divert the earnings of the road from the stockholders into their side organizations and their own pockets, thus depriving the company of the power to pay its laborers and its honest dues. It is charged against the company that by freight discriminations it requires the business men of Pittsburgh to pay two or three times as much for the transportation of their goods as other cities twice as far from the market. It is charged that these oppressive acts have provoked the hostility of this city against that company, and thrown the public sentiment against them and in favor of their foes.

When asked, Why do you not bring these grievances before the civil tribunals? the answer invariably is, The company is so strong and corrupt, and the legislature and the courts are so venal that no justice can be obtained in that way. In other words, that there is no fear of God in the land, that the judges and legislators are for sale, and the greatest corporation in the country is ready and able to buy.

Now, whether these charges against the company and against the officers of law be true or false, it is enough for my purpose that the people believe them to be true; and hence the appeal, by the city and its inhabitants, not to the courts, or the legislature, or to Congress, but to lynch law—to the mob—to firebrands and missiles of death. But already I hear you ask, Are you going to justify the mob? Are you apologizing for the riot? I answer, No; the farthest possible from it; but, faithful to facts and the reason of things, I am showing how it became possible that such a riot could take place in the city of Pittsburgh with any semblance of countenance from its citizens. And I repeat my assertion, as proved by the facts cited, that it is because we have undertaken to govern a nation and protect a city without God, and he has shown us the weakness of laws and officers, unsupported by divine power, to quell the fury of an excited people.

But let us turn to the mob and investigate its character. It is claimed for that assemblage that it consisted of three classes of characters, entirely distinct, and to be judged by entirely different rules. The strikers, who merely seized and held the property of the road; the mob, who pillaged, burned and murdered; and the innocent citizens, who merely swelled the crowd and looked on as idle spectators. I reply that, while there is some ground for these distinctions, the responsibility for the acts which transpired cannot thus be avoided. The strikers cannot claim exemption from the responsibility of the burning and bloodshed because they did not intend to go so far. They performed the first unlawful act; they let out the water, and it is no excuse for them that it went farther than they intended. They had a perfect right to refuse to work for reduced wages; they had a right to lay before community their grievance in any lawful way; but they had no right to seize the company's property or prevent others from working for the wages which they refused, and the persons who encouraged them in this course, whether private citizens, officers, or editors, who upheld and encouraged them in this were partakers in their crime, and, in a measure, responsible for all the consequences; and I go farther, and claim that every citizen who helped to swell the mob as a mere idle spectator, and did not use his influence to disperse it and arrest its destructive force, was adding fuel to the flames, and must share some measure of the responsibility of the Pittsburgh riot and its deeds. It was the duty of the authorities to order every peaceable citizen to separate himself from the mob and then deal with every one who remained as engaged in a riot, and disperse them at whatever cost. But it is not in this light that I regard the uprising in this city and elsewhere. It is not an ebullition of passion. It is not a mere mob or riot, excited by the distress of the hour, but it is a deep-laid, well-organized conspiracy against society. It is the spirit of the Commune, disguise in whatever way. hide it from their dupes as they will, it is the same spirit that, in the close of the last century, overran France with fire and sword and wrote its record on the historic page under the caption, "The Reign of Terror."

Organized in secret conclave, with vows of subjection which are deemed more sacred than those of either church or state, with religious ceremonial intended to assert divine prerogative to leaders vested with titles more high-sounding and awe-inspiring than any earthly potentate assumes, it is the manifest purpose of the leaders to institute a government that shall at will set aside all other authority and control every interest of society. If this government be not an ordinance of God under the divine authority and law, as it does not claim to be, then it is a mere human institution, in many respects inferior to these secret organizations, which impose powerful oaths, claim a greater antiquity, a wider extent, and a more beneficent purpose. But the secret fraternities were not the only element foreign and hostile to our government represented in these riots, nor, perhaps, the most formidable and dangerous. It is a noteworthy circumstance that when a committee of citizens went to try the power of moral suasion upon the rioters they took with them Bishop Tuigg, of the Roman Catholic cathedral. On the same principle, I presume, that the Papists in New York and Ohio claim the right to furnish chaplains for the prisons and penitentiaries, "because the majority of their inmates are members of that communion." I cut from the Commercial Gazette "An Incident," noted by the reporter. It is as follows:

"This interview was not conducted without interruptions, and several men in the crowd seemed vengeful and turbulent, particularly two, who seemed to have had their devilish passions inflamed by bad whisky. Bishop Tuigg, speaking from his carriage, requested those two men to be sent to him, as he wished to speak to them. Their attention was directed to the fact, and, still swaggering and turbulent, they went to the side of the carriage. The reverend gentleman, in a mild and pleasant way, dropped a few words in their ears in such a low tone as not to be heard by any other person, and they left, entirely changed in their manner. The advice, whatever it was, acted like a narcotic upon the nerves of a madman, calming and soothing the men who, a few moments before, seemed ready to join in almost any outbreak."

The reporter probably told this story as a compliment to the bishop, but let us look at it a little more narrowly and it certainty suggests some such reflections as these: Between the bishop and a large part of the most desperate portion of the mob there must be a strong bond of sympathy. Can it be only their church relationship? Again, he made a public address, which had no more effect than the addresses of others, but a few secret words in the ears of two of the most turbulent acted like a talisman. Why did not the bishop utter those words aloud and thus calm the great majority of that excited mob, who were just as susceptible as the two whom he tamed? Were those words words which the uninitiated might not hear? Was there any of the magic of the mystic tie in them?

If the bishop had all the power over that mob which this story suggests, why did he not exert it? and what is the extent of his responsibility in the premises?

Have we a community in our midst claiming to be one-eighth of our whole population, congregated in our great cities, under the absolute control of the priesthood, owning their highest allegiance to Rome and receiving their inspiration from the Vatican, who are ready, with fire and sword, to sweep our cities, as this city has been swept, and as Chicago barely escaped by the intervention of the Federal troops being swept by the same element? Is it to keep this element in this inflammable and hostile condition that the priesthood, by direction of the Vatican, are exerting all their power to withdraw their children from our public schools and institute their parochial schools, in which they may be trained up in allegiance to Rome?

If this nation, by squaring itself with the divine institution, submitting to the divine authority, and claiming the divine protection, will not make good a claim to be the ordinance of God, Rome, by its blasphemous claim of infallibility, "Sitting in the temple of God and claiming to be God," joining hands with the Commune, will carry our Protestant Republic either into the anarchy of the infidel Commune, or into the dark despotism of the Papacy, as she has already done more than once in France and is now endeavoring to do again. The only hope for our Republic is in placing it under the authority and protection of our Lord and his Christ.

Finally, this calamity is a divine judgment sent on a guilty nation for their rebellion against God. "Is there evil in the city and the Lord hath not done it?" Our national rebellion against God is punished by rebellion against the nation. First, eleven States go into rebellion and shed rivers of blood. Now, in Baltimore, in Pittsburgh, in Chicago, and over six or seven States, the spirit of rebellion is again abroad. The Pennsylvania railroad has led the way to our Sabbath desecration, and on the Sabbath their property is consumed from the city. "When thy judgments are in the earth the inhabitants should learn righteousness." "Except the Lord keep the city, the watchman waketh but in vain."

The Sabbath School.

LESSON XXXIV.—August 26, 1877.—PAUL AT ATHENS.

SCRIPTURE.—Acts 17: 22–34. Commit 24–31. Primary v., 29.

22. Then Paul stood in the midst of Mars' Hill, and said, Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious.

23. For as I passed by, and beheld your devotions, I found an altar with this inscription, TO THE UNKNOWN GOD. Whom, therefore, ye ignorantly worship, him declare I unto you.

24. God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands;

25. Neither is worshipped with men's hands, as though he needed anything, seeing he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things;

26. And hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell upon all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, and the bouuds of their habitation:

27. That they should seek the Lord, if haply they might feel after him, and find him, though he be not far from every one of us:

28. For in him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring.

29. Forasmuch then as we are the offspring of God, we ought not to think that the Godhead is like unto gold, or silver, or stone, graven by art and man's device.

30. And the times of this ignorance God winked at; but now commandeth all men everywhere to repent:

31. Because he hath appointed a day, in the which he will judge the world in righteousness by that man whom he hath ordained; whereof he hath given assurance unto all men, in that he hath raised him from the dead.

32. And when they heard of the resurrection of the dead, some mocked: and others said, We will hear thee again of this matter.

33. So Paul departed from among them.

34. Howbeit certain men clave unto him, and believed: among the which was Dionysius the Areopagite, and a woman named Damaris, and others with them.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"For there is one God, and one Mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus."—1 Tim. 2:5.

TOPIC.—God Revealed.

HOME READINGS.

M. Ps. 90: 1-17....God Eternal.
T. Ps. 139: 1-24....God Omnipotent.
W. Is. 5: 1-19....God Holy.
Th. Ps. 103: 1-22....God Merciful.
F. Ps 86: 1-17....God Longsuffering.
S. 1 John 4: 1-21....God Loving.
S. Heb. 12: 1-29....A Consuming Fire.

When Christians behold men given up to the worship of the things of this world, or surrendered to false religions, their hearts ought to be so stirred within them as immediately to do what they can to bring them to a knowledge of the Seviour. So long as there is irreligion there should be no indifference on the part of Christians. Ps. 40: 9; 71: 16, 17; Matt. 5: 16; 10: 27; Luke 12: 8; John 15: 8; Rom. 10: 15; Eph. 2: 10; Tit. 2: 14; 1 Pet. 2: 9.

The trouble with the world is that it has too many idols. Wealth, fame, power, influence, art, pleasure—all compete with God for men's hearts, and, alas, too frequently win them! Jer. 2: 11, 28; 11: 13; Dan. 5: 4; Zeph. 1: 5, 6; 1 Cor. 8: 5; 2 Cor. 4: 4; Gal. 4: 8; 2 Th. 2: 4.

In this world God is still "the unknown God." Few really know him—although his name is familiar and often on the lips of men. And yet to know him aright is life eternal. Matt. 11: 27; Luke 10: 22; John 3: 19; 8: 19, 55; 16: 3; 17: 25; Rom. 1: 28; 8: 11; 1 Cor. 1: 21; 1 John 2: 4.—Nat'l S. S. Teacher.

The city of Athens was "wholly given to idolatry," it was "covered with idols." Petronious, a writer of that day at Nero's court, says satirically that it was easier to find a god at Athens than a man. This fearful condition stirred Paul to the utmost. Says Baumgarten: "The first impression which the masterpieces of man's taste for art left on the mind of St. Paul was a revolting one, since all this majesty and beauty had placed itself between man and his Creator, and bound him the faster to his gods, who were not God. Upon the first contact, therefore, which the Spirit of Christ came into with the sublimest creations of human art, the judgment of the Holy Ghost—through which they all have to pass—is set up as the 'strait gate' and this must remain the correct standard forever."

The Epicureans were a school of "atheistic materialists who taught that pleasure was the chief end of human existence," a principle which each interpreted as best suited his taste whether refined or sensuous and groveling.

The Stoics were pantheists of the austerest sort who held that the universe was under the law of an iron necessity the spirit of which was called the Deity. They believed that a passionless conformity to this law by the human will, unmoved by outward circumstances was the perfection of virtue. These two philosophies were both alike hostile to the Gospel because their ruling principles were pleasure and pride.

The Areopagus was, says Hows, "the hill where the most aw ul court of judicature had sat from time immemorial, to pass sentence on the greatest criminals, and to decide on the most solemn questions connected with religion. No place in Athens was so suitable for a discourse on the mysteries of religion." Paul was not brought here for trial, however, but to explain more fully what he had briefly and with interruptions set forth in the market-place.

Study these passages:

"Ye are too superstitious."—Rom. 1: 21-23; Eph. 4: 17, 18; 1 Cor. 8: 5.

"Beheld your devotions."—2 Th. 3: 4; Rom. 1: 25; Ps. 106: 20; Matt. 15: 9; Jer. 1: 16.

"To the unknown God."—Ps. 147: 20; John 16: 3; 17: 25; Rom. 1: 28.

"Him declare I."—Acts 14: 15-17; Ps. 23: 23.

"God that made the world."—Acts 7:50; Ps. 36:6; Rev. 14:7; Is. 45:18.
"Dwelleth not in temples."—Acts 7:48, 49; 1 Ki. 6:27; Is. 66:1; Jer. 23:24; 1 Cor. 6:19; Rev. 21:22.
"Neither is worshipped with men's hands."—Ps. 50:8-15; Micah 6:6-8; Matt. 9:13
"He giveth to all life."—Gen. 2:7; Job 12:10; Is. 45:5; Zec. 12:1.
"Made of one blood."—Gen. 3:10; Mal. 2:10; Pr 14:31; 22:2; 1 Cor. 15:22; Gal. 6:15.
"Determined the times."—Acts 1:7; 7:26; 1 Thes. 5:1; Mat. 24:36; Lu. 19:44; Ec. 3:1-8; Ro. 13:11; Lu. 21:24.
"Bounds of their habitation."—Gen. 11:8; Deut. 32:8, 9.
"They should seek the Lord."—Acts 15:17; Is. 55:6; Ro. 1:20.
"Not far from every one."—Acts 14:17; Jer. 23:23; Ps. 139 2.
"In him we live."—Job 12:10; Ps. 36:9; 66:9; Col. 1:17; Heb. 1:3.
"We are the offspring of God."—Rom. 8:15; Gal. 3:26; 1 John 3:2.
"We ought not to think."—Is. 40:18 25; Deut. 4:15.
"Times of this ignorance."—Acts 3:17; 14:16; Ps. 81:11, 12; 1 Pe. 4:3; 1 Tim. 1:13.
"Now commandeth."—Mat. 3:2; Rom. 2:4; Tit. 2:11, 12; Lu. 24:47; 1 Pe. 1:14.
"He hath appointed a day."—Ps. 96:13; Acts 10:42; Ro. 2:16; 2 Cor. 5:10.

The Christian Cynosure.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, AUGUST 16, 1877.

The Work to Do Next.

The wheat harvest is past, and God has abundantly rewarded the husbandman for his toils. The evenings are lengthening and the lecture season is at hand. Now is the time for those who want lectures to send in their requests, so that we can make up the slate. The Anniversary Convention was postponed to give time for gathering the grain and getting ready for vigorous work along the lines of roads leading to Dayton, from every State and county in the Union. Bros. Kimball, Brown, Stratton, W. Post, A. L. Post, Raynor, Baird, Wheeler and Hawley will bring to us the culture and refinement of the East; Bros. Rathbun and his compeers will come with their tempered zeal and gathered sheaves, and from the Dominion beyond we shall see the familiar face and hear the stirring utterances of our old friend Bro. Barlow, a fit representative of the "British Lion" on the field of moral conflict. From the West, Bros. Richards, Hinman, Vandever, the Blanchards, father and son; Cook, of Indiana, and Ronayne, with the large experiences gathered from many a hotly contested field, with Geesling and Cooper and Needles from Missouri, and a host of others will make a convention such as one need not expect to witness twice in a decade.

Send in your requests for lectures and remember some of these brethren are dependent on their labors along the line for the means to attend this convention. Just say we want one, two or three lectures, and we will give so much to help pay the lecturer's expenses. Kill at least three birds with one throw. Help yourselves; help the lecturers who ought to go, but cannot for want of means; and help to make the convention a tower of strength and a pillar of light. I have a list of lecturers who will speak in going to and returning from the convention; are there not others who have not sent in their names? If so report, please, and are there not some ladies eloquent in the defense of their own and others' rights. The noble utterances of those ladies who spoke at the Syracuse Convention will notsoon be forgotten. Shall we not hear their voices again in our counsels and the voices of others who know and dare maintain the right? This is no time for the Lord's army to go into winter quarters, no time to allow the enemy to "spike our guns". The heavy siege guns will be in position at Dayton with munitions from the store-house of God's Book, and you will hear the sharp crack of lighter field arms that are effective at short range. Send in your requests for lectures soon. Don't forget.

A commodious and beautful hall of ample proportions and furnished with all the modern comforts and conveniences has been secured, which is located in the center of both business and population and easy of access by street cars from all parts of the city and its suburbs. Dayton is third city in Ohio, has a population of 40,000, and the advantages of nine railroads, "Gelhart's Hall" is second to none in the city for convenience of access, safety in case of accident by fire, etc., and its Christian and gentlemenly proprietor is not to be outdone in his efforts to make every thing agreeable and satisfactory to his patrons. Our numerous friends in Dayton are anticipating great things and in no way could they be made more happy than by entertaining in their beautiful city a thousand earnest, loving, God-serving Christian workers. Don't forget to write me, soon if you want lectures, that's the point.

Very respectfully yours, for what I am, and for all that I am worth in this conflict.

J. P. Stoddard.

Editorial Correspondemce.

Baraboo Prairie, Wisconsin,
At J. W. Wood's,
August 10, 1877.

We are here near lake Minnewaukan, which turned into English from the Indian they say means "Devil's Lake," whose cliffs with the bluffs of the Baraboo and Wisconsin rivers rise to the dignity of mountains and make this region romantic.

We yesterday drove across these wooded highlands to Sauk Prairie, a still and beautiful spot walled in by evergreen bluffs so as to emulate Rasselas' Happy Valley. Here in this sweet sequestered abode there is a little church of the Baptist brethren, meeting in a stone school house, who own Brother Hinman as their traveling bishop. Though of another division of the Protestant fold, Mr. Hinman is hailed by them when he comes here as their lecturer and preacher, and he finds each of their houses his home.

In this little Sauk Prairie, one of the quietest and fairest of earth's abodes, lives a farmer in moderate circumstances who has two sons. He sent one to Madison University and himself and wife toiled hard to make the money, and were proud of the progress of their son, who taught in the different school houses of the prairie and was popular. But the family, though respectable, were not Christians, yet were proud of their respectability, danced, and were upright, industrious, well-to-do people. Young Dennett met in Madison a girl from Lodi, a railroad town below here, who is now his wife. They sinned as well as danced, and as respectability was their highest idea of life, she was sent off and the child taken from its mother to nurse in Milwaukee till it was eight months old. The fifteen dollars a month came hard from the farm, and the parents complained of their son's expenses. They knew nothing of his crimes. He went to Milwaukee and took his babe from the nurse (it is said to have been beautiful); it cried; he strangled it, and stopped both its crying and its breath. He attached a bag to its waist and threw it into the river, went back to the University, wrote the nurse that the child was doing well in its new home, and signed his name to the letter. The corpse was taken from the river to the morgue, the nurse identified its clothing, and the father is in Milwaukee jail awaiting his trial which comes soon. When Dennet's father saw by the papers that his son was arrested he went to the school house where the young mother of the dead child was teaching and told her at once of the arrest of her husband and his murder of the babe. She went delerious for some days and is now in this quiet Acadia at her husband's father's wishing herself dead. The old man has mortgaged his farm for $2,000. His wife fell sick and with himself wishes herself dead. The son wrote a piteous letter to induce the farmers whom I was visiting to sign his $30,000 bail bonds, but though some of them were his relatives, and all had been proud of him, they were not wild enough to do it. The distracted young mother, married after the birth of their child, was teaching to earn money with the promise that as soon as her husband and destroyer had graduated she should have her babe and they would go off and live and teach together.

As we passed yesterday through the still sweet valley where these events are occurring and heard the above details, I could easily see how an earthly paradise becomes a hell to the violaters of God's law, and how true it is that "Things bad begun make strong themselves by ill."

Mr. J. W. Wood, whose guests we are, is a grsduate of the University of Michigan, and one of the clearest thinking men I have met. His mind is a spring boiling over with clear, refreshing thought. God has chosen him to be a farmer, to meet in limine the devil's attempt to rope in the Wisconsin farmers to his dark worship through the gateway of the grange. He fulfills his mission. He has an interesting family, a beautiful place, and God is giving him "with persecutions," the "hundred fold" promised to his people. He contemplates having the State Christian Association meet here at Baraboo soon, if brethren Stoddard, Ronayne and Hinman or some one of them can come and prepare the way.

My heart is breaking for poor farmer Dennett; his grandchild murdered by its father, his wife and daughter-in-law nearly distracted, and his hard earned homestead mortgaged to pay lawyers for the hope of clearing his son! If I had heard the story in season to do so I would have gone strait to them yesterday morning and told them that Christ, who prayed for his own murderers, could love and pity them and that he has "all power in heaven and on earth." Yours in Christ,

J. Blanchard.

—The General Agent went to Crown Point, Indiana, again last Sabbath. Great interest was awakened at his first visit, and arrangements are being made by active reformers for a course of expositions by Mr. Ronayne, which will probably be held early in October.

—Rev. H. H. Hinman is in Iowa as may be seen from his letter from New Sharon. He expects to remain several weeks in the State until he turns toward Dayton. A very interesting work is opening in Page county in the south western corner of the State, where under the earnest efforts of brethren at College Springs: Phillips and Adams of the Congregational church, Morrison of the United Presbyterian and others, a county auxiliary is ready to be formed.

—The Senior editor of the Cynosure is, with Mrs. Blanchard visiting and resting in central Wisconsin. His editorial letter describes the natural beauty of the region which yet is not unvisited by sin and crime. In every fairest spot of earth there still lurks a leering devil. Pres. Blanchard expects to return to Wheaton this week. During his absence the friends of Wheaton College will be glad to learn that the debt of the institution has been reduced by over $1,000 and the purpose to complete the payment is more hopeful. The fall term of the College opens Thursday, September 6th. The prospect for a large attendance is most favorable. An examination of the advantages, expenses and courses of study at Wheaton will repay any who expect to enter or continue a course of collegiate or preparatory study this fall. Send for a catalogue to President Blanchard at Wheaton.

—The cause of Christian reform has lost another warm friend in the death of Azel Backus of Pittsford, Mich. He fell dead of heart disease while at work in the field July 31st. His pastor, Rev. Joel Martin, writes that he was a member of the Wesleyan church at Pittsford, and in every sense was a noble man. He was a thoroughly earnest reformer, taking a deep interest in the anti-secret cause; he was one of the few in southern Michigan who never thought of retreat. His loss causes great sorrow in the village, where he was universally esteemed and respected, and where his efforts for the Gospel will make his loss deeply felt. Some time ago he placed in the hands of his pastor a sealed envelope with directions to open at his death. Among the papers enclosed were notes for the Publishing House fund of our Association and to the Wesleyan Methodist Missionary Association for $500 each.

—Rev. Wm. Oburn writes from Galion, Ohio, that Dr. Wishart and Elder John Finney are at work, and a local or county auxiliary will probably be formed at that place before the Dayton Convention. We have not learned of work begun elsewhere in Ohio yet. Friends will please communicate with us respecting what is being done or needs to be done before the anniversay.

—In connection with the reports of Bro. Rathbun's work in Ohio and Indiana which appear elsewhere, the Wesleyan says that Bro. R. was working during July in Hillsdale county, Mich., and spoke thirty-six times in thirty days. He adds in a note, "I had my doubts whether the people would come out to hear Anti-masonry in haying and harvesting time, but the only trouble has been to get churches large enough to hold the people. I feel the need of rest and expect to spend the month of August and part of September with my family at Bath, Steuben, Co., N. Y."

—A note from Elder Richmond of the Disciple church of Ligonier, Ind., should have accompanied the statement of Bro. Fait's trial and rejection by the Masonic art of a few managing members. This note confirms the truth of the statement, which, though transpiring over two years ago, is being continually repeated in other experiences, as clearly showing the fearful and Satanic power of the lodge. A letter from Bro. Richards of Brighton, Mich., which will appear next week furnishes another instance. The brethren who thus suffer must not feel that they are alone. Hundreds, nay, thousands are enduring like persecutions for Christ's "sake and the Gospel's." Let them not think it strange concerning this firey trial, but glorify God on this behalf having already obtained the victory through their faith.

—Great is Masonry! Let every swindler and "dead-beat" sing its praises. The other day the Palmer House in this city displayed a novel and excitable scene. It was discovered that a young man who had been living high at that big tavern for a week or so was one of the tribe that do not pay as they go nor ever after. The chief clerk thereupon relieved the fellow of his hat, shoes, coat and vest, and stood him against one of the huge and gorgeous pillars under guard, that he might be a public warning to all high-toned tramps. After enduring the torture for a time his scattered wits came to the prisoner and he threw up his arms in the Masonic hailing sign of distress. This evidently had no effect on his captors for they did not greet him as a brother nor offer to relieve him in his wretched condition; but probably some of the guests saw and interposed, for after a time he was let go. The Masonic guests were of course not pleased at the severity of the punishment and objected to its repetition upon those who claim protection of the "widow's son." Nevertheless, great is Masonry!

—Neither from press or pulpit has issued a more able and clear analysis of the late strike than we place before the readers of the Cynosure this week in the discourse of Dr. A. M. Milligan of Pittsburgh. In comparison with the scores of shallow and illogical pulpit speeches on the subject it deserves universal circulation.

News of the Week.

CITY.—Pike, who murdered the spiritualist Jones in this city last spring, was tried last week, but escaped hanging on the ground of insanity.—Four young men sailing in the lake on Saturday were drowned by the capsizing of their boat.—A prominent business man has proposed that a thousand of his colleagues furnish employment for a large number of working men for three months and thus help them to provide for their families. The experiment has begun. Two gentlemen employ 35 men at street repairing at an expense of $210 per week, which they will continue for 90 days.

COUNTRY.—Last week a collision occurred between the strikers and the militia, at Reading, Penn. The militia fired into the crowd, killing nine or ten, and wounding others. —Cap. Brown of the U. S. engineer corps reports to the War Department very favorably of Eads' jetty system at the mouth of the Mississippi. The channel has a depth of 20 ft. in all but 140 feet of its length. —The labor question has formed the chief topic of discussion at several Cabinet meetings recently, and it is stated the President will make it a leading feature in his message to the extra session. Congress will be asked to adopt some plan for the adjustment of the differences constantly arising between railroad employes and employers.—The Superintendent of the United States Postal Service, reports that during the strikes there was not a single letter or newspaper lost, though during a portion of the strike it sometimes became necessary to transport the mail ten miles in wagons to keep it from the fire and the mob.—News was received on Monday of a desperate fight with the Nez. Perces by Gen. Gibbon's command at Big Hole Pass, Aug. 9, in which 3 officers and 23 men were killed and 5 officers and 40 men wounded. Gibbon's force consisted of 182 men in all. The Indians were driven from their position with a heavy loss.

—Dispatches from London, Aug. 13. state that a civil war of extermination is being carried on at Eski-Saghra, just south of the Balkans. All the male Christian native population have been sentenced to death by the Turkish General. This news has been brought by two American missionaries, protected by Turkish friends. They lost everything. Every male Bulgarian is accused of being either a spy or an open enemy. Karabuner is crowded with fugitives. There is only one well in the place, and there are 16,000 troops there. Wounded, sick, and fugitives are perishing from thirst. Eight thousand starving Bulgarian refugees are in Selvi. There are heavy and continuous rains, which must greatly conduce to spread sickness in the army. The public mind in Greece is very uneasy. The people are weary of watching the fortunes of the Russian campaign. The departure of troops to the frontier continues amid much enthusiasm. The King will hold a review at Larnia. Two Prussian Generals invited to take command declined.

Front view of the CARPENTER DONATION, a fine, stone front building No. 221 West Madison St., Chicago, now occupied by the National Christian Association. The fee simple will be given by Mr. Carpenter if other friends raise $30,000 by Apr. 1st 1878, in cash or "good, negotiable, interest-bearing notes" to establish a Publishing House and headquarters of the reform. Send donations to the Treasurer at 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The National Christian Association.

PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.—Pres. H. H. George, D. D., W. Geneva, Ohio.

SECRETARIES.—Rev. W. H. French, D. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; H. L. Kellogg, Chicago.

PRESIDENT OF THE CORPORATE BODY.—Rev. J. B. Walker, D. D., Wheaton, Ill.

VICE-PRESIDENT. — Philo Carpenter, Chicago.

DIRECTORS.—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, Archibald Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, H. L. Kellogg, E. Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, J. B. Walker, A. D. Freeman, Thos. Hodge.

RECORDING SEC'Y.—Thos. Hodge, Chicago.

COR. SEC'Y AND GENERAL AGENT.—J. P. Stoddard, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TREASURER.—H. L. Kellogg, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

"The object of this Association is:—

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the Churches of Christ from being depraved; to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform to aid the Association in either of these ways: (1) to establish a Publishing House and Head-quarters in Chicago; (2) to carry on the general work; (3) to maintain the State agents. All donations, (drafts or P. O. orders) should be sent to the Treasurer; general correspondence, etc., direct to the Corresponding Secretary

FORM OF BEQUEST.—I give and bequeath to the National Christian Association, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, the sum of——dollars for the purposes of said Association, and for which the receipt of its Treasurer for the time being shall be a sufficient discharge.

State Auxiliary Associations.

CONNECTICUT.

President, J. A. Conant, Willimantic.
Secretary, D. J. Ellsworth, Windsor.
Treasurer, C. T. Collins, Windsor

ILLINOIS

President, S. B. Allen, Westfield.
Rec. Secretary and Treasurer, H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
Lecturers, H. H. Hinman, Wheaton, and J. P. Richards, Bowensburg, Hancock Co.

INDIANA.

Pres't, W. P. McNary, Bloomington.
Rec. Sec'y, H. Teter, Westfield.
Treas., Peter Rich, Westfield.
Lecturer and Cor. Sec'y S. L. Cook, Albion.

IOWA.

President, M. S. Drury, Western, Linn Co.
Cor. Sec'y, M. R. Drury, " " "
Rec. Sec'y, E. J. Grinnell, Charles City.
Treasurer, John Dorcas, Shiloh.

KANSAS.

President, H. T. Besse, Sterling, Rice Co.
Secretary, J. Dodds, Winchester.
Treasurer, C. A. Sexton, Topeka.

MICHIGAN.

President, H. D. Inman, Coldwater.
Cor. Sec'y, C. B. Remington, Fentonville
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Bruce, Hickory Corners
Treasurer, C. Quick, Weston.
Lecturer and Agent, D. P. Rathbun, Hickory Corners.

Communications for the Agent concerning lectures or the interests of the cause may be addressed to, or in care of, E. W. Bruce.

MISSOURI.

President, N. E. Gardner, Avalon.
Cor. Sec'y, A. D. Thomas, Arbela
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Carpenter.
Treasurer, Wm. Beauchamp, Avalon.
Lecturer, E. G. Cooper, Albany Gentry Co.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

President, J. F. Browne, Lewiston, Me.
Secretary, S. C. Kimball, Center Strafford.
Treasurer, E. Smith, Center Strafford.

NEW YORK.

President, L. N. Stratton, Syracuse.
Secretary, W. A. Sellew, Rochester.
Treasurer, M. Merrick, Syracuse.
Lecturers—L. N. Stratton, Syracuse; Woodruff Post, Rochester; A. F. Curry, Almond.

OHIO.

President, H. H. George, W. Geneva.
Treasurer, J. G. Mattoon, West Unity
Sec. and Lecturer, Wm. Dillon, Dayton.

PENNSYLVANIA.

President, A. L. Post, Montrose.
Cor. Sec'y, N. Callender, Green Grove.
Treasurer, W. B. Bertels, Wilksbarre.
Rec. Sec'y, and Lecturer, J. W. Raynor, Montrose.

WISCONSIN.

President, E. L. Harris, Delavan.
Secretary, U. D. Lathrop, Millard.
Treasurer; Joshua Parish, Delavan

Address of Anti-masonic Lecturers.

General Agent and Lecturer, J. P. STODDARD, Christian Cynosure Office, Chicago.
For STATE LECTURERS State Ass'n list.
Others who will lecture when desired:—
C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
R. B. Taylor, Summerfield, O.
N. Callender, Starrucca, Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
P. Hurless, Polo, Ill.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Mercer Co., Ill.
J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
Josiah McCaskey, Fancy Creek, Wis
C. F. Hawley, Damascoville, Ohio.
W. M. Givens, Center Point, Ind.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
D. S. Caldwell, Clyde, Sandusky Co., O.
A. Mayn, Promise City, Wayne Co., Mich.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
C. F. Wiggins, Angola, Ind
E Ronayne, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.
W. M. Love, Baker, St. Clair Co. Mo
A D. Freeman, Downers Grove, Ill.
Jas. Springer, Springerton Ill
A. D. Carter, Deersville, Harrison Co O.
James McCleery, Monroe, Iowa.
R. Faurot, Kendallville, Ind.
J. W. Barlow, Ridgetown, Ont., C. W.

The Home Circle.

An Ancient Spanish Poem.

O! let the soul its slumbers break,
Arouse its senses and awake,
To see how soon
Life, with its glory, glides away,
And the stern footsteps of decay
Come stealing on.

And while we eye the rolling tide,
Down which our flowing minutes glide
Away so fast,
Let us the present hour employ,
And deem each future dream of joy
Already past.

Let no vain hope deceive the mind—
No happier let us hope to find
To-morrow than to day;
Our golden dreams of yore were bright;
Like them the present shall delight—
Like them, decay.

Our lives, like hasting streams, must be,
That into one engulfing sea
Are doomed to fall—
The sea of death, whose waves roll on
O'er king and kingdom, crown and throne,
And swallow all.

Alike the river's lordly tide,
Alike the humble rivulet's glide
To that sad wave;
Death levels property and pride,
The rich and poor sleep side by side
Within the grave.

Our birth is but the starting place,
Life is the running of the race,
And death the goal:
There all those glittering toys are brought;
That path alone, of all unsought,
Is found of all.

Say, then, how poor and little worth
Are all those glittering toys of earth
That lure us here?
Dreams of a sleep that death must break,
Alas! before it bids us wake,
Ye disappear!

On the Protestant Use of Popish Idols.

Rev. Robert Patterson, D. D., wrote the following from California for the readers of the Herald and Presbyter. The ideas are just as good for other Christians as for Presbyterians:

The human mind has a powerful tendency to worship idols, as the history of God's church among Jews and Gentiles sadly testifies. Intercourse with idolaters first familiarized Israel with their idols; then they ceased to regard them with abhorrence; next they viewed them as ornaments and charms; finally, they adored them and put their trust in them. The apostasy of the Christian church into idolatry was conducted in the same manner. At the reformation, the Reformed, as distinguished from the Lutheran, Anglican and Popish churches, cast out the idols; the English and Lutheran churches retained the figure of the cross in their architecture and worship. The result is apparent in the greater tendency of the children trained up in the Anglican church to Popery. The use of idols in any way in our churches should be condemned, and is generally omitted.

But there is a growing tendency among Presbyterians to the use of the cross as an ornament for the parlor or of the person; pretty arrangements of skeleton leaves, mosses, and the like are thus hung upon a cross, while crosses of gold, silver or jet are suspended from the neck as ornaments, instead of lockets. A little magazine for children, published by Presbyterian ladies, ornaments its cover with the figure of a youth pointing a group of children to a cross, as though there were religion somehow in gazing on two pieces of wood.

All this is appropriate for Papists. The cross is one of their idols, and it is in harmony with their religion to have the instruments of their idolatry ever present, and to use idols as the books of the ignorant. But it is utterly incongruous with Presbyterian principles for Presbyterians to patronize and parade the implements of idolatry. There is no command of Christ or his apostles for us to make or use wooden, or golden, or flowery crosses, either as idols or as remembrancers. The Bible is our remembrancer of Christ, who will not have his people ignorant. He never said to us: "Look at the crucifix!" But he says: "Search the Scriptures!" Any religious use of the cross by Presbyterians is, therefore, an inconsistency with our profession, of refusing "to worship God in any other way than that appointed in his Word." It is, in fact, though not so designed, an approach to idolatry.

If the religious use of the cross be thus chargeable with superstition, its use as an ornament can not be freed from the charge of profanity save by the apology of thoughtlessness. Surely no young Christian who seriously reflects for half an hour upon that solemn scene upon Calvary, in which Jesus wrought out our salvation while hanging in agony on the cross, or who will even prayerfully read over the evangelists' description of that awful, agonizing execution, could rise from such a perusal, and, arraying herself in festal robes, attempt to heighten her charms by adding the symbol of the gibbet on which her Savior was racked! The ornamental cross attests utter forgetfulness of the agony of Christ's crucifixion.

We can not see how Presbyterians can escape the sinfulness of superstition if they use the cross religiously, or else of profanity, if they use it thoughtlessly as an ornament. Surely it is the most incongruous and offensive of ornaments. One would think that its introduction into the ball room would as effectually stop the chatter of gossip and frivolity as Mr. Moody's prayer meeting in the Chicago saloon silenced the card players. But it never produces any such effect. The profanation has been carried so far that, for the most part, the origin of the emblem has been forgotten by the crowd. But why should Christians help forward such profanation? Whatsoever is not of faith is sin. Let Christians no longer condemn themselves by flaunting the cross on which Christ suffered as an ornament, and the emblem of his self-denial as an appendage of their luxury.

The Old Testament.

The Old Testament Scriptures out of date. Not till the nature of things is. I rode once from a noon on the Dead Sea through a moonlight on the Mar Saba gorges to Bethlehem in the morning light; I passed through the scenes in which many of David's Psalms had their origin, so far as human causes brought them into existence. On horseback I climbed slowly and painfully out of that scorched, ghastly hollow in which the salt lake lies. I found myself, as I ascended, passing a gnarled, smitten, volcanic region, and often at the edge or in the depths of ravines deeper than that eloquent shaft yonder on Bunker Hill is high. At a place where, no doubt, David had often searched for his flocks, I found the famous Convent of Mar Saba clinging to the side of a stupendous ravine; and I lay down there and slept until the same sun arose which David saw. I looked northward from above Mar Saba, and saw Jerusalem above me, yet to the north, for I had been ascending from a spot greatly below the level of the Mediterranean. As I drew near Bethlehem, through brown wheat fields in which a woman called Ruth once gleaned, I opened and read the book which bears her name. Johnson, you remember, once read that book in London, and moved a parlor full of people to tears by it, who had curiosity enough to ask who was the author of the beautiful pastoral! In my saddle there in Syria I was moved as Johnson's hearers were in London; but when I opened the Psalms, one by one, and looked back over the ravines towards the Dead Sea, and northward toward Jerusalem and upon the hill of Bethlehem, to which all nations, after a gaze of nineteen hundred years duration, were looking yet, and at that season were sending pilgrims; when I remembered how that terraced hill of olive gardens had influenced human history as no other spot on earth had done, and that in God's government of this planet there are no accidents; when I took the astounding harp of Isaiah and turned through the list of the prophets to find mysterious passage after passage predicting what would come and what has come; and when I thought of those critics under the western sky who would saw asunder the Old Testament and the New, and put into the shade those Scriptures which Goethe calls a unit in themselves, and which are doubly a unit when united with the New Testament, I remembered him who, on the way to Emmaus, opened the Old Testament Scriptures, and with them made men's hearts burn.—Joseph Cook.

Most people will forgive a great man's faults far more readily than they will praise a small man's virtues.

Holiness a Unifier.

If we are united in purpose and effort for Christ, we will stand and succeed in spite of all the wiles of the devil and the powers of darkness. If we sow discord we shall reap dissolution. If we are constantly at war with matters of minor importance, and in this way devour one another, the devil will have an easy victory. We need charity that will "cover a multitude of sins." Many fail to have enough to cover the weaknesses in others, or tolerate differences of opinion. Often much that is called conscience, is only selfish narrowheartedness, the result of superstition or hobyism. Christ prayed for the unity of his people. Shall not we, his followers, do our part for the answer of that great prayer? The great work of God will move onward with brightening success when his people manifest a union of effort. The less of self and the more of Christ we have, the more will we see eye to eye and stand shoulder to shoulder in this conflict.

Holiness will unite with sin as little as oil and water in nature. In this case it divides. It has a tendency too, to unite the forces of sin against it. When Jesus was condemned by wicked men, "Pilate and Herod were made friends together." When Jabin heard of Joshua's success and conquests, he sent to and united with a number of kings against Joshua, yet all to no purpose, for "the Lord delivered them into the hand of Israel."

Holiness unites and utilizes every good element for Christ's service. It unites to Christ, and lays hold and depends upon his great strength and appropriates all available power te enlarge and strengthen his kingdom.—Highway of Holiness.

Strong men are naturally attracted by a strong religious creed, and made stronger by it. These religious systems which recognize one God everywhere, overthrow polytheistic systems. Christian nations hold pagan nations in subjection. Among religious creeds the effusive and flaccid go down before the austere and rigid. Unreal and unstable phantoms of religious opinions satisfy nobody, and the tendency is either to get back upon the solid ground of evangelical doctrine, or to ignore God and eternity, and worship things of time and sense. A disposition to release our grasp upon the strong doctrines of the gospel is not liberality; it is feebleness, premonitory of dissolution. There is no middle ground between the Rock Christ and the abyss of atheism, a fact which is not only scripturally and philosophically true, but which is made apparent by experience and observation. Persons may be falling into this abyss without knowing it, and may never know it till they strike the bottom at death.

Children's Corner.

What Can Little Hands Do?

O what can little hands do
To please the King of heaven?
The little hands some work may try
To help the poor in misery:
Such grace to mine be given.

O what can little lips do
To please the King of heaven?
The little lips can praise and pray,
And gentle words of kindness say:
Such grace to mine be given.

O what can little eyes do
To please the King of heaven?
The little eyes can upward look,
Can learn to read God's holy Book:
Such grace to mine be given.

O what can little hearts do
To please the King of heaven?
The hearts, if God his Spirit send,
Can love and trust the children's Friend:
Such grace to mine be given.

Though small is all that we can do
To please the King of heaven,
When hearts and hands and lips unite
To serve the Saviour with delight,
They are most precious in his sight:
Such grace to mine be given.

—Selected.

Obeying Mother Pleasantly.

Harry had seen some older boys fly their kites from the tops of the houses; and he thought it would be nice fun if he could do so too. So he came to his aunt, and said, "Aunt Mary, may I go up to the top of the house and fly my kite?"

His aunt wished to do everything to please him; but she thought it very unsafe; so she said, "No, Harry my boy. I think that is very dangerous sort of play. I'd rather you wouldn't go."

"All right. Then I'll go out on the bridge," said Harry.

His aunt smiled, and said she hoped he would always be as obedient as that.

"Harry, what are you doing?" said his mother one day.

"Spinning my new top, mother."

"Can't you take the baby out to ride? Get out the carriage and I'll bring him down."

"All right," shouted the boy, as he put his top away in his pocket, and hastened to obey his mother.

"Uncle William, may I go over to your shop this morning?" said Harry one day at breakfast. "I want to see those baskets again that I was looking at yesterday."

"Oh yes, Harry," said his uncle; "I shall be very glad to have you."

"But I cannot spare you to-day, Harry," said his mother. "I want you to go out with me. You shall go to the shop another day."

"All right," said Harry, and he went on with his breakfast.

No matter what Harry was asked to do, or what refusal he met with when asking for anything, his constant answer was, "All right." He never stopped to worry or tease. He never asked, "Why can't I?" or, "Why mustn't I?" Harry had learned not only to obey, but he had learned to obey in good humor.—Carrier Dove.

"Pull, Adam, Pull!"

There was a lad, in Ireland, who was put to work at a linen factory, and while he was at work there, a piece of cloth wanted to be sent out, which was short of the length that it ought to have been; but the master thought that it might be made longer by a little stretching. He thereupon unrolled the cloth, taking hold of one end of it himself, and the boy the other. He then said, "Pull, Adam, pull!" but the boy stood still.

The master again said, "Pull, Adam, pull!"

The boy said, "I can't."

"Why not?" said the master.

"Because it is wrong," said Adam, and he refused to pull.

Upon this the master said he would not do for a linen manufacturer.

But that boy became the Rev. Dr. Adam Clarke, and the strict principle of honesty in his youthful age laid the foundation of his future greatness.—Selected.

Curious Homes of Spiders.

Doubtless many children have watched the spiders spinning their gossamer webs and wondered at their queer homes and queer manner of getting a living. Perhaps they have thought that all spiders lived in the same manner, and if so they may be surprised to learn that a species in Britain construct rafts of leaves and twigs on which they float over the water, often leaving them and running nimbly over the surface to capture insects. From this habit they take the name of raft spiders. These rafts are only temporary habitations, but there is another species which lives in the water, and yet breathes atmospheric air. The explanation of this is—when the spider has constructed its cocoon-shaped home, (a more compact one than the house spider's) and has attached it to some firm substance, it comes to the surface of the water, and in a skillful manner captures a bubble of air; returning it discharges this into the opening which extends downward. In this way the little house is filled with air. After the tiny spiders come out of eggs, which are fastened to the top of the dwelling, they are fed by their mother until they are large enough to go away and build similar homes of their own.

Of other spiders, the most interesting is the trap-door spider, which excavates a small hole, lines it with its silken web and closes the aperture with a lid; so ingeniously is this done, that the most keen observer could not distinguish it from the ground.—Gospel Banner.

About Babies.

Different countries have different methods of dealing with their young. The Greenland baby is dressed in furs and carried in a sort of pocket in the back of its mother's cloak. When she is very busy and does not want to be bothered with him, she digs a hole in the snow, and covers him up all but his face, and leaves him there until she is ready to take care of him again. The Hindoo baby hangs in a basket from the roof, and is taught to smoke long before he learns to walk. Among the Western Indians the poor little tots are tied fast to a board and have their heads flattened by means of another board fastened down over their foreheads. In Lima a little fellow lies all day in a hammock, swung from a tree-top, like the baby in the nursery song. In Persia he is dressed in the most costly silks and jewels, and his head is never uncovered, day or night, while in Yucatan a pair of sandals and a straw hat are thought to be all the clothing he needs.

Home and Farm.

Killing Weeds.

So long as eight million tons of useless weeds are raised annually by the farmers of the United States, we cannot urge too frequently the use of means for their destruction. It it not merely because the same amount of vegetable growth in useful crops would amount to sixty million dollars, but for the constant hindrances which they offer to neat husbandry, their injury to young crops, and their seeds spoiling the sale of otherwise excellent market products, that they should not be permitted to present such formidable drawbacks to good farming.

It is now well understood that the true way to clear out annual weeds from the soil is by stirring it over and over through the summer, just often enough to break the sprouts and kill the young plants as they are coming to the surface; and that perennial weeds, and more particularly those which spread by the roots, are most easily and effectually destroyed by smothering and keeping them plowed under, with rare exceptions, as in the case of quack-grass. A general truth, which will apply to all processes for killing weeds, is that they may be destroyed when just starting from the ground with one tenth the labor required a week or two later, and one twentieth of the work when fully grown. The farmer must therefore make provision to command ready labor at the critical time when it will accomplish the most; and it would be better to pay two or three dollars a day to laborers at the most favorable moment than only half a dollar after the weeds are grown.—Country Gentleman.

Home-grown Garden Seeds.

The "running out" of varieties of vegetation may in most cases be attributed to careless cultivation and improper selection of seed. With due respect to the good intentions of reputable seedmen, it is still to be said that there are weighty reasons for the belief that prevails among some of our fore-handed gardeners that the "home-grown seeds" are of more value than those obtained from the dealers. The man who depends on seeds of his own raising and gathering knows what he has, while he who thinks it "cheaper" to purchase his supplies, will frequently be disappointed in the harvest. Much depends on choosing the parent plants. Vegetables can be gradually improved by careful selection and cultivation, while slovenly culture, with poor soil, will cause any variety to deteriorate. We knew a man whose crops were always superior to those of his neighbors, and yet his tillage was the same as theirs. The secret at last leaked out; they begged a little of his seed and were as successful as he. Take, for instance, tomatoes. By selecting only such specimens as are perfectly smooth—of a certain prescribed form, large, and of handsome color—we can gradually improve on the original type; but if we save seeds at random the fruit will deteriorate, no matter how generous the cultivation may be. Every one who has had any practical experience with root crops is well aware of the importance of beginning properly by selecting roots for seed that are in each instance up to the standard of excellence, and that a disregard of this precaution will result, in a few years, in roots of every conceivable shape and texture. But in laying so much stress upon the selection, we must not neglect the other important requisite — good culture. Seeds grown on thin, poor soil will show in the next generation of plants a marked falling off in quality.

It is a fact not generally known that the August supply of rhubarb is the best for all preserving purposes, as, grown during the heat of summer, it requires less sugar than the spring supply. But should the summer have been a very dry one, the stalks are apt to become rather hollow and stringy; care should therefore be taken to select medium sized stalks, brittle and full of juice.

Stove Blacking - We hope the following receipt for imparting to stoves a fine black polish, which will neither burn off nor give out an offensive smell, will prove acceptable to some of our readers: Lamp-black is mixed with water-glass (a solution of silicate of soda) to the consistency of sirup and applied with a brush as a thin and even coating, then left twenty-four hours to dry. Afterward graphite, or black lead mixed with gum-water is applied, and a polish obtained by rubbing in the usual manner.

To Make Butter Hard.—An English butter-maker of large experience, who is now on a visit to this country for the purpose of looking over our cheese and butter dairies, gives us the following information concerning a method in practice among the best butter-makers of England for hardening or rendering butter firm and solid during hot weather: Carbonate of soda and alum are used for the purpose, made into a powder. For twenty pounds of butter, one teaspoonful of carbonate of soda and one teaspoonful of powdered alum are mingled together at the time of churning and put into the cream. The effect of this powder is to make the butter come firm and solid, and to give it a clean, sweet flavor. It does not enter into the butter, but its action is upon the cream, and it passes off with the buttermilk. The ingredients of the powder should not be mingled together until required to be used, or at the time the cream is in the churn ready for churning.

Firm Butter without Ice.—From W. P. Hazard's treatise on butter and butter-making, we extract the following:—In families, or where the dairy is small, a good plan to have butter cool and firm without ice, is by the process of evaporation, as practiced in India and other warm countries. A cheap plan is to get a very large sized porous earthern flower-pot with an extra large saucer. Half fill the saucer with water, set in it a trivet or light stand—such as is used for holding hot irons will do—upon this set your butter; over the whole invert the flower-pot, letting the top rim of it rest in and be covered by the water; then close the hole in the bottom of the flower-pot with a cork; then dash water over the flower pot, and repeat the process several times a day, or whenever it looks dry. If set in a cool place, or where the wind can blow on it, it will rapidly evaporate the water from the pot, and the butter will be as firm and cool as if from an ice-house.

Religious Intelligence.

—The Rev. Joseph Dare, from Australia, addressing the Wesleyan Conference held at Camborne in 1874, gave the following incident as illustrative of the prevalence of family prayer among the converts in Fiji: "I was taking tea with your missionary and his wife in the lone island of Kandavu, in the midst of 10,000 Fijians. As we were at tea the bell rang; the missionary said, "That is the signal for family worship. Now listen. You will hear the drum beat." And immediately they began to echo to each other around the shores of that southern sea. The missionary said, "There are 10,000 people on these islands, and I do not know of a single house in which there will not be family worship in the course of half an hour from this time." What a rebuke to older Christians.

—The Foreign Mission Journal, published by the Southern Baptist Convention, says that the Female Missionary Society of Mattaponi church, Kings and Queens county, Virginia, has maintained an uninterrupted organization for more than forty-eight years. This is undoubtedly the oldest woman's foreign missionary organization in the country, and the fact of its long existence is considered the more noteworthy, as the church is in a country neighborhood, remote from any village.

—Rev. W. J. Gillespie, of Sparta, Ill., a well-known and active friend of reform, has accepted a call to the Charles Street United Presbyterian church of New York.

—Illinois is the banner State as to Sabbath school statistics. It reports, for 1877, 6,231 schools (an increase of 269 over the year 1876), with 63,954 teachers and officers, and 464,631 scholars. Here is a great army of a half-million Bible students.

—Several pastors of the Wesleyan Methodist churches in Western Iowa have united in a call for a convention to be held at Mayne's Grove, Franklin county, for the purpose of organizing a new conference, to be known as the Western Iowa Conference.

—The General Assembly of the Welsh Presbyterian church in the United States will meet, says the Interior, in Rev. David Davies' church, Chicago, Sept. 18. There will be about fifty commissioners, and as many, or more, in attendance from churches distant from Chicago. The sessions will continue for a week, and the proceedings will be in the Welsh language. Those who wish to hear the pure Gælic in animated discussions will have the opportunity.

Richter truly says: "Begin the education of the heart, not with the cultivation of noble propensities, but with the cutting away of those that are evil. When once the noxious herbs are withered and rooted out, then the more noble plants, strong in themselves, will shoot upward. The virtues, like the body, become strong and healthy more by labor than nourishment.

In matters of conscience first thoughts are best. In matters of prudence last thoughts are best.—Rev. Robert Hall.

Knights of Pythias Illustrated

A Full Illustrated Exposition

OF THE

Ceremonies of the Three Degrees

OF THE

SUBORDINATE LODGE.

Entered According to Act of Congress in the year 1877.
By Ezra A. Cook & Co.,
In the office of the Librarian of Congress at Washington, D. C.

[CONTINUED.]

SHIELD SIGN.

Raise right hand perpendicularly, with the hand clinched as if in the act of striking a downward blow. Same position as when taking the obligation of this rank. (see cut.)

GRIP, RANK OF ESQUIRE.

Grasp left hands, in ordinary way. No shake.

Chancellor Commander.—"Master at Arms, you will now retire with the Esquire to the ante-room, clothe him in the proper regalia of the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire, in this Chivalric Order, and permit him to work his way into the Lodge without his shield."

Master at Arms and Esquire retire. Upon re-entering, after the candidate has given the sign, while at the Altar, the Chancellor Commander addresses him as follows:

Chancellor Commander.—"Esquire John Brown, before taking your seat, you will please come this way."

Candidate comes in front of station of Chancellor Commander.

Chancellor Commander.—"We have a Keeper of Records and Seal that is methodical in all his official business; he has given me a blank for you to fill out that he may know your hand-writing and the manner of spelling your name, the name and number of the street where you reside, etc." (hands him the blank.)

BLANK FOR CANDIDATE TO FILL OUT.

Name.....
Residence.....
Occupation.....
Motto.....
Password.....

Near the Chancellor Commander's station is a small writing desk so arranged that by touching a secret spring the top of the desk falls in and a bell is rung or a pistol fired and the word Caution in large letters appears.

When the candidate is handed the blank to fill out the desk is occupied by three of the brethren; one at each end and usually an officer in the center, whom we will suppose to be the Master of Exchequer. The Chancellor Commander calls out: "Brother Master of Exchequer you will please move from the desk, that the candidate may fill out the blank. (Master of Exchequer fails to hear, seems absorbed in his work.)

Chancellor Commander (louder.)—"Brother Master of Exchequer will you vacate that desk that the candidate may occupy it a moment?" (Still no attention is paid to the order.)

Chancellor Commander (still louder).—"Brother Master of Exchequer will you get up from that desk and go to your own station to do your writing?"

Master of Exchequer finally gathers up his writing materials and vacates the desk to the candidate. The brethren at each end keep up an earnest discussion on some subject and the Master at Arms stands behind the candidate, all of which is well designed to confuse him. When he begins to write the password the Master at Arms gives his shoulders a sudden jerk and the report of the pistol or ring of the bell with the tumbling of the desk and candidate to the floor creates a general confusion.

In some lodges the desk and the chair on which the candidate is seated tumble to pieces, and in a few lodges, as the spring is touched, two upright doors above the table suddenly open and a large pale hand about two feet long comes down on the candidate's hand.

Chancellor Commander (looking piously grave).—"Brother Master at Arms, what is the cause of this confusion?"

Master at Arms.—"The candidate has attempted to write the password."

Chancellor Commander (to candidate).—"I am astonished that a gentlemen of your general good appearance, and honest expression of countenance, having an established reputation for courteous conduct and unflinching integrity would come here and take solemn obligations and especially promise that you would not write or indite upon anything movable or immovable any of the private work of the Rank of Esquire, should attempt to violate your obligation even before the ceremony of conferring the Second Rank upon you is concluded."

Chancellor Commander.—"Brother Master at Arms you will divest the candidate of his regalia."

A brother rising says.—"I move that the candidate be suspended for 99 years."

The motion is seconded and stated to the Lodge by the Chancellor Commander, when after arguments pro and con the Chancellor Commander gives the candidate an opportunity to rise and explain, if he has any explanation to offer for the violation of his obligation.

After a humble apology by the candidate the motion for his suspension is withdrawn by the mover with consent of the second.

Should the candidate remember his obligation and not write the password he is complimented by the Chancellor Commander and is frequently shown what would have happened had he violated his word.

The Chancellor Commander then delivers a short impromptu address to the candidate, something similar to the following:

IMPROMPTU ADDRESS TO CANDIDATE, BY CHANCELLOR COMMANDER.

"Esquire John Brown, I assure you that this has not been done to trifle with your feelings, but to practically test the motto of the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire in this order. Caution has been defined as prudence, care, wariness and watchfulness; prudence not only in the lodges, but in your every day life; care in the proper transaction of your business; wariness in your every avocation, and a proper watchfulness of your family, that they may be permitted to enjoy every earthly blessing that is in your power to bestow upon them. The lesson that you have received is one that is likely to make a lasting and durable impression on your mind, and ever bring to your remembrance the solemn and binding obligation you have taken upon yourself never to reveal any of the secrets contained in this Rank of our Order. In the primary portion of these ceremonies, another practical exemplification of the teachings of this Rank was given you; and it was intended that all that was then said should reach your ears and furnish food for thought. To that end the Master at Arms brought you to the very threshhold of the Lodge, and the Inner Guard left the door ajar, as you no doubt thonght accidentally. The Vice Chancellor questioned the Keeper of Records and Seal as to whether you had served a proper time as Page, it being imperatively necessary, according to our rules, that the space of (one week, or two weeks as may be fixed by the By-laws. Usually one week) should elapse between the conferring of the different Grades of Rank in the Order. The Prelate questioned as to your fidelity to the order, and the Master of Exchequer interrogated as to your personal character, as no one whose reputation does not stand clear with the outer world can be received in friendship here. Therefore you perceive that Caution was used to its fullest extent before you were admitted to the Lodge. I feel satisfied from the teachings that have been inculcated here, that you will prove yourself prudent and watchful, exhibiting the proper forethought in all your dealings, that is essential to your position in the world and proper station in this Order.

"Master at Arms, you will now face Esquire John Brown to the Lodge, (and if not having remembered his obligation, and therefore been divested of his regalia, the Chancellor Commander will continue) and clothe him in the proper regalia of the Second or Armorial Rank of an Esquire of this Order."

Master at Arms faces the candidate toward the Vice Chancellor's station, and invests him with the proper regalia.

Chancellor Commander (two raps).—"Officers and members of the Second, or Armorial Rank of this Chivalric Order, permit me to introduce to you Esquire John Brown, who has been regularly proved, according to the established formulas and ceremonies, as an Esquire of this Order."

After the public introduction the Chancellor Commander gives one rap and says:

"The Lodge will be at ease until the sound of the gavel at the Chancellor Commander's station."

FORM OF PASSING FROM RANK OF ESQUIRE TO THAT OF KNIGHT.

The Lodge being at ease the Chancellor Commander resumes his chair and gives one rap. The officers repair at once to their chairs and members to their seats.

Chancellor Commander (one rap).—"Brother Master at Arms."

Master at Arms (rising).—"Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—"Are you satisfied, from your previous examinations, that all present are qualified to remain in this Lodge of the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire?"

(The Master at Arms, it is supposed, will always bear in mind the fact that members admitted between the first and second sections of the work have not been examined by him.)

Master at Arms (looking around).—"I am so satisfied, Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—"Are you satisfied that all present are qualifiedto remain in the Third, or Chivalric Rank of Knight?"

Master at Arms.—"I am (or am not—as the case may be) so satisfied."

Should the Master at Arms respond in the affirmative, the Chancellor Commander gives one rap, calling the Inner Guard up, and passes fully to the Third Rank.

Should the Master at Arms answer in the negative, he will prove those in doubt, if there are any besides the candidate or candidates just proved.

Master at Arms.—"Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—"Brother Master at Arms."

Master at Arms.—"I find all qualified, except the Esquire (or Esquires) just proved or awaiting to be charged in the Rank of Knight."

Chancellor Commander.—"Brother Master at Arms, you will invite those not qualified to remain in the Third, or Chivalric Rank of Knight, to approach the Altar, salute the Chancellor Commander and retire."

While they are at the Altar, and having made the sign, any announcement required will be made to them, when escorted by the Master at Arms to the inner door, they retire from the lodge-room and the Master at Arms repairs to his station.

Chancellor Commander (one rap).—"Brother Inner Guard."

Inner Guard (rising.)—"Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—"It is my order that ——— Lodge, No. —— Knights of Pythias, of the Grand Jurisdiction of ——, be now closed in the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire and opened in that of the Third, or Chivalric Rank of Knight. This order you will communicate to the Brother Outer Guard and bid him act in conformity therewith."

Inner Guard (going to the door).—"Brother Outer Guard, it is the order of the Chancellor Commander that the Lodge be closed in the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire and opened in that of the Third, or Chivalric Rank of Knight; you will perform your duties in conformity therewith."

Outer Guard.—"The commands of the Chancellor Commander shall be obeyed."

Inner Guard (returns).—"Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—"Brother Inner Guard."

Inner Guard.—"The Outer Guard has received your commands and will obey them."

Chancellor Commander.—"Therefore the officers and members will give strict attention that the Lodge is now open in the Third, or Chivalric Rank of Knight."

Chancellor Commander (two raps).—"Advance your shields!"

ADVANCE YOUR SHIELDS RANK OF KNIGHT.—Advance your shields, left hand clinched and held height of chin and a foot in front of it, back of hand from you.

Chancellor Commander.—"Parry!"

PARRY.—Hold sword erect (in right hand) and move point from right to left as if to parry or ward off a blow.

Chancellor Commander (swords still held at a "parry")—"I am also satisfied in my triangle; Brother Vice Chancellor are you satisfied in yours?"

Vice Chancellor.—"I am Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—"Recover!" (All resume the ordinary position, arms down.)

Chancellor Commander.—"All is well. Brother Master at Arms you will arrange the Book of Law and Swords of Defence. (See page 15.)

This being done and the Master at Arms having returned to his station, the Chancellor Commander gives three raps. (All seated.)

INITIATION.

THIRD, OR CHIVALRIC RANK OF KNIGHT.

The Esquire is taken to the ante-room when he is instructed by the Master at Arms to say, in answer to any direct interrogatory made of him, "By what right does he make this demand?" the answer will be, "By that of being a brave man," or else get the candidate to authorize him—the Master at Arms—to do so for him, after which he is blindfolded, the shield put on his left forearm as in the preceding Rank; he is then conducted to the inner door, upon which there is no shield; the Master at Arms gives two raps, which are answered in the same manner from within, and the wicket is opened.

Inner Guard.—"Who comes here? Who dares to interrupt the proceedings of this Lodge while working in the Third, or Chivalric Rank of Knight?"

Master at Arms.—"Esquire John Brown, who having received the First, or Initiatory Rank of Page, been proved in the Second or Armorial Rank of Esquire, and passing a fair ballot, now declares himself a Brave man, and as such demands admittance to this Lodge of the Third, or Chivalric Rank of Knight."

Inner Guard (closes wicket.)—"Chancellor Commander, there is without an Esquire who has received the First or Initiatory Rank of Page, been proved in the Second or Armorial Rank of Esquire, and now demands admittance to this Lodge of the Third or Chivalric Rank of Knight."

Chancellor Commander.—"By what right does he make this demand?"

Inner Guard.—"By reason of having been initiated, proved, passing a fair ballot, and boasting himself a Brave man."

Chancellor Commander.—"Such being his pledge and demand and having attained the necessary preparatory Rank, it is my order as Chancellor Commander that you let him enter without further challenge."

The Master at Arms conducts the Esquire around the Castle Hall once and halts before the chair of the Chancellor Commander.

Master at Arms.—"Chancellor Commander, Esquire John Brown, who has been duly initiated as a Page, and proved as an Esquire, in this Chivalric Order, desires to receive the highest Rank conferred by this Lodge, by being instructed in the mysteries and passing through the ordeal that all brave Knights have done who have reached this summit of Pythian honors."

Chancellor Commander.—"Esquire, is this your demand?"

Candidate answers.

Chancellor Commander.—"Upon entering this Castle Hall as a Retainer, seeking the First or Initiatory Rank of Page, a requirement was exacted from and of you; do you remember what it was, and if so, will you state its nature?"

Candidate.—Obedience."

Chancellor Commander.—"Brethren of the Knight's Rank, are you satisfied that the Esquire remembers and fully appreciates this requirement sufficient to advance him in our highest honors?"

(All.)—"We are."

Chancellor Commander.—"Upon attaining the First or Initiatory Rank of Page in this order, you were taught one great lesson. Do you remember what it was, and if so will you be kind enough to state the same?"

Candidate.—"Friendship."

Chancellor Commander.—"Brethren of the Knight's Rank, has the Esquire who demands advancement in our order merited as well as received your Friendship."

(All.)—"He has."

Chancellor Commander.—"Upon reaching and being proved in the Second or Armorial Rank of Esquire of this order, you were taught another great lesson. Will you state what it was?"

Candidate.—"Caution."

Chancellor Commander.—"Brethren of the Knight's Rank, has the Esquire who stands before you as a candidate for the Third or Chivalric Rank of Knight, proven himself, to the best of your knowledge and belief, obedient, prudent, cautious and watchful?"

(All.)—"He has."

Chancellor Commander.—"This being so, Esquire, I can see no just reason why you should not be permitted to proceed in this Chivalric Order; but it is my duty to inform you that your courage and confidence may be put to a severe test during the ceremonies through which you are about to pass, but should such be the will of those around you assembled, and if, as you declare in your demand, you are a Brave man, and will implicitly obey all the orders given you, and requirements exacted during its progress, no accident can possibly befall you. On the contrary, if you are not a man of iron nerve, or if you have made this demand from an unworthy motive, I tell you plainly and sincerely that I cannot be answerable for any injury you may receive. To assure you, however, that this Lodge, its officers and members fully appreciate your position, I will, as Chancellor Commander, state that the ordeal you may have to undergo is one, not only dangerous in character, but of a fearful nature. (Sometimes the Chancellor Commander requests the Keeper of Records and Seal to read or quote the by-law of the Lodge, promising $10 per week to a brother in case of disability and $100 for funeral expenses in case of death and generally exaggerates the amount of the promised benefit.) Should your vaunted bravery fail you at the crowning point of its consummation, by it we as an order prove and exemplify the fact as to whether you have been truthful in your former protestations of Friendship, such as was exhibited by Damon towards Pythias, or the Caution, though unwise, as shown by Lucullus in slaying his master's horse to preserve his life.

"Heretofore you have answered readily and promptly the interrogatories as made in the former and preceding grades of rank, but the answers now to be given are of too serious a nature to be lightly made, and I would therefore ask your greatest consideration before so doing; but to give you a last opportunity to elect for yourself, I will state that it is not too late, if you so desire, to be escorted hence and permitted to retire, (pause). With the official assurance from me that no accident can befall an obedient and friendly person, who is not only cautious but a truly brave man, aspiring to the high rank of Knight, I ask, as Chancellor Commander, in the name of this Lodge, its officers and members around you assembled, do you still persist in your demand?"

Candidate answers.

Chancellor Commander.—"Are you willing to take upon your self a solemn and binding obligation to keep forever secret the mysteries of this Chivalric Rank of Knight?"

Candidate answers.

Chancellor Commander.—"Master at Arms, you will conduct the Esquire to our Prelate, who will administer the obligation of the Third and Chivalric Rank of Knighthood in this Order."

Master at Arms presents candidate before the Prelate at the Altar, opposite to and facing him.

Master at Arms.—"Prelate, by order of the Chancellor Commander of this Lodge, I present Esquire John Brown, who having been initiated as a Page and proved in the Second or Armorial Rank of Esquire, now declares himself a Brave man, and as such demands that he be obligated in the Third or Chivalric Rank of Knight in this Order."

[To be Continued.]

WHEATON COLLEGE LIBRARY
Wheaton, Illinois

ANTI-MASONIC BOOKS.

(Notour own Publications)

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO

13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

FOR CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS OF EZRA A. COOK & CO., See page 15 of the CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

☞ All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Freemasonry Self Condemned.

BY REV. J. W. BAIN.

We now have a small supply of this deservedly popular book in paper covers, Price 20 cents each by mail.

Elder Stearns' Books.

Stearns' Inquiry Into the Nature and Tendency of Masonry With an Appendix.

388 Pages, In Cloth ..... 60 cents.
" " " Paper ..... 40 "

Stearns' Letters on Masonry.

Showing the antagonism between Freemasonry and the Christian Religion
Price, 30 cents.

Stearns' Review of Two Masonic Addresses.

In this scathing review the lying pretentions of the order are clearly shown.
Price, 10 cents.

Levington's Key to Masonry.

This is Rev. Mr. Levington's last, and in the judgment of its author, best work on Masonry.
The contents of the Eleventh chapter are thus startling:
"Knights of the Golden Circle—Graphic account of them by a seceding Knight, and remarks thereon, showing the identity of the order with Masonry—Quotations from Sir Walter Scott."
This work is thrilling in statement, and powerful in argument. Price $1.35. 425 pages.

Light on Freemasonry

BY ELDER D. BERNARD

TO WHICH IS APPENDED A Revelation of the Mysteries of Oddfellowship by a Member of the Craft.

The whole containing over five hundred pages lately revised and republished. Price $2.00

The first part of the above work, Light on Freemasonry, 416 pages in paper cover, will be sent post paid on receipt of $1.

FOR SALE BY

United Brethren Publishing House,
DAYTON, O.
and by
EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Ave, CHICAGO

Finney on Masonry.

BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE $1.00.

CHEAP EDITION,

Twenty-five dollars per hundred, by express and not less than 25 copies at that rate.

BY MAIL, POST-PAID:

Per doz. $1 75
Single copy. ..... 15 c

GOOD TEMPLARISM EXPOSED.

Obligations, of the Initiatory Fidelity, Charity, and Royal Virtue Degrees.

This is a small book containing only the Obligations and some of the Odes of the Good Templars.

Single Copy, Post paid, ... 10cts
Per Doz. 75
Per 1 by Express, ... $4.50

Bernard's Appendix to Light on Masonry,

Showing the Character of the Institution by its terrible oaths and penalties. 25 cents.

ODD-FELLOWSHIP

JUDGED BY ITS OWN UTTERANCES;

Its Doctrine and Practice examined in the light of God's Word.

BY REV. J. H. BROOKMAN.

This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-Fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. It was originally published in German.
Price, bound in Boards, 75 cents. Paper Covers 40 cents.
GERMAN EDITION, Entitled "Christian and Poet." Paper Covers 50 cents each.

HOW TO DEFEAT
Masonic Scoundrelism
Within the Court House.

BY J. H. H. WOODWARD,

This pamphlet as its title indicates is designed to put all non-Masons on their guard against lodge trickery and especially to show how to meet and successfully cope with Freemasonry in our Courts.
Single Copy, Post Paid, ... 10 cts.
Per Doz. 75 cts. Per 100 by Express $6 00

Every Freemason a Blasphemer.

As proved by the Highest Masonic Authority.

BY J. H. H. WOODWARD.

By quotations from a score of masonic works of unquestioned authority, the fact of the blasphemous ceremonies and teachings of Freemasonry are so clearly demonstrated as to make it evident that every Initiate is of necessity a blasphemer.
10 cents each. 75 cents per Doz. by mail;
By Express, per 100 $6 00.

Descriptive Catalogue of Publications of Ezra A. Cook & Co.

13 Wabash Ave. Chicago.

BOOKS.

☞Books at Doz. or Retail Prices sent post-paid. Not less than one-half doz. sent at dozen rates. By the 100 (25 Copies at 100 rate,) Expressage or Postage extra.

☞ Books sent by Mail are not at our risk.

Books at retail or by the dozen, ordered by Express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK; party ordering to pay Express Chgs.

FREEMASONRY EXPOSED,

by CAP'T. WILLIAM MORGAN.

THE GENUINE OLD MORGAN BOOK:—republished with engravings showing the Lodge Room, Dress of candidates, Signs, Due Guards, Grips, Etc.

This revelation is so accurate that Freemasons murdered the author for writing it. Thousands have testified to the correctness of the revelation and this book therefore sells very rapidly.

Price 25 cents.

Per Doz. Post Paid..... $2.00
Per hundred by express, (express charges extra.)..... $10.00

ODD FELLOWSHIP ILLUSTRATED.

A complete exposition of the Lodge Encampment and Rebecca (Ladies') Degree. The Signs, Grips, &c., shown by engravings.

Single copy, post paid,..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per Hnndred, Express charges extra,..... 10 00

EXPOSITION OF THE GRANGE.

EDITED BY REV. A. W. GEESLIN.

Illustrated with Engravings showing Lodge Room, Signs, Signals, etc.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 10 00

Judge Whitney's Defense Before the Grand Lodge of Ill.

Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the Lodge when S. L. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the Lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 20
Per Doz. " " 1 50
Per 100, Express charges extra..... 8 00

History of The Abduction and Murder Cap't. Wm. Morgan,

As prepared by Seven Committees of Citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan.

This book contains indisputable, legal evidence that Freemasons, abducted and Murdered Wm. Morgan, for no other offence than the revelation of Masonry. It contains the sworn testimony of over twenty persons, including Morgan's wife, and no candid person after reading this book, can doubt that many of the most respectable FREEMASONS. in the Empire State, with others were concerned in this crime.

Single Copy, post Paid,... ..... 25 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $2,00.
Per 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 10.00.

Valance's Confession of The Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan.

This confession of Henry L. Valance, one of the three Freemasons who drowned Morgan in the Niagara River, was taken from the lips of the dying man by Dr. John C. Emery, of Racine County, Wisconsin in 1848; The confession bears clear evidence of truthfulness.

Single copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $1.50.
Per 100 Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

The Mystic Tie or Freemasonry a League with the Devil.

This is an account of the Church Trial of Peter Cook, and wife of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a Reverend Freemason; and their very able defence presented by Mrs. Lucia C. Cook, in which she clearly shows that Freemasonry, is antagonistic to the Christian Religion. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents

Per dozen, post paid..... $1 50
Per hundred Express charges Extra,..... 9 00

NARRATIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

Showing the Conflict of Secret Societies with the Constitution and Laws of the Union and of the States, by FRANCIS SEMPLE.

The fact that Secret Societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of Law is here clearly proved.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20
Per doz. " " $1.75
Per 100 Express charges Extra..... 9.00

THE BROKEN SEAL.

OR PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF Wm. MORGAN,

By SAMUEL D. GREENE,

Price in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.

In Paper Covers per Doz. Post paid..... $4 50
" per hundred by express (ex. charges extra $25.00

Capt. Wm. Morgan was Mr. Greene's neighbor in Batavia, N. Y., and a member of the same lodge with him at the time of the great excitement in 1826. The titles to those chapters are sufficiently exciting to give the book a large sale:—"The Storm Gathering;" "Abduction of Morgan;" "Attempted Abduction of Miller and his Rescue;" "What became of Morgan;" "What Morgan Actually Revealed;" "Confession of the Murderer;" "Allegations against Freemasonry, etc."

THE ANTI-MASON'S SCRAP BOOK,

CONSISTING OF 21 CYNOSURE TRACTS.

In this book are the views of more than a Score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of Secret Societies.

The dangerous tendency and positive evil of organized Secrecy is here shown by the most varied and powerful arguments and illustrations that have ever been given to the public.

Lecturers and others who wish to find the best arguments against the Lodge, should send for this book.

Those who wish to circulate Antimasonic Tracts ought to have the book to select from.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per Doz. $1.75
Per 100, Express charges Extra,..... $10.00

Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion.

A clear cutting argument against the Lodge, from a Christian Stand point.

Single Copy post paid..... $ 05
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 3 00

PHELPS' SECRET SOCIETIES Ancient and Modern.

A NEW BOOK OF GREAT INTEREST.

This work is particularly commended to the attention of Officers of The Army and Navy, The Bench and The Clergy.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

"THE ANTIQUITY OF SECRET SOCIETIES, THE LIFE OF JULIAN, THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES, THE ORIGIN OF MASONRY, WAS WASHINGTON A MASON? FILMORE'S AND WEBSTER'S DEFERENCE TO MASONRY, A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRESS OF MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES, THE TAMMANY RING, MASONIC BENEVOLENCE, THE USES OF MASONRY, AN ILLUSTRATION, THE CONCLUSION."

Single Copy, Post Paid..... 50
Per Doz " " $4 75
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra..... $25 00

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' LETTERS

to Col. Wm. Stone, Edward Livingstone,

and others, on the nature of

Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties.

Price, post paid..... $ 50
Per Doz., " 4 50
Per 100, Express Charges extra..... 25 00

COLLEGE SECRET SOCIETIES.

Their Customs, Character and the Efforts for their Suppression.

BY H. L. KELLOGG.

Containing the opinion of many prominent College Presidents, and others, and a FULL ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER OF MORTIMER LEGGETT

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 35
Per Doz " " 2 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 15 00

MINUTES OF THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION,

Containing addresses by Rev. B. T. Roberts, Chas. D. Greene, Esq., Prof. C. A. Blanchard, Rev. D. P. Rathbun, Rev. D. S. Caldwell, Mrs. M. E. Gage, Elder J. R. Baird and others. Unpublished Reminiscences of the Morgan Times, by Elder David Bernard; Recollections of the Morgan Trials, as related by Victory Birdseye, Esq., and presented by his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Miller; Secretary's report; roll of delegates; songs of Mr. G. A. Clark; paper by Enoch Honeywell; Constitution N. C. A.; reports of committees, and a report of the political meeting.

Single Copy, post paid, ... 25
Per doz. " " $2.00
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 10.00

Proceedings of the Pittsburgh Convention,

Containing Official Reports; Addresses by Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. Rev. S. T. Roberts, Rev. G. T. R. Meiser, Prof. J. R. W. Sloane, D. D., Pres't. J. Blanchard, Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D., Rev. Woodruff Post, Rev. Henry Cogswell, Prof. C. A. Blanchard, and Rev W. E. Coquilette, also Report of the POLITICAL MASS CONVENTION, with Platform and Candidates for the Presidential Campaign of 1876.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25 cts.
Per doz " $2 00
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 10 00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. W. P. M'NARY,

Pastor United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Ind.

This is a very clear, thorough, candid and remarkably concise Scriptural argument on the character of Freemasonry.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 5
Per Doz,..... 50
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra,..... $3 00

THIRTEEN REASONS

Why a Christian Should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong.

The author states his reasons clearly and carefully, and any one of the thirteen reasons, if properly considered, will keep a Christian out of the Lodge.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 5
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100, Express charges extra, ... $3.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. JAMES WILLIAMS.

Presiding Elder of Dakota District North-western Iowa Conference, M. E. Church, A SECEDING MASTER MASON.

Published at the special request of the Nine Clergymen of different denominations and others.

Single Copy, post paid..... 10
Per doz. " " 75
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... $4.00

MASONRY A WORK OF DARKNESS

ADVERSE TO CHRISTIANITY, and Inimical to a Republican Government.

BY Rev. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG, [Presbyterian.]

A Seceding Mason of 21 Degrees.

This is a very telling work and no honest man that reads it will think of joining the lodge. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20cts.

Per doz, post paid,..... $1.50.
" 100, Express Charges Extra..... 8.00.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy.

Address of Prest. J. BLANCHARD, before the Pittsburgh Convention.

This is a most convincing argument against the lodge.

Single Copy, Post Paid .. .. $ 05
Per Doz " 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON SECRETISM

BY REV. R. THEO. CROSS.

This is a very clear array of the objections to Masonry that are apparent to all.

By Rev. R. T. Cross, Pastor Congregational Church, Hamilton, N.Y.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

Its relation to civil Government and the Christian Religion.

By Prest. J. BLANCHARD, at the Monmouth Convention.

The Unchristian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is here proved from the highest masonic authorities.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP

AND OTHER SECRET SOCIETIES

BY REV. J. SARVER, Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church, Leechburg, Pa.

This is a very clear argument against Secretism of all forms and the duty to disfellowship, Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 10
Per Dozen " 75
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 4 00

Sermon on Secret Societies,

BY REV. DANIEL DOW, Woodstock, Conn.

The special object of this sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the Character of Secret Societies, no matter what object they profess to have.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 05
Per Dozen, " " 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 3 00

President H. H. GEORGE, On Secret Societies.

A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian Churches, to disfellowship Secret Societies.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 10 cts.
Per doz, " ..... 75 "
Per 100, Express Charges Extra, ... $4.00.

History of the National Christian Association.

Its origin, objects, what it has done and aim to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought; The Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association, Conditions of the Carpenter Donation with engraving of building to be donated by Mr. Carpenter; tablet, showing the number of pastors and communicants in churches that exclude members of Secret societies; tabular view of local, county, State and National Conventions, and list of organizations Auxiliary to the National Christian Association. Brief opinions of eminent men on secret societies, and testimonies of religious bodies against them. This book will be found invaluable by all who wish to know the character of this reform and how they may do the most to further its objects. It should be in the hands of every Anti-mason.

Price, post paid, 25 cents each; per doz., $1.50. 25 copies or more by express at 8 cents each.

NEW BOOKS

HAND-BOOK OF FREEMASONRY.

BY EDMOND RONAYNE, late Past Master of Keystone Lodge, No. 639, Chicago. A full Illustrated Exposition of the Three Degrees of "Ancient Craft Masonry;" Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft and Master Mason, embracing the "Standard Work" of the Order.

Single Copy, $0 50. Per dozen, $4 00. Per 100 $25 00.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WITH SIGNS OF RECOGNITION, PASS WORDS, GRIPS, Etc., and the RITUAL of the MACHINISTS AND BLACKSMITHS' UNION. (The two bound together.)

Single Copy, $0 25. Per dozen, $2 00. Per 100 $10 00.

Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees of Freemasonry

Nothing can more clearly show the abominations of this system of iniquity than its horrible Oaths and Penalties.

Single Copy, $0 15. Per dozen, $1 00. Per 100 $6 00.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret Societies.

A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons the Christian Church.

Single Copy $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100, $4 50.

Secrecy v. s. The Family, State and Church.

BY REV. M. S. DRURY. The antagonism of Organized Secrecy with the welfare of the Family, State and Church is clearly shown

Single Copy, $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100 $4 00.

ANTIMASONIC TRACTS

NOW HAVE 35 ENGLISH TRACTS, 6 MAN. AND ONE SWEDISH

hese tracts are sold at the rate of $1.00 per 1000 pages.

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bonnd together, and is just the hing to select tracts from. Price 20 cents. See advertisement

For information about Free Tracts see advertisement headod "Free Tracts."

Address EZRA A. COOK & Co.,
18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TRACT NO. 1:

HISTORY OF MASONRY.

BY PRESIDENT J. BLANCHARD, OF WHEATON COLLEGE

This is now puhlished in three tracts of four pages each. Price of each, 50 cents per 100; $4 per 1000.

TRACT No. 1, PART FIRST—Shows the origin of Spcculative Free masonry, and is entiled "HISTORY OF MASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART SECOND—Is entitled "DESPOTIC CHARAC TER OF FREEMASONRY"

TRACT No. 1, PART THIRD—Is entitled "FREEMASONRY A CHRIST-EXCLUDING RELIGION"

TRACT NO. 2:

MASONIC MURDER,

By REV. J. R. BAIRD, of Pleasantville, Pa., a seceding Mason who has taken 17 degrees. A 2-page tract at 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 3:

SECRETS OF MASONRY,

BY ELI TAPLEY.

This is a 4-page Illnstrated Tract, showing the signs, grips and pass-words, of the first three degrees. 50 cents per 100, or $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 4:

GRAND! GREAT GRAND!

BY PHILO CARPENTER.

This is a 2-page tract, calling the attention of the public to the despotic and ridicnlous tities of Freemasonry. Price 25 ccnts per 100; $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT. NO. 5:

Extracts From Masonic Oaths and Penalties, as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.

This tract is a reprint of a tract published in 1834, and is a very weighty docnment. A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 6:

Hon. John Quincy Adams' Letter.

Giving His and His Father's Opinion of Freemasonry (1831.);

AND

Hon. James Madison's Letter,

Giving His Opinion of Freemasonry (1832).

Both of these letters, in one 4-page tract, at 50 cents per 100: $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 7:

SATAN'S CABLE-TOW.

A 4-page tract. This is a careful analysis of the character of Masonic oaths, and shows them to be most blasphcmous and nnchristian; and the Masonic Cable Tow is clearly shown to be the Cable Tow by which Satan is leading thousands to eternal death. 4 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 8:

Is a 2-page double tract, "ILLUSTRATED." The first page represents a Mason proclaiming the wonderful wisdom and benevolence of the order, with an article below, entitled "Freemasonry is only 152 Years Old," and gives the time and place of its birth.

The second side is entitled, "Murder and Treason not Excepted," and shows that the Masonic order is treasonable in its constitution, and is both anti-Repnblican and anti-Christian. Price 25 cents per 100; $2 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 9, ILLUSTRATED:

FREEMASONRY IN THE CHURCH.

Copy of a petition for the higher degrees of Freemasonry, in which Blasphemous and Despotic Titles are enumerated and prayed for. The Copy was printed for the nse of "Occidental Sovereign Consistory S. P. R. S.," 32d degree—a Chicago Lodge—and was ordered by a deacon of a Christian Church who is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ill

TRACT NO. 10:

CHARACTER AND SYMBOLS OF FREEMASONRY.

A 2-page tract, (ILLUSTRATED) by its "Grand Secretaries, Grand Lecturers, Perfect Prince Freemasons, Grand Inspector, Inquisitor Commanders, Grand High Priests," etc. The wonderful symbolical meaning of "the Cable Tow." "the Square and Compass," "the Lamb Skin, or white Apron," and "the Common Gavel," are given in the exact words of the highest Masonic authority. 25 cents per 100 or $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 11:

Address of Niagara County Association, New York:

TO THE PUBLIC,

Concerning the Morgan Murder, and the character of Freemasonry shown by this and other Masonic murders. 50 cents

TRACT NO. 12:

JUDGE WHITNEY AND MASONRY.

This tract contains a condensed account of Judge Whitney's Defense before the Grand Lodge of Illinois, on charge of unmasonic conduct in bringing Samuel L. Keith the murderer of Ellen Slade, and a member of his Lodge, to justice, with Judge Whitney's subsequent renunciation of Masonry,

An 8-page tract, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 13:

DR. NATHANIEL COLVER ON MASONRY,

and

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D.,

Chancellor of the University of New York, on SECRET SOCIETIES

A double 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 14:

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

ITS RELATION TO CIVIL GOVERNMENT AND THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION.

Opening address before the Monmouth Convention, by PRES. BLANCHARD of WHEATON COLLEGE. This is a 16-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 15:

MASONIC OATHS NULL AND VOID.

A clear and conclusive argument proving the invalidity of any oath or obligation to do evil. By REV. I. A. HART, Secretary National Christian Association. Published by special order of the Association 50 cents per 100: $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 16:

HON. SETH M. GATES ON FREEMASONRY.

PROOF THAT THE INSTITUTION THAT MURDERED MORGAN IS UNCHANGED IN CHARACTER

This is a letter to the Monmouth Convention by Hon. Seth M Gates who was Depnty Sheriff of Genesee County, and also Secretary of the Leroy Lodge at the time of Morgan's Abduction. A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 17:

Origin, Obligations and Expenses of The Grange.

WITH A CONSTITUTION OF A FARMERS' CLUB.

This little tract ought to he put into the hands of every Farmer in the United States. Four-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4 00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 18:

HON. WM. H. SEWARD ON SECRET SOCIETIES

Extract from a Speech on Know-nothingism in the U. S. Senate in 1855. The testimony of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, MILLARD FILLMORE CHIEF JUSTIC MARSHALL and others is added.

A 2-page tract, 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 19.

BRICKS FOR MASONS TO LAY.

WASHINGTON, MADISON, MARSHALL, RUSH, HANCOCK, ADAMS AND WEBSTER, give brief clear testimony against the Lodge A 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT

OBJECTIONS TO MASONRY.

By A SECEDING MASON, of Cornton, Vermont.

This tract contains many strong arguments against the Lodge drawn from personal experience, observation and study of its character A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 21:

MASONIC CHASTITY.

BY EMMA A. WALLACE,

The author, by wonderfully clear illustration and argument, shows the terribly corrupt nature of Freemasonry. No true woman who reads this will ever speak with approbation of this institution A 4-page tract 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 22.

LINUS CHITTENDEN ON FREEMASONRY.

The Author a Seceding Master Mason states his objection to the Lodge, drawn both from experience and observation, in a clear concise and forcible style.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 23.

MASONIC OATHS AND PENALTIES.

ADDRESS OF REV. A. M. MILLIGAN AT THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION

This is the clearest and most conclnsive argument to show the wickedness of masonic oaths and the dufy to disregard and repent of them that we have ever seen.

A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 24.

SHOULD FREEMASONS BE ADMITTED TO CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP?

The principles and teachings of Freemasonry taken from the highest masonic authorities are compared with those of the Bible, several Masonic Oaths are given in whole or in part with the comments of Rev's. Moses Stewart, Nathaniel Colver, and Charles G Finney, on this character. Those who love a pure Christianity should aid in the circulation of this tract. A 4 page tract, 50cts. per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 25.

The American Party,

ITS OBJECT, ORGANIZATION, PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES.

Some of the ablest men in the nation have pronounced our platform the best that has been presented to the American people for the past fifty years Our Candidates are men of acknowledged ability and honesty, and if every voter in the United States could read this our "POLITICAL TRACT," our Candidates could undoubtedly be elected. One friend pledges a dollar for every other dollar contributed and this 8 page tract costs but $1.00 per 100, or $8.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 26.

FREEMASONRY A RELIGION.

This Tract is made up of quotations from Standard Masonic Authors and nothing could more clearly demonstrate the fact that Freemasonry claims to be a Christless and therefore Anti-christian religion.

An 8 page Tract, $1 00 per 100. $8 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 27.

Duty and Ability to Know the Character of Freemasonry.

Thousands seem to consider it a virtue to know nothing about the character of Secret Societies. This is shown to be a great error if not a crime and our duty to use the knowledge within our reach, especially when of such vital importance, is clearly enforced.

A 4 Page Tract, 50 cents per 100. $4 00 per 1000.

Cynosure Tract No. 28.

FREEMASONRY REVEALED,

A LEGAL ATTESTATION BY EDMOND RONAYNE

To the correctiness of the published expositions of Freemasonry The author very briefly states the mode of preparation and initiation in the various degrees, with the mock murder and resurrection of the candidate in the personification of Hiram Abiff in the 3d, degree and the penalties of each.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100. $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 1, IN SWEDISH;

Translated by Prof. A. R. CERVIN. A 15 page tract at $8.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

ENOCH HONEYWELL'S TRACT.

TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA. Postage 5cts. per 100.

TRACTS FREE

GERMAN CYNOSUCE TRACT A.

Six Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason.

By Rev. A. GROLE, Pastor, German M.E. Church, Worchester, Mass

This is our first German Tract, and it is a good one; it ought to have a large circulation. A 4 page tract, Price 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

FREE TRACTS.

A Tract Fund for the Free Distribution of Tracts

HAS BEEN SECURED AND SHOULD NEVER BE EXHAUSTED. A friend has pledged this fund a dollar for every other dollar received, so EVERY NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TRACT FUND COUNTS DOUBLE, and thus $10.00 pays for 20,000 pages of tracts.

The distribution of these tracts has already saved hundreds of young men from the lodge, but there is a great lack of funds to supply the constantly increasing demand for Free Tracts.

During the year 1876 were gratuitously sent out, mostly in very small lots. The present demand is fully 100.000 pages per month. but funds are lacking to meet it.

Many of our most earnest workers in this cause of God are poor men, who would be glad to circulate thousands of pages of Antimasonic literature if they could have them free.

SHALL WE NOT HAVE AN INEXHAUSTIBLE TRACT FUND

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bonnd together and is just the thing to select from. Price 20cents. See advertisement page 16.

Enoch Honeywell Esq., pays for an unlimited number of his tract addressed "To THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA." It is an excelent tract, bearing the printed endorsement of Executive Committee of the National Christian Association. He has furnished the public over 150.000 pages of these tracts during the past year.

TRACTS FREE. If sent by mail, 5 cts per 100 is charged postage,

Send Contributions and orders to

EZRA A. COOK.

Agent for Tract Committee 18 Wabash Ave. Chicago, Ill.

Publishers' Department.

Books and Tracts sent Week ending Aug. 11, 1877.

By Express.

Lutheran Publishing House.

By Mail.

J W Porter, M B Perkins, A N Erickson, J Miller, J A G Meger, H E W Barnes, J G Adams, C R Marford, H C Witt, P A Young, A Leull, A G Noll, S P Callihan, M Andrews, E G Brown, M N Spooner, G Klein, H C Puffer, J W Tower, A M Burch, W S McClanahan, J F Armstrong, W J Carlton, N J Houck, L Allen, M Denger, E C Thorp, Mrs Harriet Crofoot, S N Bond, A M Paull, Rev D Simon, Rev W Leinserman.

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED DURING WEEK ENDING AUG. 11, 1877, from N Ames, B M Anderson, A Alexander, M Allen, T Barton, I N Bear, J Crothers, E G Cooper, B T Cole, B Chalfant, J P Conant, H J Carlton, S H Evans, Mrs A S Fisk, J W Gilbert, J Garrison, A Hard, H H Hinman, S Hatch, Mrs C W Howell, E B Krahl, H L Kellogg, P Kerr, A C Laird, A Lull J H Long, T B McCormick, J A G Myer, W P McNary, J D Munger, C Mears, E Miles, M N Miles, R D Nichols, Mrs Nutting, M B Perkins, W Parsou, J Steel, J J Stubbs, J Sherk, N Smith, A F Stevens, B B Salmon, Slonecker, C Wood, J H H Woodward, J P Wood, L I Wicker.

MARKET REPORTS.

Chicago Aug. 13, 1877.

GRAIN— Wheat—	No. 2	1 15	1 20
"	No. 3		97½
"	Rejected		77
"	Minnesota		1 33½
"	Winter	1 21	1 32
Corn—No. 2		44½	45⅝
	Rejected		43
Oats—No. 2		23½	25
	Rejected	19	20
Rye—No. 2		54½	55
Bran per ton		8 50	10 00
Flour—Winter		4 50	7 50
	Spring	3 00	7 50
Hay—Timothy		9 50	10 00
	Prairie		7 50
Mess Beef		10 75	12 00
Tallow		7¼	7⅝
Lard per cwt			8 60
Mess pork, per bbl			13 15
Butter medium to best		18	25
Cheese		8	9
Beans		1 50	3 00
Eggs		7	10½
Seeds—Timothy		1 30	1 50
	Clover		7 50
	Flax		1 26
Potatoes new per brl		1 25	1 50
Broomcorn		3½	7½
Hides green to dry flint		6½	15
Lumber—Clear		30 00	34 00
	Common	9 00	11 00
	Fencing	9 00	11 00
	Shingles		2 50
WOOL—Washed		36	43
	Unwashed	23	27
LIVE STOCK Cattle Choice		5 30	6 00
	Good	5 00	5 25
	Medium	4 25	4 75
	Common	2 75	4 00
	Hogs	4 40	5 30
	Sheep	2 50	4 00

New York Market.

Flour	$3 35	9 25
Wheat—Spring	1 14	1 28
Winter	1 42	1 51
Corn	54	70
Oats	25½	55
Rye		70
Lard		9
Mess pork		13 90
Butter	10	24
Cheese	5	9½
Eggs	14	15
Wool	10	58

THE SABBATH OF THE LORD,

BY JOHN J. McKAY New York.

Contents, Sabbath Profanation, Sabbath Sanctification, Hindrances to Sabbath Sanctification and the evils of Sabbath Rail Road Traveling and Transportation, Also THE CLAIMS OF THE SABBATH AGAINST THE ASSUMPTIONS OF REV. HENRY WARD BEECHER.

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO., 18 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill. Price, 25 cents each, $2.25 Per Doz. by Mail.

Wesleyan Methodist Seminary,

Wasioja, Minnesota.

E. C. PAINE, A. M., Principal.

Terms begin Wednesday, September 12, 1877; Wednesday, December 19, 1877; Wednesday, March 20, 1878.

Three courses of study: College Preparatory, Academic and Scientific. The influences of this school are religious and anti-secret. Expenses very small.

For catalogue giving full particulars, address the principal or the undersigned.

REV. D. F. SHEPARDSON, Pres. of Board.

CALIFORNIA

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the WEST and NORTH-WEST, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between CHICAGO and all points in ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, NORTHERN MICHIGAN, MINNESOTA, IOWA, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, COLORADO, UTAH, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, CHINA, JAPAN, AND AUSTRALIA. Its

Omaha and California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in NORTHERN ILLINOIS, IOWA, DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, COLORADO, UTAH, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, CHINA, JAPAN, AND AUSTRALIA. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for NORTHERN WISCONSIN and MINNESOTA, and for MADISON, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, DULUTH, and all points in the Great Northwest. Its

Winona and St. Paul Line.

Is the only route for WINONA, ROCHESTER, OWATONNA, MANKATO, ST. PETER, NEW ULM, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for JANESVILLE, WATERTOWN, FOND DU LAC, OSHKOSH, APPLETON, GREEN BAY, ESCANABA, NEGAUNEE, MARQUETTE, HOUGHTON, HANCOCK, and the LAKE SUPERIOR COUNTRY. Its

Freeport and Dubuque Line

Is the only route for ELGIN, ROCKFORD, FREEPORT, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago and Milwaukee Line

Is the old Lake Shore Route, and is the only one passing through EVANSTON, LAKE FOREST, HIGHLAND PARK, WAUKEGAN, RACINE, KENOSHA to MILWAUKEE.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

are run on all through trains of this road.

This is the ONLY LINE running these cars between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our Sleepers connect with the Overland Sleepers on the Union Pacific Railroad for all points West of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago and North-Western Railway LEAVE CHICAGO as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, Two Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four Through Trains daily. Pullman Cars on night trains, Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta, La Crosse and Winona and points in Minnesota. One Through Train daily, with Pullman Sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains.

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, Two Trains daily. Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, Four Trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points you can have from two to ten trains daily

New York Office, No 415 Broadway; Boston Office, No. 5 State Street; Omaha Office, 245 Farnham Street San Francisco Office, 121 Montgomery Street; Chicago Ticket Offices: 62 Clark Street, under Sherman House; Kinzie Street Depot, corner W. Kinzie; Wells Street Depot, corner Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agents, apply to

W. H. STENNETT, Gen. Pass. Ag't, Chicago. MARVIN HUGHITT, Gen. Pass'g. Chicago.

[Eastern.)

AGENTS double their money selling Dr Chase's Improved ($2) Receipt Book Address Dr. Chase's Printing House Ann Arbor, Mich. [3Aug7652t,

$2500 A YEAR. Agents wanted. Business legitimate. Particulars free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

Excelsior Marriage Certificate.

It is decidedly the most BEAUTIFUL, TASTEFUL and SENSIBLE thing of the kind I have ever seen."—Rev. F. G. Hibbard, D. D.

"The most SCRIPTURAL, BEAUTIFUL and APPROPRIATE Marriage Certificate I have ever seen."—Late Rev. H. Mattison, D. D.

"SOMETHING NEW AND BEAUTIFUL, which we pronounce the handsomest thing of the kind we ever laid eyes on."—Meth. Home Journal, Phila. Contains two Ornamental Ovals, for Photographs

A BEAUTIFUL LITHOGRAPH 14 1-4 by 18 1-4 inches, 25 cts each, $2.25 per doz- $15 per 100.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., CHICAGO

Renewals.

The date at which subscriptions expire, is with each subscriber's name on the address label.

Please send renewals before this date occurs. Notice if the date is changed to correspond soon; if not, or if the paper fails to come, write without delay.

NEW CLUB RATES

FOR

Either Renewals or New Subscriptions.

Papers addressed to one or different Post Offices as desired.

CLUB RATES INCLUDING POSTAGE.

2 to 4 Subscribers,	at	$2.00	a year.
5 to 9	at	1.75	"
10 or more	at	1.50	"

Names for a Club may be sent at different times; THE MONEY FOR THE CLUB TO BE SENT WITH THE FIRST LOT OF NAMES; but other Subscriptions may be added at same rates after Club is full.

The effect of Club Rates is to give the Commission to those who compose the Club and no commission can be allowed on these rates

MASON & HAMLIN, Cabinet Organs!

The only Organ declared to be of First Rank by the Judges at Philadelphia.

Gold Medals and Diplomas of Honor awarded them at all the great World Expositions.

Being the only American Organs which have ever obtained any award in Competition with the best European makers.

These celebrated Instruments are now offered to the public in New and Elegant Styles at the very Lowest Prices consistent with Best Material and Workmanship. They may be purchased on

Easy Monthly or Quarterly Installments

or Rented until Rent pays for them.

Every organ warranted to give satisfaction. Illustrated catalogue free.

Mason & Hamlin Organ Company.

Boston, 154 Tremont Street,

New York, 25 Union Square,

Chicago, 250 & 252 Wabash Ave.

$1200 SALARY. Permanent salesmen wanted to sell Staple Goods to dealers. No peddling. Expenses paid. Address S. A. GRANT & CO., 2, 4, 6 & 8 Home St., Cincinnati, O.

Discontinuances.

Unless we receive orders to stop the paper sooner, we continue the Cynosure a full month after the time expires. Those wishing their paper discontinued are requested to notify us AT THE TIME THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS EXPIRE.

ADDRESS all letters with subscriptions or orders for books, tracts, and donations to the tract fund, to Ezra A. Cook & Co., No. 13 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

How to Send Money.

Post office orders, checks or drafts on Chicago or towns east of Chicago, and currency by express may be sent at our risk. If it is not possible to send by either of the four ways named, money in a registered letter may be sent at our risk, but it is not as safe.

Agents Wanted!

TO SELL THE PUBLICATIONS OF

EZRA A. COOK & CO.

Liberal Terms Offered.

Capable persons who are in need of pecuniary aid may clear

Handsome Profits,

While at the same time aiding the cause of Reform. Apply to EZRA A. COOK & CO., No. 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1 square, 1 insertion,		$3.00
1 square (1 inch deep) one month		7.00
1 " "	2 "	10.00
1 " "	3 "	15.00
1 " "	6 "	25.00
1 " "	12 "	40.00

Discount for Space.

On 2 squares 5 per cent, On 3 squares 10 per cent
On 4 " 15 " " On 5 " 20 "
On ¼ col. 25 per cent On one col. 30 per cent

$3 GOLD PLATED WATCHES. Cheapest in the known world. Sample Watch Free to Agents. Address, A. COULTER & Co., Chicago.

SOMETHING NEW.

A CHART OF MASONRY

Showing the degrees from the first to the thirty-third, entitled

Degrees of Ancient Accepted Scottish Freemasonry,

According to a Manual by Wm. M. Cunningham 33d Degree.

Designed by Rev. P. Stoddard, to explain Freemasonry, as shown by Morgan's Exposition and Richardson's Monitor.

A Neat Lithograph 22x28 Inches.

Single copies finely colored, post paid	$ 7[illegible]
Per dozen " " " "	5 00
Per 100 " " " " Express charges extra	35 00
Single copy, colored, varnished and mounted postpaid	1 00
Per dozen colored, varnished and mounted, post paid	7 50
Per 100, colored, varnished and mounted, express charges extra	50 00

25 COPIES OR MORE SENT AT THE 100 RATES.

Masonic Books.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

☞ All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Those who wish to know the character of Freemasonry, as shown by its own publications, will find many standard works in the following list.

No sensible Mason dares deny that such men as Albert G. Mackey, the great Masonic Lexicographer, and Daniel Sickels, the Masonic author and publisher, are the highest Masonic authority in the United States.

All the books advertised here are used by Masons, but Duncan's Ritual, Allyn's Ritual and Richardson's Monitor, are not publicly acknowledged as Masonic authority, because they tell too much.

WEBB'S MONITOR O FREEMASONRY.

LARGE Edition, with Notes by ROB. MORRIS. Price, $1.50. Pocket Edition, 75 Cts.

FEMALE MASONRY.

MANNUAL OF THE ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR.

Containing the Ritual, Symbols Lectures etc., of the five Degrees of "Adoptive Masonry:" Jeptha's Daughter; Ruth, Esther, Martha and Electa, profusely illustrated and handsomely bound.

Price .....$1 [illegible]

SICKELS' FREEMASON'S MONITOR,

CONTAINING the Degrees of Freemasonry embraced in the Lodge, Chapter, Council, and Commandery, embellished with nearly 300 symbolic Illustrations, together with Tactics and Drill of Masonic Knighthood. Also, forms of Masonic Documents, Notes, Songs, Masonic dates, Installations, etc. By D. SICKELS; 32 mo. Tuck. Price. $1.50. Cloth, $1.

GENERAL AHIMAN REZON AND FREEMASON'S GUIDE.

BY DANIEL SICKELS, 33°

The most perfect Masonic Monitor published in the United States. Embellished with nearly 300 Engravings, and Portrait of the Author, Containing Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow-Craft, and Master Mason, with Explanatory Notes and Lectures; with the Ceremonies of Consecration and Dedication of New Lodges, Installation of Officers, Laying Foundation Stones, Dedication of Masonic Halls, Burial Services, Masonic Calendar, Ritual for a Lodge of Sorrow, Masonic Trials, etc. Bound in fine cloth extra, large 12mo.....$2.00

DUNCAN'S MASONIC RITUAL AND MONITOR,

PROFUSELY Illustrated with Explanitory Engravings, and containing the entire Ritual and work of the Order for the Seven Degrees, including the Royal Arch. Scores of Masons have privately admitted that this is a Standard Text-Book in the Lodge, and is strictly correct; but publicly it is not acknowledged as authority, though almost every officer of the Lodge makes use of it. Price in cloth. $2.50.

MACKEY'S MANUAL OF THE LODGE.

Or Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, with Ceremonies Relating to Installations, Dedications, Consecrations, Laying of Corner stones, etc. Price, $2.

Allyn's Ritual of Masonry,

ILLUSTRATED by a large number of Engravings, and containing a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, Orange and Odd-fellows' Societies. Price, $5.00.

MACKEY'S LEXICON OF FREEMASONRY,

CONTAINING a Definition of Terms, Notices of its History, Traditions, and Antiquities, and an Account of all the Rites and Mysteries of the Ancient World. 12 mo,; 526 pages; $3.

MACKEY'S TEXT-BOOK

Of Masonic Jurisprudence,

ILLUSTRATING the Laws of Freemasonry, both written and unwritten. This is the Great Law Book of Freemasonry—570 pages. Price. $2.50.

MACKEY'S MASONIC RITUALIST;

or Monitorial Instruction Book, BY ALBERT G. MACKEY.

PAST General High Priest of the General Grand Chapter of the United States, Knight of the Eagle and Pelican, Prince of Mercy, etc. Price, Cloth, $1.25; Tuck, $1.75.

MOORE'S MASONIC TRESTLE BOARD.

THIS work was originally prepared by order of the National Masonic Convention held at Baltimore, Md., in 1843. It is known among Masons everywhere as the "BLUE BOOK," and has long been considered a standard work. Price, $1.75.

TRUE MASONIC CHART; OR, HIEROGLYPHIC MONITOR.

BY JEREMY L. CROSS, Grand Lecturer.

With a Memoir and Portrait of the Author, Containing all the Emblems explained in the Degrees of entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason. Designed and arranged agreeably to the Lectures.

12mo. Cloth.....$1 50

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry.

A PRACTICAL Guide to the Ceremonies in the Degrees conferred in Masonic Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated edition. In cloth, $1.25: paper, 75 Cts.

Although this Monitor is extensively used in the Lodge, especially in Conferring the higher degrees, it is publicly called an "exposition," and not allowed as authority.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

"In Secret Have I Said Nothing."—Jesus Christ.

EZRA A. COOK & CO., PUBLISHERS, NO. 13 WABASH AVENUE.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, AUGUST 23, 1877.

VOL. IX., No. 47.—WHOLE NO. 387. WEEKLY (post paid) $2.20 A YEAR.

Contents.

	Page
TOPICS OF THE TIMES	1
EDITORIALS:
Progress of the Discussion	8
N. C. A. Directors' Meeting	8
CONTRIBUTED AND SELECTED:
Our Foreign Letter	2
Break down the Barricades	2
Letters to Keystone Lodge No. 6. (Concluded)	2
The Templars of Honor and Temperance	3
Secret Societies Inconsistent with Christianity	3
REFORM NEWS:
The Crown Point Meetings	4
CORRESPONDENCE:
Vacation Notes; Cabalistic Mummery; Was it Ecclesiastical Justice or Masonic? Among the Germans of Pennsylvania; Lodge Deviltry at Lima, O.; The Power of Jesuitry; From the Neighborhood of Valley Forge; Masonic Benevolence; Our Mail	4,5,6
Knights of Pythias Ritual	12
Home Circle	10
Children's Corner	11
Home and Farm	7
Sabbath School	11
Religious Intelligence	9
News of the Week	9
Publishers' Department	16

Notices.

INDIANA STATE CONVENTION.

The fifth annual State convention of Indiana, opposed to secret societies, will meet at Plainfield, Hendricks county, October 17, 1877, commencing on the evening of the 17th at 7 o'clock and closing on the evening of the 19th. Edmond Ronayne and other prominent speakers are expected. It is confidently expected that all the county associations of the State will be fully represented, and all lovers of the cause of Christ will make the necessary sacrifice to meet with us. Come in the name and in the strength of the Lord Jesus. By order of the Ex. Committee.

PETER RICH, Chairman.

THE TENTH NAT'L CONVENTION.

of the National Christian Association will be held in Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 23rd to 25th next, beginning on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 23rd with a preliminary meeting for social converse and prayer in the afternoon of the same day. Let every friend of the reform do what he may be able for the success of this meeting: by arranging his affairs so as to be present; or, assisting to send a delegate; by having the editor of his local paper print the notice of the meeting; by suggesting some topic for practical discussion to the programme committee; but, above all, by prayer to God for his blessing upon the meeting. Let every local or auxiliary association arrange to be represented.

WISCONSIN STATE MEETING.

The annual meeting of the State Christian Association of Wisconsin auxilary to the National Christian Association opposed to secret societies, will be held at Baraboo, Sauk county, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, September 25th, 26th and 27th. The convention will be called to order at 2 P. M. on Tuesday, 25th. Rev. J. P. Stoddard, General Agent, and other distinguished speakers will be present. Mr. E. Ronayne will also attend and publicly work the Masonic degrees. Let every friend throughout the entire State work with such zeal and energy as to make this the best meeting of the kind ever held in Wisconsin and to secure ample means for carrying on this important work with renewed vigor.

E. L. HARRIS, Pres't.
U. D. LATHROP, Sec'y.

THE ILLINOIS STATE ASSOCIATION,

Will hold its annual Convention at Streator, LaSalle county, beginning December 4th. Just after Thanksgiving the friends will be ready to begin the winter campaign. The churches will soon then open their protracted meetings. Let us hold such a meeting as will assure every Christian pastor that this reform can be taken up in the midst of his revival work with a blessing on himself and his church. Let all prepare for this meeting.

PAST MASTER RONAYNE is to be at Marshalltown, Iowa, (God willing) on the 10th, 11th and 12th of September. He can stay in that State ten days longer. Friends in other localities will please write him at once to 104 Bremer street, Chicago, that arrangements may be made for other lectures and exposes; $40 will pay all expenses. He desires to hear soon from friends in Indiana, so as to leave immediately for that field, beginning at Crown Point, on his way from the Wisconsin State meeting about Oct. 1st.

Topics of the Time.

The Philadelphia Exhibition did not pay and a new management was brought forward by the election of Mr. John S. Morton as president of the Board of Directors. Last Sabbath he threw open the grounds to the public, and gave a "Sacred Concert" to sweeten the sin, draw professing Christians, upon whose shoulders to lay the burden of any fault-finding. Where did Mr. Morton get his ideas of Sabbath-keeping? He is president of a street car line. That is explanation enough of his convictions regarding the day, if we were not told farther that his tracks ran to the Exhibition grounds.

The Bennington Centennial and President Hayes have just given Vermont a famous week. Last Wednesday and Thursday the region around the famous battle ground, where John Stark got his glory and saved his "Molly" from widowhood, was teeming with ten thousands of visitors who overflowed dwellings, barns, and wood sheds until the country resembled an army bivouac. The enthusiasm was as big as the crowd and the popular ovation to the President just as great as if he had no policy to be quarrelled over by politicians. From Brattleboro he drove out twelve miles to Fayetteville to his uncle Austin Burchard's, the veteran Anti-mason of Windham county, from whom it is hoped he received some good advice upon the relations of the secret orders to our national affairs. The President visits the White Mountains this week, returning on Thursday to his work in Washington.

People have come to look with distrust on Indian wars. Modoc Jack and Sitting Bull were not insensible to such provocations as have roused other men into what we are pleased to call heroism. Reasoning from analogy, causes have been looked for in chief Joseph's rebellion. The Nez Perces have been a peaceable tribe for seventy years, though suffering from breaches of government treaties. Their reservation was overrun by white settlers and occupied, and a Congressional commission decided in their favor four years ago over a disputed tract. Collisions of course became frequent and the Indians suffered, but had no redress until they moved to take it by force. Says a leading New York journal: "The desperate rising of a free, warlike and uncivilized people against unsupportable wrong done by its professed guardian has been the natural and necessary result of Congressional neglect in refusing appropriations and legislations necessary to fulfil the solemn obligations of Government. It has been prophesied with reiterated warning in successive printed reports of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs and his agents, for twenty-two years, which have been vainly urged upon the attention of Congress and its appropriate committees; so that the responsibility is more definitely fixed in this instance than can often be the case in Indian disputes, when the question may be complicated by the errors or misconduct of officers and of the tribes themselves." From another source come reasons of another kind, though not incompatible. Wm. H. Gray, who has spent years in the territories, says that the Indians under the influence of Romish priests are those who are perpetually on the war-path; Protestant Indians never join in wars against the government, and the prime movers in the present difficulties of the Nez Perces are the Catholics of the tribe Whatever motives caused them to make war the Indians are likely to be annihilated before they get through Montana; but if this comes through the injustice of our nation, we must not expect that a righteous God will forget to require it of us.

Bad faith in the national government is the preparation for bad faith in the States. If it oppresses its poor, they will their's, and do; for that only can the measures just taken by the South Carolina Legislature towards the black race, in the face of Hampton's profuse promises be called. Though forming three-fifths of the population of the State, ignorance is a greater disadvantage to them than lack of numbers to the whites, and, politically, they are entirely in the back ground. They were promised fair dealing and equal privileges with other voters; but Hampton's Democratic Legislature has struck a deadly blow at a fundamental popular right by its action against the public school system. By this action the Normal School for the training of teachers is broken up, special State taxes for education are abolished and the power of levying a local tax for the purpose taken away, and two hundred colored students are driven from the State University as the Professors were left without salary. This means perpetual subjugation of the blacks and fortification of the color line. It means "State suicide" and menace of the friends of the colored race. Have we not yet paid the debt of slavery?

If the farmer had hopes before, he has now a joyful realization. The prospect of a large grain crop so favorable during the growing season has no disappointment as the bursting bags and groaning granaries everywhere witness. Twenty to twenty-five bushels of wheat and from sixty to a hundred of oats to the acre is the report from Wisconsin and Minnesota, and it is estimated that from the latter State alone nearly twenty-five million bushels of wheat will be exported. While there is general rejoicing at this abundance, when the globe swings round the Indies to the sun each new day adds to the long-drawn misery of starving millions, whose parched rice fields leave them no hope of life but from the hand of charity. The famine district now is in the provinces of Madras and Mysore and is peopled with eighteen million human beings—nearly half the population of our country. The increasing severity of the famine is beyond the means of the local government to supply though a million and a half are being fed either by simple charity or partial employment. Over half a million have died, and some estimate that more are found dead every morning in the streets of Madras than perished in the whole Bengal famine of a few years ago, and this grievous state must continue for a half year to come. The passenger trains are being withdrawn to give way to those bearing food, and appeals are made to the cities of Great Britain for help. The stricken districts are more accessible than in the Bengal famine when the British government used every humane effort with great success. The only reason for her tardiness now that can be imagined is the Premier's jealousy of Russia, which absorbs the means and energy of the nation in warlike preparations for the defense of England's honor. What she will gain by such means she will ten times lose by neglect of India.

Our Foreign Letter.

The Austrian Capital—Its Streets and Cafes, Palaces and Parks—Dog barbers—Reminiscences of Napoleon's greatest Victory—The farm lands of Bohemia.

Vienna claims upwards of a million of inhabitants. It consists of an inner city, small (between 60,000 and 80,000 inhabitants) and exceedingly attractive, immediately surrounded by extensive suburbs, mainly unattractive. The main channel of the Danube does not enter the city. A small arm called the Danube canal bounds the inner city on the north, while the insignificant Wien flowing in a narrow gorge with precipitous sides and hardly worthy of the name of river bounds the inner city on the east. The most prominent building in the city is St. Stephen's church, a beautiful gothic cathredal, erected between the year 1300 and 1510. Many of the magnificent churches of Europe were of slow growth. Its present striking and most beautiful tower, 453 feet in hight, is a recent structure, the former one having been taken down on account of its being unsafe. The street of Vienna for handsome shops is the "Graben;" for princely edifices, the Ring. The former is a short and wide street near St. Stephens about a block and a half in length. The latter is a street of immense width, encircling the whole octagonal inner city. As in Paris so in Vienna the cafes are a noticeable feature. In most of them one gets limited portions of coffee, chocalate, etc., of most excellent quality at prices variable, on the whole rather dear. (In Paris if one pays high he at least gets something.)

The imperial palace is a pile of buildings, old and very extensive, but unimposing. I visited the royal treasury. The display of diamonds, brilliants and gold was somewhat dazzling. Here were the private jewels of the Austrian imperial family, the crowns of the Emperor and Empress, sceptres, imperial globe, etc. Among the jewels was the celebrated Florentine diamond, 133 1-15 carats weight, valued at £57,449 sterling, once the property of Charles the Bold of Burgundy. There were also historical curiosities, the crown, coronation robe, sceptre, sword, girdle and imperial globe of Charlemange; the horoscope of Wallenstein; the insignia of Napoleon I. as king of Italy, etc. The parks of Vienna are numerous and tastefully laid out. They add much to the appearance of the city.

Near the Ferdinand's bridge, on the banks of the lesser Danube in the centre of the city, I noticed a number of individuals, some men and women, engaged in the washing and shearing business—not sheep but of dogs. Stylish ladies and gentlemen would bring their little and large pets, and in due time they would be either washed clean by persons well supplied with soap and sponge, or sheared as closely as if they had never known a coat of hair.

From the Kahlenberg and Leopoldsberg, wooded hills a few miles north of the city, I obtained an excellant view of Vienna and the broad and level plain where were fought the battles of Aspern and Wagram, in the latter of which the Austrian army sustained a most disastrous defeat. At Schonbrunn, several miles southwest of Vienna is situated an Imperial Chateau completed under Maria Theresa in 1775, and which was the head quarters of Napoleon First in 1804 and 1809, there also his son, the Duke of Reichstadt, died July 22nd, 1832, in the room formerly occupied by his father. The view of Vienna from an eminence in the rear of the extensive gardens is also fine. Taken altogether it occupies, I should say, much less ground than does the city of Chicago.

From Vienna to Prague, the capitol of Bohemia, was a tiresome ride in a northwesterly direction, of ten hours, through country mainly uninviting. Excepting some hills and occasional forests the road lay through an almost unbroken succession of grain fields. There were some meadows also along the line. The country was tolerably well cultivated, the fields of more than customary size and the land sparsely populated. The soil was not so fertile as that of Germany. Several small children chanced to be in my compartment and by their refusing at times all attempts at consolation gave spice and variety to what would otherwise have been, a monotonous as well as long day's ride.

B. T. Pettengill.

Break Down the Barricades.

BY H. H. HINMAN.

The villages in West Africa are often surrounded by a strong double barricade which is carefully guarded and presents ample protection from any attack by the natives. The inhabitants of these walled villages, feeling secure, often grow oppressive and commit depredations on the weaker villages and sometimes on civilized communities, and the English colony of Sierra Leone has often been obliged to interfere and redress the wrongs thus committed. To obtain security from the wrong-doers they always demand that the barricades be broken down. No promises of amendment will avail anything so long as they can hide themselves and be protected in their robberies; nor will any penalties short of this, secure good behaviour.

In our country, the place of security in crime is the lodge, the barricade is the oath of secrecy. From these secret haunts come forth the Ku-Klux and Molly Maguires and murder people almost as they choose. A few weeks since eleven of the Molly Maguires were hung for murder, but it did not stop their killing, and it is said that the order has murdered not less than thirteen persons in the last few days.

A single secret society, the Trainman's Union, inaugurated a series of strikes which have resulted in the the destruction of millions of property and hundreds of lives.

What punishment will be meted out, remains to be seen, but experience abundantly shows that no amount of punishment will suppress the acts of violence done by these secret organizations.

The remedy and the only remedy is to break down the strongholds of secrecy.

Let the words of our great statesman, Daniel Webster, be embodied in our statutes, and we may expect to have peace: "All secret associations, the members of which take upon themselves extraordinary obligations to one another, and are bound together by secret oaths are naturally sources of jealousy and just alarm to others, are especially unfavorable to harmony and mutual confidence, and are dangerous to the cause of civil liberty and good government. It is my opinion that the future administration of such oaths and the formation of such obligations should be prohibited by law." (Dan'l Webster in 1835.)

Letters to Keystone Lodge, No. 6.

THE PREPARATION ROOM—CONTINUED.

But let us subject one of your candidates to a little cross-examination for a moment and see what explanation he is able to give of his extraordinary conduct in relation to this matter. We shall take Mr. King for example, as we meet him in the "preparation room" on the night of his initiation.

"Well, Mr. King, I understand you're to be made a Mason tonight?"

"Yes, sir, I am."

"Do you know anything at all about Freemasonry, whether it is good or bad?"

"Nothing whatever, sir. I never read anything on the subject."

"But don't you know something about its ancient usages and established customs?"

"I know nothing whatever about any 'customs' or 'usuages' of Freemasonry, but after I get in I guess I shall know all about it."

"Well, but these fellows will make you declare upon your honor before witnesses 'that you will cheerfully conform to all the ancient usages and established customs of the fraternity,' and how can you honestly and consistently do that unless you are already aware of what these 'usages and customs' are?"

"Oh, well as to that, I am joining Masonry with the view of benefitting myself in some way or other and of course I'll answer and promise anything I'm required in order to be admitted?"

"Yes, but you must also 'declare upon your honor' that that you are not seeking admission into the lodge from any mercenary motive; what then?

Your immaculate and honorable candidate will not answer this; he stands before you a self-conuicted liar. Now what are you going to do with him? Will you turn him out and so lose fifty dollars to the lodge fund besides his yearly dues and his personal moral support thereafter? And yet the Masonic lecture falsely asserts on that same evening that "to be good and true is the first lesson we are taught in Masonry." See Ronayne's Hand Book, p. 48. There are just three things which every man must do before he is made a Mason; in fact they constitute the most important part of the initiatory ceremony: 1st, He must deceive; 2nd, He must lie; and 3rd, He must swear to a lie. He must deceive the brethren as to his real motive; he must lie to the secretary and deacon in the prepartion room, and he must swear to a lie when he takes his obligation. The candidate for Masonic honors(?) must, according to Masonic law and usage, do that in the "preparation room" which he would positively refuse to do under any other circumstances. There is not a single member of the whole Masonic fraternity; there is not a single business man on the top of this round earth who would sign his name to the very smallest scrap of writing without first learning what it contained or reading what it was. There is not a merchant in this city nor throughout the whole country who would sign his name to a number of blank checks for other people to fill them out at their leisure and according as their fancy or selfishness may dictate. And yet this is precisely what Freemasonry requires each and every candidate to do when he is requested to declare upon his honor before witnesses that no matter what the laws and usuages of the fraternity may be he will "cheerfully conform" to them all. But now allow me to enumerate a few of these "ancient usages and established customs" to which your candidate so unqualifiedly pledges his honor to conform. He must strip off all his clothing and be dressed in the old lodge-drawers a hoodwink is securely fastened over his eyes; a rope around his neck or his right arm or his body; his legs knees and arms bare, with the old slipshod slipper thrown in by way of variety. Then he must submit to be lead around the room in this blind-man's-buff style; be knocked down by the setting Maul of Jubulum, rolled up in an old canvass, be buried after a mock fashion, shamming death and pretending to stink. Then a little further on he must submit to be kicked and cuffed by the knees and knuckles of his worthy and worshipful companions when trudging under the "living arch" in the chapter, and have his shins blistered and his feet bruised and battered while playing the tramp on the "rough and rugged road" between Babylon and Jerusalem. What a spectacle, my brethren, a minister of the Gospel must present when thus acting the Masonic clown while he "conforms to the ancient usages and established customs." Then again, cutting the throat from ear to ear and tearing out the tongue by the roots, tearing the left breast open and plucking out the heart, and cutting the body in two, taking out the bowels, burning them to ashes and scattering these ashes to the four winds of heaven are a few more of the delightful "usages" and "time-honored customs" of your high moral system. See Ronayne's Hand Book, p. 115—117. But why persue these sickening details any further. Enough has been already said to show the utter sham, the fraud, the iniquity, and the blasphemy of both your candidate and your diabolical system. Think over this matter my brethren, examine it in all bearings according to your opportunity; be no longer led by designing guides ten times blinder than yourselves; throw off the shackles which now bind you to the most gigantic system of frivolity, folly and fraud on the face of the earth. Masons all over the land high both in official position and in the number of degrees taken, are almost daily renouncing this vile superlative humbug and it would give me very great pleasure indeed to know that many of you whom I initiated into and instructed in Freemasonry (though at the same time I advised you to shun it) had once more resumed your place among free men and followed my example in throwing off your galling yoke. May God open the eyes of my Masonic brethren throughout the country that they may be led to see the folly and sin of supporting this horrid iniquity and so have no further "fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness."

Yours, &c.,

E. RONAYNE.

THE TEMPLAR'S OF HONOR AND TEMPERANCE—A REMARKABLE LETTER.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 4, 1877.

DEAR CYNOSURE: I have taken your paper for several months and I intend to stand by the cause it represents until the victory is ours. It may be weary waiting, but the result is sure. I know of no better way to gain the victory than by supporting your paper and extending its circulation, which it is my purpose to do. But I am situated in the enemies own country, Freemasonry having a firm grip on the soil of Rhode Island.

I never was a Freemason, but I joined the Temple of Honor in 1870. I was induced to join it by the assurance that it was simply a moral institution and that my religion would not be interfered with. For five years I believed this lie and was deceived thereby, and was in darkness as regards the real aim of the order. During that time I was an active member of my temple and continually in office. I was sometimes asked if the Temple of Honor was not a religion in itself and always unhesitatingly answered, No! My known activity and official position undoubtedly gave some weight to my expressed opinion. Some may have considered it as authoritative in such a matter. Yet my answer in every case was wrong. I supposed I knew, but I was deceived.

I was undeceived in this way: I attended a public installation meeting held in Pawtucket, R, I., in the spring of 1875, where the presiding officer, the Sister Grand Templar made the remark, "The Temple of Honor is second to no other institution on earth, not even the church;" and assumed further that "all good templars would meet at last in the Grand Temple above." Grand Temple officers in speeches following supported the sentiment and no dissenting voice was heard. My eyes were opened then, thank God, and I acted at once upon the light which I there received. Among other things which I did, I offered for adoption in the Grand Temple the following preamble and resolutions:

WHEREAS, The sentiment seems to be gaining ground that the order of the Templars of Honor and Temperance is second to no other institution on earth, not even the church; also, that a templar true to his vows and obligations, will merit heaven; therefore

Resolved, That we, the Grand Temple of Rbode Island, have no sympathy with the above sentiment, believing that the Temple of Honor has received no authority from the Heavenly King to make subjects for his kingdom, nor has it any power to offer to any of its members the heavenly gift of salvation.

Resolved, That we deprecate the exhibition of the sentiment under consideration in public or in open temple, believing that the publishing abroad of such a sentiment will be most disastrous to our cause.

Not adopted.

As far as I could observe I was the only one who voted in favor of the adoption of the resolutions. During the discussion I was told that I would understand all about it if I would take the Select Templar degree. I was more convinced than ever on leaving this session that the order taught and trusted in a way of their own devising for salvation, and placed their institution of a few years growth before the churches of Christ instituted eighteen hundred years ago!

On reaching my home I examined the only standard work of the order I am acquainted with: the Manual of the Templars of Honor and Temperance, by Rev. Geo. B. Jocelyn, D.D., Past Most Worthy Templar, 1869, from which I make the following extracts:

P. 116. "In labors like these may we toil through the stages of life's varied journey, performing our duty with usefulness to our race and honor to ourselves; and when our heart and our flesh shall fail us may we each be found an approved pillar in the temple on high and eternal."

P. 80. "Cherish these virtues [Brotherly love, Patience, Perseverance, Long Suffering, Humility and Holy Charity] and you shall receive your reward here and hereafter. Brothers shall grasp you by the hand and because you have patiently persevered amid contempt and contumely, and humbly labored for the success of the right the blessings of the poor shall attend you through life while he who numbers the hairs of your head shall crown you with immortal life beyond the grave."

The following corresponds to the Select Templar degree (the highest degree):

P. 143. "This is but a type of the sanctuary of that Upper Temple whose dome rises in the heaven of heavens, that haven of eternal rest, security and happiness which God has built for the holy and the pure. There, when the conflict is over and the victory gained, each faithful [faithful to temple obligations] Templar shall lay aside his armor and his lance and in the midst of his toil-worn but successful companions receive the crown of immortality and reign with him whose presence makes heaven and whose smile constitutes the bliss of the redeemed."

This evidence I considered beyond question and shortly after withdrew from the order, believing it to be a child of the devil, an anti-Christ, and no proper place of resort for the child of God.

I have lately learned that all these minor secret organizations are children of the "old handmaid" patterned after that abomination, and see but one course for the Christian to pursue toward them all, viz.: To oppose them to the end.

Yours truly,

ALBERT M. PAULL,
7 Steeple Street.

SECRET SOCIETIES INCONSISTENT WITH CHRISTIANITY.

BY REV. W. P. MCNARY.

I. Because they cultivate and develope the worst parts of our nature, that which Christianity teaches us to "crucify."

(a) They cultivate the habit of secretiveness. The jewel of Masonary, the Silent tongue, is symbolical of the teaching of all secret societies. Keeping of secrets is the greatest of virtues, and the divulging of secrets the greatest of crimes with most of these orders. The Bible says. "He that doeth evil hateth the light neither cometh to the light lest his deeds be reproved." "but he that doeth truth cometh to the light." Job. 24: 15: "The eye of the adulterer waiteth for the twilight saying, No eye shall see me and they knew not the light, for the morning is to them as the shadow of death." What is true of the adulterer is true of the thief, the murderer, the drunkard; "for they that are drunken are drunken in the night." On the other hand openness, frankness, is characteristic of a virtuous man. It is a characteristic we all want to teach to our children, that we all want to cultivate in ourselves. Secretiveness was the first manifestation of sin in the world, it caused Adam to try to hide himself from God. It is the offspring of depravity, a disposition which all men ought to strive against; but this depraved spirit is the very trait that secretism strives hardest to inculcate.

(b.) They cultivate habits of intrigue.

The spirit of intrigue is the bane of society. Politics are controlled by caucuses; corporations by rings; church policies by the secret councils of the few. Every thing is manipulated by intrigue. Merit is taken no account of. Fair dealing is regarded as stupidity. Men laugh at merit when their ends can be obtained by less laborious and less honorable means of trickery.

Now secret societies are nothing else but "rings" in society. Men think through their agency to obtain by secret plotting and co-operation what they cannot get upon their own merit. This disposition is natural to man perhaps, because men are sinners. But while Christianity is striving to make men practice "whatsoever things are just, whatsover things are honest," whatsoever things are fair between man and man, secretism is trying by all its influence to teach men to seek their own selfish ends by scheming and log-rolling, thereby developing and cultivating another of the worst traits of our depraved nature.

(c.) They cultivate habits deception.

By enjoining upon its members a solemn obligation to keep all the affairs of the society secret, they place them in such a position that they are compelled habitually to deny facts, or at least to mislead others with reference to facts, or violate their obligations.

A few days ago a gentleman told me that he joined the Grand Templars before he was converted. Before he was a member twenty-four hours he met an outsider who gave him the password. "What could I do," he said, "but deny it. To have evoked the issue would have been a virtual revelation of the secret. So I lied it straight through." "When they had the wrong word I did not deny it, but when they had the right word I denied it every time." It is universally known that the secrets of almost all societies are being revealed every day and will be while men are men, and what can the remaining members do but confess the truth and thus violate their obligation or deny the truth? Besides this it is universally known that nearly all (if indeed I might not say all) secret societies have a real object that is not the ostensible object, and therefore all their members are in the position of standing in a false light before the world; doing things in the dark, doing things in secret. Indeed secret societies can have no other object than to deceive the world, and therefore it may be said of all secretism that it is a school of deception.

II. Because they promote strife and contention.

It is vainly claimed by nearly all secret societies that they promote friendship, love, charity. But there is nothing in the nature of these societies to promote these virtues. They have no system of instruction except such as are dead formulas, to be read or recited in their lodge. They have no common bond of sympathy such as is calculated to promote real friendship. No principles to contend for, their only bond is the selfish bond of mutual help and protection against outsiders, and that very bond is a source of suspicion. When men combine together to deceive and take advantage of others, they cannot in the very nature of the case have confidence in each other. All the benevolence of secret societies is purely selfish and for selfish motives their members enter into these societies. The result is just as we would expect, they do not live in harmony. A member of the Odd-fellow's society of Princeton, Ind., told me he had been in two lodges and it was constant contention and strife, every man and each little clique within the lodge trying to promote personal interest, and for that reason he quit them. When secret societies are attacked by outsiders they usually stand together but that is no evidence of harmony within. In fact some of the worst feuds in community are usually between men of the same secret fraternity. The formation of cliques, parties or sects is always promotive of more or less animosity. But this animosity is one hundred fold magnified when they are secret, because of the mutual suspicion thereby engendered. As long as rivalry and opposition is open and frank it is consistent with friendship, but when it is covert and underhanded it necessarily creates suspicion and the worst form of animosity. Moreover, the bitterness of the animosity manifested by secret societies toward all that oppose them effectually destroys all their pretended charity; but on the other hand the obligations of at least some secret societies make it obligatory upon their members to persecute all who may reveal their secrets, and by common consent they include all that oppose their interests, thereby engendering strife and animosity wherever they exist.

III. Because they encourage crime by giving an opportunity to commit it with impunity.

Yorick tells of a man who was philosophizing with himself about the way he fell into a great sin. He said that he had twenty per cent. of conscience, three per cent. regard for his good name, but on the other side there was seventy-seven per cent. of opportunity. The greatest possible temptation to sin is the opportunity to indulge in it without being suspected. Whatever good, or good intention secret societies may have, one thing is sure, they furnish a splendid opportunity for doing all kinds of evil without being discovered. While human nature remains as it is, such immunity will always be a dangerous temptation. Every conspiracy, every plot against society or the government, or a family, or a corporation, begins by forming a secret organization. Witness the Ku-klux, Knights of the Golden Circle, and similar associations. But every secret society is an organization ready made for any plot in which all the members of any lodge may agree. It was on this ground that General Washington in his farwell address warned the country against all secret societies,* and Daniel Webster said concerning Masonry: "From its very nature it is liable to great abuses," and that "all secret societies, the members of which take upon themselves extraordinary obligations to one another, and are bound together by secret oaths, are naturally sources of jealousy and just alarm to others."

We may say even some of the simplest and least objectionable secret societies are liable to abuse, and furnish a strong temptation to sin. Facts developed by some college faculties show that college fraternities are sometimes used to control college politics; sometimes as a cover for conviviality and drunkenness and sometimes for shielding its members in the gratification of lust.

So of all other secret societies. There is a great outcry against the bachelor club houses of the cities, because only men go there and under the cover of club meetings men practice the two great sins of city gentlemen, drunkenness and the indulgence of a worse appetite; but if these open club houses are dangerous to the morals of men, what can we say of secret associations that meet in third stories in the dark hours of the night, under such restrictions that it is almost an insult even for wife or mother to inquire what has been done within its secret precincts, and whose nightly meetings form a convenient cover for all kinds of nightly meetings out of sight of the influence of home.

I know a man in Leavenworth, Kansas, who was a notorious rake. But he was Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Odd-fellows of the State. Almost every night he would come home in the "wee sma' 'ours" of the morning, tired and worn out by his debauchery, and in answer to his wife's enquiries had only to say, "that he was at the lodge." Into that sacred precinct nor wife, nor mother, nor daughter had any right to pry, lest they be "meddling with what was none of their business." So that poor, deluded wife, proud of her "Grand Secretary," full of sympathy for his arduous labors, bathed his throbbing temples and soothed him to sleep; nor would she allow any one to wake him till he please in the morning. Any institution that forms such a convenient cover for the vile deeds of men is too great a temptation for average mortals and must in the very nature of the case be a fruitful source of evil.

*[In general terms, no' by name, unless Bro McNary is better informed than we. Ed. Cynosure]

Reform News.

—Bro. Hinman is in Page county, Iowa, where he will spend a month and then go to Freemont county adjoining on the west in the extreme south-west corner of the State. He stopped at New Sharon near Oskaloosa on his way to College Springs.

—Past Master Ronayne is yet in the city. There are several points where his presence is desired after the middle of September, and the appearance is that all will want to hire his eloquence and powerful delineation of lodge folly and sin at about the same time. Friends in Lee county, Iowa, and Crown Point, Ind., are preparing, we understand to call for him in a few days. They are wise to provide thus early.

The Crown Point Meetings.

Crown Point, Ind., Aug. 9, 1877.

Last Lord's-day morning, in the Presbyterian church, brother Stoddard preached an excellent sermon, in which he defined between true and false mysteries. In the evening he spread before us the great battle field where the hosts of hell are at war with the saints of God.

On Monday evening in the M. E. church, he preached a doctrinal and practical sermon on sovergienty and free-agency.

On Tuesday evening, according to previous announcement, he began the proper work of the Gospel minister, viz., the unmasking of the powers of darkness. Some of the leading Masons were present, they looked sober and thoughtful while the preacher held the attention of the audience an hour and three quarters, exposing the shameless hyprocrisies of the Masons, and showing the utter absurdity of their claim to the name of Christian. We saw that "Ancient and Honorable Institution" (?) as that great monstrous wooden idol Robinson Crusoe saw set up in a village of Russian Tartary as he passed by with the caravan. You remember the story, Robinson Crusoe was so moved with pity and indignation, at the thought of men falling down and worshiping such a hideous monster that on the following night when the caravan had halted, he took a companion from the caravan, and returning to the idol they stuffed it with gunpowder and other combustible materials, and then and there destroyed it. The fooleries and blasphemies of the Odd-fellows received a passing notice from the preacher.

On Wednesday evening in the same place, the Presbyterian church, another large and appreciative audience assembled. The subject was the despotism of Masonry. It was clearly shown, how Masonry having subdued her own subjects by debasing processes, reached over into other institutions and subjected them to her own despotic control. There was some laughter when he showed how the grandees of Masonry organized the grange and instructed plain-hearted farmers, the greenest of them, how to get over a style, how to jump over a ditch, etc. But as with rapid and eloquent utterance, he gradually unfolded the wicked, unlawfully despotic, and tyranical character of Masonry; and showed how she seduced her victims into the lodge by plausible lies, and having got them in, robbed them of their money, their domestic happiness, their manhood, their self-respect and their allegiance to their country, and how she disseminated men from her high ranks, all through other secret orders, churches, educational institutions, and State offices, aiming to control them all; gaining possession of arsenals and armories, preparing to subjugate the whole to her own supreme despotic control as soon as the field should become ripe for action, many eyes were indeed opened as they had never been opened before. But he saw the lightening of God's wrath coming upon it to blast it into a thousand thousand fragments. At the close we were glad to hear him say that brother Ronayne would soon come and open the lodge to the public in Crown Point.

But we want something more than all this honest and eloquent exposure. We want what the apostle Paul had when he "set his eyes upon Elymas the sorcerer and said, "Oh full of all subtilty and mischief, thou child of the devil, thou enemy of all righteousness, wilt thou not cease to pervert the right ways of the Lord?"

It will not do to call swindlers and thieves honest men and gentlemen; God will be angry with us if we do. But we must, if God permit by holy and godly lives, testify against these ambassadors of hell somewhat as Michael the archangel did when he said to the devil, "The Lord rebuke thee."

William Fenton.

Correspondence.

Vacation Notes.

Ohio, Bureau Co., Ill., Aug. 15, 1877,

Editor Cynosure;

Thinking that your readers might be interested in a few notes of overland travel, I have concluded to break over my purpose to give myself entirely to the enjoyment of a few days respite from all labor, and to the enjoyment of the society of old friends.

Leaving home in Wheaton we traversed a beautiful country, covered with a golden harvest just reaped, to Aurora and thence down the Fox river for many miles, subsequently passing through the railroad towns of Sandwich, Somonank, Earlville and Mendota, and stopping over night with friends at Dover. From thence we reached the thriving new town of Ohio, and subsequently visited Walnut. Everywhere we have seen abundant crops of small grain and vast expanses of waving cornfields that now bid fair to yield abundantly. Everything outward indicates material prosperity. This is a great country for stock, especially hogs, and every farmer has his herd of swine which are mostly of the Berkshire and Poland China breeds.

Tacitus says he is in doubt whether in anger or in favor the gods have denied the Germans gold and silver. However that may be, I have been pained to see going pari passu with this material prosperity, what seems to me increased degeneracy and immorality in the inhabitants. As men have more ability to do good, they have less disposition to do it. Our whole line of travel was lined with large posters, advertizing races, and we find many of the wealthy and respectable attending them with their families, and, if not engaging in pool betting, sanctioning the same by their presence. The rail-roads, that are not much inclined to help on any good cause, favor these schools of vice by reducing fares. The tobacco plague that we had hoped was somewhat curtailed in its ravages here, seems to infect old and young, and one has to go out of the villages to get a breath of God's pure air unpoisoned by this fearfully destructive narcotic. Professedly Christian men and even ministers do not hesitate to defile God's temple, their own bodies, in this way.

If we can trust the rumors that come to our ears, moral impurity seems to be on the increase.

There is no lack of churches professedly Christian but the "salt seems to have lost its savor." I have less and less faith in a Christianity that does not oppose everything that is wrong. What though such a Christianity does cause agitation? Agitation in the moral world as in the natural, is necessary to life. If there is anything that fears honest investigation set it down for a truth, that that needs investigation; and that the religion that opposes such investigation, provided that it be honest and open, is not the genuine article. In all this region although there are individuals that are opposed to the secret abomnations that are doubtless the cause of much of the corruption that is becoming more and more apparent, yet there is no one who says anything publicly against them so far as I have heard.

I have intended to get a package of Cynosures to distribute with a view of trying to get some subscribers, but forgot to do so before I left home. If you will send a small package to me at Princeton, I will see what I can do with them.

The little town of Ohio in which the Catholic is the largest church has voted the Bible out of the schools and set sail backward toward the darkness and despotism of the middle ages. It has two other churches but those twin enemies of truth and righteousness, Catholicism and infidelity, have overcome their feeble efforts and its children most not any longer in their daily instructions hear aught read from that Holy Book, out of which sprang directly our free institutions including our till now noble system of free schools.

O. F. Lumry.

Cabalistic Mummery.

What else is Freemasonry? Mummery is defined as "masking; sport; diversion; low amusement; buffoonery;" or "farcical show, hypocritical disguise and parade to delude vulgar minds." Cabal as a verb is, "To unite in a small party to promote private views by intrigue; to intrigue; to unite in secret artifices to effect some design."

The above words express much of the known genius and character of Masonry, and as cabalism was in some sort peculiar to the Jews, and the Jews as is claimed were Masons, Solomon a high Mason, etc., is not Masonry cabalism in the full meaning of the term; is it not "the study of the cabala or the mysteries of Jewish traditions," traditions which make void the Bible? 'Blue Lodge Masonry' commenced its serpentine course A. D. 1717, so Masonic authority authorizes us to say, and it has, as did the wicked Jews of old, its chosen sponsors, 'learned the ways of the heathen,' while not a vestige of it appears in the Bible. Human wisdom is its highest inspiration, a lust for power and advantage, nature's supreme selfishness its controlling animus. English and American Masonry, or yet the French kind, or the 'Scottish Rite' can claim an exclusive and protecting patent, for in China a sort of heathen Masonry is found as Forbes tells us. * * * Ronayne's work is a practical expose that can be appreciated and will leave an impression. Let the "grips" and "passwords" become the property of the boys of the streets and few would join this modern cabalistic fraternity. What need have Christians of Masonic rites, better be in the prayer meeting than the lodge room; better be doing Christian work than the work of a speculative Freemason, 'working the degrees' and all that mummery. Light is come and we don't have to perform a pilgrimage to the 'East' to obtain it. It flashes forth; it blazes east, west, north and south. Let the four winds of heaven speed it onward and let the "works darkness be reproved," disclosed, that others may not be deceived, and so cabalism end. Probably it will not while Satan is God of this world, but his day of doom hastens. The prince of darkness now reigns; he will not forever, thank God.

C. P. Dow.

Was it Ecclesiastical Justice or Masonic Justice.

Brighton, Mich., Aug. 4, 1877.

In the town of Webster, Washtenaw county, Mich., there has lived for many years an intelligent, well-to-do farmer, named H. M. Rorabacher, who has been a member and a liberal supporter of the M. E. church in Hamburg, Livingston county, Mich. This same Rorabacher is a conscientious Anti-mason, who does not believe in supporting Masonry in the pulpit, either by paying money to Masonic ministers or attending their ministrations. These facts will furnish a key to the following disgraceful proceedings, which I have no hesitation in pronouncing a shameful outrage on moral justice, as well as on ecclesiastical law. The following account of the outrage above referred to I have from the lips of Bro. Rorabacher, and in the community, or wherever he is known, there is no one whose word would be believed sooner than his.

Complaint was made against this brother and he was cited to trial on the 12th day of July last, to answer to the following charges:

1. "Habitual and wilful neglect of the means of grace."

2. "A refusal to contribute of his means according to his ability, for the support of the gospel."

W. W. Hendrick, Complainant; and a Masonic minister named Hagadorn, pastor, who presided on the trial.

The committee selected was such as might have been expected under the circumstances. The accused appeared at the time appointed and asked for an adjournment for the reasons: First, want of time; the accused being in the midst of harvest. Overruled by the Masonic chairman. The second plea for adjournment was the want of counsel. This plea was also set aside. The third plea was based on the absence of material witnesses, some of whom were sick and some in a distant part of the State. But this Masonic chairman found no difficulty in setting aside this plea also. Being thus forced to trial without counsel or witnesses, he proceeded to exercise his right of objecting to certain members of the committee. In one case it was claimed that there was personal ill feeling existing, but this was set aside as no valid objection. Another was a Mason, but a Masonic chairman could very readily decide that this was no disqualification; and still another was connected with the family who were the prime movers in the case, but all objections were unavailing. The committee had been chosen to do a certain work and they did it.

When called on for his defence the accused claimed the right to state to the committee the line of defence he proposed to pursue, but this privilege was denied him by the Masonic master who occupied the chair. After the complaining party had introduced all their testimony and rested their case, the accused having no witnesses of his own, claimed the right to use such as were present, and called on the chairman. He refused to testify. Others also, when called on, refused to testify, though they had been seemingly willing witnesses for the prosecution, and the chairman decided that there was no power to compel them to testify.

Finally, as the last act in the drama, while the accused was making his closing statement he was broken in upon by the chairman, who pronounced the case closed and gave it to the committee, who voted the charges sustained, and the accused was in due form expelled from the church. Availing himself of a disciplinary right, he appealed to the Quarterly Conference; but here again Masonry had a tyler in the person of Hagadorn, the Masonic pastor and chairman, and the appellant was denied the privilege of having the case reviewed by the Quarterly Conference, and consequently stands expelled from the M. E. church for the enormous crime of refusing to support Masonry, for the subject of this gross injustice is a regular attendant and liberal supporter of the ordinances of Christianity in his own as well as in other churches, wherever he can do so and maintain a "conscience void of offence."

The point I wish to raise is this: Must the members of the M. E. church support whoever comes to them as their pastor or lose their ecclesiastical heads? And one more question, that just now is occupying the attention of many in this region is this: Which is the higher authority in the M. E. church, Masonry or the discipline? I forbear comment. Facts speak for themselves. Let them be duly pondered.

D. A. Richards.

Among the Germans of Pennsylvania.

York, Pa., Aug. 9, 1877.

Editor Cynosure: I have just received a letter from our friend J. G. Stauffer of Milford Square, Bucks Co., Pa., in which he says:

"Yesterday the minister in our place preached a powerful sermon against secret societies. His text Ephesians v. from 6 to 13 verses. At the end of his sermon he said that his audience may say that he is against all secret societies and that he calls them the work of darkness. The house was full and some lodge brethren were present. The anti-secret sentiment is gaining among our Pennsylvania Germans; and I do all I can to get up an agitation. The strike helps me very much. A crowd in front of our store was talking about the riots and strikes, and one of our best business men said that he once belonged to two lodges but that now he would not have anything to do with any lodge, as they are all good for nothing and a great danger to our country. The crowd admitted he was right."

I hope our friend Stauffer will report progress soon again. And we will be pleased if the minister will report to the Cynosure at an early day. He certainly is giving the ministers of this ring-cursed State a noble example. Who will be the next hero to take a bold stand for the right?

Mr. Stauffer has two good German newspapers which often contain able articles on secret societies. These papers have a large circulation amongst our best German citizens, and any reader of the Cynosure who can write German will confer a favor and aid the reform by sending him an occasional article on the secrecy question.

We regard it as a good sign of the times that the business men are beginning to see that secret rings are the deadly foe of our Republic and its prosperity. All secret organizations destroy confidence, which is the vital force of all business enterprises. Yours truly.

E. J. CHALFANT.

LODGE DEVILTRY AT LIMA, O.

DEAR CYNOSURE:—Herewith I forward you a few facts, brought to the surface in the Lima church case, clearly showing the animus of the so-called General Council of the Lutheran Church and the Masonic lodge, in their attempt to rob a local Lutheran congregation of its church property.

1. The man who took the matter up against his pastor, because he renounced and denounced Odd-fellowship, and who threatened to divide the congregation provided he did not desist from speaking against secretism in the pulpit, is a high Mason, and, was at the time Worshipful (?) Master of the lodge.

2. The six men, including three Masons and one Odd-fellow, who broke into and took possession of our church, were headed by this same Worshipful (?) Master.

3. The schismatic trustee, sworn in as special constable, to guard the pilfered Church until the case could go to trial, is a Mason.

4. The judge of court before whom the case was tried is a Mason, and, as was expected, the decision was in favor of the schismatic Masonic Council faction.

5. An appeal was taken from the lower court.

6. District Court—three judges (including the one who presided in town court) on the bench—no decision could be arrived at "for want of time and the great bulk of documentary evidence to be examined. Court finally agreed to a pro formad affirmation of the decision of the court below.

7. Supreme Court of Ohio accepted the case on appeal, allowing the use of the church building to the secret society party, until final decision.

8. The Worshipful (?) Master seeing our determination to, if possible, to recover the stolen church, made final application to his lodge for pecuniary aid to carry on the the law-suit. The matter was duly considered by the craft in open lodge, and something like the following arrived at:

"As a lodge we cannot assist you in your laudable undertaking, but as individuals we can." Then followed one pledge after another from ardent members of the order, thus carrying out the Masonic obligation to defend a brother, right or wrong, murder and treason excepted.

In the face of the above which is not a tithe of the Satanic work of the lodge at Lima, Rev. Mechling, president of the Masonic Council District Synod of Ohio, says that secret societyism had nothing whatever to do with the church troubles at Lima.

Query; Has the man no conscience, or is he playing jack-Mason, in the name of the Lord, for bread and butter.

ITEMS.

A promising young man of my congregation was earnestly solicited to join the Freemasons by sundry members of that diabolical craft. He refused. They than offered to pay his initiation fee, provided he would join, whereupon he, deeply chagrined at their impudence, gave them a decided "no—never; unless I should lose my reason or self respect."

Recently two prominent Masons tried at different times and places, to make an impression in favor of the craft, and bring defeat and ruin to my congregation, while trying to recover our church property, asked two of our Trustees to join the Masonic lodge. They were only successful in more fully opening the eyes of the men to the cunning deviltry of Masonic Jesmitism.

A. S. BARTHOLEMEW.

THE POWER OF JESUITRY.

EDITOR CYNOSURE:

It was priest Jesuitry that wrought havoc upon the Christians of France by the wholesale slaughter of St. Bartholomew's day.

It is the Jesuitry of the lodge that has recently wrought havoc along the main railroad lines of the United States.

One of these forms of jesuitry was invented in Paris in 1539, and the other in London in 1717. Which is capable of the most injury to Christian society? How many murders has Calvinism ever produced? How does the account stand? Did not the Jesuitry of the lodge get up the war of Rebellion?

CONSTANT READER.

FROM THE NEIGHBORHOOD OF VALLEY FORGE.

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa., Aug. 12, 1877,

Secretism prevails here; our churches are ruled by it. Let any man try to obtain any one of them for lecture purposes and he will soon find out; two Masons can rule a church and others must submit. I am glad that greater efforts are to be made in this State; the good Lord strengthen those men who are in the work; men of prayer are not easily conquered, and we have all read of a Luther or Knox. It seems so strange that good men's minds are so blinded but it often takes a penetrating man to detect evil. I meet with good men who cannot see anything wrong in Odd-fellowship. Lately a leading man of the Presbyterian church being asked if he could see anything wrong in Masonry, replied that he could not; although it has cast their late pastor down and out of his church. Now, I would ask all the readers of the Cynosure, can you form an idea of the size of this work, of this reform? I see a large bill posted in this place telling us of a moonlight hop that is to come off at Valley Forge, and an oration on the same evening by Grand Secretary J. B. Nichols of Philadelphia, subject Odd-fellowship. How does that look for a society that is going to make men better! I was wishing I had some good sermon on the subject to hand to the orator at the close of his discourse, but I had none.

It must be a dark piece of business for a church member to attend such a "Hop" and then witness such an initiation as is given in Bernard's book; it seems to me that such a mind must become as dark as Odd-fellowship itself. If these few simple remarks should meet the eye of an Odd-fellow, I would say in the language used in reference to the case of Lot. "Hast thou here any besides sons and sons-in-law? Bring them out of this place."

WILLIAM BANKS.

MASONIC BENEVOLENCE.

Some years ago there lived at Larwill, Ind., the Rev. Mr. Harker, a Presbyterian minister who was a Freemason. At his death the Masons manifested great interest in him, obtained a costly metallic coffin, buried him in Masonic rites and left the estate to foot the bill. Joseph W. Adair being administrator and a brother Mason of the deceased collected the outstanding claims, and then wrote to the widow that there was just thirty-five cents coming to her after paying the claims against the estate; although he had collected $750 of one man and gave his receipt therefor. The widow put the matter into lawyer Hooper's hands and compelled said administrator to disgorge. This is a fair specimen of the way they inter their brethren with decency and proper respect.

B. B. SALMON.

OUR MAIL.

W. H. Hitchcock, Montrose, Iowa, writes:

"Brother Hinman came here and lectured four times in April, 1876. From that day up to the present I have not heard of any joining the lodge! Yet they say all such lectures are a good thing for them. How inconsistent! I tried hard to have them help bear the expenses since they were profited so much, but not a bit of it. How extremely selfish! I have set the ball in motion to get Ronayne to come soon and lecture in Fort Madison, Keokuk, Montrose and Charleston all in Lee county, Iowa. I begin to feel a good deal encouraged in this work, believing Freemasonry can be rooted out in ten years, if we continue steadfast in the good-begun work. It is already loosened from its moorings in this place. We must continue to wage war upon it unceasingly; this will prevent any proselyting to their order and it will of itself soon die out."

Rev. J. F. Galloway, Oakahumpkee, Fla., a former student at Wheaton College, writes:

"I can sympathize deeply with my Wheaton friends in their troubles, but it is pleasant to remember the blessing pronounced on those who are persecuted for righteousness' sake. * * I intend to try to organize a Sabbath school soon. If any of the friends have any second-hand papers or anything of the kind that would be useful to a new and unfurnished Sunday school in a new country, they would be most thankfully received."

A friend living near Atkinson, Ill., writes:

"I think lectures would do good in Atkinson, the field needs labor. * * I am very glad to learn that the decision in regard to Wheaton College was so favorable. I think a better day has dawned for Wheaton."

David T. Couch, Hayfield, Victoria, Australia, writes:

"The Cynosure is a paper that I think should be supported by every Christian and patriotic man. May it continue to shine as a lamp that burneth, exposing and holding up to execration the hideous deformities of the lodge—one of the most unchristian things under the sun, which is undermining both church and state, law and order. I am posting Cynosures to different parts of this colony and Sarmania in hopes that our young men may not be allured into the great meshes of the Masonic lodge net."

S. Pierce, Tassinong, Ind., writes:

"There is a Masonic lodge here and Masons and Jacks are plenty. But some of our best citizens begin to look and read and I can see they do not think so much of Freemasonry as usual. The Masons look rather cross at me although I tell them it is the issue I am down on, that I am very sorry that good men, especially preachers, are found in such company."

P. Corl, Big Spring, Cumberland Co., Pa., writes:

"In this corrupted age of lodge rule, the country needs just such a paper, to oppose the deviltry, hypocrisy and fraud of secret societies, both in the church and state. I have realized some of the workings of secrecy at our last annual conference. The Cynosure has a noble work to perform, it is out on a glorious mission and I hope and pray that it may not stop until its work is performed and mission completed."

E. N. Wood, Rushford, N. Y., writes:

"I am now over three score and twelve years. Have passed through Morgan's time and knew Elder Colver when he renounced the vile system of Freemasonry and pronounced it a great sin with thousands of others and what was wrong forty years ago is wrong to-day."

L. Wing, East Douglas, Worcester Co, Mass., writes:

"I cannot get along without the Cynosure to help in the battle against secretism, with its stealthiness like the

'Old ivy green,
Creeping, creeping where no life is seen.'

My heart often sickens to behold its ravages and to see it standing in the 'holy place' (pulpit) 'where it ought not.'"

Josiah Shaw, Eau Claire, Wis., writes:

"This is a noted place for secretism. On the principal street protrudes from a third story window a sign written on both sides: I. O. O F. & Knights of Pythias. I am glad the Cynosure is showing them up. I wish I was able to throw a copy into every man's yard for a year. I am glad the Mollys have come to grief. The signs are encouraging."

Wm. Parsons, Otterville, Ont., writes:

"Masonry has cooled down from the fever heat that Mr. Ronayne caused in the camp when he was here in May. Outside appearance says so but still I think inside the camp all is not quiet. They resorted to the old argument, throwing eggs, some of which hatched Anti-masons. They admit he worked the degrees right but did not show some of the beauties of the sublime order. We are thinking of trying to get him here next winter. Think he would be used better here than he was in Tilsonburgh, I think the Anti-masons have more strength here."

Rev. J. T. Hobson, Leesville, Lawrence Co., Ind., writes:

"I still have on the Anti-masonic harness. On the evening of the twenty-first of July I lectured to a good audience in the court-house in Brownstown, Jackson county. I feel very much interested in this reform movement and I trust the Lord will cheer the hearts of those who are engaged in this blessed work. 'In due time they shall reap if they faint not.'"

J—— G——, Shawnee, Perry Co, O., writes:

"I just received a copy of your Christian Cynosure and was highly pleased with it. It came into my possession through a friend."

Circulate the Cynosure, multitudes do not even now know that there is such a paper. It would refresh them as cold water does a thirsty soul.

Charles G. Webb, Springfield, Ill., writes:

"We have great opposition here and always expect to have as long as preachers of all persuasions uphold the vile monster Masonry. As the preachers do so do the people. We consider the Cynosure a God-send to us."

L. Sperry, Waupun, Wis., writes:

"I can do but very little except to pray for success."

If success attends this movement, if the country is blessed by it, it will be in answer to prayer.

Wm. H. Taylor, Sparta Center, Kent Co., Mich., writes:

"I consider the Cynosure God's messenger; and my prayer is that the hands of its managers may be holden up by divine power and a generous patronage until its object in pulling down lodge power is fully accomplished."

J. M. Shellabarger, Lettsville, Louisa county, Iowa, writes:

"Your paper is doing a good work in this part of the country and many are realizing the fact that the claims of Masonry are a sham and its hidden mysteries a delusion and fraud."

S. P. Callihan, Keokuk, Iowa, writes:

"We expect to procure Mr. Ronayne to lecture at our place next month."

I. N. Bear, writes:

"I am seventy-six years old and consequently unable to do much in the cause of reform but can relate some incidents that have occurred during my life, that may be of some interest to the readers of our beloved Cynosure. During the Morgan excitement I was at first very anxious to know whether he was actually killed for exposing the secrets of Masonry. I ventured to ask a brother-in-law (who was a Mason) whether it was true that Morgan was actually killed for so doing. His reply was that if he did he paid the just penalty. I thought it a very candid reply. I have ever since taken a firm stand against the order. Another circumstance that occurred about the time I was born which my mother often related to me: John Hays, a prominent citizen of Williamsport, Pa., and who she often spoke of as the most gentlemanly personage she ever was acquainted with, was all at once missing and never again heard of. It was generally believed, she said, that the Masons had disposed of him One more: I had a nephew who had tomfooled up to what they call a Master Mason. He was carried on a bed to my house, sick, thinking under our care to get well; in the meantime we often talked on the subject of Masonry; of course we did not agree on that very well, although we never disagreed on any other and always were very intimate friends. The day before he died he called me into his room, 'Uncle,' said he, 'you are right, we shall never disagree again.' I thought then that generally death would bring about the second sober thought."

Home and Farm.

Why the Teeth Decay.

The cause of the decay of teeth has hitherto been a matter of doubt, but the investigations of Leber and Rottenstein throw considerable light on the problem. They recognize constitutional differences in teeth, rendering some more sensitive than others to the influences that favor decay. These influences are not so much internal or vital, as external and chemical. Decay begins at the surface, and there it must be checked, if checked at all. It is chiefly caused by acids, and by a certain fungus, the Leptothrix buccalis, found abundantly in the mouth. Under the microscope the fungus appears as a gray, finely granular mass or matrix, with filaments delicate and stiff, which erect themselves above the surface of the granular substance, so as to resemble an uneven turf. The fungus attains its greatest size in the interstices of the teeth. All acids, both mineral and vegetable, act promptly on the teeth. Various acids are taken in food, or in medicines, or are formed in the mouth itself by some abnormality in our secretions, which should be alkaline, or by an acid fermentation of particles of food. But acids alone will not account for all the phenomena of caries in the teeth. They play a primary and principal part, making the teeth porous and soft. In this state, the tissues having lost their normal consistency, fungi penetrate both the canaliculi of the enamel and of the dentine, and by their growth produce softening and destructive effects much more rapid than the action of acids alone can accomplish. Bowditch, in examining forty persons of different professions, and living different kinds of life, found in almost all of them vegetable and animal parasites. The parasites were abundant in proportion to the neglect of cleanliness. The means ordinarily employed to clean teeth had no effect on the parasites, while soapy water appeared to destroy them.

We may remark that it is several years since attention was first called to this fungus of the mouth and its possible influence in causing the teeth to decay, but the investigations of Leber and Rottenstein appear to have settled the question beyond a doubt. The "moral" is, that if we would preserve our teeth we must keep them scrupulously clean, and we must use soap as an ingredient in our dentrifices or, in addition to them. It is not necessary to employ any of the so-called "dental soaps." We have found by experience that the imported white castile soap, which is probably the purest soap made in the world—a fact worth remembering in other connections—is quite tasteless, or at least has no unpleasant taste. Rub the wet toothbrush over a piece of this soap before dipping it into the dentrifice you use, and you have the most perfect combination for thorough cleansing of the teeth and destroying the obnoxious fungus. We assume, of course, that the dentrifice itself is not one that injures the teeth, as many of those in common use do.—Journal of Chemistry.

Farming does pay. The same intelligence, industry and frugality which are required in mercantile pursuits will pay always, and quite as well in farming. They have as shrewd and intelligent merchants in Philadelphia, New York and Boston as anywhere in this country, and yet an actual count has disclosed the fact, that seventy to seventy-nine per cent. of all those engaged in mercantile pursuits have, at some time or other, failed in business. Certainly there are instances where men have grown rich by trade, just as there are of those who have become wealthy by farming. But these are exceptions.

Cleaning Up. — The rubbish which is left in the fields, in the orchards, gardens and around the yards, at the close of the season, furnishes hiding places for a vast number of vermin, Eggs and larvæ of destructive insects, chinch-bugs and other pests find a safe refuge, wherein to pass the winter in corn-husks, stalks, and stubs, left upon the fields, and upon or beneath pieces of bark, chips, weeds, loose boards, and in corners of outbuildings. If the rubbish is gathered, raked up with horse or hand-rakes, and burned, and buildings white-washed myriads of vermin would be destroyed and prevented from propagating. As soon as the fields are cleared from crops, and work in the gardens and orchards ceases, a general clearing up should be made, and no quarter given to vermin of any kind or any where.—American Agriculturist.

Pleasure Near At Hand.—A farmer was once bemoaning to an artist his inability to hang his wall with pictures as he longed to do; the artist pointed through the farmer's window at some rolling ground beyond, and replied, "there is the finest picture I have seen in months." It was only the farmer's own hay field, a picturesque elm or two standing in it, and an irregular framing of stone wall and desultory hedge, and nobody had seen it before though men had passed and repassed for a century. Great artists have visited time and a gain, and not with canvass and palette, some single tree, rocky ledge, or shaded brook, country road or hill slope, such as are found, one or all, within a few minutes walk of nearly everybody.

Crying.—A French physician is out in a long dissertation on the advantages of groaning and crying in general, and especially during surgical operations. He contends that groaning and crying are two grand operations by which nature allays anguish; that those patients who give way to their natural feelings more speedily recover from accidents and operations than those who suppose it unworthy a man to betray such symtons of cowardice as either to groan or cry. He tells of a man who reduced his pulse from one hundred and twenty six to sixty in the course of a few hours by giving full vent to his emotions. If people are at all unhappy about anything let them go to their rooms and comfort themselves with a loud boo-hoo and they will feel a hundred per cent. better afterward. In accordance with the above, the crying of children should not be too greatly discouraged. If it is systematically repressed the result may be St. Vitus's dance, epileptic fits, or some other disease of the nervous system.

Potatoes make first rate chicken feed. Poultry raisers use them largely in fattening their surplus stock for the fall market. They should be cooked and mixed with corn meal when fed for fattening purposes. If fed to young fowls or chicks designed for breeding or to laying hens, it is well to substitute wheat or oat meal, if it can be readily obtained, for a portion of the corn meal. Use salt and pepper to taste as for table use; the fowls will relish such feed and thrive and fatten on it nicely.

ANTI-MASONIC BOOKS.

(Notour own Publications.)

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO
18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

FOR CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS OF EZRA A COOK & CO See page 15 of the Christian Cynosure.

☞All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Freemasonry Self Condemned.

By Rev. J. W. Bain.

We now have a small supply of this deservedly popular book in paper covers, Price 20 cents each by mail.

Elder Stearns' Books.

Stearns' Inquiry Into the Nature and Tendency of Masonry, With an Appendix.

288 Pages, in Cloth.....60 cents.
" " " Paper.....40 "

Stearns' Letters on Masonry.

Showing the antagonism between Freemasonry and the Christian Religion.
Price, 30 cents.

Stearns' Review of Two Masonic Addresses.

In this scathing review the lying pretentions of the order are clearly shown.
Price, 10 cents.

Levington's Key to Masonry.

This is Rev. Mr. Levington's last, and in the judgment of its author, best work on Masonry.
The contents of the Eleventh chapter are thus startling:

"Knights of the Golden Circle—Graphic account of them by a seceding Knight, and remarks thereon, showing the identity of the order with Masonry—Quotations from Sir Walter Scott."

This work is thrilling in statement, and powerful in argument Price. $1.35. 425 pages.

Light on Freemasonry

BY ELDER D. BERNARD,

TO WHICH IS APPENDED A

Revelation of the Mysteries of Odd-fellowship by a Member of the Craft.

The whole containing over five hundred pages lately revised and republished. Price $2,00

The first part of the above work, Light on Freemasonry, 416 pages in paper cover, will be sent post paid on receipt of $1.

FOR SALE BY

United Brethren Publishing House,
DAYTON, O.
and by
EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
18 Wabash Ave, CHICAGO

Finney on Masonry.

BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE $1.00,

CHEAP EDITION,

Twenty-five dollars per hundred, by express and not less than 25 copies at that rate.

BY MAIL, POST-PAID:

Per doz.....$3.75,
Single copy..... 35 c

GOOD TEMPLARISM EXPOSED.

Obligations, of the Initiatory Fidelity, Charity, and Royal Virtue Degrees.

This is a small book containing only the Obligations and some of the Odes of the Good Templars.

Single Copy, Post paid, ... 10cts.
Per Doz. " 75
Per 1 by Express..... $4.50

Bernard's Appendix to Light on Masonry,

Showing the Character of the Institution by its terrible oaths and penalties. 25 cents.

ODD-FELLOWSHIP

JUDGED BY ITS OWN UTTERANCES;

Its Doctrine and Practice examined in the light of God's Word

BY REV. J. H. BROCKMAN.

This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-Fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. It was originally published in German.
Price, bound in Boards, 75 cents. Paper Covers 40 cents.
German Edition, Entitled "Christian and Gast." Paper Covers 50 cents each.

HOW TO DEFEAT

Masonic Scoundrelism

Within the Court House.

By J. H. H. WOODWARD,

This pamphlet as its title indicates is designed to put all non-Masons on their guard against lodge trickery and especially to show how to meet and successfully cope with Freemasonry in our Courts.
Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 10 cts.
Per Doz..75 cts. Per 100 by Express..$6 00

The Christian Cynosure.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, AUGUST 23, 1877.

At Home: Progress of the Discussion.

A few weeks' journey at intervals by railway, enables one to mark the progress of the popular mind as clearly as if indicated by hands on a dial; and the sentiments and feelings of the churches and ministry in this country are such pointers on the dial plate of popular intelligence. While Mr. Cogswell finds his path in California "a hard road to travel," in the States of Illinois and Wisconsin, the very atmosphere is changed on the discussion of secret societies. I was in Paxton, well down in central Illinois, in the middle of the week, yet I received invitations to preach in several churches if I could have stayed. In Wenona, on the other branch of the Illinois Central railroad, a few hours after I arrived, I rereceived a postal card inviting me to addressa large gathering of teachers in their "Institute," and the two Professors who conducted it followed me to the gate with many and cordial thanks for complying with the invitation. In Baraboo, Wisconsin, I addressed a hundred teachers in a similar Institute, and preached twice in the Congregational church on the Sabbath; the second time on the antagonism of the secret orders to the kingdom of Christ and of God, In Burlington, a smart inland town where our lecturers had not penetrated, our good friend Britten, applied for the Congregational church, and, by handbill, drew out a congregation to a lecture on secret societies. The congregation he told me, was made up of Jews, Roman Catholics, and representatives of several secret orders, with scarce a sprinkling of people who knew or sympathized with the reform. Yet I have seldom addressed a more attentive, respectful or respectable audience; and coming out to our carriage, I had the satisfaction of hearing some warm commendations of the sentiments of the lecture by the dispersing crowd, from whom the darkness concealed our presence.

The fact is, our lecturers cast their shadows far in advance of their persons; and, in these States, have taken the chill off from the water of popular sentiment concerning our discussion. I am more and more convinced of the truth of what a Freemason wrote me some years since, viz: that "the haters of the order in the lodges themselves are more than legion, but are silenced by their dread of the few men of leisure, often adventurers and blacklegs, who can turn the vengeance of the order against seceders." But as soon as the self-denial and in some cases suffering of the martyrs and witnesses of our cause have forced a recognition of it as an established reform, the hostile leaders are themselves intimidated, and ministers and churches and political parties which live by popular sufferance and support, instantly begin to patronize the reform, so far at least as not to alienate its friends; while the great mass of sincere American souls hail the rising of the discussion as the harbinger of a better day.

Meantime it is profoundly interesting to note how "the spirit of the Lord" has been "lifting up a standard" against the dark flood which has come in on our country. J. W. Wood, Esq., gave me an article of marked ability which he wrote against the "orders" while a student in the University of Michigan, before he knew of the reform movement; and a kindred spirit, M. R. Britten, Esq., of Vienna, Wis., put his breast singly against the dark empire and toils with an ability and discretion which might have made him Governor of the State and may yet do so. There is hope for the country and the cause while God raises up such men to care for it.

The N. C. A. Directors Meeting.

The first meeting of the Directors lately elected at the annual meeting of the National Christian Association met in the Carpenter building on Friday last. There were present Messrs. Carpenter, Hildreth, Hagerty, Wait, Freeman, Cook, Kellogg, and Hodge.

The Board organized by re-electing the old officers: Philo Carpenter, chairman, and J. P. Stoddard, secretary.

The proposition to occupy a stand in the Inter-state Exhibition, to open in Chicago Aug. 29th, for the sale of books and distribution of tracts, was discussed. Ezra A. Cook & Co. agreed to furnish tracts for distribution and books at a reasonable reduction. Messrs. Cook, Kellogg and Hodge were appointed a committee to make arrangements and complete the business.

The General Agent reported the amount of rents now received from the Carpenter building. The basement, main floor, front room on second floor, and the hall above rent for $111.66 per month. Religious meetings are held twice in the hall on the Sabbath and a temperance meeting on Monday evening, and a literary society has made partial arrangements to engage the hall for one evening a week. It was estimated that the net income of the building from rents would be about $50 a month.

The committee on building which served last year, Messrs. Hagerty and Stoddard and Mrs. E. A. Cook, were re-appointed.

Brethren Kellogg, Hodge and Stoddard were appointed a committee to see what could be raised for Rev. Paul S. Feemster to act as agent in the South and arrange with him.

The arrangement with Rev. H. H. Hinman as State Lecturer was continued with his salary as last year. The last year's arrangement with Rev. J. P. Stoddard as General Agent and Corresponding Secretary was continued also.

The General Agent and Secretary read a circular notice he had prepared for general distribution before the approaching aniversary convention at Dayton. It was approved and 3,000 ordered to be printed. The Board then adjourned.

—An aged mother in Israel whose prayers and toils have long been given for a pure church, read the note of Bro. Hinman's sickness a fortnight since, and presented his case before the female prayer meeting. Faith and works were joined, and after the meeting in which the case of our brother was laid before the Lord, the sisters put together their contributions for him, amounting to four dollars, and sent it on to the Treasurer. Let this beautiful example touch many hearts and open many purses.

—It is hardly necessary to call attention to the letter from Providence, R. I., on the religious aspirations of the Templars of Honor and Temperance. The rapid increase of that order in Wisconsin during the past year or two, and probably in a degree in other States gives a peculiar value to the contribution.

—The home of Bro. Stratton of the Weslegan at Syracuse was the center of happy hopes lately on the marriage of Miss Ella Norwood of the last class at Wheaton to Mr. H. M. Bissell of Bunker Hill Academy, Ill., a graduate of Wheaton in 1873. Miss Norwood is sister of Mrs. Stratton and to the editor fell the joyful duty of officiating clergyman on the occasion. We ring our golden bells for the day.

—Bro. Benj. Ulsh of Silver Lake, Indiana, has prepared a petition to be presented to his annual conference United Brothren in Christ, asking that its members will have regard to the low estate of the church suffering from the ministration of pastors who sympathize with the lodge, and desiring that true men be sent in the future. The petition has twenty-four names and many others were expected to sign.

—Several friends have written to us lately as if in doubt of the correctness of the address of their letters, and desiring to be assured. It will be safe to follow this general rule, to send letters on business with the paper, to Ezra A. Cook & Co., Publishers. If the same envelope contains matter for publication, let it be folded separately and marked. Letters for publication should be sent to Editor Christian Cynosure, and they will receive immediate attention by the office editor. Letters intended especially for President Blanchard, senior editor, should be sent to Wheaton. Ill. Some write to the office editor, H. L. Kellogg, at Wheaton, but as there is apt to be delay, he would advise that the practice be discontinued.

—Father Sovereign of Kishwaukie, Ill., has been suffering severely for some time from a rheumatic attack is now in better health and writes us an interesting article on the Mosaic account of the smitten rock, presenting some ideas in his own original style which will be new to most of our readers. It will appear soon.

—From the reports of the Grand Lodge of Odd-fellows of Indiana it appears that there are 515 lodges in the State with a membership of over 26,000; the resources of these lodges is over $1,500,000, which will give an idea of the vast amount absorbed in these secret lodges, very little of which, compared with their public profession, is honorably used.

—Notwithstanding their formidable numbers, the Indiana Odd-fellows have lost nearly a thousand members (988) in the year, though the number of their lodges is more by a half dozen. Schuyler Colfax and Senator Oliver P. Morton, still own the bond of the order, and glory in their shame by appearing as its advocates at the Grand Lodge meeting.

—We desire to renew the invitation to every friend of the reform living in the city or visiting here, to attend as often as possible the noon prayer meeting, at the Carpenter building. The Chicago Association are maintaining the meeting against the open and covert opposition of the lodge. Its numbers are few but its faith strong.

—Last week the benefits of Masonry to a swindler at a hotel in this city were presented; from the daily papers we are able to give another example. A man claiming to be "Col. C. H. Bristollo of the 2nd Egyptian Cavalry, Alexandria, Egypt," appeared in Berrien Springs, Mich., says a correspondent, and made himself known as a Freemason, and so satisfied the members of the lodge, there that they agreed to pay him $20 for two lectures, one before the lodge the other in public. The lectures were given, and nothing is said to show them unsatisfactory. Then he lectured before the Red Ribbon Reform Club and $16 were collected for the club, which sum, says the letter, the Masons gobbled and that was the last seen of it. The next day this Freemason temperance lecturer was found drinking in two saloons next morning. These strange Masonic transactions called for an explanation; honest citizens wanted to know if they had been imposed upon. Promptly from Freeport came a reply from a former Master of Excelsior Lodge, Freeport, Ill., claiming that the lecturer was a swindler, though he is no doubt a Freemason and makes his living by Freemasonry, as do many others, the only objection being that he is a little too public in his methods of swindling. He should keep dark like the majority of Masonic swindlers and his character would have d efenders.

—The influen ce of the holiness camp-meetings on the lodge reform has often been the subject of favorable comment in these colums. The lodge stands directly in the way of the holiness movement, and we are only surprised that the leaders in the holiness work are not more outspoken against it. Has a worldly and timid spirit placed its gag on the mouths of men who should before all be free to "declare the whole counsel of God?" Rev. Mr. McDonald of the National Holiness Camp-meeting committee has, we understand, been a Freemason. If he has been given the victory over all his sins he ought to speak out more freely than he is reported by Rev. J. A. McGilvra in the Wesleyan at the Holiness camp-meeting at Clear Lake, Iowa. The questions and answers are thus given:

Ques.—"Can a man enjoy sanctification and be an adhering Freemason?" Ans.—"I don't know. So far as I know there are no Freemasons in our Association. We don't preach on the subject. We stick to our text—you can't switch us off." Many voices, "No you can't." Query. May not there be sin in the above profession of ignorance?

Ques.—"Can a man enjoy sanctification who knows by experience of the teachings and principles of Freemasonry, and who is convinced that they are sinful, unless he openly opposes and warns others of its sinful nature?" Ans.—"No; he must speak against and oppose all sin, or he will lose all his graces."

Ques.—"Can a soul that has once enjoyed a sanctified state, and falls, obtain sanctification at once?" Ans. —"I think they can."

Ques.—"What do you think of church festivals, etc.?" Ans.—"We don't think much of them." Query. Don't the want of interest grow out of the fact that they are detrimental to financial interest or religious interest?

Ques.—"What of the putting on of gold and costly apparel?" Ans. —"Don't know; we don't fire at the branches or the outside, we aim at the heart. Get the heart right and then follow the spirit. If they are put on for display, (and they generally are,) it is sinful." Query. Each branch is supported by nourishment from the heart. If the heart is sanctified and all the old man put off and destroyed, would not the branches die, and lose all heart and attraction? Speak out, brethren—give the clear Bible ring to your notes. God help.

QUERY.—Wm. H. Taylor asks: If Ananias was deserving of the fate he met for keeping back a little filthy lucre; what does the minister of the Gospel deserve who not only fails, but refuses to declare the whole counsel of God, to those within his pastorate?

—Bro. Stoddard was in Chicago all last week getting the affairs of the Association in order for the Anniversary.

Religious Intelligence.

—The next session of the Pan-Presbyterian Assembly will be held in Philadelphia in 1880.

—The camp-meeting held recently at Ocean Grove under the auspices of the National Temperance Union adopted a resolution requesting the International Sunday-school committee to prepare one lesson each quarter upon the subject of temperance.

—There are twenty-one colored Presbyterian churches in the South and five colored Presbyterian preachers.

—There were sold during the Exposition 25,155 copies of the Scriptures, in 45 different languages. It is estimated that more than 200,000 persons entered the pavilion, and saw this manifestation of the unity of Christian sentiment and life. The British and Foreign and the American Bible Societies were here represented.

—Rev. Dr. Philip Schaff says the Bible is the best hand-book of the Holy Land, and the Holy Land the best commentary on the Bible.

—A most remarkable awakening is experienced among the Jews in Northern Africa. Rev. Mr. Benoel, writing from Oran, Algeria, says that he has never seen or known such a work among the Jews. Such was their interest to understand the Christian faith, that they crowded the place of worship, both Jews and Jewesses, and even rabbis were among the number, and after an hour and a half of service, reluctantly left the place. The writer regards it as the most marvelous awakening among the Jews since the day of Pentecost.

—Geo. Muller, the celebrated philanthropist of Bristol, Eng., and author of "The Life of Trust," will visit this country soon.

—Under the pastorate of Rev. C. F. Hawley of Demascoville, Ohio, the Wesleyan church of that place is enjoying a precious and long-continued work of grace. Every Friday is observed as a day of fasting and prayer and four meetings are held on the Sabbath. Sinners are inquiring and the church members are seeking as one for the abiding of the Holy Ghost.

—A correspondent of the Presbyterian says that Rev. J. W. Bain late of the United Presbyterian church in this city, is about to change his ecclesiastical connection and join the General Assembly Presbyterians. If true, the U. P. church will lose one of the ablest defenders of its reform principles. Bro. Bain has written a work on Psalmody as well as on "Secret Societies" maintaining the practice of the denomination.

News of the Week.

—Harvest expectations in Minnesota have been more than realized in the yield as ascertained since threshing began. The wheat crop of this wonderful grain-producing State is now set down at the enormous total of 35,000,000 bushels leaving a surplus for export of from 26,000,000 to 28,000,000 bushels, The average yield throughout the State is now estimated at twenty bushels to the acre.

—Gen. Gibbon telegraphs to army headquarters a few details of the pursuit of the Nez Perces. He is at Deer Lodge, and rapidly recovering, while troops are hurrying from all directions to join Howard. Annoyed and incumbered by their wounded, the Indians move slowly, and Gibbon thinks that the coming attack upon them will prove their ruin.

—The Russian army have not abandoned the Dobrudscha as has been telegraped., Last week they occupied Kusteudji, an important railway terminus on the Black Sea, without opposition. Their line now extends from this point to Schipka pass which they still hold and will not give up easily. Their position before Plevna is very strong and a heavy cavalry and artillery force has been sent to the rear of the Turks in that quarter. Reinforcements numbering 180,000 are on their way and as soon as they begin to arrive the Grand Duke will begin offensive operations again. The Turks are fast losing their opportunity by inaction, and they have no heavy reserve force to call up. On Saturday a battle near Kars resulted unfavorably to the Russians who lost 1,200 killed and wounded.

—The new convention concluded between Great Britain and Egypt for the suppression of the slave trade prohibits the export or import of negro slaves. Egyptian slave-traders will be tried by court-martial as assassins. Foreigners will be handed over to their own tribunals. British cruisers are authorized to capture slavers hoisting the Egyptian flag. The khedive engages to abolish all private traffic in slaves in Egypt within seven years, and within twelve years in Soudan and the frontier provinces.

Front view of the CARPENTER DONATION, a fine, stone front building No. 221 West Madison St., Chicago, now occupied by the National Christian Association. The fee simple will be given by Mr. Carpenter if other friends raise $30,000 by Apr. 1st 1878, in cash or "good, negotiable, interest-bearing notes" to establish a Publishing House and headquarters of the reform. Send donations to the Treasurer at 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The National Christian Association.

PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.—Pres. H. H. George, D. D., W. Geneva, Ohio.

SECRETARIES.—Rev. W. H. French, D. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; H. L. Kellogg, Chicago.

PRESIDENT OF THE CORPORATE BODY.—Rev. J. B. Walker, D. D., Wheaton, Ill.

VICE-PRESIDENT. — Philo Carpenter, Chicago.

DIRECTORS.—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, Archibald Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, H. L. Kellogg, E. Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, J. B. Walker, A. D. Freeman, Thos. Hodge.

RECORDING SEC'Y.—Thos. Hodge, Chicago.

COR. SEC'Y AND GENERAL AGENT.—J. P. Stoddard, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TREASURER.—H. L. Kellogg, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

'The object of this Association is:—

'To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the Churches of Christ from being depraved; to redeem the administration of justice from perver tion, and our republican government from cor ruption "

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform to aid the Association in either of these ways: (1) to establish a Publishing House and Head-quarters in Chicago; (2) to carry on the general work; (3) to maintain the State agents. All donations, (drafts or P. O. orders) should be sent to the Treasurer; general correspondence, etc., direct to the Corresponding Secretary

FORM OF BEQUEST.—I give and bequeath to the National Christian Association, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, the sum of——dollars for the purposes of said Association, and for which the receipt of its Treasurer for the time being shall be a sufficient discharge.

State Auxiliary Associations.

CONNECTICUT.

President, J. A. Conant, Willimantic.
Secretary, D. J. Ellsworth, Windsor.
Treasurer, C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.

President, S. B. Allen, Westfield.
Rec. Secretary and Treasurer, H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
Lecturers, H. H. Hinman, Wheaton, and J. P. Richards, Bowensburg, Hancock Co.

INDIANA.

Pres't, W. P. McNary, Bloomington.
Rec. Sec'y, H. Teter, Westfield.
Treas., Peter Rich, Westfield.
Lecturer and Cor. Sec'y S. L Cook, Albion.

IOWA.

President, M. S. Drury, Western, Linn Co.
Cor. Sec'y, M. R. Drury, " " "
Rec. Sec'y, E. J. Grinnell, Charles City.
Treasurer, John Dorcas, Shiloh.

KANSAS.

President, H. T. Besse, Sterling, Rice Co.
Secretary, J. Dodds, Winchester.
Treasurer, C. A. Sexton, Topeka.

MICHIGAN.

President, H. D. Inman, Coldwater.
Cor. Sec'y, C. B. Remington, Fentonville
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Bruce, Hickory Corners
Treasurer, C. Quick, Weston.
Lecturer and Agent, D. P. Rathbun, Hickory Corners.

Communications for the Agent concerning lectures or the interests of the cause may be addressed to, or in care of, E. W. Bruce.

MISSOURI.

President, N. E. Gardner, Avalon.
Cor. Sec'y, A. D. Thomas, Arbela.
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Carpenter.
Treasurer, Wm. Beauchamp, Avalon.
Lecturer, E. G. Cooper, Albany Gentry Co.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

President, J. F. Browne, Lewiston, Me.
Secretary, S. C. Kimball, Center Strafford.
Treasurer, E. Smith, Center Strafford.

NEW YORK.

President, L. N. Stratton, Syracuse.
Secretary, W. A. Sellew, Rochester.
Treasurer, M. Merrick, Syracuse.
Lecturers—L. N. Stratton, Syracuse; Woodruff Post, Rochester; A. F. Curry, Almond.

OHIO.

President, H. H. George, W. Geneva.
Treasurer, J. G. Mattoon, West Unity
Sec. and Lecturer, Wm. Dillon, Dayton.

PENNSYLVANIA.

President, A. L. Post, Montrose.
Cor. Sec'y, N. Callender, Green Grove.
Treasurer, W. B. Bertels, Wilksbarre.
Rec. Sec'y, and Lecturer, J. W. Raynor, Montrose.

WISCONSIN.

President, E. L. Harris, Delavan.
Secretary, U. D. Lathrop, Millard.
Treasurer; Joshua Parish, Delavan.

Address of Anti-masonic Lecturers.

General Agent and Lecturer, J. P. STODDARD, Christian Cynosure Office, Chicago.
For STATE LECTURERS State Ass'n list.
Others who will lecture when desired:—
C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
R. B. Taylor, Summerfield, O.
N. Callender, Starrucca, Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
P. Hurless, Polo, Ill.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Mercer Co., Ill.
J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
Josiah McCaskey, Fancy Creek, Wis
C. F. Hawley, Damascovilic, Ohio.
W. M. Givens, Center Point, Ind.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
D. S. Caldwell, Clyde, Sandusky Co., O.
A. Mayn, Promise City, Wayne Co., Mich.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
C. F. Wiggins, Angola, Ind
E Renayne, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.
W. M. Love, Baker, St. Clair Co. Mo
A D. Freeman, Downers Grove, Ill.
Jas. Springer, Springerton Ill
A. D. Carter, Deerseville, Harrison Co O
James McCleery, Monroe, Iowa.
R. Faurot, Kendallville, Ind.
J. W. Barlow, Ridgetown, Ont., C. W.

The Home Circle.

The Old Catechism.

The late Prof. Tayler Lewis, in a paper entitled "My Old Schoolmaster," read before the University Convocation of the State of New York, July 8, 1874, has the following, the tribute of a great and honest mind to the most remarkable human compilation:

Something must be briefly said of what may be called his more formal moral instruction. In its outward aspect, this consisted chiefly in the memoriter recitation of the Westminster Catechism, to which there was devoted a portion of every Friday afternoon. That absurd, unmeaning, and utterly undefinable cry of sectarianism has long since banished this. It is now obsolete; but surely I may be pardoned for calling it up as an interesting relic of the past, and as having some bearing upon the general ideas of education. I do not believe that any child was ever morally or intellectually injured—that he has ever known less or thought less in consequence of learning that Catechism. Its choice English, its most logical diction, if nothing else, would make it worthy of study. It is quite commonly said that it is not adapted to children. A distinguished preacher, who has also written a novel, endeavors to convey that impression. In this latter production, there is a burlesque representation of an attempt to get from a boy the answer to the question, "What is God?" His blunders are set forth in a very ludicrous manner. Still more of the same character is given to the efforts of a good aunt to counteract the perversity. The boy cannot understand it, and the impression evidently designed to be left on the reader's mind is hostile to any such method of religious instruction. But here is the spiritual or psychological wonder. This perverse youth to whom his catechism is but an unintelligible mass of words, has no difficulty with the religion of nature. There is nothing hazy to him in the theology taught by the clouds or the sun-settings. He is represented as clearly understanding the revelations made by the flowers, the religious ideas that come from the evening cry of the whippoorwill; but the well-chosen words of the Westminster divines, poor boy, he cannot comprehend at all. It is simply dogma, dogma, unintelligible dogma, and nothing else. The sublime formula, "the chief end of man as living for the glory of God that he may enjoy him forever"—God as a Spirit—the words, eternal, unchangeable, wisdom, power, holiness, justice, truth; these have to his mind no corresponding thought, no moral emotion; they fill him with no awe; they have no tendency even to draw him up to any higher sphere of contemplation; but the trees, the winds, the whippoorwill, —they talk to him in an intelligible dialect. In our school, we might have been too obtuse for that—too plodding, perhaps, or having too little poetry to make much out of the clouds or the whippoorwill, but the Westminster Catechism we did understand, in some way, and to some degree, for it made us tremble. We perceived this, at least, that, in the truths presented, we had a momentous, and eternal, and, young as we were—a deeply personal interest. We did have some understanding, some spiritual insight of what was meant by the "chief end of man," and of "living for God's glory," in distinction from selfishness, pleasure and the world. We understood the assertion that God was infinite in power, in other words, that "he could do all things" as Job was brought at last to confess; that he was eternal, and would never die; that he was omniscient, that is, knowing all things, numbering the very hairs of our heads, omnipresent every moment, nearer to us than we were to ourselves. We had these ideas which Sir William Hamilton disclaims as belonging to the human mind. We failed, indeed, as that great philosopher failed, in bringing this awful thought, eternity, within the bounds of a sense conception, but the idea as distinguished from the baffling conceptual effort, we had as certain then as now, as awful then as now. Years, books, study have added nothing to it. The young soul thinks more than is commonly supposed, especially when in close communion with the suggestive power of a deeply spiritual mind. It meditates more than it afterward remembers of itself when the world, with its darkening ways and darkening cares has drawn a curtain before the exercises of that thoughtful, questioning, musing spirit which often characterizes even very early life. It is wonderful how readily the child receives the ideal of soul as something distinct from the body, and of God as the author of its being; how it grasps them, as it were, as the infant stretches out its hand for the light. The question about their being innate, or a priori ideas, is very much of a logomachy; the facility with which it receives them shows that in some way the young mind claims them as its own. In after life, as has been already said, they become obscured. A worldly skepticism dims the mirror; a pretentious sense-philosophy bewilders us with the sheer impudence of its positiveness; science disturbs us with its peering microscope; we argue with it; we contend with it, until we receive spiritual hurt in the conflict. But there are times when the child's clearer vision comes back to us; soul is seen to be an easier idea than matter; God is more intelligible than nature; we wonder at our difficulties; we go to school again, and hear the humbling, yet strengthening voice of the great teacher, the gently chiding Saviour, saying to us: "O, ye of little faith, wherefore did ye doubt?"

It was to all of us an awfully solemn book, that Shorter Westminster Catechism, as taught by that grave and deeply religious man. Nothing else has ever produced so distinct and solemn an impression. No religious books for children, such as we now have in our Sabbath schools, no goodly tales of good little boys and girls, ever so reached the moral consciousness. It might not have been so, had we learned it under some other teacher, but in the hands of this old schoolmaster it was indeed awful, not from any preaching accompaniment—for he was not a man given to commentary or alarming exhortation—but from the grave earnestness which showed that he thought, and which made us think that this compendium was not a mere verbal exercise, but a body of truth connected with our highest destiny as accountable and immortal beings.

It is a libel on children as well as on the catechism, to say that they cannot understand it. "Justification, adoption, sanctification," they have become by-words of caricature, they have been represented as mere parrot-sounds without ideas; but it was not so to us, because we were made to feel that we had a deep interest in the truths represented by them. As intelligible, says a ribald newspaper, as the old question and answer on "effectual calling." Of this, and things like it, the clerical novelist referred to attempts to make rare sport. But to us "effectual calling" was a very solemn thing. God called us; the Saviour called us; so we were told and believed, and sometimes felt; the world called us; pleasure called us; appetite called us—not only the "lusts of the flesh," but even then what Paul calls "the lusts of the mind," soul sins, spiritual passion, pride, envy, hatred, anger, revenge; all these were calling us. Falsehood was early calling us with her syren voice; this we began to feel and know. Which calling should be "effectual?" The answer in the catechism brought us face to face with that great mystery we cannot begin to contemplate too early, though it may take an eternity for its perfect comprehension,—that doctrine seemingly so harsh and humbling, that "sour Calvinism," as some ignorantly style it, though the serious Wesleyan holds it as truly as my old school-master, that doctrine of grace, of God's unmerited grace, not as a source of repulsive fear, but as the only hope of every one who truly says: Be merciful to me a sinner. Yes, we understood the question well; we were deeply moved when the old teacher prayed for us that the better calling through God's powerful grace, might be indeed effectual in our souls. I could say much on this old catechism and my old school-master's mode of teaching it, and of the effect produced by it on the minds of the serious men and women that school afterwards sent forth to play their humble parts in the world.

Dr. Arnold on Light Reading.

When Dr. Arnold pronounced the constant and indiscriminate feeding of youth on light and merely amusing literature "an enormous evil," he only gave expression to the conclusion that was forced upon him after a careful observation of its effects upon the lads in his famous Rugby school. The points elaborated in this excellent sermon, by this able and conscientious teacher, are so wise as well as so opposite and generally intelligible, that we condense them, as presenting the case in a nutshell, as follows:

The mass of human minds, much more the minds of young persons, have no great appetite for intellectual exercise; but they have some, which by careful treatment may be strengthened and increased. But to this weak and delicate appetite is presented an abundance of the most stimulating and least nourishing food possible, which it snatches eagerly, and by which it is not only satisfied, but actually conceives a distaste for anything simpler and more wholesome.

That curiosity which is wisely given to us to lead us on to knowledge, finds its full gratification in the details of an excited and protracted story, and then lies down as it were gorged, and goes to sleep. Other faculties claim their turn, and have it. We know that in youth the healthy body and lively spirit require exercise, and in this they may and ought to be indulged; but the time and interest which remain over when the body has had its enjoyment, and the mind desires its share, this has been already wasted and exhausted upon things utterly unprofitable; so that the mind goes to its work hurriedly and languidly, and feels it to be no more than a burden. The freshness of power is tried prematurely, is preverted and corrupted.

Great and grievous as is the evil, it is peculiarly hard to find the remedy for it. If the books alluded to were books of downright wickedness, we might destroy them, we might forbid their open circulation, we might conjure those whom we love to shun them as they would any other clear sin. But they are not wicked books for the most part; they cannot be actually prohibited; nor can it be pretended that it is positively sinful to read them. All that can be done is to point out the evil; to show that it is real and serious, that its effects are most deplorable on the minds of fairest promise, and that the remedy rests each with himself. There can be no doubt that an unnatural and constant excitement of the mind is most injurious; that excitment involves a reactionary weakness; and that the weakness thus produced is and must be adverse to quiet study and thought, to that reflection which alone is wisdom, is clear in itself and proved largely by experience. Again: without reflection there can be no spiritual understanding; while without spiritual understanding, that is, without a knowledge and study of God's will, there can be no spiritual life. And therefore childishness and unthoughtfulness cannot be light evils. If the prevalence of these defects has been rightly traced to its cause, although that cause may seem trifling to some, yet it is well to call attention to it, and to remind all who are seeking real advancement that in reading works of amusement, as in every lawful pleasure, there is and must be an abiding responsibility in the sight of God; that like all other lawful pleasures we must beware of excess in it; and not only so, but that if it is found to be hurtful, either because we have used it too freely in times past, or because our nature is too weak to bear it, that then we are bound most solemnly to abstain from it because however lawful in itself or to others who can practice it without injury, whatever is to us an hindrane in the way of our intellectual and moral and spiritual improvement, that is in our case a positive sin.—Intelligencer.

Children's Corner.

THE TURTLE DOVE'S NEST.

Very high in the pine trees,
The little turtle dove,
Made a pretty little nursery,
To please her little love.
She was gentle, she was soft,
And her large dark eye
Often turned to her mate,
Who was sitting close by.

"Coo," said the turtle dove,
"Coo," said she.
"Oh, I love thee," said the turtle dove,
"And I love thee."
In the long shady branches
Of the dark pine tree,
How happy were the doves
In their little nursery!

The young turtle doves
Never quarrelled in the nest,
For they dearly loved each other,
Though they loved their mother best.
"Coo," said the little doves,
"Coo," said she.
And they played together kindly
In the dark pine tree.

In this nursery of yours,
Little sister, little brother,
Like the turtle dove's nest,
Do you love one another?
Are you kind, are you gentle,
As children ought to be?
Then the happiest of nests
Is your own nursery.

—The Churchman.

THE TWO TUG-BOATS.

Once, when stopping at the house of a friend, in the afternoon I noticed his two boys coming in from school. One of them, Charlie, looked bright and pleasant; the other, George, was cross and disagreeable. The father noticed this, and asked George what the matter was.

"Oh, papa," said George, "the teacher called me a blockhead, and told me that I never knew my lessons, and that I never would be anybody in the world. But she praised Charley, who does not spend half so much time over his studies as I do."

"George, said his father, "she praised Charley because he always knows his lessons, though he is not brighter than you are, and is younger too. Now, let me tell you a story."

So the gentleman told the following:

"Once, I was crossing the Delaware River, I saw a large tug-boat steam up to a great ship. They fastened the two by stout ropes; then the tug pulled and pulled, but the ship would not move. For two or three hours they tried, but at last gave up. Then I noticed that another tug came alongside—a smaller one; this they attached to the large ship. The tug gave a puff, puff, and off went the ship down the river, pulled by a little boat not near so large as the other.

"'Why,' said I to a man who seemed to know, 'why could not the large tug pull the ship?'

"'Oh, sir,' said he 'she could not employ all her steam; it escaped by the side pipes. But the small tug uses every particle of her steam; that gives her more strength.'

"Now, my dear George, this is just the difference between you and Charley. Your attention is distracted; many little side things take off your mind from your book. But Charlie puts his whole mind on his study. If we desire ever to be of any value in the world, we must fix our whole attention on the thing before us; we should not be busy about half a dozen things at the same time. Neither let us permit our strength to be wasted on trifles, but let us live for some good, great purpose—the glory of God and the benifit of our fellow-men.—Ex.

"WHAT'S THE USE?"

"What's the use?" is the common saying with the young in regard to hard, distasteful studies. They mean to do something in life far different from anything that will require their dull, dry studies to be brought into play. But leaving out of the question the mental discipline got from them—which is, after all, the main object of study—these very things may be turned to excellent account in after years. "My teacher made me study surveying twenty-five years ago," said a gentleman who had lost his property, "and now I am glad; I can get a good situation by such means, and a high salary." A certain French king used to regret, with great bitterness, the deficiency of his education, when surrounded by men of learning and the highest culture. He reproached the memory of those who had been so indulgent of his idleness, and said, with bitter sarcasm, "Was there not birch in the forest of Fontainebleau?" Better a sharp, strict master, who insists upon thoroughness in all that children undertake, than a frivolous, superficial one, who permits them to slip over their lesson in an easy way, which they will regret with like bitterness in later years.—Early Days.

LOST SOMETHING.

"Boo!—hoo!hoo!" cried a chubby little boy, at the top of his strong lungs, twisting his sweet face into a terrible thing that did not look like a face at all.

"Boo—oo—hoo!—hoo!"

"What's the matter, little boy?" asked a kind gentleman who was passing by.

"Oh—h—hooo! I'se los'—lost something, and can't find it, and oh—hoo—hoo!"

"Never mind, my little fellow, I'll help you to find it," and the gentleman began looking on the ground.

"'Tain't lost there," cried Johnny scornfully, "It's so big that you can see it in a minute."

"What is it you've lost, my poor little man?" asked the gentleman kindly.

"It's my mamma—it is"—sobbed Johnny; "and she's gone to grandma's, and Uncle Sam's and a shoppin', and to market, and everywhere, and left me, and oh—ho! boo! hoo!"

So violent had Johnny's screams become now that his new friend thought that he must have been left alone in that big house by mistake, and although in haste he stopped and said, "Come to the next house and wait till your mother comes in."

Just here a side door opened, and a pretty lady came out and said, "Why, why, what is all this row about, Johnny?"

"I—lost—you—mamma—and—you—was—not—anywhere!" sobbed the little boy.

The lady smiled, and said, "I was only in my own room," and a glance at her showed that she had been there to put on a fresh lilac muslin, which made her look even sweeter than the mamma her foolish little boy had thought he he had lost, because was not in the sitting-room.

Johnny spoiled his pretty face, and made his head ache, and the kind gentleman lost his train, all because the silly little boy cried for nothing. This is what big folks call "borrowing trouble;" and it is a very foolish thing to do.

COSSACK HORSES.

A party of Cossacks, with two batteries of horse artillery, were in the bivouac, displaying at first sight their peculiar habit of riding their horses naked in the water. Man and horse played together as boys might with dogs. They swam side by side, or horse in front, man holding on by his tail; there was mounting and dismounting when the horse was swimming, and pushing each other's heads under water, the animal enjoying the fun as much as the man. The reason for this curious habit soon bacame apparent. A fresh batch of horses, dusty and travel-stained, came down to the brink this time, ridden in some cases by Cossacks in uniform. Almost invariably the first impulse of the intelligent little beasts was to lie down and roll in the water about two or three feet deep. When successful, as they often were, their riders had to go down with them, and take their roll too, amid the careless, childlike laughter of their comrades. It was all the same to the horses, whether their masters were on their backs or not; down they went almost invariably, and rolled to heart's content. Sometimes they were driven into the water, half-a-dozen at a time, and played all sorts of pranks together, rolling under each other's bellies and tumbling about more like a set of puppies than horses. Most of them, when they came out of the water, rolled in the dry, dusty stuff that was lately mud by the side of the river, as dogs are fond of doing. These Cossack horses are not shod on their hind feet, but the practice of leaving the hoof to take care of itself does not seem to be suitable to their work here at least. There were not many lame horses there to-day, but those which were lame, suffered almost invariably in their hind feet, though the roads are soft enough with dust. There were some hoofs worn almost exactly as those of an English horse would be if he had cast a shoe out hunting and been ridden quietly home.

The Sabbath School.

LESSON XXXV.—September 2, 1877.—PAUL AT CORINTH.

SCRIPTURE.—Acts 18: 1-11. Commit to memory vs. 7-11.

1. After these things, Paul departed from Athens, and came to Corinth;
2. And found a certain Jew named Aquila, born in Pontus, lately come from Italy, with his wife Priscilla, (because that Claudius had commanded all Jews to depart from Rome) and came unto them.
3. And because he was of the same craft, he abode with them, and wrought, (for by their occupation they were tent-makers.)
4. And he reasoned in the synagogue every Sabbath, and persuaded the Jews and the Greeks,
5. And when Silas and Timotheus were come from Macedonia, Paul was pressed in the spirit, and testified to the Jews, that Jesus was Christ.
6. And when they opposed themselves and blasphemed, he shook his raiment and said unto them, Your blood be upon your own heads: I am clean: from henceforth I will go unto the Gentiles
7. And he departed thence, and entered into a certain man's house, named Justus, one that worshipped God, whose house joined hard to the synagogue.
8. And Crispus the chief ruler of the synagogue, believed on the Lord with all his house: and many of the Corinthians hearing, believed, and were baptized.
9. Then spake the Lord to Paul in the night by a vision, Be not afraid, but speak and hold not thy peace.
10. For I am with thee, and no man shall set on thee, to hurt thee: for I have much people in this city.
11. And he continued there a year and six months, teaching the Word of God among them.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Not slothful in business: fervent in spirit; serving the Lord."—Rom. 12: 11.

Of the labors of Paul in Athens succeeding the events of the last chapter, or how long he stayed there is not told. He was not driven away as from some places, nor was his stay probably long, if we may judge from verse 5, where Silas and Timothy, who had been sent for to come to Athens, joined Paul at Corinth. Howe says, "It is a serious and instructive fact that the mercantile population of Thessalonica and Corinth received the message of God with greater readiness than the highly educated and polished Athenians. Two letters to the Thessalonians and two to the Corinthians remain to attest the flourishing state of those churches. But we possess no letter written by St. Paul to the Athenians, and we do not read that he was ever in Athens again."

Corinth was situated on the isthmus between the Aegean and Ionian seas, and was rebuilt by Julius Caesar. It was at the time of Paul's visit the capital of the Roman province of Achaia and the residence of the pro-consul. The commerce from east and west centered here, and hence a mercantile habit prevailed and the city was large and populous. It had also a large Jewish population increased at this time from the banishment of the Jews from Rome by Claudius Caesar, among whom was Aquila and his wife. This was a noble field for the Gospel, which would naturally be diffused through the channels of commerce far and near.

Aquila and Priscilla are Latin not Jewish names. They had lived long at Rome probably. Pontus, their native country lay on the south of the Black Sea, the most eastern province of Asia Minor. Jews from this district were in Jerusalem at the time of the Pentecost, and Peter addresses Christians living there in his first epistle as among those scattered at the dispersion. Whether Aquila and his wife were converted before coming to Corinth, or through Paul's instrumentality is unknown. If it were we might decide whether it was from likeness of occupation or from spiritual fellowship that he joined them.

Tents were made from hair-cloth, the product of goats of Cilicia, Paul's native province, hence a natural occupation for him. As in Germany and a few other countries perhaps, every youth among the Jews was required to learn a trade, whatever might be the pecuniary circumstances of his parents. Paul labored with his hands partly that he might not be burdensome to the churches and partly that his efforts as a preacher of Christ's Gospel might not be misconstrued.

"Paul was pressed in the spirit."—What that pressure was we happen to know, with singular minuteness and vividness of description, from the apostle himself in his 1st epistle to the Corinthians and Thessalonians (1 Cor. 2:1-5 and 1 Thess. 3:1-10). He had come away from Athens, as he remained there in a depressed and anxious state of mind, having there met for the first time with unwilling Gentile ears. He continued, apparently for some time, laboring alone in the synagogue of Corinth, full of deep and anxious solicitude for his Thessalonian converts. His early ministry at Corinth was colored by these feelings. Self deeply abased, his power as a preacher was more than ever felt to lie in demonstration of the Spirit. At length Silas and Timotheus arrived with exhilerating tidings of the faith and love of his Thessalonian children, and of their earnest longings again to see their father in Christ; bringing with them also, in token of their love and duty, a pecuniary contribution for the supply of his wants. This seems to have so lifted him as to put new life and vigor into his ministry. He now wrote his First Epistle to the Thessalonians in which the "pressure" which resulted from all this strikingly appears. Such emotions are known only to ministers of Christ, and even of them, only to such as "travail in birth until Christ be formed in their hearts."—Jamieson.

SCRIPTURE HELPS.

"Aquila."—Greet Priscilla and Aquila. Rom. 16:3, 4; 1 Cor. 16:19.

"And wrought."—Ye yourselves know that these hands have ministered to my necessities. Acts 20:34; 1 Cor. 4:12; 9:6; 1 Thess. 2:9; 4:11; 2 Thess. 3:8, 9.

"Silas and Timotheus were come."—Then immediately the brethren sent away Paul to go as it were to the sea: but Silas and Timotheus abode there still. Acts 17:14, 15; 1 Thess. 1:1; 3:2, 6.

"Pressed in spirit."—But his word was in mine heart like a burning fire shut up in my bones. Jer. 20:9; Mic. 3:8; Acts 4:20; 17:16; 1 Cor. 9:16.

"Shook his raiment."—Also I shook my lap and said, So God shake out every man from his house and from his labor, that performeth not this promise. Neh. 5:13; Mark 6:11; Luke 9:5.

"Your blood be upon your own heads."—And David said unto him, Thy blood be upon thy head. 2 Sam. 1:16; Ez. 18:13; 33:4, 8, 9, Acts 20:26, 27.

"I am clean."—He took water and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, I am innocent of the blood of this just person. Matt. 27:24, 25; Ez. 33:7-9.

"I will go unto the Gentiles."—Lo we turn to the Gentiles. Acts 13:46, 47; 15:7, 12.

"One that worshipped God."—A devout man and one that feared God. Job 1:1; Acts 10:2.

"Spake the Lord to Paul in the night by a vision."—A vision appeared to Paul in the night. Acts 16:9.

"Be not afraid."—Be strong and of a good courage. Jos. 1:6, 7, 9; Deut. 31:7; Is. 43:1.

"Speak and hold not thy peace."—Cry aloud, spare not—lift up thy voice like a trumpet. Is. 58:1; Jer. 1:17; 4:19; Is. 62:1, 6.

"I am with thee."—I will be with thy mouth. Ex. 4:12; Jos. 1:5, 9; Is. 41:10; Matt. 28:20; Jno. 14:18, 23.

"No man shall set on thee to hurt thee."—No weapon that is formed against thee shall prosper. Is. 54:17; Matt. 10:30; Lu. 21:18; 10:19.

"I have much people in this city."—This people have I formed for myself. Is. 43:21; Ps. 4:3; Jno. 11:52; Acts 15:14; Titus 2:14.

Knights of Pythias Illustrated

A Full Illustrated Exposition

OF THE

Ceremonies of the Three Degrees

OF THE

SUBORDINATE LODGE.

Entered According to Act of Congress in the year 1877.
By Ezra A. Cook & Co.,
In the office of the Librarian of Congress at Washington, D. C.

[CONTINUED.]

Prelate.—"Esquire John Brown, do you declare yourself a Brave man, and make this demand of your own volition?"

Candidate answers.

Prelate.—"Master at Arms, why is he thus blindfolded?"

Master at Arms.—"That he might be conducted through this Castle Hall without being able to discover any of the secrets or ceremonies of the Knight Rank of our Order, should he fail to insist in his demands before the Chancellor Commander."

Prelate.—"Since the Esquire insists in his demands, you will remove the hoodwink, (which being done, the Prelate continues,) and place him in proper position, at the Altar, to take the obligation, by advancing his shield in placing his left hand on his left breast, over the heart, advancing his right foot, his right hand resting on the Book of Law and grasping the hilt of the Sword of Defence before him as if making a parry with the sword, in which position he will assume the obligation."

Master at Arms places candidate in proper position.

Chancellor Commander.—(Two raps.)

OBLIGATION RANK OF KNIGHT.

Prelate, rising, goes to the Altar and says:

"(You will now repeat after me.) I, (your name) do most solemnly and sincerely promise and declare, under the penalties of my former obligations, that I will never reveal, directly or indirectly, any of the signs, tokens or mysteries of this Rank of Bravery, or those of any other Rank of the Knights of Pythias, to any person not properly authorized by this, or a Lodge working under the control of a regularly constituted Grand Lodge, recognized by the Supreme Lodge Knights of Pythias of the World, to receive the same; except it be a just and lawful Knight, whom I shall know to be legally entitled to receive the same, or within the Castle Hall of a just and regularly constituted Lodge, subordinate to the Supreme Lodge, Knights of Pythias of the World.

"I further promise and declare, never to communicate, by word, syllable, letter, sign or character, the semi-annual password to any person, save and except the proper officers within a Lodge, or in course of duty, acting in capacity of Chancellor Commander, Grand Chancellor or his deputy, or Supreme Chancellor or his deputy.

"I further promise to obey all orders that may be given me, emanating from the Supreme, Grand, this or any other Lodge of this Order of which I may become a member, or any competent authority issuing the same, so long as they do not conflict with my political or religious liberty. And if I ever, by word or sign, expose the secret work or ceremonies of this Order, in an unauthorized manner, or fail in any of my obligations, may I suffer all the anguish and torments possible for man to suffer. All this I promise and declare, without any mental reservation whatever. So help me God, and keep me steadfast."

"Prelate.—"Esquire John Brown, in testimony of your sincerity, you will now kiss the Book that is open before you, which is our Book of Law, the Holy Bible." (Kisses the book.)

Chancellor Commander.—(Three raps.)

Prelate.—"Esquire, you have now taken the obligation that ties you to us, and I hail you as an aspirant to the honors due to a Knight of this Order. You must ever remember your obligation, and the purpose of your shield in the Second or Armorial Rank of Esquire in this Order. You have seen how easily you might have fallen into an error, but for the interposition of a brother. Let the solemnity of that occurrence be ever present in your mind and emblazoned upon your shield and memory, to stimulate you to fulfill and keep inviolate every obligation taken by you. The obligation to which you have just subscribed, imposes a condition to obey all orders which may be given you, so long as they do not conflict with your civil or religious liberty. You have also stated in this Lodge that you are a man of courage. That assertion remains yet to be proven; and for the last time inviting your attention to the arrangement of the Altar, Book of Law and Swords of Defence, (explains them;) I now consign you to our Master at Arms, who will proceed with you to the ante-room, properly equip and present you to the Chancellor Commander, before whom your bravery may be put to a severe test. Have confidence, should such be the case, and all will be well."

Master at Arms takes him out and equips him in the helmet, shield, baldric, belt and sword with no blade to its handle, but is firmly soldered to the scabbard; when thus equipped he knocks, is admitted and taken before the Chancellor Commander.

Master at Arms.—"Chancellor Commander, under the instructions of the Prelate, I present Esquire John Brown who has taken the obligation of the Chivalric Rank of Knight, in this Order, and now demands his final instructions."

Vice Chancellor.—"Chancellor Commander, before you proceed any further, I demand to know by what right he wears the uniform, equipments and arms of a Knight without having gone through an ordeal to test his claims to so high a rank in this Chivalric Order? I demand the ordeal!"

Chancellor Commander.—"I had hoped the Esquire's conduct had been such as to warrant the Lodge in waiving this fearful ceremonial; yet it is for the Lodge, in its sovereign capacity, to say. Brethren what say you, is it ordeal, or no ordeal?"

All.—"Ordeal, the ordeal!"

Chancellor Commander.—"The Lodge so decides. Master at Arms, you will repair to the armory of this Castle Hall, and bring forth the first implement of torture contained therein that your hand may fall upon, and produce it here—remember that it is my order that you select from all that are there in the dark."

Master at Arms retires, and things are heard to fall down, making noise, etc.; in the meantime the Chancellor Commander instructs an assistant to relieve the candidate of helmet, shield, etc., and the Master at Arms returns with his selection and places it before the candidate; the Chancellor Commander exhibits the "Property of the Third Rank," an oak plank with about thirty-six spikes set therein, and causes candidate to examine it closely, after which it is placed in position. The ceremonies are varied, the language extempore and is such as the Chancellor Commander thinks will make a deep impression on the candidate. Though the Chancellor Commander plainly intimates that there are a number of implements of torture, there is in fact only an oak plank about twenty inches square and two inches thick, filled with spikes of iron or steel, five or six inches long, called the "property" and another an exact imitation of the first in appearance, in which the teeth are rubber. In some cases blood is sprinkled on and between the spikes to make the effect the more terrifying to the mind of the candidate. The "property" being in position the Master at Arms conducts the candidate to a chair or the three steps facing the "property" and directs him to take off his boots, when the Chancellor Commander says: "Brother Master at Arms you will conduct the candidate this way."

He is conducted near the Chancellor Commander who then addresses him in a short impromptu speech in which he pictures the various tests and tortures suffered by others in past ages, thus still further exciting his feelings, while at the same time diverting his attention while the plank with rubber spikes in is put in place of the other.

He is then escorted by the Master at Arms and executioners to a chair two or three feet back of the "property" which is between the chair and the Chancellor Commander. He steps into the chair, faces the Chancellor Commander, and the Knights form in two rows about six feet apart facing inward, each wearing a mask and long black robe, the robes of the executioners extending over the head with small holes to see through. When thus ready the Master at Arms says: "Chancellor Commander, the candidate is in proper position."

Chancellor Commander to candidate (moving forward and bringing his sword to a "carry").—"We are now going to test your protestations of friendship and your fidelity to your obligation. You have sworn you would obey all orders emenating from the Supreme Chancellor, Grand Chancellor or the Chancellor Commander of this Lodge. I now as Chancellor Commander of this Lodge order you to jump with both feet on those points."

If he does not promptly obey the Knights all say: "He hesitates, he hesitates," etc.

If he does not obey the second order to jump they cry: "Coward," etc.

If he does not obey the third order to jump the Chancellor Commander orders the executioners to put him on the points which they proceed to do, sometimes bringing down both feet on the mock spikes and sometimes laying him down on them.

Should there be two candidates, after the first is tested they lay him down with a white robe over him and red cloths at his feet and when the second candidate comes to the test the first lies groaning as if in great agony. [This groaning humbug is not always practiced.] About one man in ten will jump under the impression that the board with spikes in will be jerked away by some one.

When the foregoing or similar ceremonies are completed the Master at Arms conducts the candidate to the Vice Chancellor.

Master at Arms.—"Vice Chancellor, I present Esquire John Brown, who has passed the ordeal that all Knights of this order must undergo, and having so done, now demands from you the sign, countersign, password and grip of this the Third or Chivalric Rank of Knight, he being entitled thereto."

Vice Chancellor.—"My brother, as a Brave man, I (should he not obey—cannot) greet you. May the lesson you have received to-night be impressed indelibly upon your mind. We find many obstructions laying in our path through life, which, to the timid may seem dangerous and deadly; but the truly courageous man may brave them all and find them mere shadows. And now, with the hope that you will ever show yourself as brave as

(or if not obeying—a braver man than) you have during the progress of this ceremonial, I will, with pleasure, instruct you in the signs, countersigns, password and grip.

[The above is extempore and other appropriate words may be used.]

The sign of Bravery or Courtesy in the Rank of Knight is as follows:

SIGN OF BRAVERY OR COURTESY, THIRD RANK.

Form a triangle with forearms extending horizontally from you, points of fingers and thumbs together and spread out; heel of hands about five inches apart. See cut. This is called the visor sign.

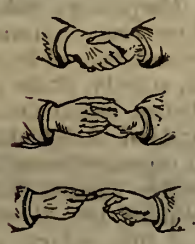
VISOR SIGN ON ENTERING LODGE.

On entering to salute the Chancellor Commander, raise visor so as to touch the breast with the forefingers, the thumbs pointing downward. Hands are then separated and with a gentle wave are brought to the side.

VISOR SIGN ON RETIRING FROM LODGE.

On retiring approach the Altar, face the Chancellor Commander and turn the visor (hands) down, so that the thumbs point up and the fingers down and then bring hands to side with a gentle wave.

The Countersign, given by the Chancellor Commander, is same as sign or a wave of the hand. The Password, given at the inner door, is Confidence. The Alarm at the inner door is two raps. The Grip is given in this manner:



GRIP, THIRD RANK.

Take each other by the right hand as for ordinary hand shake. When withdrawing hands press each other's forefinger with thumb and forefinger, gently, the whole length of finger, slightly crooking the ends of the forefingers and hooking or pressing them together at the points.

Vice Chancellor.—"Master at Arms, you will now conduct our newly tried and instructed brother to the Chancellor Commander for final examination, instruction and enrollment on the roster of this Lodge, as having that Rank. (He does so.)

Master at Arms.—"Chancellor Commander, by direction of the Vice Chancellor of this Lodge, I present to you Brother John Brown, who has been instructed in the sign, countersign, password and grip of the Third or Chivalric Rank of Knight, for final examination, instruction and enrollment on the roster of this Lodge as having that Rank."

Chancellor Commander.—"Brother John Brown, as an evidence of the attention paid to the instruction already given you, you will be kind enough to satisfy me that you are in possession of the sign.

Candidate gives the Visor Sign which he says is used upon entering and down on retiring; the Countersign, same or a wave of the hand; the Password, Confidence; the Alarm, two raps; the Grip, shake hands in ordinary manner, then press each other's forefinger, whole length of finger, gently, hooking the forefingers slightly as the hands are withdrawn.

Chancellor Commander.—"You being correct so far in the work of this Chivalric Rank, I will now instruct you in the following. The Sign of Recognition or Challenge Sign is:

SIGN OF RECOGNITION OR CHALLENGE SIGN, THIRD RANK.

Place left hand over the heart; right hand open, palm down and about the height of the hips, indicating the position your hands were in when you took the obligation.

The answer is the same, indicating the same, it being simply the position your hands were in when assuming the obligation of the First, or Initiatory Rank of Page.

The Voting Sign is:

VOTING SIGN.

Clench the left hand and raise it about as high as the eyes.

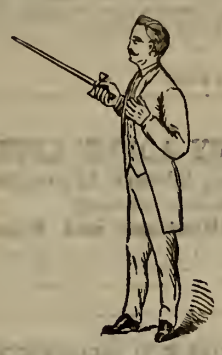
The Semi-Annual Password, as its name indicates, and which is given at the outer door, (the Rank Passwords are not,) is ——

The Parry Sign is:

PARRY SIGN, THIRD RANK.

Bring sword to a "present" and then swing the point to the left as if warding off a blow.

The Grand Honors are given thus:



Place the left hand on the heart and sword at a "present."

Supreme Honors same as Grand honors

INITIATION.

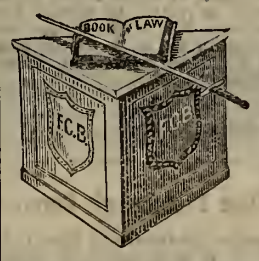
Amended Perfected and Amplified Ancient and Chivalric Form

OF THE

THIRD RANK, KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

NOTE:—This Rank and the "regular" Third Rank are substantialty one; only differing in the mode of conferring. No man who has taken either of them will receive the other third rank.

The Perfected and Amplified Rank is conferred in but a few wealthy lodges, because of the great expense attending the purchase of the apparatus for conferring it.



The Esquire is taken to the ante-room when he is instructed by the Master at Arms to say, in answer to any direct interrogatory made of him, "By what right does he make this demand?" the answer will be, "By that of being a brave man," or else get the candidate to authorize him—the Master at Arms—to do so for him, after which he is blindfolded, the shield put on his left forearm as in the preceding Rank; he is then conducted to the inner door, upon which there is no shield; the Master at Arms gives two raps, which are answered in the same manner from within, and the wicket is opened.

Inner Guard.—"Who comes here? Who dares to interrupt the proceedings of this Lodge while working in the Third, or Chivalric Rank of Knight?"

Master at Arms.—"Esquire John Brown, who having received the First, or Initiatory Rank of Page, been proved in the Second or Armorial Rank of Esquire, and passing a fair ballot, now declares himself a Brave man, and as such demands admittance to this Lodge of the Third, or Chivalric Rank of Knight."

Inner Guard (closes wicket.)—"Chancellor Commander, there is without an Esquire who has received the First or Initiatory Rank of Page, been proved in the Second or Armorial Rank of Esquire, and now demands admittance to this Lodge of the Third or Chivalric Rank of Knight."

Chancellor Commander.—"By what right does he make this demand?"

Inner Guard.—"By reason of having been initiated, proved, passing a fair ballot, and boasting himself a Brave man."

Chancellor Commander.—"Such being his pledge and demand and having attained the necessary preparatory Rank, it is my order as Chancellor Commander that you let him enter without further challenge."

The Master at Arms conducts the Esquire around the Castle Hall once and halts before the chair of the Chancellor Commander.

Master at Arms.—"Chancellor Commander, Esquire John Brown, who has been duly initiated as a Page, and proved as an Esquire, in this Chivalric Order, desires to receive the highest Rank conferred by this Lodge, by being instructed in the mysteries and passing through the ordeal that all brave Knights have done who have reached this summit of Pythian honors."

Chancellor Commander.—"Esquire, is this your demand?"

Candidate answers.

Chancellor Commander.—"Upon entering this Castle Hall as a Retainer, seeking the First or Initiatory Rank of Page, a requirement was exacted from and of you; do you remember what it was, and if so, will you state its nature?"

Candidate.—Obedience."

[To be Continued.]

Masonic Books.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

☞All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Those who wish to know the character of Freemasonry, as shown by its own publications, will find many standard works in the following list.

No sensible Mason dares deny that such men as Albert G. Mackey, the great Masonic Lexicographer, and Daniel Sickels, the Masonic author and publisher, are the highest Masonic authority in the United States.

All the books advertised here are used by Masons, but Duncan's Ritual, Allyn's Ritual and Richardson's Monitor, are not publicly acknowledged as Masonic authority, because they tell too much.

WEB'S MONITOR O FREEMASONRY.

LARGE Edition, with Notes by ROB. MORRIS. Price, $1.50. Pocket Edition, 75 Cts.

FEMALE MASONRY.

MANNUAL OF THE ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR.

Containing the Ritual, Symbols Lectures etc., of the five Degrees of "Adoptive Masonry:" Jeptha's Daughter; Ruth, Esther, Martha and Electa, profusely illustraited and handsomely bound.

Price.....$1 00

SICKELS' FREEMASON'S MONITOR,

CONTAINING the Degrees of Freemasonry embraced in the Lodge, Chapter, Council, and Commandery, embellished with nearly 300 symbolic Illustrations, together with Tactics and Drill of Masonic Knighthood. Also, forms of Masonic Documents, Notes, Songs, Masonic dates, Installations, etc. By D. SICKELS; 32 mo. Tuck. Price. $1.50. Cloth, $1.

GENERAL AHIMAN REZON AND FREEMASON'S GUIDE.

BY DANIEL SICKELS, 33°

The most perfect Masonic Monitor published in the United States. Embellished with nearly 300 Engravings, and Portrait of the Author, Containing Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow-Craft, and Master Mason, with Explanatory Notes and Lectures; with the Ceremonies of Consecration and Dedication of New Lodges, Installation of Officers, Laying Foundation Stones, Dedication of Masonic Halls, Burial Services, Masonic Calendar, Ritual for a Lodge of Sorrow, Masonic Trials, etc.

Bound in fine cloth extra, large 12mo.....$2 00.

DUNCAN'S MASONIC RITUAL AND MONITOR,

PROFUSELY Illustrated with Explanatory Engravings, and containing the entire Ritual and work of the Order for the Seven Degrees, including the Royal Arch. Scores of Masons have privately admitted that this is a Standard Text-Book in the Lodge, and is strictly correct; but publicly it is not acknowledged as authority, though almost every officer of the Lodge makes use of it. Price in cloth, $2.50.

MACKEY'S MANUAL OF THE LODGE.

Or Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, with Ceremonies Relating to Installations, Dedications, Consecrations, Laying of Corner stones, etc. Price, $2.

Al'yn's Ritual of Masonry.

ILLUSTRATED by a large number of Engravings, and containing a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, Orange and Odd-fellows' Societies. Price, $5.00.

MACKEY'S LEXICON OF FREEMASONRY,

CONTAINING a Definition of Terms, Notices of its History, Traditions, and Antiquities, and an Account of all the Rites and Mysteries of the Ancient World. 12 mo.; 526 pages; $3.

MACKEY'S TEXT-BOOK

Of Masonic Jurisprudence,

ILLUSTRATING the Laws of Freemasonry, both written and unwritten. This is the Great Law Book of Freemasonry—570 pages. Price, $2.50.

MACKEY'S MASONIC RITUALIST;

Or Monitorial Instruction Book,

BY ALBERT G. MACKEY.

PAST General High Priest of the General Grand Chapter of the United States, Knight of the Eagle and Pelican, Prince of Mercy, etc. Price, Cloth, $1.25; Tuck, $1.75.

MOORE'S MASONIC TRESTLE BOARD.

THIS work was originally prepared by order of the National Masonic Convention held at Baltimore, Md., in 1843. It is known among Masons everywhere as the "BLUE BOOK," and has long been considered a standard work. Price, $1.75.

TRUE MASONIC CHART; OR, HIEROGLYPHIC MONITOR.

BY JEREMY L. CROSS, Grand Lecturer.

With a Memoir and Portrait of the Author, Containing all the Emblems explained in the Degrees of entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason. Designed and arranged agreeably to the Lectures.

12mo. Cloth.....$1 50

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry.

A PRACTICAL Guide to the Ceremonies in the Degrees conferred in Masonic Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated edition. In cloth, $1.25; paper, 75 Cts.

Although this Monitor is extensively used in the Lodge, especially in Conferring the higher degrees, it is publicly called an "exposition," and not allowed as authority.

Descriptive Catalogue of Publications of Ezra A. Cook & Co.

13 Wabash Ave. Chicago

BOOKS.

☞ Books at Doz. or Retail Prices sent post-paid. Not less than one-half doz. sent at dozen rates. By the 100 (25 Copies at 100 rate,) Expressage or Postage extra.

☞ Books sent by Mail are not at our risk.

Books at retail or by the dozen, ordered by Express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK; party ordering to pay Ex[illegible]

FREEMASONRY EXPOSED,

by CAP'T. WILLIAM MORGAN.

THE GENUINE OLD MORGAN BOOK:—republished with engravings showing the Lodge Room, Dress of candidates, Signs, Due Guards, Grips, Etc.

This revelation is so accurate that Freemasons murdered the author for writing it. Thousands have testified to the correctness of the revelation and this book therefore sells very rapidly.

Price 25 cents.

Per Doz. Post Paid..... $2.00
Per hundred by express, (express charges extra.).....$10.00

ODD FELLOWSHIP ILLUSTRATED.

A complete exposition of the Lodge Encampment and Rebecca (Ladies') Degree. The Signs, Grips, &c., shown by engravings.

Single copy, post paid,..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per Hundred, Express charges extra,..... 10 00

EXPOSITION OF THE GRANGE.

EDITED BY REV. A. W. GREESLIN.

Illustrated with Engravings showing Lodge Room, Signs, Signals, etc.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 10 00

Judge Whitney's Defense Before the Grand Lodge of Ill.

Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the Lodge when S. L. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the Lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz. " " 1 50
Per 100, Express charges extra..... 8 00

History of The Abduction and Murder Cap't. Wm. Morgan,

As prepared by Seven Committees of Citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan.

This book contains indisputable, legal evidence that Freemasons, abducted and Murdered Wm. Morgan, for no other offence than the revelation of Masonry. It contains the sworn testimony of over twenty persons, including Morgan's wife, and no candid person after reading this book, can doubt that many of the most respectable FREEMASONS. in the Empire State, with others were concerned in this crime.

Single Copy, post Paid,... ..... 25 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $2,00.
Per 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 10.00.

Valance's Confession of The Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan.

This confession of Henry L. Valanco, one of the three Freemasons who drowned Morgan in the Niagara River, was taken from the lips of the dying man by Dr. John C. Emery, of Racine County, Wisconsin in 1848; The confession bears clear evidence of truthfulness.

Single copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $1.50.
Per 100 Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

The Mystic Tie or Freemasonry a League with the Devil.

This is an account of the Church Trial of Peter Cook, and wife of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a Reverend Freemason; and their very able defence presented by Mrs. Lucia C. Cook, in which she clearly shows that Freemasonry, is antagonistic to the Christian Religion. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents

Per dozen, post paid..... $1 50
Per hundred Express charges Extra, ... 9 00

NARRATIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

Showing the Conflict of Secret Societies with the Constitution and Laws of the Union and of the States, by FRANCIS SEMPLE.

The fact that Secret Societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of Law is here clearly proved.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20
Per doz. " " $1.75
Per 100 Express charges Extra..... 9.00

THE BROKEN SEAL.

OR PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF Wm. MORGAN,

By SAMUEL D. GREENE,

Price in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.
In Paper Covers per Doz. Post paid.....$4 50
" per hundred by express (ex. charges extra $25.00

Capt. Wm. Morgan was Mr. Greene's neighbor in Batavia, N. Y., and a member of the same lodge with him at the time of the great excitement in 1826. The titles to these chapters are sufficiently exciting to give the book a large sale:—"The Storm Gathering;" "Abduction of Morgan;" "Attempted Abduction of Miller and his Rescue;" "What became of Morgan;" "What Morgan Actually Revealed;" "Confession of the Murderer;" "Allegations against Freemasonry, etc."

THE ANTI-MASON'S SCRAP BOOK,

CONSISTING OF 21 CYNOSURE TRACTS.

In this book are the views of more than a Score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of Secret Societies.

The dangerous tendency and positive evil of organized Secrecy is here shown by the most varied and powerful arguments and illustrations that have ever been given to the public.

Lecturers and others who wish to find the best arguments against the Lodge, should send for this book.

Those who wish to circulate Antimasonic Tracts ought to have the book to select from.

Single Copy, post paid, ...20 cents.
Per Doz. " $1.75
Per 100, Express charges Extra,.....$10.00

Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion.

A clear cutting argument against the Lodge, from a Christian Stand point.

Single Copy post paid.....$ 05
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 3 00

PHELPS' SECRET SOCIETIES Ancient and Modern.

A NEW BOOK OF GREAT INTEREST.

This work is particularly commended to the attention of Officers of The Army and Navy, The Bench and The Clergy.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

"THE ANTIQUITY OF SECRET SOCIETIES, THE LIFE OF JULIAN, THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES, THE ORIGIN OF MASONRY, WAS WASHINGTON A MASON? FILMORE'S AND WEBSTER'S DEFERENCE TO MASONRY, A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRESS OF MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES, THE TAMMANY RING, MASONIC BENEVOLENCE, THE USES OF MASONRY, AN ILLUSTRATION, THE CONCLUSION."

Single Copy, Post Paid..... 50
Per Doz " " $4 75
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$25 00

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' LETTERS

to Col. Wm. Stone, Edward Livingstone,

and others, on the nature of

Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties.

Price, post paid..... $ 50
Per Doz., " 4 50
Per 100, Express Charges extra..... 25 00

COLLEGE SECRET SOCIETIES.

Their Customs, Character and the Efforts for their Suppression.

BY H. L. KELLOGG.

Containing the opinion of many prominent College Presidents, and others, and a FULL ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER OF MORTIMER LEGGETT

Single Copy, post paid.....$ 35
Per Doz " " 2 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 15 00

MINUTES OF THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION,

Containing addresses by Rev. B. T. Roberts, Chas. D. Greene, Esq., Prof. C. A. Blanchard, Rev. D. P. Rathbun, Rev. D. S. Caldwell, Mrs. M. E. Gage, Elder J. R. Baird and others. Unpublished Reminiscences of the Morgan Times, by Elder David Bernard; Recollections of the Morgan Trials, as related by Victory Birdseye, Esq., and presented by his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Miller; Secretary's report; roll of delegates; songs of Mr. G. A. Clark; paper by Enoch Honeywell; Constitution N. C. A.; reports of committees, and a report of the political meeting.

Single Copy, post paid, ... 25
Per doz. " $2.00
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 10.00

Proceedings of the Pittsburgh Convention,

Containing Official Reports; Addresses by Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. Rev. S. T. Roberts, Rev. G. T. R. Meiser, Prof. J. R. W. Sloane, D. D., Pres't. J. Blanchard, Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D., Rev. Woodruff Post, Rev. Henry Cogswell, Prof. C. A. Blanchard, and Rev W. E. Coquilette, also Report of the POLITICAL MASS CONVENTION, with Platform and Candidates for the Presidential Campaign of 1876.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25 cts.
Per doz " $2 00
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 10 00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. W. P. M'NARY,

Pastor United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Ind.

This is a very clear, thorough, candid and remarkably concise Scriptural argument on the character of Freemasonry.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 5
Per Doz,..... 50
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$3 00

THIRTEEN REASONS

Why a Christian Should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong.

The author states his reasons clearly and carefully, and any one of the thirteen reasons, if properly considered, will keep a Christian out of the Lodge.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 5
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100, Express charges extra,..... $3.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. JAMES WILLIAMS.

Presiding Elder of Dakota District North-western Iowa Conference, M. E. Church, A SECEDING MASTER MASON.

Published at the special request of the Nine Clergymen of different denominations and others.

Single Copy, post paid..... 10
Per doz. " 75
Per 100, Express Charges Extra.....$4.00

MASONRY A WORK OF DARKNESS

ADVERSE TO CHRISTIANITY, and Inimical to a Republican Government.

BY REV. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG, [Presbyterian.]

A Seceding Mason of 21 Degrees.

This is a very telling work and no honest man that reads it will think of joining the lodge. Single Copy, post paid,.....20cts.

Per doz. post paid,..... $1.50.
" 100, Express Charges Extra..... 8.00.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy.

Address of Prest. J. BLANCHARD, before the Pittsburgh Convention.

This is a most convincing argument against the lodge.

Single Copy, Post Paid ..... $ 05
Per Doz " 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON SCERETISM

BY REV. R. THEO. CROSS.

This is a very clear array of the objections to Masonry that are apparent to all.

By Rev. R. T. Cross, Pastor Congregational Church, Hamilton, N.Y.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

Its relation to civil Government and the Christian Religion.

By Prest. J. BLANCHARD, at the Monmouth Convention.

The Unchristian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is here proved from the highest masonic authorities.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP

AND OTHER SECRET SOCIETIES

By Rev. J. SARVER, Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church, Leechburg. Pa.

This is a very clear argument against Secretism of all forms and the duty to disfellowship, Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications.

Single Copy, Post Paid.....$ 10
Per Dozen " 75
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 4 00

Sermon on Secret Societies,

BY REV. DANIEL DOW, Woodstock, Conn.

The special object of this sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the Character of Secret Societies, no matter what object they profess to have.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 05
Per Dozen, " " 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 3 00

President H. H. GEORGE, On Secret Societies.

A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian Churches, to disfellowship Secret Societies.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 10 cts.
Per doz, " ..... 75 "
Per 100, Express charges Extra, ... $4.00.

History of the National Christian Association.

Its origin, objects, what it has done and aim to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought; The Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association, Conditions of the Carpenter Donation with engraving of building to be donated by Mr. Carpenter; tablet, showing the number of pastors and communicants in churches that exclude members of Secret societies; tabular view of local, county, State and National Conventions, and list of organizations Auxiliary to the National Christian Association. Brief opinions of eminent men on secret societies, and testimonies of religious bodies against them. This book will be found invaluable by all who wish to know the character of this reform and how they may do the most to further its objects. It should be in the hands of every Anti-mason.

Price, post paid, 25 cents each; per doz., $1.50. 25 copies or more by express at 8 cents each.

NEW BOOKS

HAND-BOOK OF FREEMASONRY.

BY EDMOND RONAYNE, late Past Master of Keystone Lodge, No. 639, Chicago. A full illustrated Exposition of the Three Degrees of "Ancient Craft Masonry:" Entered Apprentice. Fellow Craft and Master Mason, embracing the "Standard Work" of the Order.

Single Copy, $0 50. Per dozen, $4 00. Per 100 $25 00.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WITH SIGNS OF RECOGNITION, PASS WORDS, GRIPS, Etc., and the RITUAL of the MACHINISTS AND BLACKSMITHS' UNION. (The two bound together.)

Single Copy, $0 25. Per dozen, $2 00. Per 100 $10 00.

Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees of Freemasonry

Nothing can more clearly show the abominations of this system of iniquity than its horrible Oaths and Penalties.

Single Copy, $0 15. Per dozen, $1 00. Per 100 $6 00.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret Societies.

A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons in the Christian Church.

Single Copy $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100, $4 50

Secrecy v. s. The Family, State and Church.

BY REV. M. S. DRURY. The antagonism of Organized Secrecy with the welfare of the Family, State and Church is clearly shown

Single Copy, $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100 $4 00.

ANTIMASONIC TRACTS

NOW HAVE 25 ENGLISH TRACTS, 6 MAN, AND ONE SWEDISH

These tracts are sold at the rate of $1.00 per 1000 pages.

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together, and is just the thing to select tracts from. Price 20 cents. See advertisement

For information about Free Tracts see advertisement headed "Free Tracts."

Address EZRA A. COOK & Co.,
18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TRACT NO. 1:

HISTORY OF MASONRY.

BY PRESIDENT J. BLANCHARD, OF WHEATON COLLEGE.

This is now published in three tracts of four pages each. Price of each, 50 cents per 100; $4 per 1000.

TRACT No. 1, PART FIRST—Shows the origin of Speculative Freemasonry, and is entiled "HISTORY OF MASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART SECOND—Is entitled "DESPOTIC CHARACTER OF FREEMASONRY"

TRACT No. 1, PART THIRD—Is entitled "FREEMASONRY A CHRIST-EXCLUDING RELIGION"

TRACT NO. 2:

MASONIC MURDER,

By REV. J. R. BAIRD, of Pleasantville, Pa., a seceding Mason who has taken 17 degrees. A 2-page tract at 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 3:

SECRETS OF MASONRY,

BY ELI TAPLEY.

This is a 4-page Illustrated Tract, showing the signs, grips and pass-words, of the first three degrees. 50 cents per 100, or $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 4:

GRAND! GREAT GRAND!!

BY PHILO CARPENTER.

This is a 2-page tract, calling the attention of the public to the despotic and ridiculous titles of Freemasonry. Price 25 cents per 100; $2 00 per 1,000.

TRACT. NO. 5:

Extracts From Masonic Oaths and Penalties, as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.

This tract is a reprint of a tract published in 1834, and is a very weighty document. A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 6:

Hon. John Quincy Adams' Letter.

Giving His and His Father's Opinion of Freemasonry (1831.);

AND

Hon. James Madison's Letter,

Giving His Opinion of Freemasonry (1832).

Both of these letters, in one 4-page tract, at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 7:

SATAN'S CABLE-TOW.

A 4-page tract. This is a careful analysis of the character of Masonic oaths, and shows them to be most blasphemous and unchristian; and the Masonic Cable Tow is clearly shown to be the Cable Tow by which Satan is leading thousands to eternal death. 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 8:

Is a 2-page double tract, "ILLUSTRATED." The first page represents a Mason proclaiming the wonderful wisdom and benevolence of the order, with an article below, entitled "Freemasonry is only 152 Years Old," and gives the time and place of its birth.

The second side is entitled, "Murder and Treason not Excepted," and shows that the Masonic order is treasonable in its constitution, and is both anti-Republican and anti-Christian. Price 25 cents per 100; $2 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 9, ILLUSTRATED:

FREEMASONRY IN THE CHURCH.

Copy of a petition for the higher degrees of Freemasonry, in which Blasphemous and Despotic Titles are enumerated and prayed for. The Copy was printed for the use of "Occidental Sovereign Consistory S. P. R. S.," 32d degree—a Chicago Lodge—and was ordered by a deacon of a Christian Church who is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ill

TRACT NO. 10:

CHARACTER AND SYMBOLS OF FREEMASONRY.

A 2-page tract, (ILLUSTRATED) by its "Grand Secretaries, Grand Lecturers, Perfect Prince Freemasons, Grand Inspector, Inquisitor Commanders, Grand High Priests," etc. The wonderful symbolical meaning of "the Cable Tow," "the Square and Compass," "the Lamb Skin, or white Apron," and "the Common Gavel," are given in the exact words of the highest Masonic authority. 25 cents per 100 or $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 11;

Address of Niagara County Association, New York.

TO THE PUBLIC,

Concerning the Morgan Murder, and the character of Freemasonry shown by this and other Masonic murders. 50 cents

TRACT NO. 12:

JUDGE WHITNEY AND MASONRY.

This tract contains a condensed account of Judge Whitney's Defense before the Grand Lodge of Illinois, on charge of unmasonic conduct in bringing Samuel L. Keith the murderer of Ellen Slade. and a member of his Lodge, to justice, with Judge Whitney's subsequent renunciation of Masonry,

An 8-page tract, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 13:

DR. NATHANIEL COLVER ON MASONRY,

and

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D.,

Chancellor of the University of New York, on SECRET SOCIETIES

A double 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 14:

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

ITS RELATION TO CIVIL GOVERNMENT AND THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION.

Opening address before the Monmouth Convention, by PRES. J. BLANCHARD of WHEATON COLLEGE. This is a 16-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 15:

MASONIC OATHS NULL AND VOID.

A clear and conclusive argument proving the invalidity of any oath or obligation to do evil. By REV. I. A. HART, Secretary National Christian Association. Published by special order of the Association. 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 16:

HON. SETH M. GATES ON FREEMASONRY.

PROOF THAT THE INSTITUTION THAT MURDERED MORGAN IS UNCHANGED IN CHARACTER

This is a letter to the Monmouth Convention by Hon. Seth M. Gates who was Deputy Sheriff of Genesee County, and also Secretary of the Leroy Lodge at the time of Morgan's Abduction. A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 17:

Origin, Obligations and Expenses of The Grange.

WITH A CONSTITUTION OF A FARMERS' CLUB.

This little tract ought to be put into the hands of every Farmer in the United States. Four-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4 00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 18:

HON. WM. H. SEWARD ON SECRET SOCIETIES

Extracts from a Speech on Know-nothingism in the U. S. Senate in 1855. The testimony of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, MILLARD FILLMORE CHIEF JUSTIC MARSHALL and others is added.

A 2-page tract, 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 19.

BRICKS FOR MASONS TO LAY.

WASHINGTON, MADISON, MARSHALL, RUSH, HANCOCK ADAMS AND WEBSTER, give brief clear testimony against the Lodge A 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT

OBJECTIONS TO MASONRY.

By A SECEDING MASON, of Corinton, Vermont.

This tract contains many strong arguments against the Lodge drawn from personal experience, observation and study of its character A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 21:

MASONIC CHASTITY.

BY EMMA A. WALLACE,

The author, by wonderfully clear illustration and argument, shows the terribly corrupt nature of Freemasonry. No true woman who reads this will ever speak with approbation of this institution. A 4-page tract 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 22.

LINUS CHITTENDEN ON FREEMASONRY.

The Author a Seceding Master Mason states his objection to the Lodge, drawn both from experience and observation, in a clear concise and forcible style,

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 23.

MASONIC OATHS AND PENALTIES.

ADDRESS OF REV. A. M. MILLIGAN AT THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION

This is the clearest and most conclusive argument to show the wickedness of masonic oaths and the duty to disregard and repent of them that we have ever seen.

A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 24.

SHOULD FREEMASONS BE ADMITTED TO CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP?

The principles and teachings of Freemasonry taken from the highest masonic authorities are compared with those of the Bible, several Masonic Oaths are given in whole or in part with the comments of Rev's. Moses Stewart, Nathaniel Colver, and Charles G. Finney, on this character. Those who love a pure Christianity should aid in the circulation of this tract. A 4 page tract, 50cts. per 100, $1.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 25.

The American Party.

ITS OBJECT, ORGANIZATION, PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES.

Some of the ablest men in the nation have pronounced our platform the best that has been presented to the American people for the past fifty years Our Candidates are men of acknowledged ability and honesty, and if every voter in the United States could read this our "POLITICAL TRACT," our Candidates could undoubtedly be elected. One friend pledges a dollar for every other dollar contributed and this 8 page tract costs but $1.00 per 100, or $8.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 26.

FREEMASONRY A RELIGION.

This Tract is made up of quotations from Standard Masonic Authors and nothing could more clearly demonstrate the fact that Freemasonry claims to be a Christless and therefore Anti-christian religion.

An 8 page Tract, $1 00 per 100. $8 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 27.

Duty and Ability to Know the Character of Freemasonry.

Thousands seem to consider it a virtue to know nothing about the character of Secret Societies. This is shown to be a great error if not a crime and our duty to use the knowledge within our reach, especially when of such vital importance, is clearly enforced.

A 4 Page Tract, 50 cents per 100. $4 00 per 1000.

Cynosure Tract No. 28.

FREEMASONRY REVEALED.

A LEGAL ATTESTATION BY EDMOND RONAYNE

To the correctness of the published expositions of Freemasonry. The author very briefly states the mode of preparation and initiation in the various degrees, with the mock murder and resurrection of the candidate in the personification of Hiram Abiff in the 3d, degree and the penalties of each.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100. $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 1, IN SWEDISH;

translated by Prof. A. R. CERVIN. A 15 page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

ENOCH HONEYWELL'S TRACT.

TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA. Postage 5cts. per 100, TRACTS FREE.

GERMAN CYNOSUCE TRACT A.

Six Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason.

By Rev. A. GROLÆ, Pastor, German M. E. Church, Worchester, Mass

This is our first German Tract, and it is a good one; it ought to have a large circulation. A 4 page tract, Price 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

FREE TRACTS.

A Tract Fund for the Free Distribution of Tracts

HAS BEEN SECURED AND SHOULD NEVER BE EXHAUSTED. A friend has pledged this fund a dollar for every other dollar received, so EVERY NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TRACT UND COUNTS DOUBLE, and thus $10.00 pays for 20,000 pages of tracts.

The distribution of these tracts has already saved hundreds o young men from the lodge, but there is a great lack of funds to supply the constantly increasing demand for Free Tracts.

During the year 1876 were gratuitously sent out, mostly in very small lots. The present demand is fully 100.000 pages per month. but funds are lacking to meet it.

Many of our most earnest workers in this cause of God are poor men, who would be glad to circulate thousands of pages of Antimasonic literature if they could have them free.

SHALL WE NOT HAVE AN INEXHAUSTIBLE TRACT FUND

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together and is just the thing to select from. Price 20cents. See advertisement page 15.

Enoch Honeywell Esq., pays for an unlimited number of his tract addressed "To THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA." It is an excelent tract, bearing the printed endorsement of Executive Committee of the National Christian Association. He has furnished the public over 150.000 pages of these tracts during the past year.

TRACTS FREE. If sent by mail, 5 cts per 100 is charged postage,

Send Contributions and orders to

EZRA A. COOK.

Tract Committee 18 Wabash Ave, Chicago, Ill.

Publishers' Department.

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED DURING WEEK ENDING AUG. 18, 1877, from D Alcott, H Avery, M Beach, P Butler, M C Baker, W O Creager, G M Clark, C C Coffin, H D Chapman, E Coleman, J A Conant, J Excell, J W Firkins, G Frantz. R Grove, Mrs M A Gamble, H H Hinman, H S Limbocker, T B McCormick, C Merrick, C R Morsman, J Miller, A Needels, W Post, P M Porter I Preston, C Rivir, W J Scott, D Sherman, A L Wallace, M S Wood, M B Witmer, Mrs S G Wilcox.

Books and Tracts sent Week ending Aug. 18, 1877.

By Express.

Geo H Troutman.

By Mail.

E P Howell, Mrs C K Smeyer, A Ernest, F Byrer, J B Crall, W H Comley, A Walston, J G Ward, J S Smith, H L Sook, C C Furley, G M Clark, Z A Rawson, C H Elliott, N Eastman, A Sauson, J M Ashbury, M D, E M Day, A N Erickson, C W Cronkrite, J B Lowe, C W Hutchison, L E Grennan, J A Rouser, W Chaffee, A F Dickson, T B McCormick, O P Miller, F Schneider, W Kampe, W Thompson, W Dill, H S Limbocker, C Smith, A Hasbrouck, W Banks, M I Lewis, G H Hill, Rev J T Hobson, R McClelland, Rev F C Becker, C G Coffin, T K Bufkin. Z Ober, M S Bullard, L M Laurence, C Davis, A J Brown, G W Lee, N S Millett, W E Renwick, G H Hazen, B Brimmel, T Fox.

Donation to Tract Fund.

T Byrer, $1; G M Clark, $2.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20, 1877.

GRAIN— Wheat— No. 2		1 02¼
" No. 3		96⅞
" Rejected		77
" Minnesota		1 16
" Winter		1 10
Corn—No. 2	41⅜	41¾
Rejected		38
Oats—No. 2	22½	23½
Rejected		18
Rye—No. 2		52½
Bran per ton	8 75	9 00
Flour—Winter	6 00	7 00
Spring	3 00	7 00
Hay—Timothy	8 00	9 50
Prairie		7 50
Mess Beef	10 00	11 50
Tallow	7¼	7⅝
Lard per cwt		8 12½
Mess pork, per brl.		12 50
Butter medium to best	13	25
Cheese	5	9½
Beans	1 50	3 00
Eggs	10	11
Seeds—Timothy	1 35	1 50
Clover		7 50
Flax	1 25	1 28
Potatoes new per bu	35	40
Broomcorn	3½	7½
Hides green to dry flint	7	17
Lumber—Clear	30 00	34 00
Common	9 00	11 00
Fencing	9 00	11 00
Shingles		2 50
WOOL—Washed	36	42
Unwashed	23	27
LIVESTOCK Cattle Choice	5 15	6 00
Good	4 25	4 85
Medium	3 25	4 25
Common	2 50	3 00
Hogs	4 60	5 30
Sheep	2 50	4 50

New York Market.

Flour	$3 35	9 25
Wheat—Spring	1 14	1 28
Winter	1 25	1 38
Corn	50	58½
Oats	26	32
Rye		69
Lard		9
Mess pork		13 30
Butter	11	22
Cheese	5	9½
Eggs	14	15
Wool	10	58

$2500 A YEAR. Agents wanted. Business legitimate. Particulars free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

THE ILLINOIS STAE CONVENTION will be held this year at Streator, La Salle County. The time has not been fixed, but it will be held probably about a month before or after the National Convention. Friends in the State should be preparing for this meeting.

—The Baptist church in Manchester, Va., has solemnly resolved to exclude from its fellowship every member that is able and refuses to help pay the expenses of the church.

Wesleyan Methodist Seminary,
Wasioja, Minnesota.

E. C. PAINE A. M., Principal.

Terms begin Wednesday. September 12, 1877; Wednesday, December 19, 1877; Wednesday, March 27, 1878.

Three courses of study: College Preparatory, Academic and Scientific. The influences of this school are religious and anti-secret. Expenses very small.

For catalogue giving full particulars, address the principal or the undersigned.

REV. D. F. SHEPARDSON,
Pres. of Board.

CALIFORNIA

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the WEST and NORTH-WEST, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between CHICAGO and all points in ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, NORTHERN MICHIGAN, MINNESOTA, IOWA, NEBRASKA, CALIFORNIA, and the WESTERN TERRITORIES. Its

Omaha and California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in NORTHERN ILLINOIS, IOWA, DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, COLORADO, UTAH, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, CHINA, JAPAN, AND AUSTRALIA. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for NORTHERN WISCONSIN and MINNESOTA, and for MADISON, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, DULUTH, and all points in the Great Northwest. Its

Winona and St. Paul Line.

Is the only route for WINONA, ROCHESTER, OWATONNA, MANKATO, ST. PETER, NEW ULM, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for JANESVILLE, WATERTOWN, FOND DU LAC, OSHKOSH, APPLETON, GREEN BAY, ESCANABA, NEGAUNEE, MARQUETTE, HOUGHTON, HANCOCK, and the LAKE SUPERIOR COUNTRY. Its

Freeport and Dubuque Line

Is the only route for ELGIN, ROCKFORD, FREEPORT, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago and Milwaukee Line

Is the old Lake Shore Route, and is the only one passing through EVANSTON, LAKE FOREST, HIGHLAND PARK, WAUKEGAN, RACINE, KENOSHA to MILWAUKEE.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

are run on all through trains of this road.

This is the ONLY LINE running these cars between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our Sleepers connect with the Overland Sleepers on the Union Pacific Railroad for all points West of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago and North-Western Railway LEAVE CHICAGO as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, Two Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four Through Trains daily. Pullman Cars on night trains, Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta, La Crosse and Winona and points in Minnesota. One Through Train daily, with Pullman Sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains.

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton. Two Trains daily. Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, Four Trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points you can have from two to ten trains daily

New York Office, No 415 Broadway; Boston Office, No. 5 State Street; Omaha Office, 245 Farnham Street San Francisco Office, 121 Montgomery Street; Chicago Ticket Offices: 62 Clark Street, under Sherman House; Kinzie Street Depot, corner W. Kinzie; Wells Street Depot, corner Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agents, apply to

W. H. STENNETT, MARVIN HUGHITT,
Gen. Pass. Ag't, Chicago. Gen Man'g. Chicago.

[Eastern.)

Excelsior Marriage Certificate.

It is decidedly the most BEAUTIFUL, TASTEFUL and SENSIBLE thing of the kind I have ever seen."—Rev. F. G. Hibbard, D. D.

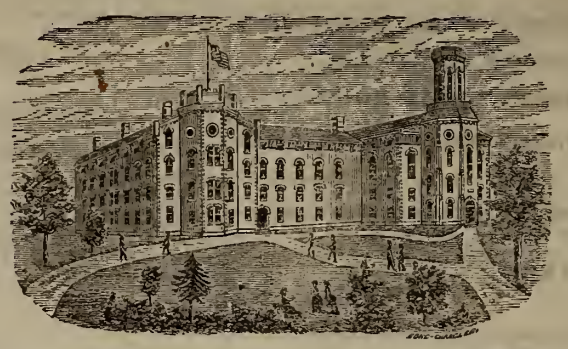
"The most SCRIPTURAL, BEAUTIFUL and APPROPRIATE Marriage Certificate I have ever seen."—Late Rev. H. Mattison, D. D.

"SOMETHING NEW AND BEAUTIFUL, which we pronounce the handsomest thing of the kind we ever laid eyes on."—Meth. Home Journal, Phila. Contains two Ornamental Ovals, for Photographs

A BEAUTIFUL LITHOGRAPH 14 1-4 by 18 1-4 inches. 25 cts each, $2.25 per doz- $15 per 100.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co.. CHICAGO.

Wheaton College and Preparatory School.
WHEATON, ILL.



FACULTY:

J. BLANCHARD, Pres't.
HON. J. B. WALKER.
O. F. LUMRY, A. M.
A. H. HIATT, M. D.
F. G. BAKER.
H. A. FISCHER, A. M.
S. F. STRATTON, A. M.
C. A. BLANCHARD, A.M.
T. C. MOFFATT, A. M.
E. D. BAILEY, A. B.
R. T. MORGAN, A. M.
MRS. S. H. NUTTING.
MISS M. E. NASH.

The fall Term of Wheaton College will open on the 6th, of September.

TUITION ELEVEN DOLLARS FOR THE TERM OF THIRTEEN WEEKS

Three courses of Study in the College; and three in the Preparatory School, including a Normal Course for Teachers. Also a full COMMERCIAL COURSE.

No extra charge for Book Keeping, Penmanship, Vocal Music or Freehand Drawing on the Black Board.

Board at reasonable rates, All persons wishing to enter this year should report at the College Building at 8½ o'clock Thursday Sept. 6th.

Full information sent by any member of the Faculty or by J Blanchard Pres't.

NEW CLUB RATES

FOR

Either Renewals or New Subscriptions.

Papers addressed to one or different Post Offices as desired.

CLUB RATES INCLUDING POSTAGE.

2 to 4 Subscribers,	at	$2.00 a year.
5 to 9 "	at	1.75 "
10 or more "	at	1.50 "

Names for a Club may be sent at different times; THE MONEY FOR THE CLUB TO BE SENT WITH THE FIRST LOT OF NAMES; but other Subscriptions may be added at same rates after Club is full.

The effect of Club Rates is to give the Commission to those who compose the Club and no commission can be allowed on these rates.

MASON & HAMLIN,
Cabinet Organs!

The only Organ declared to be of First Rank by the Judges at Philadelphia.

Gold Medals and Diplomas of Honor awarded them at all the great World Expositions.

Being the only American Organs which have ever obtained any award in Competition with the best European makers.

These celebrated Instruments are now offered to the public in New and Elegant Styles at the very Lowest Prices consistent with Best Material and Workmanship. They may be purchased on

Easy Monthly or Quarterly Installments

or Rented until Rent pays for them.

Every organ warranted to give satisfaction. Illustrated catalogue free.

Mason & Hamlin Organ Company.
Boston, 154 Tremont Street,
New York, 25 Union Square,
Chicago, 250 & 252 Wabash Ave.

TERMS FOR THE CYNOSURE.

$2.00 per annum, in advance.
20c " " " " for postage.

All who canvass for the CYNOSURE are allowed a cash commission of twenty per cent. or twenty-five per cent in books at retail prices, one-half this percentage on renewals, and any one sending $100. for the CYNOSURE during three months, will be entitled to an extra five per cent.

All responsible persons who desire to promote this reform are authorized to act as agents.

Renewals.

The date at which subscriptions expire, is with each subscriber's name on the address label.

Please send renewals before this date occurs. Notice if the date is changed to correspond soon; if not, or if the paper fails to come, write without delay.

THE SABBATH OF THE LORD,

BY JOHN J. McKAY Now York.

Contents, Sabbath Profanation, Sabbath Sanctification, Hindrances to Sabbath Sanctification and the evils of Sabbath Rail Road Traveling and Transportation, Also THE CLAIMS OF THE SABBATH AGAINST THE ASSUMPTIONS OF REV. HENRY WARD BEECHER.

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Price, 25 cents each, $2.25 Per Doz. by Mail.

$1200 SALARY. Permanent salesmen wanted to sell Staple Goods to dealers. No peddling. Expenses paid. Address S. A. GRANT & CO., 2, 4, 6 & 8 Home St., Cincinnati, O.

Discontinuances.

Unless we receive orders to stop the paper sooner, we continue the Cynosure a full month after the time expires. Those wishing their paper discontinued are requested to notify us AT THE TIME THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS EXPIRE.

ADDRESS all letters with subscriptions or orders for books, tracts, and donations to the tract fund, to Ezra A. Cook & Co., No. 13 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

How to Send Money.

Post office orders, checks or drafts on Chicago or towns east of Chicago, and currency by express may be sent at our risk. If it is not possible to send by either of the four ways named, money in a registered letter may be sent at our risk, but it is not as safe.

Agents Wanted!

TO SELL THE PUBLICATIONS OF

EZRA A. COOK & CO.

Liberal Terms Offered.

Capable persons who are in need of pecuniary aid may clear

Handsome Profits,

While at the same time aiding the cause of Reform. Apply to EZRA A. COOK & CO., No. 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1	square, 1 insertion,		$3.00
1	square (1 inch deep) one month		7.00
1	" " 2		10.00
1	" " 3 "		15.00
1	" " 6 "		25.00
1	" " 12 "		40.00

Discount for Space.

On 2 squares 5 per cent, On 3 squares 10 per cent
On 4 " 15 " " On 5 " 20 "
On ¼ col. 25 per cent On one col. 30 per cent

$3 GOLD PLATED WATCHES. Cheapest in the known world. Sample Watch Free to Agents. Address, A. COULTER & Co., Chicago.

SOMETHING NEW.

A CHART OF MASONRY

Showing the degrees from the first to the thirty-third, entitled

Degrees of Ancient Accepted Scottish Freemasonry,

According to a Manual by Wm. M. Cunningham 33d Degree.

Designed by Rev. P. Stoddard, to explain Freemasonry, as shown by Morgan's Exposition and Richardson's Moulton.

A Neat Lithograph 22x28 Inches.

Single copies finely colored, post paid	$ 75
Per dozen " " " "	5 00
Per 100 " " " " Express charges extra	35 00
Single copy, colored, varnished and mounted post paid	1 00
Per dozen colored, varnished and mounted, post paid	7 50
Per 100, colored, varnished and mounted, express charges extra	50 00

25 COPIES OR MORE SENT AT THE 100 RATES.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

"In Secret Have I Said Nothing."—Jesus Christ.

EZRA A. COOK & CO., PUBLISHERS, NO. 13 WABASH AVENUE.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, AUGUST 30, 1877.

VOL. IX., No. 48.—WHOLE NO. 388. WEEKLY (post paid) $2.20 A YEAR.

Contents.

	Page
TOPICS OF THE TIMES	1
EDITORIALS:
Why we should go to Dayton	8
A New Apocalyptic Beast	8
Reform Colleges	9
CONTRIBUTED AND SELECTED:
What Shut Moses out of the Promised Land	2
Masonic Simplicity and Artlessness	2
Our Foreign Letter	2
The Grand Lodge of Scotland	3
REFORM NEWS:
E. W. Wheeler before the Lodge in Fine, N. Y.; Southwestern Iowa: Rev. J. P. Richards at Leon, Iowa	4,5
CORRESPONDENCE:
Free Methodist Churches and Freemasonry; Tares and Wheat; Mrs. De Geer Misses the Mark again; Political; Masonic Illustrations; Our Mail	6,7
Knights of Pythias Ritual	12
Home Circle	10
Children's Corner	11
Home and Farm	7
Sabbath School	11
Religious Intelligence	5
News of the Week	12
Publishers' Department	16

Notices.

THE TENTH NAT'L CONVENTION.

of the National Christian Association will be held in Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 23rd to 25th next, beginning on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 23rd with a preliminary meeting for social converse and prayer in the afternoon of the same day. Let every friend of the reform do what he may be able for the success of this meeting: by arranging his affairs so as to be present; or, assisting to send a delegate; by having the editor of his local paper print the notice of the meeting; by suggesting some topic for practical discussion to the programme committee; but, above all, by prayer to God for his blessing upon the meeting. Let every local or auxiliary association arrange to be represented.

WISCONSIN STATE MEETING.

The annual meeting of the State Christian Association of Wisconsin auxilary to the National Christian Association opposed to secret societies, will be held at Baraboo, Sauk county, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, September 25th, 26th and 27th. The convention will be called to order at 2 P. M. on Tuesday, 25th. Rev. J. P. Stoddard, General Agent, and other distinguished speakers will be present. Mr. E. Ronayne will also attend and publicly work the Masonic degrees. Let every friend throughout the entire State work with such zeal and energy as to make this the best meeting of the kind ever held in Wisconsin and to secure ample means for carrying on this important work with renewed vigor.

E. L. HARRIS, Pres't.
U. D. LATHROP, Sec'y.

THE ILLINOIS STATE ASSOCIATION,

Will hold its annual Convention at Streator, LaSalle county, beginning December 4th. Just after Thanksgiving the friends will be ready to begin the winter campaign. The churches will soon then open their protracted meetings. Let us hold such a meeting as will assure every Christian pastor that this reform can be taken up in the midst of his revival work with a blessing on himself and his church. Let all prepare for this meeting.

PAST MASTER RONAYNE is to be at Marshalltown, Iowa, (God willing) on the 10th, 11th and 12th of September. He can stay in that State ten days longer. Friends in other localities will please write him at once to 104 Bremer street, Chicago, that arrangements may be made for other lectures and exposes; $40 will pay all expenses. He desires to hear soon from friends in Indiana, so as to leave immediately for that field, beginning at Crown Point, on his way from the Wisconsin State meeting about Oct. 1st.

INDIANA STATE CONVENTION.

The fifth annual State convention of Indiana, opposed to secret societies, will meet at Plainfield, Hendricks county, October 17, 1877, commencing on the evening of the 17th at 7 o'clock and closing on the evening of the 19th. Edmond Ronayne and other prominent speakers are expected. It is confidently expected that all the county associations of the State will be fully represented, and all lovers of the cause of Christ will make the necessary sacrifice to meet with us. Come in the name and in the strength of the Lord Jesus. By order of the Ex. Committee.

PETER RICH, Chairman

Topics of the Time.

The "Society for the Suppression of Vice" has a great mission as a moral detective association. Its transactions are necessarily not so public as a missionary society but its reports show wonderful results respecting the extent and enormity of the destructive business of the publishers of vile literature. Mr. Anthony Comstock, the agent of the society, has suffered as every earnest, honest reformer is likely to, both in attacks on reputation and person, and was at one time nearly killed by assassins in the employ of the vicious business. At a late reform conference he read a report of the business of his society, which show the alarming ravages of ruin among our youth. Two hundred and eighty-seven persons have been arrested for participation in the publication of vicious literature; over twenty tons' weight of matter has been seized and destroyed; over 21,000 pounds of bound books have been confiscated, and 202,000 pictures, besides charms, photographic negatives and other similar objects. They have also seized 235,000 circulars, besides thousands of letters coming from boys and girls from every State in the Union. Mr. Comstock said: "I have letters coming from minister's daughters and sons; from the children of lawyers and merchants, and from the children of all classes and grades not of the poorest but of the wealthiest and most refined. These letters have been found personally, and there are thousands of children in this country to-day, and young men and young women, who can thank the forbearance of the society that their names have not been published in the local papers." Various devices are employed to secure the names of persons to whom circulars can be addressed. "I found a man in Brooklyn who had a large pile of catalogues of female seminaries and he was taking the names of the purest and best in this country and addressing envelopes to them, selling them to these men who sent out these vile circulars and publications, and these men pay him from ten to twenty-five dollars a thousand for the circulars with the names upon them. And I seized them and wrote to the principals of these seminaries. What has been the result? Within a very few weeks I received back from the principals, both ladies and gentlemen, of these seminaries, matter so vile that I would scarcely show it to any gentleman in this audience." This pernicious literature is circulated all over the country and finds its way into some of the most respectable institutions.

It is said that a considerable portion of President Hayes' message upon the reassembling of Congress in October will be given to the consideration of the labor question. During the strike several cabinet meetings were held in which this question excluded all others. Several members of the cabinet are known to favor the passage of a law providing for the organization of a commission which shall have due regard for the interests of all concerned, producers, merchants, railroad employes, and capitalists, so that on any question a fair compromise may be effected. The rapid organization of a "Workingman's party" in Chicago, Louisville, Cincinnati and other large cities is also an indication that the subject will come before Congress by popular pressure. This party is as full of braggadocio as the mobs out of which it sprung. It is not, indeed, unlikely that its power may be felt in local elections in our cities, but not outside of them. The organization is under the entire control of the communists and will have none but workingmen for candidates. It is too fair game for demagoguery to last very long.

While Francis Murphy has many imitators in the temperance work, they are too often like the literary imitators of Dr. Johnson—the only result when they swing the club of Hercules is the reverberation of the blow. Murphy claims that he has obtained 3,500,000 signatures to the pledge, only two per cent of which have relapsed into intemperate habits and sixty per cent have become professed Christians He always says that his great hope for the redemption of a man from his cups is from a new life in Christ. No other power but Divine grace is sure to save. This was one reason for his refusing to go to New York city. He says, "I have not yet found there those who have implicit confidence in my system. In Philadelphia there was a person upon one committee who was not in sympathy with my views and he was instrumental in nearly overthrowing my whole work. I shall not come to New York until I am assured that my manner of working is to be sustained; and, in view of my success, I have a right to demand that."

The discovery of two satellites of the planet Mars by Prof. Hall at the Washington Observatory is a sensation among scientists. The more full reports of correspondents represent that the reason for the long delay in this discovery is, that so favorable observation of the planet has not been had since 1845, when the most powerful telescopes were unknown. The inner moon revolves with great rapidity around the planet, seven hours and thirty-eight minutes being time enough for the trip, while its sister is four times as long. The distance of the former from the center of Mars is computed to be only 6000 miles and 4000 from the surface, which accounts for the extraordinary rapidity of its revolutions. These moons are put down as the smallest heavenly bodies yet known, and appear in the telescope as faint points of light. It is estimated that their diameter can be only about ten miles. And yet no less do these mysterious travelers in space show forth the glorious work of the Divine Creator.

The Standard reflecting with honest seriousness on the fact that the Romanists organized sixty-five schools among the freedmen last year, while the Baptists have built and equipped but seven, says: "It is a significant fact, that the Women's Catholic Home Mission Society, organized a few years since in St. Louis, has for its leaders the wives of Gen. Sherman of the army, and of Admiral Dahlgren of the navy, and that during the three or four years past that society alone has contributed nearly $100,000 in trying to win the freedmen to Catholicism."

What Shut Moses out of the Promised Land?

BY REV. GEO. SOVEREIGN.

Num. 8:12.—Take the rod and gather the assembly, and speak to the rock before their eyes and it shall give you water. And Moses took the rod from before the Lord as he was commanded, and he gathered the congregation together before the rock. And Moses said unto them, Hear now, ye rebels, shall we fetch you water out of this rock; and Moses lifted up his hand and smote the rock twice and the water came out abundantly. And the Lord spake unto Moses, Because ye did not sanctify me in the eyes of the children of Israel, ye shall not bring this congregation into the land that I have given them.

The call and business of Moses' life was to lead the Israelites from Egyptian servitude to the land that God had given to Abraham, and he was greatly interested in his work. But we must not forget as men are apt to do, that God's justice lies against his own best servants when they do wrong, as in all other cases. To be sure, Moses soon saw his fault and repented, but the temporal conquences of his sin remained. He must not go over Jordan. I would ask you to notice what God commanded Moses to do on this occasion and see if he obeyed.

1. He commanded him to take the rod and gather the people together. Thus far he obeyed.

2. He commanded him to speak to the rock before their eyes. Did he do this? No, he did not. Instead he reproached them in anger; Ye rebels shall we fetch you water out of this rock. Psalm 106:32-33—"They angered him also at the waters of strife so that it went ill with Moses because they provoked his spirit so that he spake unadvisedly with his lips." Like as in a great many other cases when people get angry with their friends or others and fall to reproaching, then they have no confidence to do what God commands. God did not command him to smite the rock at all at this time, and yet he did it. Here was Moses' great fault that excluded him from Canaan—"And the Lord spake unto Moses, Because ye believed me not to sanctify me in the eyes of the children of Israel, therefore ye shall not bring them unto the land which I have given them." That is, by your disobedience you have failed to point them to their duty of prayer. This took place probably in the thirty-eighth year of their journey at Kadesh Barnea on the edge of Mount Seir.

Let us understand the meaning of the whole transaction. In order to do so—

1. Refer back to the first year of their journey at Rephidim, at the foot of Mt. Horeb, Ex. 17:3-5. "And the people thirsted there for water; and the Lord said unto Moses, Go on before the people and take the rod with which thou smotest the river, and I will stand on the rock; and thou shalt smite the rock and the water shall come out that the people may drink." This command Moses faithfully obeyed.

2. This whole affair was intended to represent our Lord Jesus Christ; 1 Cor. 10:4—"And did all drink of that spiritual rock that followed them and that rock was Christ." The smiting of the rock then in obedience to God's command was intended to foreshow the crucifixion. But Christ was to die for the the people but once. To smite again when commanded to speak to the rock, could but represent those sinners who crucify the Lord afresh and put him to an open shame. Now he is to be spoken to in prayer. Moses failed to shew this, therefore he was not permitted to take the people over Jordan.

3. Before closing this illustration, I would say that Moses' confidence in God was restored and he tried hard to get the sentence of exclusion from the promised land reversed. See Deut. 3:23-27—"I besought the Lord at that time saying, I pray thee let me go over and see the good land that is beyond Jordan, but the Lord would not hear me; and the Lord said, Let it suffice thee, speak no more of this matter. Get thee up into the top of Pisgah and lift up thine eyes northward and westward and southward and eastward. And behold with thine eyes for thou shalt not go over this Jordan." A Christian poet has written these lines:

"Could I but climb where Moses stood and view
the landscape o'er,
Not Jordan's waves nor death's cold flood could fright me from the shore."

If we would gain that better land we must not smite the Rock already smitten; or crucify Christ with our sins of pride, anger or unbelief, but must learn to speak to the Rock by prayer.

Speak to the Rock. Pray to Jesus. Young beginners, especially, in addressing the Divine Being are apt to lose sight of Jesus. The great distance is felt between us sinners and the Holy one. Therefore speak to the Rock; pray to Jesus.

Masonic Simplicity and Artlessness.

The serene, placid facial expression of the Mormons, has often been noticed. It is perfectly saintlike. Something of this placidity may also be observed among the ordinary run of Freemasons; especially when they have their aprons and collars on, their hair properly parted and pomatumed, their silk hats shinily brushed, their white gloves spotless, etc.

But their artlessness of manner often surpasses the serenity and complacency of their personal appearance. This artlessness sometimes forms a perfect contrast with the malignant character of the Masonic organization, as does the snow of the volcano with the sulphureous flames of fire that are raging close by it.

We have recently come across a case of this Masonic simplicity, "childlike and bland," in a Vermont news-paper. This paper, the Rutland Globe, makes itself the Masonic organ of a State where Masonry is prohibited by law, and it thus discourses on the impropriety and harmfulness of starting false rumors:—

"The standing of a business man or firm may be seriously impaired by rumors, and groundless rumors are just as good for this purpose as any others. A rumor was current here a few days since that a mercantile firm, doing a good business, in a neighboring town, were losers to the amount of five or six thousand dollars by a recent failure here. An investigation shows that the firm will lose but a few hundred dollars. Any one can see that the difference between the rumor and the fact might be the difference between solvency and insolvency."

Now, if one knows anything about Masonry, he must know that if there is anything for which it is well fitted it is for starting and propagating false rumors against the enemies of the lodge; and all honest, independent men are ipso facto enemies of the lodge. The Masonic organization is just as well fitted for slyly injuring a man's character, thwarting his purposes, deranging his business and rendering his life unhappy, as the claws and fangs of the tiger are for fastening upon and destroying its prey. It is not only fitted for the purpose of injuring its opposers but is absolutely used for this purpose, and the man who belongs to the lodge must be fully aware of this fact, and that he is helping to injure good men or else he is greatly lacking in discernment.

To read the above kindly remark of the editor of the Rutland Globe one would naturally infer that he is one of the most benevolent, simple-minded men in the world, but when it is known that he is a leading Mason, or in other words, an accomplished Jesuit, dealing largely in the blackest of all arts and in the falsest of all impositions, what is one to think of his artless and seemingly guileless simplicity?

Such is the character of Freemasonry and all other kinds of Jesuitry. It imposes upon people by its seeming blandness, suavity and benevolence. How often are honorable, pious-minded women and the first men of the place taken in and deceived by it? We heard of a good woman the other day, of the orthodox faith, who was holding back her husband from being an Antimason because the Masons had recently buried some relative of hers with pomp and show. This softened her heart; but if she wants pomp at funerals she should admire the Romanists and have an Irish funeral with a mile length of carriages, with the bell, book, candles burning, masses said, catafalqua nicely trimmed, etc. The Romanists and secretists are the only two classes of men that we know of who pervert the funeral ceremony from a simple demonstration of grief and decent respect into a pompous show of symbolism, man-millinery and heartless ostentation. Freemasonry and Romanism are the same in this particular as they are in many others; and when we are told that one is opposed to the other, let us remember the childlike simplicity of the editor of the Rutland Globe.

AMERICAN.

Our Foreign Letter.

The City of Huss and Jerome—The Grim Witnesses of Altstadt Tower—How Protestantism Fell—The Jews Quarter and Burying Ground—Equator and Pole changed about—Saxony—Women's Rights—Dresden Market.

Prague numbers 177,000 inhabitants. Its population is nearly equally divided between Germans and Bohemians, the latter a little the more numerous. The difference between the language of the two people is marked. Every street corner has on it, its Bohemian and German name as well, the two often being curiously dissimilar. So also in two languages appear every store and shop sign, and all advertisements posted in public places. Its situation in itself makes Prague a fine city, and its historical associations give to it double interest. It lies in the valley of the Moldau and on both sides of that stream. Around and behind it are lofty bluffs and hills. The city is old; many of its buildings are massive and all are well preserved. The most striking object as the stranger enters Prague is the Headschin, a group of palaces loftily situated on the bluffs on the lesser side of the city and seemingly of illimitable extent. The spire of St. Vitus' Cathedral, rising as it were from the center of the palaces, hightens their effect, as they look grandly down upon the city immediately beneath them.

Prague teems with reminders of Huss and the Reformation, and of the fierce struggle of the "Thirty years war". It was here that Huss and Jerome taught and labored. This was the earliest stronghold of the Reformation in Germany. Huss, summoned to Rome by the Pope, refused to go. He was formally excommunicated and the city of Prague for adhering to his doctrines laid under a papal interdict. Huss enjoying the patronage of King Sigismund and many of the Bohemian nobles, continued to preach and to gain converts. In 1414 he was summoned to appear before the Council of Constance. He went provided with a safe conduct from the Emperor. The latter induced to believe that a promise made to a heretic was not binding, failed him—and Huss was burned, and his ashes cast into the Rhine. Jerome of Prague was the next victim. He was burned and his ashes also cast into the Rhine. The famous Hussite church still stands near the center of the city. In front of the Rathhouse, or town hall, opposite the church and on the other side of the great square between, twenty-seven leaders of the Protestant party, most of them Bohemian nobles, were executed June 21, 1621. The heads of these nobles were barbarously exposed during ten years from the gallery of the Altstadt tower, one of the towers of the Charles bridge near by. This tower still stands.

About a mile west of Prague is "White Hill" where on the 8th of November, 1620, Frederick V., King of Bohemia and previously the Elector of the Palatinate, lost his kingdom in a battle of an hour. It was the death blow to Protestantism in that country. Bohemia, like Austria, is to-day Catholic.

The Jews quarter of Prague is extremely interesting, containing narrow lanes and alleys, quaint buildings, smoky and dark, yet teeming with life. Right in the midst of this densely populated and dismal district is the ancient burial ground of the Jews, disused since 1780. It covers but little space, is shaded by old trees and the old walls of buildings that in part enclose it. Here are thousands of grey stones, time worn and moss grown, woven in with creeping plants, underwood and alders, many of them with Hebrew inscriptions and some of great antiquity.

Bohemia to the south of Prague and Bohemia to the north of it are two different countries. Below the capital the scenery is poor, population sparse and soil unfertile. To the north there are numerous villages, a pleasing country and heavy crops. By the way, I have noticed a curious anomaly in my travels the past two weeks or so. When I was at Nuremberg and Ratisbon it was excessively warm. At Vienna, where I was most apprehensive of heat, it was cool during nearly my whole stay there. The grain that I saw in my short excursions without the city, was not heavy and quite green. North of Vienna it was better and more mature. South of Prague and about that city it was fast ripening. North of Prague it was ripe and as we neared Saxony and Dresden, already harvested and standing in ricks; the ground on which it grew being already replowed preparatory to receiving some other crop. So also the weather—it was moderately cool in southern Bohemia and northern Austria, warm in Prague and is hot in Dresden. Hitherto I had been under the impression that crops matured soonest in southerly districts. Surely there is nothing calculated to modify one's ideas like traveling.

The ride from Prague to Dresden was delightful. The train soon struck the valley of the Elbe and wound along the banks of that river, passing (after quitting the Bohemian frontier) through some of the loveliest portions of what is termed Saxon Switzerland. Before exchanging, however, the fields of Bohemia for the hills of Saxony, my attention was called to a group of laborers in a field near by. The number of women preponderated so that for a continuous ride of say half an hour I was sufficiently interested to count the number of men and women doing farm work in the fields near and bordering upon the railroad. This was the result: sixty-four women and twenty-five men and boys, mainly boys. Some miles further on we came upon a group of laborers in one field; they numbered twenty-six women and three men.

Dresden seems more modern than many German cities, and carries with it an air of refinement quite pleasing. It has a pleasant location and a picture gallery, one of the most noted in Europe. I have just returned from a few minutes walk through the market, only a block from my hotel. Throughout the German cities a fruit and vegetable market is a large square, usually destitute of all manner of buildings, and centrally situated. The market men are all women. Now and then a man seems to have something to sell, but his presence among the venders is exceptional. Countless baskets of good size placed on the ground and arranged with some degree of order divide the market squares into infinitesimal divisions. There is only bare space between these groups of baskets for the numerous purchasers to pass along. The baskets serve as counters, tables and receptacles of wares. Each market woman brings what she has for sale in a little wagon capable of holding a number of large baskets. Often a large dog harnessed to the wagon aids her in drawing the load. Each seller has seldom charge of more than one group of four or five baskets. Doubtless these basket divisions are fit representatives of the petty plots of land each cultivates. Usually what they sell is clean and inviting. Being entirely in the open air, numerous huge umbrellas on small poles shield the market sellers and their goods from the often warm sunshine. Many of these umbrellas have done years of service, and owing to repeated patching are as varigated as Joseph's coat, though hardly as beautiful. There were for sale this morning, quantities of luscious cherries (black hearts and yellow hearts), carrots, peas, potatoes, lettuce, strawberries, huckleberries, etc., etc. Of flowering plants, I noticed especially, beautiful varieties of roses, pinks, petunias and many delicate flowers whose names I do not know.

B. T. PETTENGILL.

Canon Wilberforce, of the Church of England, gavean utterance of eminently the right ring for both sides the Atlantic when he recently said in a temperance meeting in London: "People talk about regulating the liquor traffic; they might as well try to regulate a toothache, instead of having the tooth out."

THE GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND.

FROM OUR CANADA CORRESPONDENT.

It is now twenty years since I left the shores of Britain to visit the New World, which has been my home ever since. It was my intention to come to Chicago and locate there. But while man proposes, God disposes. The only view of Chicago I have had is from the Cynosure. In Chicago I expected to find the greatest wickedness associated with the greatest virtue. Here, too, my expectation led me to seek the finest field for missionary operations. Though I have never seen your city, I rejoice in the weekly light that reaches me from it, on the subject of Masonry.

Great as the good is, which your excellent paper is doing to the United States, yet I would have your "National Christian Association" expand, by "lengthening her cords and strengthening her stakes." The Pole Star shines for all the world nearly, and gives the voyager on the stormy ocean an idea of his whereabouts and whither he is steering. Let your light shine afar and as the "Cynosure" in the constellation of Ursa Major serves every sailor in the Northern Hemisphere, so let the organ of the National Christian Association be to all people on the face of the globe trodden down by superstition and despotism, a true guide to the Lamb of God, the Great Light of the world.

If you have space in your paper, the doings of the Grand Lodge of Scotland may not be uninteresting to some of your readers.

Some years ago I saw a very old copy of "Oliver and Boyd's Almanack," from which it appeared that King George the IV. was Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Scotland. When a student at Edinburgh, the headquarters of the Freemasons was pointed out to me in the High Street, opposite St. Giles church, which is really three parish churches under one roof. Opposite this venerable pile of masonry is another building in the upper story of which is the Masonic lodge.

It was in the old St. Giles church that the celebrated Jennie Geddes hurled her three legged stool at the head of the minister who read his prayers at the commands of the king, and by this lawless act, the whole nation was set on fire, and long, bloody wars devastated the country, in Covenanting times.

On my rambles with a fellow student a letter from a minister in Dundee, under whose ministrations when a boy I was placed by my parents, was exposed to my view. He had written a minister in Edinburgh (a Freemason I presume,) in very familiar terms, to get him appointed to the vacancy in the High Church, and naming the party to whom he was to introduce the subject.

It was not long before it was announced that he would preach on trial there. I attended service to hear how the preacher would discourse. The large church was but thinly attended. The Lord Provost and bailies in their very gaudy robes of office, sat in a conspicuous place. They were the nominal patrons, if I remember rightly, of the parish; but in reality it was undoubtedly in the gift of the Royal Arch.

In due time the Rev. D. Arnot was installed pastor of the large and populous parish of High Church. Thus he obtained the most honorable living in the church of Scotland. His highest ambition was now crowned with success. Last May he departed this life. The Grand Lodge has now to mourn the loss of Rev. Dr. David Arnot their Grand Chaplain. It is sad to see a secret lodge leading men back to the beggarly elements of the world, and Mosaic times, when we have a Great High Priest who lives forever, to plead our cause with God.

The abuses in the church of Scotland led me, when a boy of twelve, to leave the church as established by law that I might breathe the purer air of dissent. Yet I cannot help looking back through the greater light on Masonry, which is cast by the champions of truth, to observe the records of the past.

When the deceased Dr. Arnot was newly licensed he was a Freemason. An old man, called among the boys "Auld Robbie Wallace," a veteran leaning on his staff, up early at cock-crowing, saw the lodge that met on Saturday night just dispersing on Sabbath morning. What a sight! The lodge stood on a rising bank of a small stream. An old bridge that had stood for centuries spanned that stream in a single arch. It bade defiance to the heaviest floods that came rolling down. It was high and narrow. Only one wagon could pass over it at a time. A much larger and wider bridge had to be built below. It was sometimes carried away by a flood; the old one never. Over this old bridge the Masons came reeling drunk on Sabbath morning. Auld Robbie beheld the young and eloquent minister thus sadly befooled, but could never again hear him preach with any profit. He was down on the Masons. What though the whole township praises the youthful preacher who had overwhelmed his auditors that day with his eloquence and bathed them all in tears! It was at this time that the young preacher wrote a poem entitled "A Dream." Had he been drinking wine out of a human skull? Perhaps! His poem was certainly a smart but awful thing. He dreamed that he died, was buried, and mouldered away in the grave. He felt the worms forming in his brain and crawling through the eye sockets! Such was the sad mixture in his busy brain in those days of youthful frolic.

How sad to think that he was now preaching in the same parish from which the pious Thomas Halyburton went as professor of divinity in St. Andrew's University, and was wont to wrestle so earnestly with God on behalf of his flock! What a contrast between these two men! He leaves this rural parish for Dundee and afterward for the highest situation as minister in the Church of Scotland, and there labors to serve God and mammon. He teaches on Sabbath that Jesus is the light of the world, and then goes right across the street to seek more light in Masonry! How sad thus to deny the only Lord and Saviour that he professed to believe had bought him with his blood. It is said that for many years before his death his memory failed him. He had to read all his prayers, so for his own private use he drew up a liturgy which he read on Sabbath, as he jocularly remarked to a friend, to a lumber-yard, i. e., a huge array of empty benches.

What was it made the people flee from this church as they would from a pest house? was it be cause this minister now deceasde and his colleague were one or both Masons. We think not. It was because they wanted freedom to choose their own ministers. The Free Church obtained the sympathy of the masses. They left the stone walls behind and went out like Abram to seek a country that God would shew them.

Yet while they have in the Free Church escaped legal patronage, they have not escaped lodge patronage. It will very much astonish us if there is any denomination of Christians in Scotland that is not under the domination of that power of mystery which you are laboring to expose, and which, by simply exposing, you seek to destroy.

We see with deep regret a grandson of "Auld Robbie Wallace," (Shades of Auld Robbie where are you!) sneering at the United Presbyterian church of Scotland because it thought it saw the hand or cloven hoof of Masonry maneuvering, or shuffling to bring about this war in the East. As straws indicate the direction of the stream, so do these smart editorials of the Scotsman of Edinburgh, show the tendency of this talented editor's mind.

We hope and pray that the U. P. Church of Scotland will soon out-rival the U. P. Church of the United States, which has adopted the name of the Senior Church in Great Britain, which she excells in opposition to secret and anti-Christian lodges. The latter has rightly comprehended what the former has yet to learn, that it is a poor policy to seek to overthrow idolatry among the heathen abroad, when ministers of the Gospel and church members are building it up at the doors of their own churches.

That your readers may see how the lodge manages things in Scotland, just let me state shortly what has occurred in filling the vacancy in the High Church. We glean from the Scotsman that Dr. Arnot's assistant was appointed by the parishioners to be the successor of their former pastor, whose remains the few devoted ladies, who remained attached to his ministry covered with immortelles as they laid it out for the tomb. He was called, and said call sustained by the Presbytery of Edinburgh, which met to ordain, or induct the presentee to his charge. But no presentee could be found. A letter was sent by him to the moderator of the the Presbytery, stating that he had just received a letter to say that the church was vacant, and the vacancy could not be supplied by him.

Upon this incident was founded the enclosed poem, in true Masonic style. It is entitled, "An Ancient Ballad." Everything from this source is ancient. I clip it from the Scotsman of May 26th ult. It shows clearly how little the people have really the management of their spiritual affairs, and how completely the churches in Britain are still under the power of the lodge.

No wonder then that such absurdities as this collegiate charge of the High Church in Edinburgh, where the citizens were heavily taxed every year to keep up a church which only a very few persons ever thought of attending, and which was only a handmaid to the secret lodge of deists opposite, should come to naught. Hence the present cry for disestablishment.

It is for the nation also to consider at the same time, whether the throne of Great Britain shall be held by the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England, as the handmaid of the abominations of Masonic idolatry. It is time the people should rise and demand that these things be put away, ere God rise in his majesty to destroy the Great Babylon; and proud and happy England be hurled down from her pre-eminence among the nations, as was Babylon the Great of old.

It is a matter of great shame and regret, that the Duke of Argyle should figure as the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Scotland. For the sake of the history and name of the house which he represents; we trust he will see it his duty to openly renounce a system which is clearly at variance with the laws of God and the land, and a great dishonor to his ancestors who shed their blood in defense of the crown rights of our Immanuel, the Lord Jesus Christ.

If New England received this curse of ancient Masonic mystery, from old England, may God grant that she may learn from you the lesson how to cast it off, and thus avoid the doom of impending destruction which now hangs over the British empire. J. D.

Reform News.

E. W. Wheeler before the Lodge in Fine, N. Y.

Not his own lodge as advertised in the Cynosure of June 21st, but one within its original limits, and at first largely made up of members from it. Hence he did stand before some who were once members of the lodge with him, though now members of another.

I thank you, Bro. Kellogg, for your silent breathing in the same issue, viz., "May he be filled with special grace for his work." When I first decided to give the lecture, I did not realize how much I should need this, but as the time drew near and I heard threats and saw ominous looks, I began to wake up to the situation and soon found that my strength indeed was small. But just before starting for the lecture these words came to my mind: "Jesus will carry you through;" when at once strength came into my body and power into my soul, and I was enabled not only to go forth without fear, but to speak with unwonted boldness.

By request the time was changed from 2 P. M. to the evening, when the meeting was opened at about 8 o'clock. The house, wood-house and entry-way were filled, while some stood outside. Masons and Masonic sympathizers made quite a part of the congregation. At first some of the Masons wore a very bold front, looking me straight in the face, while men and women in sympathy showed by winks and significant glances that they expected that Masonry would have an easy victory by simply looking on, while I would make an inglorious failure.

I spoke, the people listened, and as I passed from point to point it almost seemed that I could feel the cleaving as the blade of truth was drawn across the heart and conscience of Masons. Winks and side glances ceased, men and women grew grave, while Masons, some at least gave evident signs of a desire to leave the house. One, a young man, did leave, and on getting out he took a young man by the collar and drawing a revolver and pointing it at his head, said, "That is what I would give him if he would come out here and say two words." I spoke for two hours and on stopping gave opportunity for remarks, but none being offered the meeting was closed and after a little the people quietly dispersed. During this remarks were made freely in endorsement of the lecture, interspersed no doubt with strictures, but so far as I know Masons were silent. One refused to answer when asked, "How did you like the lecture?"

But the next morning (Sunday) there was quite a stir among them. Several walking to and fro upon the highway and finally meeting in council upon the bridge. The object of this meeting I did not learn, but think that it was for the purpose of fixing upon a plan by which to meet the question now forced upon them. One well known to the people and from their own midst, to whom they had given full endorsement, had met them and virtually upon their own invitation, and he had told the people in their presence that this institution lauded so highly by Masons, was not only bad, but very bad; that its ceremonies were disgusting, ridiculous and shameful; that its oaths with their death penalties were horrible and shocking; and that the blood of Wm. Morgan as well as that of others would be required of them, or of the Masons of this day because they allowed the deeds of their fathers who killed him. He denied that Masonry held anything within its walls that is either sublime, or mysterious, or great, or good, but charged home to them the fact that the very reverse of these things made up the inside work of Masonry. As far as practicable at a glance, he held before them the Gospel as a perfect system neither needing nor recognizing either "handmaids" or "twin sisters" of any kind, much less a thing as such so perfectly in contrast with its high and glorious principles as is Masonry.

Now this, which is an index to my course, had not been expected by the Masons. At least so I am informed; but on the contrary they expected an exposure of ceremonies, etc., and had prepared to "govern themselves accordingly," just how I do not know, but likely after the usual way. But now they are not prepared for the question and they find it needful to agree upon some course so as to act and speak in harmony, hence this running to and fro and final meeting upon the bridge. Haste was needful, because upon the morning of this day the people were to meet in the grove right by, and the question of Masonty would be the topic of side talk and meet it they must. Whatever the object of the meeting, these are their statements: "He is crazy;" "He has perjured himself;" "I wouldn't believe him under oath;" "There are as good men as Mr. Wheeler who are Masons—ministers—who say that Masonry is a good thing," etc., etc. These things and more and worse are said here as elsewhere as a means of destroying testimony against Masonry.

RESULTS.

It is due to say that some Masons talk differently from this and say: "If Mr. Wheeler thinks so of Masonry, why he has a right to say it;" at the same time claiming that they do not see Masonry in the same light. This is toning down as much as one octave at least, and may be counted in as one of the good results. Others go still farther and admit that see no good in Masonry and would not care if it was destroyed at once. This at least is some degrees farther in the scale of progress. Beyond this we report one who has passed out, whose standing may be known by this: he said to the writer, "The only fault that I have to find with your lecture is, you explained too much." He meant, however, that it was too sugar-coated. This will suit some critics who think that I am not thorough enough, etc. But allow this. I have a very good horse that in my mind meets the idea of thoroughness as expressed by some. It may be seen especially when cultivating corn, she is very thorough, tearing through between and sometimes across the rows to the no small discomfort of her less thorough driver.

As to the criticism, however, it is all right, and I will try and profit by it, only holding that it is a safe principle to speak as much good of men, whatever their position, as we can in truth. As to Masonry, I know that there is no good in it. It is bad and only bad. Yet there are men who are Masons who in all other respects appear to equal advantage with other men, even the best. That they are as faultless as he who is their equal morally, but who is not a Mason, I cannot admit. No man can be a Mason without suffering in a moral point of view.

But to return. The morning light is breaking. The current of truth is widening and deepening. True, its course cannot always be seen, as in some cases it runs under the surface, still it can never grow less nor lose its power, but will force its way through and on until Masonry in all its Protean forms shall be overthrown.

"MASONRY NOT A RELIGION."

In a former article I make this claim and say: "Masonry is no more a religion than it is a science. It claims both but each claim is alike false," etc.

Upon this point (see Cynosure June 21st) the editor kindly remarks: "The same reasoning might just as well be used to argue Moslemism, Budhism or any other form of idolatry out of existence as a religion, might it not, Bro. W.? The gods of the heathen as well as their heavens are creatures of their own invention, yet their systems are properly termed false religions." I answer: there is a wide difference. Moslemism, Budhism and other systems of idolatry are religious systems and not something else with a religious garb for a covering. Masonry on the contrary is a system of irreligious principles, putting upon itself a religious form to hide its real character. Hence it admits men of all systems of religion, true or false, also the skeptic because its professions of religion are false. Hence, I say, though its teachers call it a religion, and set it above all other names as such, and claim that Masonry fits men to live and to die and gives them an entrance into a grand logde above; yet as there is no grand lodge above, i. e., as it is true that there is no grand lodge above, so it is equally true that there is no religion in Masonry. Understand, I do not mean to say that there being no grand lodge above, therefore there is no religion in Masonry. But I simply mean to put two parallel facts beside each other, viz., "There is no grand lodge above," and "There is no religion in Masonry." One is as true as the other, though one does not follow from the other.

I admit that Masonic authors teach principles, and make statements which if true would prove Masonry to be a religion. But I claim that these principles are not true and that these statements are false. Further: I hold that these authors know this and only make these statements to deceive. For instance, Mr. Sickels sums up the three degrees in these words:

"We now find man complete in morality and intelligence, with the stay of religion added to ensure him of the protection of Deity, and guard him against ever going astray. These three degrees thus form a perfect and harmonious whole; nor can we conceive that anything can be suggested more, which the soul of man requires." Sickels' Monitor pp. 97–8.

This statement is one often urged to prove that Freemasonry is a religion. But to my mind it proves that Mr. Sickels is a presumptious deceiver, and were it not that I know the extravagance of Masons in speaking of their system I should almost think the man insane. "Man complete in morals and intelligence!" Who but a Mason would dare pen for copyright, such a statement? But he adds, the "stay of religion by which he is ensured of the protection of Deity, and guarded against ever going astray," and now "We can conceive of nothing that can be suggested more that the soul of man requires!"

A man sincere and make such statements? Never. He is an imposter; especially does this appear when we look at the ridiculous ceremony which actually stands in the place to which these extravagant expressions refer.

But why not say Masonry is a science, though a false science? It claims this as strongly as the other. Talks about science. Pages of its monitors are devoted to "the arts and the sciences." Is it therefore a science? Of course not. Here too is the craft of the order. There is not one principle of science in Masonry. But both science and religion are used by Masons as a covering. Masonry is a whited sepulchre full of dead men's bones. Hardly this either, for the covering is too thin to deceive him who looks with a careful eye.

But I will pursue this point no further now, having already asked too large a share in your columns.

EPHRAIM W. WHEELER.

SOUTHWESTERN IOWA.

COLLEGE SPRINGS, Iowa, Aug. 18, 1877.

DEAR BRO. K.—On the 6th and 7th I lectured in the City Hall in New Sharon, Iowa, to a large and attentive audience. Quite a large number of Masons were present but were very respectful in their demeanor. There was, however, one exception, Mr. Vail, the editor of the New Sharon Star, devoted about an hour of the last evening to what purported to be a reply, but was but personal abuse of Mr. Henry Cope, a respectable citizen who invited me there, and myself. A column and a half of his paper was devoted to the same object. This man Vail, bought the copyright and published the lying history of the abduction of Morgan, recently reviewed in the Cynosure.

From there I came to College Springs in Page county, where I met with a warm reception from many friends. Here I was joined by Bro. Richards, and he is still laboring in the vicinity. I have given six lectures and one sermon to generally large and attentive audiences, and have work laid out for some time to come. Bro. Richards spoke once here and is now laboring at Clarinda. The friends here are ready for political action, and are waiting for a report of the committee on political action chosen at the Iowa State meeting. I expect to go to Tabor in Fremont county, and from there to Wisconsin.

Yours for the Lord,

H. H. HINMAN.

REV. J. P. RICHARDS AT LEON, IOWA.

ELK, Decatur Co. Iowa, Aug. 15th, 1877.

DEAR CYNOSURE.—Bro. J. P. Richards, lecturer of the Illinois Association delivered an Anti-mamasonic lecture in Leon, this county, on the evening of August 9, 1877. As this town is the stronghold of Masonry in the county, and they had never had a lecture of the kind, a goodly number of Masons and their jacks were present. Some of them doubtless had partaken of spirits quite freely, by which they were made targets for a great deal of merriment and confusion by their friends, who kept up stamping their feet, clapping of hands, and loud talking and laughing. The speaker demanded protection of the officers whose duty it was to keep the peace, but be it said to the shame and disgrace of the Masonic fraternity, he found no protection there. Finally, he asked those who wished quiet to rise to their feet. And about one half of the congregation arose. After this it was somewhat quiet. Bro. R. spoke about one and a half hours, giving the history of Masonry, the murder of of Morgan, the manner of preparation and initiation into the first three degrees, with their oaths, signs, passwords, &c., and the effects of Masonry on politics and religion. The meeting was dismissed amidst such confusion that we could not take up a collection for the use of the hall which we wished to do.

ELZA OSBORN.

Religious Intelligence.

—Rev. Dr. David R. Kerr of Pittsburgh, editor of the United Presbyrian, was a representative from the General Assembly of his church to the Pan-Presbyterian Council at Edinburgh. He has safely returned home.

—Dr. J. T. Cooper, another delegate from the same body, is traveling in Europe. He was elected one of a large committee composed of members from nearly every branch and section of Presbyterianism, to which was referred the revision and harmony of the different standards and confessions of the Presbyterian and Reformed churches. The labors of this committee may be imagined from the fact that the branches of the church represented in Edinburgh were 49, and the different nationalities 25.

—The Jews have 189 organizations and 152 synagogues in this country, with 73,265 sittings, and valued at $5,155,234. The Jewish population is 250,000.

—The Boston Journal gives the result of last winter's revivals in Eastern Massachusetts. Returns from 203 churches report an accession of 4,869 by profession, 2,554 being added to Congregational churches, 1,546 to Baptist churches, 769 to Methodist churches, and 37 to one Presbyterian church.

—The Disciples of Christ report nearly 500,000 church members in their denomination, and that during the last seven years 200 new congregations and 38,500 members have been added.

—Thirteen French Canadians, recent converts, were baptized at the Baptist Temple, Fall River, Mass., July 22d. Twenty-two French Canadians have been baptized during the year, and it is said that a French church will soon be built.

—Rev. Donald C. McLaren, D. D. of Geneva, New York, a well known name in the anti-lodge reform, celebrated his 50th wedding day a few years ago. A brother Malcoln celebrated a like anniversary last month, and yet another brother, John, holds such an occasion as among the near possibilities. All three brothers bear the title of D. D.

—While our city churches are overcome and decimated by hot weather, etc., the campmeeting efforts of the Free Methodists are in a number of instances rewarded with numerous conversions. Three new organizations of this church have been begun at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and vicinity and a new church dedicated at Kewanee, Ill., lately.

—Among the delegates at the Presbyterian Council was pastor Duseck, a deputy from the old Bohemian Church—the Bohemian Brethren of the early Reformation, to whom Calvin was so much indebted for his views of church government. He claimed to be from the Church of John Huss, and informed the Council that in Bohemia they had not only elders, but female elders, and that sometimes the elders were chosen by lot.

—The Irish Presbyterian Church has a mission in India, which, during the last three years has numbered about 400 conversions. Its field embraces six principal and six branch stations at which ten ordained European missionaries are laboring.

Correspondence.

Free Methodist Churches and Freemasonry.

Marengo, Ill.

In the issue of the Christian Cynosure of the date of July 17th, Bro. Hinman, in an article entitled "The Free Methodist Church and Secret Societies," makes some very serious charges against the official board of Aurora, and also of Elgin and South Elgin. Referring to the church at Aurora he says: "Twice I have been invited by pastors of the Free Methodist church in Aurora to lecture in that church, and twice I have been excluded by the 'official board,' 'on the ground that they were not willing to suffer the reproach of being the only church in the city that would tolerate such a discussion."

Now, all we have to say in this article concerning the above is this: If the "official board" of the Free Methodist church of Aurora excluded Brother Hinman from lecturing in their church, on the ground that they were not willing to suffer the reproach of being the only church in the city that would tolerate such a discussion, then the sooner that official board goes forward for prayers and gets converted the better, both for the church and the cause of God in general.

Brother Hinman continues: "The acting pastor of the Free Methodist churches in Elgin and South Elgin invited me to fill his pulpit in his absence, and to give one of the two discources on secret societies; but the 'official board' met and decided that I might preach but might not consider the subject of secret societies and that it was not for the good of the church to discuss that subject, as 'some of their members were sensitive on this question.' Now is it a fact, that because some of their members are aensitive on this question, that the 'official board' did not think it was for the good of the church to discuss the subject, and therefore excluded brother Hinman, or what is worse, usurped the authority of the Holy Ghost and dictated to one of Christ's ministers as to what sin he should denounce, or rather, what sin he should not denounce? Again, is it possible that there are members in the Free Methodist churches there who are sensitive on this question? Sensitive of what? Of having sin exposed and denounced? I have been a member of the Free Methodist church but a few years, but I have rejoiced in this idea, that a Free Methodist in reality is one who is saved from all sin, inside and outside. Can any one be thus saved and not hate Freemasonry, when he is informed as to the character of the institution? No: no more than an angel of light, or one of the blood-washed from earth can enjoy the bliss of heaven, and atthe same time be in league and sympathy with the devil and his works. If these persons who are so "sensitive on this question" are ignorant of the anti-Christian, devilish character of secret societies, especally Freemasonry, then the 'official board' of Elgin and South Elgin ought to see that they are enlightened and instructed,and what better way can this be done than to have them hear a lecture or two by Brother Hinman? Surely they have no business in the Free Methodist church if unwilling to have the "unfruitful works of darkness" revealed, and the "hidden things of dishonesty" brought to light and denounced. I hereby call on the 'official boards' of Aurora, Elgin and South Elgin to "arise and explain."

M. L. Vorheis.

Tares and Wheat.

Berrien Center, Mich.

Mr. Editor: In the Cynosure of 21st June is an article under the head, "Is it Misapplied?" The writer seems to take exceptions to the application I make (in a former article) of the tares and wheat. It may be misapplied, as I am liable to form wrong conclusions as well as others, but when I refer to the comments of Albert Barnes on this parable I find that I am in good company, and will hold to the position which I have taken until my mind is led to better understand it.

I do not wish to enter into a discussion on this subject with the good brother, as this would be useless and perhaps unprofitable. A few explanatory remarks will be sufficient. We admit that the field is the world and not the church. But at a proper time, after the young plants show signs of vitality, it is expedient that they be transplanted into the church, and we may transplant the tares spoken of in this parable and never clearly discover the mistake because of the great similarity they bear to the genuine wheat. We think the tares are here used as a figure to represent this particular class which so closely resembles true Christians.

But there are others of whom it is said, "They profess that they know God; but in works they deny him, being abominable, and disobedient, and unto every good work reprobate."—Titus 1:16. Here the dissimilarity is too conspicuous to be included in the class spoken of in the parable. And as "some men's sins are open beforehand, going before to judgment, and some men they follow after" (1 Tim. 5:24), we are led to infer that there are different classes of pretenders to Christianity, and represented in the Scriptures by different comparisons. I do not see that brother Callender and I differ so very much in our views of this passage, except that we look at it from a little different standpoint.

I am not a minister as the printers have by mistake entitled me, and although I am inexperienced I am endeavoring to labor in the Master's vineyard, and if my seniors in proficiency will apprise me of my errors it will perhaps enable me to work with more skill in the future.

J. B. Crall.

Mrs. DeGeer Misses the Mark Again.

Albion, Iowa.

Editor Cynosure: In the Crusader of last month I saw an editorial from the pen of Mrs. M. E. DeGeer, in which there are so many glaring falsehoods about Albion and her community, that to let them remain unanswered would be doing injustice to the better class of our citizens.

Mrs. DeGeer claims to seek the truth, and to publish nothing else; but in her last issue she publishes to the world that which every truthful man, woman and child, who knows the circumstances, will at once declare to be as false as the author of it.

Mrs. DeGeer speaks of the death of Mrs. Larison's son, and gives an account of the funeral expenses of the boy. She says: "The Anties on account of his mother's anti principles, thought they would get up a subscription—and among them subscribed six dollars. They then went to the Masons and said they wanted a fourteen dollar coffin, asking them to contribute," etc. She further says: "The liberal hearted Anties with the few dollars squeezed out of small pockets by the dime, went to the furniture man and offered what little they had, and asked him to throw off something, when he replied, 'Gentlemen take your choice of the best twenty-five dollar coffins in my store.' A few of the young man's friends who respected him too highly to have his coffin purchased by scanty subscription have bought it.' The Lord bless the good Masons we say." So ends the story which is as false and malicious as the mother of it. Now for the truth of the affair.

Mr. D. B. Way owed deceased a small sum for labor and he went and paid it to Mrs. Larison. While there he ascertained that she had not money to bear the funeral expenses of her son. Mr. Way then started out to raise money enough to buy a coffin for the boy. He called upon all, Masons and Anti-masons,and received alike from both, neither he nor any other Anti-mason thought of Masonry at the time. After he had obtained nearly enough to pay for a twenty dollar coffin, he went to the furniture man to order one; when lo! that band that does things so slyly, had been there, ordered a coffin and paid for it. The furniture dealer says that no Anti-mason ordered a coffin nor even priced one; that no one tried to have him throw off anything, and that Mrs. DeGeer's story of the same is false, all of it; and he believes is to be a willful falsehood. Mrs. Larison, the mother of the boy, says she believes from the manner in which the Masons supplanted Mr. Way, that what they did was not done through charity, but for some selfish purpose. But after all the sly, wolfish manner in which the Masons managed the affair, the others would have left the sneakingness of the craft in this affair remain with the community, had not that "she-mason" blowed her trumpet in Chicago, and sent out in her paper a wicked and willful falsehood for no other purpose than to support Masonry here. But no power of Satan is strong enough to give the craft front seats here. "They are weighed in the balance and found wanting."

Buckeye.

Political.

Elk, Decatur Co., Iowa,
Aug. 15, 1877.

Dear Cynosure: In reply to Moses Varney of Springdale, Iowa, I would say, we want an Anti-masonic State ticket, if those we nominate will support the ticket. One who was nominated as an elector for Walker and Kirkpatrick said that he voted for Hayes and Wheeler. Such nominees we do not want.

Elza Osborn.

Masonic Illustrations.

Rosendale, Wis.

Editor Cynosure:—Nearly every adhering Mason will affirm that Masons show no partiality towards each other, more than they would towards outsiders, other things being equal. But let us appeal to facts, which according to the old adage, are stubborn things. In this town is a large lodge, considering size of the town. The lodge was chartered in the year 1859. They got into regular working order when the rebellion broke out, and one of their members, Bertine Pickney, who was then a past master, and of course a good and true exponent of Masonry, entered the army as a Major and soon after was promoted to be a Colonel, and shortly after that he was commissioned a Brigadier General. On account of poor health he resigned and came home, and in December of 1863 or 1864 he attended one of their annual festivals. It was a public festival, and on account of a want of a singing choir of their own, a choir of outsiders were invited. The most prominent members were called upon for speeches, all of them seemed to vie with each other in laudation of the order and the benefits which were to be derived from it by all, irrespectively; even the outside world were greatly indebted to the institution, for their world-wide charity, etc.

At last General Pickney capped the climax, by relating an incident which occurred during the war, in substance, (as it was related to me by many substantial witnesses,) it was as follows: That the two armies were drawn up in battle array within so many yards of each other. and "the Masonic sign was given, and the sword was immediately dropped. Comment here is unnecessary. Another incident I will relate. Colonel La Grange of the 1st. Wisconsin cavalry was taken prisoner by the enemy, confined, I believe, at Andersonville; and fared sumptuously in comparison to the other inmates, and his wife received letters regularly every week, while others, or at least those who were not Masons could receive none. As all such letters were interdicted, and all communications were closed for several weeks successively, many soldiers languished and died, before any intelligence from their friends could be obtained. These are not a tythe of what might be adduced illustrative of the principle. Why Jeff. Davis was not hung, and Andrew Johnson was not impeached is a problem of easy solution in the minds of all.

M. J. Lewis.

Our Mail.

A friend asks:

"Do you know any Baptist ministers free to take charge of a church, belonging to this anti-secret society reform?"

If any such persons will forward to us their names we will send them to this inquirer.

C. G. Coffin, LaPorte, Ind., renews his subscription for six months and writes:

"I have been laid aside for the past six months, unable to attend to any business or hear the news read in the paper. I feel as if I had lost a great deal and am so anxious to know how you are progressing in the great Christian as well as moral reform I may have "crossed over" before my half year expires, but you will know I go strong in the faith that God will ere long rid our nation and the church of all false secretism."

Hosea Washburn, Madison, Maine, writes:

"I think the prospect of the cause is encouraging. We are doing what we can by circulating books, tracts and papers."

George Frantz, Duncan, Stark Co., Ill., write:

"I cannot see how a man can be a Christian and a Freemason at the same time, but God will bring all things to light by and by."

R. W. Gilbert, Panola, Ill., writes:

"I have been distributing Cynosure tracts in the Sabbath-schools on my circuit with hopeful results. My prayers often go up to God for the success of our reform and the Cynosure as one of God's agencies in it. I am yours as ever, opposed to all rings, monopolies, secret societies and everything like selfishness or clanishness."

E. G. Cooper, Albany, Mo., writes:

"Home matters have demanded our time for some months past; but we expect to give our time to the Anti-masonic cause through the fall and winter. The leaven hid by the Cynosure, Freeman, Blanchard, Levington, Stoddard and others begins to exhibit the formation of a new and more liberal sentiment among the people. We shall try to keep the war interesting as far as circumstance will permit."

Hiram Summy, Pleasantville, Marion county, Iowa, writes:

"There are but four Anti-masons here who try to help the reform and we are 282 years old. We never have had a lecture here yet."

This reform is greatly blessed in having many old men interested in it. Let us remember that old men are for counsel. Let Young America heed their words. Praise God for our veterans in this warfare.

Peter Kerr, Worthington, Armstrong county, Pa., writes:

"There are some secret society men around here. The Odd-fellows are the strongest and the boldest. The grangers made a great start but are partly dying out."

N. B. Blanton has changed his post-office address from Coffeyville to Galena, Kansas. He writes:

"This town Galena is about two months old and is situated on Short or Shot Creek in the Cherokee country, in the southeast corner of Kansas, in the center of very rich lead and zinc mines. The population of the town and diggings around the town is estimated at 6,000."

Home and Farm.

Get Ready for Winter.—Now that harvest is over and grain in the stack, a few days spent in getting the dwelling house ready for winter will be well repaid in the comfort of the family from November to April. The letters and hints in the Cynosure last winter upon rendering the walls of the house good non-conductors as well as impervious to winds can be used with advantage even in houses already built. Engage at the nearest saw or planing mill, two or three loads of sawdust for filling in between the studding of your house. If you can do the work in no other way, carefully remove the weather boarding under the eaves and put the filling in. Wood ashes a few inches thick in places exposed to mice will prevent their working; and for this reason ashes will be a good protection over the ceiling of chambers if exposed under the roof. The roof should be made tight above. Sawdust is probably the best material for thermal purposes, however, and the house should be packed with it as if preparing for the storage of ice in summer. A little time and money spent judiciously in this way will bring a greater revenue of comfort and health than will be likely to come in any other way.

Cows Holding up Their Milk.—The Journal of Agriculture says: It is a common complaint among dairymen that cows will not give down their milk, and it would appear from the way in which the matter is discussed that there are some cows of a contrary disposition that persistently and stubbornly refuse to part with their milk supply on demand. There is nothing more fallacious. Cows have no more control of the matter than we have when we sneeze. Some cows are more nervous than others, and in consequence more easily excited. If they are worried by dogs, or chased by boys before being milked, it will be observed that they are fractious and fidgety, and will not let their milk down. This is none of their fault. They are suffering from natural nervous causes, and it is not that they are unwilling to give up their milk, but in fact the milk-forming process in the cow is temporarily disturbed, and they have no milk to let down. The same thing frequently happens when the calf is weaned. If the cow shows much distress at the separation and moans and grieves for her offspring, it will again be discovered that she falls off in her milk yield. We have known of instances where perfectly fresh cows have ceased to give milk entirely from having been dragged a long distance behind a wagon, and worried and excited by a cruel driver. The nervous temperament of the cow is one of the first things to be considered in selecting one for the dairy. A quiet, easy going animal, imperturbable and careless as to surroundings, will stand and chew her cud, and it requires something very extraordinary to disturb her milk manufacture; but find one that runs off on the approach of any one and has a chronic wild and startled look, and nine cases out of ten she will be very unsatisfactory in the dairy.

If we wish to avoid the excitement consequent to weaning the calf, take it away from the cow when two or three days old and raise it by hand. The mother will make much less fuss about it at that age than if allowed to run longer with her.

Offensive Perspiration.—We have known otherwise agreeable people to be so affected with this disorder as to render them almost obnoxious to their friends and a mortification to themselves. For the benefit of such suffering ones we give a couple of simple remedies which we know to be efficacious:

Dissolve one ounce chlorate potassa in one pint of soft water. Take one tea-spoonful of this mixture night and morning. After taking inwardly a few days, put a tablespoonful of it in a washbowl of water and sponge the person with it; continue this treatment a few weeks and all unpleasant odor will be gone.

A few drops of hartshorn in hot water is also very effectual in removing the sour smell of perspiration. Gentlemen who walk a good deal are often troubled with perspiring feet. If they will bathe their feet every night with cold water and salt, rubbing them well with a coarse towel, and occasionally with the hot water and hartshorn, all unpleasant odor will soon disappear.—Christian Intelligencer.

Fish for Food.—Ex-Governor Seymour says there is more nutritious food in an acre of water well stocked with fish, than in the best wheat-growing farm in the State of New York. Let those who are seeking fortune through cheap lands in the far west, take note of this declaration. The ex-Governor has held the plow, figuratively speaking, for some years, and is one of the Fish Commissioners for New York State, and so he doubtless knows whereof he speaks. There is much wealth at almost every door, if we but look for it, and work the discovery with diligence and true economy.

Value of Fruit as Food.—At a convention of fruit-growers of Ohio Mr. Bateman, the well-known horticulturist, said that farmers and others, especially those having families of children, would find great advantage in the matter of health by using fruit as a part of every meal at all times of the year. Mr. B. said he had tried this plan for many years with a large family, and knew from experience that nearly all the cases of derangement of health by the use of fruit in the summer were attributable to its irregular use. He also believes that a more constant and plentiful use of fruit would be found useful as a preventitive of the malarial fevers so common in the west. Farmers should grow more kinds of summer fruits, so as to have a constant succession for the table; more grapes, where they can be grown, and more and better varieties of apples in their orchards.

Masonic Books.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

☞All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Those who wish to know the character of Freemasonry, as shown by its own publications, will find many standard works in the following list.

No sensible Mason dares deny that such men as Albert G. Mackey, the great Masonic Lexicographer, and Daniel Sickels, the Masonic author and publisher, are the highest Masonic authority in the United States.

All the books advertised here are used by Masons, but Duncan's Ritual, Allyn's Ritual and Richardson's Monitor, are not publicly acknowledged as Masonic authority, because they tell too much.

WEBB'S MONITOR O FREEMASONRY.

LARGE Edition, with Notes by Rob. Morris. Price, $1.50. Pocket Edition, 75 Cts.

FEMALE MASONRY.

MANNUAL OF THE ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR.

Containing the Ritual, Symbols Lectures etc., of the five Degrees of "Adoptive Masonry:" Jeptha's Daughter; Ruth, Esther, Martha and Electa, profusely illustraited and handsomely bound.

Price.....$1 [illegible]

SICKELS' FREEMASON'S MONITOR,

CONTAINING the Degrees of Freemasonry embraced in the Lodge, Chapter, Council, and Commandery, embellished with nearly 300 symbolic Illustrations, together with Tactics and Drill of Masonic Knighthood. Also, forms of Masonic Documents, Notes, Songs, Masonic dates, Installations, etc. By D. Sickels; 32 mo. Tuck. Price. $1.50. Cloth, $1.

GENERAL AHIMAN REZON AND FREEMASON'S GUIDE.

By Daniel Sickels, 33°

The most perfect Masonic Monitor published in the United States. Embellished with nearly 300 Engravings, and Portrait of the Author, Containing Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow-Craft, and Master Mason, with Explanatory Notes and Lectures; with the Ceremonies of Consecration and Dedication of New Lodges, Installation of Officers, Laying Foundation Stones, Dedication of Masonic Halls, Burial Services, Masonic Calendar, Ritual for a Lodge of Sorrow, Masonic Trials, etc.

Bound in fine cloth extra, large 12mo.....$2.00.

DUNCAN'S MASONIC RITUAL AND MONITOR,

PROFUSELY Illustrated with Explanitory Engravings, and containing the entire Ritual and work of the Order for the Seven Degrees, including the Royal Arch. Scores of Masons have privately admitted that this is a Standard Text-Book in the Lodge, and is strictly correct; but publicly it is not acknowledged as authority, though almost every officer of the Lodge makes use of it. Price in cloth. $2.50.

MACKEY'S MANUAL OF THE LODGE.

Or Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, with Ceremonies Relating to Installations, Dedications, Consecrations, Laying of Corner stones, etc. Price, $3.

Allyn's Ritual of Masonry,

ILLUSTRATED by a large number of Engravings, and containing a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, Orange and Odd-fellows' Societies. Price, $5.00.

MACKEY'S LEXICON OF FREEMASONRY,

CONTAINING a Definition of Terms, Notices of its History, Traditions, and Antiquities, and an Account of all the Rites and Mysteries of the Ancient World. 12 mo.; 526 pages; $3.

MACKEY'S TEXT-BOOK

Of Masonic Jurisprudence,

ILLUSTRATING the Laws of Freemasonry, both written and unwritten. This is the Great Law Book of Freemasonry—570 pages. Price, $2.50.

MACKEY'S MASONIC RITUALIST;

or Monitorial Instruction Book,

BY ALBERT G. MACKEY.

PAST General High Priest of the General Grand Chapter of the United States, Knight of the Eagle and Pelican, Prince of Mercy, etc. Price, Cloth, $1.25; Tuck, $1.75.

MOORE'S MASONIC TRESTLE BOARD.

THIS work was originally prepared by order of the National Masonic Convention held at Baltimore, Md., in 1843. It is known among Masons everywhere as the "Blue Book," and has long been considered a standard work. Price, $1.75.

TRUE MASONIC CHART; OR, HIEROGLYPHIC MONITOR.

By Jeremy L. Cross, Grand Lecturer.

With a Memoir and Portrait of the Author, Containing all the Emblems explained in the Degrees of entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason. Designed and arranged agreeably to the Lectures.

12mo. Cloth.....$1 50

The Christian Cynosure.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, AUGUST 30, 1877.

Why we Should go to Dayton.

"We wrestle not with flesh and blood," when we encounter the hosts of secretism, but against a union of principalities and powers, and the rulers of the darkness of this world, and against spiritual wickedness in high places. No one acquainted with its genius and structure can doubt that the lodge system is among the most powerful and effective of all known Satanic agenies. If it does not control all other agencies, good and evil alike, directly, it enters them in disguise and appropriates to its use whatever can be made to subserve its purpose. It enters the family and laying its hands upon the mature, unblemished members of that sacred compact, leads them blindfolded and half naked into its Bastiles. It supplants God's ordinance and sets up a code of its own in the household of its members, and a body composed of Jews, barbarians and what-not, called a "Grand Lodge" makes laws for that family, by telling the husband and father what he shall not say, and what he shall not do in his own house. The lodge takes what it can use from the family, and after binding its victim in the most abject slavery, it sends him back to make the law of his seducers and not the law of God the supreme rule in his home.

The same thing is true of its practical workings in society in the State and in the church. It has its emmisaries upon every watch-tower looking out for every rising cloud of opposition, and its experienced sappers and miners delving under every man's character or every movement that menaces its coveted supremacy. It is a band of secret spies and disguised oath-bound agents diffused through society acting in concert and directed by a few designing leaders.

The system of Freemasonry alone consists of seventeen "rites" and more than three hundred degrees. "York Rite" Masonry has obtained a good degree of popularity and influence in the "Chapter" or "Holy Royal Arch degree," as it is called. The "American Rite" consists of nine degrees with four encampment degrees appended, and is a modification or development of the "York Rite." The encampment degrees, consisting of Knight of the Red Cross, Knight Templar, and Knight of Malta and Super-excellent Master, are a kind of mongrel mixture of Christian and military exercises, in which they swear to defend the Christian religion with their swords, repeat the Lord's prayer and drink wine from a human skull, in their religious worship. These two rites have in agovernmental point of view but a trifling influence in comparison with the "Scottish Rite," which is the center around which the whole system of secretism in this country revolves.

The Scottish, like each of the other sixteen rites begins at the summit of Blue Lodge Masonry and proceeds thence by five series and thirty degrees up to the Supreme Council of Sovereign Grand Inspectors General, and is presided over by the most Puissant Sovereign Grand Commander holding his position for life and who is invested with legal absoluteness. This is the irresponsible governing body in the whole gigantic machine. Its control of the thirty-two subordinate degrees in this rite direct and absolute including each individual member as well as the organic structure itself. It indirectly controls the Blue Lodges, by capturing the Grand Lodges and officering the local lodges with its trained agents, and did it pause here the evil might be endured. But this is only the beginning.

The half million Masons in this country are simply the "picked men," the "confidential deputies," the "legion of honor" acting as a body guard to the "Supreme Council," and under commission and and with guarantees of protection they enter every other secret and open association that will tolerate them, not as Masons but as men, to direct and control it in the interests of the one supreme body. This Supreme Council officers and runs Odd-fellowship. It originated and run the grange until it could make more out of it by letting it fall in pieces than by keeping it intact. This "Supreme Council" sends its agents into our pulpits, our courts, our State Legislatures and into Congress, and everywhere, and always for the one purpose. It furnishes models for all the secret unions and men to control them. Strikes are the early fruits of a ripening harvest, in which the knowing ones anticipate a great increase of power. By multiplying rival combinations, they destroy confidence between men, derange business, dishearten honest effort, prevert judgment and weaken the government, and thus they are endeavoring to prepare the people to submit to that authority which now works in secret, but which aspires to become the dominant and acknowledged head of the church and the State. These men are in earnest and those who believe in equal rights and the Christian religion should be equally so. Our nation has just cast off one system of bondage, but it cost the blood of half a million of our citizens to wipe out that curse, and now we are threatened with, and already under the shadow of a curse more enslaving to intellect and soul, and shall we sit quietly down and note the gathering shadows until the light of liberty is shrouded in the midnight of oppression? God forbid. Let us be on the watch-towers sounding the alarm, and let us gather at Dayton, October 23d and 25th, for counsel, and to encourage one another in the Lord. The times are ominous, the crisis makes haste, the principalities and powers are marshaling their cohorts, the "Sovereign Grand Commander" has set the battle in array, and now let every friend of humanity, of justice, and of the Christian religion be at his post.

J. P. Stoddard.

A New Apocalyptic Beast.

The Knights of Pythias whose ritual is being given in this paper, have just held what in their inflated dialect is their "Supreme Council of the World," at Cleveland, Ohio (Aug. 14). Over 2,000 able-bodied men marched in line laden with miltary finery and grandiloquent titles, among whom we notice a few ambitious and respectable lawyers like John C. Van Valkenburgh of Iowa, a former student of Knox College, who, however, left the lower departments without ever coming under my instruction. The Cleveland Mayor and Council received them into their city decorated with flags to celebrate the citizens "knew not what." The Columbus United States barracks sent the U. S. band to swell the day and give color of respectability to a secret society swindle which was invented by a few swindlers and loafers with J. H. Rathbone at their head, in the city of Washington beside the cradle of the grange in 1864, directed doubtless by the devils who were losing their occupation by the fall of the slave system the year before.

This bold, impudent and contemptible swindle, compared with which all the mock-auctions of the United States are trifles, in 1870, only four years from its start, reported total receipts amounting to $541,219.34! No wonder that to their historian Weeks, "There is something wonderful in the progress of the order. It reads like a fairy story." (His. Knights of Pyth. p. 167). The dupes of the delusion, it is plain from the above, do not themselves know or comprehend either its nature or import, but with "all the world wonders after the Beast."

The unseen realms are hidden to us as to them. But we know that when Christ who was "the truth" cast out devils, those malignant creatures rational, who had lost the use of the restored Gadarene demoniac by whom they had terrified and enslaved the villagers, drove their swine into the sea, spoiled their rural and contraband commerce and stopped the work and teaching of Christ there. And it requires small acumen to see that this new "fairy" devil-worship is swamping American ideas and institutions, and thus check-mating in this country Christ's form of civilization. It is neither weakness nor superstition which suggests that "like effects have like causes," and if so, that the devils who had run but were leaving the falling slave system with its mass of Satanic uncleanness, injustice, falsehood and cruelty, were permitted to enter these Pythians and the grange to keep the ex-slaveholders from receiving Christ as they and the Gadarenes of old would have done but for their trick, and thus to originate the stupendous humbug which we behold.

Reform Colleges.

The collegiate year opens again during the early days of September. The following are the best known among western institutions that maintain and teach the principles of our reform: Westfield College, Westfield, Clark Co., Ill.; fall term opened August 22nd, second term opens November 14th. For information address Pres. S. B. Allen, who is also president of the Illinois State Christian Association this year. Wheaton College (see advertisement on last page) opens next Thursday, September 6th. Unlike other institutions mentioned in this note, Wheaton has to stand in one respect alone against the attacks of the lodge. Compared with them, it is nearly unsupported by denominational props, yet none the less by the prayers and donations of many godly men and women in all the churches. Monmouth College Monmouth, Ill., opens next Wednesday, Sept. 5th, under President Wallace, this College has grown to be a center of good influence for the United Presbyterian churches, as well as for the community at large. Western College, Linn Co., Iowa, also begins its yearly course on Sept. 5th, and is for Iowa and the United Brethren of that State what Westfield is to Illinois. Prof. L. Bookwalter writes that a good attendance is expected. Parents will not fear to trust the training of their children to Pres. E. B. Kephart. Wesleyan Seminary, Wasioja, Minn. (see advertisement on 16th page) begins its first term Sept. 12th, and deserves honorable mention among the educational institutions though yet but a preparatory school. Under the vigorous agency of Rev. D. F. Shepardson its financial basis is being made firm, and Prof. Paine is a loyal defender of the reform principles of the Wesleyan churches. Such institutions as these can be heartily recommended to Christian parents who do not wish the minds of their children trained at the expense of moral neglect and heart poverty. It will not be amiss to say also to students that after the Word of God, one of the best books preparatory to college life is Students' Manual, by the late well known Rev. John Todd.

THE PUBLISHING HOUSE.—The following ought to arouse every well-wisher of the reform to undertake at least as much as this humble brother. How many of you are better able to give your tens and hundreds than he a single dollar. Let honest self-denial have its way for a single five minutes as you read this and take pen and paper to enclose your gift to this great work. Read Bro. Lewis' appeal from New Bedford, Ill.:

"Enclosed find $3.20; $2.20 for Cynosure and $1.00 for the Publishing House fund. Come, brethren and friends of the cause, let each one of us give one dollar and it will help much in securing the enterprise. It seems to me the money might be secured in this way without distressing any one. Come, dear friends, let us to the rescue! I am a poor itinerant preacher traveling on a salary of $375 and keeping up my own expenses, but the Lord's cause demands our help. Come now, how many shall we have to respond to this call next week, and so on till every one of the subscribers to the paper has paid one dollar to the Publishing House fund. If I can afford it, it seems to me that every other subscriber can. The cause of God demands it, our country, our homes demand it. Humanity groans under the curse of secrecy. Come to the rescue. J. W. LEWIS.

—Bro. R. Faurot well known in Indiana as an able defender of the truth, now resides in Kendallville ince his return from the South. Awhile since he wrote a brief review of a Masonic oration published in the Kendallville Standard. The editor procured a reply of nine long columns from the orator, "Rev." R. McMurdy, an Episcopal clergyman formerly living at Hyde Park near this city. This gentleman will be remembered by many who attended the State Association here three years ago, for his unsuccessful efforts to display his store of Masonic information, and for his courtesy in asking the Convention to trot about the city looking up documents by which he promised to prove that he was not a liar. Against this Goliath spear (nine columns long) let Bro. Faurot fling a smooth stone of truth. It will suffice.

—General agent Stoddard visits Marshall county, Iowa, this week, stopping first at Quarry for a week or more and then going on to Marshalltown to co-operate with Bro. Ronayne.

– Rev. N. Wardner, general evangelist of the Wesleyan church, called at Wheaton last Saturday and Lord's Day to attend the quarterly meeting. His preaching like Paul's at Corinth was "in demonstration of the Spirit and of power," leading the church and others who came in to confession and importunate prayer. By the grace of God this apostolic visitation may be like showers on the parched ground, refreshing, quickening, revivifying, preparing the church for a good work, begetting in them that willingness that marks the day of God's visitation in power. The visit is most opportune as the College opens next week and all the churches need a reviving to fit them for the holy duty of receiving and caring for the highest interest of the many students who will come into their homes.

—Bro. H. H. Hinman, who is yet in south-western Iowa, wishes to prompt a number of subscribers in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Iowa, whose names he obtained by becoming personally responsible to the publishers for the money, which should have been sent to him, but is not yet. These subscriptions should be paid if those who owe them have even to live on two meals a day to do it. Bro. Hinman needs the money and ought to have it before this week is out. Send to him at Wheaton.

—Rev. W. P. McNary of Bloomington, Ind., president of the State Association, reports a severe Masonic attack now opened in the local papers upon himself. Our readers who have had experience will say that it is a sign of good—good done or spoken and good to come to those who may claim the blessing of those who suffer for righteousness' sake. Bro. McNary believes this and his trust is firm in the Lord Jehovah. We hope to print something more from his pen on the history of the lodge.

—Vermonters take notice! It is reported that secret societies are prohibited by an old statute in the province of Quebec, Canada, and the Catholics are about to take advantage of it against their old enemies, the Orangemen. They will prosecute prominent members of the Orange lodges for belonging to an illegal society.

—Bro. George Eley, an occasional contributor to our columns, has printed an essay on "Self-denial." There is little enough said on this eminent Christian virtue, and this effort, made we believe sincerely and humbly in plain speech, deserves an honest and wide reading. The tract is for gratuitous distribution. Send to Geo. Eley, Juda, Green Co., Wis., enclosigg postage.

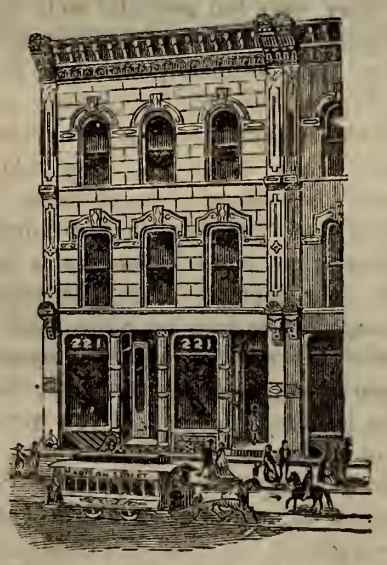
—Past Master Ronayne is preparing to present the Fellow-craft degree in the hall of the Carpenter building on the evening of Tuesday next, September 4th. Let the notice be widely circulated and those who sympathize with the reform in the city and vicinity be present so far as possible.

—This exposition is at the request of the annual business meeting of the National Christian Association, which recommended that in connection all the pastors of the city be requested, personally so far as possible, to attend and question and criticize so as to thoroughly inform themselves of the nature of the organization they are admitting to their churches. The General Agent in attempting to invite them finds that with hardly an exception the Chicago ministers are away on vacation not expecting to return till September. Of the Presbyterian churches from the 1st down to the 8th, the pastor of the latter only is at his post. If the Holy Spirit went with the ministers Chicago would be truly a God-forsaken city.

IN THE SANITARIAN for September James T. Gardner, director of the State Survey of New York gives some valuable ideas to public health discussion on the Relation between Topographical Surveys and the Study of Public Health. "Criminality," a paper from the N. Y. Medico-Legal Association," "The Arrest of Zymotis Diseases," like smallpox, etc.. "The Causes of Disease in County Houses," and "Street Pavements" are other able articles. A. M. Bell publisher, Box 1956, New York.

THE NATIONAL S. S. TEACHER has dropped nearly everything else to make room for the editors notes and expositions of the lessons. The September number answers well the purpose of Bible dictionary, notes, concordance, and a lazy teacher would make shift to do without the Bible itself. The quarterly review fills a space in this number. Adams, Blackmer & Lyons, Pub. Co. Chicago.

—We have received a neat pamphlet printed by Rufus Johnson, Gerlaw, Ill., for the author, Rev. T. C. Patterson, containing an invitation from him for a discussion upon the propositions of Masonic compatibility with the Christian religion and republican government. The challenge was replied to by two Masons in the Monmouth Atlas, but they drew back from the discussion, or were ordered into silence by their lodge. Following this correspondence Bro. Patterson follows out at length some thoughts suggested by it with great profit. We see no price affixed to the pamphlet, but presume copies can be had of Bro. Patterson.



Front view of the CARPENTER DONATION, a fine, stone front building No. 221 West Madison St., Chicago, now occupied by the National Christian Association. The fee simple will be given by Mr. Carpenter if other friends raise $30,000 by Apr. 1st 1878, in cash or "good, negotiable, interest-bearing notes" to establish a Publishing House and headquarters of the reform. Send donations to the Treasurer at 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The National Christian Association.

PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.—Pres. H. H. George, D. D., W. Geneva, Ohio

SECRETARIES.—Rev. W. H. French, D. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; H. L. Kellogg, Chicago.

PRESIDENT OF THE CORPORATE BODY.—Rev. J. B. Walker, D. D., Wheaton, Ill.

VICE-PRESIDENT. — Philo Carpenter, Chicago.

DIRECTORS.—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, Archibald Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, H. L. Kellogg, E. Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, J. B. Walker, A. D. Freeman, Thos. Hodge.

RECORDING SEC'Y.—Thos. Hodge, Chicago.

COR. SEC'Y AND GENERAL AGENT.—J. P. Stoddard, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TREASURER.—H. L. Kellogg, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The object of this Association is:—

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the Churches of Christ from being depraved; to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform to aid the Association in either of these ways: (1) to establish a Publishing House and Head-quarters in Chicago; (2) to carry on the general work; (3) to maintain the State agents. All donations, (drafts or P. O. orders) should be sent to the Treasurer; general correspondence, etc., direct to the Corresponding Secretary

FORM OF BEQUEST.—I give and bequeath to the National Christian Association, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, the sum of——dollars for the purposes of said Association, and for which the receipt of its Treasurer for the time being shall be a sufficient discharge.

State Auxiliary Associations.

CONNECTICUT.

President, J. A. Conant, Willimantic.
Secretary, D. J. Ellsworth, Windsor.
Treasurer, C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.

President, S. B. Allen, Westfield.
Rec. Secretary and Treasurer, H. L. Kellogg, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
Lecturers, H. H. Hinman, Wheaton, and J. P. Richards, Bowensburg, Hancock Co.

INDIANA.

Pres't, W. P. McNary, Bloomington.
Rec. Sec'y, H. Teter, Westfield.
Treas., Peter Rich, Westfield.
Lecturer and Cor. Sec'y S. L. Cook, Albion.

IOWA.

President, M. S. Drury, Western, Linn Co.
Cor. Sec'y, M. R. Drury, " " "
Rec. Sec'y, E. J. Grinnell, Charles City.
Treasurer, John Dorcas, Shiloh.

KANSAS.

President, H. T. Besse, Sterling, Rice Co.
Secretary, J. Dodds, Winchester.
Treasurer, C. A. Sexton, Topeka.

MICHIGAN.

President, H. D. Inman, Coldwater.
Cor. Sec'y, C. B. Remington, Fentonville
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Bruce, Hickory Corners
Treasurer, C. Quick, Weston.
Lecturer and Agent, D. P. Rathbun, Hickory Corners.

Communications for the Agent concerning lectures or the interests of the cause may be addressed to, or in care of, E. W. Bruce.

MISSOURI.

President, N. E. Gardner, Avalon.
Cor. Sec'y, A. D. Thomas, Arbela.
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Carpenter.
Treasurer, Wm. Beauchamp, Avalon.
Lecturer, E. G. Cooper, Albany Gentry Co.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

President, J. F. Browne, Lewiston, Me.
Secretary, S. C. Kimball, Center Strafford.
Treasurer. E. Smith, Center Strafford.

NEW YORK.

President, L. N. Stratton, Syracuse.
Secretary, W. A. Sellew, Rochester.
Treasurer, M. Merrick, Syracuse.
Lecturers—L. N. Stratton, Syracuse; Woodruff Post, Rochester; A. F. Curry, Almond.

OHIO.

President, H. H. George, W. Geneva.
Treasurer, J. G. Mattoon, West Unity
Sec. and Lecturer, Wm. Dillon, Dayton.

WISCONSIN.

President, E. L. Harris, Delavan.
Secretary, U. D. Lathrop, Millard.
Treasurer; Joshua Parish, Delavan.

Address of Anti-masonic Lecturers.

General Agent and Lecturer, J. P. STODDARD, Christian Cynosure Office, Chicago.
For STATE LECTURERS State Ass'n list.
Others who will lecture when desired:—
C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
R. B. Taylor, Summerfield, O.
N. Callender, Starrucca, Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
P. Hurless, Polo, Ill.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Mercer Co., Ill.
J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
Josiah McCaskey, Fancy Creek, Wis
C. F. Hawley, Damascoville, Ohio.
W. M. Givens, Center Point, Ind.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
D. S. Caldwell, Clyde, Sandusky Co., O.
A. Mayn, Promise City, Wayne Co., Mich.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
C. F. Wiggins, Angola, Ind
E Ronayne, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.
W. M. Love, Baker, St. Clair Co. Mo
A D. Freeman, Downers Grove, Ill.
Jas. Springer, Springerton. Ill.
A. D. Carter, Deersville, Harrison Co O.
James McCleery, Monroe, Iowa.
R. Faurot, Kendallville, Ind.
J. W. Barlow, Ridgetown, Ont., C. W.

The Home Circle.

Creeds Defended.

I met a man some years ago
With self-esteem prodigious;
And he of course knew everything
About all things religious.

A creed he treated with contempt,
Of sneer he was not saving,
For he was such a liberal man,
And creeds were so enslaving.

Suspect the man who sneers at creeds,
Respect a firm believer;
The truth revealed—he ought to be
Of truth the glad receiver.

The truth received, a creed I hold—
For credence and believing
In other words mean simply this,
A faith, and faith receiving.

The Latin credo simply means,
In Saxon tongue translated,
The firm confession, I believe—
Should such term be berated?

"Hold fast the faith," a God commands;
You can't without the credence,
And then before the faith exists
The creed takes antecedence.

Then credo! credo! I believe,
My creed from God receiving;
My Bible is a book of creeds,
And I its truths believing.

I do not say a creed will save,
But truth is means of saving,
And who to truth a credence gives,
Is not his soul enslaving.

My creed, "The truth will make us free,"
My creed, 'Tis Jesus saves us.
Since these are creeds, then cease to sneer
That creeds must needs enslave us.

—United Presbyterian.

Romanism and the Bible.

It is important for the public to know the precise position of the Roman Catholic church with respect to the reading of the Bible by the people. Rev. Philip Schaff, D.D., has prepared a brief summary of Roman Catholic deliverances on this subject which is worthy of preservation for reference.

1. Several Popes before and even after the Reformation, especially Innocent III. (ob. 1216) and Clement XI., in the Bulla Unigenitus (1713) have not indeed, absolutely prohibited, but, at least restricted and discouraged the reading of the Bible in the vernacular tongues.

2. Pius VII. (1816), Leo XII. (1824), Gregory XVI. (1832) and Pius IX. have anathemized the Protestant Bible Societies and denounced the spread of Protestant Bibles. The Papal Syllabus of 1864 (§ iv.) classes Bible Societies (Societates Biblica) with socialism, communism, secret societies, and calls them "pests," which had often been most severely reproved in papal encyclicals.

3. The "The Index Librorum Prohibitorum," as issued by Pius IV., allows the use of the (Catholic) translation only on condition of a special permission of the priest.

4. It is perfectly consistent with the Romish view on the obscurity of the Scriptures, as with the hierarchical spirit, to place very little value on the reading of the Bible and to refer the laity to the living teaching of the priesthood. The reading of the Bible is not regarded as necessary by the Roman church; but only as useful within certain limits, and as positively hurtful if left free to all.

5. The wholesale destruction of Protestant translations of the Bible was an essential and prominent part of the Jesuitical counter-reformation in Bohemia, Poland, Hungary and other countries. Bohemian and Polish Bibles were burned by the thousands during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, so that copies are very rare. One Jesuit (Koniash, died about 1617) boasted that he burned over 60,000 Bohemian books. The whole Czech and Polish literature was destroyed by the Jesuits.

No additional proof is necessary to show the settled opposition of Romanism to the reading of the Word of God by the people. The Roman Catholic bishops and priests are altogether consistent in contending against the use of the Bible in the public schools.

To School Girls.

Another thing of which you can not be too careful is your health. Do you know how wasteful you are of your abundant vitality, as if it were some common uncostly thing of which there were no need to take care? It is very sad to think of the victims of neuralgia, of headache, and of morbid melancholy, who would be now rejoicing in gladness if they were but perfectly well and strong. The stock of health which you girls needlessly exhaust, you will need, and pine for, perhaps, one of these days. Just try to think how many times you have taken cold when there is no occasion for it, if you had only been prudent. Every time you take cold you set the door open to fevers, to pneumonia, to various maladies; and if once they walk in, and get possession of the citadel of the body, they are hard to dislodge. If you would not so despise that good thing, a shawl, in chilly weather; if you would throw it over your arm when you go out, so that if a change in the temperature come you could be armed against it; if you would wear thick shoes and flannels, and never sit down in a draught when you are heated, nor stand in a windy doorway bidding good-by to friends, you might escape multitudes of colds which weaken and imperil health.

Then as to your food. Who are the best customers at the candy stores? I suppose that they are about equally divided between too indulgent papas who like to carry bonbons to their babies, and between girls who have a sweet tooth for sugar and cream. Now candy and confectionery, except when lightly partaken of in the way of dessert, are ruinous to digestion, and a person who has an impaired digestive apparatus has, I assure you, a pretty hard time in keeping amiable and even-tempered in this up-and-down world.

You are just at the age when you are fond of forming passionate friendships. You think you cannot be mistaken in supposing that you could not endure life if your were separated from your dearest intimate friend. I am glad that you can love so fondly and unselfishly as you do, and I am sure that to older eyes there is no prettier sight than that of two merry girls, arms interlocked, faces radiant, tongues going fast, as they exchange the innocent confidences of their age. Yet pardon me if I tell you that it is better for you not to form even girl-friendships unless they are with those whom your parents cordially approve. A young lady's mother is always her best, wisest and truest friend and counsellor. If she tells you that Minnie or Jessie, whom you so much admire, is not a safe companion for you, it is wise for you to defer to her judgment.

Let your friendships with the young people of your acquaintance be open and above-board. Do not affect an utter scorn and indifference to the boys. Why should you not enjoy the society of nice, well-behaved, gentlemanly lads, the friends of your brothers and cousins, and the brothers of your friends? There is no reason in the world why you should shun a boy as if he were beneath your attention. Unhappily, my dears, there are some of you who need quite other advice than this. You are only too willing to be free and familiar with young gentlemen, too anxious to secure admiration, and too ready to flirt. Of all undignified, unmaidenly things, flirting is the worst. You sacrifice a great deal when you condescend to engage in it. Repress coquetry, and be simple, straightforward, modest and gently-behaved if you expect to become a gentlewoman.—Mrs. Sangster, in Christian at Work.

"Make a Few."—A pretentious student in Brown University once told Dr. Wayland that he thought it would be easy to make proverbs like those of Solomon. The only reply of Dr. Wayland was, "Make a few!" If skeptics who have spent so much time in railing at the Bible would try their hands at making a better book, a book that would take hold upon the heart of humanity; which would interest children and comfort old age; which would inspire manhood and womanhood with the highest, truest, noblest thoughts; which would chasten them in joy and comfort them in sorrow; if infidels would produce the first page of such a book as this, we would gladly listen to what they have to say. But this eternal fault-finding, this everlasting negation; this seeking to rob people of a healthful and comfortable faith and leave them nothing in its place; this parading of a few worn out sneers and objections, never will accomplish much with a world that is hungering for the bread of life, and that longs to drink of the waters of salvation.

The Chinese belle compresses her foot so that it is no larger than the foot of an American girl five years of age, while the American belle compresses her waist so that it is no larger than that of a Chinese girl of the same age. Now, which exhibits the more intelligence—the enlightened American or the half-civilized Chinese? If obscene books an vulgar pictures are prohibited by law, is it not equally necessary that these absurd, ridiculous and murderous fashion-books and dress-plates that bewitch the silly and weak-minded and lead them to adopt modes of dress destructive to health and life, should also be prohibited by law? For while the former lower the tone of morals and corrupt the mind, the latter are sure death and destruction to the body, and surely existence, even though associated with immorality, is preferable to suicide from silly habits of dress.

A Scotch paper has the following: A poor man who had a large family broke his leg, and as he would be destitute of the means of grace, it was proposed to hold a prayer-meeting at his house. The meeting was led by Deacon Brown. A loud knock at the door interrupted the service. When the door was opened a tall, lank, blue-frocked youngster stood there, with an ox-goad in his hand and asked to see Deacon Brown. "Father could not attend the meeting," he said, "but he sent his prayers, and they are out in the cart." They were brought in in the shape of potatoes, beef, pork and corn.

Children's Corner.

Wise unto Salvation.

"From a child thou hast known the Holy Scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation, through faith which is in Christ Jesus" (2 Tim. iii. 15).

Timothy, when but a child, knew the Holy Scriptures; that is, the Old Testament, for the New was not then written. He, when a child, had listened to the instructions of his good and holy mother, and also to Paul, as his teacher. So, dear child, do you listen to those who would lead you to Jesus: but, above all, love the Holy Scriptures, and search them again and again, for they will make you wise unto salvation. In God's Holy Book you will find the way that leads to heaven. When a traveller goes on a journey, he takes a guide-book with him to teach him and show him the way; so do you take God's Word as David did, for he says, "Thy Word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path." In God's Word you will see how the Lord of life and glory came down from heaven to suffer, bleed and die for dear children like yourself, that all who trust him might have eternal life; for he said of little children, when he was here on earth, "Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

All who have faith in Jesus are wise, for their's will be eternal life through his salvation. The salvation of Jesus is a free gift. We cannot buy it. Let me illustrate this by a little story.

Once there was a poor woman who greatly desired a bunch of grapes from the king's conservatory for her sick child. She took half-a-crown and went to the king's gardener, and tried to purchase the grapes, but was rudely repulsed. A second effort with more money met with like results. It happened that the king's daughter heard the angry words of the gardener and the crying of the woman, and inquired into the matter. When the woman had told her story the princess said: "My dear woman, you were mistaken. My father is not a merchant but a king; his business is not to sell, but to give." Whereupon she plucked the bunch from the vine and gently dropped it into the woman's apron. So the woman obtained as a free gift what the labor of many days and nights had not procured for her.

Like the poor woman, keep asking the King's Son (Jesus) till you get the free gift of salvation, for it is free to all them ask him.—Work and Work.

In the Streets at Night.

"His father don't allow him to be in the streets at night," said Will Carson in a mocking tone, "better tie the baby to the bedpost with his mother's apron strings."

John Mellen's face flushed at these taunts. No boy likes to be ridiculed, especially when a crowd of his playfellows are standing by.

"Be a man and come along with us," said Harry Jones. "You are old enough now to think and act for yourself."

"Come John, come with us;" said another. "We shall have a grand time. It won't hurt you just for once to have a little fun."

"No," said John, "I shall mind my father. The Bible says, 'Honor thy father and thy mother,' and I shall do it."

"Come on, boys," said Will, starting off; "Don't stand listening to his preaching."

John went home, and in preparing his lessons for the next day and joining in some home pleasures he had forgotten all about the boys. The next morning on his way to school, he heard that the boys had been arrested and sent to jail for being drunk and disorderly. Think how anxious their parents must have been all through the night, and then to be told that they were in jail! How it must have surprised and pained them!

Don't be wandering in the streets at night, boys. It is a bad habit, and nothing but harm can come of it. Hundreds of boys are ruined through being in the streets at night.

John Mellen made a happy and prosperous man, and so will every boy who fears God, stands up for the right, and honors his father.—Children's Friend.

HIGH AND DRY.—The Manchester (N. Y.) Bulletin says:—A few days ago butcher Robinson's large Newfoundland dog cooled himself in the canal, and after swimming far away from his point of entrance tried to get out where the wall was high up from the water. He made many ineffectual attempts to do it, and failed. Gov. Smyth's shepherd dog saw his difficulty, ran about to get assistance, but none coming, when the big water-dog put up his paws to make one more effort to get out, the knowing Scotch collie grabbed him by the neck as one grabs a brother by the hand to help him out or over a difficult place, and he was landed high, if not dry, much to the joy of both.

Hugh Miller's Early Days.

The name of Hugh Miller is well known. He devoted himself early to a life of hard labor as a quarryman and a mason; and by the steady exercise of the powers which God had given him rose to a position of much usefulness and honor. This story has been often told to show what can be done by the earnest use of common means.

The father of this celebrated man was a master of a sloop belonging to Scotland, which was lost in a fearful tempest. In consequence of this bereavement the widow had to work late into the night as a seamstress to provide for the family. Hugh used to frequent the harbor and watch the shipping, sadly missing the familiar vessel, the return of which used to be the cause of such joy to him. He would also climb, day after day, a grassy knoll of the coast, close behind his mother's house, which commanded a wide view of the Moray Frith, and took wistfully out, long after every one else had ceased to hope, for the sloop with the two stripes of white and the two square top-sails, commanded by his father. But they never appeared again.

He learned the letters of the alphabet by studying the sign-posts; he afterwards attended a dame school, and persevered in his lessons till he rose to the highest form and became a member of the Bible-class. The story of Joseph aroused his interest, and he became a diligent reader of all the Scripture stories. Hugh then began to collect a library in a birch-bark box about nine inches square, which was found large enough to contain all his books.

He has described, in his "Old Red Sandstone," the feelings with which he began work, and the happiness he found in it. "To be sure, my hands were a little sore, and I felt nearly as much fatigued as if I had been climbing among the rocks; but I had wrought and been useful, and had yet enjoyed the day fully as much as usual. I was as light of heart next morning as any of my brother workmen." After describing the landscape, he says: "I returned to the quarry, convinced that a very exquisite pleasure may be a very cheap one, and that the busiest employments may afford leisure enough to enjoy it."

Various wonders soon disclosed themselves in the rocks; marks of furrows, as of an ebbing tide, fretted in the solid stone, fossil shells and fish and leaves of plants. Almost every day opened new discoveries to his curious eye, and awakened deeper interest. And thus began that course of observation and study which made him famous as a geologist, and enabled him to render valuable help in the progress of science.

His first year of labor came to a close, and he found that "the amount of his happiness had not been less than in the last of his boyhood. The additional experience of twenty years," he adds, "has not shown me that there is any necessary connection between a life of toil and a life of wretchedness."

"My advice," says Hugh Miller, "to young workingmen desirous of bettering their circumstances and adding to the amount of their enjoyment, is a very simple one. Do not seek happiness in what is misnamed pleasure; seek it rather in what is termed study. Keep your consciences clear, your curiosity fresh, and embrace every opportunity of cultivating your minds. Learn to make a right use of your eyes; the commonest things are worth looking at—even stones and weeds, and the most familiar animals. Read good books, not forgetting the best of all there is more true philosophy in the Bible than in every work of every skeptic that ever wrote; and we should all be miserable creatures without it."—Child's Companian.

The Sabbath School.

LESSON XXXVI.—Sept. 9, 1877.—PAUL AT EPHESUS.

SCRIPTURE—Acts 19: 1-12. Commit to memory vs. 1-6.

1. And it came to pass, that, while Apollos was at Corinth, Paul having passed through the upper coasts came to Ephesus; and finding certain disciples,

2. He said unto them, Have ye received the Holy Ghost since ye believed? And they said unto him, We have not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost.

3. And he said unto them, Unto what then were ye baptized? And they said, Unto John's baptism.

4. Then said Paul, John verily baptized with the baptism of repentance, saying unto the people, that they should believe on him which should come after him, that is on Christ Jesus.

5. When they heard this, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus.

6. And when Paul had laid his hands upon them, the Holy Ghost came on them; and they spake with tongues and prophesied.

7. And all the men were about twelve.

8. And he went into the synagogue, and spake boldly for the space of three months disputing and persuading the things concerning the kingdom of God.

9. But when divers were hardened, and believed not, but spake evil of that way before the multitude, he departed from them and separated the disciples, disputing daily in the school of one Tyrannus.

10. And this continued by the space of two years; so that all they that dwelt in Asia heard the word of the Lord Jesus, both Jews and Greeks.

11. And God wrought special miracles by the hand of Paul:

12. So that from his body were brought unto the sick handkerchiefs or aprons, and the diseases departed from them, and the evil spirits went out of them.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"For our Gospel came not unto you in word only, but also in power and in the Holy Ghost and in much assurance." 1 Thess. 1: 5.

Last Sabbath we left Paul at Corinth. After remaining awhile longer there, and securing a triumph over the Jews before Gallio, (a brother of the philosopher Seneca) he sailed from Cenchrea for Jerusalem to attend one of the Jewish feasts, (either Pentecost or Tabernacles) Aquila and Priscilla, probably also Silas and Timothy, accompanied him. On the way he stopped a few days at Ephesus, taught with acceptance in the synagogue, and promised to return "if God will." Here, too, he left Aquila and Priscila. Landing at Cesarea, he went up to Jerusalem, and saluted the church there, after which he proceeded to Antioch, and closed his second missionary journey. "Some time" elapsed, and the apostle started on his third tour. Advancing north, and then west, he first visited and "strengthened" the disciples of Galatia and Phrygia—perhaps also those of Cilicia and Lycaonia. Finally, according to promise, he arrived at Ephesus. Commercially, politically and religiously, Ephesus was the most distinguished city of Asia Minor. Founded by the Greeks, on the banks of the Cayster, near the eastern shore of the Ægean Sea, it became the emporium of a busy trade. Here people of all nations met for purpose of traffic. It was also a free city, and the capital of Proconsular Asia—a province which included the greater part of western Asia Minor. Here resided one of the two highest dignitaries (outside of Italy) appointed by the Roman Senate. It had also a world-wide reputation as the home and guardian of the worship of Diana. Distinguished as was its stadium and theatre—the latter capable of seating 50,000 people—the temple of Diana far excelled them both, and was probably unsurpassed by any building of ancient times—unless, indeed, we except the temple of Solomon. It was 425 feet long, and 220 feet broad, while it was surrounded by a hundred Ionic columns, 60 feet high. Within were many of the finest specimens of Greek art, among which were the masterpieces of Apelles and Calliphon. In the centre was the image of Diana—half Grecian and half Asiatic in its conception—which, like other celebrated idols, was believed to have fallen from the sky. And back of this still was an apartment where kings and nations deposited their richest treasures. With so many sources of attraction, therefore, no wonder Ephesus was thronged with people, and no wonder Paul made it one of the chief centers of his missionary operations.—Evangelical Repository.

HOME READINGS.

M. John 14: 1-31....The Gift Predicted.
T. John 16: 1-15....The Gift Promised.
W. Acts 2: 1-21....The Gift Received.
Th. Acts 4: 1-33 .. The Gift of Power.
F. Acts 8: 1-24....The Gift not Bought.
S. Acts 10: 30-48....The Gift upon the Gentiles.
S. Acts 1: 1-26....The Gift Brings Power.

The greatest question is: "Did ye receive the Holy Ghost when ye believed," and is he now an abiding presence with you? Christ promised to send the Comforter—is he your daily Comfort? John 14: 16, 17, 26; 15: 26; 16: 7-13; Rom. 5: 5; 8: 16; 2 Cor. 1: 22; Gal. 4: 6; 1 John 2: 27; 5: 10.

What shall be done with those whose lives indicate that they have not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost? They are not to be denounced—but led into this blessed experience. Job 4: 3, 4; Is. 35: 3; Eze. 34: 16; Rom. 15; 1-4; 14: 1; 1 Cor. 9: 19, 22; Gal. 6: 1; 1 Th. 5: 11; 2 Th. 3: 14, 15; Jas. 5: 19, 20.

How much we need bold men! men who are not afraid of sneers nor jibes nor scorn—who always and everywhere will be known as laborers for the Master! Josh. 1: 6, 7; Is. 35: 4; 1 Cor. 16: 13.—Nat'l S. S. Teacher.

SCRIPTURE READINGS.

V. 1.—And a certain Jew named Apollos, born at Alexandria, an eloquent man and mighty in the Scriptures, came to Ephesus.... And when he was disposed to pass into Achaia, the brethren wrote exhorting the disciples to receive him. Acts 18: 24-28; 1 Cor. 1: 12; 3: 4-6.

And after he had spent some time there he departed and went over all the country of Galatia and Phrygia in order strengthening all the disciples. Acts 18: 23; also 18-20.

V. 2.—But ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost. Acts 11: 16; 8: 15, 16; Is. 44: 3; 1 Sam. 3: 7; John 7: 39; 1 Cor. 6: 19; 12: 1.

V. 3.—Knowing only the baptism of John. Acts 18: 25; Mat. 3: 5-12; John 3: 23.

V. 4.—When John had first preached before His coming the baptism of repentance. Acts 13: 24; 1: 5; Mark 1: 8. For last clause read Mark 1: 7; Luke 3: 1-18; John 1: 6-8; 3: 27-36.

V. 5—Baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Mat 28: 19; Acts 2: 38; Rom. 6: 3; 1 Cor. 10: 2.

V. 6.—Then laid they their hands on them and they received the Holy Ghost. Acts 8: 14-20; 6: 6; 9: 17; 2 Tim. 1: 6; 1 Tim. 4: 14.

And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost and began to speak with other tongues. Acts 2: 4; 10: 45, 46; 1 Cor. 12: 8-11; 14: 1, 2; 13: 1.

V 7.—And he ordained twelve. Mark 3: 14.

V. 8.—Acts 17: 2 and 18: 4.

To whom he expounded and testified the kingdom of God, persuading them concerning Jesus. Acts 28: 23; 1: 3; 9: 22; 17: 3.

V. 9.—Wherefore then do you harden your hearts? 1 Sam. 6: 6; 2 Chr. 30: 8; Ps. 95: 8; Heb. 3: 8, 12; Is. 8: 14.

There arose no small stir about that way, v 23; 9: 2; 22: 4; 24: 4; 2 Pe. 2: 2; Jude 10.

What part hath he that believeth with an infidel? 2 Cor. 6: 14-18; Heb. 7: 26; Is. 59: 2; 2 Thes. 3: 6; 1 Tim. 6: 5.

V. 10.—By the space of three years I ce sed not to warn every one night and day with tears. Acts 20: 31; 1 Thes. 7:8.

V. 11.—And gre ter works than these shall he do. John 14: 12; Mark 16: 20; Acts 14: 3.

V. 12.—They brought forth the sick into the streets and laid them on beds and couches, that at least the shadow of Peter passing by might overshadow s me of them. Acts 5: 15; 2 Ki. 4: 29; 13: 21; Matt. 9: 20.

News of the Week.

—Saturday morning between 3 and 4 o'clock, Omaha was visited by a violent wind, rain and hail storm accompanied by terrific thunder and lightning. Two spans of the Union Pacific iron bridge on the east end were blown down. It is generally thought that a cyclone passed down the river and struck the bridge. The spans are each 250 feet long. The bridge has eleven spans. The accident suspends all railroad communication over the bridge between the Union Pacific and eastern roads, but arrangements have been made to transfer frieght and passengers by ferry at Plattsmouth, south of Omaha, and at Blair, north of Omaha. It will cost over $300,000 to rebuild the two spans, and will require over three months's time. It is a serious interruption to business and is regarded as a calamity.

—It is a significant fact that the royal British factories are quietly and steadily increasing their force, and manufacturiug ammunition to an extent far in advance of the annual parliamentary estimate. Other indications are that Baconsfield is getting ready for active work at the earliest moment he can find a pretext. Shipments of war material in unusual quantities have been made to Malta, and additional ships to transport supplies or troops are getting ready for use. Baconsfield desires war, and will have it unless the Turks speedily secure an overwhelming victory. All these preparations have reference to the outcome of the great battles believed to be imminent, and will be employed in case the Turks are decisively defeated.

—The Georgia constitutional convention closed its session on Saturday. Its work was not particularly revolutionary, or even sensational, the most notable incidents of the season being the repudiation of the "Bullock bonds," and the consumption of about a hundred and seventy thousand dollars for running expenses and the pay of members.

—Colonel Wellesley, the English officer who for a time accompanied the Russian armies in Bulgaria, has officially reported to his government that he believes the report of Russian atrocities are entirely without foundation.

—Severe battles raged in the Balkans and at Kuruk Dara, 20 miles northeast of Kars in Asia last week. The Turks fought desperately for several days to capture Sitka Pass, but their success is doubtful. They have lost thousands of their best troops. In Asia the Turks were repulsed and retreated with heavy losses on both sides.

—It is officially announced that all the great powers and Belgium, Holland, Sweden and Portugal have adhered to the German protest against Turkish cruelties.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS ILLUSTRATED.*

BY A PAST CHANCELLOR. A Full Illustrated Exposition of the Three Ranks of the order with the addition of the Amended, Perfected and Amplified Third Rank.

The Lodge Room, Signs, Countersigns, Grips, etc., are shown by Engravings.

C pyright 1877 By Ezra A. Cook & Co.,

*This work is now IN PRESS and will be issued in October.

rice 25cts. each. $2 00 per doz. Post Paid. By Express per 100 $10 00. One half Doz. at Doz. rates, 25 at 100 Rates.

[CONTINUED.]

THIRD RANK CONTINUED.

NOTE.—By mistake, this, the last part of this Rank was left out in our last issus.

Chancellor Commander.—"I will here state to you that no signs, passwords, or other instruction given you in this Order, will be of any avail or assistance to you, when in anywise transgressing the laws of the country or reputable rules of society; neither are they binding upon you when given, made or sent to you by any other member of the Order guilty of these offences; this you will invariably bear in mind.

"Your close attention is always asked to the manner in which the Altar is arranged when you enter the Lodge and to which your notice has been called before, as by it you will always give the correct sign of the rank in which it may be working, and thereby prevent disclosing that to others which they may not be legally entitled to, therefore, I will now explain them to you. In the First, or Initiatory Rank of Page, it is with the Book open, two swords crossed underneath, and handles towards the Chancellor Commander; in the Second, or Armorial Rank of Esquire, the same, except that the swords are on top of the Book of Law, while in the Third, or Chivalric Rank of Knight there is but one sword to be seen, which lies on top of the Book, diagonally across it, and with the handle toward the Vice Chancellor's station. These you will please charge your memory with, and thereby prevent mistakes occurring.

"Brother Brown, you have now passed through the Third, or Chivalric Rank of Knight, and the highest that can be given you in this Lodge. The motto thereof is Bravery, you have been severely tested, and passed the ordeal unscathed, exemplifying in part your confidence in and willingness to adhere to all lawful mandates. Bravery is defined as courage, heroism, undaunted spirit, intrepidity and gallantry, though there are other meanings to the term. There is a moral as well as a physical courage; the lesson inculcated in this instance embraces them both. You are expected to be brave and courageous in upholding the rights of a brother, maintaining the dignity of the Order, or its tenets of Friendship, Charity and Benevolence, and though the uninitiated and skeptical person should deride, condemn or mock, ever stand ready to defend it and them from slur or sarcasm; not that they would in any manner take from it or its teachings the honor due, but let the world know that any shaft aimed thereat is as though received by yourself. Aiding thus in upholding our rights, usages and customs as a chivalric order, you strengthen and sustain our glorious principles, and more closely unite yourself with those who are linked together in the holy ties of brotherly love. Courage enables you to encounter difficulties and dangers with firmness and without fear of depression of spirits; it is also a constituent part of fortitude, which implies patience to bear continued suffering. Constitutional courage often forsakes its possessor in the hour of danger, but courage which arises from a sense of duty, like that of the noble Pythias when addressing the tyrant Dionysius:

> "As thou'rt a husband and father, hear me—
> Let Damon go and see his wife and child
> Before he dies—for four hours respite him—
> Put me in chains; plunge me into his dungeon
> As pledge for his return; do this—but this—
> And may the gods themselves build up thy greatness
> As high as their own heaven."

"Courage like this, when coupled with friendship, acts uniformly. Brother Knight John Brown, I have no fear but that you will prove yourself in like manner Friendly, Cautious and Brave—ever ready to extend the strong hand of fellowship toward your brethren, and to stand by the courageous.

(Sometimes the Candidate is here catechised in reference to the Signs, Countersign, Pass Word, alarm on entering, the Grip etc. of the degree. See page 54.)

Chancellor Commander.—"Keeper of Records and Seal, you will now present the Roster of this Lodge to Brother Knight John Brown for enrollment."

Keeper of Records and Seal presents the book, with Constitution and By-Laws in it, kept for that purpose; the Knight signs his name, and enters his residence or address.

Chancellor Commander.—"Master at Arms, you will now face the newly charged Brother Knight to the Lodge, and clothe him in the proper regalia or insignia of the Third, or Chivalric and Honorable Rank of Knight."

Master at Arms.—"Chancellor Commander your orders have been obeyed."

Chancellor Commander (two raps).—"Officers, members and visitors of —— Lodge, No. —, Knights of Pythias, permit me to introduce to you Brother Knight John Brown, who has been regularly initiated in the First, Initiatory or Page's, proved in the Second, Armorial or Esquire's, and fully charged in the Third, Chivalric or Knight's Rank of this Order, in the usual ritualistic and ceremonial form, [examined in accordance with the law—should such be the case. This examination referred to is frequently and in some Lodges usually omitted], and enrolled as a member of —— Lodge, No. —, Knights of Pythias. Brethren, join with me in extending a hearty, sincere and chivalric welcome to our Brother Knight."

All gather around and shake hands.

Chancellor Commander (one rap).—"Lodge will be at ease until the sound of the gavel at the Chancellor Commander's station.

INITIATION.

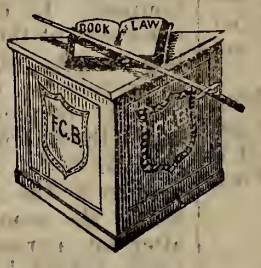
Amended, Perfected and Amplified Ancient and Chivalric Form

OF THE

THIRD RANK, KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

NOTE:—This Rank and the "regular" Third Rank are substantially one; only differing in the mode of conferring. No man who has taken either of them will receive the other third rank.

The Perfected and Amplified Rank is conferred in but a few wealthy lodges, because of the great expense attending the purchase of the apparatus for conferring it.



The Esquire is taken to the ante-room when he is instructed by the Master at Arms to say, in answer to any direct interrogatory made of him, "By what right does he make this demand?" the answer will be, "By that of being a brave man," or else get the candidate to authorize him—the Master at Arms—to do so for him, after which he is blindfolded, the shield put on his left fore-arm as in the preceding Rank; he is then conducted to the inner door, upon which there is no shield; the Master at Arms gives two raps, which are answered in the same manner from within, and the wicket is opened.

Inner Guard.—"Who comes here? Who dares to interrupt the proceedings of this Lodge while working in the Third, or Chivalric Rank of Knight?"

Master at Arms.—"Esquire John Brown, who having received the First, or Initiatory Rank of Page, been proved in the Second or Armorial Rank of Esquire, and passing a fair ballot, now declares himself a Brave man, and as such demands admittance to this Lodge of the Third, or Chivalric Rank of Knight."

Inner Guard (closes wicket.)—"Chancellor Commander, there is without an Esquire who has received the First or Initiatory Rank of Page, been proved in the Second or Armorial Rank of Esquire, and now demands admittance to this Lodge of the Third or Chivalric Rank of Knight."

Chancellor Commander.—"By what right does he make this demand?"

Inner Guard.—"By reason of having been initiated, proved, passing a fair ballot, and boasting himself a Brave man."

Chancellor Commander.—"Such being his pledge and demand and having attained the necessary preparatory Rank, it is my order as Chancellor Commander that you let him enter without further challenge."

The Master at Arms conducts the Esquire around the Castle Hall once and halts before the chair of the Chancellor Commander.

Master at Arms.—"Chancellor Commander, Esquire John Brown, who has been duly initiated as a Page, and proved as an Esquire, in this Chivalric Order, desires to receive the highest Rank conferred by this Lodge, by being instructed in the mysteries and passing through the ordeal that all brave Knights have done who have reached this summit of Pythian honors."

Chancellor Commander.—"Esquire, is this your demand?"

Candidate answers.

Chancellor Commander.—"Upon entering this Castle Hall as a Retainer, seeking the First or Initiatory Rank of Page, a requirement was exacted from and of you; do you remember what it was, and if so, will you state its nature?"

Candidate.—"Obedience."

Chancellor Commander.—"Brethren of the Knight's Rank, are you satisfied that the Esquire remembers and fully appreciates this requirement sufficient to advance him in our highest honors?"

(All.)—"We are."

Chancellor Commander.—"Upon attaining the First or Initiatory Rank of Page in this order, you were taught one great lesson. Do you remember what it was, and if so will you be kind enough to state the same?"

Candidate.—"Friendship."

Chancellor Commander.—"Brethren of the Knight's Rank, has the Esquire who demands advancement in our order merited as well as received your Friendship."

(All.)—"He has."

Chancellor Commander.—"Upon reaching and being proved in the Second or Armorial Rank of Esquire of this order, you were taught another great lesson. Will you state what it was?"

Candidate.—"Caution."

Chancellor Commander.—"Brethren of the Knight's Rank, has the Esquire who stands before you as a candidate for the Third or Chivalric Rank of Knight, proven himself, to the best of your knowledge and belief, obedient, prudent, cautious and watchful?"

(All.)—"He has."

Chancellor Commander.—"This being so, Esquire, I can see no just reason why you should not be permitted to proceed in this Chivalric Order; but it is my duty to inform you that your courage and confidence may be put to a severe test during the ceremonies through which you are about to pass, but should such be the will of those around you assembled, and if, as you declare in your demand, you are a Brave man, and will implicitly obey all the orders given you, and requirements exacted during its progress, no accident can possibly befall you. On the contrary, if you are not a man of iron nerve, or if you have made this demand from an unworthy motive, I tell you plainly and sincerely that I cannot be answerable for any injury you may receive. To assure you, however, that this Lodge, its officers and members fully appreciate your position, I will, as Chancellor Commander, state that the ordeal you may have to undergo is one, not only dangerous in character, but of a fearful nature. Should your vaunted bravery fail you at the crowning point of its consummation, by it we as an order prove and exemplify the fact as to whether you have been truthful in your former protestations of Friendship, such as was exhibited by Damon towards Pythias, or the Caution, though unwise, as shown by Lucullus in slaying his master's horse to preserve his life.

"Heretofore you have answered readily and promptly the interrogatories as made in the former and preceding grades of rank but the answers now to be given are of too serious a nature to be lightly made, and I would therefore ask your greatest consideration before so doing; but to give you a last opportunity to elect for yourself, I will state that it is not too late, if you so desire, to be escorted hence and permitted to retire, (pause). With the official assurance from me that no accident can befall an obedient and friendly person, who is not only cautious but a truly brave man, aspiring to the high rank of Knight, I ask, as Chancellor Commander, in the name of this Lodge, its officers and members around you assembled, do you still persist in your demand?"

Candidate answers.

Chancellor Commander.—"Are you willing to take upon yourself a solemn and binding obligation to keep forever secret the mysteries of this Chivalric Rank of Knight?"

Candidate answers.

Chancellor Commander.—"Master at Arms, you will conduct the Esquire to our Prelate, who will administer the obligation of the Third and Chivalric Rank of Knighthood in this Order."

Master at Arms presents candidate before the Prelate at the Altar, opposite to and facing him.

Master at Arms.—"Prelate, by order of the Chancellor Commander of this Lodge, I present Esquire John Brown, who having been initiated as a Page and proved in the Second or Armorial Rank of Esquire, now declares himself a Brave man, and as such demands that he be obligated in the Third or Chivalric Rank of Knight in this Order."

Prelate.—"Esquire John Brown, do you declare yourself a Brave man, and make this demand of your own volition?"

Candidate answers.

Prelate.—"Master at Arms, why is he thus blindfolded?"

Master at Arms.—"That he might be conducted through this Castle Hall without being able to discover any of the secrets or ceremonies of the Knight Rank of our Order, should he fail to insist in his demands before the Chancellor Commander."

Prelate.—"Since the Esquire insists in his demands, you will remove the hoodwink, (which being done, the Prelate continues,) and place him in proper position, at the Altar, to take the obligation, by advancing his shield in placing his left hand on his left breast, over the heart, advancing his right foot, his right hand resting on the Book of Law and grasping the hilt of the Sword of Defence before him as if making a parry with the sword, in which position he will assume the obligation."

Master at Arms places candidate in proper position.

Chancellor Commander.—(Two raps.) Attention Knights.

Rise; form triangle and assist our Prelate in the administration of the solemn obligation. (See diagram.)

ADMINISTERING OBLIGATION THIRD OR CHIVALRIC RANK OF KNIGHT

Candidate kneels at altar as described, the prelate standing opposite, the Master at Arms behind and to the left of the candidate.

The Knights form a triangle with the Chancellor Commander at its apex, the Vice Chancellor at the right corner and the Past Chancellor at the left corner.

The triangle being formed. the Chancellor Commander will order;

Chancellor Commander.—Attention Knights! Handle swords; draw swords; carry arms.

(Prelate rising goes to and enters the head of the triangle, and assumes his position at the Altar, the Candidate and Master at Arms already having assumed theirs, when all being in their proper position, the Past Chancellor, Chancellor Commander and Vice Chancellor leave their stations and go to the corners at head and base of the triangle, when the Chancellor Commander orders "Rest!" and the Prelate proceeds.)

OBLIGATION AMENDED, PERFECTED AND AMPLIFIED THIRD RANK.

Prelate, rising, goes to the Altar and says:

"(You will now repeat after me.) I, (your name) do most solemnly and sincerely promise and declare, under the penalties of my former obligations, that I will never reveal, directly or indirectly, any of the signs, tokens or mysteries of this Rank of Bravery, or those of any other Rank of the Knights of Pythias, to any person not properly authorized by this, or a Lodge working under the control of a regularly constituted Grand Lodge, recognized by the Supreme Lodge Knights of Pythias of the World, to receive the same; except it be a just and lawful Knight, whom I shall know to be legally entitled to receive the same, or within the Castle Hall of a just and regularly constituted Lodge, subordinate to the Supreme Lodge, Knights of Pythias of the World.

"I further promise and declare, never to communicate, by word, syllable, letter, sign or character, the semi-annual password to any person, save and except the proper officers within a Lodge, or in course of duty, acting in capacity of Chancellor Commander, Grand Chancellor or his deputy, or Supreme Chancellor or his deputy.

'I further promise to obey all orders that may be given me, emanating from the Supreme, Grand, this or any other Lodge of this Order of which I may become a member, or any competent authority issuing the same, so long as they do not conflict with my political or religious liberty. And if I ever, by word or sign, expose the secret work or ceremonies of this Order, in an unauthorized manner, or fail in any of my obligations, may I suffer all the anguish and torments possible for man to suffer. All this I promise and declare, without any mental reservation whatever. So help me God, and keep me steadfast."

"Prelate.—"Esquire John Brown, in testimony of your sincerity, you will now kiss the Book that is open before you, which is our Book of Law, the Holy Bible." (Kisses the book.)

Prelate.—"Esquire, you have now taken the obligation that ties you to us, and I hail you as an aspirant to the honors due to a Knight of this Order. You must ever remember your obligation, and the purpose of your shield in the Second or Armorial Rank of Esquire in this Order. You have seen how easily you might have fallen into an error, but for the interposition of a brother. Let the solemnity of that occurrence be ever present in your mind and emblazoned upon your shield and memory, to stimulate you to fulfill and keep inviolate every obligation taken by you. The obligation to which you have just subscribed, imposes a condition to obey all orders which may be given you, so long as they do not conflict with your civil or religious liberty. You have also stated in this Lodge that you are a man of courage. That assertion remains yet to be proven; My friend have confidence and all is well. Farewell! (Prelate steps aside from the Altar, faces about to the Chancellor Commander and says:)

[To be Continued.]

ANTI-MASONIC BOOKS.

(Not our own Publications.)

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO

13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

FOR CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS OF EZRA A. COOK & CO., See page 15 of the CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

☞ All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Freemasonry Self Condemned.

By Rev. J. W. Bain.

We now have a small supply of this deservedly popular book in paper covers, Price 20 cents each by mail.

Elder Stearns' Books.

Stearns' Inquiry Into the Nature and Tendency of Masonry With an Appendix.

[illegible] Pages, in Cloth.....60 cents.
" " " Paper.....40 "

Stearns' Letters on Masonry.

Showing the antagonism between Freemasonry and the Christian Religion,
Price, 30 cents.

Stearns' Review of Two Masonic Addresses.

In this scathing review the lying pretentions of the order are clearly shown.
Price, 10 cents.

Levington's Key to Masonry.

This is Rev. Mr. Levington's last, and in the judgment of its author, best work on Masonry.
The contents of the Eleventh chapter are thus startling:
"Knights of the Golden Circle—Graphic account of them by a seceding Knight, and remarks thereon, showing the identity of the order with Masonry—Quotations from Sir Walter Scott."
This work is thrilling in statement, and powerful in argument Price. $1.35. 425 pages.

Light on Freemasonry.

BY ELDER D. BERNARD,

TO WHICH IS APPENDED A

Revelation of the Mysteries of Odd-fellowship by a Member of the Craft.

The whole containing over five hundred pages [illegible] and republished. Price $2,00

The first part of the above work, Light on Freemasonry, 416 pages in paper cover, will be sent post paid on receipt of $1.

FOR SALE BY.

United Brethren Publishing House,
DAYTON, O.
and by
EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Ave, CHICAGO

Finney on Masonry.

BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE $1.00,

CHEAP EDITION,

[illegible] dollars per hundred, by express not less than 25 copies at that rate,

BY MAIL, POST-PAID:

Per doz.....$1.75.
Single copy..... 25 c

GOOD TEMPLARISM EXPOSED,

Obligations, of the Initiatory Fidelity, Charity, and Royal Virtue Degrees.

This is a small book containing only the Obligations and some of the Odes of the Good Templars.

Single Copy, Post paid,..... 10cts
Per Doz. " 75
Per [illegible] by Express,..... $4.50

Bernard's Appendix to Light on Masonry,

Showing the Character of the Institution by its terrible oaths and penalties. 25 cents.

ODD-FELLOWSHIP

JUDGED BY ITS OWN UTTERANCES;

Its Doctrine and Practice examined in the light of God's Word.

BY REV. J. H. BROOKMAN.

This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-Fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. It was originally published in German.
Price, bound in Boards, 75 cents. Paper Covers 40 cents.
German Edition, Entitled "Christian and ——," Paper Covers 50 cents each.

HOW TO DEFEAT Masonic Scoundrelism

Within the Court House.

By J. H. H. WOODWARD,

This pamphlet as its title indicates is designed to put all non-Masons on their guard against lodge trickery and especially to show how to meet and successfully cope with Freemasonry in our Courts.
Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 10 cts.
Per Doz. 75 cts. Per 100 by Express $3.00

Every Freemason a Blasphemer.

As proved by the Highest Masonic Authority.

By J. H. H. Woodward.

By quotations from a score of masonic works of unquestioned authority. The fact of the blasphemous ceremonies and teachings of Freemasonry are so clearly demonstrated as to make it evident that every initiate is of necessity a blasphemer.
10 cents each. 75 cents per Doz. by mail;
By Express, per 100 $5.00

Descriptive Catalogue of Publications of Ezra A. Cook & Co.

13 Wabash Ave. Chicago

BOOKS.

☞Books at Doz. or Retail Prices sent post-paid. Not less than one-half doz. sent at dozen rates. By the 100 (25 Copies at 100 rate,) Expressage or Postage extra.

☞Books sent by Mail are not at our risk.

Books at retail or by the dozen, ordered by Express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK; party ordering to pay Express Charges.

FREEMASONRY EXPOSED,
by CAP'T. WILLIAM MORGAN.

THE GENUINE OLD MORGAN BOOK:—republished with engravings showing the Lodge Room, Dress of candidates, Signs, Due Guards, Grips, Etc.

This revelation is so accurate that Freemasons murdered the anthor for writing it. Thousands have testified to the correctness of the revelation and this book therefore sells very rapidly.

Price 25 cents.

Per Doz. Post Paid..... $2.00
Per hundred by express, (express charges extra.).....$10.00

ODD FELLOWSHIP ILLUSTRATED.

A complete exposition of the Lodge Encampment and Rebecca (Ladies') Degree. The Signs, Grips, &c., shown by engravings.

Single copy, post paid,.....$ 25
Per Doz. " " 2 00
Per Hundred, Express charges extra,..... 10 00

EXPOSITION OF THE GRANGE.

EDITED BY REV. A. W. GEESLIN.

Illustrated with Engravings showing Lodge Room, Signs, Signals, etc.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 10 00

Judge Whitney's Defense Before the Grand Lodge of Ill.

Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the Lodge when S. L. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the Lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 20
Per Doz. " " 1 50
Per 100, Express charges extra..... 8 00

History of The Abduction and Murder Cap't. Wm. Morgan,

As prepared by Seven Committees of Citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan.

This book contains indisputable, legal evidence that Freemasons, abducted and Murdered Wm. Morgan, for no other offence than the revelation of Masonry. It contains the sworn testimony of over twenty persons, including Morgan's wife, and no candid person after reading this book, can doubt that many of the most respectable FREEMASONS. in the Empire State, with others were concerned in this crime.

Single Copy, post Paid,..... 25 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $2,00.
Per 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 10.00.

Valance's Confession of The Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan.

This confession of Henry L. Valance, one of the three Freemasons who drowned Morgan in the Niagara River, was taken from the lips of the dying man by Dr. John C. Emery, of Racine County, Wisconsin in 1848; The confession bears clear evidence of truthfulness.

Single copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $1.50.
Per 100 Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

The Mystic Tie or Freemasonry a League with the Devil.

This is an account of the Church Trial of Peter Cook, and wife of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a Reverend Freemason; and their very able defence presented by Mrs. Lucia C. Cook, in which she clearly shows that Freemasonry, is antagonistic to the Christian Religion. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents

Per dozen, post paid. $1 50
Per hundred Express charges Extra, ... 9 00

NARRATIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

Showing the Conflict of Secret Societies with the Constitution and Laws of the Union and of the States, by FRANCIS SEMPLE.

The fact that Secret Societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of Law is here clearly proved.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20
Per doz. " " $1.75
Per 100 Express charges Extra..... 9.00

THE BROKEN SEAL.

OR PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF Wm. MORGAN,

By SAMUEL D. GREENE,

Price in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.
In Paper Covers per Doz. Post paid.....$4 50
" per hundred by express (ex. charges extra $25.00

Capt. Wm. Morgan was Mr. Greene's neighbor in Batavia, N. Y., and a member of the same lodge with him at the time of the great excitement in 1826. The titles to these chapters are sufficiently exciting to give the book a large sale:—"The Storm Gathering;" "Abduction of Morgan;" "Attempted Abduction of Miller and his Rescue;" "What became of Morgan;" "What Morgan Actually Revealed;" "Confession of the Murderer;" "Allegations against Freemasonry, etc."

THE ANTI-MASON'S SCRAP BOOK,
CONSISTING OF 21 CYNOSURE TRACTS.

In this book are the views of more than a Score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of Secret Societies.

The dangerous tendency and positive evil of organized Secrecy is here shown by the most varied and powerful arguments and illustrations that have ever been given to the public.

Lecturers and others who wish to find the best arguments against the Lodge, should send for this book.

Those who wish to circulate Antimasonic Tracts ought to have the book to select from.

Single Copy, post paid, ...20 cents.
Per Doz. " $1.75
Per 100. Express charges Extra,.....$10.00

Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion.

A clear cutting argument against the Lodge, from a Christian Stand point.

Single Copy post paid.....$ 05
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 3 00

PHELPS' SECRET SOCIETIES Ancient and Modern.

A NEW BOOK OF GREAT INTEREST.

This work is particularly commended to the attention of Officers of The Army and Navy, The Bench and The Clergy.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

"THE ANTIQUITY OF SECRET SOCIETIES, THE LIFE OF JULIAN, THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES, THE ORIGIN OF MASONRY, WAS WASHINGTON A MASON? FILMORE'S AND WEBSTER'S DEFERENCE TO MASONRY, A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRESS OF MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES, THE TAMMANY RING, MASONIC BENEVOLENCE, THE USES OF MASONRY, AN ILLUSTRATION, THE CONCLUSION."

Single Copy, Post Paid..... 50
Per Doz " " $4 75
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$25 00

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' LETTERS
to Col. Wm. Stone, Edward Livingstone, and others, on the nature of Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties.

Price, post paid..... $ 50
Per Doz., " 4 50
Per 100, Express Charges extra..... 25 00

COLLEGE SECRET SOCIETIES.

Their Customs, Character and the Efforts for their Suppression.
BY H. L. KELLOGG.

Containing the opinion of many prominent College Presidents, and others, and a FULL ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER OF MORTIMER LEGGETT

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 35
Per Doz " " 2 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 15 00

MINUTES OF THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION,

Containing addresses by Rev. B. T. Roberts, Chas. D. Greene, Esq., Prof. C. A. Blanchard, Rev. D. P. Rathbun, Rev. D. S. Caldwell, Mrs. M. E. Gage, Elder J. R. Baird and others. Unpublished Reminiscences of the Morgan Times, by Elder David Bernard; Recollections of the Morgan Trials, as related by Victory Birdseye, Esq., and presented by his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Miller; Secretary's report; roll of delegates; songs of Mr. G. A. Clark; paper by Enoch Honeywell; Constitution N. C. A.; reports of committees, and a report of the political meeting.

Single Copy, post paid, ... 25
Per doz. " " $2.00
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 10.00

Proceedings of the Pittsburgh Convention,

Containing Official Reports; Addresses by Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. Rev. B. T. Roberts, Rev. G. T. R. Meiser, Prof. J. R. W. Sloane, D. D., Pres't. J. Blanchard, Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D., Rev. Woodruff Post, Rev. Henry Cogswell, Prof. C. A. Blanchard, and Rev W. E. Coquilette, also Report of the POLITICAL MASS CONVENTION, with Platform and Candidates for the Presidential Campaign of 1876.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25 cts.
Per doz " $2 00
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 10 00

SERMON ON MASONRY,
BY REV. W. P. M'NARY,

Pastor United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Ind.

This is a very clear, thorough, candid and remarkably concise Scriptural argument on the character of Freemasonry.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 5
Per Doz,..... 50
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra,.....$3 00

THIRTEEN REASONS

Why a Christian Should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong.

The anthor states his reasons clearly and carefully, and any one of the thirteen reasons, if properly considered, will keep a Christian out of the Lodge.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 5
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100, Express charges extra,..... $3.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. JAMES WILLIAMS.

Presiding Elder of Dakota District North-western Iowa Conference, M. E. Church, A SECEDING MASTER MASON.

Published at the special request of the Nine Clergymen of different denominations and others.

Single Copy, post paid..... 10
Per doz. " " 75
Per 100, Express Charges Extra.....$4.00

MASONRY A WORK OF DARKNESS

ADVERSE TO CHRISTIANITY, and Inimical to a Republican Government.
BY REV. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG, [Presbyterian.]
A Seceding Mason of 21 Degrees.

This is a very telling work and no honest man that reads it will think of joining the lodge. Single Copy, post paid,.....20cts.

Per doz, post paid,..... $1.50.
" 100, Express Charges Extra..... 8.00.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy.

Address of Prest. J. BLANCHARD, before the Pittsburgh Convention.

This is a most convincing argument against the lodge.

Single Copy, Post Paid .....$ 05
Per Doz " " 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON SCERETISM
BY REV. R. THEO. CROSS.

This is a very clear array of the objections to Masonry that are apparent to all.

By Rev. R. T. Cross, Pastor Congregational Church, Hamilton, N.Y.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

Its relation to civil Government and the Christian Religion.
By Prest. J. BLANCHARD, at the Monmouth Convention.

The Unchristian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is here proved from the highest masonic authorities.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP
AND OTHER SECRET SOCIETIES

BY REV. J. SARVER, Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church, Leechburg, Pa.

This is a very clear argument against Secretism of all forms and the duty to disfellowship, Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 10
Per Dozen " " 75
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 4 00

Sermon on Secret Societies,
BY REV. DANIEL DOW, Woodstock, Conn.

The special object of this sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the Character of Secret Societies, no matter what object they profess to have.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 05
Per Dozen, " " 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 3 00

President H. H. GEORGE, On Secret Societies.

A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian Churches, to disfellowship Secret Societies.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 10 cts.
Per doz, " ..... 75 "
Per 100, Express charges Extra, ... $4.00.

History of the National Christian Association.

Its origin, objects, what it has done and aim to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought; The Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association, Conditions of the Carpenter Donation with engraving of building to be donated by Mr. Carpenter; tablet, showing the number of pastors and communicants in churches that exclude members of Secret societies; tabular view of local, county, State and National Conventions, and list of organizations Auxiliary to the National Christian Association. Brief opinions of eminent men on secret societies, and testimonies of religious bodies against them. This book will be found invaluable by all who wish to know the character of this reform and how they may do the most to further its objects. It should be in the hands of every Anti-mason.

Price, post paid, 25 cents each; per doz., $1.50. 25 copies or more by express at 8 cents each.

NEW BOOKS

HAND-BOOK OF FREEMASONRY.

BY EDMOND RONAYNE, late Past Master of Keystone Lodge, No. 639, Chicago. A full Illustrated Exposition of the Three Degrees of "Ancient Craft Masonry:" Entered Apprentice. Fellow Craft and Master Mason. embracing the "Standard Work" of the Order.

Single Copy, $0 50. Per dozen, $4 00. Per 100 $25 00.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WITH SIGNS OF RECOGNITION, PASS WORDS, GRIPS, Etc., and the RITUAL of the MACHINISTS AND BLACKSMITHS' UNION. (The two bound together.)

Single Copy, $0 25. Per dozen, $2 00. Per 100 $10 00.

Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees of Freemasonry

Nothing can more clearly show the abominations of this system of iniquity than its horrible Oaths and Penalties.

Single Copy, $0 15. Per dozen, $1 00. Per 100 $6 00.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret Societies.

A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons the Christian Church.

Single Copy $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100, $4 50

Secrecy v. s. The Family, State and Church.

BY REV. M. S. DRURY. The antagonism of Organized Secrecy with the welfare of the Family, State and Church is clearly shown

Single Copy, $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100 $4 00.

ANTIMASONIC TRACTS

NOW HAVE 25 ENGLISH TRACTS, O MAN, AND ONE SWEDISH

hese tracts are sold at the rate of $1.00 per 1000 pages.

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 34 Cynosure Tracts, bound together, and is just the hing to select tracts from. Price 20 cents. See advertisement

For information about Free Tracts see advertisement headed Free Tracts."

Address EZRA A. COOK & Co.,
18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TRACT NO. 1:

HISTORY OF MASONRY.

BY PRESIDENT J. BLANCHARD, OF WHEATON COLLEGE.

This is now published in three tracts of four pages each. Price of each, 50 cents per 100; $4 per 1000.

TRACT No. 1, PART FIRST—Shows the origin of Speculative Freemasonry, and is entiled 'HISTORY OF MASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART SECOND—Is entitled "DESPOTIC CHARACTER OF FREEMASONRY"

TRACT No. 1, PART THIRD—Is entitled "FREEMASONRY A CHRISTI-EXCLUDING RELIGION"

TRACT NO. 2:

MASONIC MURDER,

By REV. J. R. BAIRD, of Pleasantville, Pa., a seceding Mason who has taken 17 degrees. A 2-page tract at 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 3:

SECRETS OF MASONRY,

BY ELI TAPLEY.

This is a 4-page Illustrated Tract, showing the signs, grips and pass-words, of the first three degrees. 50 cents per 100, or $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 4:

GRAND! GREAT GRAND!!

BY PHILO CARPENTER.

This is a 2-page tract, calling the attention of the public to the despotic and ridiculous titles of Freemasonry. Price 25 cents per 100; $2 00 per 1,000.

TRACT. NO. 5:

Extracts From Masonic Oaths and Penalties, as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.

This tract is a reprint of a tract published in 1834, and is a very weighty document. A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 6:

Hon. John Quincy Adams' Letter.

Giving His and His Father's Opinion of Freemasonry (1831.);

AND

Hon. James Madison's Letter,

Giving His Opinion of Freemasonry (1832).

Both of these letters, in one 4-page tract, at 50 cents per 100: $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 7:

SATAN'S CABLE-TOW.

A 4-page tract. This is a careful analysis of the character of Masonic oaths, and shows them to be most blasphemous and unchristian; and the Masonic Cable Tow is clearly shown to be the Cable Tow by which Satan is leading thousands to eternal death 5 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 8:

Is a 2-page double tract, "ILLUSTRATED." The first page represents a Mason proclaiming the wonderful wisdom and benevolence of the order, with an article below, entitled "Freemasonry is only 152 Years Old," and gives the time and place of its birth.

The second side is entitled, "Murder and Treason not Excepted," and shows that the Masonic order is treasonable in its constitution, and is both anti-Republican and anti-Christian. Price 25 cents per 100; $2 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 9, ILLUSTRATED:

FREEMASONRY IN THE CHURCH.

Copy of a petition for the higher degrees of Freemasonry, in which Blasphemous and Despotic Titles are enumerated and prayed for. The Copy was printed for the use of "Occidental Sovereign Consistory S. P. R. S." 32d degree—a Chicago Lodge—and was ordered by a deacon of a Christian Church who is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ill.

TRACT NO. 10:

CHARACTER AND SYMBOLS OF FREEMASONRY.

A 2-page tract, (ILLUSTRATED) by its "Grand Secretaries, Grand Lecturers, Perfect Prince Freemasons, Grand Inspector, Inquisitor Commanders, Grand High Priests," etc. The wonderful symbolical meaning of "the Cable Tow." "the Square and Compass," "the Lamb Skin, or white Apron," and "the Common Gavel," are given in the exact words of the highest Masonic authority. 25 cents per 100 or $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 11;

Address of Niagara County Association, New York

TO THE PUBLIC,

Concerning the Morgan Murder, and the character of Freemasonry shown by this and other Masonic murders. 50 cents per 100.

TRACT NO. 12:

JUDGE WHITNEY AND MASONRY.

This tract contains a condensed account of Judge Whitney's Defense before the Grand Lodge of Illinois, on charge of unmasonic conduct in bringing Samuel L. Keith the murderer of Ellen Slade, and a member of his Lodge, to justice, with Judge Whitney's subsequent renunciation of Masonry.

An 8-page tract, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 13:

DR. NATHANIEL COLVER ON MASONRY,

and

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D.,

Chancellor of the University of New York, on SECRET SOCIETIES A double 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 14:

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

ITS RELATION TO CIVIL GOVERNMENT AND THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION.

Opening address before the Monmouth Convention, by PRES. BLANCHARD of WHEATON COLLEGE. This is a 16-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 15:

MASONIC OATHS NULL AND VOID.

A clear and conclusive argument proving the invalidity of any oath or obligation to do evil. By REV. I. A. HART, Secretary National Christian Association. Published by special order of the Association. 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 16:

HON. SETH M. GATES ON FREEMASONRY.

PROOF THAT THE INSTITUTION THAT MURDERED MORGAN IS UNCHANGED IN CHARACTER

This is a letter to the Monmouth Convention by Hon. Seth M Gates who was Deputy Sheriff of Genesee County, and also Secretary of the Leroy Lodge at the time of Morgan's Abduction. A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 17:

Origin, Obligations and Expenses of The Grange.

WITH A CONSTITUTION OF A FARMERS' CLUB.

This little tract ought to be put into the hands of every Farmer in the United States. Four-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 18:

HON. WM. H. SEWARD ON SECRET SOCIETIES.

Extract from a Speech on Know-nothingism in the U. S. Senate in 1855. The testimony of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS MILLARD FILLMORE, CHIEF JUSTIC MARSHALL and others is added.

A 2-page tract, 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 19.

BRICKS FOR MASONS TO LAY.

WASHINGTON, MADISON, MARSHALL, RUSH, HANCOCK, ADAMS AND WEBSTER, give brief clear testimony against the Lodge A 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT

OBJECTIONS TO MASONRY.

By A SECEDING MASON, of Corunton, Vermont.

This tract contains many strong arguments against the Lodge drawn from personal experience, observation and study of its character A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 21:

MASONIC CHASTITY.

BY EMMA A. WALLACE.

The author, by wonderfully clear illustration and argument, shows the terribly corrupt nature of Freemasonry. No true woman who reads this will ever speak with approbation of this institution A 4-page tract 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 22.

LINUS CHITTENDEN ON FREEMASONRY.

The Author a Seceding Master Mason states his objection to the Lodge, drawn both from experience and observation, in a clear concise and forcible style.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 23

MASONIC OATHS AND PENALTIES.

ADDRESS OF REV. A. M. MILLIGAN AT THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION

This is the clearest and most conclusive argument to show the wickedness of masonic oaths and the duty to disregard and repent of them that we have ever seen.

A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 24.

SHOULD FREEMASONS BE ADMITTED TO CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP?

The principles and teachings of Freemasonry taken from the highest masonic authorities are compared with those of the Bible, several Masonic Oaths are given in whole or in part with the comments of Rev's. Moses Stewart, Nathaniel Colver, and Charles G Finney, on this character. Those who love a pure Christianity should aid in the circulation of this tract. A 4 page tract, 50cts. per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 25.

The American Party.

ITS OBJECT, ORGANIZATION, PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES.

Some of the ablest men in the nation have pronounced our platform the best that has been presented to the American people for the past fifty years Our Candidates are men of acknowledged ability and honesty, and if every voter in the United States could read this our "POLITICAL TRACT," our Candidates could undoubtedly be elected. One friend pledges a dollar for every other dollar contributed and this 8 page tract costs but $1.00 per 100, or $8.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 26.

FREEMASONRY A RELIGION.

This Tract is made up of quotations from Standard Masonic Authors and nothing could more clearly demonstrate the fact that Freemasonry claims to be a Christless and therefore Anti-christian religion.

An 8 page Tract, $1 00 per 100. $8 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 27.

Duty and Ability to Know the Character of Freemasonry.

Thousands seem to consider it a virtue to know nothing about the character of Secret Societies. This is shown to be a great error if not a crime and our duty to use the knowledge within our reach, especially when of such vital importance, is clearly enforced.

A 4 Page Tract, 50 cents per 100. $4 00 per 1000.

Cynosure Tract No. 28.

FREEMASONRY REVEALED.

A LEGAL ATTESTATION BY EDMOND RONAYNE.

To the correctness of the published expositions of Freemasonry The author very briefly states the mode of preparation and initiation in the various degrees, with the mock murder and resurrection of the candidate in the personification of Hiram Abiff in the 3d, degree and the penalties of each.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100. $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO 1, IN SWEDISH,

translated by Prof. A. R. CERVIN. A 15 page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

ENOCH HONEYWELL'S TRACT.

TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA. Postage 5cts. per 100.
TRACTS FREE.

GERMAN CYNOSUCE TRACT A.

Six Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason.

By Rev. A. GROLE, Pastor, German M.E. Church, Worchester, Mass

This is our first German Tract, and it is a good one; it ought to have a large circulation. A 4 page tract, Price 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

FREE TRACTS.

A Tract Fund for the Free Distribution of Tracts

HAS BEEN SECURED AND SHOULD NEVER BE EXHAUSTED. A friend has pledged this fund a dollar for every other dollar received, so EVERY NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TRACT FUND COUNTS DOUBLE, and thus $10.00 pays for 20,000 pages of tracts.

The distribution of these tracts has already saved hundreds of young men from the lodge, but there is a great lack of funds to supply the constantly increasing demand for Free Tracts.

During the year 1876 were gratuitously sent out, mostly in very small lots. The present demand is fully 100.000 pages per month. but funds are lacking to meet it.

Many of our most earnest workers in this cause of God are poor men, who would be glad to circulate thousands of pages of Antimasonic literature if they could have them free.

SHALL WE NOT HAVE AN INEXHAUSTIBLE TRACT FUND

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 34 Cynosure Tracts, bound together and is just the thing to select from. Price 20cents. See advertisement page 15.

Enoch Honeywell Esq., pays for an unlimited number of his tract addressed "To THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA." It is an excellent tract, bearing the printed endorsement of Executive Committee of the National Christian Association. He has furnished the pu over 150.000 pages of these tracts during the past year.

TRACTS FREE. If sent by mail, 5 cts per 100 is charged postage,

Send Contributions and orders to

EZRA A. COOK.

Free Tract Committee 18 Wabash Ave, Chicago Ill.

Publishers' Department.

Alex Needles sends eight renewals and one new subscription. He writes: "I will still try to get others to renew and also to get new ones. * * I have worked hard for the cause for years. It seems to me I have accomplished but little. Others say a great deal." He also sends the names of four persons who will, he thinks, be efficient agents in circulating the Cynosure if requested to act.

Mr. Needles has many times strengthened those who are toiling for truth. God only can estimate the full measure of his success.

B. B. Salmon, Larwill, Whitley Co., Ind., sends his renewal, together with three new subscriptions for one year each and two for six months each. We hope that this list will continue to grow during the fall and winter.

Several friends have lately been trying to secure subscriptions to forward with their renewals without success. We hope that they will try again later in the season when the time is more favorable.

Marlin S. Wood, Woodville, Jeff. Co., N. Y., writes: "I hope to send you more names soon."

Jas. B. Miller, Smithville, Ill., writes: "I am getting our club renewed and will send it in a short time. I have six names and will probably get four more."

E. B. Krahl, Greenesburg, Trumbull Co., O., writes: "I may get up a club in the winter."

Rev. H. S. Limbocker, Butler, Mich., writes: "I hope to be able to send more subscribers soon. We are trying to keep the ball of reform rolling; and I think the leaven is working."

Books and Tracts sent Week ending Aug. 25, 1877.

By Express.

J Sleeper, J B Cressinger.

By Mail.

E H Tine. W H Anderson, T S Couch, E H Turner, J T Sytz, W R Cartright, R H Filley M L Edwards, J H H Woodward. H Stuerken, M Belden, P Bertsch, W R Boomer, J S Smith, L J Markhus, A J Whaling, H. Tiemeyer W Stamm J R McDowell, A C Duncan, Rev. W illey, J Knox J M Bonnet J A Yager, N. P. Dodge, J C Crumrine, C H Swaney, G Ranney, J W Foss, J W Shellabarger, H R Groneway, S F He llyer J Wagner, F Wendt, W B Lammond, C H Sucker, E O Wallace, Mrs. S Gilkey, G D Mackintosh, S S Terry, M H Beals T J Simmons, F Ellis.

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED DURING WEEK ENDING AUG. 25, 1877, from Mrs E W Andrews, W R Boomer, E J Burns, S Chittenden, H W Clark, P N Clapsaddle, W A Davis, B C Elrod, J M Evans, E Holcomb, H H Hinman (3), J P Lytle, W N Lovell, T J Muzzy, J R McDowell, A W Murphy, J C Miles, G D Mackintosh, W Nickle, R Platt, T P Patterson, T C Radabaugh, I Ranner, J R Richey, G H Stiles. A J Smith, P M Seely, J G Stauffer, Mrs. J Smith, J Town, J G West, J R Wellington, I Wingert, O B Worth, A S Waterbury.

MARKET REPORTS

Chicago Aug 27. 1877

GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	1 08	1 08½
" No. 3	96	1 03½
" Rejected		86
" Minnesota	1 09	1 10½
" Winter		1 12
Corn—No. 2	42	43⅜
Rejected	39½	40
Oats—No. 2		23
Rejected		18
Rye—No. 2	52½	53
Bran per ton	8 75	9 00
Flour—Winter	5 50	7 00
Spring	3 00	6 75
Hay—Timothy	8 00	9 00
Prairie	5 00	8 00
Mess Beef	10 00	11 50
Tallow	7¼	7⅝
Lard per cwt		8 25
Mess pork, per brl.		12 15
Butter medium to best	13	25
Cheese	8	11
Beans	1 50	3 00
Eggs	10	11
Seeds—Timothy	1 20	1 38
Clover		7 50
Flax	1 25	1 28
Potatoes new per bu	35	40
Broomcorn	3½	7½
Hides green to dry flint	7	17
Lumber—Clear	28 00	34 00
Common	9 50	11 00
Shingles		2 50
WOOL—Washed	36	42
Unwashed	24	27
LIVESTOCK Cattle Choice	5 90	6 25
Good	5 25	5 75
Medium	4 50	5 00
Common	3 00	4 25
Hogs	3 75	5 35
Sheep	3 00	4 75

New York Market.

Flour	$3 00	9 50
Wheat—Spring	1 23	1 24¾
Winter	1 38½	1 40
Corn		54½
Oats	26	41
Rye		69
Lard		8¾
Mess pork		13 30
Butter	10	21
Cheese	5	11
Eggs	14	16
Wool	10	58

Agents Wanted!

TO SELL THE PUBLICATIONS OF

EZRA A. COOK & CO.

Liberal Terms Offered.

Capable persons who are in need of pecuniary aid may clear

Handsome Profits,

While at the same time aiding the cause of Reform. Apply to EZRA A. COOK & CO., No. 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Discontinuances.

Unless we receive orders to stop the paper sooner, we continue the Cynosure a full month after the time expires. Those wishing their paper discontinued are requested to notify us AT THE TIME THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS EXPIRE.

ADDRESS all letters with subscriptions or orders for books, tracts, and donations to the tract fund, to Ezra A. Cook & Co., No. 13 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Excelsior Marriage Certificate.

It is decidedly the most BEAUTIFUL, TASTEFUL and SENSIBLE thing of the kind I have ever seen."—Rev. F. G. Hibbard, D. D.

"The most SCRIPTURAL, BEAUTIFUL and APPROPRIATE Marriage Certificate I have ever seen."—Late Rev. H. Mattison, D. D.

"SOMETHING NEW AND BEAUTIFUL, which we pronounce the handsomest thing of the kind we ever laid eyes on."—Meth. Home Journal, Phila. Contains two Ornamental Ovals, for Photographs

A BEAUTIFUL LITHOGRAPH 14 1-4 by 18 1-4 inches. 25 cts each, $2.25 per doz- $15 per 100.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co.. CHICAGO.

TERMS FOR THE CYNOSURE.

$2.00 per annum, in advance.
20c " " " " for postage.

All who canvass for the CYNOSURE are allowed a cash commission of twenty per cent. or twenty-five per cent in books at retail prices, one-half this percentage on renewals, and any one sending $100. for the CYNOSURE during three months, will be entitled to an extra five per cent.

All responsible persons who desire to promote this reform are authorized to act as agents.

Wheaton College and Preparatory School.

WHEATON, ILL.

FACULTY:

J. BLANCHARD, Pres't.
HON. J. B. WALKER.
O. F. LUMRY, A. M.
A. H. HIATT, M. D.
F. G. BAKER.
H. A. FISCHER, A. M.
S. F. STRATTON, A. M.
C. A. BLANCHARD, A.M.
T. C. MOFFATT, A. M.
E. D. BAILEY, A. B.
R. T. MORGAN, A.
MRS. S. H. NUTTING.
MISS M. E. NASH.

The fall Term of Wheaton College will open on the 6th of September.

TUITION ELEVEN DOLLARS FOR THE TERM OF THIRTEEN WEEKS

Three courses of Study in the College; and three in the Preparatory School, including a Normal Course for Teachers. Also a full COMMERCIAL COURSE.

No extra charge for Book Keeping, Penmanship, Vocal Music or Freehand Drawing on the Black Board.

Board at reasonable rates, All persons wishing to enter this year should report at the College Building at 8½ o'clock Thursday Sept. 6th.

Full information sent by any member of the Faculty or by J. Blanchard Pres't

MASON & HAMLIN, Cabinet Organs!

The only Organ declared to be of First Rank by the Judges at Philadelphia.

Gold Medals and Diplomas of Honor awarded them at all the great World Expositions.

Being the only American Organs which have ever obtained any award in Competition with the best European makers.

These celebrated instruments are now offered to the public in New and Elegant Styles at the very Lowest Prices consistent with Best Material and Workmanship. They may be purchased on

Easy Monthly or Quarterly Installments

or Rented until Rent pays for them.

Every organ warranted to give satisfaction. Illustrated catalogue free.

Mason & Hamlin Organ Company
Boston, 154 Tremont Street,
New York, 25 Union Square,
Chicago, 250 & 252 Wabash Ave.

Wesleyan Methodist Seminary,

Wasioja, Minnesota.

E. C. PAINE, A. M., Principal.

Terms begin Wednesday, September 12, 1877; Wednesday, December 19, 1877; Wednesday, March 27, 1878.

Three courses of study: College Preparatory. Academic and Scientific. The influences of this school are religious and anti-secret. Expenses very small.

For catalogue giving full particulars, address the principal or the undersigned.

REV. D. F. SHEPARDSON,
Pres. of Board.

$3 GOLD PLATED WATCHES. Cheapest in the known world. Sample Watch Free to Agents. Address, A. COULTER & Co., Chicago.

NEW CLUB RATES

FOR

Either Renewals or New Subscriptions.

Papers addressed to one or different Post Offices as desired.

CLUB RATES INCLUDING POSTAGE.

2 to 4 Subscribers, at $2.00 a year.
5 to 9 " at 1.75 "
10 or more " at 1.50 "

Names for a Club may be sent at different times; THE MONEY FOR THE CLUB TO BE SENT WITH THE FIRST LOT OF NAMES; but other Subscriptions may be added at same rates after Club is full.

The effect of Club Rates is to give the Commission to those who compose the Club and no commission can be allowed on these rates.

$2500 A YEAR, Agents wanted. Business legitimate. Particulars free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

How to Send Money.

Post office orders, checks or drafts on Chicago or towns east of Chicago, and currency by express may be sent at our risk. If it is not possible to send by either of the four ways named, money in a registered letter may be sent at our risk, but it is not as safe.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1 square, 1 insertion,		$2.00
1 square (1 inch deep) one month		7.00
1 " " 3		10.00
1 " " 3 "		15.00
1 " " 6 "		25.00
1 " " 12 "		40.00

Discount for Space.

On 3 squares 5 per cent, On 3 squares 10 per cent
On 4 " 15 " " On 5 " 20 "
On ¼ col. 25 per cent On one col. 30 per cent

CALIFORNIA

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the WEST and NORTH-WEST, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between CHICAGO and all points in ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, NORTHERN MICHIGAN, MINNESOTA, IOWA, NEBRASKA, CALIFORNIA, and the WESTERN TERRITORIES. Its

Omaha and California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in NORTHERN ILLINOIS, IOWA, DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, COLORADO, UTAH, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, CHINA, JAPAN, AND AUSTRALIA. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for NORTHERN WISCONSIN and MINNESOTA, and for MADISON, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, DULUTH, and all points in the Great Northwest. Its

Winona and St. Paul Line.

Is the only route for WINONA, ROCHESTER, OWATONNA, MANKATO, ST. PETER, NEW ULM, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for JANESVILLE, WATERTOWN, FOND DU LAC, OSHKOSH, APPLETON, GREEN BAY, ESCANABA, NEGAUNEE, MARQUETTE, HOUGHTON, HANCOCK, and the LAKE SUPERIOR COUNTRY. Its

Freeport and Dubuque Line

Is the only route for ELGIN, ROCKFORD, FREEPORT, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago and Milwaukee Line

Is the old Lake Shore Route, and is the only one passing through EVANSTON, LAKE FOREST, HIGHLAND PARK, WAUKEGAN, RACINE, KENOSHA to MILWAUKEE.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

are run on all through trains of this road.

This is the ONLY LINE running these cars between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our Sleepers connect with the Overland Sleepers on the Union Pacific Railroad for all points West of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago and North-Western Railway LEAVE CHICAGO as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, Two Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four Through Trains daily. Pullman Cars on night trains, Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta, La Crosse and Winona and points in Minnesota. One Through Train daily, with Pullman Sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains.

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, Two Trains daily. Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, Four Trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points you can have from two to ten trains daily

New York Office, No 415 Broadway; Boston Office, No. 5 State Street; Omaha Office, 245 Farnham Street San Francisco Office, 121 Montgomery Street; Chicago Ticket Offices: 62 Clark Street, under Sherman House; Kinzie Street Depot, corner W. Kinzie; Wells Street Depot, corner Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agents, apply to

W. H. STENNETT, Gen. Pass. Ag't, Chicago. MARVIN HUGHITT, Gen. Man'g. Chicago.

[Eastern.)

$1200 SALARY. Permanent salesmen wanted to sell Staple Goods to dealers. No peddling. Expenses paid. Address S. A. GRANT & CO., 2, 4, 6 & 8 Home St., Cincinnati, O.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

"In Secret Have I Said Nothing."—Jesus Christ.

EZRA A. COOK & CO., PUBLISHERS, NO. 13 WABASH AVENUE.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, SEPT. 6, 1877.

VOL. IX., No. 49.—WHOLE NO. 389. WEEKLY (post paid) $2.20 A YEAR.

Contents.

	Page
TOPICS OF THE TIMES	1
EDITORIALS:
On to Dayton	8
The Knight Templars	8
Will Mormonism collapse?	8
CONTRIBUTED AND SELECTED:
The Masonic Game	2
To the Unknown God	2
Sinless Perfection	2
A Patriotic Sentiment	3
Letters to Keystone Lodge, No. 7	3
A New Communist Order	4
REFORM NEWS:
D. P. Rathbun and the Lyndon Church, Michigan	5
CORRESPONDENCE:
Benevolence not up to to the Test; Iowa Politics; The Legal Fraternity; Pennsylvania Lutherans; Vain Threats; Our Mail	6, 7
N. C. A. Receipts for Aug	9
Knights of Pythias Ritual	12
Home Circle	10
Children's Corner	11
Home and Farm	7
Sabbath School	11
Religious Intelligence	9
News of the Week	12
Publishers' Department	16

Notices.

THE TENTH NAT'L CONVENTION.

of the National Christian Association will be held in Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 23rd to 25th next, beginning on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 23rd with a preliminary meeting for social converse and prayer in the afternoon of the same day. Let every friend of the reform do what he may be able for the success of this meeting: by arranging his affairs so as to be present; or, assisting to send a delegate; by having the editor of his local paper print the notice of the meeting; by suggesting some topic for practical discussion to the programme committee; but, above all, by prayer to God for his blessing upon the meeting. Let every local or auxiliary association arrange to be represented.

WISCONSIN STATE MEETING.

The annual meeting of the State Christian Association of Wisconsin auxilary to the National Christian Association opposed to secret societies, will be held at Baraboo, Sauk county, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, September 25th, 26th and 27th. The convention will be called to order at 2 P. M. on Tuesday, 25th. Rev. J. P. Stoddard, General Agent, and other distinguished speakers will be present. Mr. E. Ronayne will also attend and publicly work the Masonic degrees. Let every friend throughout the entire State work with such zeal and energy as to make this the best meeting of the kind ever held in Wisconsin and to secure ample means for carrying on this important work with renewed vigor.

E. L. HARRIS, Pres't.
U. D. LATHROP, Sec'y.

THE ILLINOIS STATE ASSOCIATION,

Will hold its annual Convention at Streator, LaSalle county, beginning December 4th. Just after Thanksgiving the friends will be ready to begin the winter campaign. The churches will soon then open their protracted meetings. Let us hold such a meeting as will assure every Christian pastor that this reform can be taken up in the midst of his revival work with a blessing on himself and his church. Let all prepare for this meeting.

PAST MASTER RONAYNE is to be at Marshalltown, Iowa, (God willing) on the 10th, 11th and 12th of September. He can stay in that State ten days longer. Friends in other localities will please write him at once to 104 Bremer street, Chicago, that arrangements may be made for other lectures and exposes; $40 will pay all expenses. He desires to hear soon from friends in Indiana, so as to leave immediately for that field, beginning at Crown Point, on his way from the Wisconsin State meeting about Oct. 1st.

IOWA STATE CONVENTION.

The friends of free speech, free press and free pulpit are requested to meet at Marshaltown (in the Court House), Sept. 12, at 11 o'clock, A. M., for the purpose of putting in nomination State officers as follows: Governor, Lieut. Governor, Supreme Judge and Superintendent of Public Instruction that are not Masons or belong to any secret oath-bound order. A good representation from all parts of the State is earnestly solicited. The committee have selected that time and place from the fact that Edmond Ronayne, late Master of Keystone Lodge, Chicago, will be there at that time and give a full and complete exposition of the first three degrees of Freemasonry, on the evenings of the 10th, 11th and 12th of September.

THERON PALMETER,
Chairman of State Central Com.

INDIANA STATE CONVENTION.

The fifth annual State convention of Indiana, opposed to secret societies, will meet at Plainfield, Hendricks county, October 17, 1877, commencing on the evening of the 17th at 7 o'clock and closing on the evening of the 19th. Edmond Ronayne and other prominent speakers are expected. It is confidently expected that all the county associations of the State will be fully represented, and all lovers of the cause of Christ will make the necessary sacrifice to meet with us. Come in the name and in the strength of the Lord Jesus. By order of the EX. Committee.

PETER RICH, Chairman

Topics of the Time.

Last week reference was made to the establishment of sixty-five Romanist schools among the colored youth of the South last year, to seven by the Baptists since the war. To be more accurate these were in only four States, viz., ten in Georgia, fifteen in Alabama, fifteen in Mississippi, and twenty-five in Louisiana. These schools offer free tuition to all the colored boys and girls, with the remarkable addition of free board and lodging, while poor whites have to pay $100 per annum. It would be strange if these privileges were not accepted by thousands of the class for which they are established, for the snare is not set in the sight of the bird. Free education and a living thrown in are a good bait for the hook of the Pope.

If on one side the Jesuits warily entice their prey, on the other they close up the avenue of escape to those whose consciences would become enlightened and independent of priestly rule under the enlightening influences of our Republic. They have lately got control of 117,000 acres of land in Minnesota which the Catholic Review proposes to use much as the Mormons have Utah, as a district for Catholic colonization. It says: "It will henceforth be the duty of the church in America to see that no Catholic family landing on our shores and seeking a new home in our Western States and Territories shall be permitted to stray beyond her control, but shall be conducted to localities where her priests are already prepared to receive them and where their fellow-citizens will be bound to them by the ties of faith. Catholics in this land are already about as one in six. We receive accessions every day from the ranks of the Protestant sects; few, if any, of our own number now fall away from us; the emigration of the future, to a great extent, will be in our hands. Thus will the church in America—where to-day, to use his own words, our Holy Father 'is more truly Pope than in any other land'—grow in strength and beauty, and thus will she be prepared, when the hour comes, to save the Republic."

The cost of strikes and of war bear a fair comparison, for both as at present managed are begun and kept up with little or no regard to civil law. It was said lately that but one fireman, of the one hundred and twenty-five engineers and firemen who struck last February on the Boston and Maine road, has got steady employment; the rest are regularly supported by the Brotherhood of Engineers. Our nation will be a long time paying the scores, perhaps hundreds of millions loss to property and business during the late reign of the mob. The figures of war are equally suggestive. The English government paid 124,000,000 pounds sterling for the ten years war of Independence, started for the collection of a three-pence-a-pound tea tax which could have netted hardly 50,000 pounds a year. In fifty years our government has spent $800,000,000 fighting the Indians. The expedition of 1869 by official report cost $30,000,000 and eight Indians were killed; or $3,750,000 to kill one. But the missionary statistics say that in two hundred years there has been but $2,000,000 spent on the education and Christianizing of the Indians and the result is 15,000 converts, while the Protestant Christian Indians are always peaceably inclined towards our government. Such figures suggest a better way to employ money than by the tortuous, uncertain channels of strikes and war for the alleviation of the social condition or for national honor. The lavish waste of human life in the last fortnight's battles in Bulgaria with the enormous expenses of both armies are a good basis for some mathematician to work at. It would seem to be demonstrable that Russia could have bought by peaceful means the same privileges for the Christian provinces she is now doubtfully gaining with the additional cost of thousands of lives.

The legislation of several Southern States has been so plainly hostile to the colored men, that not a few, who were at first inclined to accept President Hayes' method of subduing the South, are growing faint-hearted and impatient of more marked results favorable to a stable government in all the Southern States and especially to the interests of the black race. Such a work requires long time and the operation of slow-moving forces, but there are evidences of a successful operation of the President's method. As says the Boston Journal: "It has been claimed as the result of the President's course toward the South that the color-line in politics, which has been fraught with so much mischief to that section and was a positive source of injury to the colored people, would be broken down, and that local issues would come up which would create two parties in all the Southern States. For a time there were indications that such a prediction would not be realized, but now that elections are coming off there are many indications that there are good grounds for believing that such a result will follow. In the recent elections in Alabama there are abundant evidences of the disintegration of the Democratic party and the formation of new combinations. For instance, in Mobile county, where the vote for President last November stood 5,330 for Tilden and 4,272 for Hayes, an independent ticket was elected for county officers the first Monday in August over the regular Democratic ticket by 2,000 majority. The Mobile Register, which is one of the ablest Democratic papers in the South, is alarmed at this unexpected revolt, and asserts that it has done more to divide the South 'than the eight years' government of Grant,' and that 'The result of the election is the confirmation of our long-expressed opinion, that the breaking up of the color-line was the breaking down of the only rampart which stood between the true, real citizen and the professional and disappointed office-hunter.' It then frantically appeals to the faithful 'to save the Democratic party from disruption.' The Independent movement appears to have been quite general in Alabama, and to have developed much strength." In Louisville where Tilden received nearly three votes to Hayes one, the workingmen have elected five out of seven members of the State Legislature against the Democrats.

The Masonic Game.

There could be no better device than Masonry for subverting republican government and placing lords, princes, and other grand masters at the head of society. It was at work amidst the base passions of fear and hatred engendered by slavery for accmoplishing this purpose, and it is still at work with the same object in view. Wherever you find a Masonic lodge or a Masonic press you may be sure that it is as steadily at work for this purpose as the fire, the stokers, and the engine down in the ship are at work driving the ship to her port. Not one Mason in a hundred knows where the captain of the Masonic ship is bound.

What the lodge has failed to accomplish by working upon the fears and hatreds of the South, it now hopes to gain by working upon the religious hopes and sentiments of the North. The lodge is very religious, it is! It has a holy horror of Papistry that plays the same tricks as itself and for the same purpose, viz., aristocratic government. And it has taken a wonderful liking for the Puritan churches which were founded upon an abhorrence of all tricks. In order to commend itself to the religious men and women of the North, the lodge resorts to priest-craft and opposes Masonic priest-craft to Jesuitical priest-craft. To this it adds shop-craft or the cheating tricks of trade, and out of the two makes a better religion, a broader and more practical one than Christianity itself! It revives the great Diana of the Ephesians and makes money by making images of its worship.

When the Spaniards took possession of Mexico they found that the Aztecs, like the Ephesians, worshipped the moon. The Romish priests cunningly put an image of the Virgin Mary in the new moon; a beautiful woman standing upright between the horns, and thus converted the whole nation by a pious trick into worshippers of the virgin. The confused, unsuspecting Aztecs never knew and never have known when the conversion took place. Indeed, it is doubtful which worship prevails, that of the moon or of the virgin. In either case we can readily understand from such a religion why so many rebellions and revolutions take place in Mexico.

The Masonic priest is at work trying to play off a similar pious trick in the United States. As the the Romish priest in Mexico stealthily removed Astarte, the queen of heaven, from between the horns of the new moon and placed the Romish Mary there, so the Masonic priest in the United States seeks to remove Christ from the church and place the features of Freemasonry there! And our good people are confused; they hardly know which is which. To many ministers of Christ themselves Freemasonry seems more beautiful than Christ, and so they worship it.

Reader, do you know where that monstrosity of villainy, the Masonic lodge was engendered? It was conceived and brought forth amidst the vile and debasing passions of the English civil strifes of 1640–1717. Do you know where it has flourished most in the United States? It is amidst the passions and enslavements and rebellions of the South? Do you know who are now running the lodge in the United States? Examine closely and see if they are not a set of unscrupulous politicians who seek to ride into power by getting the lodge into the church. Will you allow a ring for political purposes to become established in your church and be worshipped there instead of Christ? Will you offer your money to those worst of all political dupes—the Masonic preachers? AMERICAN.

"To the Unknown God."

BY REV. J. J HAYDEN.

"Whom ye ignorantly worship; him declare I unto you."

The preaching of the Gospel by faithful men, who have not failed to apply the caustic of divine truth to the systems of infidelity, has ever been attended with confusion and uproar on the part of the opposers of God and man; and the Spirit made manifest by the application of Divine truth is the most infallible evidence of the good or evil nature of the person or institution upon which truth is brought to bear. In all countries where the moral, civil and religious elements are in a good degree in sympathy with the teachings of our Lord Jesus Christ, the proclamation of the Gospel or the application of truth will create but little agitation in the moral elements. But in all the world where anti-Christ in a measure reigns, the truth as taught by the Divine Son of God will produce strife or moral commotion. Hence Jesus says (Matt. 10: 34), "Think not that I am come to send peace on earth, I came not to send peace but a sword, for I am come to set a man at variance against his father, and the daughter against her mother, and a man's foes shall be those of his own household." All the elements of society, whether religious, civil, social or paternal that are averse to the letter and spirit of the Gospel must yield to its requirements or strife and variance must be the inevitable result. There is no concord between Christ and Belial; no fellowship between righteousness and unrighteousness.

The worship of the God of the Bible has ever been most bitterly opposed by all idolatrous and anti-Christian nations; and no pains have been spared by God the Father and his Son, our Lord Jesus Christ, to set angels and men right on this most fundamental doctrine, and yet false worships abound; Christ is ignored by all the men and institutions of darkness and false gods set up as were Dagon and Diana whose most devout worshipers were the craftsmen, who fared sumptuously upon the spoils of the ignorant and credulous. So it remains even in this boasted age of enlightenment; Christians are often heard to speak in pity of those pagan dupes who fed the god Dagon or furnished the silver shrines of Diana, who are themselves an hundred fold more despicable dupes to the secret god of Masonry, who extorts from his vassals far more than did Dagon and Diana. Deluded men who are not worthy of pity unmixed with contempt; who have had the opportunity of learning the fate of the heathen nations; who when they knew God refused to worship him as God, but became vain in their imaginations and their foolish hearts became darkened, wherefore God gave them up to their idolatry and filthiness, etc. But Christians have no excuse who live in the blaze of Gospel day and who have neither precedent or precept for going into Satan's secret lodge, hoodwinked and taking an obligation as mischievous and profane as the prince of darkness could invent, to ever conceal and never reveal the deep, dark damnation of his councils.

Sinless Perfection—Some Misapprehensions about Holiness.

Whatever be the views of the champions of Anti-masonry, who fight for what they think is true scriptural doctrine, it should not, in my opinion, be in sight of the enemy. Bro. Hinman's article in the Cynosure of Aug. 9th, is liable to very severe criticism. I shall not take up your time by criticising that article. Allow me, however, to state some things about Christian perfection in which we are all agreed, but which are directly assailed by the lodge.

The Bible teaches that all men need a Saviour. That without a Saviour we must all fall into the pit of death. That Jesus the only begotten Son of God is the only and all sufficient Saviour. The moment we believe in him we have everlasting life and full salvation. Faith gives us unity to Jesus. It is God's hand taking hold on man and placing him in the everlasting arms of Jesus, who is able to save to the uttermost all who thus come to him in faith through God's powerful drawing. Faith is also man's hand laying hold of the Saviour and holding him so as not to let him go. To whom shall we go?

This union begets completeness. We are complete in Christ Jesus. "In him are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge." "In him dwells all the fullness of the godhead bodily." "Out of his fullness we all receive grace for grace. A union there is of the closest nature. Yet it is spiritual. By carnal figures we are said to be members of his body, of his flesh and of his bones." For all this we are distinct. The perfection of the Christian is wholly in Jesus. Out of him we have nothing really good, and can do nothing truly good. The perfection, power and glory are all in Jesus the living head. "I can do all things through Christ strengthening me."

Hence the wickedness of secret deistical lodges. They furnish a religion and frame codes of morality for their slaves which ignore "the Lord of glory" in whom all fullness dwells. They claim that perfection of holiness for themselves which belongs only to Jesus the Son of God.

As they claim and receive for themselves the divine prerogatives of the Son of God, so they now flatter those who give them these honors. They pretend to give stability in perfect holiness to their ignorant dupes. Here they are met by the stern declarations of God's word which cannot be overthrown.

"There is no man that liveth and sinneth not."

"There is not a just man on earth that doeth good and sinneth not."

"Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors"—those who have sinned or tresspassed against us.

"In many things we all offend and come far short of the glory of God."

"If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves and the truth is not in us."

"If we say that we have not sinned we make God a liar and his word is not in us."

"Let God be true but every man a liar," and "all the world confess itself guilty before God." "There is none righteous, no not one."

If any man think he has attained perfect personal holiness in this life he is deceived. But Jesus is able to give the benefit of a full and free pardon to every one who truly believes. The personal experience of this full pardon will have its effect on us in an ever increasing power in us. Grace begun on earth will certainly merge into the dawning of eternal glory. "The path of the just is as the shining light that shineth more and more unto the perfect day." Perfect love, obedience, holiness, life, bliss and glory are synonymous. If we have the first now we shall have the others also. "Perfect love is the fulfilling of the law." Chastisement is needed only by children who are in fault to amend them.

Masons suffer like others the ills of life. If these ills are not needed as chastisements by God's people to amend their life, then of what avail are they? It will be difficult to show. "He shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver," and when he sees his image perfectly reflected in the sanctified, then and not till then, will he take thee out of the furnace. If there is no curse in heaven it is because there is no SIN there. If there was no sin here why should there be any CURSE? The curse causeless shall not come.

A personal imperfection that needs daily to be mourned over and rectified, and its unity with the living communication and infinite perfection of Jesus are perfectly reconcila-

ble. No one ever felt his own imperfection more than Paul or rejoiced more in the perfection he had in Christ and unto which it was his daily aim to grow up. "Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended, or to be already perfect, but this one thing I do, forgetting the things that are behind I press forward toward the mark for the prize of the high calling in Christ Jesus." But if Paul had attained a sinless perfection on earth what need for striving toward it?

Masonry is Satan's masterpiece. It seeks to compel the Christian to abjure Jesus whose righteousness received by faith is made "the righteousness of God" for our salvation. Then it sets up its own teachings as a substitute for the Holy Spirit's and makes the vain sinner call God a liar by making him believe himself to be a man of "sinless perfection," which God says no living man can be; for when in perfect holiness we see God then we can no longer live on earth "for no man can see God and live."

JAMES DONALDSON.

PRESBYTERIAN MANSE, Wardsville, Ontario, Aug., 1877.

A PATRIOTIC SENTIMENT.

Some years since the late Rev. Dr. George Junkin said he had never been connected with any secret orders or societies, and as a lover of his country and of the well-being of the community at large, he could never allow himself to be so connected. When asked his reason for this position, he immediately answered that he based it not upon the express authority of the word of God, however that might be interpreted against them, nor upon any action of the church courts, however wisely that might be intended, but upon the fact that all such organizations had elements and tendencies in them which could not but be dangerous to the best interests of the public. Any particular secret order might profess to be loyal and its members patriotic, yet its principle of secrecy and combination involved in it that at any time might be perverted and made subservient to the most dangerous and terrible purposes. Hence, to this day, Germany does not, and never did, tolerate secret societies. And hence it was that the fathers of our Republic and their allies from abroad gave no encouragement to such organizations, however much they are now sometimes quoted as patronizing them and officiating in them.

There is but too much reason to believe that Dr. Junkin was entirely right in his convictions and his conduct in this matter. And how much this element of secrecy has to do in the awful scenes that have just transpired, in connection with the railroad strikes, will probably never be fully known. To notice but one fact. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers is an entirely secret order. As we first heard of it in Rochester, New York, in 1865, it was professedly, only a benevolent and temperance society, each member paying in a certain monthly due, and on practicing temperance strictly, becoming in case of sickness or death, entitled to very convenient and desirable returns. But afterwards it extended itself, and devel, oped into a kind of trades-union- instituted a number of degrees, and adopted a formal ritual. The first degree was and is confined to switch-tenders and brakesmen, the second to fire-men and baggage-masters, and the third and highest to engineers and conductors. From the dues, which are payable every month, it is now ascertained that the enormous sum of $3,000,000 has accumulated, and it has never been drawn upon, but has been held with express reference, it is now said, to a general strike throughout the United States which has long been contemplated. Such a secret bond of associations, and such a vast amount of money would enable these various orders of railroad men to form combinations which the strongest corporations could scarcely resist, and to continue their unlawful, and often outrageous course for a long period.

Can there be any safety to the country at large when secret orders are thus running through all its concerns? and if they exist in any one form, how can it be otherwise than that that will establish a precedent or become a plea for others? Is not then the only course that can be safely taken that of our United Presbyterian Church and some sister churches, when they lay the ban upon all oath bound secret societies or orders and enjoin on their members to keep utterly and forever aloof from them.—Christian Instructor.

DESTRUCTION OF PROPERTY BY WAR.—War is the grand impoverisher of the world. In estimating its havoc of property, we must enquire not only how much it costs and how much it destroys, but how far it prevents the acquisition of wealth, and a full answer to these three questions would exhibit an amount of waste beyond the power of any imagination adequately to conceive.

The annual productiveness of the United States is probably at least $3,500,000,000. A war of any magnitude would decrease that production one-fifth or $700,000,000. This in addition to the direct cost of the war and the property destroyed.

The waste of property by war is dreadful. The track of an army is worse than the track of a tornado. Before it are fruitful fields, thriving villages and happy homes. Behind it are devasted farms, forsaken dwellings and smouldering ruins. Armies seize not only what is necessary for their own support, but destroy, out of mere wantonness, whatever may be of use to the people whose country they are ravishing. Splendid mirrors and costly pianos are dashed to pieces with the ax, and the brand of fire ignites the comfortable farm house or the costly mansion, and leaves nothing behind but a heap of ashes.

Of all the evils to public liberty, war is perhaps the most to be dreaded because it comprises and develops the genius of every other. War is the parent of armies; from these proceed debts and taxes, and armies and debts and taxes are the known instruments for bringing the many under the dominion of the few.—Madison.

Thou hast made us for thyself, Lord; and our heart is restless, until it resteth in thee.—Augustine.

LETTERS TO KEYSTONE LODGE, No. 7.

THE PREPARATION.

CHICAGO, Sept., 1877.

To the Worshipful Master Wardens and Brethren of Keystone Lodge, No. 639., A. F. and A. Masons.

BRETHREN:—We are now coming to discuss the most important and really the most interesting part of the ceremonies of the "preparation room." The usual constitutional questions having been proposed and satisfactorily answered and the usual fee having been collected," the candidate is then placed in the hands of the Junior Deacon by whom he is "duly and truly prepared to be made a Mason."

I need scarcely remind you of what that preparation consists. You have all felt more or less ashamed at its ridiculous absurdity; nevertheless, for the purpose of making this investigation the more intelligible and thorough, I shall simply remind you that the candidate is deprived of all his clothing, from his necktie to his sock, his shirt only excepted; dressed in a pair of old drawers furnished by the lodge, having his left arm, knee, and breast bare in the first degree, his right arm, right knee, and right breast bare in the second; and both arms, both knees and both breasts bare in the third degree; a stout rope, called a cable tow, once around his neck, in the first, twice around his naked right arm in the second, and three times around his body (some say his naked body) in the third degree, and in either case a hoodwink securely fastened over his eyes. Now the very same candidate, it will be remembered, whom we thus find standing in this miserable plight at the door of your lodge room, declared upon his sacred honor only a few moments previous, that he was joining Freemasonry "from a desire of knowledge and a sincere wish of being serviceable to his fellow creatures." But my friends, is it absolutely necessary that a man should denude himself, in order to obtain useful knowledge? Is this the custom universally practised in all colleges and seminaries where men go to be educated? Or if the candidate has a "sincere wish of being serviceable to his fellow creatures" is it important for all the purposes of benevolence that he should have a hoodwink over his eyes and a stout rope around his neck? Cannot a man learn to be benevolent without dressing himself in the old drawers of a Masonic lodge or can he not practice the divine virtue of charity without the hoodwink and cable tow? Freemasonry pretends to teach "piety, morality, and science." (See Webb's Moniter page 7, Pierson's Traditions, page 14, Sickel's Ahiman Rezon etc.)

Now suppose that our "worthy and well qualified" candidate is an honored minister of long standing in the Methodist church, a learned and distinguished member of the bar, or a professor of mathematics in any one of our celebrated and time-honored universities,—will it add anything to the piety of the former think you, to be divested of all his outward clothing and be led around in an old drawers, or do you imagine that the latter can better perfect himself in some occult sciences by putting a hoodwink over his eyes and a rope around his body? Is there no better way in which a presiding elder can become more pious, or a well educated lawyer more scientific? Are you ready to maintain that a minister or any other man, becomes more moral by becoming a Freemason, or will the minister himself dare to admit that there is anything in any of the so-called Masonic lectures which inculcates morality better than, or even equal to what is taught on this same subject by the Son of God in his sermon on the mount?

Putting the best possible construction on lodge morals, I will say, that if Freemasonry teaches a higher type of morality and piety than is found inculcated in the Word of God, and embodied in the discipline of the Christian church, then indeed Christianity is a failure, and the Bible a gigantic fraud, and if the Masonic minister be an honest, conscientious man he will at once preach this higher type of piety and moral virtue to every man, woman and child of his congregation and to every member of his conference, rather than take a solemn obligation that he will never lisp a single syllable of it to any human being in the known world, "except it be to a true and lawful brother Mason".

But on the other hand, if the so-called morality and piety of the Masonic lodge differ from the morality and piety of the Gospel as many of you know it does—if in fact it be found that the moral code of Masonry is diametrically opposite to the moral law of God as I shall prove it to be, then it is the bounden duty of the minister of the Lord Jesus Christ, who has taken previous solemn vows to preach and stand by the pure Gospel, to abandon at once and forever that spurious pretender known as Freemasonry, and to warn all others from any affiliation with this sinful oath-cemented compound of pagan idolatry and defunct Judaism.

On your so-called altar rests the Holy Bible, disowned and dishonored it is true, but nevertheless so long as I find it there, and so long as you make a parade of exhibiting it, so long must you abide by its divine teaching, or else Freemasonry must stand before an astonished world just as it is a deceitful, hollow hypocrisy. On your next lodge night then open it at St. Paul's second epistle to Timothy, 3d chapter, and from the 14th to the 17th verses inclusive. The apostle giving directions to Timothy says: "But continue thou in the things which thou hast learned, and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them; and that from a child thou hast known the Holy Scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation, through faith which is in Christ Jesus." Show me a man who is wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus, and I'll show you a moral man and a pious man, yes and a charitable man; but show me a man who pretends to have learned his piety, morality and charity from Masonry, decked out in the fantastic habiliments of the lodge, and I'll show you a miserable sham, a hypocrite and fraud. But Paul goes on—"All Scripture is given by inspiration of God and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished, or perfected unto all good works". Without the aid of a cable-tow, or hoodwink, or drawers, or slippers, without any reference whatever to bare knees, and arms and breasts, without creeping on all fours under "a living arch" or having his feet and shins bruised and blistered and blackened going over the "rough and rugged road." Any man can learn doctrine, reproof, correction, instruction in righteousness, be perfect and thoroughly furnished unto all good works from God's Word alone. In the name of honor and honesty then, what need has a minister to be a Freemason. Every Masonic minister is and must of necessity be a hypocrite. He cannot be a truly honest Freemason and a truly loyal ambassador of the Lord Jesus Christ. Would the apostle Paul, think you, dress himself in the buffoon toggery of the preparation room and run around blindfold seeking piety and morality, among such men, for instance, as you have in Keystone Lodge? Then how dare a professing Christian and much more a minister, commit such blasphemy against heaven and bring such dishonor and contumely on the church of God!

Doubtless a doctor of divinity considers himself very learned and very pious and very moral long before he stands in a semi-nude state, haltered and hoodwinked before the door of a Masonic lodge clamorously thumping the panels for admission, and doubtless also his congregation and the community in general look upon him in the same favorable light. Is it to be supposed for a moment then that by occupying the ridiculous and clownish position of a "duly and truly prepared" candidate in a Masonic ante-room he can possibly become any more learned, or moral, or pious?

But it is really immaterial to our present argument how the candidate may view himself, or how favorably he may be regarded in all respects by the rest of the community. Let us examine for a moment the estimate which Freemasonry puts upon him and the supposed condition in which Freemasonry finds him. Let us also bear in mind that our present candidate is a learned, pious, and exemplary minister, of any Christian denomination you please, and then examine into his moral and intellectual qualifications previous to his appearance in the ante-room, and as read and interpreted in the light of the Masonic ritual and in strict accordance with the requirements of Masonic law.

Now, my brethren, open the "Manual of the Lodge," by Past Grand Master Dr. A. G. Mackey, which you will find lying on the Master's pedestal every lodge night, and let us read together on page 20. "There he stands without our portals on the threshold of this new Masonic life in darkness, helplessness and ignorance." And again on page 21 it is represented in the plainest and most emphatic terms that "the chains of error and ignorance which had previously restrained him in moral and intellectual captivity are to be broken." Now let us analyze this a little and see what Freemasonry means and of whom it is speaking. Who stands? Where does he stand? How does he stand? What has been his previous condition morally and intellectually before he came to stand there? He, (the candidate) the doctor of divinity, the minister whom every body looks upon as being a learned, pious and moral man—he stands there "without our portals, in the preparation room, in darkness, helplessness and ignorance," and during his whole life hitherto—during all the years of his ministry—during all the time since that day on which he graduated with such distinguished honor he has been restrained by the chains of error and ignorance in moral and intellectual captivity. No matter who the candidate is—no matter how pious, or how learned, or how moral he may be—no matter how old or how young he may be, no matter how long or how short a time he has been engaged in preaching the Gospel—there he stands at the lodge room door dark, helpless, and ignorant, restrained in chains of error and darkness, morally and intellectually. How do Masons meet? On the level. (See Hand Book page 141.) Yes, the saloon keeper, the pot-house politician, the divorce shyster lawyer, the profane swearer, the gambler, the libertine, and the minister of Jesus Christ all meet "on the same level" on the floor of the Masonic lodge room. And why? Because each and all of them stood without these same portals and entered that same door in darkness, helplessness and ignorance—and they were all equally restrained by the chains of error and ignorance in moral and intellectual captivity. The Methodist, the Baptist, the Congregationalist and the Episcopalian, the presiding elder, the bishop and the deacon, the rumseller, the debauchee, and the blaspheming infidel have all been dressed in the old drawers—they all have had the Masonic halter around their necks and the Masonic hoodwink over their eyes and in the ancient, infallible, unchangeable language of Freemasonry, they have all been restrained by chains of error and ignorance in moral and intellectual captivity and they have all entered the lodge in the same manner and for the same purpose. They all stood at its door in "darkness, helplessness and ignorance." Masonry elevates no man to a higher or a nobler position than that which he previously occupied, but on the contrary it lowers the man of dignity and real moral worth to the position of the depraved, the wicked and the vicious—all alike "meet on the level." Under these circumstances is it at all reasonable to suppose, or compatible with common sense to believe that a Masonic minister can have the slightest influence over his fellow members in the lodge or that he can be in the smallest degree serviceable to his fellow creatures of the Masonic fraternity generally while he is forever, after his initiation, looked upon by these same members only as no better than themselves, and in a great many instances not quite as good?

But we hear the candidate loudly knocking on the lodge-room door; we hear him earnestly asking for something, or rather the Junior Deacon asks for him, because he himself is looked upon as being so helpless and so ignorant that he cannot possibly be expected to know what demand to make or what boon to seek. What then is he seeking for? What great benefit does Freemasonry profess to confer upon him? Look again in the "Manual of the Lodge" page 20, the very next sentence to the one above quoted: "Having been wandering amid the errors and covered over with the pollutions of the outer and profane world he comes inquiringly to our doors seeking the NEW BIRTH." Seeking the new birth, seeking regeneration, seeking the new creation, seeking to be born again. This is what Masonry pretends the candidate needs, and this is what Masonry professes to bestow upon him or causes to be accomplished in him.

We shall leave him here however for the present; we shall detain him a little longer at the preparation room door seeking the new birth; we shall give him a little more time in which to carefully examine all his peculiar surroundings, and we shall, with your kind permission, my brethren, discuss in our next letter the nature of this new birth and the manner of its acquirement through Masonic initiation. In the meantime I am with usual respect,

EDMOND RONAYNE,
Past Master No. 639.

A NEW COMMUNIST ORDER.

THE JUNIOR SONS OF '76.

[Pittsburg (Pa.) Telegraph, Aug, 10.]

The agitation in labor circles during the past three years, and the busy, cunning work of scheming men who seek aggrandizement by exciting the prejudices of the ignorant among the lower classes, has caused the outgrowth of numerous organizations which, while working independently, have the same ultimate object in view, and propose to accomplish this purpose through the same channel, namely, the ballot-box. The recent troubles in this city and elsewhere have given a great impetus to the growth of these organizations, and workingmen by the hundreds are paying their necessary dues and taking the strange oaths which, with their explanatory adjuncts, seem to lend a dignity to the order. When the Ancient Order of United Workmen was first started it had for its prime object the liberation of labor from its bondage to capital, but this order soon lapsed into a mutual assurance society, and has now a vast membership.

The Junior Sons of '76 is the most extensive order among workingmen in this State. It was organized simultaneously in Beaver, Dauphin, and other counties about eighteen months ago. At present all these organizations, except the first-named, are drawn closely together, their rituals are similar, and a coalition is probable. At least they will work together in all movements, political or otherwise, this autumn. An intelligent, sagacious member of at least three of these organizations, informed a Telegraph reporter this morning that the best, most intelligent and industrious workingmen are not active workers in these orders, but that they are captured by the ignorant, prejudiced, hypocritical, scheming and vicious, and must, if not exposed and broken up, create serious trouble.

In view of the fact that these organizations are almost precisely similar in their import and conduct, and have the same object in view, the following secret ritual of the Junior Sons of '76, procured from an authentic source, will serve to show the spirit which pervades the whole:

[When the lodge is ready to initiate candidates the Foreman will instruct the Marshal to report if any are waiting. If there be any person in waiting the Foreman will so inform the Lodge, and request the members present to observe strict decorum during the ceremonies, and then command the Marshal to retire to the ante-room and bring in the strangers.]

[The Marshal will then retire, with the Financial Secretary, to the ante-room, and, after taking the names of candidates and collecting the initiation fee, will address them as follows:]

Marshal—My friend, in joining our order you will not be obliged to give up any of your religious ideas, or conform to any usages that an honest, patriotic workman need be ashamed of. Before proceeding any further, you are asked to take a solemn and binding obligation not to reveal to any person, except a member of our order, anything you may hear or see in the lodge-room, and abide by the rules of the order. Are you content? [If the candidate answers in the negative he is conducted outside of the building. If he answers in the affirmative the Marshal will say:] Then we ask you to take the following obligation: I (repeat name) do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will never communicate what I may hear or see in this or any other lodge of the Junior Sons of '76, unless it be to a brother in good standing in this order, and if I should thus perjure myself, will willingly submit myself to all the pains and penalties prescribed by this order, so help me God!

[The Marshal will then give the alarm at the door and escort the candidate into the lodge-room, and after walking twice around the room, while the ode is being sung, will halt near the center of the room, facing Foreman.]

Foreman—Whom have you here, Brother Marshal?

Marshal—A stranger, who wishes to escape from the servitude and bondage of capitalists and their tools, corrupt politicians, and find a home of freedom, secure from those who rob him of the bread that he earns.

Foreman—Are you certain he is what you represent him to be? May he not be a spy and tool of capitalists and corrupt politicians, the enemies of workingmen and self-government?

Marshal—He is vouched for as a true and honest toiler, a friend of self-government, and wishes to assist his fellow workingmen in reconstructing the Government of this Republic upon the basis established by the Senior Sons of '76, that thereby each toiler can enjoy in peace and prosperity the products of his own labor, and is willing to abide by any rules, penalties, and further obligations.

Foreman — Brothers, shall the stranger be further admitted to our rights, secrets and duties?

[If the response of the lodge is "aye, aye," the Foreman will instruct the Marshal to introduce the candidate to the Assistant Foreman.]

Assistant Foreman—My friend, after having worn the yoke of servitude, fastened upon you by capitalists and their willing tools, the corrupt politicians, you have sought here a shelter from your oppressors and wish to become a brother to those who are endeavoring to release from industrial slavery all honest toilers in the land; share our duties and responsibilities and aid our brotherhood in restoring the principles of self-government to the workingmen of this Republic, and perpetuate forever the free institutions bequeathed to us untarnished by our sires, the Senior Sons of '76. It is well. The slavery under which the workingmen are now so sorely oppressed has been gradually fastened upon them by permitting themselves to be divided into political parties controlled by the capitalists, who are pursuing a determined intention to change our republican form of government and reduce us to still worse slavery, and make wealth the ruler of society instead of intelligence and worth. To preserve our liberties and become freemen there is but one remedy left us. That remedy is to forever discard all past political, partisan, and religious prejudices, and unite all true workingmen in this Republic into one organization, and at the proper time, by the legitimate use of the ballot or otherwise, hurl our oppressors from all power. You will be expected, after becoming a member of this Order, to uphold it and your brother members, through good and evil report, and to be ready at any time, when legally called upon, to defend the cause of labor and self-government at a moment's notice, for the workingmen of this Republ have determinedly resolved to be no longer trifled with by their oppressors. Keep on, then, in the cause you have espoused, and freedom and prosperity await you and your posterity. Betray us, and although you are surrounded by capitalists and their tools, we will hurl at you a curse so powerful that it will consign you to eternal infamy and slavery. Brother Marshal, introduce our friend to our worthy Foreman.

Foreman—My friend, it now becomes my duty to instruct you in our secret work. Before doing so I will have to request you to take the following obligation:

I (repeat name) do most solemly swear (or affirm) that I will never reveal any of the secrets of this Order, its passwords, signs, grips, or transactions to any person not a member in good satnding in this Order, as long as life lasteth; I will not reveal, or cause to be revealed, the name of any brother of this Order to any person not a member of it without his consent. I will not forsake a brother in distress, and will relieve him from danger and aid him in seeking employment; nor will I wrong a brother of this Order, or see him wronged, if I can prevent it. I will remain true to the principles of self-government, and at all times and under all circumstances defend the liberties of the people, and aid in promoting the welfare of the working classes. I also promise obedience to the constitution of this Order and the rules and regulations made in accordance therewith. I hereby renounce all former political party allegiance as long as I remain a member of this Order. This obligation I voluntarily take, without any reservation, mental or otherwise. So help me God.

[The Foreman will now proceed to instruct in secret work, after which the new member will sign the constitution, during which the lodge will sing an ode; when finished, the Marshal will introduce the new member to all brothers present.]

We, the undersigned members of the National Executive Committee, Junior Sons of '76, to whom the last National Convention referred the revising of our ritual, etc., do hereby certify that we have attended to that duty, and that the foregoing is the result of our labor, and is approved, and will continue the only authorized ritual of our Order until the National Convention orders otherwise.

B. L. Batcheler, Massachusetts.
Charles Alcott, Philadelphia.
James Thompson, Delaware.
W. M. Fortenpaugh, Pennsly'ia.
J. W. Zeigler, Illinois.
A. J. Larnord, Michigan.
A. Sternberg, Pennsylvania.
D. S. Dunham, Hartford, Conn.

—Rev. D. J. McDermott, a Catholic priest, has written the following in regard to the secret orders and the sordid motives into which they educate those who fall victims of their ensnaring power:

"What motive induces men to join them? Is it not to attain an object which neither their uprightness, their intelligence, their industry nor fitness for position can attain without these societies? A man is forced to join these societies if he wants to succeed in the world, is the excuse of many. Do not, then, these societies unjustly discriminate and outlaw men who do not belong to them? do they not make membership the first, if not the only qualification for success?

"These societies are then in favor of the idle, the improvident, the unskilful—of all those who hope to succeed in this world without personal merit. They are a conspiracy against men of industry, skill and genius—a conspiracy against the souls of men, against the family, against our neighbor, against our country, against religion, against Christ."

Exposition Tract Fund.

The National Christian Association have a large and prominent stand at the Chicago Exposition building at the north end of the gallery, where many thousands of tracts can be distributed to the throng of visitors there, many of whom will learn for the first time of this great reform. Let every friend who visits the Exposition be sure to call at the stand of the N. C. A. A sign six feet wide and twenty feet long makes the stand easy to find. Ezra A. Cook & Co. furnish the tracts at half price so one hundred dollars will pay for two hundred thousand pages of tracts. It is thought that fully that number of pages will be needed to supply the demand. They will be given out carefully. All contributions will be acknowledged in the Cynosure weekly. Send all contributions to this fund to

Ezra A. Cook & Co.

Reform News.

—The General Agent went to Iowa last Friday to begin a series of meetings in Marshall county. Past Master Ronayne after an exposition of the second degree last Tuesday in the Carpenter building goes to Marshalltown, Iowa, the last of this week, to conduct a series of expositions beginning Monday evening. Rev. H. H. Hinman is yet in southwestern Iowa. Rev. D. P. Rathbun returns soon to his work in Michigan from a brief rest with his family at Bath, N. Y.

D. P. Rathbun and the Lyndon Church, Mich.

Bath, N. Y., Aug. 24, 1877.

Editor Christian Cynosure: In your issue of July 19th, Mr. John Ellison accuses me of misrepresenting the Free Methodist church of Lyndon, Mich. The truth is I considered it a very unfortunate move on the part of the Lyndon church and have never said anything about it only when questions have been asked by others. The writer says: "If I am not mistaken he reflected severely on them as a church; also upon the Michigan Conference and the entire denomination, saying he had as much difficulty in getting into the Free Methodist churches to lecture as he had in the M. E. church, but I am confident that no proper lecturer has ever been refused the privilege of lecturing in our churches when they are not occupied." I would say to the dear brother that he is certainly mistaken, for I have been refused more than once the privilege of lecturing in Free Methodist churches when unoccupied; and if he is determined to know when and where, I will tell him if he requests it. In regard to my persecuting the Free Methodist there is a mistake. I have found tried and true friends in that church and had hoped to find all so. But perhaps they will draw the inference from Bro. Ellison's article that I am not a proper person to lecture and will therefore refuse to co-operate with me in the work.

Bro. Ellison also says, "I think he also stated in substance that at one of our annual Conferences held at Coopersville two years ago last fall, that it was with much difficulty that he obtained the privilege of lecturing in the church." This is also a mistake; the lecture was all arranged by Bro. Ross before I came to Coopersville. I have said and say yet, that I was dissatisfied with my effort at that place, and was embarrassed by Bro. Hart's limiting me in my time. As I was about to enter the pulpit he requested me not occupy over one hour, as there was some Conference business to attend to after the lecture; I however laid no blame to Bro. Hart. I do hope that Bro. Ellison will consult me in future before he takes up flying reports and publishes them as facts.

All I have to say is this, that the Anti-secret Association of Michigan needs the co-operation of the Free Methodists in that State, and it seems that some of them do not consider me a proper person for State lecturer, and I am perfectly willing that some one who could be more efficient than myself should take my place. Bro. Matthews of Jackson and Bro. Springstien of Saranac have stood by me nobly, and are men whom I love to meet and work with, for there is no catering to human policy by them. I have found some very warm friends also among the brethren of that church; and yet in very many instances I am met very coldly, and they do not seem to wish to be found in my company. The good Lord has blessed me much in my work. I have worked hard and prayed much that God might use me as eye-salve to the blind. I have spoken to crowded houses and often had the evidence that my lectures gave good satisfaction. One evidence is that I have raised my salary for the six months that I have been in the work and the Association is not indebted to me to the value of one cent up to this time. I expect soon to return to Michigan and fill out my year, the Lord permitting me to do so. If the Free Methodist brethren are dissatisfied with me as a lecturer I hope they will be largely represented at our next annual meeting, which is their duty if they are true reformers and elect some one to the office of Agent and Lecturer that they will be willing to co-operate with, and not stay at home, and then find fault with the State Agent and Lecturer. Yours for true reform,

D. P. Rathbun.

Correspondence.

Benevolence not up to the Test.

"In visiting the sick family of the late Mr. Curtis J. Emory of this place on Tuesday evening, June 12th inst., I was very much pleased to find that the officers of the A. O. U. W. had just presented Mrs. Emory with a check for $2,000 from the treasury of the order, this being the first death since the formation of their society in Cherry Creek. The certainty and promptness with which they have redeemed their pledge has established the character and true benevolence of the institution far more than years of simple precept could have done. As a co-operative institution for working-men I must say, after thirty years' experience in benevolent societies in the Old and New Worlds, I know of no better society for the honest working-man to secure a legacy for his bereaved one when death calls him away. I noticed with great attention the Ritual of the order while at the grave. There is no assumption or claim that by being a member of their society, merely secures to them eternal salvation, apart from the atonement of Christ. As many of our best Christains and citizens have asked me the question. Do you see anything objectionable? My answer is No. It is the request of the family, through your paper to thank the order for their kindness to Mrs. Emory during her sickness, and sympathy in her debilitated state, and for the faithful discharge of their pledge, for all of which the family will ever remember with thankfulness and gratitude, the A. O. U. W. Robt. Martin.

Pastor of the Baptist Church, Cherry Creek N. Y."

Ellington, N. Y., Aug. 10, 1877.

Robert Martin—Dear Sir: Permit an entire stranger to answer your letter published in the Democrat of this week. Had I not learned that you was an Anti-mason, by the mouth of brother Ferren of our village, your letter would not have provoked this from me. It appears you have come to the conclusion this secret order by paying over to Widow Emory so promptly has established the fact of its true benevolence.

There is no secret order but what makes the same claim of benevolence as you do, for this last sprout of the old stump Masonry; but their making such a claim for it does not prove it to be so. Just as well might life insurance companies, if they paid promptly make the same claim; and all other insurance companies are about on the same principle. Vendors of lottery tickets, if they paid promptly, might about as well claim for it a kind of benevolence. I am very glad that Baptist ministers do not all agree with you. One living in Chenango Co. said to me that the secret societies were "an unmitigated curse."

We rejoice furthermore that there are several denominations of Christians that are consistent as it respects this matter, and will hold "no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them," "For it is a shame even to speak of those things done by them in secret."

Secret societies are either a curse or a blessing to our country, and it is our duty to ascertain which, and therefore if we find by investigation that it is an "unmitigated curse" we are in duty bound as Christians to give it no hiding place or shelter in the church of Christ, and therefore we conclude by their admission of the lodge into it it has become as corrupt as Satan could make it; and because of this she has gotten to be powerless.

It has been fully ascertained that the railroad strike, the cause of the death of hundreds of lives and the loss of millions of property was brought about by a secret organization called the "Trainmen's Union." I never have heard as yet of a secret order but was gotten up for the purpose of strengthening or building up Freemasonry, and the motive power always supreme selfishness. "The love of money is truly the root of all evil."

You say after thirty years' experience in bene olent societies in the Old and New Worlds, you know of no better. In this statement you betray a lack of knowledge, or else you intend to blacken the character not only of your own church but all others during the thirty years. Now if your church was good for any thing and worthy of the name, they, the church, should at once commence labor for libel and slander. You could be very easily proved guilty and, unless you repented as it were, "in dust and ashes," excommunicate you, and then to secure this legacy as you call it for the "bereaved ones," you can just join this better society of the "honest working men." I for one would like to see one honest working man who belonged to it. Since Ronayne's exposition in this place of Masonry, the reputed mother of secret abominations, the Masons in their desperation sent off for help to start this true-blue benevolent society, with headquarters in a tobacco-smoked hotel.

I find in their testimony they are not a unit, and are divided in reference to the claim of benevolence. One admitted to me to-day it was nothing more than a "mutual insurance company." This thing stripped of its Masonry would be quite objectionable in many respects. This man-trap baited with the snug little sum of $2,000 is a little more than some wives could endure. I mean those who are somewhat dissatisfied with their husbands and desire a change; and suppose she urges him to join this paragon of excellence, and he fianlly goes to it and in a few short weeks he dies—a natural death or by being his own executioner, or by the hand of his unprincipled wife or her paramour.

Farther on you say, "I noticed with great attention the ritual of the order at the grave." The grave is truly a solemn place to look into, whether rites and ceremonies performed over it are pagan or Christian. I think it was at the least, something more than a common Christian burial, from the fact that you noticed it with such attention.

Now whether you come to the conclusion that it is all straight work, because they lay no claim to no eternal salvation by merely being a member, or some other things connected with their foolery, we are left to our own conjecture, "nothing objectionable;" thus endorsing in a lump the whole of their transactions, good, bad and indifferent. As to its being a saving ordinance, I have been informed they too have a grand lodge above, as well as the Masons. At any rate there are Masons enough mixed in to fix one out, if they have to partition off a portion of their own, an arrangement will likely be made. I believe this last upstart of such rapid growth, so full of good and benevolence, has just as good a right to claim a "house not made with hands eternal in the heavens," as an Entered Apprentice Mason, when death shall overtake them.

J. B. Nessell.

Iowa Politics.

The political cauldron is again boiling in Iowa, and if every other county is as Anti-masonic as Bremer, there is no good reason why the State may not be carried by the Anti's.

We have just gone through with a Republican caucus in Sumner township which, heretofore has been considered as sure to go for any Masonic candidate that might be run, if the Masonic element were united in his support, and this time they boasted that Sumner would go more so than ever. As the time drew near, the craft might have been seen plying every means in their power to get proselytes and sent a number of their emissaries into the county to work up the cause, and with all the energy they were capable of using Democratic timber when necessary and frequently going to the saloon with their victims, they succeeded in gaining a victory of 8 votes majority! Had those who favored the candidate who represented the anti-secret party worked as hard, there would have been no such a majority to report. Why is our State not organized? Must we vote for Gear, the Mason of thirty years, or not vote at all? I think during this little struggle the majority of our thinking men have seen that Masonry does have something to do with politics.

Iowans, we must cut loose from the Republican party and form a party which is expressedly Anti masonic. Masons here said that if it were made an issue at this election they would have to support the Masonic candidate, but if not they would work for the other. I told men that they would go for the Masonic any way, and they did at the last moment just as they intended in the start. We must have men that are not afraid to sail under their right colors. P. Woodbury.

The Legal Fraternity.

Rose Creek City, Neb.

Editor Christian Cynosure:—Surely there is wisdom in asking the following questions:

1st. Can there not be a great improvement made upon the present system of administering the civil law of our country?

2nd. Do not very many things of vital importance to society tend to show that the attorney-at-law system is full to overflowing with foul corruption, with great and crying evils?

3rd. Do not they, the attorneys, selfish, dishonest and arrogant, try to keep the law in their own hands, often influencing the juries with their wordy arguments only to benefit themselves, to the great injury of unfortunate individuals, very often much more unfortunate than blamable for lawsuits which are gotten up by them, the lawyers, against the welfare of clients?

4th. Can there be no cheaper, wiser, better and juster way devised to settle little fallings out and selfish quarrels between the thoughtless ones of society than the present existing corrupt system of lawing?

5th. Could arbitration not be made compulsory and binding in the place of it to answer the purposes of equity in a much more praiseworthy and honorable manner? We think all good and wise men will unhesitatingly agree with us and with unfaltering voice answer yea, that there can and ought to be.

Any more facts and arguments to answer the above question or refute would oblige yours respectfully,

Joseph Hodgson.

Pennsylvania Lutherans.

York, Pa., Aug. 27, 1877.

Editor Cynosure: I here give a few facts in regard to the Lutherans of this place. There are five congregations in and near the town. One of these is a German congregation connected with a synod in Missouri. The pastor says he is opposed to secret societies and that only one Freemason has been admitted by them. The other four congregations are well supplied with Masons and other lodge Jesuits. I have been informed, however, by a member, that one of the pastors has preached against secretism. Another pastor says he is not a Mason, but I have no evidence that he is opposed to the Jesuitical humbuggery of the secretists.

The Lutherans had a weekly religious paper here, called the American Lutheran, but it has gone, perhaps to the Grand Lodge below; for its publisher was a Royal Arch Mason and its editor used to show me his Jesuitical contempt by pretending to hold his nose to keep from getting even one good smell of anti-secret sentiments. I suppose he learned such refined performances when he found Hiram Abiff's dead body.

I have scattered a great many anti-secret documents among the Lutherans and I am very much astonished that they do not take more interest in the great anti-secret or anti-Jesuitical reform. There can be no doubt that Jesuitism (with a lambskin apron on, as an emblem of innocence) has a powerful grip on the throat of this old Protestant denomination. They need another bold and fearless Martin Luther, to save them from the same old Roman Catholic tomfoolery which gave their ancestors so much trouble in the times of the Reformation.

Yours truly,

E. J. CHALFANT.

VAIN THREATS.

CROMWELL, Iowa, Aug. 11, 1877.

EDITOR CYNOSURE: Sometime since while defining my position on the secrecy question and Masonry in particular, a Mason said if he believed as I did he would publish the whole thing. "What," I said, "would you go into the street and tell it?" "Yes, I would." So I thought I would begin with my adviser first, with no other Mason present, and repeat about one-third of the obligation, to see if he would stand by his advice and not go back on his word as they say I have done.

It would be well enough for some of the Masons to learn what charity consists in, by looking into the book they swear upon. Therefore I would refer them to 1 Cor. 13:1st to 8th verses.

What a deluded set of men! They be blind leaders of the blind and all shall fall into the ditch. I define my position on the secrecy question by saying that I believe that Masonry is anti-Christ and that it is my privilege and my duty to oppose all secret oath-bound societies.

The following letter shows the kind of charity the Masonic brethren extend to an erring brother. Yours for the religion of Christ,

A. J. SMITH.

CROMWELL July 20 1877

MR SMITH Sir let me give you a little advice in regard to Masonry in the future we nevery want to here you repeat the oblogasun in the town of Cromwell or any thin concerning Masonry if you do it may be bad for you I only write you theas few lines to geive you some advice Pleas take it and keep your mouth shet Yours Truly

CREMEWELL.

OUR MAIL.

Prof. Jasper Starr, Plenitude, Anderson county, Texas, writes:

"A short time since you kindly sent me some samples of your paper with which I was well pleased. * * Its feature against the wicked selfishness of secret societies meets my hearty approval; and if this government fills its original design, your position must prove a successful reformation."

T. J. Muzzy, Wilton Center, Ill., writes:

"I am glad the conductors of the Cynosure make it so good."

L. B. Lathrop, Hollister, Cal, sends for two copies of Finney's book for two clergymen, he writes:

"—— —— is a young minister. He has taken seven degrees in Masonry. He is an Odd-fellow and a Good Templar. During my stay at the coast I made him sick of Masonry or I misjudge. At any rate he advanced to me the morey for Finney's Lectures. The other clergyman is a strong man of mature age and has a large church of 130 members. He has never joined any secret order, and has consented to read. I gave him some tracts and sermons and promised him Finney's Lectures. * I expect Bro. Cogswell here before long."

Earnest private work with individuals thins the enemy's ranks. Let us be diligent now. We have no promise of the future.

James Knox, Hebron, Thayer county, Neb, writes:

"One of the Masons told me that the tracts that I have been circulating had been the means of making a great many young men apply for initiation. My reply was: 'If I am helping your cause are you willing to help me send for some more tracts?' He did not choose to help. The fact is the tracts are working materially against the increase of lodge members."

John R. Wellington, Reeds Station, Delaware county, Ind., writes:

"Mr. Holt of Rush county, and Mr. Aucket of this county had a discussion upon the subject of secrecy on the 25th day of July. It was to have continued four days but on account of sickness they only put in two days and the next two days will be the third and fourth of October. * * It is a very hot place of Masons here. * * I will try to get some subscribers for the Cynosure."

Your inquiry about Mr. Ronayne has been given to him and he will doubtless answer you. Let us have a report of the discussion when it is over.

Linus Chittenden, Crystal Lake, Ill., writes:

"I am quite feeble in health. Mr. Ronoyne is expected in this county soon."

Home and Farm.

TO PROPAGATE ROSE SLIPS.

1. There are several methods of propagating rose-cuttings, but one of the simplest is to stick them in a saucer of sand. The wood to be used must be of the present season's growth, and the kind is not the strong rank growth; the small shoots are preferable. These should be cut into lengths of about four inches (the exact size is immaterial), having three or four eyes or dormant buds. There should be an eye at the bottom of the cutting, as it is at that point the roots are emitted, and not between the eyes. Procure some clean brown sand, such as is used by builders, put it in a saucer, wet it thoroughly, so that it shall be in the condition of mud, then place the cuttings in side by side, having previously cut off their leaves. Place the saucer in the sun, and mind that it must have water several times daily, when the sun is hot. The cutting will form what is called a "callous" at the bottom, from which the roots are emitted. Three or four weeks are generally necessary to get the cuttings well rooted, after which they may be carefully pulled from the soft sand (and be sure that it is soft, as the roots are very brittle), putting them in small pots of light, rich soil, and keeping them in a sunny place. Never let them suffer from want of moisture. If the pots can be sunk in the ground, so much the better. When the pot is filled with roots the young plants should be shifted to a pot a size larger. All varieties of roses do not root with equal readiness—the tea or ever-blooming roses being the easiest, and the mosses the most difficult. Rose cuttings may be struck at any time of the year and in any place, if the wood is young. They may be struck in a tumbler of sand, washing the sand carefully out in a basin when the roots appear. The "saucer system" of striking rose cuttings is applicable to cuttings of many plants which I have failed with by the ordinary methods. I would advise those who attempt it not to be impatient, and above all, not to forget that the hot sun soon causes the water in the saucer to evaporate.

MIND AND HEALTH.—The Science of Health says on this subject: "The mental condition has more influence upon the bodily health than is generally supposed. It is no doubt true that ailments of the body cause a depressing and morbid condition of the mind; but it is no less true that sorrowful and disagreeable emotions produce disease in persons who, uninfluenced by them, would be in sound health—or if disease is not produced, the functions are disordered. Not even physicians always consider the importance of this fact. Agreeable emotions set in motion nervous currents, which stimulate the blood, brain and every part of the system into healthful activity; while grief, disappointment of feeling, and brooding over present sorrows and past mistakes, depress all the vital forces. To be physically well one must, in general, be happy. The reverse is not always true; one may be happy and cheerful, and yet be a constant sufferer in body.

HOW TO PLACE THE BED.

Baron Reichenbach, who has devoted many years to the art of bed-making, maintains that you must not always lie on your bed as it is made, under penalty of abridging your life by a great number of years. If, says the Baron, a mere magnet exercises and influence on sensitive persons, the earth's magnetism must certainly make itself felt on the nervous life of man. Hence he insists on the salutary effects of the inhabitants of the Northern hemisphere lying with their heads to the north, and those of the Southern with their heads to the south. For travelers with short memories we may put the rule in general terms: In whatever hemisphere you may be, always sleep with your feet to the equator, and let your body lie "true as a needle to the pole." In giving this rule the Baron has simply told us how to live a hundred years; for the polar direction of the body is, it appears, of the utmost importance for the proper circulation of the blood, and we have Baron Reichenbach's authority for stating that many disturbances in the human organism have been cured by simply placing the bolster at a different point of the compass from that it had occupied before. Let such as have hitherto been in the habit of sleeping with their heads where their feet ought to be, take to heart the example of the late Dr. Fischweiter, Magdeburg, who died recently at the age of 109 years, and always attributed his long life to his faithful observance of the pole to pole position of sleeping. The most unhealthy position, we are told, is when the body lies due east and west. Some observers assure us that to sleep in such a posture is tantamount to committing slow suicide, and that diseases are often aggravated by deviations from the polar posture.

TOMATO SOUP.—Take six large tomatoes, boil in one pint of water until done; then take them off the stove and stir in one teaspoon of salaratus. Then add one quart of milk, and season with plenty of butter, pepper and salt. Let all come to a boil, when it is ready for use. We think it next thing to oyster soup. Try it.

GREASE UPON FLOORS.—An Iowa lady writes that grease can be readily drawn from an unpainted kitchen floor by putting plenty of soft soap on the grease spots and rubbing a hot flat iron through the soap. One application generally suffices; sometimes another is required, washing thoroughly afterwards.

BRAIN-WORKERS.—People who work only with their brains need more food than those who work only with their hands. Mental labor causes a greater waste of tissue than muscular toil. According to a careful estimate, three hours' hard study wears out the body more than a whole day of work at the anvil or on the farm. As the Germans say, "Without phosphorus, no thought." The consumption of that essential ingredient of the brain increases in proportion to the amount of labor required of the organ of thought. A calculation of the wear of the brain is made by an examination of the salts in the liquid secretions. In order to sustain the action of the brain, one-fifth of the blood is sent to it, though its average weight is only one-fortieth of the whole body. This fact alone goes to show that brain-workers—students and literary men—should have more and better food than mechanics and farm laborers.

HEATED BLOOD.—There are some precautions to be observed in working out of doors at this season, which may add much to comfort and preserve health, or save life. The most important is to avoid drinking cold water when heated. We have worked a whole day without drinking except at the regular resting spells, and know that it can be done by any one who will resist the desire to swallow copious draughts of water. The fluid dilutes the blood, weakens the system, greatly increases perspiration and in its turn excites thirst. To pour some cold water upon the wrists, and to bathe the temples, will reduce the temperature of the body very rapidly. As a protection to the head we wear a white handkerchief fastened to the hat behind, so as to fall loosely over the back of the neck. If one must drink, a small quantity of oat meal stirred in the water, will be wholesome and nutritious. The laws of health require careful observation. Decomposition is very active during hot weather, and all filth and refuse, of whatever kind, should be removed to the compost heap and well covered with earth. Sinks, cellars, drains, cesspools, and all such places, may be cheaply disinfected by pouring into them or sprinkling about them, a pailful of water in which a pound of copperas (sulphate of iron) has been dissolved. A quantity of ground plaster mixed with offensive liquid matter, or sprinkled about stable drains, or other bad smelling moist places, will be very serviceable.—Agriculturist.

The Christian Cynosure.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, SEPT. 6, 1877.

On to Dayton.

I said to a brother a few days ago, "If I could find any warrant in the Bible for a Christian's being discouraged I should be strongly tempted to feel disheartened." His prompt reply was, "you have no such warrant;" and I thought if with his incessant toil and constant reference to God's book he had failed to find it, there was no use in my looking.

But to-day appearances have changed in some respects, particularly in regard to work for our speakers along the lines to the National Anniversary. I have felt exceedingly desirous that a decisive forward movement should be made this year in connection with the Dayton meeting; and I felt that did our friends but appreciate the importance of the occasion they would not be slow to act. Some are begining to do so, and there are doubtless "more to follow" soon. Friends cannot fail to understand that by sending in their applications in time arrangements can be made to give them the services of first-class speakers at greatly reduced expenses and several have availed themselves of this favorable opportunity. One brother writes: "I will make appointments and give $10; others will give something." Another says: "We were locked out of every hall and church in the place, but thank God, we now have one of our own. Our hearts are warm and our hands are open. Come yourself or send us a first-class lecturer and we will do our share." Another says, "Put me down $5 and a donation to the Publishing House." Still another says, "$5 and what more we can raise." One more writes, "Send me a note for the Publishing House for one hundred dollars at ten per cent. and I will sign and return it."

Such words as these, dear brethren, put strength into our cause and heart into our lecturers, and should they prove as I trust they will, the harbingers of "more to follow," we may expect to see the light shining through a broad rent in the dark veil of secretism, which it will not be easy for our opponents to close up as they did after the Morgan murder. Our fathers fought nobly and made a wide breach in the enemy's wall and had they filled up the gap with some provision for "keeping the facts before the people," the dark orders would not have cast their gloomy shadows over our fair land as they do to-day. It is for us to profit by their mistakes as well as to draw inspiration from their heroic example.

But the thing to be done now is to send in your requests for lecturers right away. I want a line from the Canadas to Dayton for Bro. Barlow, who needs no introduction or word of commendation to the readers of the Cynosure. I cannot speak of all, but give me the points right away so that I can systematize the work, and in due time as noble a band of large large-hearted, earnest Christians as can be found anywhere will move on the lines of earth-works lying between their points of outset and Dayton. Not in palace cars with sword and banners like the "Sir Knights" who rob the people that they may feast and fatten upon the spoils, but in the humble Christian garb of honest toilers attended by a convoy of those unseen ones who encamp around about those that fear the Lord. They will visit your towns and hamlets and the far-famed and beautiful city of Dayton, not turn your nights into banquetings, dancing and mimic pageantry, and leave your children to suffer years under the demoralizing curse they leave behind when they depart; but they will come with songs of Zion, with fervent prayer, with earnest, truthful words; and departing will leave behind lasting inspirations which shall impell both you and your children after you to called them blessed. I am sure, brethren, you will see the importance of letting your wants be known at once.

I find my time taken up very closely with office and other work and I am writing this at the Chicago "Exposition" when perhaps I ought to be answering letters. Our hands have been full for the past few days preparing to have our cause fitly represented at this "Inter-State" gathering. Bro. Rufus Stratton is arranging his books and tracts at my left while I write. Over my head hangs a sign six by eighteen with the inscription, "Books, Tracts and the Christian Cynosure opposed to secret societies," Another will soon be in position: "The National Christian Association; incorporated 1874, to employ the Press and the living agency against the secret orders." I shall leave others more gifted in that line to speak of the portraits of distinguished Anti-masons, etc., that adorn our "niche" in this great building and simply add that when the Exposition opens formally at 6 P. M. to day, it will find the Anti-masonic flag at masthead, and men at their posts ready to grapple with any "sabered Knight" or "Puissant Sovereign" who may feel his ire stirred by the public display of that cratt by which he has his wealth or for any other cause wishes to try the mettle of men who know and dare defend their rights.

If you want lectures don't delay to make your wants known and economize your time and money and that of the lecturers also and oblige,

Yours truly, J. P. STODDARD.

CHICAGO, August 29.

The Knight Templars.

All last week the streets of Cleveland resounded with the tramp of reputed American citizens dressed in costly and fantastic trappings and bearing arms. It is said they were not gathered to celebrate their clothes, or for the pleasure of staring school boys, or to show how they could capture the nation by their skill in arms, nor anything else but to hold the triennial conclave of Knights Templar. For this purpose all Cleveland was turned into a hostelry, the railroads were conscripted, and the Sabbath desecrated all over the northwest to get ready for the grand display. These gentlemen say they are the legitimate representatives of an ancient order of Knights that flourished in the Dark Ages and was wiped out by the Pope and Philip of France in the 14th century. But as the Freemasons were descended from Adam, Enoch and Solomon through the stone layers and mortar makers of no one knows when, this order is said to be perpetuated in the butchers and bakers of now-a-days, especially when they get into good black clothes, under a big military hat and ostrich feathers, behind brilliant sashes and silver-washed buckles, with a sword and scabbard swanking around their unsophisticated and peaceful legs.

These "Knight Templars" are set down as the eleventh degree of the American Masonic rite, Thomas Smith Webb, inventor. A man can get into the order by swearing innumerable oaths, passing through the Blue lodge and Chapter Masonry, drinking some wine out of a human skull, putting the punishment for another man's sins into his bond for obedience to the order, and swearing to draw his sword in defence of the Christian religion and of widows, though he may hate that religion more than anything else on the face of the earth. These are the persons who were at Cleveland last week.

They spent the time there in dancing and banqueting, parading the streets with bands of music about every hundred feet of the line, performing military evolutions, congratulating each other on their good clothes and the popular impression of their numbers, electing officers and some other supernumerary matters. Apollo Commandery from Chicago, led by Norman T. Gassette, a prominent man in Baptist interests here aided by Deacon T. T. Gurney of the Congregational church, took the lead in all this parade and frivolity. Dr. V. L. Hurlburt of Chicago was made Grand Master. The most important item of business to be noted was a resolution that the order should no longer be called "Masons" but "Templars," which is a high-toned cut of all their hard-handed acquaintance of the lower degrees, and means simply a proclamation of aristocracy by virtue of title as well as of many oaths and lavish expenditures. It is a question these gentlemen may be compelled to answer at some day why they bear arms and drill as military yet as organizations have no submission to government. The Constitution allows our citizens to bear arms for service as military, obedient to the call of the State. What are these thousands of Knights getting ready for with all their oaths to defend the Christian religion?

Will Mormonism Collapse?

The death of Brigham Young last Thursday brings this question upon every lip. Ever since he succeeded by artifice in reaching the head of the Mormon church he has shown great ability without scruple as to the means employed to gain his ends, and by force of a superior will has so far held together the Mormons as a community. By leading them into the wilds of Utah his designs were made successful because of the isolation of the people. The railroad brought in a discordant Gentile element, which has become powerful enough to secure the moderate enforcement of national law, even to the execution of the Mormon Bishop Lee and the arrest of Young himself at the order of court.

But will the civil power or internal dissension destroy Mormonism? It is illegal by act of Congress, yet it is as strong to-day as ten years ago. All the various plans for suppressing polygamy have failed. Young's two sons have no ability to succeed to his arbitrary rule and the "twelve apostles" will fall into a quarrel before as many months have passed. Yet not by these means will the system be suppressed. It is a false religion like the lodge, and like a polyp or the hydra of Hercules, dismemberment is multiplication. The central system may split up, but Mormonism will be practiced and the stench of its abominations rise from the valleys of Utah until He, the brightness of whose coming shall destroy all these works, shall appear.

—Past Master Ronayne has received a stirring invitation to visit Marengo, Ill., again during the latter part of the present month to work the three degrees. Two of the gentlemen who took part in the public initiation a while since, Messrs. Sheldon and Frisbie, have been summoned before their lodge for the offense OF VISITING A CLANDESTINE LODGE—said clandestine being Ronayne's public exposition. They did not go, but propose instead to put up a tabernacle capable of holding two thousand people for the purpose of inducting the whole community at once into the shams of Masonry. It is a very interesting fact that Mr. Sheldon was led to renounce the lodge from reading Bro. Ronayne's "Letters to Keystone Lodge," in these columns.

This will be introduction enough for the very excellent one of the series in this number.

—A correspondent of the Free Methodist thinks brother Hinman's letter, telling of the refusal of the church officers in Aurora and Elgin to admit his lectures, of the nature of an attack by the Cynosure upon that body of Christians. The idea is a mistaken one if not worse. Suppose that it had been the Presbyterian, Baptist or Congregational church instead of the Free Methodist. Bro. Hinman criticized the worldly spirit which he believed to be lurking among a pious people, and which stood up to prevent the Satanic system of Freemasonry from being hit. How much more rational and Christ-like is the suggestion of Bro. Vorheis in his letter on another page that this matter be examined by the Aurora and Elgin churches, and the evil put away!

—Bro. Donaldson in his letter on Christian holiness misunderstands Bro. Hinman's position, if we read both correctly. In every important particular they are agreed. There are other articles on this great theme which will duly appear. There should be more written upon it, but far more study of the Word respecting it and daily practice of it in the life is needed. While asking for articles it must not be understood that a promise is made to print them all especially if they are personal or controversial.

—We have just received notice of the death of Hon. Seth M. Gates of Warsaw, New York, on Friday, August 24th. Thus has passed to rest another of the "old guard," who stood pre-eminent even in that company. As the notice before us makes no mention of an important portion of Mr. Gates' career, viz., his abandoning the lodge and subsequent efforts for its suppression, further notice will be postponed until next week when we hope to present his character as a reformer in its full and true light.

—Rev. B. T. Roberts of the Earnest Christian, and one of the Superintendents of the Free Methodist church, called for a few moments on us last week, while on his way to the Kansas Conference. Bro. Roberts is not in favor of stagnation on the Masonic question. A few queries and inferences regarding the Knight Templars in the Rochester papers caused a terrible swelling under the belts and buckles of that order.

—The convention to be held in Marshalltown, Iowa, immediately succeeding the expositions (see notice) is a meeting of great importance to Iowa. Let the State be well represented and the measures adopted carried through successfully.

—Mrs. Swisshelm proposes a new secret fraternity—a "United Brotherhood of Potato-growers," who shall combine to keep the price of potatoes at $1.50. Her argument for the organization and detail of its management form a curious satire on the "brotherhoods" and "unions," the development of whose secret plots have so lately convulsed the nation.

N. C. A. Receipts for Aug., 1877.

PUBLISHING HOUSE FUND:

E. Kent, Wethersfield, Ill.	$10 00
Ansel Lake, Grey Willow, Ill.	10 00
Rev. J. W. Lewis, New Bedford, Ill.	1 00

ILLINOIS FUND.

Mrs. S. B. Allen, Morrison	4 00
Ansel Lake, Grey Willow	5 00
Rent	107 16

INTEREST:

J. J. Hayden, note No. 47	5 00
Abram Falconer, " " 17	3 00
J. A. Morehous, " " 39	3 00
H. W. Clark, " " 162	60
Total	$148 76

H. L. Kellogg, Treas.

Religious Intelligence.

—The American Missionary Association meets this year in Syracuse, N. Y., October 23d to 25th.

—Rev. Daniel Shuck, long and favorably known for his connection with the Hartsville University, Ind., has gone to California where he will engage in home missionary work for the United Brethren church.

—Rev. Wm. S. Fulton is now supplying the pulpit of the United Presbyterian church in this city lately occupied by Rev. J. W. Bain. The United Presbyterian is good authority for saying that Bro. Bain remains with the denominational body in which he has been so useful.

—The U. P. Presbytery of southern Illinois at its late meeting passed earnest resolutions against secret societies and provided for a committee to assist in calling a local convention to co-operate with the National Anniversary at Dayton and send delegates.

—The Kansas United Brethren Conference met Aug. 2nd, Bishop Wright presiding. In the resolutions the Conference heartily welcomed Bishop Wright as their presiding officer; pledging every assistance in Christian effort. The action of the late General Conference was endorsed, and the discipline in regard to secret societies maintained while intemperance, tobacco using and Sabbath desecration were rebuked.

—The Christian people of Philadelphia do not view with indifference the opening of the Exhibition on the Lord's Day. The Christian Instructor and the Statesman condemn the change with other journals, and a ministerial association of that city have expressed themselves in regard to the matter as follows:

"Resolved, That we desire to place upon record and publish our most earnest and emphatic protest against the recent action of the managers of the Permanent Exhibition on the Lord's Day, believing, as we do, that such action is in violation of the laws of God, the laws of this Commonwealth, and detrimental to the interests of sound morality and religion."

—Mrs. A. H. Hoge, President of the Presbyterian Woman's Board of Foreign Missions, said in a recent address: "The Gospel was preached and sung in two hundred languages to-day, and the voice of prayer ascended in as many tongues, and 1,600,000 pages of Christian literature had been printed and scattered in heathen lands, and 12,000,000 Bibles distributed. Christian missions are the greatest success of modern times. There were 31,000 laborers of all kinds; Christian education was given to 600,000 youths of both sexes; 500,000 natives were communicants of Christian bodies; there were 2,500 Christian congregations, and a population of 1,500,000 that had adopted the Christian name. Over 90,000 Fijians gathered regularly for worship on the Lord's day who twenty years ago feasted on human flesh. In 1860 Madagascar had only a few scattered converts; now the Queen and her Prime Minister, and more than 200,000 of her subjects were adherents of Christianity. The largest parish in the world, numbering 4,500 members, was in Hilo, on the island of Hawaii, but fifty years removed from the most debasing savagery. In more than 300 islands of Polynesia heathenism has been entirely swept away by the Gospel. And all the work was being done at a cost of $6,000,000 per annum; while it cost the United States for the same period $600,000,000 for intoxicating liquors, and $34,000,000 for taxes on tobacco. The tax on dogs alone reached the same amount as the missionary contributions of the world—$6,000,000 annually.

An Evangelical minister, a graduate, seeks a pastorate with an earnest people who testify against such wrongs as secret societies, tobacco, etc. Reference, Geo. Anderson, Esq., Ellington, N. Y. Direct to Rev. A. B., box 135, Rutland, Ill.

Front view of the Carpenter Donation, a fine, stone front building No. 221 West Madison St., Chicago, now occupied by the National Christian Association. The fee simple will be given by Mr. Carpenter if other friends raise $30,000 by Apr. 1st 1878, in cash or "good, negotiable, interest-bearing notes" to establish a Publishing House and headquarters of the reform. Send donations to the Treasurer at 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The National Christian Association.

President of the National Convention.—Pres. H. H. George, D. D., W. Geneva, Ohio

Secretaries.—Rev. W. H. French, D. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; H. L. Kellogg, Chicago.

President of the Corporate Body.—Rev. J. B. Walker, D. D., Wheaton, Ill.

Vice-President. — Philo Carpenter, Chicago.

Directors.—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, Archibald Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, H. L. Kellogg, E. Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, J. B. Walker, A. D. Freeman, Thos. Hodge.

Recording Sec'y.—Thos. Hodge, Chicago.

Cor. Sec'y and General Agent.—J. P. Stoddard, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

Treasurer.—H. L. Kellogg, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The object of this Association is:—

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the Churches of Christ from being depraved; to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform to aid the Association in either of these ways: (1) to establish a Publishing House and Head-quarters in Chicago; (2) to carry on the general work; (3) to maintain the State agents. All donations, (drafts or P. O. orders) should be sent to the Treasurer; general correspondence, etc., direct to the Corresponding Secretary

Form of Bequest.—I give and bequeath to the National Christian Association, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, the sum of——dollars for the purposes of said Association, and for which the receipt of its Treasurer for the time being shall be a sufficient discharge.

State Auxiliary Associations.

CONNECTICUT.

President, J. A. Conant, Willimantic.
Secretary, D. J. Ellsworth, Windsor.
Treasurer, C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.

President, S. B. Allen, Westfield.
Rec. Secretary and Treasurer, H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
Lecturers, H. H. Hinman, Wheaton, and J. P. Richards, Bowensburg, Hancock Co.

INDIANA.

Pres't, W. P. McNary, Bloomington.
Rec. Sec'y, H. Teter, Westfield.
Treas., Peter Rich, Westfield.
Lecturer and Cor. Sec'y S. L. Cook, Albion.

IOWA.

President, M. S. Drury, Western, Linn Co.
Cor. Sec'y, M. R. Drury, " " "
Rec. Sec'y, E. J. Grinnell, Charles City.
Treasurer, John Dorcas, Shiloh.

KANSAS.

President, H. T. Besse, Sterling, Rice Co.
Secretary, J. Dodds, Winchester.
Treasurer, C. A. Sexton, Topeka.

MICHIGAN.

President, H. D. Inman, Coldwater.
Cor. Sec'y, C. B. Remington, Fentonville
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Bruce, Hickory Corners
Treasurer, C. Quick, Weston.
Lecturer and Agent, D. P. Rathbun, Hickory Corners.

Communications for the Agent concerning lectures or the interests of the cause may be addressed to, or in care of, E. W. Bruce.

MISSOURI.

President, N. E. Gardner, Avalon.
Cor. Sec'y, A. D. Thomas, Arbela.
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Carpenter.
Treasurer, Wm. Beauchamp, Avalon.
Lecturer, E. G. Cooper, Albany Gentry Co.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

President, J. F. Browne, Lewiston, Me.
Secretary, S. C. Kimball, Center Strafford
Treasurer, E. Smith, Center Strafford

NEW YORK.

President, L. N. Stratton, Syracuse.
Secretary, W. A. Sellew, Rochester.
Treasurer, M. Merrick, Syracuse.
Lecturers—L. N. Stratton, Syracuse; Woodruff Post, Rochester; A. F. Curry, Almond.

OHIO.

President, H. H. George, W. Geneva.
Treasurer, J. G. Mattoon, West Unity
Sec. and Lecturer, Wm. Dillon, Dayton.

PENNSYLVANIA.

President, A. L. Post, Montrose.
Cor. Sec'y, N. Callender, Green Grove.
Treasurer, W. B. Bertels, Wilksbarre.
Rec. Sec'y, and Lecturer, J. W. Raynor, Montrose.

WISCONSIN.

President, E. L. Harris, Delavan.
Secretary, U. D. Lathrop, Millard.
Treasurer; Joshua Parish, Delavan

Address of Anti-masonic Lecturers.

General Agent and Lecturer, J. P. Stoddard, Christian Cynosure Office, Chicago.
For State Lecturers State Ass'n list.
Others who will lecture when desired:—
C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
R. B. Taylor, Summerfield, O.
N. Callender, Starrucca, Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
P. Hurless, Polo, Ill.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Mercer Co., Ill.
J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
Josiah McCaskey, Fancy Creek, Wis.
C. F. Hawley, Damascoville, Ohio.
W. M. Givens, Center Point, Ind.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
D. S. Caldwell, Clyde, Sandusky Co., O.
A. Mayn, Promise City, Wayne Co., Mich.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
C. F. Wiggins, Angola, Ind
E Ronayne, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.
W. M. Love, Baker, St. Clair Co. Mo
A D. Freeman, Downers Grove, Ill.
Jas. Springer, Springerton, Ill.
A. D. Carter, Deersville, Harrison Co O.
James McCleery, Monroe, Iowa.
R. Faurot, Kendallville, Ind.
J. W. Barlow, Ridgetown, Ont., C. W.

The Home Circle.

Elijah's Interview.

God not in the whirlwind, nor in the thunder, nor in the flame, but in the still, small voice.

On Horeb's rock the prophet stood—
The Lord before him past;
A hurricane, in angry mood,
Swept by him strong and fast;
The forest fell before its force,
The rocks were shivered in its course,
God was not in the blast;
'Twas but the whirlwind of his breath,
Announcing danger, wreck and death.

It ceased. The air grew mute—a cloud
Came, muffling up the sun,
When, through the mountain, deep and loud,
An earthquake thundered on;
The affrighted eagle sprang in air,
The wolf ran howling from its lair—
God was not in the storm;
'Twas but the rolling of his car,
The trampling of his steeds from far.

'Twas still again—and nature stood
And calmed her ruffled frame;
When swift from heaven a fiery flood
To earth devouring came;
Down to the depths the ocean fled—
The sickening sun looked wan and dead;
Yet God filled not the flame;
'Twas but the terror of his eye
That lightened through the troubled sky.

At last a voice, all still and small,
Rose sweetly on the ear;
Yet rose so shrill and clear, that all
In heaven and earth might hear;
It spoke of peace, it spoke of love,
It spoke as angels speak above:
And God himself was there;
For oh! it was a Father's voice,
That bade the trembling heart rejoice.

—Thomas Campbell.

The Place of "Must" in Training.

Formerly, discipline was the great feature—if not, indeed, the only feature—in the training of children. There was a time when children were not allowed to sit in the presence of their parents, or to speak to them unless they were first spoken to, or to have a place with their parents at the home table or in the church pew; when the approved mode of teaching was a primitive and very simple one. "They told a child to learn; and if he did not, they beat him." The school days of children were then spoken of as "when they were under the rod."

But all this is in the long past. For a century or more the progress of interest in and attention to the children has been steady and rapid. And now the best talent of the world is laid under contribution for the little ones. In the provisions of song and story and pictures, and toys and games, as well as in school buildings and school appliances and school methods, the place of the children is foremost. At home they certainly do not hesitate to sit down when and where they please or to speak without waiting to be spoken to.

Now that this state of things is, on the whole, a decided improvement over that which is displaced we do not have a doubt. Yet there is always a danger of losing sight of one important truth in the effort to give new and due prominence to another. Hence we call attention once more to the value of judicious discipline in the training of children. Children need to learn how to do things which they do not want to do, when those things ought to be done. Older people have to do a great many things from a sense of duty. Unless children are trained to recognize duty as more binding than inclination, they suffer all their lives through from their lack of discipline in this direction.

Children ought to be trained to get up in the morning at a proper hour for some other reason than that this is to be "the maddest, merriest day in all the glad new year." They ought to learn to go to bed at a fitting time whether they are sleepy or not. Their hours of eating, and the quality and quantity of their food, ought to be regulated by some other standard than their inclinations.

It is already seriously questioned by competent teachers if the kindergarten system is to meet every necessity of childhood training in study. There must be a place for tasks as tasks, for times of study under the pressure of stern duty, in the effort to train the young to do their right work properly. It is not enough to have children learn only lessons which they enjoy, and this at times and by methods which are peculiarly pleasing to them. President Porter has said, in substance, that the chief advantage of the college curriculum is, that it trains a young man to do what he does not like to do, at a time when he would not wish to do it, because he must do it, and do it just then. Any course of training for a young person that fails to accomplish thus much, is part of a sadly imperfect system.—S. S. Times.

Praise the Children.

Mother, when your little girl has put her whole baby heart into some little office she is striving to perform for you, when she has been unusually sweet tempered and good throughout the trying day, whisper approving words in the little ear; tell her in encouraging phrases (on the tip of every mother's tongue) what a treasure she is to you. Such praise will not be wasted. As a summer's sun upon a rose, words like these will fall upon the child-heart, making it richer with the fragrant insense of duty and of love.

Father, if your boy has learned his lessons right well; if the daily tasks he has set to do have been performed more thoroughly and faithfully than usual; if, in little ways, he has been more thoughtful of your comfort than is his wont—notice these things. Not silently, but by word of mouth, generously and cordially approving his conduct. Let him feel that his endeavors are fully appreciated, that no good or noble action on his part passes you unnoticed. Thus will you incite in him a desire to merit always your approbation, and be resolved to make himself more worthy each day of such a father's love.

Withhold not praise from your children when they can claim it is as their right. Used wisely, it is a healthy stimulant that cannot injure but, on the contrary, is productive of results good and lasting.—Ex.

Systematic Giving.

My boyhood's friend went with his young wife to India. After twenty-one years of patient toil on the island of Ceylon and in Southern Hindostan he returned home for two years of change in his life of untiring devotion. At my house in Illinois, as we were reviewing a quarter of a century's Christian experience, he asked "if I gave by system—keeping a strict account," etc., to which I was obliged, from his standpoint of systematic giving, to make a negative reply. In his most thorough, self-forgetting way, he asked, "Would you like to know how much the Lord has enabled me to give in thirteen years out of a foreign missionary's salary, averaging six in my family, our little Katy passing onward in the midst of the years?" Most gladly I said yes, knowing how thoroughly saving, economical and Christian all his habits of life had been. "Over three thousand dollars in thirteen years, and in a heathen land where an American's family feels the need of many things about the table and house to carry out common ideas of comfort that are not demanded in this country," was his reply.

The living of that missionary household must have been reduced to about $550 per annum. Is it strange that from that household a son is now in a New England college, fitting to follow his father and mother in luxurious mission work, another son, a faithful secretary of a western Y. M. C. A., and the only remaining child, following in private faithful walk?—K. A. Burnell in Christian Giver.

Let us let no day go without reading some portion of the Scriptures; and it is no great matter whether you read it before you pray in the morning, or just after; your own inclination and experience will direct you; but be sure it is done. You will find it very profitable to begin the day with such a converse with God. "When thou wakest, it shall talk with thee." (Prov. vi. 22, 23). See the command of Christ in John v. 39; and the command of God with a promise, in Joshua i. 8.

The Scripture discovers sin and the devil's devices and malice; it discovers duty and the love of God and Christ; and it discovers your strength and encouragements. There are the promises of assisting and crowning grace. By these the spirit acts, the devil is conquered and the soul is comforted. Through these the eyes of faith can see the love of Christ, the grace of God and the glory of heaven. In these are the food, the physic and the arms of the Christian's soul. These are the words of reconciliation, grace and truth, and the power of God to salvation; therefore, every day look into these, praying for the Spirit's teachings and fixing faith with what you read.—Mason.

Excessive Discipline.—Congregations often get into trouble by useless discipline of the members. There are men in the church who are never satisfied, but who, if they are let alone will fail to make a disturbance. When once they so far provoke the authorities that they will bring them up for trial on some local charge, they have it in their power to throw the whole community into a ferment. And it is the power they will never fail to use. It is disturbance they are after and the opportunity will not be thrown away. The fact that their notions and vagaries have been noticed gives them an importance and inflation that sets them to ecclesiastical ballooning and there is literally no telling where they will stop. Let such men alone and they will perish out of sight, as will also the causes about which they are exercised. Arraignment and trial and condemnation are as good to such men as a serenade and the presentation of a public testimonial, for they are thus pedestled before the public and have their names published in the newspapers, whereas if they are passed by in discreet silence with no attention paid to their views and declarations, they will find themselves whipped with a discipline that will send them into penitent obscurity.—United Presbyterian.

Controversy.

It is idle to affect to run down controversy so long as there is error abroad among men. It is mere prudery to be always groaning over the symptoms of irritability, which controversalists have exhibited, and bemoaning evermore their lack of a smooth oily tongue. All honor to the champions of God's Holy Word and glorious Gospel, who have waxed valient in the fight against the adversairies of both? All sympathy with them in their indignant sense of what touches the glory, and insults the majesty of Him whose battles they fight with large allowance for heats, into which, being men, they may suffer their zeal to hurry them! And all thankful joy in the success with which they wield the weapons of their keen logic, their learned study, their burning eloquence in baffling the sophistries of heresy and infidelity and rearing an impregnable defence around the battlements on which the banner is planted, which God "has given to them that fear Him, that it may be displayed because of the truth."—Rev. R. S. Candlish, D. D.

Don't be afraid to "show your colors." A cowardly Christian is a misnomer. Shrink from no declaration, from no duty that Christ desires of you. The timid, vascillating course is the hardest and most barren. The brave, outspoken, faithful life is the happiest and most effective.

Children's Corner.

Don't Let Mother Do It.

Daughter, don't let mother do it!
Do not let her slave and toil
While you sit, a useless idler,
Fearing your soft hands to soil.
Don't you see the heavy burdens
Daily she is wont to bear,
Bring the lines upon her forehead—
Sprinkle silver in her hair?

Daughter, don't let mother do it!
Do not let her bake and broil
Through the long, bright summer hours;
Share with her the heavy toil.
See, her eye has lost its brightness,
Faded from her cheek the glow,
And the step which once was buoyant
Now is feeble, weak and slow.

Daughter, don't let mother do it!
She has cared for you so long,
Is it right the weak and feeble
Should be toiling for the strong?
Waken from your listless languor,
Seek her side to cheer and bless;
And your grief will be less bitter
When the sods above her press.

Daughter, don't let mother do it!
You will never, never know
What were home without a mother
Till that mother lieth low—
Low beneath the budding daisies,
Free from earthly care and pain—
To the house so sad without her,
Never to return again.

—Selected.

Grandmother.

For a long time I did not understand it all. I thought that because grandmothers often were feeble and old-fashioned, they could never really feel as we children do; they needed no particular notice or enjoyment, for it was their nature to sit in rocking chairs and knit. They seemed quite different from the rest of the world, and not to be especially thought about: that is by girls who were as full of merry plans as we were..

Grandmother lived with us as father was her only son. We had a vague idea that she helped mother mend the clothes and knitted all father's winter stockings, besides some for the church society. We were supposed to love her, of course, and we were never openly rude, for indeed we had been taught to be polite to all aged persons. As for grandmother, she was one of those peaceful souls who never make any trouble, but just go on their own way so quietly that you hardly know that they are in the house. Mother sat with her sometimes, but we girls in our gay, busy pursuits, rarely thought of such a thing. She seemed to have no part in our existence.

It went on so for some time, till one day I happened at sundown to go into the sitting-room and there sat grandmother alone. She had fallen asleep in her chair by the window. The sun was just sinking out of sight, leaving a glory of light as he went, and in this glory I saw grandmother—saw her really for the first time in my life!

She had been reading her Bible, and then, as if there had been no need of reading more, since its treasures already lay shining in her soul, she had turned the book over upon her lap and leaned back to enjoy the evening.

I saw it all in a moment—her gentleness, her patience, her holiness. Then, while her love and beautiful dignity seemed to fold about me like a bright cloud, the sweet every-day lines in her face told me a secret, that even then in the wonderful sunset of life she was, O, how human! So human that she missed old faces and old scenes; so human that she needed a share of what God was giving us—friends, home interests, little surprises and expectations, loving offices, and above all, a recognition in the details of our fresh young lives.

Girls! when grandmother woke up, she found us all three stealing into the room; for God had helped me when I went to tell my sisters about it. Mary only kissed her and asked her if she had had a good nap; Susie picked her ball of yarn off the carpet where it had rolled and began to wind it, telling her a pleasant bit of news about one of the school girls; and I—well, I knelt down at grandmother's feet and just as I was going to cry, I gave her knees a good hard hug, and told her she was a darling.

That's all, girls. But it's been different ever since from what it was before.—St. Nicholas.

How Bobby Learned "F."

One morning Bobby's mamma looked out of the window to see if he was not coming home from schoo . She was watching for a happy little sailor boy, a

"Bobby Shaftoe fat and fair."

with white anchors on his c.llar, and a straw hat with long black ribbons. When he reached the gate, instead of looking up and nodding and smiling, he walked along with downcast eyes, st.bbing his morocco toes into the sand, and pouting out his lips like a little red trumpet. He came in, slammed the door behind him, and sat down with his back to his mother.

"Why, Bobby, what is the matter?" asked his mother.

Bobby burst into a flood of tears, and cried, "I's got the horridest, crossest old teacher in the world! She kept me in just cause I could'nt say F. It's the hardest letter there is!" And the sailor gave himself over to grief, and added, "She says if I don't know it 'fore to-morrow, she'll see that I do'; and that means that she'll give me thimble pie."

"What's thimble pie?" asked his mother.

"Why, it's snapping you on your head with a thimble—I dodged her to-day—Oh—Oh—I can't ever learn F in this world."

"How did you learn the other letters?" asked his mother.

"They didn't have such nice lessons in the big class as they did to-day, and I want to hear them."

Bobby smiled through his tears, and said, very cheerfully:

"This is the lesson. 'What's transparent?' and they answered, 'Transparent is something you can see through, like a pane of glass. Translucent? That lets in light; but you can't look through it, its like the ground glass in the front door, mamma. Opaque is like the wood part, that you can't look through anyway. If Miss Russel would only put me in that big class I'd know my lesson all the time. They say geography, too. 'Finally, one evening, at ten o'clock, Columbus saw a light gleaming across the water; and there's a picture of Columbus stepping out of a ship,"—

And again the dingy little face relapsed into clouds and rain; and Bobby sobbed, "I can't ever learn F."

"O Bobby," said his mother, "I know a lovely way to learn F. Go to Katy and get washed and brushed, and I'll teach you F in five minutes.

When he came back, sweet and clean, she said, lay a newspaper on the carpet, and put a sheet of white paper on that. Then take my new pencil and draw a long line on it. Then make a shorter line running from the top to the long one—this way—and then a little line halt way down the long one. That is F. Now ask for some strawberries, and put a row of them all along the lines with this darning needle; and when you have made a strawberry F you may eat it!"

Bobby made three strawberry F's, and had four berries left, of which his mamma made an exclamation point. He said if he could make another F out of his bits of nice cake, he did not think he should ever forget it, but his mamma thought there was no danger of his ever forgetting it without that.

The next day Bobby shouted F out so loudly that all the children laughed. He told his mamma in the afternoon that he was afraid he'd forget G if he didn't make that with strawberries, too. There were none in the house, so Jane gave him some cold peas. He remembered G very well after making it only once in peas.

Bobby is learning his letters very fast now, and trying to study geography, where there's a picture of monkeys hanging from the limbs of trees, an great white bears sitting on cakes of ice.—Christian Mirror.

If one were to go to the home of his neighbor and deface his pictures, pull up his flowers and cut holes in his best clothing, he would be indicted for crime and punished. But the offense is a small one compared with the habit of injurious criticism into which so many fall, whereby the lives and characters of their acquaintances are being constantly assaulted. It is not hard to plant a new flower and sew up a cut in a garment, but it is very difficult to mend the wrong done to a reputation.

A youth who starts out in life with an earnest determination to be honest, upright, faithful to all trust, punctual, attentive and above all God-fearing, has a promise of abundant success. Though he be without money or wealthy friends, he will be sure to gain all that he most desires.

The Sabbath School.

LESSON XXXVII.—Sept. 16, 1877. | POWER OF THE WORD.

SCRIPTURE.—Acts 19: 17-28. Commit to memory vs. 17-20. Primary verse 20.

17. And this was known to all the Jews and Greeks also dwelling at Ephesus; and fear fell on them all, and the name of the Lord Jesus was magnified.

18. And many that believed came and confessed, and shewed their deeds.

19. Many of them also which used curious arts brought their books together and burned them before all men: and they counted the price of them, and found it fifty thousand pieces of silver.

20. So mightily grew the Word of God and prevailed.

21. After these things were ended, Paul purposed in the spirit, when he had passed through Macedonia and Achaia, to go to Jerusalem, saying, After I have been there, I must also see Rome.

22. So he sent into Macedonia two of them that ministered unto him, Timotheus and Erastus; but he himself stayed in Asia for a season.

23. And the same time there arose no small stir about that way.

24. For a certain man named Demetrius, a silversmith, which made silver shrines for Diana, brought no small gain unto the craftsmen;

25. Whom he called together with the workmen of like occupation, and said, Sirs, ye know that by this craft ye have our wealth.

26. Moreover ye see and hear, that not alone at Ephesus, but also throughout all Asia, this Paul hath persuaded and turned away much people, saying that they be no gods which are made with hands:

27. So that not only this our craft is in danger to be set at nought; but also that the temple of the great goddess Diana should be despised and her magnificence should be destroyed, whom all Asia and the world worshipeth.

28. And when they heard these sayings they were full of wrath and cried out, saying, Great is Diana of the Ephesians.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"For the Word of God is quick and powerful and sharper than any two-edged sword."—Heb. 4: 12.

TOPIC—The Sword of the Spirit.

HOME READINGS.

M. Ps. 119: 129-151 .. The Word Illuminates.
T Ps. 19: 1-14 ....The Word Converts.
W. John 17: 1 26 ....The Word Sanctifies.
Th. Eph. 5: 1-27 ...The Word Cleanses.
F. 1 Th. 2: 1-20....The Word Effectually Worketh.
S. Eph. 6: 1-18....The Word as a Weapon.
S. 2 Tim. 3: 1-17....The Word is Profitable.

The name of the Lord Jesus will be magnified every time that error is laid bare. As one by one the pretentions of false religionists are exposed, that name will shine out with growing lustre until it alone shall ride in the heaven of men's thoughts. Num. 14: 21; Ps. 22: 27; Is. 11: 9; 54: 13; Zech. 14: 9; 1 Cor. 8: 6; 15: 24, 25; Phil. 2: 10, 11.

The church of God should be pure. It should have in it no men who profess to be followers, but in secret are practicers of "curious arts." God wants no divided homage and will have none. Lev. 19: 2; 1 Sam. 7: 3; 1 K. 18: 21; Matt. 4: 10; 6: 24; Jas. 4: 4; 1 John 2: 15.

Confession of sin is enjoined upon every one who has done and is concealing a wrong. "He that covereth his sin shall not prosper." Lev. 26: 40-42; Job 33: 27, 28; Ps. 32: 1, 5; 66: 18; Pr. 28: 13; Is. 43: 25, 26; 1 John 1: 9.

The ire of the world never is aroused so much as when the promulgation of the Gospel interferes with its unlawful gains. "The love of money is the root of all evil" Josh. 7: 24, 25; 1 K. 21: 4; 2 K. 5: 25, 26; Pr. 1: 19; 15: 27; Matt. 26: 14-16; Acts 16: 19; 1 Tim. 6. 9-11 —Nat'l S. S. Teacher.

LESSONS.

1. Exaltation of Christ—the result of all true revivals, v. 17.

2. Secret sins may be cherished where they are least suspected. Let us beware. v. 18.

3. Confession and abandonment of sin are indispensable to a genuine reformation, vs. 18, 19.

4. Pernicious literature ought to be destroyed, v. 19.

5. Strength of principle may be measured by the sacrifices made under its influence, v. 19.

6. The liberalizing spirit of the Gospel. It frees from superstition.

7. The essential antagonism between true religion and idolatry, v. 26. Even when no direct attack is made, (v. 37,) the opposition is felt.

8. The love of money the root of all evil, vs. 25, 27. Only two persecutions by Gentiles recorded in Acts—(Philippi and Ephesus)—both springing from covetousness.

9. Selfishness loves to attach itself to a great principle, such as a higher regard for religion, and thus secure its own ends, v. 27.

10. The actor in such cases may think himself sincere.

11. The cause represented by trades-unions and mobs of workingmen is not always just and noble.—Evangelical Repository,

News of the Week.

—The past week has been full of battles in the East. The Turks were checked at Schipka pass with great loss. Fighting of more or less severity north of the Balkans has been going on with both wings of the Russian army, the Turks attacking, but no material advantage resulting to either army. The correspondents report further horrid atrocities by the Turkish troops upon the Russian wounded.

—The collapse of the State Savings Institution of this city last week Tuesday is an event in the history of savings banks in this country. The bank has been considered generally as among the safest in the State and has had over $3,000,000 of deposits. It has paid out heavily during the past month so that the amount lost by depositors is about $2,000,000. These are generally poor people whose credit is from $10 so $100. The trouble is laid to the President, D. D. Spencer, who took over half a million of the funds and left for parts unknown leaving his worthless notes as security.

—Brigham Young, the first President of the Mormon church died at Salt Lake City last Friday afternoon from a severe attack of cholera morbus. His body was placed in state the next day and on Sunday an immense concourse of people from all parts of the Territory assembled to attend the funeral. There were probably 12,000 or 15,000 in the tabernacle. The body was exhibited until 11 A. M. The religious services commenced at 12 and continued until 2. Remarks were made by Messrs. Woodruff, Hyde, Cannon and Taylor, eulogistic of deceased and the great work he had performed. The body was inclosed in a plain redwood coffin, and was borne to the grave by the employes of the late President. The cortege was preceded by a band, followed by the family, the different orders of priesthood, and adherents, all on foot. The order of Brigham Young as to the disposition of his remains, written in 1873, was read, but nothing from him as yet as to the succession of leadership or the disposition of his property. It is understood that the future control of the church will fall upon the twelve apostles, so-called.

Another account says: At 11:20 his family entered and filled eight rows of seats at the foot of the coffin, the large organ and band playing the pastoral symphony. On the first seat sat Brigham's youngest daughter by his first wife, fanning her mother, who sat second. Next to her sat Amelia Folsom, the seventeenth and favorite wife, and beyond and back were arranged the other wives, sons, daughters, sons-in-law, daughters-in-law, and grandchildren that reside in Salt Lake City and vicinity, numbering 235. Back of these were the high priests and the quorums of seventies. In the President's pulpit were Brigham Young, Jr., John W. Young, Daniel H. Wells, and Apostle Cannon. At 11:30 the family took a last farewell look at the remains, the first wife and Amelia being the chief mourners, and Amelia the only one at all demonstrative. She was led to and from the coffin by her father. The body was robed in the priestly or temple robes of the First Presidency, all white, even to the cap, which was something like the Pope's.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS ILLUSTRATED.*

BY A PAST CHANCELLOR. A Full Illustrated Exposition of the Three Ranks of the order with the addition of the Amended, Perfected and Amplified Third Rank.
The Lodge Room, Signs, Countersigns, Grips, etc., are shown by Engravings.

Copyright 1877 By Ezra A. Cook & Co.,

*This work is now IN PRESS and will be issued in October.
Price 25cts. each. $2 00 per doz. Post Paid. By Express per 100 $10 00-
One half Doz. at Doz. rates, 25 at 100 Rates.

[CONTINUED.]

Prelate.—"Chancellor Commander, the Esquire has been obligated and cautioned.

Chancellor Commander (from his position at the head of the triangle.)—"Master at Arms, conduct hence this Esquire, equip him as becomes his rank and give him courteous guidance to the "Ten in Council," who shall for us decide what test of bravery the Esquire bears.

Attention, Knights! Break files at center base of triangle. [The four files break to the rear—see diagram—candidate and Master at Arms pass out—which being done, the Chancellor Commander orders:] Close triangle; return swords; about face; to posts march; be seated.

Master at Arms conducts candidate to ante-room, relieves him of his shield, clothes him with the uniform Belt of the Order, without sword or scabbard, and puts sandals on his feet. The Council of Ten being in readiness, of which he is notified by a single rap on the door by the "Warder of the Gate," the Master at Arms approaches and gives several loud raps in quick succession.

THE COUNCIL OF TEN

is composed of the following personages:

King, represented by the Prelate.

"Warder of the Gate," represented by the Inner Guard.

"Nine Councillors," known respectively as "First Councillor," "Second Councillor," etc.

The Council is held in the Lodge-room, or some chamber specially prepared. If the former, the lower end should be occupied by the Council, the King being seated in the Vice Chancellor's chair, facing the Councillors, who are seated in a semi-circle about him. The King and Councillors should be clothed in full uniform of the Order, or in suits of armor—all being either visored or masked.

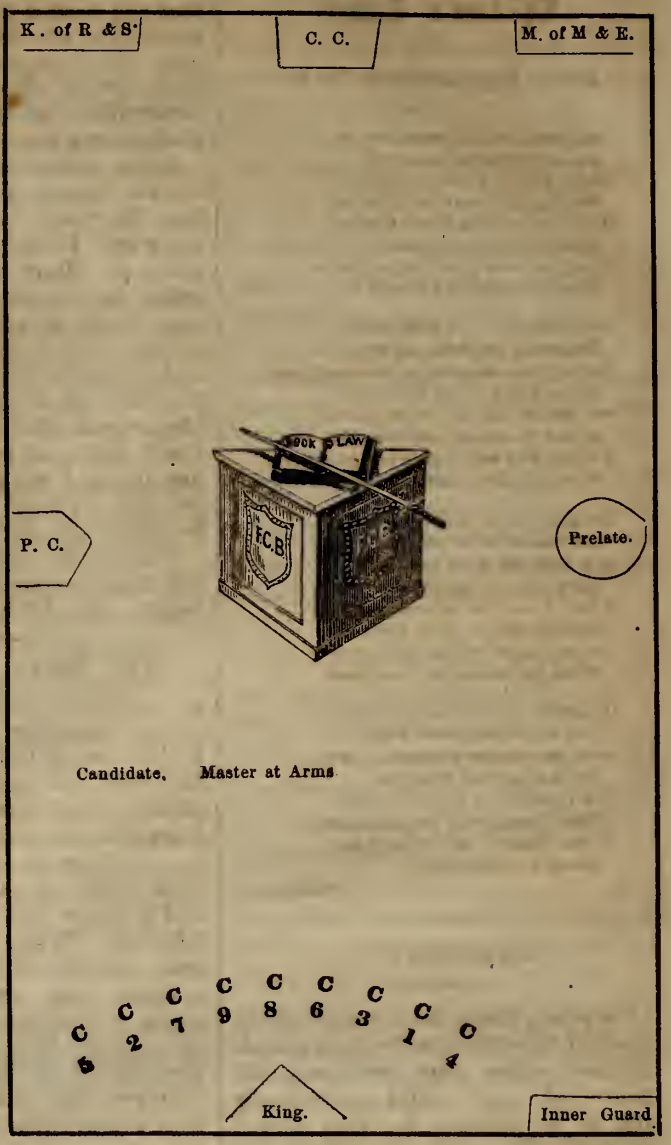

DIAGRAM OF LODGEROOM, ARRANGED AS USED BY COUNCIL OF TEN.

The Knights and visitors are seated as usual around the room, masked and in black robes or uniform of the order.

Councillors in full armor or uniform, seated, with visors down or masked.

CEREMONIES IN OPENING COUNCIL OF TEN.

Enter King of Council, (announced by the Warder of the Gate, "The King!" Councillors all arise and remain standing,) King ascends the throne, raising his visor.

King.—"Brethren, with knightly courtesy I greet you. Are all here?

Warder of the Gate (saluting).—"They are, most knightly King."

King.—"Up visors, gentlemen, that you and I may know each one the other."

(All raise their visors, or unmask.)

King.—"I see here now the nine true Knights who, with myself, do constitute the "Ten," from whose decision there is no appeal; whose edicts once sent forth are to the inmates of our Castle Hall established law. Questions of deep import exercise our mind, and in due time the matter shall be cognizant to all. I now declare this Council formed, and on my honor as a Knight, I pledge myself to secrecy, swearing the same by my extended sword."

King draws and extends his sword, and Knight Councillors drawing, cross their swords thereon, (or if unarmed, extend and lay their right hand thereon,) and say,

"And I," "and I," "and I," etc.

King.—"Amen."

(King withdraws his sword returns it to the scabbard, then takes his seat.)

King.—"Be seated. Warder, make fast our gates. Knights, in view of those who may the presence of this Council seek, 'twere well that each one drop the visor o'er his face."

(Loud knocking at the inner door.)

King.—"What means this boisterous clamor at our gate? One of you away and bring us tidings of the cause."

Warder of the Gate goes to the door, raises wicket, through which he receives a parchment; closes wicket and going to the center of the Council circle and directly in front of the King, and reports:

Warder of the Gate.—"Most knightly King, without I found a brave and valiant Knight, leading an Esquire in pilgrim garb, for whom he seeks the right to wear the high prized honor of the golden spur, and sends this voucher of his equity."

(Hands parchment to King, who peruses the same and says:)

King.—"As he is vouched for by our well tried friend as being made of honest, manly stuff, there stands no reason to withhold the boon, if we shall find him as endorsement states, a brave and worthy man. Admit him to the presence of the Ten."

The Warder of the Gate goes to and opens the door. Master at Arms with candidate enters and assumes a position outside semicircle, at the center and opposite the King.

Master at Arms.—"Most knightly King and brothers of our band, I here present an Esquire I have known, bearing an honest name among his fellow men, and being gifted with patrician soul he seeks to rise above the common herd and prove himself a man of iron nerve—a fit companion for these well tried knights."

King.—"At your request, and without waste of speech, I bid this Council on the test decide; asking the pilgrim if he still persist?"

Candidate.—"I do."

First Councillor (rising and addressing the King and Council.)—"I would decree that he be made to spring from off the summit of yon beetling cliff, down to the fretful waves that surge below." (Resumes his seat.)

Second Councillor (rising).—"That were to bid him spring to certain death; the quick descent would filch his necessary wind, and we might lose a valiant knight thereby: rather let us stretch his naked frame over a furnace of white heated coals, and if his lips are parted by a moan, vote him not fit to sit within our Hall." (Resumes his seat.)

Third Councillor (rising).—"The last named test were scarce less fatal than the one before, the chance of life depending on the briefness of the ordeal. In lieu of these, I do propose that he be made to leap upon a score of tempered spikes, set in a solid slab of living oak; and when they pierce his naked, tender feet, let each one prime his ears to catch the groaning of each new born pain." (Resumes his seat.)

Fourth Councillor (who is seated at one extreme end of semicircle, rises and addresses King alone.)—"Most knightly King, methought I saw a shade of hesitation passing o'er the pilgrim's face; aye, more, I'll wager me it was most arrant fear, and by my spurs I doubt he hath this courage that he claims." (Resumes his seat.)

Fifth Councillor (seated at the other extreme of semicircle, rising and addressing the King and Council.)—"Aye, fear it was, most certainly, for with my eyes I saw him quail, and cast a troubled glance around as if for pity, which we as knightly councillors know naught of, save for distress and those of gentler sex." (Resumes his seat.)

King (to candidate, earnestly).—"It grieves me much that one so recommended, and deemed by his good guide both resolute and brave, should by a tremor show his dread of test. Pilgrim Esquire, ere you can wear the insignia of a Knight—the golden spur, denotive of your manhood and true courage—your feet must tread the drear and ofttimes dangerous path to Pythian honors, and you must show by acts that wear the native hue of bravery that you are worthy of the rank to which we can advance you. Despite your show of fear, you cannot now withdraw, but on the choosing of these Knights, must go where they dictate—and go alone, save that old Pluto bear you company, and as a guardian he were worse than none.

Sixth Councillor (rising, draws his sword, presents, and after the words "Most knightly King," comes to a carry.)—"Most knightly King, I would vouchsafe a word on this poor pilgrim's part, telling my story with all briefness that I may. At one time in the rage of battle, by a foeman's lance my horse and I were parted 'gainst our wills; and as I lay both spent and bleeding on the ground, a youth, a simple Page, passed by in course of duty, and looking back he saw me helpless on our mother earth, the life blood oozing from my gaping wounds: quickly he tore his doublet into strips and staunched their flow, then bore me off to safe and shady nook, and by his gentle care I live to-day. In view of this I registered a vow to help a Page, aye, Esquire or Knight, who needed aid, to succor him from ill; and 'fore this Esquire I renew my vow, and proffer him protection if he crave it." (Moves towards the candidate and remains standing, as if to assume his part in whatever it may be decreed he shall do.)

Seventh Councillor (rising and addressing the King).—"Most knightly King, the words just spoken honor him who gave them utterance, and yet it were not well that one so high in rank, so great on field of battle, so loved among his brother knights, should risk his life for this Esquire, with whom we have but slight acquaintance, and who, I doubt, can ever take the place of one so tried as our brave brother. Who wears the spurs should win them, and thus for caution's sake, and for prudential reasons I would urge that this man carve his way to the high honor he sees fit to claim. It would most seemly be (turning to the Council), that one and all reject, without debate, the offer made."

Council (all rising).—"We do reject it." (Council are all seated except Seventh Councillor.)

King.—"'Tis well, and be it understood, most valiant Knight, that you remain, (Seventh Councillor resumes his seat) while you Esquire, will win alone the spurs you seek to wear. And now brave Knights, by favor of our friend, let each man cast his lot; taking the colors as the tests were named—blue for the first, yellow the next and red the third."

Master at Arms distributes to King and each Councillor three slips of paper, blue, yellow and red respectively; then collects them in a suitable manner, each one depositing his red paper and retaining the other two. Master at Arms presents receptacle to King, who examines the ballot and says:

King.—"The third is chosen. Away with him and bid old Pluto put him to the test."

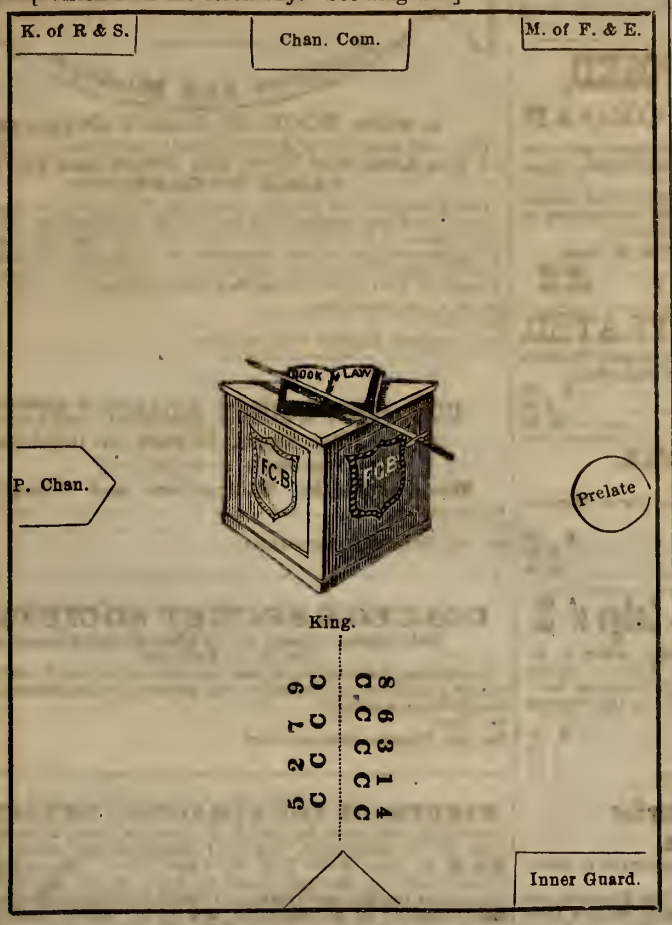
Master at Arms saluting King with sword, retires with candidate.

King (rising to his feet, drawing his sword and coming to a carry).—"By virtue of my will this Council stands dissolved."

The Council rise to their feet, and opening at the center, swing back and close up their lines, facing inward, at the same time drawing their swords, bringing them to a carry, and as the King moves down, present arms all together, (or if unarmed, make military salute). The King passes between the two ranks, and arriving at the end of the lines, faces about and salutes, when he orders:

King.—"Carry arms—about face—to your posts march, and be seated."

[Which ends the ceremony. See diagram.]



The Lodge-room darkened, made as nearly as possible to represent a wilderness. To the right of the Chancellor Commander's station is an elevation representing a mound, on which is laid a complete skeleton, (or its representation). To the left of the Vice Chancellor is placed a mock cauldron, in which is burned some red fire, round which are gathered some of the Knights robed in black, and apparently wrangling over the contents. The cue for igniting the red fire and grouping around the cauldron, is the utterance by Pluto, of the following words: "I left him there to fatten up the bloodhounds of this wilderness."

Pluto is seated in the center of the room, dressed in a suit of silver mail, cavalier cloak of black, trimmed with silver lace, suspended from left shoulder; helmet similar to that worn by the herald Mercury; and sword. [Pluto is represented by the Past Chaucellor or by some other qualified person.]

Master at Arms enters with candidate, clothed as when before the Council of Ten, walks slowly towards the center of the room and halts about one-half way between the door and Pluto.

Pluto (looking up as they enter).—"Who dares to break the stillness of eternal night by wandering past the limits of the earth to my most dread abode? Beats there a heart with slow and measured pulse when standing at the gate of Pluto's wild domain?"

Master at Arms.—"Imperial Prince, behold a well-tried 'Squire who craves the honors of his knightly spurs, and boasts himself a brave, courageous man. Ere we accord this honor that he craves, we do appeal to you, the potent king of this most barren waste, to test him to the quick, and if he lacks the courage that he boasts, let his flesh blister in yon furnace heat, till, dropping from the bones, it leaves a calcined record on the road, to warn others of the coward's fate."

Master at Arms, leaving the candidate standing there, retires out of sight.

Pluto (rising and approaching candidate).—"Welcome, thou denizen of earth. If thou art brave I will conduct thee safe, and recommend thee for thy knightly spurs; but if thy cheek show but a tinge of that white-livered hue that I have called the countersign of fear; if thy strong limbs but for a moment shake and tremble like an aspen in the road, bid them farewell to earth! (Takes candidate by the right arm.) Come, let us go, and as you tread, beware! for deadly adders swarm in your path, whose foul envenomed fangs would quickly still the beating of your heart."

Stoops as if catching something from the ground, and exhibits an imitation snake, that he had concealed on his person.

Pluto.—"See! here is one, that springing from the pregnant ground would, but for the power I hold, have fastened on your flesh; and still another (other snakes are seen on the floor that they are likely to tread on) creeps around my foot. Be brave, and all is well!"

[To be Continued.]

ANTI-MASONIC BOOKS.

(Not our own Publications.)

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO

13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

FOR CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS OF EZRA A. COOK & CO., See page 15 of the CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

☞ All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 20 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Freemasonry Self Condemned.

By Rev. J. W. Bain.

We now have a small supply of this deservedly popular book in paper covers, Price 20 cents each by mail.

Elder Stearns' Books.

Stearns' Inquiry Into the Nature and Tendency of Masonry With an Appendix.

88 Pages, in Cloth.....60 cents.
" " " Paper.....40 "

Stearns' Letters on Masonry.

Showing the antagonism between Freemasonry and the Christian Religion.
Price, 30 cents.

Stearns' Review of Two Masonic Addresses.

In this scathing review the lying pretentions of the order are clearly shown.
Price, 10 cents.

Levington's Key to Masonry.

This is Rev. Mr. Levington's last, and in the judgment of its author, best work on Masonry.
The contents of the Eleventh chapter are thus startling:
"Knights of the Golden Circle—Graphic account of them by a seceding Knight, and remarks thereon, showing the identity of the order with Masonry—Quotations from Sir Walter Scott."
This work is thrilling in statement, and powerful in argument Price. $1.35. 425 pages.

Light on Freemasonry

BY ELDER D. BERNARD,

TO WHICH IS APPENDED A

Revelation of the Mysteries of Odd-fellowship by a Member of the Craft.

The whole containing over five hundred pages lately revised and republished. Price $2,00

The first part of the above work, Light on Freemasonry, 416 pages in paper cover, will be sent post paid on receipt of $1.

FOR SALE BY

United Brethren Publishing House,
DAYTON, O.
and by
EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Ave, CHICAGO

Finney on Masonry.

BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE $1,00,

CHEAP EDITION,

Twenty-five dollars per hundred, by express and not less than 25 copies at that rate.

BY MAIL, POST-PAID:

Per doz.....$1.75.
Single copy,.....35 c

GOOD TEMPLARISM EXPOSED.

Obligations, of the Initiatory Fidelity, Charity, and Royal Virtue Degrees.

This is a small book containing only the Obligations and some of the Odes of the Good Templars.

Single Copy, Post paid, ... 10cts.
Per Doz. " 75
Per 1 by Express,..... $4.50

Bernard's Appendix to Light on Masonry,

Showing the Character of the Institution by its terrible oaths and penalties. 25 cents.

ODD-FELLOWSHIP

JUDGED BY ITS OWN UTTERANCES;

Its Doctrine and Practice examined in the light of God's Word.

BY REV. J. H. BROOKMAN.

This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-Fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. It was originally published in German.
Price, bound in Boards, 75 cents. Paper Covers 40 cents.
GERMAN EDITION, Entitled "Christian and Free." Paper Covers 50 cents each.

HOW TO DEFEAT
Masonic Scoundrelism
Within the Court House.

By J. H. H. WOODWARD,

This pamphlet as its title indicates is designed to put all non-Masons on their guard against lodge trickery and especially to show how to meet and successfully cope with Freemasonry in our Courts
Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 10 cts.
Per Doz..75 cts. Per 100 by Express .$6.0

Every Freemason a Blasphemer.

As proved by the Highest Masonic Authority.

By J. H. H. Woodward.

By quotations from a score of masonic works of unquestioned authority, the fact of the blasphemous ceremonies and teachings of Freemasonry are so clearly demonstrated as to make it evident that every initiate is of necessity a blasphemer.
10 cents each. 75 cents per Doz. by mail;
By Express, per 100 $5 00.

Descriptive Catalogue of Publications of Ezra A. Cook & Co.

13 Wabash Ave. Chicago

BOOKS.

☞ Books at Doz. or Retail Prices sent post-paid. Not less than one-half doz. sent at dozen rates. By the 100 (25 Copies at 100 rate,) Expressage or Postage extra.

☞ Books sent by Mail are not at our risk.

Books at retail or by the dozen, ordered by Express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK; party ordering to pay

FREEMASONRY EXPOSED,

by CAP'T. WILLIAM MORGAN,

THE GENUINE OLD MORGAN BOOK:—republished with engravings showing the Lodge Room, Dress of candidates, Signs, Due Guards, Grips, Etc.

This revelation is so accurate that Freemasons murdered the author for writing it. Thousands have testified to the correctness of the revelation and this book therefore sells very rapidly.

Price 25 cents.

Per Doz. Post Paid..... $2.00
Per hundred by express, (express charges extra.).....$10.00

ODD FELLOWSHIP ILLUSTRATED.

A complete exposition of the Lodge Encampment and Rebecca (Ladies') Degree. The Signs, Grips, &c., shown by engravings.

Single copy, post paid,..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per Hundred, Express charges extra,..... 10 00

EXPOSITION OF THE GRANGE.

EDITED BY REV. A. W. GEESLIN.

Illustrated with Engravings showing Lodge Room, Signs, Signals, etc.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 10 00

Judge Whitney's Defense Before the Grand Lodge of Ill.

Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the Lodge when S. L. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the Lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 20
Per Doz. " " 1 50
Per 100, Express charges extra..... 8 00

History of The Abduction and Murder Cap't. Wm. Morgan,

As prepared by Seven Committees of Citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan.

This book contains indisputable, legal evidence that Freemasons, abducted and Murdered Wm. Morgan, for no other offence than the revelation of Masonry. It contains the sworn testimony of over twenty persons, including Morgan's wife, and no candid person after reading this book, can doubt that many of the most respectable FREEMASONS. in the Empire State, with others were concerned in this crime.

Single Copy, post Paid,..... 25 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $2,00.
Per 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 10.00.

Valance's Confession of The Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan.

This confession of Henry L. Valance, one of the three Freemasons who drowned Morgan in the Niagara River, was taken from the lips of the dying man by Dr. John C. Emery, of Racine County, Wisconsin in 1848; The confession bears clear evidence of truthfulness.

Single copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $1.50.
Per 100 Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

The Mystic Tie or Freemasonry a League with the Devil.

This is an account of the Church Trial of Peter Cook, and wife of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a Reverend Freemason; and their very able defence presented by Mrs. Lucia C. Cook, in which she clearly shows that Freemasonry, is antagonistic to the Christian Religion. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents

Per dozen, post paid..... $1 50
Per hundred Express charges Extra,..... 9 00

NARRATIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

Showing the Conflict of Secret Societies with the Constitution and Laws of the Union and of the States, by FRANCIS SEMPLE.

The fact that Secret Societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of Law is here clearly proved.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20
Per doz. " " $1.75
Per 100 Express charges Extra..... 9.00

THE BROKEN SEAL.

OR PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF Wm. MORGAN,

By SAMUEL D. GREENE,

Price in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.

In Paper Covers per Doz. Post paid.....$4 50
" per hundred by express (ex. charges extra $25.00

Capt. Wm. Morgan was Mr. Greene's neighbor in Batavia, N. Y., and a member of the same lodge with him at the time of the great excitement in 1826. The titles to these chapters are sufficiently exciting to give the book a large sale:—"The Storm Gathering;" "Abduction of Morgan;" "Attempted Abduction of Miller and his Rescue;" "What became of Morgan;" "What Morgan Actually Revealed;" "Confession of the Murderer;" "Allegations against Freemasonry, etc."

THE ANTI-MASON'S SCRAP BOOK,

CONSISTING OF 21 CYNOSURE TRACTS.

In this book are the views of more than a Score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of Secret Societies.

The dangerous tendency and positive evil of organized Secrecy is here shown by the most varied and powerful arguments and illustrations that have ever been given to the public.

Lecturers and others who wish to find the best arguments against the Lodge, should send for this book.

Those who wish to circulate Antimasonic Tracts ought to have the book to select from.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per Doz. $1.75
Per 100, Express charges Extra,..... $10.00

Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion.

A clear cutting argument against the Lodge, from a Christian Stand point.

Single Copy post paid..... $ 05
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 3 00

PHELPS' SECRET SOCIETIES Ancient and Modern.

A NEW BOOK OF GREAT INTEREST.

This work is particularly commended to the attention of Officers of The Army and Navy, The Bench and The Clergy.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

"THE ANTIQUITY OF SECRET SOCIETIES, THE LIFE OF JULIAN, THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES, THE ORIGIN OF MASONRY, WAS WASHINGTON A MASON? FILMORE'S AND WEBSTER'S DEFERENCE TO MASONRY, A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRESS OF MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES, THE TAMMANY RING, MASONIC BENEVOLENCE, THE USES OF MASONRY, AN ILLUSTRATION, THE CONCLUSION."

Single Copy, Post Paid..... 50
Per Doz " " $4 75
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra..... $35 00

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' LETTERS

to Col. Wm. Stone, Edward Livingstone,

and others, on the nature of

Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties.

Price, post paid..... $ 50
Per Doz., " 4 50
Per 100, Express Charges extra..... 25 00

COLLEGE SECRET SOCIETIES.

Their Customs, Character and the Efforts for their Suppression.

BY H. L. KELLOGG.

Containing the opinion of many prominent College Presidents, and others, and a FULL ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER OF MORTIMER LEGGETT

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 35
Per Doz " " 2 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 15 00

MINUTES OF THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION,

Containing addresses by Rev. B. T. Roberts, Chas. D. Greene, Esq., Prof. C. A. Blanchard, Rev. D. P. Rathbun, Rev. D. S. Caldwell, Mrs. M. E. Gage, Elder J. R. Baird and others. Unpublished Reminiscences of the Morgan Times, by Elder David Bernard; Recollections of the Morgan Trials, as related by Victory Birdseye, Esq., and presented by his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Miller; Secretary's report; roll of delegates; songs of Mr. G. A. Clark; paper by Enoch Honeywell; Constitution N. C. A.; reports of committees, and a report of the political meeting.

Single Copy, post paid, ... 25
Per doz. " " $2.00
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 10.00

Proceedings of the Pittsburgh Convention,

Containing Official Reports; Addresses by Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. Rev. B. T. Roberts, Rev. G. T. R. Meiser, Prof. J. R. W. Sloane, D. D., Pres't. J. Blanchard, Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D., Rev. Woodruff Post, Rev. Henry Cogswell, Prof. C. A. Blanchard, and Rev W. E. Coquilette, also Report of the POLITICAL MASS CONVENTION, with Platform and Candidates for the Presidential Campaign of 1876.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25 cts.
Per doz " $2 00
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 10 00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. W. P. M'NARY,

Pastor United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Ind.

This is a very clear, thorough, candid and remarkably concise Scriptural argument on the character of Freemasonry.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 5
Per Doz,..... 50
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra,.....$3 00

THIRTEEN REASONS

Why a Christian Should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong.

The author states his reasons clearly and carefully, and any one of the thirteen reasons, if properly considered, will keep a Christian out of the Lodge.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 5
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100, Express charges extra, ... $3.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. JAMES WILLIAMS.

Presiding Elder of Dakota District North-western Iowa Conference, M. E. Church, A SECEDING MASTER MASON.

Published at the special request of the Nine Clergymen of different denominations and others.

Single Copy, post paid..... 10
Per doz. " " 75
Per 100, Express Charges Extra.....$4.00

MASONRY A WORK OF DARKNESS

ADVERSE TO CHRISTIANITY, and Inimical to a Republican Government.

BY REV. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG, [Presbyterian.]

A Seceding Mason of 21 Degrees.

This is a very telling work and no honest man that reads it will think of joining the lodge. Single Copy, post paid,.....20cts.

Per doz, post paid,..... $1.50.
" 100, Express Charges Extra..... 8.00.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy.

Address of Prest. J. BLANCHARD, before the Pittsburgh Convention.

This is a most convincing argument against the lodge.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz " " 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON SECRETISM

BY REV. R. THEO. CROSS.

This is a very clear array of the objections to Masonry that are apparent to all.

By Rev. R. T. Cross, Pastor Congregational Church, Hamilton, N.Y.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

Its relation to civil Government and the Christian Religion.

By Prest. J. BLANCHARD, at the Monmouth Convention.

The Unchristian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is here proved from the highest masonic authorities.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP

AND OTHER SECRET SOCIETIES

BY REV. J. SARVER, Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church, Leechburg, Pa.

This is a very clear argument against Secretism of all forms and the duty to disfellowship, Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 10
Per Dozen " 75
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 4 00

Sermon on Secret Societies,

BY REV. DANIEL DOW, Woodstock, Conn.

The special object of this sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the Character of Secret Societies, no matter what object they profess to have.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 05
Per Dozen, " " 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 3 00

President H. H. GEORGE, On Secret Societies.

A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian Churches, to disfellowship Secret Societies.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 10 cts.
Per doz, " ..... 75 "
Per 100, Express charges Extra, ... $4.00.

History of the National Christian Association.

Its origin, objects, what it has done and aim to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought; The Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association, Conditions of the Carpenter Donation with engraving of building to be donated by Mr. Carpenter; tablet, showing the number of pastors and communicants in churches that exclude members of Secret societies; tabular view of local, county, State and National Conventions, and list of organizations Auxiliary to the National Christian Association. Brief opinions of eminent men on secret societies, and testimonies of religious bodies against them. This book will be found invaluable by all who wish to know the character of this reform and how they may do the most to further its objects. It should be in the hands of every Anti-mason.

Price, post paid, 25 cents each; per doz., $1.50. 25 copies or more by express at 8 cents each.

NEW BOOKS

HAND-BOOK OF FREEMASONRY.

BY EDMOND RONAYNE, late Past Master of Keystone Lodge, No. 639, Chicago. A full illustrated Exposition of the Three Degrees of "Ancient Craft Masonry:" Entered Apprentice. Fellow Craft and Master Mason, embracing the "Standard Work" of the Order.

Single Copy, $0 50. Per dozen, $4 00. Per 100 $25 00.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WITH SIGNS OF RECOGNITION, PASS WORDS, GRIPS, Etc., and the RITUAL of the MACHINISTS AND BLACKSMITHS' UNION. (The two bound together.)

Single Copy, $0 25. Per dozen, $2 00. Per 100 $10 00.

Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees of Freemasonry

Nothing can more clearly show the abominations of this system of iniquity than its horrible Oaths and Penalties.

Single Copy, $0 15. Per dozen, $1 00. Per 100 $6 00.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret Societies.

A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons the Christian Church.

Single Copy $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100, $4 50

Secrecy v. s. The Family, State and Church.

BY REV. M. S. DRURY. The antagonism of Organized Secrecy with the welfare of the Family, State and Church is clearly shown

Single Copy, $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100 $4 00.

ANTIMASONIC TRACTS

NOW HAVE 25 ENGLISH TRACTS, 0 MAN, AND ONE SWEDISH

hese tracts are sold at the rate of $1.00 per 1000 pages.

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together, and is just the hing to select tracts from. Price 20 cents. See advertisement

For information about Free Tracts see advertisement headed Free Tracts."

Address EZRA A. COOK & Co.,
18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TRACT NO. 1:

HISTORY OF MASONRY.

BY PRESIDENT J. BLANCHARD, OF WHEATON COLLEGE.

This is now published in three tracts of four pages each. Price of each, 50 cents per 100; $4 per 1000.

TRACT No. 1, PART FIRST—Shows the origin of Speculative Freemasonry, and is entiled "HISTORY OF MASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART SECOND—Is entitled "DESPOTIC CHARACTER OF FREEMASONRY"

TRACT No. 1, PART THIRD—Is entitled "FREEMASONRY A CHRIST-EXCLUDING RELIGION"

TRACT NO. 2:

MASONIC MURDER,

By REV. J. R. BAIRD, of Pleasantville, Pa., a seceding Mason who has taken 17 degrees. A 2-page tract at 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 3:

SECRETS OF MASONRY,

BY ELI TAPLEY.

This is a 4-page Illustrated Tract, showing the signs, gripe and pass-words, of the first three degrees. 50 cents per 100, or $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 4:

GRAND! GREAT GRAND!!

BY PHILO CARPENTER.

This is a 2-page tract, calling the attention of the public to the despotic and ridiculous titles of Freemasonry. Price 25 cents per 100; $2 00 per 1,000.

TRACT. NO. 5:

Extracts From Masonic Oaths and Penalties, as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.

This tract is a reprint of a tract published in 1834, and is a very weighty document. A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 6:

Hon. John Quincy Adams' Letter.

Giving His and His Father's Opinion of Freemasonry (1831.);

AND

Hon. James Madison's Letter,

Giving His Opinion of Freemasonry (1832).

Both of these letters, in one 4-page tract, at 50 cents per 100 $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 7:

SATAN'S CABLE-TOW.

A 4-page tract. This is a careful analysis of the character of Masonic oaths, and shows them to be most blasphemous and unchristian; and the Masonic Cable Tow is clearly shown to be the Cable Tow by which Satan is leading thousands to eternal death cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 8:

Is a 2-page double tract, "ILLUSTRATED." The first page represents a Mason proclaiming the wonderful wisdom and benevolence of the order, with an article below, entitled "Freemasonry is only 152 Years Old," and gives the time and place of its birth.

The second side is entitled, "Murder and Treason not Developed," and shows that the Masonic order is treasonable in its constitution, and is both anti-Republican and anti-Christian. Price 25 cents per 100; $2 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 9, ILLUSTRATED:

FREEMASONRY IN THE CHURCH.

Copy of a petition for the higher degrees of Freemasonry, in which Blasphemous and Despotic Titles are enumerated and prayed for. The Copy was printed for the use of "Occidental Sovereign Consistory S. P. R. S.," 32d degree—a Chicago Lodge—and was ordered by a deacon of a Christian Church who is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ill

TRACT NO. 10:

CHARACTER AND SYMBOLS OF FREEMASONRY.

A 2-page tract, (ILLUSTRATED) by its "Grand Secretaries, Grand Lecturers, Perfect Prince Freemasons, Grand Inspector, Inquisitor Commanders, Grand High Priests," etc. The wonderful symbolical meaning of "the Cable Tow." "the Square and Compass," "the Lamb Skin, or white Apron," and "the Common Gavel," are given in the exact words of the highest Masonic authority. 25 cents per 100 or $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 11;

Address of Niagara County Association, New York.

TO THE PUBLIC;

Concerning the Morgan Murder, and the character of Freemasonry shown by this and other Masonic murders. 50 cents

TRACT NO. 12:

JUDGE WHITNEY AND MASONRY.

This tract contains a condensed account of Judge Whitney's Defense before the Grand Lodge of Illinois, on charge of unmasonic conduct in bringing Samuel L. Keith the murderer of Ellen Slade, and a member of his Lodge, to justice, with Judge Whitney's subsequent renunciation of Masonry,

An 8-page tract, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 13:

DR. NATHANIEL COLVER ON MASONRY,

and

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D.,

Chancellor of the University of New York, on SECRET SOCIETIES A double 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 14:

GRAND LODGE MASONRY,

ITS RELATION TO CIVIL GOVERNMENT AND THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION.

Opening address before the Monmouth Convention, by PRES BLANCHARD of WHEATON COLLEGE. This is a 16-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 15:

MASONIC OATHS NULL AND VOID

A clear and conclusive argument proving the invalidity of any oath or obligation to do evil. By REV. J. A. HART, Secretary National Christian Association. Published by special order of the Association. 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 16:

HON. SETH M. GATES ON FREEMASONRY.

PROOF THAT THE INSTITUTION THAT MURDERED MORGAN IS UNCHANGED IN CHARACTER

This is a letter to the Monmouth Convention by Hon. Seth M. Gates who was Depnty Sheriff of Genesee County, and also Secretary of the Leroy Lodge at the time of Morgan's Abduction A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 17:

Origin, Obligations and Expenses of The Grange.

WITH A CONSTITUTION OF A FARMERS' CLUB.

This little tract ought to be put into the hands of every Farmer in the United States. Four-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 18:

HON. WM. H. SEWARD ON SECRET SOCIETIES

Extracts from a Speech on Know-nothingism in the U. S. Senate in 1855. The testimony of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS MILLARD FILLMORE CHIEF JUSTIC MARSHALL and others to be added.

A 2-page tract, 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 19.

BRICKS FOR MASONS TO LAY.

WASHINGTON, MADISON, MARSHALL, RUSH, HANCOCK, ADAMS AND WEBSTER, give brief clear testimony against the Lodge A 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000

TRACT

OBJECTIONS TO MASONRY.

By A SECEDING MASON, of Cornton, Vermont

This tract contains many strong arguments against the Lodge drawn from personal experience, observation and study of its character A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 21.

MASONIC CHASTITY.

BY EMMA A. WALLACE.

The author, by wonderfully clear illustration and argument, shows the terribly corrupt nature of Freemasonry. No true woman who reads this will ever speak with approbation of this institution. A 4-page tract 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT No. 22.

LINUS CHITTENDEN ON FREEMASONRY.

The Author a Seceding Master Mason states his objection to the Lodge, drawn both from experience and observation, in a clear concise and forcible style.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 23

MASONIC OATHS AND PENALTIES.

ADDRESS OF REV. A. M. MILLIGAN AT THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION

This is the clearest and most conclusive argument to show the wickedness of masonic oaths and the duty to disregard and repent of them that we have ever seen.

A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 24.

SHOULD FREEMASONS BE ADMITTED TO CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP?

The principles and teachings of Freemasonry taken from the highest masonic authorities are compared with those of the Bible, several Masonic Oaths are given in whole or in part with the comments of Rev's. Moses Stewart, Nathaniel Colver, and Charles G Finney, on this character. Those who love a pure Christianity should aid in the circulation of this tract. A 4 page tract, 50cts. per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 25.

The American Party,

ITS OBJECT, ORGANIZATION, PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES.

Some of the ablest men in the nation have pronounced our platform the best that has been presented to the American people for the past fifty years Our Candidates are men of acknowledged ability and honesty, and if every voter in the United States could read this our "POLITICAL TRACT," our Candidates could undoubtedly be elected. One friend pledges a dollar for every other dollar contributed and this 8 page tract costs but $1.00 per 100, or $8.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 26.

FREEMASONRY A RELIGION.

This Tract is made up of quotations from Standard Masonic Authors and nothing could more clearly demonstrate the fact that Freemasonry claims to be a Christless and therefore Anti-christian religion.

An 8 page Tract, $1 00 per 100. $8 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 27.

Duty and Ability to Know the Character of Freemasonry.

Thousands seem to consider it a virtue to know nothing about the character of Secret Societies. This is shown to be a great error if not a crime and our duty to use the knowledge within our reach, especially when of such vital importance, is clearly enforced.

A 4 Page Tract, 50 cents per 100. $4 00 per 1000.

Cynosure Tract No. 28.

FREEMASONRY REVEALED.

A LEGAL ATTESTATION BY EDMOND BONAYNE

To the correctness of the published expositions of Freemasonry. The author very briefly states the mode of preparation and initiation in the various degrees, with the mock murder and resurrection of the candidate in the personification of Hiram Abiff in the 3d, degree and the penalties of each.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100. $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 1, IN SWEDISH,

translated by Prof. A. R. CERVIN. A 15-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

ENOCH HONEYWELL'S TRACT.

TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA. Postage 5cts. per 100.

TRACTS FREE.

GERMAN CYNOSUCE TRACT A.

Six Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason.

By Rev. A. GROLE, Pastor, German M.E. Church, Worchester, Mass

This is our first German Tract, and it is a good one; it ought to have a large circulation. A 4 page tract, Price 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

FREE TRACTS.

A Tract Fund for the Free Distribution of Tracts

HAS BEEN SECURED AND SHOULD NEVER BE EXHAUSTED. A friend has pledged this fund a dollar for every other dollar received, so EVERY NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TRACT FUND COUNTS DOUBLE, and thus $10.00 pays for 20,000 pages of tracts.

The distribution of these tracts has already saved hundreds o young men from the lodge, but there is a great lack of funds to supply the constantly increasing demand for Free Tracts.

During the year 1876 were gratuitously sent out, mostly in very small lots. The present demand is fully 100.000 pages per month, but funds are lacking to meet it.

Many of our most earnest workers in this cause of God are poor men, who would be glad to circulate thousands of pages of Antimasonic literature if they could have them free.

SHALL WE NOT HAVE AN INEXHAUSTIBLE TRACT FUND

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together and is just the thing to select from. Price 20cents. See advertisement page 15.

Enoch Honeywell Esq., pays for an unlimited nunmber of his tract addressed "To THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA." It is an excelent tract, bearing the printed endorsement of Executive Committee of the National Christian Association. He has furnished the public over 150.000 pages of these tracts during the past year.

TRACTS FREE. If sent by mail, 5 cts per 100 is charged postage.

Send Contributions and orders to

EZRA A. COOK,

(Tract Committee 18 Wabash Ave, Chicago, Ill.

Publishers' Department.

No. Cynosure subscribers Sept. 1st, 1877.....	3,628
No. Cynosure subscribers April 28th, 1877.....	3,885
Difference.....	257

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED DURING WEEK ENDING SEPT. 1, 1877.—From L Baldwin, A M Beaty, S H Booth, G Cobb, D S Faris, A B Gilliland, H H Hinman, E Kent, J Klein, J W Lewis, W E Lincoln, J A Laird, C M Livesay, J Liggett, N R Luce, J B Miller, E McCoy, D P Rathbun, J S Smith, P Smith, A Vandooser, J Viall, W Worth, I Weaver, T B Wilson, A Y Wickwire, R C Wilson.

Books and Tracts sent Week ending Sept. 1, 1877.

By Express.

W. Worth.

By Mail.

J Sleeper, F P Park, E J Hill, Rev G Birkmann, Phebe Bruce, S C Kimball, J Hosking, C B Ewer, T Irwin, W A T Jones, W Warren, D Stevens, G E Speer, J W Clough, W Williamson, Rev J S Smith, Z A Rawson, A Borden, A D Kraemer, A M Paull, W H Clay, C E Jones, R C Wilson, C S Bulhand, U P Publishing House, J L Wilson, C M Livesay, J G Goodman, J H Payne, J W Hendey, C L McCrocken, J H Smith, Rev J Laescher, L Christianson, J P Earenfight, W J Hayden, E Umbaugh, G C Ainslie, A B Holmes, W Haislett, A Smith, J H H Woodward, J Murdoch.

Donation to Tract Fund.

Rev J S Smith, 30 cents.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3, 1877.

GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		1 11
" No. 3	1 04	1 05
" Rejected		86
" Minnesota	1 12	1 14
" Winter	1 12	1 16
Corn—No. 2	42	43¾
Rejected	39½	40
Oats—No. 2		24
Rejected		18
Rye—No. 2		58
Bran per ton		9 00
Flour—Winter	5 50	7 00
Spring	3 00	6 25
Hay—Timothy	8 00	9 00
Prairie	5 00	8 00
Mess Beef	10 00	11 50
Tallow	7¼	7¾
Lard per cwt		8 37½
Mess pork, per brl.		12 15
Butter medium to best	13	25
Cheese	8	11
Beans	1 50	3 00
Eggs	11	12
Seeds—Timothy	1 00	1 80
Clover	6 50	7 00
Flax	1 23	1 28
Potatoes new per bu	35	40
Broom corn	3½	7½
Hides green to dry flint	7	17
Lumber—Clear	28 00	34 00
Common	9 50	11 00
Shingles		2 50
WOOL—Washed	36	42
Unwashed	21	27
LIVE STOCK Cattle Choice	5 20	5 75
Good	4 75	5 10
Medium	4 00	4 50
Common	3 00	3 75
Hogs	4 60	5 40
Sheep	3 00	4 25

New York Market.

Flour	$3 00	9 50
Wheat—Spring	1 29	1 35
Winter	1 25	1 30
Corn	55	57
Oats	30	42
Rye		67
Lard		8¾
Mess pork		13 12
Butter	16	21
Cheese	5	11
Eggs	16	18
Wool	10	58

MASON & HAMLIN,

Cabinet Organs!

The only Organ declared to be of First Rank by the Judges at Philadelphia

Gold Medals and Diplomas of Honor awarded them at all the great World Expositions.

Being the only American Organs which have ever obtained any award in Competition with the best European makers.

These celebrated instruments are now offered to the public in New and Elegant Styles at the very Lowest Prices consistent with Best Material and Workmanship. They may be purchased on

Easy Monthly or Quarterly Installments

or Rented until Rent pays for them.

Every organ warranted to give satisfaction. Illustrated catalogue free.

Mason & Hamlin Organ Company

Boston, 154 Tremont Street,

New York, 25 Union Square,

Chicago, 250 & 252 Wabash Ave.

Agents Wanted!

TO SELL THE PUBLICATIONS OF

EZRA A. COOK & CO.

Liberal Terms Offered.

Capable persons who are in need of pecuniary aid may clear

Handsome Profits,

While at the same time aiding the cause of Reform. Apply to EZRA A. COOK & CO., No. 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1	square, 1 insertion,		$2.00
1	square (1 inch deep) one month		7.00
1	" " 2		10.00
1	" " 3	"	15.00
1	" " 6	"	25.00
1	" " 12	"	40.00

Discount for Space.

On 2 squares 5 per cent, On 3 squares 10 per cent
On 4 " 15 " " On 5 " 20 "
On ¼ col. 25 per cent On one col. 30 per cent

Discontinuances.

Unless we receive orders to stop the paper sooner, we continue the Cynosure a full month after the time expires. Those wishing their paper discontinued are requested to notify us AT THE TIME THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS EXPIRE.

ADDRESS all letters with subscriptions or orders for books, tracts, and donations to the tract fund, to Ezra A. Cook & Co., No. 13 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

SOMETHING NEW.

A CHART OF MASONRY

Showing the degrees from the first to the thirty-third, entitled

Degrees of Ancient Accepted Scottish Freemasonry,

According to a Manual by Wm. M. Cunningham 33d Degree.

Designed by Rev. P. Stoddard, to explain Freemasonry, as shown by Morgan's Exposition and Richardson's Monitor.

A Neat Lithograph 22x28 Inches.

Single copies finely colored, post paid	$ 7
Per dozen " " " "	5 00
Per 100 " " " " Express charges extra	35 00
Single copy, colored, varnished and mounted postpaid	1 00
Per dozen colored, varnished and mounted, post paid	7 50
Per 100, colored, varnished and mounted, express charges extra	50 00

25 COPIES OR MORE SENT AT THE 100 RATES.

Renewals.

The date at which subscriptions expire, is with each subscriber's name on the address label.

Please send renewals before this date occurs. Notice if the date is changed to correspond soon; if not, or if the paper fails to come, write without delay.

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry.

A PRACTICAL Guide to the Ceremonies in the Degrees conferred in Masonic Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated edition. In cloth, $1.25: paper, 75 Cts.

Although this Monitor is extensively used in the Lodge, especially in Conferring the higher degrees, it is publicly called an "exposition," and not allowed as authority.

MOORE'S MASONIC TRESTLE BOARD.

THIS work was originally prepared by order of the National Masonic Convention held at Baltimore, Md., in 1843. It is known among Masons everywhere as the "BLUE BOOK," and has long been considered a standard work. Price, $1.75.

TRUE MASONIC CHART; OR, HIEROGLYPHIC MONITOR.

BY JEREMY L. CROSS, Grand Lecturer.

With a Memoir and Portrait of the Author, Containing all the Emblems explained in the Degrees of entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason. Designed and arranged agreeably to the Lectures.

12mo. Cloth.....$1 50

The Most Valuable Household Necessity Presented Free to any One who will Engage in the Best Paying Business Ever Offered.

Being desirous to more fully introduce the Celebrated

STEAM WASHER

OR WOMAN'S FRIEND,

Will for the next ninety days FURNISH (for about the cost of boxing, drayage and shipping), one of my Steam-Washers. Over 500,000 have already been sold at $10.00 a piece, and this in itself is a sufficient endorsement. There is nothing like it in use. Every family needs it, and will have it. It is a simple arrangement by which steam is applied to the washing of clothing, and enables all to wash without labor, loss of time, wearing of clothing, etc., etc. It will do the washing of an ordinary family in 30 minutes.

CUT THIS CONTRACT OUT

And inclose with it $1.50 to cover cost of boxing, drayage, etc., etc., and I will forward you one of my NEW AND IMPROVED STEAM WASHERS. And if you will act as agent or influence some one else to act, either on salary or commission, I will return the money paid for the sample when you make your first order, consequently YOU GET A SAMPLE WASHER FREE. Do not order a sample unless you have a reasonable expectation of engaging in the business or can influence some one else to engage

J. C. TILTON, Pittsburgh, Pa.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

To any one who will act as agent, I will pay a liberal salary per month, or a LARGE COMMISSION. I will not limit you to a CERTAIN TERRITORY; and if you decide to send for a sample, do so at once, as I want but a limited number of live agents.

CALIFORNIA

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the WEST and NORTH-WEST, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between CHICAGO and all points in ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, NORTHERN MICHIGAN, MINNESOTA, IOWA, NEBRASKA, CALIFORNIA, and the WESTERN TERRITORIES. Its

Omaha and California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in NORTHERN ILLINOIS, IOWA, DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, COLORADO, UTAH, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, CHINA, JAPAN, AND AUSTRALIA. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for NORTHERN WISCONSIN and MINNESOTA, and for MADISON, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, DULUTH, and all points in the Great Northwest. Its

Winona and St. Paul Line.

Is the only route for WINONA, ROCHESTER, OWATONNA, MANKATO, ST. PETER, NEW ULM, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for JANESVILLE, WATERTOWN, FOND DU LAC, OSHKOSH, APPLETON, GREEN BAY, ESCANABA, NEGAUNEE, MARQUETTE, HOUGHTON, HANCOCK, and the LAKE SUPERIOR COUNTRY. Its

Freeport and Dubuque Line

Is the only route for ELGIN, ROCKFORD, FREEPORT, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago and Milwaukee Line

Is the old Lake Shore Route, and is the only one passing through EVANSTON, LAKE FOREST, HIGHLAND PARK, WAUKEGAN, RACINE, KENOSHA to MILWAUKEE.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

are run on all through trains of this road.

This is the ONLY LINE running these cars between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our Sleepers connect with the Overland Sleepers on the Union Pacific Railroad for all points West of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago and North-Western Railway LEAVE CHICAGO as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California. Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, Two Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four Through Trains daily. Pullman Cars on night trains, Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta, La Crosse and Winona and points in Minnesota. One Through Train daily, with Pullman Sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains.

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, Two Trains daily. Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, Four Trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points you can have from two to ten trains daily

New York Office, No 415 Broadway; Boston Office, No. 5 State Street; Omaha Office, 245 Farnham Street San Francisco Office, 121 Montgomery Street; Chicago Ticket Offices: 62 Clark Street, under Sherman House; Kinzie Street Depot, corner W. Kinzie; Wells Street Depot, corner Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agents, apply to

W. H. STENNETT, MARVIN HUGHITT,
Gen. Pass. Ag't, Chicago. Gen Man'g. Chicago.

[Eastern.)

Excelsior Marriage Certificate.

It is decidedly the most BEAUTIFUL, TASTEFUL and SENSIBLE thing of the kind I have ever seen."—Rev. F. G. Hibbard, D. D.

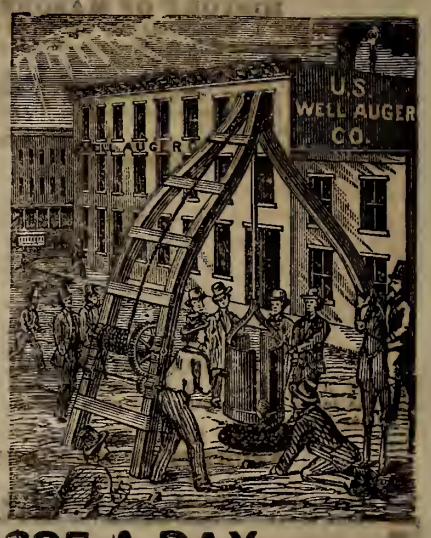
"The most SCRIPTURAL, BEAUTIFUL and APPROPRIATE Marriage Certificate I have ever seen."—Late Rev. H. Mattison, D. D.

"SOMETHING NEW AND BEAUTIFUL, which we pronounce the handsomest thing of the kind we ever laid eyes on."—Meth. Home Journal, Phila. Contains two Ornamental Ovals, for Photographs

A BEAUTIFUL LITHOGRAPH 14 1-4 by 18 1-4 inches. 25 cts each, $2.25 per doz- $15 per 100.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., CHICAGO

$1200 SALARY. Permanent salesmen wanted to sell Staple Goods to dealers. No peddling. Expenses paid. Address S. A. GRANT & CO., 2, 4, 6 & 8 Home St., Cincinnati, O.



$25 A DAY SURE PAY.

This Well Auger will bore 2 wells 50 feet deep in one day, and from 1 to 4 feet in diameter. It bores through any kind of earth, hard pan, slate, coal and is a success among boulders and quicksand, where all other augers fail. Read below what great men say about it:

☞We, the undersigned, know of the reputation and merits of the above Patent Well Auger, and recommend it to the public as one of the most important, useful and practical inventions of the age, and we feel confident, from our knowledge of it, that a man can take it into good territory and make $25 per day clear of expenses. A. J. Faulk, Governor of Dakota Territory. Gov. O. A. Hadley, of Arkansas. Ex Governor Dow, Texas. Rev. D. Oglesby, of Richview, Ill.

The following persons have this Auger in operation. Write to them (enclosing a stamp), and see how they like it: Geo. M. Ward, Salem, N. J. (a good old quaker). S. M. Payne, Wilsonville, Shelby Co., Ala. Rev. E. Berry, Gratiot, Licking Co., O. C. F. Walter, Concord, N. C. C. W. Herrand, Lapeer, Mich. Gen. J. A. Lockhart, Van Buren, Ark. County rights for sale. Every Auger warrented. Send stamp for our large Auger Book, and address,

U. S. AUGER CO., St. Louis, Mo.

$3 GOLD PLATED WATCHES. Cheapest in the known world. Sample Watch Free to Agents. Address, A. COULTER & Co., Chicago.

NEW CLUB RATES

FOR

Either Renewals or New Subscriptions.

Papers addressed to one or different Post Offices as desired.

CLUB RATES INCLUDING POSTAGE.

2 to 4 Subscribers, at $2.00 a year.
5 to 9 " at 1.75 "
10 or more " at 1.50 "

Names for a Club may be sent at different times; THE MONEY FOR THE CLUB TO BE SENT WITH THE FIRST LOT OF NAMES; but other Subscriptions may be added at same rates after Club is full.

The effect of Club Rates is to give the Commission to those who compose the Club and no commission can be allowed on these rates.

$2500 A YEAR. Agents wanted. Business legitimate. Particulars free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St Louis, Mo.

How to Send Money.

Post office orders, checks or drafts on Chicago or towns east of Chicago, and currency by express may be sent at our risk. If it is not possible to send by either of the four ways named, money in a registered letter may be sent at our risk, but it is not as safe.

TERMS FOR THE CYNOSURE.

$2.00 per annum, in advance.
20c " " " for postage.

All who canvass for the CYNOSURE are allowed a cash commission of twenty per cent. or twenty-five per cent in books at retail prices, one-half this percentage on renewals, and any one sending $100 for the CYNOSURE during three months, will be entitled to an extra five per cent.

All responsible persons who desire to promote this reform are authorized to act as agents.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

Reading Room Coll.

"In Secret Have I Said N[illegible]ing."—Jesus Christ.

EZRA A. COOK & CO., PUBLISHERS, NO. 18 WABASH AVENUE.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, SEPT. 13, 1877.

VOL. IX., No. 50.—WHOLE NO. 390. WEEKLY (post paid) $2.20 A YEAR.

Contents.

	Page
TOPICS OF THE TIMES	1
EDITORIALS:
Progress of the Cause	8
Hon. Seth M. Gates	8
CONTRIBUTED AND SELECTED:
The Great Masonic Virtue	2
Misapprehensions about Holiness	2
The Old Union Club Organization	2
The Oath of Knighthood	3
Nobles of the Mystic Shrine	3
Napoleon I. on the Eastern Question	3
Our Foreign Letter	4
The Chicago Exposition	4
REFORM NEWS:
The Indiana State Convention; D. P. Rathbun's Work in Michigan; From Fremont Co., Iowa; The Fellow Craft Degree in Carpenter Hall; Rev. J. P. Richards in Iowa; Good Effects of a State Convention	5, 6
CORRESPONDENCE:
No Agreement with a Lie; Shall we have the Songs, Bro. Clark? Our Mail	6
Freemasons in the U. S. and Canadas (Statistical)	7
Obituary—Peter C. Dunlap and Abram Stratton	12
Knights of Pythias Ritual	12
Home Circle	10
Children's Corner	11
Home and Farm	7
Sabbath School	11
Religious Intelligence	5
News of the Week	9
Publishers' Department	16

Notices.

THE TENTH NAT'L CONVENTION.

of the National Christian Association will be held in Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 23rd to 25th next, beginning on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 23rd with a preliminary meeting for social converse and prayer in the afternoon of the same day. Let every friend of the reform do what he may be able for the success of this meeting: by arranging his affairs so as to be present; or, assisting to send a delegate; by having the editor of his local paper print the notice of the meeting; by suggesting some topic for practical discussion to the programme committee; but, above all, by prayer to God for his blessing upon the meeting. Let every local or auxiliary association arrange to be represented.

THE WISCONSIN STATE CONVENTION.

On account of the difficulty of holding this meeting at Baraboo at the time fixed it has been indefinitely postponed by order of the President.

KANSAS STATE ASSOCIATION.

The Kansas State Association opposed to secret orders, will hold its next annual Convention in Topeka, commencing on Monday, Sept. 24th, at 7 P. M., and will continue its sessions about two days. Able speakers will be in attendance, and will deliver public addresses on Monday and Tuesday evenings. The friends of anti-secrecy throughout the State, are urged to hold public meetings in their respective localities, have delegates appointed to said Convention, and secure as large an attendance as possible.

J. DODDS, Sec'y.

INDIANA STATE CONVENTION.

The fifth annual State convention of Indiana, opposed to secret societies, will meet at Plainfield, Hendricks county, October 17, 1877, commencing on the evening of the 17th at 7 o'clock and closing on the evening of the 19th. Edmond Ronayne and other prominent speakers are expected. It is confidently expected that all the county associations of the State will be fully represented, and all lovers of the cause of Christ will make the necessary sacrifice to meet with us. Come in the name and in the strength of the Lord Jesus. By order of the Ex. Committee.

PETER RICH, Chairman

THE ILLINOIS STATE ASSOCIATION,

Will hold its annual Convention at Streator, LaSalle county, beginning December 4th. Just after Thanksgiving the friends will be ready to begin the winter campaign. The churches will soon then open their protracted meetings. Let us hold such a meeting as will assure every Christian pastor that this reform can be taken up in the midst of his revival work with a blessing on himself and his church. Let all prepare for this meeting.

CENTRAL KANSAS ANTI-SECRECY ASSOCIATION

Will hold its next regular meeting at Sterling, Rice county, on the Atchison and Santa Fe railroad on September 28th and 29th beginning at 2 o'clock P. M. on the first day.

G. W. KELLER, Pres.
WM. L. HINSHAW, Sec'y.

Past Master Ronayne will be at Waverly, Iowa, from Monday to Wednesday, 17th, 18th and 19th inst., after which he expects to visit Birmingham, Van Buren county, Iowa, and work the degrees there on the 24th and succeeding days. On the 1st, 2nd and 3rd of October, Monday to Wednesday, he visits Marengo, where great preparations are under way and there will be doubtless a gathering worth going far to see. On the succeeding days of the same week he goes to Viola, Mercer county, Ill., and will work the degrees there for the first time in that locality.

Topics of the Time.

The reaction from strikes and broken banks and financial depression is coming with a wonderful rebound. Though the early days of August were spent in getting their trains in order, some of the railroads running west of Chicago report an increase of over a hundred thousand dollars in net profits over the corresponding month of 1876; and in some cases there is scarcely a better month's record on the books of the company. Business of all kinds feels a reviving touch as the grain product pours eastward. The corn crop promises well every where and the reports for the present month, if frost does not blight for another week, will show more than an average yield in large sections. While all rejoice at the prospect, yet it should be with fear, remembering whose hand has caused the earth to bring forth in abundance. Let not prosperity harden us that we should withhold from the Lord that which is due from our stewardship.

The hand of God has interposed to bring forward new and serious questions in the complicated affairs of France. On Monday of last week Thiers, the greatest scholar, historian and statesman in France died suddenly from an apoplectic stroke. The Republican ranks are in momentary confusion, for this unexpected blow has removed their nominal leader and almost the only bond that unites the extreme radicals with their more conservative party companions. Gambetta, impetuous and perhaps ill-balanced, the present idol of the Commune, has little hope of success as leader of the Republicans, but with Thiers as figurehead the election of this month was reasonably sure to go against the Jesuit and Bourbon. Hence the deep mourning of Republican France. Thiers was eighty years old, yet retaining a wonderful vigor. The son of a blacksmith, his precocious and versatile talents had elevated him through every grade of distinction as an author and a politician, and his impress is made upon the best institutions of France. Mankind will honor him for having remarkably combined in a long career talent, ambition, honesty and patriotism.

MacMahon attempted to make amends for his persecution of Gambetta through the civil courts, and his autocratic measures against the Republicans to secure their defeat, by proclaiming a state funeral and the most august honors for the dead ex-President. Madam Thiers, however, was unwilling that political advantages should be captured at the expense of her mourning, and the government retired, refusing to grant any privileges to the funeral except to be strictly watched by an immense police force. The burial services on Saturday were attended by no unlawful demonstrations, however, though the multitudes from city and country could hardly find space in the streets of Paris. Grevy and Jules Simon were the principal orators of the occasion. Thiers may yet be victorious in his death. The radicals who respected him living may be more united in the impending election crisis with those Republicans whom Thiers represented. A few days will determine the strength of their convictions. And they do well to be firm and united, for the attack of the Jesuits is directed not alone at the government, but also at that liberty of conscience which has for a few years gained rapidly in the Republic. An eminent minister writes to the English press: "Religious liberty in France is about to pass through a sorrowful eclipse. Only recently there has appeared an extraordinary circular from the Minister of the Interior on the subject of colportage, which must inevitably affect the colportage of the Bible. The days are evil; it is the hour of darkness; but God reigns, and public opinion continues calm, steadfast and immovable in its attachment to liberty."

The Philadelphia Exposition is not yet prospering though God is defied and all days the gates stand open. The Christian Statesman says: "A second Sabbath at the Sabbath-breaking Exhibition in this city drew a little less than ten thousand persons within its gates, or about one thousand less than on the previous day. We are pleased to observe a general expression of opinion by the religious press to the effect that Christian men cannot consistently participate in or encourage an Exhibition which is now laboring to establish itself in this city as a permanent and a pervasive force operating in hostility to the Sabbath. Zion's Herald (Methodist) says: 'We sincerely hope religious men will promptly follow the course of the Presbyterian Board of Publication and withdraw their goods if they form a part of the Exhibition, and thereby cease to countenance a decision which outrages the social Christian conscience, violates the law of the State as recorded on the statute-book and defies the law of God.'" At the Governor's reception a remarkable speech was made by Governor Young, of Ohio, commending the Sabbath opening as an assurance of the success of the Exhibition. This was said in the face of the fact that this Sabbath arrangement is in violation of the law of Pennsylvania and of every other State but Louisiana!

In broad contrast with this mismanagement and desecration is an order issued last week by General Manager H. B. Ledyard of the Michigan Central railroad, who is not only a God-fearing man but believes in putting his principles into his work. An order from him to heads of departments issued from Detroit, September 1st, reads: "I desire to call your attention to the necessity of decreasing the amount of work on Sunday which our employes are called upon to perform. Much of this work can be dispensed with. Our employes should, as far possible, be enabled to rest on Sunday. Each head of department will be expected to so regulate the work of his department that no work shall be do on that day except such as is absolutely necessary. Division superintendents and train-masters will, when practicable, arrange the runs of their men so that they can be home on Sunday." Not the least sincere in their rejoicing at this order will be the employes immediately affected by it.

The Great Masonic Virtue.

BY REV. J. W. RAYNOR.

The first point of Masonic obligation is the complete concealment of its secrets; hence Morris (Dict., page 421, Art. Secret-Breaking), defines: "Divulging secrets Masonically entrusted. Under the head of Discipline is given a catalogue of fifteen prime classes of unmasonic acts, of which this is one. The importance of secret-keeping is made the ground-work of all Masonic degrees."

This means that the first promise in the obligation of each degree is a promise of strict secrecy concerning that and former degrees. So the instructions in the manuals, under the heads of cardinal virtues enforce this point, e. g.

"Of Temperance." "This virtue should be the practice of every Mason, as he is thereby taught to avoid excess, or contracting any licentious or vicious habit, the indulgence of which might lead him to disclose some of those valuable secrets which he has promised to conceal and never reveal, and which would consequently subject him to the contempt and detestation of all good Masons."

Again, "Of Fortitude." "This virtue is equally distant from rashness and cowardice; and, like the former, should be deeply impressed upon the mind of every Mason, as a safeguard or security against any illegal attack that may be made, by force or otherwise, to extort from him any of those secrets with which he has been so solemnly intrusted, and which was emblematically represented upon his first admission into the lodge."

"Of Prudence." "This virtue should be the peculiar characteristic of every Mason, not only for the government of his conduct while in the lodge, but also when abroad in the world. It should be particularly attended to in all strange and mixed companies, never to let fall the least sign, token or word whereby the secrets of Masonry might be unlawfully obtained."

The next point in the first obligation of Masonry is this: "I furthermore solemnly promise and swear that I will not write, print, stamp, stain, cut, carve, mark or engrave them, (i. e. Masonic secrets), upon anything movable or immovable," etc. By referring to Morris' Dictionary under these several words, "write," p. 515; "print," p. 378; "stamp," "stain," p. 451; "cut," p. 118; "carve," p. 75; "mark," p. 294; or "engrave," p. 159, we are told: "In the rituals of Blue Lodge Masonry, the initiate is strongly charged concerning the secrets of the society, not to 'write,' them, etc. upon anything which would convey their meaning, and thus lead to an improper discovery."

Bear in mind, that in every degree in Masonry the candidate is sworn under death-penalties of body mutilation and dismemberment, and in some of the higher degrees under added penalties of eternal damnation, and the importance of secrecy in Speculative Masonry becomes apparent. In the charge to the Entered Apprentice, Webb says: "Finally, keep sacred and inviolable the mysteries of the order, as these are to distinguish you from the rest of the community, and mark your consequence among Masons." In the same Monitor, (Webb's), it is also stated: "Secrecy is an indispensible element of Masonry."

Again: "If the secrets of Masonry are replete with such advantages to mankind, it may be asked, Why are they not divulged for the general good of society? To which it may be answered, Were the privileges of Masonry to be indiscriminately bestowed, the design of the institution would be subverted, and, being familiar, like many other important matters, would soon lose their value and sink into disregard."

A foot-note to this extract says:

"A better reason than this is, that we, as Masons, have received them under a binding pledge to preserve them as secrets from the world, and cannot short of the most horrible falsehood, violate our covenant. This is well understood by the community at large, who stamped the seal of perjury so deeply into the forehead of those who, in the last generation, pretended to expose our mysteries to the world, that but few of them ever recovered from the disgrace."

Again, Mackey in his Jurisprudence, p. 27, says:

"The necessity of this law [viz., that every lodge when congregated should be duly tiled,] arises from the esoteric character of Masonry. As a secret institution, its portals must of course be guarded from the intrusion of the profane, and such a law must therefore always have been in force from the very beginning of the order."

Again Mackey in his Jurisprudence, p. 35, says:

"The secrecy of the institution is another and a most important landmark. There is some difficulty in precisely defining what is meant by a 'secret society.' If the term refers, as perhaps in strictly logical language it should, to those associations whose designs are concealed from the public eye, and whose members are unknown; which produce their results in darkness and whose operations are carefully hidden from the public gaze—then clearly Freemasonry is not a secret society."....

"But if by a secret society is meant—and this is the most popular understanding of the term—a society in which there is a certain amount of knowledge, whether it be of methods of recognition, or of legendary and traditional learning, which is imparted to those only who have passed through an established form of initiation, the form itself being also concealed or esoteric, then in this sense is Freemasonry undoubtedly a secret society. Now this form of secrecy is a form inherent in it, existing with it from its very foundation, and secured to it by its ancient landmarks. If divested of its secret character it would lose its identity, and would cease to be Freemasonry. Whatever objections may, therefore, be made to the institution on account of its secrecy, and however much some unskillful brethren have been willing in times of trial, for the sake of expediency, to divest it of its secret character, it will be ever impossible to do so, even were the landmark not standing before us as an insurmountable obstacle; because such change of its character would be social suicide, and the death of the order would follow its legalized exposure. Freemasonry, as a secret association, has lived unchanged for centuries—as an open society it would not last for as many years.

Misapprehensions about Holiness.

BY REV. H. H. HINMAN.

Every sermon, every prayer meeting and all religious efforts have for their object to promote holiness; but if with such efforts there is associated the idea that we ought not to expect to be holy in this life, all aspirations after holiness will be greatly discouraged. It is therefore of great practical importance that we should understand the truth as God has revealed it.

It is often said that a profession of entire sanctification is inconsistent with that humility and dependence on Christ which ought to characterize every Christian, and that hence no such profession ought to be made. But what is a professien of entire sanctification? Not that he who is sanctified has any goodness in him that is either self-originated or self-sustained. Not that he has any intrinsic merit over the vilest of sinners; but that, finding himself weak and helpless, unable to save himself, he has gone to Christ and committed "the keeping of his soul unto him as unto a faithful Creator and now finds that he is indeed able to keep him from falling and to present him faultless before the throne of his glory with exceeding joy."

The blind man who is conscious of his blindness, but has found a wise and loving friend to lead him ought not to be accused of boasting though he rejoices in his friend. So the Christian confessing his weakness may rightfully adopt the language of Paul, "God forbid that I should glory save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ by which the world is crucified unto me and I unto the world."

Again it is said that entire sanctification is inconsistent with growth in grace for that which is perfect can never be improved, and as we are required to "grow in grace," we cannot expect to be wholly sanctified. But did not Jesus grow in favor with God and man? and yet he was without sin. Indeed perfection, in the sense of completeness, is the most important condition of growth. The perfect animal or plant will be most likely to grow. That which is defective in any of its parts will probably be dwarfed. Growth in grace implies continued conformity to increasing light and knowledge. We grow in grace as we grow in the knowledge of Christ. Now entire conformity to all known obligation must precede any growth in grace and such growth can only exist so long as such entire obedience continues. We shall doubtless grow in heaven. The angels doubtless grow in grace and yet they are sinless. The young Christian "is new creature; old things have passed away and all things have become new," and yet he is a babe, a perfect child perhaps, and as such most likely to grow to the stature of a man. The Bible nowhere gives any intimation that growth in grace is a gradual breaking off of actual transgressions. There can be no such growth for "he that keepeth the whole law and yet offendeth in one point is guilty of all." He is not in a state of grace and hence he cannot grow in it.

The Old Union Club Organization

BY J. H. H. WOODWARD.

This was a secret organization formed and entered into originally by the Union men of Kentucky in the early part of the Rebellion, for the express purpose of opposing, counteracting and thwarting the objects and influence of that secret and dangerous disunion clique and oath-bound conspiracy known as the "Knights of the Golden Circle," which had spread over the whole South and had even permeated the Northern States of the Union, and which was also the principal lever employed by corrupt demagogues in carrying on their treasonable and nefarious designs for dismembering the Union. The Union Club Organization extended over a large portion of the United States and was the immediate progenitor of the two later organizations which rivalled and finally displaced it, and which are now known as the "Loyal League" and the "Grand Army of the Republic." It was an order organized upon a military basis, having a centralization of power. Thus there was a United States National Union Club with absolute power over all State Union Clubs, and each State Union Club had absolute power over all county and subordinate Union clubs existing within its own State jurisdiction. The State Union Club was composed of one representative from each county Union Club and each county Union Club was composed of one representative from each subordinate Union Club. The representative was secretly appointed to either body by the president of his county or subordinate Union Club, as the case might be, and was not made known to any other member of the Club. This was considered highly important at the time, and may really have been so, but if it was the fact and act were very Masonic in their nature and tendency to say the least. They were founded upon the principle of all tyranny that the further the power is removed from the people the better. Besides this obnoxious feature another of decided Masonic character was to be observed and felt in the arrogation of absolute power, which had for its excuse and justification the necessities and imperilments of the nation in the critical times then existing. It is almost needless to add that such or similar pleas have ever been entered for an excuse and justification of usurped and unauthorized power in every country and age and among all peoples upon whom and where exercised. It is an apology for ignored wrong.

Among the professed objects of this organization were the aid and sustenance of the Union and the maintenance and enforcement of the Constitution and laws of the United States; the discovery of rebels, secession sympathisers and Knights of the Golden Circle, that they might not be merely reported to the proper authorities for surveillance or punishment, but when the Rebellion was over that it might be known whom to avoid as discreditable, dishonored, and disloyal citizens; also, when the lines of communcation were re-opened and re-established between the North and the South that we might be prepared to assist, so far as possible, all those loyal men of the South whose business should have been crippled or ruined by the Rebellion, that they might be enabled to reinstate themselves and again place their feet upon the rounds and mount the ladder of prosperity. These were commendable objects most certainly but how are they now being fulfilled and carried out? Are unrepentant rebels, secession sympathisers and Knights of the Golden Circle now esteemed and treated as discreditable, dishonored, and disloyal citizens? Are the Union men of the South, acknowledged, protected and aided and their infamous oppressors arraigned, tried and punished? Let history answer, and the conduct, in this regard, of our professed Republican President be closely observed and marked.

It is not necessary to further dwell upon the other professed and actual objects of this organization, bearing as they all did upon the subject and purposes of the then existing war, but the deference shown to the anti-secret sentiment of the country which was prevalent among a large body of the people as late as 1862 is worthy of especial remark. In the circular stating the objects of this society, which was put forth by the State Union Club of Ohio, and which was permitted to be read to all good Union men, whom it was desired to have for members of the organization the following disclaimer upon the subject of secrecy was inserted: "The objections that have been so justly urged against most secret societies can in no way be applied to this organization, especially when our glorious Union is at stake; and no true lover of his country can possibly object to it; but, on the contrary, will promptly come forward and unite himself with it, that there may be a concert of action among all patriots." This carefully devised paragraph had its weight most undoubtedly for thousands of men who detested the spirit and practices of secret associations generally, were induced to and did enter this organization from purely patriotic motives, and remained true to its purposes until its mission was ended and there was no further need for its perpetuation, but as its existence and deeds are now matter of the past the undersigned can see no possible harm to ensue from laying bare its prominent and distinguishing features but on the contrary much good that may result therefrom.

[Continued next week.]

The Oath of Knighthood.

Of the several oaths or obligations of this degree only one will be noticed here, namely that called the "fifth libation," or "sealed obligation." It consists in drinking wine out of a human skull. The candidate receives the cup (the upper part of a human skull) and repeats after the Grand Commander the following obligation: "This pure wine I now take in testimony of my belief in the mortality of the body and the immortality of the soul, both here and hereafter—and as the sins of the world were laid upon the head of the Saviour, so may all the sins committed by the person whose skull this was, be heaped upon my head, in addition to my own, should I ever knowingly or willfully violate or transgress any obligation that I have heretofore taken, take at this time, or shall, at any future period, take, in relation to any degree of Masonry or order of Knighthood. So help me God."

The object of this degree seems to be to make the oath stronger, or more binding, than those of the inferior degrees. In those the penalty attached consists in a bodily punishment in this life, in this degree it is a punishment of the soul in the future life. There each trangressor is punished only for his own individual unmasonic conduct; here all the sins committed by another person (the person whose skull this was) are, in addition to his own sins, heaped upon his head; and there one's obligation relates only to the degrees to which he has been raised; here it relates to all the degrees of Masonry and Knighthood, past, present and future: the mere bodily punishment in Masonry is now changed into a spiritual punishment—a punishment of the soul in the future life.

There are some questions suggested by this obligation and penalty, which every one who contemplates joining, or has joined the order of Knighthood, ought to ponder well and take seriously to heart. The great God alone has the authority to inflict the punishment of the soul in the other world. Now, where did Christ say, or is it said anywhere in the Bible, that this authority has been transferred to the order of Knighthood or its Grand Commander? If so, are you not in conscience bound to inquire and know the chapter and verse where the transfer is made? If not, is it not a gigantic fraud and blasphemy to administer the oath and a grievous sin to take it? A Masonic obligation is in its nature like a contract between two parties. Now, if you as one of the contracting parties obligate yourself to observe, upon certain conditions, your part of the contract, and the other party alters the terms of the contract without your concurrence, are you not, by this ex parte act, in justice absolved of the penalty? In this degree the penalty of any obligation in relation to Masonry or Knighthood is altered from 'bodily punishment' to 'punishment of the soul,' and in justice you cannot be bound by this altered contract. It is just and right that you be punished for your own sins, unless you are pardoned; but whence do you derive the justice of having the sins of another person heaped upon your head? Or what would it amount to as a penalty, if all the sins of the person ("whose skull this was,") though heaped upon your head, should be pardoned? It is hard to imagine what is the ground of the fifth libation. If these Sir Knights are indeed a Christian order, as they profess to be, the fifth libation may be an imitation, if it did not look like a burlesque of the Lord's Supper.—Lutheran Standard.

Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

From our Protestant and secret society organ exchanges, we sometimes get a view of things which do not place any of the secret orders in a creditable light. We find many things to justify the wisdom of the church in condemning such organizations. We would need nothing stronger than the evidence of Protestant papers in antagonism to secrecy to convince us of the un-American, un-Christian and demoralizing tendency of these orders. Lately a new order has been established in this country. It claims to be an ancient Arabic order, and is known as "The Nobles of the Mystic Shrine." The Imperial Grand Council of the United States was formed June 6, 1876.

From a Masonic publication we obtain the following information concerning this order:

"The order was primarily instituted for the purpose of promoting the organization and perfection of the Arabic and Egyptian inquisitions, to dispense justice, and execute punishment upon criminals whom the tardy laws did not reach, to the measure of their crimes. Being designed to embrace the entire pale of the law, and composed of sterling and determined men, who would, upon a valid accusation, fearlessly try, judge, and, if convicted, execute the criminal within the hour, leaving no trace of their acts behind, this organization was perfected and carried into execution with the most startling results, and it is said to be the institution from which sprang the idea that ultimately developed into the famous vigilance committee, which did such prompt service and struck consternation and alarm to the hearts of the abandoned in California some years since. Temples were instituted in various cities throughout Europe many years ago, and now, although possessing all the powers, material and paraphernalia of the Inquisition, if required, still continue to thrive as social and charitable organizations, impressing upon its disciples its purifying tenets and attributes, while always on the alert to arouse into executive action should an emergency arise. In 1871 the ritual was brought to America by one of the transient foreign members of the representative, with instructions to place it only in the hands of prominent high-grade Masons, for establishment and exemplification as had been done in Europe. Owing to the fact of Masons being regarded as a choice of the best men in the land, and having already passed the ordeal of obligation, the order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine would be regarded as safer with them than with the unobligated masses, and make it, if necessity required, a deliberating and executive body of an inquisitorial nature, as when originally inaugurated. Its history informs us that the order was organized primarily under the creed of 'Al Koran,' or the Koran of Arabia. First, because of the fidelity and firmness of those adherents to the Mohammedan faith. Second, to divert attention from its true purpose, ostensibly by promoting a perpetuation of the teachings of the Koran. Third, to render it attractive and impressive by their weird and mysterious symbolisms."

By this formula of its principles it appears to be of the character of the "Molly Maguires." It needs but the reading of the above description to show how unworthy such an organization can be, and yet its members must be Masons of the 32d or 33d degree. Such is the order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.—I. C. B. U. Journal (Catholic) Jan.. 1877.

Napoleon I. on the Eastern Question.

To Lord Whitworth, when remonstrating with him against the rupture of the peace of Amiens, he said: " . . . . The Turkish empire threatens to fall. For my part I shall contribute to uphold it as long as possible. But if it falls to pieces I intend that France shall have her share. But be assured I shall not hasten events. . . . I wanted to establish a barrier against those barbarians (the Russians) by re-establishing the kingdom of Poland, and putting Poniatowski at the head of it as king, but your imbeciles of ministers would not consent. A hundred years hence I shall be applauded; and Europe, especially England, will lament that I did not succeed. When they see the finest countries in Europe overcome and a prey to those northern barbarians, they will say, 'Napoleon was right!'"

At St. Helena Napoleon said, "I could have shared the Turkish empire with Russia; we have discussed the question more than once. Constantinople always saved it. This capital was the great embarrassment, the true stumbling-block. Russia wanted it, and I would not grant it. It is too precious a key; it alone is worth an empire; whoever possesses it can govern the world."

And again at St. Helena he said, "All the Emperor Alexander's thoughts are directed to the conquest of Turkey. We have had many discussions about it. At first his proposals pleased me, because I thought it would enlighten the world, to drive these brutes, the Turks, out of Europe. But when I reflected upon its consequences, and saw what a tremendous weight of power it would give to Russia, on account of the number of Greeks in the Turkish dominion, who would naturally join the Russians, I refused to consent to it, especially as Alexander wanted Constantinople, which I would not consent to, as it would destroy the equilibrium of power in Europe."—Table Talk and Opinions of Napoleon I., pp. 42, 74, 80.

If the devil wants to strike a parish with his sorest visitation, he gives it a lazy clergyman, a stupid school-master, and a godless physician.—Luther.

Our Foreign Letter.

Northern Germany—Leipsic and its Battle Monument—The Theses and Sacred Dust of Wittemberg—The German Capital—The Palaces of Potsdam and Reminiscences of Frederick the Great.

Traveling from southern and central Germany to northern Prussia is a little like exchanging the varied scenery of New England for the more level lands of the West. The soil is not particularly fertile, the fields are of somewhat larger extent and by no means destitute of woods, though the trees are generally of recent growth.

Although Leipsic does not hold a high place in the estimation of tourists it is nevertheless not devoid of interest. Like some other cities of Germany it has its peculiarities or specialties of which it is justly proud. It is the center of the book trade of Germany, and the seat of a university ancient and world-renowned. It is especially noted in history for the battle of Leipsic—a struggle said to be the most prolonged and sanguinary on record. Napoleon had from 140,000 to 150,000 men with which to oppose the allied forces of Prussians, Austrians, Russians and Swedes, who were 300,000 strong. The Russians lost 21,000 men, the Austrians 14,000, the Prussians 16,000. Upwards of 2,000 cannon were brought into the field. Napoleon, forced to retire with 90,000 men on the 19th of October, commenced his retreat to the Rhine. An interesting monument formed of projectiles found in Leipsic and its environs marks the first position which the allies gained within the city on that day. Leipsic numbers 127,000 inhabitants, and having increased rapidly in population in late years its many new and well built buildings give to a certain portion of the city a fresh, modern and attractive appearance.

Wittemberg, half way between Leipsic and Berlin attracts one chiefly by the historical associations of the Reformation that cluster so thickly around it. I wanted to see the house and place which were Luther's long home—the church to the doors of which he nailed his "95 theses," which startled Europe and awoke a world—and to pause a moment over his and Melancthon's tombs. The two reformers are interred beneath the floor of the above mentioned church—Luther upon the right and Melancthon on the left. A plain metallic cover and inscription mark their respective resting places. But in the city market rise two costly and artistic monuments and statues in bronze to their memory. The doors over which Luther nailed his theses were burned over a century ago (1760) and in their place are metallic doors with the original text of his theses wrought upon them in metallic letters. Wittemberg is prettily located on the Elbe and contains 12,500 inhabitants.

I hardly know what to say of Berlin. It differs from the other capitals of Europe. It numbers 968,634 inhabitants; is regularly built and extensive. It lacks in elegance and abounds in enterprise, and resembles more a grand commercial center than a regal city and the capital of an empire. For this very reason it pleases me. There was a briskness about the place not un-American, and the loads of merchandise outnumbered the cabs and carriages. All in all Berlin is a good index of the prosperity of that nation which to-day is the mightiest of continental Europe. Berlin has some large and handsome parks; quite a number of public buildings, some of which are of imposing appearance; also extensive art collections of considerable value, and two especially magnificent monuments. One of the latter is Rauch's masterly equestrian statue of Frederick the Great (in bronze), the grandest thing of the kind in Europe. The other is a most beautiful monument of Victory, 198 feet high, erected mainly to commemorate the victories of 1870 and '71. As pen pictures of such structures are usually wofully unsatisfactory I will not attempt to describe them. The impression they make on the beholder is strong and enduring. Since all capital cities are supposed to have their rivers I will just mention that Berlin is situated on both sides of the Spree.

Potsdam sixteen miles from Berlin contains palaces and parks upon which former kings of Prussia have expended much money and has been the customary place of residence for the most of them. In the vault under the pulpit of the Garrison church of Potsdam I stood thoughtfully for a few moments by the plain casket which contains the remains of Frederick the Great, and then hastened to the palaces which he erected and the lovely park which he laid out. In the palace of Sanssouci, which was his most constant abiding place, we were shown the apartments he occupied, (which are almost unaltered) the chair in which he died, still stained with the marks of his last bleeding, and the clock which he was accustomed to wind, and which is said to have stopped at the precise moment of his death, 2:20 o'clock, August 17, 1786. Below and before the palace in the park a great fountain was playing, sending up a large stream of water to the height of 112 feet. The whole park tastefully laid out and abounding in large forest trees, contains many lovely spots and places of interest. The view of Potsdam and its environs from an eminence behind the palace referred to is in every way charming and delightful. Near to this palace also, and partially concealed from it by a vine and shrub wall thirty or forty feet high, stands "the historical windmill" which a former subject, it is said, refused to sell to his King, Frederick the Great. From the descendants of that farmer royalty has obtained possession of the mill, and it now carefully preserves what in the person of Frederick it vainly sought to purchase in order to remove. At the west end of the park stands what is called the new palace, completed by Frederick in 1769. It has many richly decorated apartments and is a fine structure of brick and stone, adorned without by numerous statues.

B. T. Pettengill.

The Chicago Exposition.

The commodious stand of the National Christian Association at the Chicago Exhibition admits the friends of the cause to rest on their tour along the gallery. It has the portraits of several opponents of secret societies, some living and others gone before who being dead yet speak. There is Owen Lovejoy, the renowned oppponent of slavery which then existed in this free country according to law, but as the law contravened the first principles of legitimate civil government, viz., to be "a terror to evil doers, and a praise to them who do well," it became the duty of the nation to overthrow it. There is also the portrait of the distinguished and learned Sumner who suffered violence from "Bully Brooks" in the same cause and has left on record these words: "Freemasonry is a conspiracy against God and man and should never be allowed to exist in our free government." These words are a very precious legacy to this Republic and justify the utmost zeal of the advocates of emancipation from secret societies. There is also a portrait of Alexander Campbell, known so well thirty years ago as the earnest advocate of accepting the Bible alone as the religion of Protestants, and doing away with the human formulas as tests of Christianity. He too has left his record against secretism. The portrait of the author of "The Plan of Salvation," Hon. J. B. Walker, is also here. This work has had a world-wide circulation. The portrait of another living representative of anti-secretism is that of President Blanchard of Wheaton College of whom your readers may have heard. The portraits of Daniel Webster, Seward, the Adamses and other distinguished statesmen will be grouped when they can be had; their recorded testimony against secretism is very well known. We have, however, one of the Father of Our Country, George Washington whose portrait the Masons exhibit far and wide as a Freemason, but are very careful to "conceal and never reveal" the fact that although "snared" when young he all but utterly repudiated the whole thing and left on record his opinion of Masonry as "a benevolent institution which might be employed for the best or worst purposes," and that "for the most part it was mere child's play." This coupled with the statement made in his letter to Rev. Mr. Snyder, that—"The fact is, I preside over none [English lodges] nor have I been in one more than once or twice within the last thirty years." The Masons insinuate that Washington spoke in a double sense and that he did not say he presided over no lodge, but only over no English lodge. The national heart will not sanction this charge of "paltering in a double sense" against one whose glory it especially is to be honored as an upright man. But if Washington was an adhering Mason why did these two high Masons, Andrew Jackson and Ed. Livingston, vote against giving Washington a vote of thanks when he retired to private life? The tract just republished, being Gov. Ritner's communication to the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, settles this question and vindicates the honor of George Washington.

Here also is a map of the country showing that thirteen States have organized associations against secretism. Thirteen States! Glorious number! of "great, grand" portent! Shall we doubt the coming independence from the baneful domination of secretist brotherhoods?

Now look at this "target" for Masonic shot. What is it? Stoddard's map of thirty-degrees of Masonry!—a circle! a regular spider's web! They draw marked attention, and have this explanation given them occasionally: Here is the Masonic ladder to the center of the circles. These steps up require every candidate to go round until he swallows the oaths prescribed at every step. Mr. Stoddard has got the oaths enumerated at the top so that every step up becomes at top a lowering down of the candidate, and under a burden of accumulated oaths! There are three at the first step, six at the second, seventeen at the third, and so on until the high Mason of thirty-three steps has a load of over a hundred oaths upon his conscience! and then he appears in the center of the map, which to the eye of the Anti-mason resembles a huge web, where the central spiders control the degrees, and catch the winged insects suitable for their support! Once caught in the web (lodge) few have strength enough to escape from it and become an easy prey to their masters.

The mottoes and the display of the religious papers have an excellent effect. Besides those on one of the racks from the Carpenter Building Reading-room, there are a number hung up on the rear wall. Some visitors are evidently surprised that such a display could be made against the craft and allies, and lastly the bookcase which holds the publications and the counter on which they are shown, I only name, and conclude. Yours, &c., H.

Religious Intelligence.

—Revivals are going forward at widely separated points in the Southern States. At Victoria, in Texas, there has been a revival. The result is nearly one hundred persons professed to have found the Saviour. About forty have united with the Presbyterian church. In the Piedmont Presbyterian church, Franklin county, Va., 300 persons professed to obtain hope of salvation. At the court house nearly two hundred gave their names to the evangelist as having found peace in believing.

—A National Reform meeting for the religious amendment was held at Scroggsfield, Ohio, on Wednesday the 22d ult. The large United Presbyterian church of that place was well-filled during both afternoon and evening. Eight or nine ministers were present, of the Methodist, Presbyterian and United Presbyterian churches, and all expressed their hearty sympathy with the movement. Dr. A. M. Milligan, of Pittsburgh, Rev. Messrs. Simpson and Kennedy were the leading speakers.

—In the recent massacre of Christians at Eski-Saghra by the Bashi-Bazouks, and destruction of their property, over thirty churches and five hundred schools and colleges were burned. The district is one of the richest in that part of Turkey, and contained a large proportion of Christian inhabitants.

—Mr. Moody has declined a very urgent invitation to labor in Washington, D. C., this autumn, and will follow up the work begun last winter in Boston, in some of the other cities of New England. It is not quite certain yet at which of these he will begin.

—Mr. Edward Kimball of this city, whose name became somewhat well known a year since as Mr. Moody's former Sabbath-school teacher, has become the leader of a new evangel, the gospel of deliverance from church debts. He visited Peoria on Sabbath before last and the forenoon service was given over to him by the pastor, Mr. Stevens, in the Congregational church. This church began a couple of years ago to build a new stone house of worship. The bills began to accumulate until the expense of building was known to be about double the first estimate. The basement was finished and worship has been held therein for some time, the people having concluded to rest at that point before lifting at the $36,000 needed to finish. But Mr. Kimball dispelled this hope and with a peculiar resolution actually obtained the pledges of the trustees and members of the church for the whole amount before two o'clock. Dea. Moses Pettengill, well known in the West as a philanthropist and reformer, subscribed $3,000 of the amount. Mr. Kimball lifted a mission church out of a bad slough of a debt in the evening. He has been very successful in California and elsewhere in this way, over twenty churches having been sent on their ways rejoicing, through his agency.

Chicago Free Employment Bureau.

Editor Christian Cynosure—My Dear Sir and Bro.: The every where abundant crops must require more than the usual amount of help in securing them. For cutting and husking corn, digging potatoes and securing other crops, all before winter, farmers must have men of experience and industry. The Young Men's Christian Association of Chicago has for sixteen years supported a Bureau as a mutual exchange between employers and those in quest of work. For the past nine years there has been no change in the superintendent of this office.

It is approaching the season when many of the country people are visiting the city to attend the Exposition, and we cordially invite all to call on us in person or address us for any kind of male help they may need. Truly yours,

J. M. Hitchcock,
Sup't Y. M. C. A. Free Employment Bureau, 145 Fifth ave., Chicago.

Reform News.

The Indiana State Convention.

Albion, Ind., Sept. 3, 1877.

I send you the programme for our annual State meeting to be held at Plainfield, Hendricks Co., on the 17th, 18th and 19th of October, opening Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock.

Opening address by Rev. J. P. Stoddard or E. Ronayne.

THURSDAY.

9 A. M, business.
11 A. M., address by State Lecturer or Rev. W. C. Givens.
2 P. M., business.
3 P. M., address by Rev. W. P. McNary.
7 P. M., Ronayne, 1st degree.

FRIDAY.

9 A. M., business.
11 A. M., Ronayne on Masonic symbols.
2 P. M., business.
3 P. M., address by J. P. Stoddard or S. L. Cook.
7 P. M., Ronayne, 3rd degree.

I have received this from Bro. McNary and understand it to be adopted by the Executive Committee; think it is a good arrangement. Please insert it in the Cynosure and urge the friends to prepare to attend. We want a full meeting. In my travels I find many intending to go. I am busy; just returned last evening; start to-morrow to the south part of Whitley county, thence to Huntington county, thence perhaps to Jay county. I find our work more diffused and a disposition to hear. I have met with no disturbance, and try to teach lodge men good manners as I go along.

Yours truly, S. L. Cook.

D. P. Rathbun's Work in Michigan.

Bath, N. Y., Sept. 4, 1877.

Editor Christian Cynosure: I will say for the encouragement of the friends of reform in Michigan that the work is prospering, and that the time is not far in the distance when one lecturer will not be able to fill one half of the calls for lectures. I have had all that I could do and many calls I have not been able to respond to. I left Michigan the tenth of August for my home in Bath, N. Y., and when I left I had calls enough to keep me busy for a month. I have been able thus far to raise my salary, cash in hand. Some of the dear brethren lifted hard, and may God richly reward them. Bro. Legget of Allegan has paid sixty dollars within the past year; he paid me the last ten dollars a few weeks ago. I told him I feared he was doing too much, but he and his noble wife both said you must take it for it belongs to you. Many others have done nobly and say they are determined to remain faithful to this reform until they see the anti-Christ of Masonry fall. I am to remain with my family until the first of October, then I shall return, the Lord willing, for a winter's campaign against the lodge. The friends of Genesee Co. may expect me in their vicinity soon after I return. We hope the dear brethren of Goodrich and many other places in that county may be ready to give us work. Any wishing to correspond with me may write to me at Bath, Steuben Co., N. Y.

I would say to the executive committee that I am prepared to give an accurate financial report at our next meeting. Now, dear brethren, be prepared to give me at least three months steady work as soon as I return to Michigan. I feel much invigorated with my few weeks rest, and shall be prepared for labor I trust. Yours in this work,

D. P. Rathbun.

From Fremont County, Iowa.

Tabor, Iowa, Sept. 5, 1877.

Dear Bro. K.: After spending more than three weeks in Page county and speaking eighteen times to generally large and interested audiences, I came on the 1st inst. to this place, and met a very cordial reception from Prest. Brooks of Tabor College and Rev. John Todd, who for many years has been pastor of the large and influential Congregational church.

Tabor was first settled by a colony from Oberlin and vicinity, and was made up largely of Congregationalists of the more radical and progressive type, and in the main it retains the same characteristics. The college is said to be in a flourishing condition. The term has just opened with a good number in attendance. The Congregational church has recently completed a large, commodious, but plain brick building at a cost of $22,000, and on Sabbath, Sept 2d, it was filled, it being their regular communion season. A large, well conducted Sabbath-school and a very interesting prayer-meeting at 3 P. M. occupied most of the time until evening when by the request of the pastor I gave a lecture on Africa and the missionary work. On Monday, the 3d, I listened to a discourse on Ceylon and the missionary work there, by a lady just from that field, and in the evening I met a full house who gave every attention to a lecture of two hours on secret societies as related to Christianity. No where except at College Springs have I spoken to so large and appreciative an audience. Some Masons and Odd-fellows were present, but manifestly the sympathies of the large majority were with me. Nobody seemed displeased, except one Odd-fellow, who thought it hard to have his order classed with the Masons.

On Tuesday night there was also a full house and an attentive hearing. I spoke of Masonry in its relation to civil government for about two hours, and was cheered with a few words of sympathy from the pastor, and I have concluded my work here with a very high appreciation of Tabor and its people.

Still there is room and occasion for criticism. All the churches, including the Congregational, admit and have Freemasons in their membership. A pastor not long since gave an address in advocacy of Masonry in which he said that Masonry was at least as old as Solomon, and that one of its principal objects is to lead men to believe in and trust in Christ. The Anti-masons here seem to have imagined that they have no responsibility in this matter, except to keep themselves out of the lodge. There has been little or no discussion and no intelligent interest in the matter. May the Lord awaken them to a sense of their responsibilities. Yours for Christ, H. H. Hinman.

The Fellow Craft Degree in Carpenter Hall.

As was announced through the city for several days previous, Past Master Ronayne gave a thorough exposition of the second degree of Freemasonry in the Carpenter building last Tuesday evening. The room was crowded to overflowing with a respectable audience, a number of ladies being present and many of the West side churches being represented; a number of Masons also joined the throng desiring the privelege for once, no doubt, of sitting in a clandestine lodge. At the close of the preliminary remarks and just before the candidate was presented in Masonic regalia, a young lodger became terribly irate when Mr. Ronayne told how the craft deported after lodge had closed, and emptied his pepper-box of epithets upon the speaker. But the reply quieted his nerves, and especially as a strong hand on his collar put him with some energy upon his seat. Several other Masons could not restrain crying out in their agony of spirit; but on the whole the meeting was orderly and the audience heartily sympathized with the speaker, dispersing quietly at the close. These expositions are producing their proper effect among the citizens, which no parading of Knight Templars can efface.

Rev. J. P. Richards in Iowa.

Bro. Kellogg: After an absence from home of a three weeks lecturing tour in Iowa, I am prepared to give the Cynosure an account of my work.

Leaving my home on Aug. 7th to meet an engagement at Leon, the county seat of Decatur county, I met the friends and enemies of secrecy in Hildreth's Opera House, on Aug. 9th and discoursed to a good audience.

A lecture on secretism in that town was a new thing, and as the place is completely lodge-ridden, of course I had some obstacles to surmount.

But for the interruptions of three drunken Masons during the lecture, things would have gone well; but as 225 pounds avoirdupois could with difficulty be moved, I remained on the platform until the hour and a half had expired.

Mr. Elza Osborn, a young friend of the cause, was instrumental in getting a hearing on the subject in Leon, and is deserving of great praise for his perseverence. The outspoken friends of light, in Leon, are scarce; still I think from what I heard, that light has broken forth and that good will result from the discussion.

From Leon, I made my way to College Springs, where I met Bro. Hinman, who gave a good address in the U. P. church, on Sabbath evening, Aug. 12th, to a crowded house.

Leaving College Springs, I entered the pleasant town of Clarinda, Page county, which is also the county seat. Arrangements were made, and notice given that on Friday and Saturday evenings, Aug. 17th and 18th, lectures on secret societies would be delivered in the court-house. We had fair audiences both evenings, and at the close of both lectures a seceding Mason, a very good Free Methodist minister, took me by the hand wishing me God speed, and confirming all that I had declared in my lectures. I wish also to say, that in Bro. James Shambaugh and wife, I found two warm friends, not only to myself, but of our cause in Clarinda, and I shall not soon forget their kindness to me. On Thursday evening, August 16th, I met a fair audience at Pleasant Grove school house, three miles from Clarinda, on the Nodaway.

Leaving Clarinda I filled an appointment for Bro. Hinman at Avery, Monroe county, on August 20th to a full house and was kindly entertained by Wm. Huston and wife. August 21st another lecture in Covenanter church in Hickory Grove, to a good audience considering the state of the roads; my kind host and hostess being Henry Elder, Esq., and wife. August 22d another lecture in the U. P. church, in Bluff Creek township, to a good audience, all these being Bro. Hinman's appointments. With one exception the audiences were attentive and respectful, and I am satisfied that when the American people fully understand what a monster Freemasonry is the whole batch of secret societies will be voted out of sight. Let our friends stand by our lecturers and the Cynosure, helping in whatever way they can, and the cause must finally be a success.

Next week I propose visiting Columbus City and vicinity, Iowa; also to labor some in Cedar county, and while I am in that section of the country can respond to calls to lecture.

J. P. Richards.

The Good Effects of a State Convention.

West Newton, Ind., Aug. 25, '77.

It is now eight months since our annual meeting for the State of Indiana was held at West Newton, and the time is drawing near for the holding of another which is appointed for October 17th, 18th and 19th. As I have been noting the effect of our meeting upon the community, I thought I would report progress. The Masons have always boasted that every Anti-mason that lectured at West Newton had strengthened their cause, but not so after Ronayne. After the smoke cleared way from the battlefield and the venerable Knights beheld with horror the mutilated image of their great Diana exposed to the eyes of the unregenerate cowans, they were amazed and confounded, and since that time they have been very mute and boast of only one new member. One Mason has left the lodge and has promised his wife and friends never to go back, and the best of all is he tells the Masons so. A number of persons have told me they were satisfied now and more than disgusted with Masonry, and wonder how it is that men who claim to be Christians can remain in the lodge. One young woman remarked at the close of the meeting, "I will never marry a Mason." If the young women of America would make this their watchword they could do more to break up this wicked institution than all the Ronaynes in the land. The woman is the abused party. Masonry is an insult to the sex; it degrades woman and would make her an inferior being.

But the most encouraging feature in the work is the stand taken by the Methodists of West Newton. They are almost unanimous in refusing to support a minister at the next conference who is a Mason. This strikes at the seat of the evil, the church being the stronghold of Masonry. First cleanse the church of this slimy serpent and the battle will be half won.

Preston Allen.

There are many who know their own wisdom, but there are few who know their own folly.

Correspondence.

No Agreement with a Lie.

Ridge, O., Sept., 1877.

Editor Christian Cynosure: While passing through the short journey of life we observe the vile institutions of men, we see the "Abomination that maketh desolate set up," and men bowing to the foresworn scepter of "humbug lodge rule," living in abject slavery of the worst kind; not only to serve the mandates of the lodge, but to serve the devil at his will. All kinds of characters are found combined together and form a strict brotherhood that no good man would ever covet. Therefore, if a summons be sent, or a command be given to one of these subjects it must be obeyed, or else the oath, as they understand it, is violated, then the penalty inflicted, even if it be unto death.

Now then, there are many lodges composed largely of the worst characters, such as drunkards, liars, blacklegs and libertines, with a sprinkling of more honorable men. How can these extremes agree? We answer, they cannot; no more than water and oil can mix. Joined to them once it is hard to be separated from them. But they are commanded to "Come out from among them and be ye separate, saith the Lord." The grace of God is sufficient to cleanse them from all their sins, when they renounce all the hidden things of darkness. The best disposed man in the lodge is liable to be chosen or commanded to do an act that would make his blood curdle in his veins. All such things are abomination to the Lord and the Lord has said that he could not look upon sin with the least degree of allowance. The lodges have left hundreds, yea thousands of women and children in a desolate condition, and perhaps thousands more will be left the same way unless the monster is crushed. Lodge dues must be paid, even unto death, whether quarterage be paid to the church or not. If dues are not paid they are not good members, without reference to circumstances in life.

A blacksmith by trade, and a Freemason, lived in our community a few years ago. His wife died, leaving three children. He soon after married again, and though a church member in good standing, got into bad habits, which caused a separation between him and his wife. He finally broke up house-keeping and wandered about from place to place, and died at a public house, was taken by the Masons and buried with a pow-wow, and then it was sounded abroad through the country what a great deed of charity they had done, and many were ready to believe what a great thing it was to be a Mason. But lo! when the truth came to light, his widow came out with a card published in a public journal, stating that she had defrayed the funeral expenses herself, out of her own personal effects. So you can see where their boasted charity was. The children of the deceased are left to be cared for by their aged grandmother, in poor circumstances, without any aid whatever. The foregoing is a fair exemplification of their charity which they boast so much about. Shall we fold our arms together and be silent, while the monster man of sin, is claiming the kingdom of Christ as his own?

W. W. Stringer.

Shall we have the Songs, Bro. Clark?

Editor Cynosure: I wish to speak of a want which if supplied would add efficiency and interest to our reform labors. That is songs suited and adapted in music and sentiment to the anti-secret reformation, songs that will be attractive to the young, whose delight it will be daily to sing them. Each lecture should be preceded and concluded with lively songs adapted to the occasion. Have we not some friend that is competent to give us a production of this kind in cheap form?

E. G. Cooper.

Our Mail.

Theodore Graef, Taylorville, Ill., writes: "My heart is in the cause and I sigh and pray for the deliverance of Zion from the secret empire and anti-Christ."

Rev. J. S. Smith, Cannonsville, N. Y., writes:

"I have been an Anti-mason all my life. Was secretary of a county convention in Rensselaer county under Solomon Southwick. * * I shall await with interest the report of the Dayton Convention."

Rev. N. R. Luce, Clymer, N. Y., writes Aug. 31:

"Lectured last Wednesday evening to a full house at State Line, and with prospectively fine effect."

Elisha McCoy, Union City, Mich., writes:

"I want to help to do away with all kinds of fraud and deception that destroy the happiness of families; neighborhoods and nations. The man who thinks that Masonry will fit him for a home with the blest in Christ's kingdom, has made a mistake that eternity will not afford him time or place to correct. Christ's death makes full satisfaction for the sin of every son of fallen Adam and man can add nothing to it. I say to all Christians, Come out from among the Masons and tell them why you do so."

John Viall, Kearney Junction, Buffalo county, Neb., renews his subscription and writes:

"I cannot do without the Cynosure any better than you can do without the money. God bless you and make your paper an increasing power in the land for the putting down of the strongholds of Satan, is my constant prayer."

Rev. P. J. Thompson, has moved from Evans, Col., to Wichita, Sedgwick county, Kas., he writes:

"We installed three pastors in Neosho U. P. Presbytery this week."

Frank P. Park, Jacksonville, Ill., writes:

"My son likes to read the Cynosure very much. We are expecting to take a journey North soon and he wants you to send him for distribution Cynosure tract No. 28."

Will not other young men begin in the morning and toil all the day of this short life for Christ and his kingdom, and which is included in the above, for country. Young men you are needed. This reform demands your aid.

Home and Farm.

Take Care of Your Eyes.

The more you avoid glaring and glancing lights in the rooms you habitually sit in, the better. Therefore—although the following advice is certain to meet with no attention from the great majority—it is our laughably painful duty to recommend ladies to have as few mirrors and other looking-glasses, gilt picture frames and mouldings, bright colored curtains, and highly-polished furniture in their drawing-rooms as possible; and what they must have should be so placed as not to allow bright lights to be thrown upon them. Highly colored curtains are additionally injurious when the windows are open, so that various brilliant and dazzling colors are flung about the room by the incoming breeze. A very bright carpet is a very injurious thing, and when combined with a brightly painted ceiling, madness. These things may be a merry life for the eyes, but they are a short one. A rich-patterned, sober-toned carpet, and a soft sky-gray or stone-colored ceiling, are my own private fancy. The almost invariable whitewash of the British ceiling would be a constant injury but for the grave fact that the British isles are not overburdened with sunlight. But whether reading, writing, or working, or in any other way, it should always be done with an oblique light, and never with a horizontal light. As to the use of lotions, several prescriptions are given in the little book we commenced with, as well as in other works, but I forbear to transcribe any of them, excellent as they no doubt would be, because a lotion too strong, or too frequently applied, or not exactly the proper lotion for a special case or individual peculiarity, might do far more harm than good, unless used under professional supervision. The only exception is that of pure water. In cases of much inflammation, or difficulty of opening the eyelids in the morning, the water should be warm, and it may be mixed with warm milk; but in nearly all other cases it should be cold. All those who have been engaged in reading or writing during several hours at a stretch, and especially at night, should carefully bathe the eyes with cold water before going to bed, and the first thing in the morning's ablutions. "All artisans who work at a blazing fire ought often to wash their eyes with cold pure water; and so should all those who work in wool, particularly carders and spinners, and all those employed in woolen and cotton manufactures, for the fine dust, almost imperceptible, it may be called, which such works disperse, often produces cataracts, obstinate inflammations, swelled eyelids, etc." I once lived, during weeks at a time, on the banks of an opthalmic river in the interior of Australia; and numbers of settlers and shepherds, bushmen and diggers were afflicted every summer and autumn with sore eyes—so sore in some cases you might have thought they would never open them again. One day a squatter who owned a sheep station thereabouts rode up from Melbourne with a great air. He was a "swell squatter," who only now and then came to visit his snug little farm on the river, "to see how stock got on." I asked his advice for the sore eyes of his shepherds and others. "It serves them quite right!" said he. "I never have these sore eyes, and you, sir, will never have sore eyes. No gentleman ever has." Not exactly perceiving the nice distinction in this matter, I demurred. "It is a nice distinction," said he; "it is just that. You, no doubt, often wash your eyes with cold water. These fellows never do." There was, no doubt, much reason in this; but something else was the cause. Besides the dirtiness of neglecting the hot sand and dust in the eyes, flies often rushed into them, and were not soon or easily cleared out; there was, moreover, a very small river fly, who either bit or stung, and inflammation very speedily set in. I should have been very thankful at that time, for the sake of others (my horses included) as well as myself, to have received the following advice: Whenever a fly or other insect, a small flying-seed, quicklime, dust, or any other minute object, gets into the eye (i. e., under the eyelid), "do not adopt the common habit of rubbing or even of washin with water, but gently raise, or get a gentle hand to raise for you, the eyelid, and bend the head forward. In keeping thus the eyelid elevated, and the eye quiescent for a few moments, one feels a flow of tear starting from the organ which seldom fails to bring along with th cause of the pain, or at least carry it toward the corner of th eye next to the nose, from whence it may be removed by a fine handkerchief folded to a point. If this operation is not sufficient then a finger ought to be passed frequently, yet gently over the eyelid, from the exterior corner of the eye toward the great canthus (or interior corner), by which means the substance is made to descend toward the lachrymal glands, from whence it may be drawn with a fine hair pencil." If the irritating substance still remains, then we are instructed that "the upper eyelid must be taken as before, and kept elevated as much as possible, and the eye being then turned toward the nose, a very fine camel's hair pencil, dipped in cream, oil, or very fresh butter (without an atom of salt in it, remember) must be introduced between the eyelid and the body of the eye, beginning at the exterior corner and ending at the interior corner." If the very fine hair pencil is not successful, you will be almost certain to succeed with one rather larger. Should all these efforts fail, which is extremely unlikely if they are properly performed, do not set to work rubbing or washing the eye, as you must obtain professional assistance. Be sure to bathe the eye frequently in cold water as soon as, and for some time after, the irritating substance has been extracted.—Fraser's Magazine.

Freemasons in the United States and Canadas.

The tabular statement from which the following was taken was prepared, says the Voice of Masonry, by "Illustrious Bro. Josiah H. Drummond" for his report to the late "Supreme Council of Sovereign Grand Inspectors General" of which he last year was the head. This gentleman will be remembered as Mr. Blaines "illustrious brother" at the late Republican State Convention in Maine.

GRAND LODGES.	Members.	Raised.	Admitted and Restored.	Withdrawn	Expelled	Suspended.	Susp'd for non-paym't of dues.	Died.
Alabama	8,538	325	495	501	29	32	597	137
Arkansas	8,081	286	317	412	22	27	418	137
California	11,931	650	626	435	90	12	231	156
Colorado	1,413	99	128	60	2	3	46	10
Connecticut	15,011	468	118	142	4	5	193	145
Dakota
Delaware	1,219	52	10	8	0		*21	15
District of Columbia	2,783	122	68	39	1	0	105	40
Florida	1,966	130	131	128	12		*88	47
Georgia	14,475	533	440	533	87		827	190
Idaho	389	49	16	19	0	3		6
Illinois	40,473	2,461	1,101	1,409	93		1,168	443
Indiana	27,879	1,751	460	1,312	168	61	418	375
Indian Territory	190	31	13	8	0	1	1	1
Iowa	17,890	1,319	729	933	32	22	221	136
Kansas	6,896	433	476	394	12		*143	63
Kentucky	21,237	1,168		973	33		1,191	294
Louisiana	6,449	211	158	165	2	315	22	115
Maine	19,402	730	911	297	6	3	163	216
Maryland	5,657	200		103	3		*133	74
Massachusetts	26,292	1,360	1,785	523	1	3	316	284
Michigan	26,704	1,351	522	857	60		*530	246
Minnesota	6,569	497	208	263	3	22	179	47
Mississippi	11,170	378	454	509	15	26	231	206
Missouri	23,379	935	876	884	81	62	282	301
Montana	677	22	26	51	1	4	3	7
Nebraska	2 761	175	317	106	7	19	88	20
Nevada	1,383	173	256	145	6	0	57	49
New Brunswick	2,246	162	33	76	3		*73	29
New Hampshire	7,674	285
New Jersey	11 988	539	261	181	3	5	431	145
New York	81,882	4,253	1,512	1,179	63	15	3,789	924
North Carolina	11,917	337	179	176	21	20	532	115
Nova Scotia	3,404	319	67	127	0	3	86	43
Ohio†	30,608	1,810	1,391	1,114	91	41	1,134	367
Oregon	2,248	147	139	108	5	9	61	24
Pennsylvania	88,137	1,974	600	642			*946	427
Rhode Island	3,910	130	131	15	1	7	257	47
South Carolina	7,846	342		215			333	108
Tennessee	18,535	658	511	870	86	249	455	249
Texas	18,206	856	1,332	1,555	45		*451	275
Utah	341	28	13	32	0	0	30	3
Vermont	8,169	267	102	37	2	12	229	84
Virginia	8,992				7		32	109
Washington	720	58	45	49	1	4	25	11
West Virginia	3,431	270	130	117	7	1	107	34
Wisconsin	10,515	614	274	384	4	9	150	107
Wyoming	255	27	10	8	1	0	1	2
British Columbia	300	21	28	15	0	0	6	8
Canada	16,719	1,384	452	636	44	66	398	141
Manitoba	294	46	14	8	0	0	0	2
P. E. Island	557
Quebec	2,716	276	104	167	0		58	35
Total	602,019	30,715	17,969	18,920	1,039	1,064	17,261	7,100

*Including suspensions of all kinds. †For 1875; no statistics this year.

EXPLANATION.—The first column gives the number of members in the order reported last year, except Ohio, which reports for 1875. The second shows the number of new Master Masons made; the third, the number restored after suspension or who handed in their demits and renewed active relations with the order; the fourth the number taking demits. In several cases suspensions of all kinds are included under "suspension for non-payment of dues." From these figures it appears that the number of Masons increased only about 3,300 from 1875 to 1876, over 36,000 took demits or did not pay their dues, and about 1,000 more took demits than renewed their connection or were taken back for other reasons. In all these grand lodges 6,142 applicants were black-balled during the year.

ANTI-MASONIC BOOKS.

(Not our own Publications.)

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO

13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

FOR CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS OF EZRA A. COOK & CO. See page 15 of the CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

☞ All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Freemasonry Self Condemned.

BY REV. J. W. BAIN.

We now have a small supply of this deservedly popular book in paper covers, Price 20 cents each by mail.

Elder Stearns' Books.

Stearns' Inquiry Into the Nature and Tendency of Masonry With an Appendix.

358 Pages, in Cloth.....60 cents
" " " Paper.....40 "

Stearns' Letters on Masonry.

Showing the antagonism between Freemasonry and the Christian Religion.
Price, 30 cents.

Stearns' Review of Two Masonic Addresses.

In this scathing review the lying pretentions of the order are clearly shown.
Price, 10 cents.

Levington's Key to Masonry.

This is Rev. Mr. Levington's last, and in the judgment of its author, best work on Masonry.
The contents of the Eleventh chapter are thus startling:
"Knights of the Golden Circle—Graphic account of them by a seceding Knight, and remarks thereon, showing the identity of the order with Masonry—Quotations from Sir Walter Scott."
This work is thrilling in statement, and powerful in argument Price. $1.35. 425 pages.

Light on Freemasonry

BY ELDER D. BERNARD,

TO WHICH IS APPENDED A

Revelation of the Mysteries of Odd-fellowship by a Member of the Craft.

The whole containing over five hundred pages lately revised and republished. Price $2,00

The first part of the above work, Light on Freemasonry, 416 pages in paper cover, will be sent post paid on receipt of $1.

FOR SALE BY

United Brethren Publishing House,
DAYTON, O.
and by
EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Ave, CHICAGO

Finney on Masonry.

BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE $1.00,

CHEAP EDITION,

Twenty-five dollars per hundred, by express and not less than 25 copies at that rate,

BY MAIL, POST-PAID:

Per doz.....$3.75,
Single copy,..... 35 c

GOOD TEMPLARISM EXPOSED.

Obligations, of the Initiatory Fidelity, Charity, and Royal Virtue Degrees.

This is a small book containing only the Obligations and some of the Odes of the Good Templars.

Single Copy, Post paid,..... 10cts.
Per Doz. " 75
Per 100 by Express,..... $4.50

Bernard's Appendix to Light on Masonry,

Showing the Character of the Institution by its terrible oaths and penalties. 30 cents.

ODD-FELLOWSHIP

JUDGED BY ITS OWN UTTERANCES;

Its Doctrine and Practice examined in the light of God's Word.

BY REV. J. H. BROOKMAN.

This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-Fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. It was originally published in German.
Price, bound in Boards, 75 cents. Paper Covers 40 cents.
GERMAN EDITION, Entitled "Christian and Free." Paper Covers 50 cents each.

HOW TO DEFEAT

Masonic Scoundrelism

Within the Court House.

BY J. H. H. WOODWARD,

This pamphlet as its title indicates is designed to put all non-Masons on their guard against lodge trickery and especially to show how to meet and successfully cope with Freemasonry in our Courts.
Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 10 cts.
Per Doz..75 cts. Per 100 by Express .$6.00

Every Freemason a Blasphemer.

As proved by the Highest Masonic Authority.

BY J. H. H. WOODWARD.

By quotations from a score of masonic works of unquestioned authority, the fact of the blasphemous ceremonies and teachings of Freemasonry are so clearly demonstrated as to make it evident that every initiate is of necessity a blasphemer,
10 cents each. 75 cents per Doz. by mail;
By Express, per 100 $5.00

The Christian Cynosure.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, SEPT. 13, 1877.

Editorial Correspondence — Progress of the Cause.

Fountaindale, Ill., Sept. 3.

To our Readers:

On Sabbath before last, August 25th, I preached in a small village, on the Chicago and Fulton railway, where the secret orders had never been disturbed by the presence of a lecturer against them. Both deacons of the Congregational church are Masons, and an Odd-fellows lodge is just opened to sell the wares of Satan to such as have not been gulled and swindled by Masonry. They begin by maintaining and watching over a sick son-in-law of one of the Congregational deacons, whose industrious family will now have to contribute regularly to two secret orders, besides the church whose constitution requires these very deacons, in virtue of their office, to take all proper care of the poor. Their families now belong to and support two abusive rivals of the church of Christ. An amiable and industrious son of one of these deacons kindly carried us out five miles into the country on Saturday, and I found him so pleased with the fact that the Odd-fellows give his brother-in-law two dollars a week and watchers, which fact is duly trumpeted, that he himself thinks of joining. The church where myself and family worship have for years given a blind sister more money than these Odd-fellows give this deacon's son-in-law, and I never heard it boasted or spoken of by an outsider.

On Sabbath morning I went without an appointment to the village Congregational church, yet as it was known I was there the pastor insisted on my preaching twice, which I did, and the Methodist and Baptist churches both attended my preaching holding extempore union meetings on the occasion, and besides, addressed a Ladies' Temperance Union in a hall, by their request, having three full meetings that day.

When, at the close of the morning service, the union meeting was announced for the night, I arose and said that if I preached to them at night I wished to explain the relation of the secret orders, in this and other countries, to the gospel of Christ, and should do so if no one objected. No one did object, but the M. E. minister who was with me in the pulpit whispered to me that he "would like to hear (me) on that subject." He came in the evening, assisted me in the services, and pronounced a hearty amen at the close of a strong appeal and denunciation of Masonry and Odd-fellowship. This Methodist brother, I was told by the citizens there, is a Mason! He looked anxious and concerned, yet somewhat relieved when I told how a Methodist minister in Hopkinton, Mass., thanked me for reading to him how President Finney of Oberlin came out of the lodge, saying, "Brother, I am a Mason and have longed to be rid of the vile thing, but never till now saw my way out."

On Monday I came to Sycamore in DeKalb county, where a prominent Methodist said the official board of his church were about to send word to conference never to send them another Masonic preacher. He said also he knew of several M. E. churches whose official boards were doing the same thing.

Yesterday (Sept. 2d) I preached here at two country churches, viz., Middle Creek church (Presbyterian) and Seward church (Congregational) some six or eight miles apart. The congregations were full and very interesting, with large Sabbath schools. The Presbyterian brother is said to be a Mason, but both pastors treated me with the utmost urbanity. Both insisted on my speaking from their pulpits, though I went to both without an appointment. Both pastors are earnest and interesting men, and though their people are more or less drawn into the secret lodges, neither of these brethren expressed the least anxiety or concern about what I should preach. Rev. Mr. Wright, of the Seward church, is a young pastor recently from the Seminary. His congregation has grown from a handful to a crowd, and he is popular and pleased with his work.

We must cultivate the rural districts. As soon as we get back from the cities and large towns where the blackleg population swarm, the industry and intelligence of the people make the lodges weak. Thomas Jefferson said: "The cultivators of the soil are the chosen people of God, if he ever had a chosen people on earth; and the number of them in any community is a good enough barometer to determine the proportion of its sound to its unsound parts."

This sentiment of Jefferson, though somewhat irreligious in its wording, is yet true in fact to a great extent. Certain it is, however, that the leaven of light and truth is in the American mind, and as the facts of this letter show, is working.

I am stopping in the interesting family of our good friend Evan Jones, Esq., who gives a good account of Mr. Ronayne's labors in this vicinity and of the encouraging results.

Yours in Christ.

J. B.

Conventions are at hand. Their stated officers cannot make them successful without the co-operation of the reformers throughout the States. Let every man be found at his post. Notice that the Wisconsin convention has been withdrawn temporarily. It will be held later in the season.

Hon. Seth M. Gates.

The death of this eminent citizen of New York was noticed last week as having occurred on the 24th ult. at his home in Warsaw. The funeral was attended by large delegations from various points in western New York, many from Rochester and Batavia coming by special train. From the lengthy reports in Buffalo and Rochester papers has been taken the following interesting sketch of his life:

Hon. Seth Merrill Gates died at his residence in Warsaw, Wyoming county, yesterday morning, after nearly completing his seventy-seventh year. He was the son of the late Seth Gates of the same county, and was born in Winfield, Herkimer county, N. Y., October 16, 1800. He came to Western New York in 1806, with his parents, who settled in the town of Sheldon, in Wyoming county. On arriving to manhood he chose the profession of the law, having studied with Hon. Heman J. Redfield, of Genesee county, and when admitted to practice he formed a copartnership with Hon. A. P. Hascall of Le Roy. He was elected to the Assembly in 1832 from Genesee county as an Anti-mason. During this session he was instrumental in procuring the first railroad in Western New York, being that portion of the present New York Central from Rochester to Attica. In 1838 he purchased and published the Le Roy Gazette. During the same year Mr. Gates was elected to congress as an anti-slavery Whig, and was re-elected in 1840. He took an active part in the controversies of that period on the slavery question, co-operating with such men as Adams, Giddings, Slade and Gerrit Smith. He sustained Adams in his memorable struggle for the right of petition. The World's Convention of London in 1840 having issued an address upon this topic, Mr. Gates transmitted copies thereof to the Governors of the several States under his official frank. For this offense he was widely denounced throughout the South. Several of the executives referred to the matter in subsequent messages, and a prominent admirer of the institution of slavery from Georgia published a flaming document offering $500 for the delivery of the guilty member of Congress, dead or alive.

Upon the expiration of his Congressional services he took up his residence in Warsaw, forming a partnership with the late F. C. D. McKay. He soon retired from the practice of the law, and entered into mercantile and other pursuits, which he continued to follow until the time of his death. He was appointed postmaster by Mr. Lincoln in 1861, and was reappointed by Mr. Johnson. He took an active interest in the organization of the Free-Soil party in 1848, when Van Buren and Adams were candidates for President and Vice President, and he was placed upon the ticket for Lieutenant Governor, headed by Gen. John A. Dix.

At the close of the 27th Congress, at the request of John Quincy Adams, he drew up a protest against the annexation of Texas, proving it to be a plan of the slaveholders to extend the area of slavery. The paper was signed by many of the members of Congress, was largely circulated as a campaign document throughout the North, and is alluded to in our later histories, as the beginning of the formal contest in Congress between freedom and slavery. A second stroke of paralysis in 1841 warned him of a constitutional weakness, and his physicians told him he must give up public life and leave his profession of the law. Without any false parade of disappointment or complaints of a "broken life," he did this, devoting himself quietly to the interests of his family, and of the church he loved, and to the moral welfare of the community in which he made his home.

Mr. Gates' record as an Anti-mason is not less honorable and pronounced than as an Abolitionist and temperance reformer, though the fact is scarcely mentioned in the press reports. From his own letters written at various times during twenty years past we learn that he became a Freemason at the solicitation of fellow clerks in a law office a short time before Morgan's abduction and murder. In a letter written July 11, 1856, and published soon after, he says of this institution:

"I was disgusted with its rude ceremonies and abominable obligations, on taking the first degree; but was assured this was only as the hod-carrier's office to that of the Master Mason, and that when I took the third degree I would be satisfied. Lured on by these assurances and the respectable men with whom I was surrounded, and being also assured that it would conduce greatly to the benefit and advantages of a young man just coming into business I went on to the third degree."

Soon followed the abduction of Morgan and Miller, with both of whom Mr. Gates was personally acquainted. As deputy sheriff he attempted the arrest of Johns, the high Mason from Canada who led the mob that dragged Miller to Leroy. With Mr. Talbot, prosecuting attorney, he went through the crowd after his man, but Johns was not to be found. He was in the midst of the exciting scenes that followed, and found Masons everywhere, he says, justifying the outrages in the lodge and in conversation among themselves, while openly they denied both the truthfulness of Morgan's publications and the agency of the lodge in the abduction. "I found such an outrageous system of falsehood," he writes, "abounding in reference to the whole matter, as to lead me to see the pernicious influence of the obligations, and to abandon and renounce the whole thing; and I declared then, as I do now, that the revelations by Morgan of the secrets of Masonry were literally true and correct." His law partner, Hon. Agustus P. Hascall, a ruling elder in the church, who had taken twenty-one degrees also exposed the secrets of the order, publicly declaring the correctness of Morgan's work. Mr. Gates was then living in Leroy; and soon after, when secretary of the lodge, Mr. Hascall being Master, they two carried a vote surrendering the charter of the lodge which thereupon ceased to exist. In 1832 Mr. Gates was elected to the Legislature of his State, by the Anti-masonic party and there conducted himself with such marked ability that he was continued in higher political stations for many years. Freemasonry seemed dead and when he wrote twenty years ago seemed still to be so, Odd-fellowship having sprung up to some extent in its stead.

In 1871 Mr. Gates was called upon very unexpectedly to himself to resist the stealthy encroachments of the lodge in his own church (the Congregational) at Warsaw. He tells us of the fight and the victory in a letter to the New York State Christian Association in convention at Rochester, Dec. 12th to 14th, 1871:

"I had a very severe time of it here, but by dint of hard work and getting our church fully waked up to what was going on, I got the victory to some extent; and at all events I got an opportunity to give the murderous old institution a thorough currying down, and told my experience very fully, and carried the church with me by an overwhelming vote right in the face and eyes of a contrary report made by the pastor and three other members of a committee. The pastor made his report to strike out of our new manual just published, an old resolution against secret societies. I rose and made a written report in favor of retaining it, and then spoke half an hour and my minority report was adopted with only a very few votes against it."

Mr. Gates' excellent letter to the National Convention at Monmouth in 1873 is published in tract form and has been widely circulated. In 1856 he wrote, "It is a poor, a sad, a sorry compliment to any Christian's intelligence and piety, to see him leaving Christ's gospel and church to tag around after Masonry and the lodge." No shade of doubt ever crossed his mind of his convictions on this subject. In 1873 he says:

"Profoundly convinced by long experience and observation that Freemasonry is an evil and pernicious institution, I wish once more in my advanced age, to lift my warning voice publicly against it, and all kindred organizations, and to beseech Christian men to have no connection or fellowship with them. Jesus is not, and cannot properly be recognized in Freemasonry. He must be ignored in the lodge-room, in its lectures, instructions, and in its prayers."

He held firmly to this truth to the last, and the studied and careful effort to exclude the mention of this subject in the funeral discourse or the sketches of his life by the press serves to heighten the effect of his grand testimony, and show forth the true nobility of his character as an honest Christian man.

To this character the funeral sermon witnessed in these terms:

To say that Mr. Gates was not only interested, but also well informed and pronounced on all important questions, is, to you who knew him, very much like saying that ice is cold and fire hot. Of a nature positive and determined, with an instinctive hatred of meanness and dishonesty and wrong—and a love for the opposite qualities—it is easily seen how, in the questions which arose in his lifetime, which involved a moral element, whether pertaining to the nation or to his own State, his voice would be heard and with no uncertain sound. The thing that he felt to be right he sustained, the thing that he felt to be wrong was that which he opposed with all his power. Every good cause for half a century, has had in him a friend.

—Bro. Stoddard writes of an interesting work in central Iowa, but his letter is too late for this number. He will probably return here this week.—Bro. Hinman returned to Wheaton last Saturday after several weeks of hopeful work in Iowa. A brief rest and he will work toward Dayton.—With such an excellent report from Michigan, the friends in that State may claim the banner. Bro. Rathbun returns soon, see his letter.—Nor is Dr. Cook neglectful of his field. The Indiana State meeting promises to be a grand rally for the reform.

A Mass Convention will be held at Galion, O., October 3d and 4th to form an auxiliary association. Drs. Wishart, French and George and Rev. J. P. Stoddard are expected.

Also a similar meeting will be held at Merton's Corners, Morrow county, O, Oct. 5th.

News of the Week.

—The Chicago City Council have arranged to begin the construction of the new city hall immediately.

—The examination into the affairs of the broken State Savings Bank is still proceeding with the hope that about 40 per cent. may be realized by depositors. The management seems to have been reckless if not criminal for years and an effort will probably be made to arrest the president and other culpable officials who are supposed to be in Canada.

—The dedication of the John Brown monument at Ossawatomie, Kan., took place on the 30th ult. Ten thousand people attended. Senator Ingalls, Charles Langston and others made addresses. Resolutions were passed requesting the Legislature of the State of Kansas to make an appropriation to procure the statue of John Brown in bronze or marble, to be placed in the National Hall of Statuary in the National Capitol at Washington as a gift to the nation, and asserting that it is the duty of the Kansas State Historical Society to take measures at the earliest practical moment to collect and put upon record personal recollections of the associates of John Brown respecting his career in Kansas.

Brigham Young died on Wednesday, the 29th ult.—a mistake in the report last week.

—The main building of the Soldiers' Orphan Home at Knightstown, Ind., was destroyed by fire Saturday night. The children were all saved but the building and contents are lost.

—Pres. Hayes is on another extended visit with members of his Cabinet. He left Washington for a soldiers' reunion at Marietta, O., last week, and spent the Sabbath at his old home in Fremont. He will be at Cincinnati next Sabbath and on Monday, September 17th, he will be at the opening of the Exposition at Louisville, Ky., where he will be joined by the Postmaster General and other Cabinet officers, and will be in Nashville on the 19th, Chattanooga on the 20th, and Knoxville, Tenn., on the 21st. The President will return to Washington the latter part of the month, via Virginia, visiting Richmond and other prominent cities in that State.

—Last week was one of the most important in the war in Turkey. Having repelled the attack from the south at Schipka pass, the Russians met an advance on their eastern line, and while withdrawing from their advanced position on the river Lom they were enable to contract their force and take a stand which will probably prevent a further advance of Mehemet Ali. During this time preparations have been going on for the recapture of Plevna. Loftcha, or Lovatz, was captured by hard fighting on Monday and Osman Pasha was flanked on the south. A strong Roumanian force was posted on the road westward to intercept reinforcements from Widin and the struggle began on Thursday. An artillery fight was kept up for three days, the Russians gaining important positions with comparatively small loss. On Sunday it is reported the attack was made on all sides of Plevna and continued through the day. At night the Turks were driven out in great disorder with heavy loss by both armies. This victory will probably open the way for operations south of the Balkans again. The Turkish loss at Schipka was enormous. Three thousand wounded from Suleiman Pasha's army have reached Adrianople; 4,000 are at Kazanlik, and at Schipka the wounded and dead lie all over the hillsides.

Front view of the Carpenter Donation, a fine, stone front building No. 221 West Madison St., Chicago, now occupied by the National Christian Association. The fee simple will be given by Mr. Carpenter if other friends raise $30,000 by Apr. 1st 1878, in cash or "good, negotiable, interest-bearing notes" to establish a Publishing House and headquarters of the reform. Send donations to the Treasurer at 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The National Christian Association.

President of the National Convention.—Pres. H. H. George, D. D., W. Geneva, Ohio

Secretaries.—Rev W. H. French, D. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; H. L. Kellogg, Chicago.

President of the Corporate Body.—Rev. J. B. Walker, D. D., Wheaton, Ill.

Vice-President. — Philo Carpenter, Chicago.

Directors.—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, Archibald Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, H. L. Kellogg, E. Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, J. B. Walker, A. D. Freeman, Thos. Hodge.

Recording Sec'y.—Thos. Hodge, Chicago.

Cor. Sec'y and General Agent.—J. P. Stoddard, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

Treasurer.—H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The object of this Association is:—

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the Churches of Christ from being depraved; to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption"

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform to aid the Association in either of these ways: (1) to establish a Publishing House and Head-quarters in Chicago; (2) to carry on the general work; (3) to maintain the State agents. All donations, (drafts or P. O. orders) should be sent to the Treasurer; general correspondence, etc., direct to the Corresponding Secretary

Form of Bequest.—I give and bequeath to the National Christian Association, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, the sum of——dollars for the purposes of said Association, and for which the receipt of its Treasurer for the time being shall be a sufficient discharge.

State Auxiliary Associations.

CONNECTICUT.

President, J. A. Conant, Willimantic.
Secretary, D. J. Ellsworth, Windsor
Treasurer, C. T. Collins, Windsor

ILLINOIS.

President, S. B. Allen, Westfield.
Rec. Secretary and Treasurer, H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
Lecturers, H. H. Hinman, Wheaton, and J. P. Richards, Bowensburg, Hancock Co.

INDIANA.

Pres't, W. P. McNary, Bloomington.
Rec. Sec'y, H Teter, Westfield.
Treas., Peter Rich, Westfield.
Lecturer and Cor. Sec'y S. L Cook, Albion.

IOWA.

President, M. S. Drury, Western, Li n Co.
Cor. Sec'y, M. R Dru y, " " "
Rec. Sec'y, E. J. Grinnell, Charles City.
Treasurer, John Dorcas, Shiloh.

KANSAS.

President, H. T. Besse, Sterling, Rice Co.
Secretary, J. Dodds, Winchester.
Treasurer, C. A. Sexton, Topeka.

MICHIGAN.

President, H. D. Inman, Coldwater.
Cor. Sec'y, C. B. Remington, Fentonville
Rec. Sec'y, E W. Bruce, Hickory Corners
Treasurer, C. Quick, Weston.
Lecturer and Agent, D. P. Rathbun, Hickory Corners.

Communications for the Agent concerning lectures or the interests of the cause may be addressed to, or in care of, E. W. Bruce.

MISSOURI.

President, N. E. Gardner, Avalon
Cor. Sec'y, A. D. Thomas, Arbela
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Carpenter.
Treasurer, Wm. Beauchamp, Avalon.
Lecturer, E. G. Cooper, Albany Gentry Co.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

President, J. F. Browne, Lewiston, Me.
Secretary, S. C. Kimball, Center Strafford
Treasurer, E. Smith, Center Strafford

NEW YORK.

President, L. N. Stratton, Syracuse.
Secretary, W. A. Sellew, Rochester.
Treasurer, M. Merrick, Syracuse.
Lecturers—L. N. Stratton, Syracuse; Woodruff Post, Rochester; A. F. Curry, Almond.

OHIO.

President, H. H. George, W. Geneva.
Treasurer, J. G. Mattoon, West Unity
Sec. and Lecturer, Wm. Dillon, Dayton.

PENNSYLVANIA.

President, A. L. Post, Montrose.
Cor. Sec'y, N. Callender, Green Grove
Treasurer, W. B. Bertels, Wilksbarre.
Rec. Sec'y, and Lecturer, J. W. Raynor, Montrose.

WISCONSIN.

President, E. L. Harris, Delavan.
Secretary, U. D. Lathrop, Millard
Treasurer; Joshua Parish, Delavan

Address of Anti-masonic Lecturers.

General Agent and Lecturer, J. P. Stoddard, Christian Cynosure Office, Chicago.

For State Lecturers State Ass'n list.

Others who will lecture when desired:—
C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
R. B. Taylor, Summerfield, O.
N. Callender, Starrucca, Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
P. Hurless, Polo, Ill.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Mercer Co., Ill.
J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
Josiah McCaskey, Fancy Creek, Wis.
C. F. Hawley, Damascoville, Ohio.
W. M. Givens, Center Point, Ind.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
D. S. Caldwell, Clyde, Sandusky Co., O.
A. Mayn, Promise City, Wayne Co., Mich.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O
C. F. Wiggins, Angola, Ind
E Ronayne, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.
W. M. Love, Baker, St. Clair Co. Mo
A D. Freeman, Downers Grove, Ill.
Jas. Springer, Springerton. Ill
A. D. Carter, Deersville, Harrison Co. O.
James McCleery, Monroe, Iowa.
R. Faurot, Kendallville, Ind.
J. W. Barlow, Ridgetown, Ont., C. W.

The Home Circle.

Fiddling and Dancing.

In conversation with a Christian brother not long since, we were told by him of a dream he once had, which was so illustrative of temptation that we repeat it as nearly as our memory has it for the benefit of others.

The brother said that he thought he was in a room sitting near to a man who was engaged in fiddling, and who was much absorbed in his music, his whole being seemed to moving to the music of the violin. The melody was very captivating, and the strains so bewitching that the brother could hardly keep his seat he felt so much like dancing. But as he observed more closely he saw that the person who was producing such rapturous strains of music had a cloven foot, and a little horn on each side of his head, with other appendages also showing themselves, although he had evidently taken some pains to hide them from sight.

When these were discovered the brother was less inclined to dance than before. The person seemed to perceive his disinclination and turned to him and urged him to dance, and tried to put even more irresistable power into the music, in order to get him to dance. But the brother turned and said, "No, sir; I'll not dance to the devil's music."

Seeing his temptation was of no avail, the fiddler soon ceased playing and then offered his violin to the brother, saying, "You play." "O, no," was the reply, "I can't play; I don't know how." "Never mind that; try it," said the man; and he urged it upon him. The brother took the violin without much thought and slowly putting it to his shoulder began to draw the bow across the strings, when, to his astonishment, sweet strains of music came forth. Much pleased at the thought that he could play, he kept on for a few minutes, wondering that the violin should be so musical, when on looking up suddenly, he saw the person who gave him the violin standing on the floor and dancing with all his might to the music he was making on the fiddle. "Well," thought he, "I refused to dance when the devil fiddled, but here I have been fiddling for the devil to dance." He ceased instantly and at that moment awoke from his dream.

He told us that dream had been a lesson to him in after years. Oftentimes when tempted to foliow others in evil ways he had refused, but at the same time he had found himself too frequently leading others on by an example that was not right. While he would not follow the devil he found himself too ready to lead where the devil would follow.

Men who are church members are too often entrapped in this way. They will not go to horseraces, or gambling saloons, because Satan is leader there. But they will set up their festivals for church purposes, and have their church lotteries, and invite Satan to come and dance while they fiddle. Young Christian people will often refuse to go to pleasure parties where Satan controls the pleasure, but they will at the same time engage in getting up entertainments which are times for Satan to dance. Persons of Christian deportment will be very careful how they associate with the ungodly and listen to their wicked talk, yet they will sometimes tell vulgar stories to make the ungodly laugh.

What cares Satan or the world which way you have it? Whether men fiddle or dance for Satan, it is all the same to him. They become his associates, and are in the same condemnation. The only safe way is to keep the heart entirely separate from worldly things, and follow only Jesus. Whatever the Saviour would do, that we may do likewise, but shun all else.—Advent Christian Times.

United Prayer.

For ten long years Mrs. H. prayed for her infidel husband. She knew that the Lord heard, and that he was "faithful that promised"; but as yet the answer did not come. Her husband seemed as far from God as when, in the joy of her new-found hope, she had told him of how "God so loved," and asked him to join her in a life of loving service. Yet the Lord was leading her gently, that she might know and do his will. One evening, at the church prayer-meeting her heart was more than usually burdened, and near the close of the service, she arose timidly and said: "For many years, dear friends, I have longed to ask you to help me pray. It is not customary with us for ladies to speak in the meeting, and I have feared to be intrusive, but I can forbear no longer. Will you pray for my husband?"

Every heart was touched. A good brother immediately led in prayer, then another and another and another took up the petition. Mr. H. was well-known and much loved in the community, and they poured out their hearts before the Lord, pleading, "as one pleadeth for a friend." Last of all, a colored brother bowed in prayer, and in humble confidence seemed to enter into the very presence of Jehovah. Just after Mrs. H. had made her request, her husband, as was his custom, came to the chapel to accompany her home. Finding that the service had not yet closed, he entered, unobserved, and took a seat near the door.

"Tell me, wife," he said, as they were leaving the vestibule, "who was the gentleman they were praying for just now?"

"He is the husband of one of the sisters of the church," replied Mrs. H..

"Wife," he said again, as they ascended the steps at home, "who was it they were praying for?"

"The husband of one of the sisters, Charles."

"Well, wife," he replied, "that man will certainly be converted; I never heard such prayers before."

Again, as they were preparing for the night, he remarked: "Those were wonderful prayers, wife. Can you tell me the gentleman's name?"

"He was the husband of one of the ladies present," replied Mrs. H., and then she retired to her closet for prayer and praise. At midnight she heard her husband's voice again. "Wife, wife! God heard those prayers; I cannot sleep, wife. Will you pray for me? Can the Lord show mercy to me, wife?"

There was joy in the presence of the angels that night. When the faithful pastor called the next morning he found Mr. H. "praising and blessing God." Blessed words of Jesus, "When two of you shall agree, touching anything that ye shall ask, it shall be done of my Father."—Advocate and Guardian.

The Bible in Japan.

The following interesting incident is quoted by some of our exchanges as from a reliable European journal: "Six Japanese girls were sent over to America to be educated. One of them took a situation as governess in the family, where she read the English Bible. She wrote under deep conviction to her father, urging him to procure a copy of the Bible and read it. He, thinking it was a whim of his child, dismissed the subject from his mind and destroyed the letter. This was ten years ago. Some seven years later he went as a Commissioner for Japan to the Austrian Exhibition. There he saw the Bible stand, and was impressed with wonder that so much should be made of any single book, and that it should be thought worth translating into so many languages. He purchased a copy in Chinese and read it with curiosity. Curiosity deepened into interest, and by degrees he became convinced of the truth of all the Book taught. In his journey through Europe he made his own observations of the three prevailing forms of Christianity—the Romish, Greek and Protestant faiths. He was satisfied that the last of these came nearest to the teaching and spirit of the Book itself. On his return to Yeddo he applied to the American missionaries for baptism. Hearing of the step he had taken, his daughter wrote him from America to suggest that, as he had the means at his disposal, he should purchase a heathen temple for purposes of Christian worship. He did so, and in the temple thus purchased the Christian missionaries now meet for worship."

Luther's Description of the Christian.

A Christian is a child of God, a brother of Christ, a temple of the Holy Ghost, an heir of the kingdom, a companion of the angels, a lord of the world and a partaker of the Divine nature. The Christian's honor is Christ in heaven, and Christ's honor is a Christian on earth. He is a dear child of God, clothed in Christ's righteousness, living in holy fear and cheerful obedience before the Father. He shines as a light in the world and as a rose among the thorns; he is a wonderfully beautiful creature of God's grace, in whom the holy angels rejoice and whom they continually accompany with joy. He is a miracle to the world, a terror to the devils, an ornament to the church, a desire of heaven. His heart is all ablaze, his eyes full of tears, his mouth full of sighs, and his hands full of good works.

A Relic.

Among the few remains of Sir John Franklin, that were found far up in the polar regions, there was a leaf of the "Student's Manual," by Dr. John Todd, the only relic of a book. From the way in which the leaf was turned down, the following portion of a dialogue was prominent: "Are you not afraid to die?" "No! No!" "Why does the uncertainty of another state give you no concern?" "Because God has said to me, 'Fear not. When thou passest through the waters I will be with thee; and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee.'" This leaf is preserved in the museum of Greenwich hospital, in England, among the relics of Sir John Franklin.

There are some natures that only tempests can bring out. We have read somewhere of an old castle in Germany with two towers that stood up far apart, between which an old baron had stretched large wires, thus making an æolian harp. There were the wires suspended, and the summer breezes played through them; but there was no vibration. Common winds, not having power enough to move them, went through them without a whistle. But when there came along great tempest winds, and the forests rocked, and the heaven was black, and the air resounded, these winds, with giant touch, swept through the wires, which began to ring and roar, and pour out terrific melodies.

And so God stretches cords in the human soul, and ordinary influences do not make them vibrate; but now and then great tempests sweep through them, and men are conscious that tones are produced in them which could not have been produced except by some such handling as that.

It is for this reason that God's tried ones are so often found "joyful in tribulation," and it is from such experiences that they learn to appreciate the exhortation of the apostle James—"My brethren, count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations."—Baptist Weekly.

The times are such that it is almost impossible for a man to go to heaven without getting a nickname by the way. Yet it is better to go to heaven with a nickname than to go to hell without one.—T.

"I cannot be poor," said Bernard, "so long as God is rich, for all his riches are mine."

Children's Corner

Not in Vain.

O little bird in the far forest,
Singing from morning till night,
O lily, in lonely green valley,
Blooming so fresh and bright,—

O moss on the high, hoar mountain,
O diamond, deep hidden below,
O wild, sweet rose of the woodland,
What courage, what faith you show!

Sing on, little bird, your sweet matins,
Sing on, for he heareth you still,
Who so counteth and careth for sparrows,
That none falleth against his will.

Bloom on, O lonely field lily,
For he watches and guards you from dearth,
Who hath fashioned your garments fairer,
Than the robes of the kings of the earth.

Grow green, O moss of the mountain,
So near to the loving sky,
Clothe the dark, gray rocks with thy beauty,
For beauty can never die.

Shine on in the darkness, O diamond,
Bloom sweet, O rose of the glen,
Not in vain are your light and your freshness,
Though hid from the gaze of men.

Not in vain is the faith that is silent,
Or the good deed in secret done,
For of him who beholdeth all things
Is the meed of well-doing won.

—Selected.

Words to Young People.

Little girls, do you ever think about the meaning of words? This word now, courtesy, has something about it which girls and women ought to care for very much indeed. You know that hundreds of years ago in Europe, and in many heathen countries now, women are not much better than slaves. In China, for instance, when company comes to a house the parents present the boys very proudly, but they send the girls out of sight as far as possible. They don't want any body to know that they have little daughters in their home.

Gradually in the Middle Ages woman came up from a state of barbarism, and the clergy and poets together helped her to win her proper place. The lady of the castle kept the keys and presided at all feasts, wore beautiful robes of stuff called samite and camelot, and gave medicine to the sick. She learned surgery too, and when the soldiers and knights came home from battle, wounded and faint, she knew how to set the broken bones and bind up the bruised part. So everybody treated her politely, and the sort of manners which then came to be popular in place of the old roughness and rudeness took the general name of courtesy.

The Bible bids us to be courteous. Do you want to know the highest and loveliest style of courtesy which you can practice at home, at school, and in the street? It is all wrapped up in one golden phrase, "In honor preferring one another." Suppose you try to live with these words for your motto, say for a whole week to come.—S. S. Times.

How the Little Girl Proved It.

Hereafter the language of mathematics will have to be more exact. A female teacher said that on one occasion she had in her school a class of little beginners—children of four and five years—and that in inducting them into the rudiments of arithmetic, she sought to simplify things as much as possible. There they had the ten numerals on their ten fingers, and in adding or substracting the simple numbers, they could reckon upon those digits. The thing worked to a charm, and the little ones readily learned thus to solve the first problems of the great science.

One day the class was out for recitation, and subtraction was the theme.

"Five from five leaves how many?" was by-and-by asked of a bright-eyed miss.

The little thing up with her fingers and went at it. For a time she seemed exceedingly puzzled, but at length her eyes snapped, and she lifted her head confidently.

"Five!" she said, with most assured emphasis.

Curious to know how she had arrived at that solution the teacher asked her to explain.

"Why," replied the child, holding out her two hands, and placing them side by side, "zere's five on 'at hand and five on 'at. Now I take away 'ese five from 'ose five and—'ere zey 'be—five!"

About as fine a piece of ocular demonstration in the way of a logical dilemma as you will often meet.

To "head off" such sharp little discoverers and accountants, it will be in order to say, "five from itself, how many?"

A Fly's Toilet.

The toilet of the fly is as carefully attended to as that of the most frivolous of human insects. With a contempt for the looking-glass—an article which he reserves for the most ignoble uses—he brushes himself up and wabbles his little round head, chuck full of vanity, wherever he happens to be. Sometimes after a long day of dissipation and flirting, with his six small legs and little round body all solid with sirup, and butter, and cream, he passes out of the dining-room and wings his way to the clean white cord along which the morning glories climb, and in this retired spot, heedless of the crafty spider that is practising gymnastics a inches few above him he proceeds to purify and sweeten himself for the refreshing repose and soft dreams of the balmy summer night, so necessary to one who is expected to be early at breakfast.

It is a wonderful toilet. Resting himself on his front and middle legs, he throws his hind legs rapidly over his body, binding down his frail wings for an instant with the pressure, then raking them over with a backward motion, which he repeats until they are bright and clear. Then he pushes the two legs along his body under the wings, giving that queer structure a thorough currying, every now and then throwing the legs out and rubbing them together to remove what he has collected from his corporeal surface. Next he goes to work upon his van. Resting on his hind legs and middle legs, he raises his two fore-legs and begins a vigorous scraping of his head and shoulders, using his proboscis exery little while to push the accumulation from his limbs. At times he is so energetic that it seems as if he was trying to pull his head off, but no fly ever committed suicide. Some of his motions very much resemble those of pussy at her toilet. It is plain even to the naked eye, that he does his work thoroughly, for when he is finished he looks like a new fly,s o clean and neat has he made himself within a few minutes. The white cord is defiled, but Floppy is himself again, and he bids the morning glories a very good evening.

It is one thing to be childlike, and another to be childish.—Jones.

The Sabbath School.

LESSON XXXVIII.—Sept. 23, 1877.—PAUL AT MILETUS.

SCRIPTURE.—Acts 20: 17-32. Commit to memory vs. 23-27.

17. And from Miletus he sent to Ephesus, and called the elders of the church.

18. And when they were come to him, he said unto them, Ye know, from the first day that I came into Asia, after what manner I have been with you at all seasons,

19. Serving the Lord with all humility of mind, and with many tears, and temptations, which befell me by the lying in wait of the Jews:

20. And how I kept back nothing that was profitable unto you, but have shewed you, and have taught you publicly, and from house to house,

21. Testifying both to the Jews, and also to the Greeks, repentance toward God and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ.

22. And now, behold, I go bound in the spirit unto Jerusalem, not knowing the things that shall befall me there:

23. Save that the holy Ghost witnesseth in every city, saying that bonds and afflictions abide me.

24. But none of these things move me, neither count I my life dear unto myself, so that I might finish my course with joy, and the ministry, which I have received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the Gospel of the grace of God.

25. And now, behold, I know that ye all, among whom I have gone preaching the kingdom of God, shall see my face no more.

26. Wherefore I take you to record this day, that I am pure from the blood of all men.

27. For I have not shunned to declare unto you all the counsel of God.

28. Take heed therefore unto yourselves and to all the flock, over which the Holy Ghost hath made you overseers, to feed the church of God, which he hath purchased with his own blood.

29. For I know this, that after my departing shall grievous wolves enter in among you, not sparing the flock.

30. Also of your own selves shall men arise, speaking perverse things, to draw away disciples after them.

31. Therefore watch, and remember, that by the space of three years I ceased not to warn every one night and day with tears.

32. And now, brethren, I commend you to God, and to the word of his grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all them which are sanctified.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"For we preach not ourselves, but Christ Jesus the Lord; and ourselves your servants for Jesus' sake."—2 Cor. iv. 5.

Almost a whole year passed by after the "uproar" at Ephesus before the incident recorded in the present lesson—a year full of labors and experiences to the apostle. First he went to Macedonia, where he directed the collection for the poor saints of Judea, and gave the brethren much exhortation, and (probably at Philippi) wrote his 2d Epistle to the Corinthians. Then he seems to have made a missionary excursion into Illyricum. (Rom. xv. 19.) After that, according to previous intention, he visited Corinth, where, as the guest of Gaius, he remained three months, settling the difficulties of the church there, and writing (probably) his Epistles to the Galatians and Romans. 1 Cor. xvi. 5-7. Then, accompanied by a number of brethren, v. 4 he journeyed back through Macedonia to Philippi, where he spent the days of unleavened bread. Finally he took a ship, in which, except for a short distance, (v. 13) he proceeded to Troas, Assos, Mitylene, Chios, (Scio), Trogyllium and Miletus—all points on the eastern shore of the Aegean Sea (Archipelago) or or some of its adjacent islands. At Troas he spent a week, and on the Lord's day held a service remarkable for its length, and for an incident which is fully recorded by the inspired historian, (vs. 6 12). Paul's aim was to reach Jerusalem before Pentecost. Hence he could not stop for any length of time at Ephesus, (v. 16). Still he was very anxious to see his Ephesian friends once more in the flesh; and as Miletus was only 36 miles south of the Asiatic capital, he requested the elders of the church in that place to make him a hasty visit, which they did. The meeting occurred, probably, on Sabbath, April 23d, A. D. 58. Many circumstances combined to make this interview very affecting, and the Spirit has seen fit to leave us an account of it more than usually minute.—Evangelical Repository.

HOME READINGS.

M.	Num.	12: 1-16.... "Faithful in all Mine House."
T.	Dan	6: 1-28.... Faithful in Danger.
W.	Matt.	24: 24-51.... Faithful in Service.
Th.	Luke	16: 1-31 ... Faithful in little things.
F.	Acts	7: 49-60.... Faithful to the last.
S.	2 Tim.	4: 1- 8 ... Faithful at all times.
S.	Rev.	3: 1-17.... Faithful unto death.

Nat'l S. S. Teacher.

SCRIPTURE COMMENTARY.

V. 17.—For Paul determined to sail by Ephesus, because he would not spend the time in Asia: for he hasted, if it were possible for him to be at Jerusalem the day of Pentacost, v. 16.

And the Lord said unto Moses, Gather unto me seventy men of the elders of Israel whom thou knowest to be the elders of the people and officers over them, Num. 11:16.

But the eye of their God was upon the elders of the Jews that they could not cause them to cease till the matter came to Darius, Ez. 5: 5.

That thou shouldest set in order the things that are wanting and ordain elders in every city, Titus 1: 5.

And when they were come to Jerusalem they were received of the church and of the apostles and elders, Acts 15: 4.

V. 18.—After these things Paul departed from Athens and came to Corinth (Acts 18: 1) and he continued there a year and six months (v. 11),..tarried there yet a good while and then took his leave of the brethren and sailed thence into Syria (v. 18),..and he came to Ephesus (v. 19), 19:1, 10.

And this continued by the space of two years; so that all they which dwelt in Asia heard the words of the Lord Jesus, Acts 19: 10.

By the space of three years I ceased not to warn every one night and day with tears, Acts 20: 31.

Be instant in season and out of season, 2 Tim. 4: 2.

V. 19.—Be clothed with humility, 1 Pe. 5:5; Col. 3: 12.

In lowliness of mind let each esteem others better than themselves, Phil. 2: 3.

Who am less than the least of all saints, Eph. 3: 8; 1 Cor. 15: 9.

For out of much affliction and anguish of heart I wrote unto you with many tears, 2 Cor. 2: 4. As sorrowful yet alway rejoicing, 6: 10.

And when the Jews laid wait for him, v. 3. They watched the gates day and night to kill him, Acts 9. 23, 24; 23: 12; 25: 3. In perils by mine own countrymen, 2 Cor. 11: 26.

V. 20.—See v. 27. And thou shalt speak my words unto them whether they will hear or whether they will forbear. Ex. 2: 7; John 17: 8; 1 Cor. 2: 4; Col. 1: 28; Gal. 1: 10; Matt. 28: 20.

The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, Matt. 13: 33. Preach the Gospel to every creature. Mark 16: 15; Acts 2: 46; 2 Tim. 3: 6.

V. 21.—But now commandeth all men everywhere to repent. Acts 17: 30; 13: 4; Mark 1: 15.

V. 23.—Paul purposed in spirit, when he had passed through Macedonia and Achaia to go to Jerusalem. Acts 19: 21; 18: 5; 21: 14; 16: 6; Rom. 8: 15; Luke 4: 1, 14, 18.

Ye know not what shall be on the morrow. Jas. 4: 13-15; Matt. 10: 29 31.

V. 23.—For I will show him how great things he must suffer for my name's sake. Acts 9: 16, 21: 11; 1 Thess 3 3.

V. 24.—I am ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus. Acts 21: 13; Rom. 8: 35; 2 Cor. 4: 16; Matt. 10: 24-28.

I have fought a good fight. 2 Tim. 4:7; Heb. 12:2, 17; 1 Pe. 1:7, 8; 4:13.

An apostle, not of man, neither by man, but by Jesus Christ. Gal. 1:1; Tit. 1:3.

V. 25.—See v. 28, and John 16:20, 22; Col. 2:1.

V. 26.—Ye are witnesses and God also. 1 Thess. 2:10; Ez. 33 9; Col. 1:28.

All things that I have heard of my Father I have made known unto you. John 15:15.

V. 27.—Take heed unto thyself and unto the doctrine. 1 Tim. 4: 12-16; 3:2-7; 6:11, 12.

Feed the flock of God which is among you taking the oversight thereof. 1 Pe. 5:1 4; John 21:15-17; Prov. 10:21; 1 Tim. 5:17; John 20 22, 23; Acts 11:30; 14:23; 15:4, 23; 16:4; Jas. 5:14.

Ye are bought with a price. 1 Cor 6:20; Eph. 1:7; 1 Pe 1:19.

V. 28.—There shall be false teachers among you. 2 Pe. 3:1 3; John 10:2; Mat. 7:15

V. 29 and 30.—2 Pe. 2:18 20; 1 Tim. 1:20; 1 John 2. 19; Rev 12:4.

V 31.—They that sow in tears shall reap in joy. Ps. 126:5, 6; Jer. 13:17; 2 Cor. 11:27, 28.

V. 32.—Sanctify them through thy truth: thy word is truth. John 17: 17; 1 Pe. 2:2; Jude 24.

Partakers of the inheritance of the saints in light. Col. 1:12; 1 Pe. 1:4; Acts 26:18.

Died at Wardville, Ont., in the 82d year of his age Peter C. Dunlap. He was born in New York State. His father was a minister of the Associate Reformed church. The Rev. Dr. Proudfit was often a visitor at his father's parsonage. It made the old man feel young again to tell how when the aged Dr. Proudfit came to assist his father at the sacraments he would have the pleasure of sleeping in his bosom. In those days stoves were not plentiful. This good old man liked best to have Peter in his bosom. Peter, too, thought he would like to be a minister. With this view he studied, but his physician warned him not to persist. His studies were abandoned for a farmer's life. He bought a farm in Long Island, New York, where he lived till his wife died. He then retired and came to live with his daughter in Canada, where he breathed his last.

It is worthy of remark that he remembered the excitement at the time of Captain Wm. Morgan's abduction and murder. He was in the midst of all this excitement. On coming to Canada he brought with him William Morgan's chest, which he valued very highly. His son-in-law, who was a Mason and a great upholder of the lodge, bought this precious relic of him for $10, or forty pieces of silver. It was employed in the lodge for burying the arcana in. But some years ago a fire broke out in the village and the chest and the secrets hid in it all perished together. What a meeting will Captain Morgan and his abductors have as they come one after another to stand before God's judgment seat! Then the tale so dark will be made all plain. "The fire will try every man's work of what sort it is." Better to stand the test there than down here. God shall reverse many of man's decisions.

J. D.

—Abram Stratton, father of Rev. L. N. Stratton of the Wesleyan, died about two weeks since at his home in Wyanet, Ill., of a paralytic shock from which he had been suffering for nearly a year. Bro. Stratton attended the funeral with Prof. S. F. Stratton of Wheaton, his brother, who was studying at the East. "A just and honest man" is the record left from his useful life.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS ILLUSTRATED.*

BY A PAST CHANCELLOR. A Full Illustrated Exposition of the Three Ranks of the order with the addition of the Amended, Perfected and Amplified Third Rank.
The Lodge Room, Signs, Countersigns, Grips, etc., are shown by Engravings.

C pyright 1877 By Ezra A. Cook & Co.,

*This work is now IN PRESS and will be issued in October.

Price 25cts. each. $2 00 per doz. Post Paid. By Express per 100 $10 00-
One half Doz. at Doz. rates, 25 at 100 Rates.

[CONTINUED.]

[An imitation mound with skeleton thereon.]

"Look on yon mound; there lies the framework of a coward soul, who wandering round with me as you do now, trembled to hear the howling of wild beasts. This show of fear invoked my wrath, and with a swoop of my avenging sword, I left him there to fatten up the bloodhounds of this wilderness."

[The cauldron is set on fire.]

"Ah! yonder leaps the red and lurid flame! (A mock cauldron with colored fire, surrounded by masked knights robed in black, is seen at further end of Lodge-room.) Note how it licks around that coward's bones, and boils the water of his stagnant blood! My sable band hold royal feast over a victim that I slew last night; see how they quarrel o'er his livered blood, and wrangle for a dish full of his brains! Ere yet the hand of death had stopped the twitching of his livid limbs, and while he writhed beneath the fatal blow, they plucked his hair out by the roots, twisted his nails from out their fleshy bed and rubbed saltpetre on his gaping wounds.

"Ho! one of you, come quickly hither and produce the test!"

[Vice Chancellor, who is robed in black and masked, approaches and presents the test. Pluto takes it.]

"I have provided here, by order of the 'Ten,' a goodly combination of tough wood and steel; take it yourself that you may see the points."

[Hands it to candidate, who takes and examines it.]

Pluto.—"Of its keen sharpness are you well assured?" (Pluto tries it with his sword.)

Candidate answers.

Pluto to Vice Chancellor.—"Begone, and place it on the testing spot!"

[Vice Chancellor takes it from the candidate, carries it to the testing spot, where it is put in position in full view of the candidate, and the change made by the Vice Chancellor at the proper time and quietly as possible.]

[Pluto, in an unconcerned and careless manner, turns the candidate with his back to the testing spot, and placing his hands upon the candidate's shoulders, looks him square in the eyes to attract his attention while saying:]

Pluto.—"Come, let me gaze into your eyes, those well springs of the soul, from which outflash the hidden secrets of the heart! When Adam fell from his primeval bliss, tempted by me through unsuspecting Eve, I made him deaf to Gabriel's cautioning tongue, lest he might stop, considering, on the brink, and waxing brave, upset my plans for peopling this wild waste. Thus much is left of my angelic mould, that to the brave I give my knightly hand to bear them safe o'er this unhallowed soil: but to the man of weak and reedy nerve I leave the wooing of my untamed imps that seek an introduction to his blood."

[At this moment the curtain at the chair of the Chancellor Commander is drawn aside and the Chancellor Commander is seen, dressed in a scarlet robe, with a white cross upon his breast, a gilt crown upon his head and a gilt cross, as a sceptre, in his hand. Pluto, turning, sees him, (trembling,) says:]

Pluto.—"Before that awful emblem of my great defeat I bow in mute despair, and leaving you in guardianship of him whose word to me is law, I vanish from your sight."

[Pluto retires out of sight, as noiselessly as possible, and lays aside his robes, etc.]

Chancellor Commander descending from and leaving his station, takes the candidate by the left arm, so as to keep him away from the test while the board with iron spikes is slily replaced with one with rubber spikes, addresses him while leading him around finally to the testing spot, as follows:

Chancellor Commander.—"Esquire, it was decreed by the Grand Council who essayed you here, that as a proof of your obedience and unflinching nerve, you jump with naked feet upon that instrument of torture. I bid you now make bare each tender foot, and at the instant that I orders give, leap on those bristling points."

[Master at Arms assists him to take off his sandals and ascend the eminence.]

Chancellor Commander, (to the Knights).—"Come, one and all, and bear him witness in the act, and if he fail, conduct ye as ye will."

[Knights assemble around without further command, with swords at a carry. All being ready, the Chancellor Commander continuing, says:]

Chancellor Commander.—"Now, if you are a brave and steel souled man, Leap down!"

[In case he refuses, after a third command, the Chancellor Commander steps forward, puts his foot on it and then requires the candidate to do it; both feet must go on.]

Chancellor Commander (returning to his station).—"Attention Knights! return swords; about face; posts march; be seated."

[After the ceremonies, the candidate puts on his sandals and is conducted to the station of the Chancellor Commander, the costumes of each having been laid aside, or not, as may be desired.]

Chancellor Commander (to candidate).—"My friend, the ceremonies you have passed through were not conceived in idle sport to trifle with your feelings, but to convey a practical lesson to your mind in a manner so impressive as not to be easily effaced. You was brought into the presence of our armed council to remind you that good men are always clad in the bright armor of Truth and Virtue, from which the shafts of Vice and Falsehood fall harmlessly to the ground.

"You was vouched for by a friend to show the necessity of an upright life if we would enter into the habitations of the good beyond the grave. A lesson of Friendship was given you when standing alone and unprotected, by one to you unknown, who volunteered to bear, in your behalf, the test on which the Council might decide; but Caution to the rescue came and bade you go alone, lest we might lose the counsels of a well-tried Knight, for the rash promptings of a reckless but well-meaning mind.

"Then you was led through a wilderness, to remind you of life's journey; that we have no abiding city here, nor is the prospect sufficiently inviting to induce us to seek to wander here forever, even if we could.

"You was beset by snakes and adders to remind you of the trials and temptations of life; and in the fleshless form exhibited to you, you saw the penalty of Cowardice. Such is the punishment that awaits the soul that lacks the moral courage to stand bravely out, catching the shafts of Error upon the shield of Purity, and hewing Falsehood with the sword of Truth.

"You was then shown a scene indicative of the evil passions of man—evincing his readiness to rejoice in the downfall of his neighbor. The sudden vanishing of your conductor before the symbol of the cross, was to convey to your mind that there is a time when the evil doer will blanch before the stern face of justice, although his wickedness may seem to prosper for a season.

"Lastly, you was led to a place where your faith was put to the extremest test; you was there taught a lesson of obedience, but greater than all, you was shown that if you have only the moral heroism and stamina to face manfully the dangers that apparently surround you, you will find them mere shadows that vanish at the first blow.

"Such are the moral convictions we have striven to print indelibly on your mind, and we trust that your intercourse with the world at large will prove the lessons have not been in vain.

"Master at Arms, conduct our friend to the chair of the Vice Chancellor for further insight to our mysteries." (Master at Arms does so.)

Master at Arms (to Vice Chancellor).—"Obedient to command, Vice Chancellor, I present this candidate to you to be instructed in our secret work."

[If he obeyed command to jump on the spikes the Vice Chancellor says:]

Vice Chancellor.—"As a brave man I extend you cordial greeting, and now proceed to give you knowledge of our secret work, that you may know that he who wears the spurs has fairly won them"

[If he was not obedient the Vice Chancellor says:]

Vice Chancellor.—"As a brave and obedient man I cannot give you cordial greeting, yet will, in consideration of the many trials you have undergone, proceed to give you knowledge of our secret work, that you may know that he who wears the spurs should fairly win them."

SIGN OF BRAVERY OR COURTESY, THIRD RANK.

Form a triangle with forearms extending horizontally from you, points of fingers and thumbs together and spread out; heel of hands about five inches apart. See cut. This is called the visor sign.

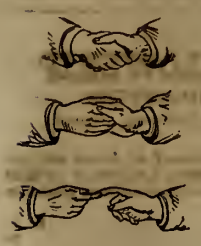
VISOR SIGN ON ENTERING LODGE.

On entering to salute the Chancellor Commander, raise visor so as to touch the breast with the forefingers, the thumbs pointing downward. Hands are then separated and with a gentle wave are brought to the side.

VISOR SIGN ON RETIRING FROM LODGE.

On retiring approach the Altar, face the Chancellor Commander and turn the visor (hands) down, so that the thumbs point up and the fingers down and then bring hands to side with a gentle wave.

The Countersign, given by the Chancellor Commander, is same as sign or a wave of the hand. The Password, given at the inner door, is Confidence. The Alarm at the inner door is two raps. The Grip is given in this manner:



GRIP, THIRD RANK.

Take each other by the right hand as for ordinary hand shake. When withdrawing hands press each other's forefinger with thumb and forefinger, gently, the whole length of finger, slightly crooking the ends of the forefingers and hooking or pressing them together at the points.

Vice Chancellor.—"Master at Arms, you will now conduct our newly tried and instructed brother to the Chancellor Commander for final examination, instruction and enrollment on the roster of this Lodge, as having that Rank. (He does so.)

Master at Arms.—"Chancellor Commander, by direction of the Vice Chancellor of this Lodge, I present to you Brother John Brown, who has been instructed in the sign, countersign, password and grip of the Third or Chivalric Rank of Knight, for final examination, instruction and enrollment on the roster of this Lodge as having that Rank."

Chancellor Commander.—"Brother John Brown, as an evidence of the attention paid to the instruction already given you, you will be kind enough to satisfy me that you are in possession of the sign.

Candidate gives the Visor Sign which he says is turned up on entering and down on retiring; the Countersign, same or a wave of the hand; the Password, Confidence; the Alarm, two raps; the Grip, shake hands in ordinary manner, then press each other's forefinger, whole length of finger, gently, hooking the forefingers slightly as the hands are withdrawn.

Chancellor Commander.—"Master at Arms, repair with our friend to the centre of our Castle Hall; place him in due position to be dubbed a Knight."

[Master at Arms places candidate in centre of hall, and causes him to kneel upon the right knee at the altar.]

Master at Arms.—"Chancellor Commander your orders have been obeyed."

Chancellor Commander.—"Attention, Knights! (all rise) Handle swords; draw swords; carry arms; forward and form triangle around candidate!" (See diagram, page 63.)

[Knights, with swords at "carry," surround the candidate on three sides, forming, as near as possible, a triangle. The Chancellor Commander approaches and strikes candidate with the flat of his sword on right shoulder three times, saying:]

Chancellor Commander.—"In the name of the Order Universal (one rap) and by power in me vested (one rap) as Chancellor Commander of this Lodge, (one rap) I bid thee rise and stand erect a Pythian Knight, (candidate rises) and in the presence of your conferes, I command you to be invested with the spurs your rank now entitles you to wear."

[Master at Arms invests candidate with a spur on each heel.]

Chancellor Commander.—"Attention, Knights! Present arms! (if armed, if not) Salute!"

[Knights present swords, (if armed,) if not, salute, by bringing right hand to head as if making a military salute.]

Chancellor Commander (returning to his station).—"Carry arms; return swords; about face; to your posts march!" (Knights march to their ordinary places in Lodge-room.)

Chancellor Commander.—"Knights! about face; be seated!"

[The candidate and Master at Arms remain standing in centre of hall.]

Chancellor Commander.—"Master at Arms, you will present the newly tried and made brother at the Chancellor Commander's station." (He does so.)

Chancellor Commander.—"Knight John Brown, you have now passed through the Third or Chivalric Rank of Knight, and the highest that can be given you in this Lodge. The motto thereof is Bravery, you have been severely tested, and passed the ordeal unscathed, exemplifying in part your confidence in and willingness to adhere to all lawful mandates. Bravery is defined as courage, heroism, undaunted spirit, intrepidity and gallantry though there are other meanings to the term. There is a moral as well as a physical courage; the lesson inculcated in this instance embraces them both. You are expected to be brave and courageous in upholding the rights of a brother; maintaining the dignity of the order, or its tenets of Friendship, Charity and Benevolence, and though the uninitiated and skeptical person should deride, condemn or mock, ever stand ready to defend it and them from slur or sarcasm; not that they would in any manner take from it or its teachings the honor due, but let the world know that any shaft aimed thereat is as though received by yourself. Aiding thus in upholding our rights, usages and customs as a chivalric order, you strengthen and sustain our glorious principles, and more closely unite yourself with those who are linked together in the holy ties of brotherly love. Courage enables you to encounter difficulties and dangers with firmness and without fear of depression of spirits; it is also a constituent part of fortitude, which implies patience to bear continued suffering. Constitutional courage often forsakes its possessor in the hour of danger, but courage which arises from a sense of duty, like that of the noble Pythias when addressing the tyrant Dionysius:"

"As thou'rt a husband and father, hear me—
Let Damon go and see his wife and child
Before he dies—for four hours respite him—
Put me in chains; plunge me into his dungeon
As pledge for his return; do this—but this—
And may the gods themselves build up thy greatness
As high as their own heaven."

"Courage like this, when coupled with friendship, acts uniformly.

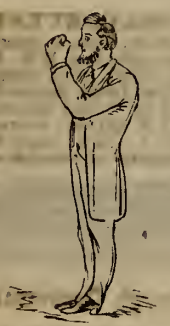
"Brother Knight John Brown, I have no fear but that you will prove yourself in like manner, Friendly, Cautious and Brave—ever ready to extend the strong hand of fellowship toward your brethren, and to stand by the courageous. In token whereof I greet you in Friendship, (gives grip of first rank) in Caution, (gives grip of second rank) in Bravery, (gives grip of third rank.) The Sign of recognition or Challenge Sign is:

SIGN OF RECOGNITION OR CHALLENGE SIGN, THIRD RANK.

Place left hand over the heart; right hand open, palm down and about the height of the hips, indicating the position your hands were in when you took the obligation.

The answer is the same, indicating the same, it being simply the position your hands were in when assuming the obligation of the First, or Initiatory Rank of Page.

The Voting Sign is:

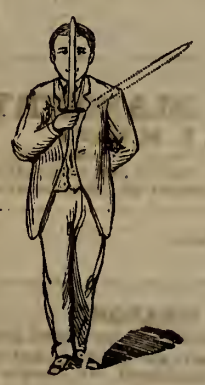


VOTING SIGN.

Clench the left hand and raise it about as high as the eyes.

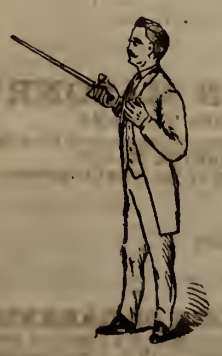
The Semi-Annual Password, as its name indicates, and which is given at the outer door, (the Rank Passwords are not,) is (Onward; for the last half of 1877) whispers it in his ear.

The Parry Sign is:



PARRY.—Hold sword erect (in right hand) and move point from right to left as if to parry or ward off a blow..

The Grand Honors are given thus:



Place the left hand on the heart and sword at a "present."

Supreme Honors same as Grand honors

Chancellor Commander.—"Keeper of Records and Seal, you will now present the roster of this Lodge to our Brother Knight John Brown for enrollment.

[Which being done, the Chancellor Commander says:]

Chancellor Commander.—"Master at Arms, you will now face the newly charged Brother Knight to the Lodge, and clothe him in the proper regalia or insignia of the Third, Chivalric and Honorable Rank of Knight." (Master at Arms does so.)

[To be Continued.]

Masonic Books.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

☞All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Those who wish to know the character of Freemasonry, as shown by its own publications, will find many standard works in the following list.

No sensible Mason dares deny that such men as Albert G. Mackey, the great Masonic Lexicographer, and Daniel Sickels, the Masonic author and publisher, are the highest Masonic authority in the United States.

All the books advertised here are used by Masons, but Duncan's Ritual, Allyn's Ritual and Richardson's Monitor, are not publicly acknowledged as Masonic authority, because they tell too much.

WEBB'S MONITOR O FREEMASONRY.

LARGE Edition, with Notes by ROB. MORRIS. Price, $1.50. Pocket Edition. 75 Cts.

FEMALE MASONRY.

MANNUAL OF THE ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR.

Containing the Ritual, Symbols Lectures etc., of the five Degrees of "Adoptive Masonry:" Jepthah's Daughter; Ruth, Esther, Martha and Electa, profusely illustrated and handsomely bound.

Price $1 00

SICKELS' FREEMASON'S MONITOR,

CONTAINING the Degrees of Freemasonry embraced in the Lodge, Chapter, Council, and Commandery, embellished with nearly 300 symbolic Illustrations, together with Tactics and Drill of Masonic Knighthood. Also, forms of Masonic Documents, Notes, Songs, Masonic dates, Installations, etc. By D. SICKELS; 32 mo. Tuck. Price. $1.50. Cloth, $1.

GENERAL AHIMAN REZON AND FREEMASON'S GUIDE.

BY DANIEL SICKELS, 33°

The most perfect Masonic Monitor published in the United States. Embellished with nearly 300 Engravings, and Portrait of the Author, Containing Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow-Craft, and Master Mason, with Explanatory Notes and Lectures; with the Ceremonies of Consecration and Dedication of New Lodges, Installation of Officers, Laying Foundation Stones, Dedication of Masonic Halls, Burial Services, Masonic Calendar, Ritual for a Lodge of Sorrow, Masonic Trials, etc.

Bound in fine cloth extra, large 12mo..... $2 00

DUNCAN'S MASONIC RITUAL AND MONITOR,

PROFUSELY Illustrated with Explanitory Engravings, and containing the entire Ritual and work of the Order for the Seven Degrees, including the Royal Arch. Scores of Masons have privately admitted that this is a Standard Text-Book in the Lodge, and is strictly correct; but publicly it is not acknowledged as authority, though almost every officer of the Lodge makes use of it. Price in cloth. $2.50.

MACKEY'S MANUAL OF THE LODGE.

Or Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, with Ceremonies Relating to Installations, Dedications, Consecrations, Laying of Corner stones, etc. Price, $2.

Allyn's Ritual of Masonry,

ILLUSTRATED by a large number of Engravings, and containing a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, Orange and Odd-fellows' Societies. Price, $5.00.

MACKEY'S LEXICON OF FREEMASONRY,

CONTAINING a Definition of Terms, Notices of its History, Traditions, and Antiquities, and an Account of all the Rites and Mysteries of the Ancient World. 12 mo.; 526 pages; $3.

MACKEY'S TEXT-BOOK

Of Masonic Jurisprudence,

ILLUSTRATING the Laws of Freemasonry, both written and unwritten. This is the Great Law Book of Freemasonry—570 pages. Price, $2.50.

MACKEY'S MASONIC RITUALIST;

Or Monitorial Instruction Book,

BY ALBERT G. MACKEY.

PAST General High Priest of the General Grand Chapter of the United States, Knight of the Eagle and Pelican, Prince of Mercy, etc. Price, Cloth, $1.25; Tuck, $1.75.

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry.

A PRACTICAL Guide to the Ceremonies in the Degrees conferred in Masonic Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated edition. In cloth, $1.25: paper, 75 Cts.

Although this Monitor is extensively used in the Lodge, especially in Conferring the higher degrees, it is publicly called an "exposition," and not allowed as authority.

MOORE'S MASONIC TRESTLE BOARD.

THIS work was originally prepared by order of the National Masonic Convention held at Baltimore, Md., in 1843. It is known among Masons everywhere as the "BLUE BOOK," and has long been considered a standard work. Price, $1.75.

TRUE MASONIC CHART; OR, HIEROGLYPHIC MONITOR.

BY JEREMY L. CROSS, Grand Lecturer.

With a Memoir and Portrait of the Author, Containing all the Emblems explained in the Degrees of entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason. Designed and arranged agreeably to the Lectures.

12mo. Cloth..... $1 50

Descriptive Catalogue of Publications of Ezra A. Cook & Co.

13 Wabash Ave. Chicago

BOOKS.

☞ Books at Doz. or Retail Prices sent post-paid. Not less than one-half doz. sent at dozen rates. By the 100 (25 Copies at 100 rate,) Expressage or Postage extra.

☞ Books sent by Mail are not at our risk.

Books at retail or by the dozen, ordered by Express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK; party ordering to pay Express Charges.

FREEMASONRY EXPOSED,
by CAP'T. WILLIAM MORGAN.

THE GENUINE OLD MORGAN BOOK:—republished with engravings showing the Lodge Room, Dress of candidates, Signs, Due Guards, Grips, Etc.

This revelation is so accurate that Freemasons murdered the author for writing it. Thousands have testified to the correctness of the revelation and this book therefore sells very rapidly.

Price 25 cents.

Per Doz. Post Paid..... $2.00
Per hundred by express, (express charges extra.).....$10.00

ODD FELLOWSHIP ILLUSTRATED.

A complete exposition of the Lodge Encampment and Rebecca (Ladies') Degree. The Signs, Grips, &c., shown by engravings.

Single copy, post paid,..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per Hundred, Express charges extra,..... 10 00

EXPOSITION OF THE GRANGE.

EDITED BY REV. A. W. GEESLIN.

Illustrated with Engravings showing Lodge Room, Signs, Signals, etc.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 10 00

Judge Whitney's Defense Before the Grand Lodge of Ill.

Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the Lodge when S. L. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the Lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 20
Per Doz. " " 1 50
Per 100, Express charges extra..... 8 00

History of The Abduction and Murder Cap't. Wm. Morgan,

As prepared by Seven Committees of Citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan.

This book contains indisputable, legal evidence that Freemasons, abducted and Murdered Wm. Morgan, for no other offence than the revelation of Masonry. It contains the sworn testimony of over twenty persons, including Morgan's wife, and no candid person after reading this book, can doubt that many of the most respectable FREEMASONS, in the Empire State, with others were concerned in this crime.

Single Copy, post Paid,..... 25 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $2,00.
Per 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 10.00.

Valance's Confession of The Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan.

This confession of Henry L. Valance, one of the three Freemasons who drowned Morgan in the Niagara River, was taken from the lips of the dying man by Dr. John C. Emery, of Racine County, Wisconsin in 1848; The confession bears clear evidence of truthfulness.

Single copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $1.50.
Per 100 Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

The Mystic Tie or Freemasonry a League with the Devil.

This is an account of the Church Trial of Peter Cook, and wife of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a Reverend Freemason; and their very able defence presented by Mrs. Lucia C. Cook, in which she clearly shows that Freemasonry, is antagonistic to the Christian Religion. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents
Per dozen, post paid. $1 50
Per hundred Express charges Extra, ... 9 00

NARRATIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

Showing the Conflict of Secret Societies with the Constitution and Laws of the Union and of the States, by FRANCIS SEMPLE.

The fact that Secret Societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of Law is here clearly proved.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20
Per doz. " " $1.75
Per 100 Express charges Extra..... 9.00

THE BROKEN SEAL.

OR PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF Wm. MORGAN,

By SAMUEL D. GREENE,

Price in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.
In Paper Covers per Doz. Post paid.....$4 50
" per hundred by express (ex. charges extra $25.00

Capt. Wm. Morgan was Mr. Greene's neighbor in Batavia, N. Y., and a member of the same lodge with him at the time of the great excitement in 1826. The titles to these chapters are sufficiently exciting to give the book a large sale:—"The Storm Gathering;" "Abduction of Morgan;" "Attempted Abduction of Miller and his Rescue;" "What became of Morgan;" "What Morgan Actually Revealed;" "Confession of the Murderer;" "Allegations against Freemasonry, etc."

THE ANTI-MASON'S SCRAP BOOK,
CONSISTING OF 21 CYNOSURE TRACTS.

In this book are the views of more than a Score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of Secret Societies.

The dangerous tendency and positive evil of organized Secrecy is here shown by the most varied and powerful arguments and illustrations that have ever been given to the public.

Lecturers and others who wish to find the best arguments against the Lodge, should send for this book.

Those who wish to circulate Antimasonic Tracts ought to have the book to select from.

Single Copy, post paid,.....20 cents.
Per Doz. " $1.75
Per 100, Express charges Extra,.....$10.00

Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion.

A clear cutting argument against the Lodge, from a Christian Stand point.

Single Copy post paid.....$ 05
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 3 00

PHELPS' SECRET SOCIETIES Ancient and Modern.

A NEW BOOK OF GREAT INTEREST.

This work is particularly commended to the attention of Officers of The Army and Navy, The Bench and The Clergy.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

"THE ANTIQUITY OF SECRET SOCIETIES, THE LIFE OF JULIAN, THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES, THE ORIGIN OF MASONRY, WAS WASHINGTON A MASON? FILMORE'S AND WEBSTER'S DEFERENCE TO MASONRY, A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRESS OF MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES, THE TAMMANY RING, MASONIC BENEVOLENCE, THE USES OF MASONRY, AN ILLUSTRATION, THE CONCLUSION."

Single Copy, Post Paid..... 50
Per Doz " " $4 75
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$25 00

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' LETTERS to Col. Wm. Stone, Edward Livingstone,

and others, on the nature of

Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties.

Price, post paid..... $ 50
Per Doz., " 4 50
Per 100, Express Charges extra..... 25 00

COLLEGE SECRET SOCIETIES.

Their Customs, Character and the Efforts for their Suppression.

BY H. L. KELLOGG.

Containing the opinion of many prominent College Presidents, and others, and a FULL ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER OF MORTIMER LEGGETT

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 35
Per Doz " " 2 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 15 00

MINUTES OF THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION,

Containing addresses by Rev. B. T. Roberts, Chas. D. Greene, Esq., Prof. C. A. Blanchard, Rev. D. P. Rathbun, Rev. D. S. Caldwell, Mrs. M. E. Gage, Elder J. R. Baird and others. Unpublished Reminiscences of the Morgan Times, by Elder David Bernard; Recollections of the Morgan Trials, as related by Victory Birdseye, Esq., and presented by his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Miller; Secretary's report; roll of delegates; songs of Mr. G. A. Clark; paper by Enoch Honeywell; Constitution N. C. A.; reports of committees, and a report of the political meeting.

Single Copy, post paid, ... 25
Per doz. " " $2.00
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 10.00

Proceedings of the Pittsburgh Convention,

Containing Official Reports; Addresses by Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. Rev. S. T. Roberts, Rev. G. T. R. Melser, Prof. J. R. W. Sloane, D. D., Pres't. J. Blanchard, Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D., Rev. Woodruff Post, Rev. Henry Cogswell, Prof. C. A. Blanchard, and Rev W. E. Coquilette, also Report of the POLITICAL MASS CONVENTION, with Platform and Candidates for the Presidential Campaign of 1876.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25 cts.
Per doz " $2 00
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 10 00

SERMON ON MASONRY,
BY REV. W. P. M'NARY,

Pastor United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Ind.

This is a very clear, thorough, candid and remarkably concise Scriptural argument on the character of Freemasonry.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 5
Per Doz,..... 50
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$3 00

THIRTEEN REASONS

Why a Christian Should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong.

The author states his reasons clearly and carefully, and any one of the thirteen reasons, if properly considered, will keep a Christian out of the Lodge.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 5
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100, Express charges extra,..... $3.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. JAMES WILLIAMS.

Presiding Elder of Dakota District North-western Iowa Conference, M. E. Church, A SECEDING MASTER MASON.

Published at the special request of the Nine Clergymen of different denominations and others.

Single Copy, post paid..... 10
Per doz. " " 75
Per 100, Express Charges Extra.....$4.00

MASONRY A WORK OF DARKNESS

ADVERSE TO CHRISTIANITY, and Inimical to a Republican Government.

BY REV. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG, [Presbyterian.]

A Seceding Mason of 21 Degrees.

This is a very telling work and no honest man that reads it will think of joining the lodge. Single Copy, post paid,.....20cts.
Per doz. post paid,..... $1.50.
" 100, Express Charges Extra..... 8.00.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy.

Address of Prest. J. BLANCHARD, before the Pittsburgh Convention.

This is a most convincing argument against the lodge.

Single Copy, Post Paid... .....$ 05
Per Doz " " 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON SECRETISM
BY REV. R. THEO. CROSS.

This is a very clear array of the objections to Masonry that are apparent to all.

By Rev. R. T. Cross, Pastor Congregational Church, Hamilton, N.Y.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

Its relation to civil Government and the Christian Religion.

By Prest. J. BLANCHARD, at the Monmouth Convention.

The Unchristian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is here proved from the highest masonic authorities.

Single Copy, Post Paid,.....$ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP
AND OTHER SECRET SOCIETIES

BY REV. J. SARVER, Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church, Leechburg, Pa.

This is a very clear argument against Secretism of all forms and the duty to disfellowship, Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications.

Single Copy, Post Paid.....$ 10
Per Dozen " 75
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 4 00

Sermon on Secret Societies,
BY REV. DANIEL DOW, Woodstock, Conn.

The special object of this sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the Character of Secret Societies, no matter what object they profess to have.

Single Copy, post paid.....$ 05
Per Dozen, " " 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 3 00

President H. H. GEORGE, On Secret Societies.

A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian Churches, to disfellowship Secret Societies.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 10 cts.
Per doz, " ..... 75 "
Per 100, Express charges Extra, ... $4.00.

History of the National Christian Association.

Its origin, objects, what it has done and aim to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought; The Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association, Conditions of the Carpenter Donation with engraving of building to be donated by Mr. Carpenter; tablet, showing the number of pastors and communicants in churches that exclude members of Secret societies; tabular view of local, county, State and National Conventions, and list of organizations Auxiliary to the National Christian Association. Brief opinions of eminent men on secret societies, and testimonies of religious bodies against them. This book will be found invaluable by all who wish to know the character of this reform and how they may do the most to further its objects. It should be in the hands of every Anti-mason.

Price, post paid, 25 cents each; per doz., $1.50. 25 copies or more by express at 8 cents each.

NEW BOOKS

HAND-BOOK OF FREEMASONRY.

BY EDMOND RONAYNE, late Past Master of Keystone Lodge, No. 639, Chicago. A full illustrated Exposition of the Three Degrees of "Ancient Craft Masonry:" Entered Apprentice. Fellow Craft and Master Mason, embracing the "Standard Work" of the Order.

Single Copy, $0 50. Per dozen, $4 00. Per 100 $25 00.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WITH SIGNS OF RECOGNITION, PASS WORDS, GRIPS, Etc., and the RITUAL of the MACHINISTS AND BLACKSMITHS' UNION. (The two bound together.)

Single Copy, $0 25. Per dozen, $2 00. Per 100 $10 00.

Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees of Freemasonry

Nothing can more clearly show the abominations of this system of iniquity than its horrible Oaths and Penalties.

Single Copy, $0 15. Per dozen, $1 00. Per 100 $6 00.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret Societies.

A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons the Christian Church.

Single Copy $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100, $4 50.

Secrecy v. s. The Family, State and Church.

BY REV. M. S. DRURY. The antagonism of Organized Secrecy with the welfare of the Family, State and Church is clearly shown.

Single Copy, $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100 $4 00.

ANTIMASONIC TRACTS

NOW HAVE 25 ENGLISH TRACTS, 6 MAN, AND ONE SWEDISH

hese tracts are sold at the rate of $1.00 per 1000 pages.

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together, and is just the hing to select tracts from. Price 20 cents. See advertisement

For information about Free Tracts see advertisement headed Free Tracts."

Address EZRA A. COOK & Co.,
18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TRACT NO. 1:

HISTORY OF MASONRY.

BY PRESIDENT J. BLANCHARD, OF WHEATON COLLEGE.

This is now published in three tracts of four pages each. Price of each, 50 cents per 100; $4 per 1000.

TRACT No. 1, PART FIRST—Shows the origin of Speculative Freemasonry, and is entiled "HISTORY OF MASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART SECOND—Is entitled "DESPOTIC CHARACTER OF FREEMASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART THIRD—Is entitled "FREEMASONRY A CHRIST-EXCLUDING RELIGION."

TRACT NO. 2:

MASONIC MURDER,

By REV. J. R. BAIRD, of Pleasantville, Pa., a seceding Mason who has taken 17 degrees. A 2-page tract at 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 3:

SECRETS OF MASONRY,

BY ELI TAPLEY.

This is a 4-page Illustrated Tract, showing the signs, grips and pass-words, of the first three degrees. 50 cents per 100, or $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 4:

GRAND! GREAT GRAND!!

BY PHILO CARPENTER.

This is a 2-page tract, calling the attention of the public to the despotic and ridiculous titles of Freemasonry. Price 25 cents per 100; $2 00 per 1,000.

TRACT. NO. 5:

Extracts From Masonic Oaths and Penalties, as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.

This tract is a reprint of a tract published in 1834, and is a very weighty document. A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 6:

Hon. John Quincy Adams' Letter.

Giving His and His Father's Opinion of Freemasonry (1831.);

AND

Hon. James Madison's Letter,

Giving His Opinion of Freemasonry (1832).

Both of these letters, in one 4-page tract, at 50 cents per 100: $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 7:

SATAN'S CABLE-TOW.

A 4-page tract. This is a careful analysis of the character of Masonic oaths, and shows them to be most blasphemous and unchristian; and the Masonic Cable Tow is clearly shown to be the Cable Tow by which Satan is leading thousands to eternal death. 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 8:

Is a 2-page double tract, "ILLUSTRATED." The first page represents a Mason proclaiming the wonderful wisdom and benevolence of the order, with an article below, entitled "Freemasonry is only 152 Years Old," and gives the time and place of its birth.

The second side is entitled, "Murder and Treason not Excepted," and shows that the Masonic order is treasonable in its constitution, and is both anti-Republican and anti-Christian Price 25 cents per 100; $2 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 9, ILLUSTRATED:

FREEMASONRY IN THE CHURCH.

Copy of a petition for the higher degrees of Freemasonry, in which Blasphemous and Despotic Titles are enumerated and prayed for. The Copy was printed for the use of "Occidental Sovereign Consistory S. P. R. S.," 32d degree—a Chicago Lodge—and was ordered by a deacon of a Christian Church who is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ill

TRACT NO. 10:

CHARACTER AND SYMBOLS OF FREEMASONRY.

A 2-page tract, (ILLUSTRATED) by its "Grand Secretaries, Grand Lecturers, Perfect Prince Freemasons, Grand Inspector, Inquisitor Commanders, Grand High Priests," etc. The wonderful symbolical meaning of "the Cable Tow," "the Square and Compass," "the Lamb Skin, or white Apron," and "the Common Gavel," are given in the exact words of the highest Masonic authority. 25 cents per 100 or $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 11:

Address of Niagara County Association, New York.

TO THE PUBLIC,

Concerning the Morgan Murder, and the character of Freemasonry shown by this and other Masonic murders. 50 cents

TRACT NO. 12:

JUDGE WHITNEY AND MASONRY.

This tract contains a condensed account of Judge Whitney's Defense before the Grand Lodge of Illinois, on charge of unmasonic conduct in bringing Samuel L. Keith the murderer of Ellen Slade, and a member of his Lodge, to justice, with Judge Whitney's subsequent renunciation of Masonry,

An 8-page tract, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 13:

DR. NATHANIEL COLVER ON MASONRY,

and

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D.,

Chancellor of the University of New York, on SECRET SOCIETIES

A double 4-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 14:

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

ITS RELATION TO CIVIL GOVERNMENT AND THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION.

Opening address before the Monmouth Convention, by PRES. BLANCHARD of WHEATON COLLEGE. This is a 16-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 15:

MASONIC OATHS NULL AND VOID.

A clear and concinsive argument proving the invalidity of any oath or obligation to do evil. By REV. P. A. HART, Secretary National Christian Association. Published by special order of the Association. 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 16:

HON. SETH M. GATES ON FREEMASONRY.

PROOF THAT THE INSTITUTION THAT MURDERED MORGAN IS UNCHANGED IN CHARACTER

This is a letter to the Monmouth Convention by Hon. Seth M Gates who was Deputy Sheriff of Genesee County, and also Secretary of the Leroy Lodge at the time of Morgan's Abduction. A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 17:

Origin, Obligations and Expenses of The Grange.

WITH A CONSTITUTION OF A FARMERS' CLUB.

This little tract ought to be put into the hands of every Farmer in the United States. Four-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 18:

HON. WM. H. SEWARD ON SECRET SOCIETIES

Extract from a Speech on Know-nothingism in the U. S. Senate in 1855. The testimony of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, MILLARD FILLMORE CHIEF JUSTIC MARSHALL and others is added.

A 4-page tract, 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 19.

BRICKS FOR MASONS TO LAY.

WASHINGTON, MADISON, MARSHALL, RUSH, HANCOCK, ADAMS AND WEBSTER, give brief clear testimony against the Lodge A 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT

OBJECTIONS TO MASONRY,

By A SECEDING MASON, of Cornton, Vermont.

This tract contains many strong arguments against the Lodge drawn from personal experience, observation and study of its character A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 21:

MASONIC CHASTITY

BY EMMA A. WALLACE,

The author, by wonderfully clear illustration and argument, shows the terribly corrupt nature of Freemasonry. No true woman who reads this will ever speak with approbation of this institution A 4-page tract 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000

TRACT No. 22.

LINUS CHITTENDEN ON FREEMASONRY.

The Author a Seceding Master Mason states his objection to the Lodge, drawn both from experience and observation, in a clear concise and forcible style.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 23

MASONIC OATHS AND PENALTIES.

ADDRESS OF REV. A. M. MILLIGAN AT THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION

This is the clearest and most conclusive argument to show the wickedness of masonic oaths and the duty to disregard and repent of them that we have ever seen.

A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 24.

SHOULD FREEMASONS BE ADMITTED TO CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP?

The principles and teachings of Freemasonry taken from the highest masonic authorities are compared with those of the Bible, several Masonic Oaths are given in whole or in part with the comments of Rev's. Moses Stewart, Nathaniel Colver, and Charles G. Finney, on this character. Those who love a pure Christianity should aid in the circulation of this tract. A 4 page tract, 50cts. per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 25.

The American Party.

ITS OBJECT, ORGANIZATION, PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES.

Some of the ablest men in the nation have pronounced our platform the best that has been presented to the American people for the past fifty years. Our Candidates are men of acknowledged ability and honesty, and if every voter in the United States could read this our "POLITICAL TRACT," our Candidates could undoubtedly be elected. One friend pledges a dollar for every other dollar contributed and this 8 page tract costs but $1.00 per 100, or $8.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 26.

FREEMASONRY A RELIGION.

This Tract is made up of quotations from Standard Masonic Authors and nothing could more clearly demonstrate the fact that Freemasonry claims to be a Christless and therefore Anti-christian religion.

An 8 page Tract, $1 00 per 100. $8 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 27.

Duty and Ability to Know the Character of Freemasonry.

Thousands seem to consider it a virtue to know nothing about the character of Secret Societies. This is shown to be a great error if not a crime and our duty to use the knowledge within our reach especially when of such vital importance, is clearly enforced.

A 4 Page Tract, 50 cents per 100. $4 00 per 1000.

Cynosure Tract No. 28.

FREEMASONRY REVEALED.

A LEGAL ATTESTATION BY EDMOND RONAYNE

To the correctiness of the published expositions of Freemasonry. The author very briefly states the mode of preparation and initiation in the various degrees, with the mock murder and resurrection of the candidate in the personification of Hiram Abiff in the 3d. degree and the penalties of each.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100. $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 1, IN SWEDISH,

translated by Prof. A. R. CERVIN. A 15-page tract at $3.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

ENOCH HONEYWELL'S TRACT.

TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA. Postage 5cts per 100.

TRACTS FREE.

GERMAN CYNOSUCE TRACT A

Six Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason.

By Rev. A. GROLE, Pastor, German M. E. Church, Worchester, Mass

This is our first German Tract, and it is a good one; it ought to have a large circulation. A 4 page tract, Price 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

FREE TRACTS.

A Tract Fund for the Free Distribution of Tracts

HAS BEEN SECURED AND SHOULD NEVER BE EXHAUSTED. A friend has pledged this fund a dollar for every other dollar received, so EVERY NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TRACT FUND COUNTS DOUBLE, and thus $10.00 pays for 20,000 pages of tracts.

The distribution of these tracts has already saved hundreds of young men from the lodge, but there is a great lack of funds to supply the constantly increasing demand for Free Tracts.

During the year 1876 were gratuitously sent out, mostly in very small lots. The present demand is fully 100.000 pages per month, but funds are lacking to meet it.

Many of our most earnest workers in this cause of God are poor men, who would be glad to circulate thousands of pages of Antimasonic literature if they could have them free.

SHALL WE NOT HAVE AN INEXHAUSTIBLE TRACT FUND

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together and is just the thing to select from. Price 20cents. See advertisement page 15.

Enoch Honeywell Esq., pays for an unlimited number of his tract addressed "TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA." It is an excellent tract, bearing the printed endorsement of Executive Committee of the National Christian Association. He has furnished the publishers over 150.000 pages of these tracts during the past year.

TRACTS FREE. If sent by mail, 5 cts per 100 is charged for postage,

Send Contributions and orders to

EZRA A. COOK.

Tract Committee 18 Wabash Ave. Chicago, Ill.

Publishers' Department.

A year ago Mr. Caleb Gray of Oregon, while on a visit among friends in Illinois secured a club for the Cynosure; and now we have the pleasure of acknowledging the receipt of $15, seven renewals and two new subscriptions secured by Jas. B. Miller, who will soon send the tenth name.

Our club of ten secured by James B. Miller of Smithville, Ill., should have been acknowledged last week.

We are glad to announce another club of ten received this week from John Leeper, Sene caville, Guernsey county, O. He writes: "I have finally raised ten subscribers for your excellent paper by toil and perseverance. This is the way it has to be done. It is for want of this effort that your list is not larger. * * I will still be trying to add to your list."

Who will be the next successful, persevering toiler?

We have received the eighth name on a new club of ten from Rev. H. H. Hinman. He writes: "I am doing what I can for the Cynosure." If all friends of this reform will help the paper so that each of them can truthfully say with him, "I am doing what I can for the Cynosure," the fall and winter will bring in a large harvest of renewals and new subscriptions. From Canada and Maine to Texas and through to California tokens of interest in this reform are received each week. The country is better prepared to appreciate the Cynosure than ever before.

Rev. D. P. Rathbun sends three new subscriptions and one renewal.

C. N. White, Enfield, White county, Ill., is trying to secure a club.

A. J. Laird, Wayne, Henry county, Iowa, writes: "I hope to be able to enlarge our club next year."

Theron Palmeter, Clear Lake, Iowa, writes: "Business is reviving and I hope to secure a few subscribers for the Cynosure soon."

John McLane, Keokuk, Iowa, writes: "I will do the best I can to get some subscribers in the future."

Our busy, delightful summer with its bountiful harvests is over and with joy we have entered upon the duties of another autumn.

We ascertained last week that during the last four months which are proverbially the hardest of the year on newspapers, the actual loss on the subscription list was only 257 for the whole time. So small a loss as this together with the fact that each of the first two weeks in September has brought in a club of ten must encourage all workers to renewed dilligence in extending the circulation of the paper. When we enter upon the winter months the list will be again reported. Let us all try to make the report a good one.

Two hundred and seventeen subscriptions expire in September. Is yours one of them? If so, please renew promptly.

Books and Tracts sent Week ending Sept. 8, 1877.

By Express.

L. Harkhurst.

By Mail.

G D Willett, G. Cary, R N Peck, F S Pierce, Rev A G Martyn, J Shambaugh, L J Stewart, J McKnight, W Ziegler, J Briggs, G H Flenard, W D Snyder, Rev P B Parry, G W Ellis, W J Shuey, P C Mitchell, C F Dame, J H P Partenfelder, G Locke. A Stauffer, Mrs. A Hull, C F Fleischer, E H Brumbaugh, G W Fowler, Rev J Fankenfelder, H Wittler, S L Hazen, Rev J Schulze, F Miller, J Leeper.

Exposition Tract Fund.

The National Christian Association have a large and prominent stand at the Chicago Exposition building at the north end of the gallery, where many thousands of tracts can be distributed to the throng of visitors there, many of whom will learn for the first time of this great reform. Let every friend who visits the Exposition be sure to call at the stand of the N. C. A. A sign six feet wide and twenty feet long makes the stand easy to find. Ezra A. Cook & Co. furnish the tracts at half price so one hundred dollars will pay for two hundred thousand pages of tracts. It is thought that fully that number of pages will be needed to supply the demand. They will be given out carefully. All contributions will be acknowledged in the Cynosure weekly. Send all contributions to this fund to

Ezra A. Cook & Co.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10, 1877.

GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	1 13	1 14
" No. 3	1 09	1 10
" Rejected		93
" Minnesota	1 16	1 17
" Winter		1 23
orn—No. 2	45	45⅛
Rejected		44
Oats—No. 2	23¾	25¼
Rejected	20½	21
Rye—No. 2		55
Bran per ton		9 00
Flour—Winter	5 50	7 25
Spring	2 75	6 25
Hay—Timothy	8 00	9 00
Prairie	5 00	8 00
Mess Beef	10 00	11 00
Tallow		7½
Lard per cwt		8 75
Mess pork, per brl	12 25	12 62½
Butter medium to best	18	27
Cheese		11
Beans	1 75	2 25
Apples per brl	1 25	1 00
Poultry—Chickens per doz	1 50	3 50
Turkeys per lb		09
Eggs	14	15
Seeds—Timothy	1 00	1 31½
Clover	6 25	6 40
Flax	1 27	1 30
Potatoes new per bu	35	40
Broomcorn	3	7½
Hides green to dry flint	8½	15
Lumber—Clear	28 00	34 00
Common	9 50	11 00
Shingles		3 50
WOOL—Washed	32	40
Unwashed	28	29
LIVE STOCK Cattle Choice	5 30	5 75
Good	4 80	5 20
Medium	4 40	4 75
Common	2 50	3 75
Hogs	4 70	5 45
Sheep	3 00	4 50

New York Market.

Flour	$3 50	10 00
Wheat—Spring	1 35	1 38
Winter	1 42½	1 58
Corn	58	62
Oats	33	44
Rye		69½
Lard		9½
Mess pork		13 15
Butter	10	21
Cheese	5	11½
Eggs	16	18
Wool	10	57

$2500 A YEAR. Agents wanted. Business legitimate. Particulars free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

Every Freemason a Blasphemer.

As proved by the Highest Masonic Authority.

By J. H. H. Woodward.

By quotations from a score of masonic works of unquestioned authority, the fact of the blasphemous ceremonies and teachings of Freemasonry are so clearly demonstrated as to make it evident that every initiate is of necessity a blasphemer.

10 cents each. 75 cents per Doz, by mail; By Express, per 100 $5 00.

MASON & HAMLIN, Cabinet Organs!

The only Organ declared to be of First Rank by the Judges at Philadelphia.

Gold Medals and Diplomas of Honor awarded them at all the great World Expositions.

Being the only American Organs which have ever obtained any award in Competition with the best European makers.

These celebrated instruments are now offered to the public in New and Elegant Styles at the very Lowest Prices consistent with Best Material and Workmanship. They may be purchased on

Easy Monthly or Quarterly Installments

or Rented until Rent pays for them.

Every organ warranted to give satisfaction. Illustrated catalogue free.

Mason & Hamlin Organ Company

Boston, 154 Tremont Street,

New York, 25 Union Square,

Chicago, 250 & 252 Wabash Ave.

Agents Wanted!

TO SELL THE PUBLICATIONS OF

EZRA A. COOK & CO.

Liberal Terms Offered.

Capable persons who are in need of pecuniary aid may clear

Handsome Profits,

While at the same time aiding the cause of Reform. Apply to EZRA A. COOK & CO., No. 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1	square,	1 insertion,		$3.00
1	square	(1 inch deep) one month		7.00
1	"	" 2	"	10.00
1	"	" 3	"	15.00
1	"	" 6	"	25.00
1	"	" 12	"	40.00

Discount for Space.

On 2 squares 5 per cent. On 3 squares 10 per cent
On 4 " 15 " " On 5 " 20 "
On ¼ col. 25 per cent On one col. 30 per cent.

Discontinuances.

Unless we receive orders to stop the paper sooner, we continue the Cynosure a full month after the time expires. Those wishing their paper discontinued are requested to notify us AT THE TIME THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS EXPIRE.

ADDRESS all letters with subscriptions or orders for books, tracts, and donations to the tract fund, to Ezra A. Cook & Co., No. 13 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

SOMETHING NEW.

A CHART OF MASONRY

Showing the degrees from the first to the thirty-third, entitled

Degrees of Ancient Accepted Scottish Freemasonry,

According to a Manual by Wm. M. Cunningham 33d Degree.

Designed by Rev. P. Stoddard, to explain Freemasonry, as shown by Morgan's Exposition and Richardson's Monitor.

A Neat Lithograph 22x28 Inches.

Single copies finely colored, post paid	$ 75
Per dozen " " " "	5 00
Per 100 " " " " Express charges extra	35 00
Single copy, colored, varnished and mounted postpaid	1 00
Per dozen colored, varnished and mounted, post paid	7 50
Per 100, colored, varnished and mounted, express charges extra	50 00

25 COPIES OR MORE SENT AT THE 100 RATES.

Renewals.

The date at which subscriptions expire, is with each subscriber's name on the address label.

Please send renewals before this date occurs. Notice if the date is changed to correspond soon; if not, or if the paper fails to come, write without delay.

NEW CLUB RATES

FOR

Either Renewals or New Subscriptions.

Papers addressed to one or different Post Offices as desired.

CLUB RATES INCLUDING POSTAGE.

2 to 4 Subscribers, at $2.00 a year.
5 to 9 " at 1.75 "
10 or more " at 1.50 "

Names for a Club may be sent at different times; THE MONEY FOR THE CLUB TO BE SENT WITH THE FIRST LOT OF NAMES; but other Subscriptions may be added at same rates after Club is full.

The effect of Club Rates is to give the Commission to those who compose the Club and no commission can be allowed on these rates.

$1200 SALARY. Permanent salesmen wanted to sell Staple Goods to dealers. No peddling. Expenses paid. Address S. A. GRANT & CO., 2, 4, 6 & 8 Home St., Cincinnati, O.

CALIFORNIA

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the WEST and NORTH-WEST, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between CHICAGO and all points in ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, NORTHERN MICHIGAN, MINNESOTA, IOWA, NEBRASKA, CALIFORNIA, and the WESTERN TERRITORIES. Its

Omaha and California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in NORTHERN ILLINOIS, IOWA, DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, COLORADO, UTAH, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, CHINA, JAPAN, AND AUSTRALIA. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for NORTHERN WISCONSIN and MINNESOTA, and for MADISON, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, DULUTH, and all points in the Great Northwest. Its

Winona and St. Paul Line.

Is the only route for WINONA, ROCHESTER, OWATONNA, MANKATO, ST. PETER, NEW ULM, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for JANESVILLE, WATERTOWN, FOND DU LAC, OSHKOSH, APPLETON, GREEN BAY, ESCANABA, NEGAUNEE, MARQUETTE, HOUGHTON, HANCOCK, and the LAKE SUPERIOR COUNTRY. Its

Freeport and Dubuque Line

Is the only route for ELGIN, ROCKFORD, FREEPORT, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago and Milwaukee Line

Is the old Lake Shore Route, and is the only one passing through EVANSTON, LAKE FOREST, HIGHLAND PARK, WAUKEGAN, RACINE, KENOSHA to MILWAUKEE.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

are run on all through trains of this road.

This is the ONLY LINE running these cars between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our Sleepers connect with the Overland Sleepers on the Union Pacific Railroad for all points West of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago and North-Western Railway LEAVE CHICAGO as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, Two Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four Through Trains daily. Pullman Cars on night trains, Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta, La Crosse and Winona and points in Minnesota. One Through Train daily, with Pullman Sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains.

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, Two Trains daily. Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, Four Trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points you can have from two to ten trains daily

New York Office, No 415 Broadway; Boston Office, No. 5 State Street; Omaha Office, 245 Farnham Street San Francisco Office, 121 Montgomery Street; Chicago Ticket Offices: 62 Clark Street, under Sherman House; Kinzie Street Depot, corner W. Kinzie; Wells Street Depot, corner Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agents, apply to

W. H. STENNETT, MARVIN HUGHITT,
Gen. Pass. Ag't, Chicago. Gen Man'g. Chicago.

[Eastern.)

$3 GOLD PLATED WATCHES. Cheapest in the known world. Sample Watch Free to Agents. Address, A. COULTER & Co., Chicago.

Excelsior Marriage Certificate.

It is decidedly the most BEAUTIFUL, TASTEFUL and SENSIBLE thing of the kind I have ever seen."—Rev. F. G. Hibbard, D. D.

"The most SCRIPTURAL, BEAUTIFUL and APPROPRIATE Marriage Certificate I have ever seen."—Late Rev. H. Mattison, D. D.

"SOMETHING NEW AND BEAUTIFUL, which we pronounce the handsomest thing of the kind we ever laid eyes on."—Meth. Home Journal, Phila. Contains two Ornamental Ovals, for Photographs

A BEAUTIFUL LITHOGRAPH 14 1-4 by 18 1-4 inches. 25 cts each, $2.25 per doz- $15 per 100.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., CHICAGO.

How to Send Money.

Post office orders, checks or drafts on Chicago or towns east of Chicago, and currency by express may be sent at our risk. If it is not possible to send by either of the four ways named, money in a registered letter may be sent at our risk, but it is not as safe.

TERMS FOR THE CYNOSURE.

$2.00 per annum, in advance.
20c " " " for postage.

All who canvass for the CYNOSURE are allowed a cash commission of twenty per cent. or twenty-five per cent in books at retail prices, one-half this percentage on renewals; and any one sending $100. for the CYNOSURE during three months, will be entitled to an extra five per cent.

All responsible persons who desire to promote this reform are authorized to act as agents.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

"In Secret Have I Said Nothing."—Jesus Christ.

EZRA A. COOK & CO., PUBLISHERS, NO. 18 WABASH AVENUE. CHICAGO, THURSDAY, SEPT. 20, 1877. VOL. IX., No. 51.—WHOLE NO. 391. WEEKLY (post paid) $2.20 A YEAR.

Contents.

	Page
TOPICS OF THE TIMES	1
EDITORIALS:
A New Christian Tabernacle	8
Wheaton College	8
The American Party	8
Congregationalism	8
The United Brethren; Is it an Apology?	8
CONTRIBUTED AND SELECTED:
Our Foreign Letter	2
The Hard Times—The Remedy	2
The Old Union Club Organization	3
REFORM NEWS:
Marshall County, Iowa, Ablaze; Marshalltown Masonic Mob; Iowa State Political Convention	4, 5
CORRESPONDENCE:
The Lutheran General Council Making History; Our Mail	6, 7
N. C. A. Eyes and Ears at the Exposition	9
Obituary—Abram Stratton	13
Knights of Pythias Ritual	12
Home Circle	10
Children's Corner	11
Home and Farm	7
Sabbath School	11
Religious Intelligence	13
News of the Week	12
Publishers' Department	16

Notices.

THE TENTH NAT'L CONVENTION.

of the National Christian Association will be held in Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 23rd to 25th next, beginning on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 23rd with a preliminary meeting for social converse and prayer in the afternoon of the same day. Let every friend of the reform do what he may be able for the success of this meeting: by arranging his affairs so as to be present; or, assisting to send a delegate; by having the editor of his local paper print the notice of the meeting; by suggesting some topic for practical discussion to the programme committee; but, above all, by prayer to God for his blessing upon the meeting. Let every local or auxiliary association arrange to be represented.

KANSAS STATE ASSOCIATION.

The Kansas State Association opposed to secret orders, will hold its next annual Convention in Topeka, commencing on Monday, Sept. 24th, at 7 P. M., and will continue its sessions about two days. Able speakers will be in attendance, and will deliver public addresses on Monday and Tuesday evenings. The friends of anti-secrecy throughout the State, are urged to hold public meetings in their respective localities, have delegates appointed to said Convention, and secure as large an attendance as possible.

J. DODDS, Sec'y.

INDIANA STATE CONVENTION.

The fifth annual State convention of Indiana, opposed to secret societies, will meet at Plainfield, Hendricks county, October 17, 1877, commencing on the evening of the 17th at 7 o'clock and closing on the evening of the 19th. Edmond Ronayne and other prominent speakers are expected. It is confidently expected that all the county associations of the State will be fully represented, and all lovers of the cause of Christ will make the necessary sacrifice to meet with us. Come in the name and in the strength of the Lord Jesus. By order of the Ex. Committee.

PETER RICH, Chairman

THE ILLINOIS STATE ASSOCIATION,

Will hold its annual Convention at Streator, LaSalle county, beginning December 4th Just after Thanksgiving the friends will be ready to begin the winter campaign. The churches will soon then open their protracted meetings. Let us hold such a meeting as will assure every Christian pastor that this reform can be taken up in the midst of his revival work with a blessing on himself and his church. Let all prepare for this meeting.

THE WISCONSIN STATE CONVENTION.

On account of the difficulty of holding this meeting at Baraboo at the time fixed it has been indefinitely postponed by order of the President.

CENTRAL KANSAS ANTI-SECRECY ASSOCIATION

Will hold its next regular meeting at Sterling, Rice county, on the Atchison and Santa Fe railroad on September 28th and 29th beginning at 2 o'clock P. M. on the first day.

G. W. KELLER, Pres.
WM. L HINSHAW, Sec'y.

Past Master Ronayne will be at Waverly, Iowa, from Monday to Wednesday, 17th, 18th and 19th inst., after which he expects to visit Birmingham, Van Buren county, Iowa, and work the degrees there on the 24th and succeeding days. On the 1st, 2nd and 3rd of October, Monday to Wednesday, he visits Marengo, where great preparations are under way and there will be doubtless a gathering worth going far to see. On the succeeding days of the same week he goes to Viola, Mercer county, Ill., and will work the degrees there for the first time in that locality.

A MASS CONVENTION will be held at Galion, O., October 3d and 4th to form an auxiliary association. Drs. Wishart, French and George and Rev. J. P. Stoddard are expected.

Also a similar meeting will be held at Morton's Corners, Morrow county, O., Oct. 5th.

Topics of the Time.

From the Sabbath on earth to an eternal rest in heaven—thus passed away Levi Coffin, the friend of the slave, on last Lord's Day. Of that underground railroad, among whose officers and conductors were Seth M. Gates, Owen and Elijah Lovejoy, George Thompson, Parson Cross and others, he was by common consent known as the President. Three thousand three hundred fugitive slaves were aided by him on their way to freedom, housed, fed, clothed and passed on safely to the next station. During the war his great-hearted generosity still followed the black man and thousands obtained relief through his efforts. In 1864 he visited Europe in behalf of his freedmen clients and aroused a large sympathy for them which came across the water in liberal donations for their education. With them and in heaven his memory will be blessed as one who loved and labored for those whom Christ has called "the least of these my brethren."

In the midst of election struggles France has given a useful example to all Republics, all nations of earth. She has proscribed Freemasonry. No doubt this is another link binding MacMahon to Rome and he is only obedient to the Pope in proclaiming the ban, as the Pope is to that other secret order—Jesuitism. No doubt, too, he finds the order strengthening the Commune, and so directs a blow at a political enemy. Nevertheless, if the French President can banish the order for such reasons, from a land where it has been strong from the first, and is not hindered by the fact of its being hostile to every national principle and revered tradition, with how much more reason should America throw of this yoke of folly, impiety and despotism!

While McMahon strikes at the anti-Catholic lodge and its friend the Commune, he would please both Catholic and Freemason by a blow at the Protestants, and has therefore appointed the Sabbath, October 14th, as the day for holding the pending general election. He may hope to cut off by this means the small Protestant vote which would not be likely to favor him. The election will be one of unusual excitement, and whatever regard for the Sabbath may exist in France it will for the time be forgotten in political strife. It is a fearful spectacle thus to see a great nation given up to irreligion. The order forecasts also the management of the forthcoming international exposition now preparing for next year at Paris. It will be what such displays have ever been in profligate Paris—a scene of Sabbath desecration.

The bloody struggle in the East is furnishing the best of arguments for the suppression of national dueling, and the adoption of some plan of arbitration by which national difficulties may be peaceably settled. The horrors of war grow blacker daily. Among the latest dispatches is this sickening record: "There is a reign of terror from Adrianople to the Balkans. All the respectable male Bulgarians are hunted down by the order or connivance of the authorities. Fever has broken out in Suleiman Pasha's camp. Every house in Kazanlik is a hospital. The place reeks with a fever stench. All the country from Schipka to Yeni-Saghra can only be ridden over with camphor in one's mouth. Dead bodies are lying on the roadsides and in the fields and gardens. From four to six hundred bodies are in Yeni-Saghra, and have been there ever since the battle some weeks since."

To war in Europe and famine in Asia is added volcanic disturbances in South America. A letter from Peru tells of the eruption of Cotopaxi on the 25th of June. The craters all vomited at once streams of water upon the Callao side, which swept everything in its course. Down the rivers Saquinal, Cutchico and Aluques poured other torrents devastating the land, destroying farming lands, sweeping away mills and dwellings, herds and men. The total loss of life is placed at one thousand souls.

Stanley's contribution to the map of Africa is at last complete. After nearly a year of suspense since he was last heard from, in the fertile region of central Africa among its vast interior seas, a dispatch was published on Monday telling of his arrival on the west coast in August by the river Congo. This expedition, the honors and expenses of whose discoveries are borne by the New York Herald and the London Daily Telegraph, left the lake region on the 15th of last November and pushed westward into the heart of an unexplored country, following the course of the Lualuba river. The density of the forests formed an almost insurmountable barrier, to which was added the unceasing attacks of cannibal natives who hung about the expedition picking off its men with poisoned arrows. Stanley finally took to the river in canoes and fought his way on through forests and around cataracts until he came to a tribe that were armed with guns, with whom he could make no treaty and a desperate battle followed. Stanley's losses were very severe, only a hundred and fifteen of his party reaching the coast. The benefits of his explorations, though dearly purchased, will be sure to follow soon in the occupation of interior Africa by mission stations and trading posts.

It is said the Pope, who is improving in health, has definitely resolved to restore the Roman hierarchy in Scotland. Cardinal Manning will shortly go to Rome on a confidential mission in that connection. The land of Knox will not welcome the return of its old enemy, while a landmark of the Reformation remains.

Our Foreign Letter.

Peculiarities of European Hotels—Some for the traveler and some for his money—Schleswig-Holstein—Land of the Danes—Copenhagen.

A little dispute I have had about an item in my bill leads me to say a word about European hotels. Many things about them that seemed strange at first, by their constant occurrence have ceased to be so. I have become accustomed when in cities frequented by foreigners — especially English and Americans — to receiving bills of formidable length, in characters, owing to language and writing, unintelligible, and containing overcharges and also items not had at all. In the more out-of-the-way places the bills are shorter, moderate, and generally correct. There is no lack of servants at the hotels. The stranger from over the water is immediately pleased at the world of politeness shown him. He is welcomed warmly and too much cannot be done for him. He is a novice and is flattered, and really begins to entertain extended ideas about the brotherhood of man. His ideas of the existence of disinterested politeness however often receives a sudden shock when he discovers that all this is prompted by the desire of receiving certain petty emoluments, from the elegant and artistic head waiter, who expects for his assiduous attentions a franc or shilling, to humbler menials who are content with a few ha'pence or sous. An early experience in this line comes to mind. With some resolution and a little anxiety I asked for my bill. It was ready, having been previously ordered, and the landlady, in the absence of her husband, handed it to me, finding it convenient in doing so to touch a spring that rung a bell. The bill, not quite so low as I had expected, was, on the whole, reasonable, and I handed the money. Suddenly I became aware that waitress No. 1 was pleasantly standing near, and waitress No. 2 smiling benignantly upon me from her slightly elevated position on the stairs near by. The porter had my valise in hand and the head of the bootblack was just appearing up the lower stairway. All this was rather vexatious and embarrassing to one not happening to have an abundance of small change in his pocket. The feeing custom differs somewhat in different countries. I imagine it to be quite as bad in England as anywhere, Italy perhaps excepted, and on the whole, least obnoxious in Germany. I may be wrong, however, for a little experience with a little mingled politeness and "cheek" soon enables the unencumbered traveler to avoid more small outlays than might be expected. One gets along the nicest when he comes upon a hotel suddenly and alone, and leaves in like manner. On arriving at Munich with a small party, the utmost officiousness was exhibited. Five servants with difficulty enabled me to reach my room. One took my valise, another would have my overcoat and umbrella; the third one lead the way with a light, a fourth unlocked the door, and the fifth arranged the room and wished to know, as it was chilly, if I would have a fire. This case is illustrative, yet in my experience, as was the other, slightly exceptional. The universal use of candles for light, and the lack of soap in European hotels strike the stranger as peculiarities. No matter if he stop at a palatial hotel or an humble inn in an obscure village, his light is in all cases the same—a candle—while the prices of the article vary considerably according to the style of hotel he puts up at, from five cents to a quarter of a dollar. At Paris on being shown to my room the maid asked me if I wished soap. I informed her that I was accustomed to the article, and being rather the worse for my journey that it would be very acceptable. On settling, there appeared in the bill, soap, 15 cents. Seeing that I was somewhat verdant they kindly informed me that I had better take the soap along as I would find none in any of the continental hotels.

My course from Berlin was to the northwest through Holstein and Schleswig, two duchies lying between Hamburg and Denmark. The scenery was uninteresting, and the land boggy. Pastures were common, and cattle in limited numbers grazing upon them. The population was scattering, and villages, so far as I could judge from the railroad, few and far between. Entering Jutland, the western and largest portion of Denmark there was some improvement. The land was more uneven, and more pleasing. Soon we reached Fredericia and were ferried across the "Little Belt" in a steamer a few miles to the island of Funen, where we again took the cars. The land of Funen resembles northern Prussia in miniature. The productions are largely grain and grass. The few larger towns excepted, all the houses of Denmark I saw along the line of the road had thatched roofs. Both in Jutland and Funen, peat beds were common. The peat was cut into brick-like blocks, and dried first in squares on the ground, then in rows several feet high, and when sufficiently dried then neatly built into open, cone-shaped piles. The beds though numerous were not extensive. They resembled Liliputian brick yards, and diminutive hay fields according as their peat happened to be newly dug up or was well cured. Fifty-one and a half miles across Funen and we arrived at Nyburg, where we went aboard a fine little steamer, for an hour's ride across the "Great Belt," taking the cars again at Korsor on the island of Zealand. The scenery of Jutland, Funen and Zealand respectively in this journey across Denmark from west to east might be fittingly styled as bad, better, charming. Zealand is beautiful—is a garden. Her tiny forests and fields have a richness of verdure very suggestive of England.

A delightful ride of sixty-eight and a half miles from Korsor and we reached Copenhagen. I will own that curiosity alone brought me here. It was a place of which, except a little of its history, I knew nothing. I had not once heard the name mentioned by the many tourists whom I had met on the continent, although I have since found that many come here. Copenhagen, as all know, is the capital of Denmark, that little kingdom in the north of Europe, which like its counterpart, Greece, in the south of Europe, is all angles, peninsulas, and islands. The city lies on both sides of a narrow, river-like strait that separates Zealand from a small island between it and a larger near island of Amager also near. Copenhagen proper has 195,000 inhabitants, and including the suburb of Fredericksburg has 216,000. Its location is magnificent, having verdant Zealand on side, and I might say, the sea on the three other sides. There is a neatness and taste about the streets and houses that I have seen nowhere else in Europe. I had thought it impossible for roofs of red tile to be anything else but unseemly. But here even the tiles are of a pattern so clever, that, broad, thin and neatly fitted together, they appear almost handsome. I am in the center of the city and yet a few minutes' walk will bring me according as I desire either to the delightful, wooded walks of her suburbs or to the sea. The streets are of moderate width. There are public squares also within the city of good style. In this respect Copenhagen presents a paradox; without seeming to be so she is densely populous and though covering little space is compact only, not cramped. She has some showy buildings and many handsome shops. The masts of numerous ships and boats in her harbor and canals are indicative also of her importance as a maratime city, and her streets are ever active and business-like. She can boast also one great name in art, Thorwaldsen, the great sculptor of modern times—a complete collection of whose works, either in the shape of the originals or in casts taken from them is in the Thorwaldsen museum. There is something about the city that makes it a satisfaction to be here. Although it is midsummer, it is delightfully cool, so as even to require additional clothing. The air from the sea, pure and invigorating, makes a walk by the water or through the near woods, so green, richly enjoyable, especially after days of rapid sight-seeing and travel. The capital of a small kingdom, her people unusually bright and intelligent, are quietly polite and unassuming, and but little disposition is manifested to make off of foreigners. My stay here has been exceedingly pleasant, and reluctantly do I say to lovely Copenhagen, Good bye.

B. T. Pettengill.

The Hard Times—Remedy.

BY B. T. ROBERTS.

I have recently made an extensive tour through the country, from New Jersey to Minnesota. I have had my eyes open and have come in contact with many of the better class of the common people. Every where the signs of distress and financial ruin are unmistakable. Thousands of men willing to work are unable to find employment. Large manufacturing establishments, filled with costly machinery, are as quiet as the grave. Those which are running, are running to only about one-third of their capacity. Many persons who, a few years ago, were in affluence are now in want. We doubt whether such wide spread ruin ever came upon a people since the world stood, in so short a period —in a time of health, peace and plenty. The recent strikes were but eruptions of a dangerous, inward disease. And the evil is constantly and rapidly on the increase. There have been more failures the last six months than in any six months since the panic began. Unless an efficient remedy is speedily applied, the next six months will witness still more. The causes which are now at work will bring about a general bankruptcy of all who are in debt. This class comprises nearly all by whom the business of the country is done. Property of all kinds is fast losing its marketable value.

To apply the proper remedy, we must ascertain the cause. Many predict better times because we have abundant harvests. But when, within the past ten years, have our harvests failed? God has given us plenty. You cannot cure a starved consumptive by giving him good food in abundance. You only render him a little more comfortable for the time being. The body politic is thoroughly diseased. Scarcity of food would add to the horror of the situation; but plenty does not remove it. What practical difference does it make to a man who has no money, and no possible means to obtain any, whether flour is twelve dollars a barrel or six dollars a barrel? It aggravates the situation to see people starving in the midst of plenty.

Nor is the cause of hard times found in present or past extravagance. This is a common, but mistaken opinion. We are opposed to extravagance in every form. But extravagance does not destroy business; it promotes it. The most that can be claimed is that it distributes the wealth that thrift accumulates. The extravagant proprietor becomes a workman; and the prudent workman becomes a proprietor.

The cause of the hard times is found mainly in the WRONG FINANCIAL POLICY OF THE GOVERNMENT.

As long as our public debt was largely distributed among the people, in the form of currency, we had good times. Business was active; every willing hand found employment. Public burdens were cheerfully borne. As fast as this currency has been called in, and bonds bearing interest and payable in gold have been issued in its place, general depression has followed. Many millions of dollars have been taken from the currency of this country, where it was doing business, employing labor and paying taxes, and put in bonds, where it does no business, and pays no taxes, and employs no labor, and produces nothing but interest to the holders and misery to the country. This of itself is enough to make hard times.

France passed through an exhaustive foreign and civil war. She has not only her own war debt to pay, but that of Germany also. Yet France is financially the most prosperous nation in the world. Her people are not more skillful or industrious than ours; her soil not more fertile; her mineral resources nothing like as great. But France has, for each inhabitant, dollars of currency where we have one.

The depressionist says, "There is is plenty of money. The banks are full of it—ready to loan on good security." If business was entirely dead, there would be too much money. Dead men need no money. Business is now so paralyzed that it requires less and less as it is gradually dying out. Many who, a few years ago, used a hundred dollars a day, now manage to get along with one or less. When we had an abundance of currency for each individual, it was kept in circulation. Now that we have a scarcity it is locked up in the vaults of the rich. Take a soldier who can easily march twenty miles a day with his accoutrements upon his back. Starve him until he can just drag himself five with the utmost exertion. To say that he does not not need more food because he does not use the strength he has, would be as sensible as to say that the business of the country does not need more money because, in its dying condition, it does not employ what there is. To make the strength of one ox available another is needed.

As the evil was brought upon us by the action of the general government, the people look to the general government for its removal. It should

1. Remonetize silver. The act of Congress making silver no longer a legal tender, was passed by stealth. The people knew nothing of it. If not done by mistake, it was a stupendous fraud. If done on purpose it must have been in the interest of the bondholders. This law should be at once repealed.

The idea of a gold basis for currency is a legal fiction which never was realized and never will be. There is not gold enough to meet the demands of business. In the best of times, whenever the banks have been generally called on for gold, they have always suspended. The Bank of England—the notes of which are current throughout the civilized world—is not upon a gold basis. Of its eighteen million pounds sterling of circulation it is required by law to redeem in gold but four millions. Fourteen millions are secured by the credit of the government. The proper basis for currency is property and not gold. The Latin word for money, pecunia, from which comes our word "pecuniary," is from pecus, a herd, which the money represented. The figure of an ox was at first impressed upon coins. A sheep or an ox has an intrinsic value—gold has but little. Iron has much more intrinsic value than gold. You cannot keep house without iron. You can without gold. When Captain Cook offered the savages, for a certain quantity of provisions, a guinea or a nail, they wisely chose the nail. For the nail was of greater service. Gold is of use chiefly as ornament. Its value is almost wholly fictitious. It is derived from common consent rather than from the necessary uses to which it can be applied.

In that higher civilization which we seek to promote, in which the ornaments are the virtues of the soul, gold loses its value. But money based on property represents that which warms and feeds us. The attempt to bring our currency upon a gold basis is not only visionary, but it works to a large and worthy class of our people. This includes the large number who have bought property and paid for it in part at prices which it was worth when Government had made currency abundant. Thousands of homes were purchased in every city and all over the country under these conditions. Now, to compel these people to pay their debts in currency so scarce that their property will not bring in this appreciated currency only from one-half to one-quarter of what they paid for it, is an act of the grossest injustice. Thousands in this way are being turned out homeless and penniless. Take an illustration which finds it parallel in every business circle. A friend was in the tanning business—first as clerk, then partner, then sole proprietor. He understood his business; was industrious, temperate and frugal. For years he prospered. He employed constantly two hundred men. Four years ago, at a fair estimate, he was worth two hundred thousand dollars. He owned two large tanneries for which he gave fifty thousand dollars. His homestead cost twenty-five thousand dollars. He owed on his tanneries and fixtures twenty thousand dollars. The panic came on. His customers began to fail. Payments grew more difficult. Stock declined. To bridge over, he raised ten thousand dollars by mortgaging his homestead. But matters kept growing worse. Skill and industry and economy availed not. The tanneries were sold on foreclosure for one thousand dollars each, and judgment entered for the balance. The homestead went for ten thousand dollars; but the purchaser cannot re-sell to get his money; or rent to get his interest. This, in its general outlines, is the history of thousands of the most active and energetic. Continue to tighten the vice and it will be the history of tens of thousands more.

GREAT INJUSTICE

Who but the fanatical depressionist, can fail to see that it is as unjust to compel the people to pay their debts in an appreciated currency as it would be to pay the bondholders in a depreciated currency? Is the whole machinery of this government to be employed mainly to give the Shylocks their pound of flesh?

[Concluded next week.]

The Old Union Club Organization.

BY J. H. H. WOODWBRD.

[Continued from last week.]

This organization, like all secret oath-bound institutions, had its signs, grips and passwords, by which one brother of the order could tell another in the dark as well as in the light. For its lodges or clubs it had entering and retiring passwords which had always to be given in a whisper. If attacked by disloyal parties at night or at other times, or if he wished to seize upon such parties and desired aid, he was authorized to shout it out, and to continue to repeat it at intervals of a few minutes each, until aid reached him. This cry was to be answered by every brother who heard it, by shouting back the responsive cry, and rushing to the assistance of him who raised the signal for relief or help. This was an imperitive duty and in no way to be evaded by any member who heard the cry, no matter at what he might be engaged at the time. If he failed to respond and grant the necessary assistance or relief he laid himself liable to charges, discipline and punishment. In this connection and right here, the conviction forces itself upon the mind, that this provision for a possible contingency was borrowed from Masonry. That it was born of Masonic thought, and in itself is not materially different from the proceedings to be observed in the case of Masonic appeal for assistance in an emergency of imminent personal danger and pressing need. That it was and is the counterpart in all essential particulars of the Masonic "O Lord, my God, is there no help for the widow's son?" That such it really was and is cannot be reasonably denied.

There was also a traveling password used by the members of this organization which was imparted as follows: A strange brother visiting a subordinate Union Club in another State than his own, would be waited upon by the President or representative of such Union Club, who would examine him in the manual and badge signs, and see that he wore the badge (though concealed) authorized by his State Union Club. If found correct in these, the President or representative would say: "Have you the traveling password?" The strange brother would reply "I have," and pronounce the first letter of the password; the party examining would pronounce the next letter; then the visitor the next; and so on, each alternately, until the whole word was spelled, and thus the ceremony of strict trial and due examination satisfactorily concluded. In this lettering of the password it can not fail to be remarked that the imprints of the Masonic finger are again plainly discernible. There is no gainsaying the image of the beast in this device, and we can but conclude had there been no Masonry there would have been no lettering of passwords in the Union Club organization, and perhaps no such organization or the slightest necessity for it.

The officers of a State or subordinate Union Club were a president, vice-president, recording secretary, corresponding secretary, treasurer, marshall and sentinel—exactly seven in number, and exactly corresponsive in that respect with the number of officers who constitute a perfect lodge of Masons in the scale of cabalistic and pretendedly divine numbers—furnishing another evidence of Masonic finger-work.

We now pass to the ritual. All candidates for membership in a Union Club were required to answer the following questions, which were propounded by the marshall before initiation:

1. Are you opposed to secession or disunion?
2. Do you acknowledge that your first and highest allegiance is due to the government of the United States of America?
3. Are you willing to take such an oath of allegiance to the United States of America?
4. Are you willing to pledge yourself to resist to the extent of your power, all attempts to subvert or overthrow the Constitution of the United States?

These questions answered in the affirmative, the candidate after a report of the fact by the marshall to the president of the club, was conducted into the clubroom, where the following Christless prayer was offered up:

"O, Eternal God! Supreme Ruler, Governor and Architect of the Universe! [How Masonic!] we humbly beseech thee to protect the people of these United States in general and especially the members of this organization. Wilt thou be pleased to direct and prosper all our consultations to the advancement of thy glory, the good of thy country, the safety, honor and welfare of thy people; and may all things be ordered and settled by the Legislative and and Executive branches of our Government upon the best and surest foundations, so that peace and happiness, truth and justice, [incompatible with the toleration of Masonry] may be established among us for all generations. Wilt thou be pleased to guide and direct us as thou didst our fathers in the Revolution. With the strength of thine Almighty arm thou didst uphold and sustain them through all their trials, and at last didst crown them with victory. May charity and brotherly love [Masonic tenets] cement us; may we be united, with our principles founded upon the teachings of thy Holy Word, and may thy Good Spirit guide, strengthen and comfort us, now and forever. Amen."

After the conclusion of this prayer, the candidates were addressed by the President of the club, thus:

"GENTLEMEN: It is a strange and sad necessity which impels American citizens to band themselves together to sustain the Constitution and the Union; but the government under which we live is threatened with destruction. Washington enjoined upon us that 'the unity of the government, which constitutes us one people, is a main pillar in the edifice of our real independence; the support of our tranquility at home, our peace abroad—of our safety—of our prosperity—of that very liberty which we so highly prize.' He charges that we should 'properly estimate the immense value of our National Union to our collective and individual happiness; that we should cherish a cordial, habitual and immovable attachment to it, accustoming ourselves to think and speak of it as the palladium of our political safety and prosperity; watching for its preservation with jealous anxiety, discountenancing whatever may suggest even a suspicion that it can, in any event, be abandoned.' He tells us again, that 'to the efficiency and permanency of the Union a government for the whole is indispensible. No alliances however strict, between the parts is an adequate substitute.' It is to sustain this government that we are banded together; and for this purpose you are now required to take a solemn obligation."

Here the candidates in standing position, with their left hands resting on the national flag, and their right hands raised and extended toward heaven, take upon themselves each one and all the following:

OBLIGATION.—"I, A. B., here in the presence of God and these witnesses, do solemnly swear, without any mental reservation whatever that I will stand by the Union, the Constitution of the United States of America and the Laws; that I will to the extent of my power defend and protect this flag from the assaults of all its enemies, and resist all attempts to subvert or overthrow the Constitution of the United States of America."

At this point all the members present in the clubroom audibly respond: "To this we pledge ourselves."

After which the candidates proceed severally, each for himself, to further obligate himself thus:

"I further solemnly affirm that I will never introduce the name of any person to become a member of this organization until I am fully satisfied that he is an unconditional union man; that whenever I hear the rallying cry of this organization, I will promptly respond to it, and hasten at once to the party or parties uttering the cry, giving such aid as may be required, to the extent of my ability and power; and also that I will never make known, in any manner, to any person or persons, any of the signs, passwords or proceedings of this Union Club, under such penalty as the club to which I belong may award."

This penalty clause smacks of Masonry hugely, and must be considered in its relation with the absolute power claimed by the order to arrive at a just conception of its full bearing and significance. If the decree of the club for a violation of the secrets of the order was death, the oath promises a compliance with the decree. There is no getting around this fact. And there can be nothing more Masonic than such a pledge, decree and punishment as this. In respect to the rallying cry, the oath in plain terms prescribes the full duty of the Union Club initiate. Let us therefore contrast it with the pledge of a Master Mason in regard to the grand hailing sign of distress of his order and see if there is any appreciable difference between the two oaths. The Master Mason swears: "That he will not give this sign except in real distress, or in case of the most imminent danger, or within a regularly constituted lodge of Master Masons, or in some secure place for Masonic instruction; and that should he ever see it given by a worthy brother in distress, or hear the words accompanying it, he would fly to that brother's relief should there be a greater probability of saving his life than of the swearer losing his own." Upon this we remark that judging by the force and meaning of words and language we pronounce the two pledges as like as father and son, or two peas from the same pod. That if there is any essential difference it is not distinguishable. That the Union Club pledge is but the outgrowth of the original Masonic pledge. That the one is the father and the other the child of the same thought and breath.

The President of the club, after the obligation had been administered to the candidates, then delivered the following final address to them:

"The oath which you have now taken, of your own free will and accord, [probably true but what a theft from Masonry,] cannot rest lightly upon your conscience; neither can it be violated without leaving the stain of perjury upon your soul. [He does not tell us how this can be, considering that the whole oath was extra-judicial and in no way authorized by law.] Our country is now in disorder and confusion; scenes of commotion and contest are threatened in our midst, and perhaps may come; but we cannot, we must not, we dare not omit to do that which in our judgment the safety of the Union requires. Not regardless of consequences we must yet meet consequences; seeing the hazard that surrounds the discharge of public duty, it must yet be discharged. Let us, then, cheerfully shun no responsibility justly devolving upon us here or elsewhere, in attempting to maintain the Union. Let us cheerfully partake of its fortunes and its fate. Let us be ready to perform our appropriate part, whenever and wherever the occasion may call us, and take our chances among those upon whom the blows may fall first and fall thickest. Above all, remember the words of the immortal Clay: 'If Kentucky to-morrow unfurls the banner of resistance, I never will fight under that banner. I owe a paramount allegiance to the whole Union—a subordinate one to my own State.' Be faithful then to your country, for your interests are indissolubly connected with hers; be faithful to these your brethren, for your life and theirs may be involved in this contest; be faithful to posterity, for the blessings you have enjoyed in this government are but held in trust for them. Be faithful and true!"

Response by all the members: "We will!"

The President then presents the constitution and oath to the candidates for their signatures, which being affixed completes the initiation.

That an adhering Mason could take the above oath and answer in the affirmative the four questions propounded by the marshall in the ante-room, without a mental reservation in favor of Masonry is not possible, and very few of that class, if any, ever took the obligation of the Union Club initiate and answered the questions referred to, without making such a mental reservation, or without disregarding the oaths and duties of a member of the Union Club, where its interests conflicted with those of Masonry. Two masters cannot be well served in all things at the same time, and experience demonstrates the fact that Masonry gains the supremacy in all conflicts with antagonized interests. How absurd, therefore, is the oath of the Mason in all outside secret societies! It should ever be regarded with suspicion and taken at an immense discount for sincerity.

In conclusion it may be observed that in all States where this organization extended, county Union Clubs were not organized, and where this was not the case, the State Union Clubs were composed of representatives direct from subordinate local clubs, and the business between the State clubs and their subordinates was conducted directly. The writer was initiated in this organization in Cincinnati, Ohio, in the early part of the winter of 1861-2, and knows well whereof he speaks. He can say from experience that this institution while it accomplished some good, fell far short in many respects from carrying out its professed objects. Secret societies did not save the Union, nor will they ever preserve it. They should on all occasions be discountenanced and frowned down.

The Chinese of San Francisco have petitioned the Board of Education for a school. They say in their memorial: "Your honorable State levies poll and other taxes for the support of education, and makes no difference between natives and foreigners. If from the first Chinese and Americans had been placed on the same footing in the schools it would have been in accordance with right and justice, and there would have been subsequently no distinction; but your honorable State has established schools of all grades and have not admitted Chinese, which is contrary to the original intention, (that they should be open to all). We therefore respectfully and earnestly beg that you will open schools for the benefit of the Chinese, and that you will appoint Mr. Kerr, who is familiar with our language, to have charge. Thus the original excellent design will be realized, and the learning of your honorable country will be disseminated."

Recently, in London, three men made a wager as to which of them could drink the greatest quantity of whisky. After they had consumed three bottles amongst them, one of them drank off the fourth. He immediately became insensible, and notwithstanding every medical effort, expired in two hours afterward.

The Health Reformer for September has a full description of the mammoth Sanitarium which is being erected at Battle Creek, Mich.; with a fine engraving of the building, in addition to the usual amount of invaluable information relating to human improvement, mentally, morally and physically. The subscription price is $1.00 a year. Specimen copies sent free. Published a Battle Creek, Mich.

Reform News.

MARSHALL COUNTY, IOWA, ABLAZE.

MARSHALL, Iowa, Sept. 7, 1877.

I reached Quarry on the first instant and have spoken seven times in this county. I have met a goodly number of old friends and many others whom I had never before seen. At Marshalltown last evening our audience was not large but very respectful and attentive. The prospect is better for this evneing when I am to speak in the same hall.

Some of the clergy of Marshalltown are secretly in favor of free speech and equal rights, and in favor, too, it is supposed of preaching and laboring against sin; but I have not found or learned of any one yet that has faith enough in God to stand right up and boldly advocate what they know to be right and denounce what they know to be wrong in the face of lodge opposition. Of course saloons, gambling, licetiousness and fraud are strong and bold and piety at a very low ebb under such preaching. It is sad to see the devil dictating to the professed ministers of Christ what they shall not preach, but such is the case not only here but to an alarming extent all over our land. Is it possible for a minister thus to obey the behests of the lodge without denying Christ? Does he not say, "I have more confidence in the lodge than in the true church and I fear the devil more than my Divine Master?" And do not the people who sustain such ministers endorse and uphold them in their cowardice and treason?

Many earnest prayers are going up, and many warm friends will gather from the rural districts to give Bro. Ronayne a hearty welcome next week. I would gladly remain longer, as calls for help in this region are numerous, but I feel that after the middle of next week I must return to Chicago for a few days and push on eastward toward our Dayton gathering. I feel a deep and earnest wrestling of soul for the success of that meeting, and I trust that every brother and sister friendly is praying and working for it. I hope to receive numerous requests for lectures to add to my list on my return. Some of our lecturers are ready to start now and others will be in time.

GREEN MOUNTAIN, Iowa, Sept. 10, 1877.

I spoke here on Saturday evening to a very attentive audience. Yesterday the rain was incessant and the people did not come out to church. My headquarters have been with Bro. Hopkins, who has "dared to be a Daniel" and stand almost alone in this reform while the "Patrons" were sweeping almost every thing before them. I think our good brother enjoys a quiet satisfaction in seeing his neighbors coming back to that freedom which he never relinquished for the supreme felicity of being led "blind-folded over the style," etc.; and I have no doubt that his intelligent neighbors, including his beloved pastor, honor him the more for his manly, fearless course.

The county convention at Marshalltown on Saturday was attended by about forty representative men from different towns, and a county ticket put in nomination. The secretists were evidently not pleased with the movement, and showed very plainly that they feared lest they should not be able to control and give direction to the politics of this county in the lodge.

There is much interest felt in the initiations by Bro. Ronayne, the first of which is to be given this evening. The State meeting to be held on the 12th makes it necessary for me to remain over until that time, after which I shall start eastward, D. V. J. P. STODDARD.

MARSHALLTOWN MASONIC MOB.

September 14, 1877.

Marshalltown has long had the reputation of being a Masonic stronghold and it has been more than intimated in that region that to speak against the "craft" in that enterprising town of six thousand inhabitants would be to get into trouble. While visiting the rural districts, when any mention was made about speaking in the county seat, the "knowing ones" would look wise and give outsiders to understand that such an attempt would be a perilous undertaking. The Antimasons, however, went right on and hired a hall and made arrangements, just as though Marshalltown "had n't seceded" from the State government of Iowa and joined the Masonic rebellion, and invited Bro. Ronayne to exemplify the three degrees of Masonry in public in Whitten's hall on the evenings of September 10th, 11th and 12th.

The hall was well filled on the first evening with an audience of the most respectable and intelligent ladies and gentlemen of the place, according to the statements in the city papers. Very little interruption occurred and every thing passed off in a quiet and orderly manner.

The citizens testified to their appreciation of Bro. R.'s first effort by filling the hall at an early hour to witness the work of the second degree of Masonry. As on the previous evening the exercises were opened with prayer, and Bro. R. took the stand and began his introductory remarks, when a band which had been playing a little distance up the street, took a position opposite the hall and opened a windy blast which greatly annoyed the meeting, but no particular attention was given to it and the speaker proceeded. Finding that they were "wasting their sweetness" to little purpose at "long range" they advanced to the foot of the stairs directly under the windows at the rear of the stage, and the contest began in earnest. On the one side was a single individual leaning upon the strong Arm with the "sword of the Spirit" in his hand, and on the other ten or a dozen musicians armed with fife, drum and brazen horns, who had been hired and paid with lodge money to break up the meeting. The contest was spirited and as the speaker rose in the fervor and resistless might with which he was girded it became apparent that he was more than a match for his opponents. But the devil (or his disciples) had staked heavily on the game, and as defeat seemed imminent other expedients must be tried. Just opposite the hall windows, across a ten-foot alley, was a billiard room whose large windows furnished a convenient "pass" for a flank movement, and hither a part of these "noble sons" of Iowa and "hirelings" of the craft took position.

And now came what sportsmen call the "home stretch." All the gas and wind of that gusty region seemed concentrated for a decisive bellow, and while from front and rear came a perfect "blizzard" hurled with that desperation which seizes men bent on "victory or death," accomplices were rattling at the doors and crying FIRE! FIRE! until it was utterly impossible to distinguish aught amid the confusion of sounds.

Both audience and speaker deserve great credit, and especially the ladies, for the manner in which they received this desperate charge. Not a "soldier broke ranks." Appearances indicated that the "hirelings" were being strongly reinforced and "set on" by the "secret benevolent and patriotic orders," and as the "city fathers" were either asleep or dead or held back by the "strong grip of the lion's paw" on the throat of the mayor and marshall, and as the State of Iowa had no officials in those parts who were willing, or who dared, or did appear to vindicate her laws it was deemed best to adjourn the meeting until the next day at two o'clock, which was accordingly done amid much confusion. I requested the rioters to desist for a few moments and allow us to close with a word of prayer and the benediction, as our gathering was a religious meeting, but even this pittance was denied by the "ancient and honorable order."

Comments are unnecessary. The riot is itself the likeness of that conspiracy which detests the equality of human rights and demands unquestioning obedience from society, the state and the church; and it is only the conflict in miniature which the National Christian Association is striving to prevent from becoming general by exposing those secret combinations which are treasonable and thoroughly anti-Christian.

The length of this article and what remains yet to be said renders it necessary that I should defer the further report of proceedings until next week, simply saying that the worst is yet to come. On the following evening the lives of from seven to eight hundred of Marshalltown's best citizens were placed in the most imminent peril by the "benevolent" order, and it was only by the merciful interposition of God that we escaped a most fearful disaster. Of this I will speak in my next. With devout gratitude to God for his preserving care and in humble trust and waiting for "his appearing in the clouds of heaven" and in anticipation of a happy and joyous meeting in Dayton, Ohio, and a triumphal meeting with an "innumerable company of the white-robed in glory,"

I am your fellow servant,
J. P. STODDARD.

IOWA STATE POLITICAL CONVENTION.

Pursuant to a call issued by a committee on political action appointed by a convention held at Oskaloosa, a convention assembled at Whitten's Hall, Marshalltown, Iowa, at 11:30 A. M., Sept. 12th, to compare views and take such action in regard to State officers and other political measures as should after due consideration be deemed for the best interests of the lawful industries and honest citizens of the State of Iowa. The meeting was not large, but was composed of that kind of material which constituted the Abolition party when the foundations of emancipation were laid by a few earnest, praying men and women who were branded as fanatics and "nigger-worshipers."

Theron Palmeter, Esq., of Cerro Gordo county, chairman of the central committee on political action called the meeting to order. Levi Marshall of Marshall county, was elected President and T. K. Bufkin of Jasper county, Secretary. Mr. Palmeter then made a brief statement of the condition of the work in the State and the objects of the convention. Letters were read from M. S. Drury, President of the State Anti-secrecy Association, who was detained by the sickness of a son, and from others in different parts of the State expressing sympathy with the objects of the convention, and offering suggestions as to the wisest measures to be adopted. After the appointment of such committees as were deemed necessary the convention took a recess until 2 o'clock P. M.

The Hall being occupied by Bro. E. Ronayne at that hour on the second degree of Freemasonry and as the members of the convention wished to witness the initiation, it was informally agreed not to call the convention to order until the close of the exposition.

At 4:30 the convention reassembled and in the absence of the President, Joseph McCleery, Esq., was called to the chair and business was resumed. A report from the committee appointed to present names of candidates for State officers was called for and submitted by the chairman, T. Palmeter, Esq., and received by the convention. The committee recommended the following gentlemen:

For Governor, Elias Jessup of Mahaska county.

For Lieut. Governor, Frederick Nelson of Page county.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction, Pres. E. B. Kephart of Linn county.

The committee asked the convention to make a nomination for judge as they were unable to agree upon a suitable candidate. The report was taken up and considered item by item. Considerable discussion occurred on the nominee for Governor, as it was well known that he had been an active member of a secret temperance order and the evidence of his having fully abandoned that society was not such as to satisfy a majority of the convention. All seemed to feel that Mr. Jessup was a competent and worthy man and had the convention been fully assured that he had wholly absolved himself from this entangling alliance he would have been heartily endorsed and earnestly sustained.

But the convention had met not to sacrifice but to maintain a consistent and conscientious testimony against Freemasonry and all kindred and tributary orders and therefore could not indorse any man upon whom rested the least shadow of suspicion. As Mr. Jessup is a well-known temperance advocate, the convention did not wish to place impediments in the way of his election by those who have put him forward as a temperance nominee, and so it was voted not to put a candidate in nomination for Governor, hoping that Mr. Jessup would define his position fully at an early day and that it would be such that not only the temperance men and women of the State but the consistent anti-secrecy voters could give him their hearty support. The recommendations of the committee for Lieutenant Governor and for Superintendent of Public Instruction were adopted unanimously. The Judgeship was left vacant.

The committee on resolutions being called for submitted the following report, which was after some discussion on the sixth and eighth resolutions, adopted:

WHEREAS, Existing political parties have failed to protect the honest industries of our State against the frauds and rings formed to rob them of their just rights; and

WHEREAS, Our taxes have been greatly increased through the agency of dishonest or incompetent town, county and State officials; and

WHEREAS, We see no reasonable prospect of securing redress for past grievances or protection from future injustice through any existing political organization; therefore

Resolved, That we, a portion of the citizens and voters of the State of Iowa, unite to form an organization upon the basis of the political equality of all free citizens and adopt the following as declarative of our views upon the present living issues before the people:

1. We hold and maintain that active connection with Freemasonry or any kindred secret order disqualifies a man for occupying any office of trust, honor or profit in the administration of our government.

2. We hold and maintain that total abstinence from all intoxicating liquors is the only true and safe rule on the temperance question, and that prohibition is the most speedy and effective means of suppressing and removing the fearful evil of intemperance, and that to vote for any man for any office whatever whom we do not know or believe to be clear from any responsible connection with manufacture, use as a beverage, or sale of intoxicating drinks, would be to endorse his conduct and become partakers of his guilt.

3. We hold an maintain that the time has arrived when honest men should separate from corrupt party control and unite to secure the election of honest temperance officers to positions of honor and trust in our government, and we do hereby cordially invite our fellow-citizens without regard to former party connection, and who indorse the foregoing preamble and resolutions, to cooperate with us in placing the offices of our republican State in the hands of men who will administer our government upon the principle of partiality to none but equal justice to all.

4. We hold, moreover, that the charters of Masonic lodges granted by our Federal and State legislatures ought to be withdrawn and their oaths suppressed.

5. That all secret lodges or orders affecting the independence of our government, and practically claiming that their ends and laws are more sacred and binding than the laws of the land, are treasonable, dangerous and destructive of liberties, legislatures and courts.

6. That the civil equality secured to all American citizens, by articles 13, 14 and 15 of our amended Constitution as worded, includes all, without regard to sex and should be faithfully carried out and preserved inviolate.

7. That arbitration of differences with nations, is the most direct and sure method of securing and perpetuating a permanent peace.

8. The abolition of the electoral colleges and a direct vote for President and Vice President of the United States.

Resolved, That a copy of the proceedings of this meeting be forwarded to the different papers of the county for publication.

Correspondence.

THE LUTHERAN GENERAL COUNCIL "MAKING HISTORY" AT LIMA, O.

DEAR CYNOSURE: When this venerable body met in Ft. Wayne a few years ago, one of its prominent members declared most emphatically that the "General Council is making history!" It is very true, and the manner and the means it uses in so doing will be shown by this article. Great deeds usually require powerful agents to execute them. The Council in Ohio, acting in the same harness with Masonry, can furnish the agents; this is clearly seen by all those who have watched them "making history" at Lima. The Lutheran church in that city had a prosperous congregation, but Masonry was the cause of a division, and the General Council aided and abetted the schismatic party and furnished it with a pastor. The Masonic faction unjustly gained possession of the church property and have permission to hold it until the case is decided by Supreme Court.

Rev. Bartholomew, the pastor against whom this faction was led out, resides on an adjoining lot, and regardless of circumstances almost every thing possible is done to grieve and annoy this gentleman and his family. On the night of the 10th of June, 1876, two persons, one of whom was the pastor, who is either a Mason or a jack Mason, were in the church until 10:15 P. M., when they locked the door and hastily departed, leaving the kerosene lamps all burning. Mrs. Bartholomew, a lady of unquestionable piety, a faithful wife and a devoted mother, being in feeble health was injuriously shocked by this suspicious conduct in and around the church. The lamps being left burning she feared an explosion, and the anticipated destruction of the church and her dwelling so wrought upon her mind that she could not rest until the condition of the church as left by the pastor and his friend could be established by a witness. Many other annoyances followed too numerous to be mentioned here, but all seemingly intended to cause Pastor B. to leave his present home and remove to some other place where he would be unable to keep track of the workings of this Masonic faction.

On the 9th of March, 1877, another event occurred which we will not describe, but will quote from a little book published in Cincinnati. In speaking of the devilish deeds of Masonry the author says: "It perpetrated a crime upon a dying woman a short time since, of which a cannibal knowingly would never have been guilty. The lady outraged was the wife of Rev. A. S. Bartholomew of Lima, Ohio. The offense consisted in tolling a church bell of eight hundred pounds weight about seventy feet from the bed, upon which she lay sick unto death at the very moment the deed of hell was being consummated. She was so nervous that the very first stroke of the bell caused her to count the total number made, which was two hundred and sixty-four, and all delivered in the brief space of thirty minutes. There was no occasion for the ringing of the bell save that of pure demonaical maliciousness. It was done to annoy and to injure and that only. At the last stroke the bell was rent like the veil of the temple at the hour of the crucifixion—it broke, was hopelessly ruined and had to be taken down and cast away. It never tolled again, and that poor, dying woman, almost gone at the time, ejaculated with the last stroke the very words employed by the dying Saviour when his life was ebbing away upon the cross, 'Father, forgive them, they know not what they do.' Was not the destruction of that bell a judgment and warning note from Almighty God? Verily, it hath that appearance. Mr. B. and his worthy family had committed the unpardonable crime at a previous period in their lives of questioning the integrity, justice and mock piety of this damnable institution [of Freemasonry]. That was the sum total of their offense, hence their persecution by the fraternity as Christ was persecuted by the unrepentant, sin-cursed Jews. But God judgeth all; and time maketh all things even."

On Wednesday, April 4th at 3:30 Mrs. B., after kindly forgiving all those who so Satanically injured and annoyed her, sweetly fell asleep in Jesus. While, in the presence of death, quiet reigned in that house of mourning, and kind parishioners vied with each other in comforting and assisting the deeply stricken family, the Masonic craft, and the council preacher used their efforts to augment the sorrow accompanying the death of a beloved wife and a cherished mother. Three men, a deposed Lutheran minister, a Masonic saloonist, and the Council preacher, came to one of the trustees of the true Lutheran congregation and offered the use of the church which they so wrongfully occupy, for the holding of the funeral services. Their offer was not accepted. The Council preacher, Rev. J. G. Neiffer, then went to a high Mason, known to be a personal friend of Pastor B., and induced him to accompany him on a visit ostensibly to again offer the use of the church for the funeral. The two men were met by the above trustee before they reached the door and informed that their offer was rejected and that the service would be held in the temporary church, which is about, if not altogether, as capacious as the old church. Rev. Neiffer's audacity was not yet blunted, and, remarking that he "wanted to see him (Pastor B.) anyhow," led the way, the Mason following, and without any ceremony they opened the dining-room door, marched in and laid their hats upon a stand. Then, turning to one of Pastor Bartholomew's deacons Neiffer said: "We came to offer the use of our church to hold the funeral services in." "You sir, offer insult to injury," was the reply. The foul spirit was still unsatiated, and, turning to Pastor Bartholomew's eldest son, he said: "I want to see your father." "Well, he don't want to see you; you have almost broken his heart already," was the response. Eye witnesses state that, as the preacher and the Masonic lodge agent passed down the walk leading from the door the Council preacher indulged in laughter.

On Monday the 16th of April, the schismatic party, including their pastor, met to clean the church yard; after collecting a large mass of dead grass and other rubbish, instead of removing it into the street and burning it there, as upon former occasions, they took it into the back yard of the church and made a large heap the burning of which caused a dense smoke which the wind carried directly into the back door of pastor Bartholomew's house, injuring newly washed clothing on the line. When the fume was densest one man remarked: "Smoke him out." They were not yet contented, and the devil aided them still further. On the evening of the 19th of April immediately after pastor B. and family arose from their evening devotions, and before they had time to be seated, their house was egged. The next morning Rev. Neiffer and five of his parishioners, principally Masons, made their appearance as near the pastor's residence as was advisable and all eyes were turned toward the place where the eggs had been thrown. After gazing at the evil work for awhile they dispersed. Query: If they were innocent of the deed what brought them there to hold such an inspection so soon afterward?

We have also been very authentically informed that when this church case was taken to court, the ring-leader of the faction, being a high Mason, presented the matter to his lodge and asked for assistance in carrying on the suit. They gave him a hearing and came to the following conclusion: "As a lodge we cannot help you, but as individuals we can." Then several members of this honorable (?) craft pledged their aid, and thus they assisted in attempting to rob a Christian congregation of its church property, and endeavored to fulfill the Masonic obligation to assist a brother right or wrong.

Several years ago this same Mason declared that he would break up every Joint Synod congregation in Allen county; and, using the well-known Philadelphia "confidence man" as his tool he is making desperate efforts to' execute his threat as will be seen by the following statement. The Joint Synod congregation at Elida, Ohio, is now completing a beautiful and costly church, and while laboring under the burden of a heavy debt, this clerical wolf is prowling about the fold, preaching in a Methodist church near by, and in various ways endeavoring to start a congregation in opposition to the peaceable and prosperous church now erecting the new edifice. That this is the council preacher's design is plain, for Elida is a very small village and the congregation already there can take ample care of all those inclined to the Lutheran faith.

Reader, you have now seen how the council is "making history" at Lima, and learned also what men will do when ridden by the black monster secretism. Let both individuals and the church take warning from these things, and, standing aloof from Masonry, thus be free from its awful "grip of the lion's paw." SPECTATOR.

OUR MAIL.

John McLane, Keokuk, Iowa, writes:

"If there is any place on the face of the earth that needs a lecturer it is Keokuk. I wish we could get Mr. Ronayne here to lecture, I think he would open a few blind eyes."

Mrs. Eleanor Cook, Albion, Ind., states that after reading the Cynosures she lends them to all her neighbors who will read them and when returned she mails them enclosing a tract, to persons north, south, east and west. Through Indiana, Michigan, Iowa, Ohio and Pennsylvania. She writes:

"My daily prayers go with them. Dear friends the work is too great for human arm, but let us call unitedly on the Lord God of Elijah and he will hear and give success. The work is his. The Psalmist says: 'It is time for thee to work;' but the Lord has his own time appointed. I do hope that there will be power, light and truth from above at Dayton."

E. S. Bunce, Letts, Louisa county, Iowa writes:

"I am in a hotbed of secrecy. Have every possible opposition, but withal, our cause is gaining ground slowly. We have a few faithful workers."

Hiram Harvey, Janesville, Wis., writes:

"I think the Cynosure the best paper I have ever seen."

Mrs. Louisa Hull, Perry, Wyoming Co., N. Y., writes:

"I see the Ku-Klux spirit creeping snake like over our beautiful country, and shall do all I can to stop its progress, and enlighten the women as well as the men."

Rev. H. H. Hinman, writes from College Springs, Iowa:

"The grasshoppers are very abundant. They go and come on short notice. They have done as yet but little damage; but they keep up a constant fear and doubt. Most manifestly this is the voice of the Lord saying 'Look unto me.' 'Trust ye in the Lord.' I think some are heeding it."

Home and Farm.

HOGS WANT SULPHUR.—Whether hogs require sulphur as an essential to their health, or whether it is sought by them as a condiment, may not be known for a certainty. But one thing is sure, they devour it with greed whenever it is to be found. It is for this purpose, probably, that they cut large quantities of soft coal, which contains a large amount of sulphur. Perhaps this is the most economical method of supplying hogs with sulphur during the winter, when they require a good deal of carbon. But in the summer it is better to feed it to them in substances which contain less carbon on account of their producing less heat. Mustard is one of the best things for this purpose, and some of this should be sown in every pasture into which hogs are turned. If hogs are kept in, or in small yards, it is well to supply them with the wild mustard that grows in the fields or highways, or to cultivate some of the better varieties for them. They will eat it, leaves, flowers, seeds and stalk.—Christian at Work.

SHADOWS FROM THE WALLS OF DEATH.—Dr. R. C. Kedsie, from the Committee on Poisons, presented a book of specimens of arsenical wall papers, gathered from various sources, which he had inscribed Shadows from the Walls of Death. In connection with the subject, he cited several cases of poisoning from such papers, and that one sample of the paper presented no less than 1.16 grains of arsenic to the square foot of surface. He also submitted examination of 17 specimens of syrup, only two of which were pure cane syrup. The others were more or less diluted with starch syrup and contained various proportions of lime, copperas and sulphuric acid.—The Sanitarian.

The Kansas Agricultural College last year instituted careful experiments to determine the relative advantage of planting corn in hills and drills. The plants in the drills were cultivated ten inches apart and in hills the same number of stalks to the acre. Both were treated in the same way, hoeing once and cultivating twice. The corn was husked in November, and that in drills yielded seventy-one bushels to the acre, while that in hills yielded sixty-two and a half bushels.

G. Lewis, in the Cincinnati Gazette, says: "For some years past I have been in the habit of saving my seed corn at gathering time. While unloading I keep a basket on the wagon and when I see an ear that suits me I toss it in and empty the basketfuls into the oat-bin—on the oats I intend to sow in the spring. The mice have always gone downward and worked on the oats instead of the corn and the oats extract the moisture from the corn and preserve it. I always take my corn off the oats (before I get ready to sow the latter), and shell it. Fifteen or twenty bushels of oats will cure six or eight bushels of corn and not injure the oats. The only object well-matured corn, thoroughly cu ed."

In washing oil-cloths, never use any soap or a scrub-brush. It will destroy in a short time an oil-cloth that should last for years. Use instead warm water and a soft cloth or flannel, and wipe off with water and skim-milk. Keep the best of soap on hand; but by a fair trial it will be seen that full two-thirds more soap is used than is beneficial.

ANTI-MASONIC BOOKS.

(Not our own Publications.)

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO

13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

FOR CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS OF EZRA A. COOK & CO., See page 15 of the CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

☞ All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent. discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Freemasonry Self Condemned.

BY REV. J. W. BAIN.

We now have a small supply of this deservedly popular book in paper covers, Price 20 cents each by mail.

Elder Stearns' Books.

Stearns' Inquiry Into the Nature and Tendency of Masonry With an Appendix,

338 Pages, In Cloth.....60 cents.
" " " Paper.....40 "

Stearns' Letters on Masonry.

Showing the antagonism between Freemasonry and the Christian Religion.
Price, 30 cents.

Stearns' Review of Two Masonic Addresses.

In this scathing review the lying pretentions of the order are clearly shown.
Price, 10 cents.

Levington's Key to Masonry.

This is Rev. Mr. Levington's last, and in the judgment of its author, best work on Masonry.
The contents of the Eleventh chapter are thus startling:
"Knights of the Golden Circle—Graphic account of them by a seceding Knight, and remarks thereon, showing the identity of the order with Masonry—Quotations from Sir Walter Scott."
This work is thrilling in statement, and powerful in argument Price. $1.35. 425 pages.

PRICE REDUCED.

Light on Freemasonry

BY ELDER D. BERNARD,

TO WHICH IS APPENDED A

Revelation of the Mysteries of Odd-fellowship by a Member of the Craft.

The whole containing over five hundred pages lately revised and republished. Price $1 50

The first part of the above work, Light on Freemasonry, 416 pages in paper cover, will be sent post paid on receipt of 75 cts.

FOR SALE BY

United Brethren Publishing House,
DAYTON, O.
and by
EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Ave, CHICAGO

Finney on Masonry.

BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE $1.00.

CHEAP EDITION,

Twenty-five dollars per hundred, by express not less than 25 copies at that rate.

BY MAIL, POST-PAID:

Per doz.....$2.75.
Single copy.....35 c

GOOD TEMPLARISM EXPOSED.

Obligations, of the Initiatory Fidelity, Charity, and Royal Virtue Degrees.

This is a small book containing only the Obligations and some of the Odes of the Good Templars.

Single Copy, Post paid, ... 10cts
Per Doz. " 75
Per 1 00 by Express,..... $4.50

Bernard's Appendix to Light on Masonry,

Showing the Character of the Institution by its terrible oaths and penalties. 25 cents.

ODD-FELLOWSHIP

JUDGED BY ITS OWN UTTERANCES;

Its Doctrine and Practice examined in the light of God's Word

BY REV. J. H. BROURMAN.

This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-Fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. It was originally published in German.
Price, bound in Boards, 75 cents. Paper Covers 40 cents.
GERMAN EDITION, Entitled "Christian and Past." Paper Covers 50 cents each.

HOW TO DEFEAT

Masonic Scoundrelism

Within the Court House.

BY J. H. H. WOODWARD,

This pamphlet as its title indicates is designed to put all non-Masons on their guard against lodge trickery and especially to show how to meet and successfully cope with Freemasonry in our Courts
Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 10 cts.
Per Doz...75 cts. Per 100 by Express $5.00

Every Freemason a Blasphemer.

As proved by the Highest Masonic Authority.

BY J. H. H. WOODWARD.

By quotations from a score of masonic works of unquestioned authority, the fact of the blasphemous ceremonies and teachings of Freemasonry are so clearly demonstrated as to make it evident that every Initiate is of necessity a blasphemer,
10 cents each. 75 cents per Doz. by mail;
By Express, per 100 $5.00

Masonic Books.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

☞ All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Those who wish to know the character of Freemasonry, as shown by its own publications, will find many standard works in the following list.

No sensible Mason dares deny that such men as Albert G. Mackey, the great Masonic Lexicographer, and Daniel Sickels, the Masonic author and publisher, are the highest Masonic authority in the United States.

All the books advertised here are used by Masons, but Duncan's Ritual, Allyn's Ritual and Richardson's Monitor, are not publicly acknowledged as Masonic authority, because they tell too much.

WEBB'S MONITOR O FREEMASONRY.

LARGE Edition, with Notes by ROB. MORRIS. Price, $1.50. Pocket Edition, 75 Cts.

FEMALE MASONRY.

MANNUAL OF THE ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR

Containing the Ritual, Symbols Lectures etc., of the five Degrees of "Adoptive Masonry:" Jeptha's Daughter; Ruth, Esther, Martha and Electa, profusely illustraited and handsomely bound.
Price.....$1 00

SICKELS' FREEMASON'S MONITOR,

CONTAINING the Degrees of Freemasonry embraced in the Lodge, Chapter, Council, and Commandery, embellished with nearly 300 symbolic Illustrations, together with Tactics and Drill of Masonic Knighthood. Also, forms of Masonic Documents, Notes, Songs, Masonic dates, Installations, etc. By D. SICKELS; 32 mo. Tuck. Price. $1.50. Cloth, $1.

GENERAL AHIMAN REZON AND FREEMASON'S GUIDE

BY DANIEL SICKELS, 33°

The most perfect Masonic Monitor published in the United States. Embellished with nearly 800 Engravings, and Portrait of the Author, Containing Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow-Craft, and Master Mason, with Explanatory Notes and Lectures; with the Ceremonies of Consecration and Dedication of New Lodges, Installation of Officers, Laying Foundation Stones, Dedication of Masonic Halls, Burial Services, Masonic Calendar, Ritual for a Lodge of Sorrow, Masonic Trials, etc.
Bound in fine cloth extra, large 12mo.....$3 00.

DUNCAN'S MASONIC RITUAL AND MONITOR,

PROFUSELY Illustrated with Explanitory Engravings, and containing the entire Ritual and work of the Order for the Seven Degrees, including the Royal Arch. Scores of Masons have privately admitted that this is a Standard Text-Book in the Lodge, and is strictly correct; but publicly it is not acknowledged as authority, though almost every officer of the Lodge makes use of it. Price in cloth. $2.50.

MACKEY'S MANUAL OF THE LODGE.

Or Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, with Ceremonies Relating to Installations, Dedications, Consecrations, Laying of Corner stones, etc. Price, $2.

Allyn's Ritual of Masonry,

ILLUSTRATED by a large number of Engravings, and containing a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, Orange and Odd-fellows' Societies.
Price, $5.00.

MACKEY'S LEXICON OF FREEMASONRY.

CONTAINING a Definition of Terms, Notices of its History, Traditions, and Antiquities, and an Account of all the Rites and Mysteries of the Ancient World. 12 mo,; 526 pages; $3.

MACKEY'S TEXT-BOOK

Of Masonic Jurisprudence,

ILLUSTRATING the Laws of Freemasonry, both written and unwritten. This is the Great Law Book of Freemasonry—370 pages.
Price, $2.50.

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry.

A PRACTICAL Guide to the Ceremonies in the Degrees conferred in Masonic Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated edition. In cloth, $1.25: paper, 75 Cts.
Although this Monitor is extensively used in the Lodge, especially in Conferring the higher degrees, it is publicly called an "exposition," and not allowed as authority.

MACKEY'S MASONIC RITUALIST;

or Monitorial Instruction Book,
BY ALBERT G. MACKEY.

PAST General High Priest of the General Grand Chapter of the United States, Knight of the Eagle and Pelican, Prince of Mercy, etc.
Price, Cloth, $1.25; Tuck, $1.75.

MOORE'S MASONIC TRESTLE BOARD.

THIS work was originally prepared by order of the National Masonic Convention held at Baltimore, Md., in 1843. It is known among Masons everywhere as the "BLUE BOOK," and has long been considered a standard work.
Price, $1.75.

TRUE MASONIC CHART; OR, HIEROGLYPHIC MONITOR.

BY JEREMY L. CROSS, Grand Lecturer.

With a Memoir and Portrait of the Author, Containing all the Emblems explained in the Degrees of entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason. Designed and arranged agreeably to the Lectures.
12mo. Cloth.....$1 50

The Christian Cynosure.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, SEPT. 20, 1877.

A NEW CHRISTIAN TABERNACLE.—The people in the vicinity of Marengo and Union, Illinois, who are opposed to the organized deism and idolatry of the Gentiles, are about to erect a plain tabernacle of undressed lumber, in Marengo, for Mr. Ronayne to exemplify the secret ritual of the lodge to more people than churches will accommodate. The enterprise is in the hands of Mr. Teeple of Marengo, and Dr. Sheldon of Union, who are thorough and capable men and Americans, and will put the matter forward rapidly. As this is the first building of the kind in the history of the reform, it will send its waves of thought to the extremities of the continent. The tabernacle built by Moses in the Arabian wilderness, was based on exactly the same principle with this. It was the religion of Christ against the lodge-worships of the nations; a religion with a Saviour in it, against the Christless Gentile shams.

WHEATON COLLEGE.—In spite of the shameless and unprecedented efforts to keep students away from this institution it opens with a much larger number than last year; and as the Faculty and Board are now a unit, the prospects of the College were never brighter if ever so bright as at the present time. The lodge and its weak and worldly tools and ignorant or sinful accomplices having failed to make any impression on the College Board seem given up of God to insult the Board and to make direct and open efforts to divert funds and pupils from their own town, to the detriment of all its interests. A few honorable men have been misled by false information but they are being undeceived. One hundred and fifteen students (instead of sixty as reported by enemies) have reported to the treasurer, and there are almost daily new arrivals. But we request a continuance of the prayers of God's people who have remembered us in the bitter and repeated assaults of men under whose tongue is "the poison of asps." For we wrestle not against flesh and blood but against wicked spirits guided by the "god of this world," and in ourselves we have no might against them.

THE AMERICAN PARTY.—The people of College Springs, Iowa, have held a mass convention and print in their call the 4th article of the American Platform on the repeal of all lodge charters. The Odd-fellows there say they have no charter from the State, but only from their Grand Lodge; therefore the State cannot repeal it.

ANS.—Yes; but the State charters their Grand Lodge on which the local lodges all rest; and repealing the Grand Lodge repeals all the lodges chartered by it, i. e., strips them of all legal character, and puts them in a class with other unauthorized assemblages. They also say, "The State has no right to repeal a charter unless violated." This is not true. Courts cannot declare charters forfeit unless they are violated; but legislatures can, for good reasons, repeal their own acts. On this ground many Masonic charters were repealed after the death of Morgan. Multitudes of charters have been repealed or modified, for a multitude of diverse reasons. The only interference of courts would be to guard the rights of property acquired under such repealed charters. Do the College Springs Odd-fellows imagine they have a lodge which can defy the State because independent of it?

CONGREGATIONALISM.

The National Congregational Council, which aspires to represent the churches called "Congregational" in this country, meets at Detroit, October 17th, proximo. Its only permanent officer from the beginning is A. H. Quint, D. D., who was "Grand Chaplain" of Massachusetts Masons when first chosen at Oberlin, and who has since, at his home in New Bedford, in a speech there printed, defiantly gloried in his membership in the lodge. The preacher this year is Zachary Eddy, D. D., who was stripped and sworn into Masonry in Warsaw, N. Y., while pastor of Hon. Seth M. Gates, one of the original one hundred seceding Masons at Leroy, N. Y., 1828. All Dr. Eddy had to do, to inform himself concerning Masonry was to have asked this venerable man and member of his church. Yet he submitted to the impious degradation of initiation to please the lodge in that place. This man is to enlighten the Congregational denomination of this country in their National Council.

Now, as all that marks this denomination as peculiar is their Puritan origin and polity; and as that polity and the very name of Puritan rests on what Bancroft (Vol. I., p. 279) calls "The austere principle that not even a ceremony shall be tolerated unless it is enjoined by the Word of God;" this people are Antimasons by origin, by creed, by history, by everything which should hold honorable or Christian men to the faith of their fathers. There is no pretense that the fundamental principle of their order was a superstition, an error or mistake. When they oppose Popery and Unitarianism they fall back on the Bible doctrine of their fathers, and, of course, condemn the traditions, deism and despotism of the lodge, if there is the least particle of honesty or meaning in what they say. Besides, Western Congregationalists have generally and repeatedly condemned the lodges, by resolution in their State bodies for the last thirty years.

Now to meet at the call and under the leadership of an unrepentant Mason, who publicly and defiantly glories in his shame, is to go back on their dead and coffined ancestry and on all their church principles and polity, and to disgrace themselves and their denomination with all fair-minded men cognizant of the facts.

It is now too late to inaugurate a general movement on this body by petitions. If there were time, thousands and tens of thousands of Congregational names could be sent up from Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and other States, asking this National Council to purge itself from the loathsome abomination of the lodge. Masons and their jacks cannot and will not be tolerated much longer in the lead of this communion, without leading to a rupture such as threw off two hundred and forty deistic churches under the name of Unitarians in Massachusetts.

We suggest that the readers of the Cynosure who live in and near Detroit, meet instantly, without delay, and procure a presentation of the question in the Council meeting there next month. Dr. Leonard Bacon has given an unequivocal censure and condemnation of Freemasonry in the Chicago Advance, and if a paper in respectful terms and a Christian spirit should be drawn up, respectably signed and given to Dr. Bacon he would surely present it to the Council. He is neither a timid man or inconsistent. He would have gone for abolitionism long before he did but for the iron pressure of slavery on New Haven and Yale College, and but for the no-Bible, no-Sabbath and no-government theories and heresies of Garrison, Wright and others. Let this matter be attended to without delay and the result reported at Dayton, Ohio, October 23d, 24th and 25th, the week following.

Of one hundred and sixty Congregational churches in Ohio, one hundred and fifteen have changed their ministers in the last four years! The Congregational churches in Illinois and States adjacent are little if any better. The fact is there is so much truth out concerning the blasphemy, idolatry, impurity, swindling, and other sins and crimes of Freemasons, that Congregational ministers who keep silence and allow their young men to be sworn and swindled into these lodges, preach with a load of guilt on their consciences, and so are weak. Then the lodges distrust the Congregational churches and commonly take two methods to cripple them, viz., they throw in Masons enough to silence the pulpit, by controlling the subscription list; and, at the same time, give their decided support to the Masonic churches in the vicinity. They praise the Masonic preachers and denominations and quietly fly-blow those churches whose denominations tinctured with the reform, and thus the Congregational clergy are between the upper and nether millstones, viz., the testimony of their State Associations, backed by the consciences of their best members, and that portion of their people who are confederate with or controlled by the Masons and their jacks. Dr. Bacon, who is a far-seeing and sincere Congregationalist, sees this; and though too much governed by worldly policy to faithfully apply the needed remedy, he will allow it to be applied and rejoice in the result when the lodges fall.

THE UNITED BRETHREN: IS IT AN APOLOGY?

Early this month the Methodist Episcopal Conference (Cincinnati) met at Xenia, Ohio. Rev. Dr. H. Garst of the United Brethren, bore the greetings of his Miami Conference to his Methodist brethren and gave as causes of the slower growth of his church the following: "Our early labor in the German language, which was circumscribed; our radical opposition to slavery, excluding slaveholders from our communion; and our radical opposition to secret societies, which was maintained until some of our members thought the church a little more than perpendicular."

We confess some alarm at the above utterance of Dr. Garst, and beg the Telescope editor (Bro. Hott) to explain it or disavow it. Dr. Garst was addressing a conferenc e which was pro-slavery while slaves were owned and sold, and which is now pro-Masonic. It strikes us that Dr. Garst grossly misrepresented his own church in the above apologetic paragraph. If he was speaking for the deceptive and disloyal U. B. Tribune, doubtless the upholders of that false sheet do think the Brethren church guilty of an extravagant opposition to the secret deistical orders which are seeking its subversion or dismemberment But before the sainted Bishop Edwards' monument is completed, is his memory to be branded with the sneer that he was "more than perpendicular" in his calm and holy opposition to the blasphemy and idolatry of the lodge?

If so, will Dr. Garst explain to the readers of the Telescope why he did not deal justly by his own church and honestly by his Masonic Methodist brethren before him, by giving an exactly "perpendicular" testimony against their Masonic oaths, and blasphemies? A calm, Christian and gentlemanly statement of the position of his church was his clear duty to God, his church and his Methodist brethren.

Some thirty-five or more years ago that Methodist Conference was met in Cincinnati, when Rev. Wm. Strickland objected to passing the character of the preacher on the Marietta circuit who had allowed a whole family of Methodists to be sold by a member of his charge without remonstrance or objection. Bishop Soule, afterward of the Church South, was in the chair. He slid the case by; the preacher was not even reproved, and the marketed Methodists are to meet that Conference at the judgment seat of Christ who said, "Inasmuch as ye have done [or not done] to the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

Is the church of the United Brethren in Christ prepared to apologize to such a body for its holy and true testimonies? We are sure they are not.

—We have a strong and striking article on college secret societies, written by J. W. Woods, Esq., of Baraboo, Wis., years since, when he was a member of the University of Michigan. We shall make room for it soon.

—Brethren Stoddard and Hinman have returned from Iowa and expect soon to turn eastward rallying a host toward Dayton during the next four weeks. The violent measures to break up the Marshalltown meetings will make a part of our reform history. The account begun on another page will be completed next week. Past Master Ronayne is yet in Iowa.

—The Presbytery of Westmoreland, Pennsylvania, U. P. church, meeting at Mt. Pleasant, September 4th, introduced a reform discussion which all no doubt felt to be profitable and timely. Says the Christian Instructor:

"The evening session was almost wholly devoted to conference on secret orders. The present opportunity and necessity of speaking out in opposition to them—as subversive to the best interests of: 1st. The family; 2d. The church, and 3d. The state—as seen in the late disturbances in our land. The general subject, in its present phases, was presented by Rev. S. B. McBride; the first special topic was discussed by Rev. James Kelso; the second by Rev. A. I. Young, and the third by Rev. W. H. Vincent. In the genial discussion which followed, remarks were made by Revs. Rankin, Taggart and Stevenson. The conference was largely attended. The discussion was a fair, candid, but earnest and pointed, presentation of the evil tendencies and influences of these associations. The request from the Secretary of the National Christian Association for a delegate to the convention at Dayton, Ohio, October 23d-25th, was taken up, and Rev. A. I. Young appointed principal, and Rev. W. H Vincent alternate."

—The able article on the social and financial questions which have had a recent prominence from Bro. B. T. Roberts of the Earnest Christian, Rochester, will be read with satisfaction by many, while to others the ideas may be new, as advocating principles held by the "Greenback" party. We are glad to have them presented by so able a pen. While there is no doubt that some of the reforms advocated by this party are fundamental and beneficial, we cannot turn aside for the present from our proper work to engage in a general financial discussion.

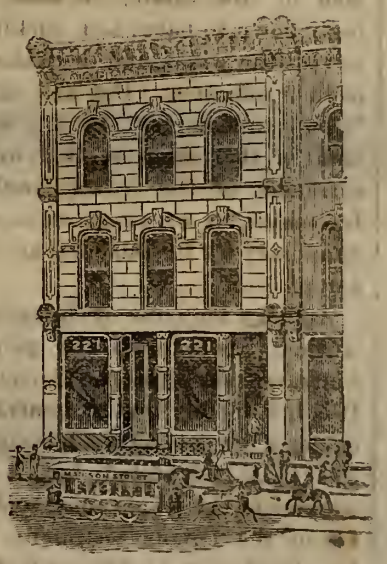
N. C. A. Eyes and Ears at the Exposition.

CHICAGO, Sept., 1877.

"I'm not a Mason," said a farmer as he saw the tracts at our stand, "I'm not a Mason, but I think that any man who takes an oath and breaks it is unworthy of belief." "Would not that depend on the character of the oath?" was the rejoinder. "If the oath was a sin should he continue in it or not repent of it?" and Lev. 5:4 stared him in the face, while he was assured that "Swear not at all," certainly applied to all such oaths. He then got hold of the grange exposure and sought to recover his lost ground, confessing that he was in fact a granger; and, declaring it a very good thing, retreated beyond the range of our guns, toward the unsuspected torpedoes which will destroy him unless he changes his course; and yet that deluded man's father had been an Anti-mason in the Morgan days! A strange blindness has come over many minds. What does it portend? How avoid the consequences?

Three young men just arrived from Cleveland. Had seen and traveled with the Knight Templars—were enthusiastic in their favor—and with some surprise asked if those who exposed Masonry were not afraid of being killed! Poor fledglings! They had not yet been schooled into the virtues of a silent tongue. They were so full that they could not see why sensible looking people like our venerable chief in charge, could have anything against such a good society! The father of one of the young men is a Methodist class-leader, active both in the church and the lodge! The Catholics were the only people opposed to the lodge, and why is it that all the great men of our country are Masons if it is bad? No, Masonry must be good. The responses to these various points were made as they arose. It was a very natural thing for sensible people to oppose Masonry, for it was a delusion and a snare to thousands of young men. It was quite impossible for a man to "serve two masters," and it was as impossible for a Methodist as for a Catholic to support Masonry consistently with his duties to the church. Our great men were not all Masons. Was Daniel Webster or Sumner, the Adamses or Seward, or—"Hold on," they cried, "we don't know about these; but is not President Hayes a Mason? and Grant and all the great men now? and there are Mr.—— and Mr. ——" mentioning some Chicago dealers in factory cotton and other notions, as the Masonic great men of our nation, and then it cropped out that the son of the Methodist class-leader and Mason had already been indoctrinated so far in the delusive influence that he declared he would rather "take his chances with Masons" than believe our doctrine that "There is no other name given under heaven among men whereby we may be saved than that is given which is Christ Jesus." I would say, however, that the young man spoke under a little excitement and might not see the full meaning of his language.

A gentleman seemed interested in our tracts, and staying longer than some others, was politely offered a chair which he accepted, and soon began to ask questions in a style which revealed a purpose. A Mason surely! but no. "I never was a Mason," he said, "but I'm an Odd-fellow." "Oh, then here's a book for twenty-five cents which will show you as much as you have been told for your five dollars." "Five dollars! It has cost me over three hundred dollars. Three hundred, and the benefit I have had is worth it!" It came out that he was a detective. As to Masonry, Why did we meddle with it? Why not advocate our own principles without interfering with others? I charged Masonry with interfering with Christianity—giving the common proofs, and he, promising to call again, bade us good-bye.



Front view of the CARPENTER DONATION, a fine, stone front building No. 221 West Madison St., Chicago, now occupied by the National Christian Association. The fee simple will be given by Mr. Carpenter if other friends raise $30,000 by Apr. 1st 1878, in cash or "good, negotiable, interest-bearing notes" to establish a Publishing House and headquarters of the reform. Send donations to the Treasurer at 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The National Christian Association.

PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.—Pres. H. H. George, D. D., W. Geneva, Ohio

SECRETARIES.—Rev. W. H. French, D. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; H. L. Kellogg, Chicago.

PRESIDENT OF THE CORPORATE BODY.—Rev. J. B. Walker, D. D., Wheaton, Ill.

VICE-PRESIDENT. — Philo Carpenter, Chicago.

DIRECTORS.—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, Archibald Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, H. L. Kellogg, E. Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, J. B. Walker, A. D. Freeman, Thos. Hodge.

RECORDING SEC'Y.—Thos. Hodge, Chicago.

COR. SEC'Y AND GENERAL AGENT.—J. P. Stoddard, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TREASURER.—H L. Kellogg, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The object of this Association is:—

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the Churches of Christ from being depraved; to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform to aid the Association in either of these ways: (1) to establish a Publishing House and Head-quarters in Chicago; (2) to carry on the general work; (3) to maintain the State agents. All donations, (drafts or P. O. orders) should be sent to the Treasurer; general correspondence, etc., direct to the Corresponding Secretary

FORM OF BEQUEST.—I give and bequeath to the National Christian Association, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, the sum of——dollars for the purposes of said Association, and for which the receipt of its Treasurer for the time being shall be a sufficient discharge.

State Auxiliary Associations.

CONNECTICUT.

President, J. A. Conant, Willimantic.
Secretary, D. J. Ellsworth, Windsor
Treasurer, C. T. Collins, Windsor

ILLINOIS

President, S. B. Allen, Westfield.
Rec. Secretary and Treasurer, H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
Lecturers, H. H. Hinman, Wheaton, and J. P. Richards, Greenburg, Hancock Co.

INDIANA.

Pres't, W. P. McFarry, Bloomington.
Rec. Sec'y, H Teter, Westfield.
Treas., Peter Rich, Westfield.
Lecturer and Cor. Sec'y S. L Cook, Albion

IOWA.

President, M. S Drury, Western, Linn Co.
Cor. Sec'y, M. R Drury, " " "
Rec. Sec'y, E. J. Grinnell, Charles City.
Treasurer, Jenn Dorcas, Shiloh.

KANSAS.

President, H. T. Beese, Sterling, Rice Co.
Secretary, J. Dodds, Winchester.
Treasurer, C. A. Sexton, Topeka.

MICHIGAN.

President, H. D. Inman, Coldwater.
Cor. Sec'y, C. B. Remington, Fentonville
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Bruce, Hickory Corners
Treasurer, C. Quick, Weston.
Lecturer and Agent, D. P. Rathbun, Hickory Corners.

Communications for the Agent concerning lectures or the interests of the cause may be addressed to, or in care of, E. W. Bruce.

MISSOURI.

President, N. E. Gardner, Avalon.
Cor. Sec'y, A. D. Thomas, Arbela
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Carpenter.
Treasurer, Wm. Beauchamp, Avalon.
Lecturer, E. G. Cooper, Albany Gentry Co.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

President, J. F Browne, Lewiston, Me.
Secretary, S. C. Kimball, Center Strafford
Treasurer, E. Smith, Center Strafford

NEW YORK.

President, L. N. Stratton, Syracuse.
Secretary, W. A. Sellew, Rochester.
Treasurer, M. Merrick, Syracuse.
Lecturers—L. N Stratton, Syracuse; Woodruff Post, Rochester; A. F. Curry, Almond.

OHIO.

President, H. H. George, W. Geneva.
Treasurer, J. G. Martoon, West Unity
Sec. and Lecturer, Wm. Dillon, Dayton.

PENNSYLVANIA.

President, A. L. Post, Montrose.
Cor. Sec'y, N. Callender, Green Grove.
Treasurer, W. B. Bertels, Wilksbarre.
Rec. Sec'y, and Lecturer, J. W. Raynor, Montrose.

WISCONSIN.

President, E. L. Harris, Delavan.
Secretary, U. D. Lathrop, Millard
Treasurer; Joshua Parish, Delavan

Address of Anti-masonic Lecturers.

General Agent and Lecturer, J. P. STODDARD, Christian Cynosure Office, Chicago.
For STATE LECTURERS State Ass'n list.
Others who will lecture when desired:—
C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
R. B. Taylor, Summerfield, O.
N. Callender, Starrucca, Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
P. Hurless, Polo, Ill.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Mercer Co., Ill.
J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
Josiah McCaskey, Fancy Creek, Wis.
C. F. Hawley, Damascoville, Ohio.
W. M. Givens, Center Point, Ind.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
D. S. Caldwell, Clyde, Sandusky Co.,
A. Mayn, Promise City, Wayne Co., Mich.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
C. F. Wiggins, Angola, Ind
E Ronayne, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.
W. M Love, Baker, St. Clair Co. Mo
A D Freeman, Downers Grove, Ill.
Jas. Springer, Springerton, Ill.
A. D. Carter, Deersville, Harrison Co O.
James McCleery, Monroe, Iowa.
R. Faurot, Kendallville, Ind.
J. W. Barlow, Ridgetown, Ont., C. W.

The Home Circle.

"God the Weaver."

The weaver at his loom is sitting,
Throws his shuttle to and fro:
Foot and treadle,
Hand and pedal,
Upward, downward,
Hither, thither,
How the weaver makes them go!
As the weaver wills they go!

Up and down the web is plying,
And across the woof is flying,
What a rattling!
What a battling!
What a shuffling!
What a scuffling!
As the weaver makes his shuttle,
Hither, thither, scud and scuttle.

See the mystic weaver sitting,
High in heaven—his loom below;
Up and down the treadles go;
Takes for web the world's long ages,
Takes for woof its kings and sages,
Takes the nobles and their pages,
Takes all stations and all stages;
Thrones are bobbins in his shuttle,
Armies make them scud and scuttle;
Web into the woof must flow,
Up and down the nations go,
As the weaver wills they go!

Calmly see the mystic weaver
Throw his shuttle to and fro;
Mid the noise and wild confusion,
Well the weaver seems to know
What each motion,
And commotion,
What each fusion,
And confusion,
In the grand result will show!

Glorious wonder! what a weaving!
To the dull beyond believing,
Such no fabled ages know;
Only faith can see the mystery,
How along the aisle of history—
Where the feet of sages go,
Lovellest to the purest eyes,
Grand the mystic tapet lies:
Soft and smooth and even spreading,
As if made for angels treading:
Tinted circles, touching ever,
Inwrought figures, fading never;
Every figure has its paidings,
Brighter form and softer shadings,
Each illuminated: what a riddle!—
From across that gems the middle.

'Tis a saying—some reject it—
That its light is all reflected;
That the tapets hues are given
By a sun that shines in heaven.
'Tis believed by all believing
That Great God himself is weaving;
Bringing out the world's dark mystery
In the light of Faith and history;
And as web and woof diminish,
Comes the grand and glorious finish,
When begin the golden ages,
Long foretold by seers and sages!

—Selected.

Apologists for Error.

There seems an unusual disposition on the part of many writers and public teachers of our times to put in a sort of plea or apology for error. They have an idea that this is the best way to refute it. Their philosophy is that kindness always wins, and therefore the true way of reclaiming the errorist is to be tolerant of his views. Now if the human heart were always right with God, and truth depended only on the intellect, this theory might be well enough. But unfortunately it leaves out of view some of the most important facts connected with our condition in this world. All experience and history prove that there is no natural love of moral and religious truth; while all Christian moralists and philosophers know that moral and religious truth is far more dependent for its reception on the state of the heart than on the strength of the intellect. The trouble with the natural man is that he does not love the truth of God; and this native bias to evil is perpetually leading him in error.

A single declaration of the Great Teacher is sufficient to overthrow this whole theory of attracting men to virtue and a holy life by concession to their foibles, lowering the claims of the Divine law, and apologizing for their errors. "This is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light because their deeds were evil. For every one that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light lest his deeds should be reproved. But he that doeth truth cometh to the light that his deeds may be made manifest that they are wrought in God." If this indictment, by Him who knew better than all others what was in man, be true, what are we to think of those Christian writers and teachers, whose policy is to flatter and caress the world, tolerant of its errors, half-sympathizing with its sins, applauding its false philosophy, and joining in the hero-worship of its great scientific or political leaders.

Christianity is of celestial birth, and has a sublime and glorious mission to accomplish on earth. She can well afford to condescend to men of low estate, to bend lovingly down to babes and sucklings; to visit the widow and the fatherless in their affliction. But she cannot "stoop to conquer" by any abatement of the claims of God, by any surrender of the crown jewels of Immanuel, by any compromise with, or apology for fundamental and dangerous error.

Apology for error is betrayal of truth. It is in direct and palpable contravention of all the Scriptures. It is not merely that it contradicts one or a few passages of Scripture, like that just stated; but it runs counter to the whole spirit and letter of the Divine testimony, from the beginning to the end of the Bible. Where has God ever apologized for error, or unbelief? Where has the loving, and even weeping Saviour of sinners ever uttered one syllable of apology for their errors and their unbelief? If there is one sin which above all others he singles out for special reproof and condemnation, it is the sin of unbelief.

"And when he the Comforter is come, he shall reprove the world of sin because they believe not on me."

To apologize for error is to connive at sin. Erroneous views of revealed truth, connected as they for the most part are, with the pride of reason and the opposition of an unbelieving heart, are of the nature of sin. They spring from sin as their root, and they bear the fruits of sin in their results. No doctrine is more clearly taught by our Saviour, and by all the sacred writers than this. All sinful actions, all outward transgressions of the law, all the worst forms of vice and crime flow forth from a wicked heart of unbelief, as from a bitter fountain. As all truth is unto goodness, and must be held in the firm grasp of faith, in order that the man of God may be perfect and thoroughly furnished unto all good works, so any and every departure from the truth as God has revealed it, is of the nature of transgression, and will, sooner or later, lead to still greater departures and transgressions. Hence the importance of holding fast the truth, and contending earnestly for every jot and tittle of it. No man is safe while departing from the truth. There is danger in holding the truth in uprighteousness and living without a holy life corresponding to the truth. But while this is true, will any man dare to say there is no danger in departing from the truth, without which there can be no holy life? What then is apology for error but apology for sin?

But again to apologize for error does no good. All such concessions and compromises end in injury, both to truth and godliness. All such defences of Christianity are worthless. The throwing down of the barriers against sin, and the opening of the gates for error and unbelief only lets the enemy in. Error and unbelief are not satisfied in that way. Any parley with them, any concession to their demands, only encourages and emboldens to further demands and still larger encroachments. Critical and scientific unbelief is never satisfied short of an unconditional surrender of the whole citadel of Christianity.

This is strikingly illustrated through all the history of modern rationalism. Every deep thinker in that line of discovery has always proved to be a man of progress. There is no standing still. Each new discovery that the old beliefs of the past are in their opinion without foundation, only provokes to further conquests. Modern rationalism from Spinoza down to Tyndall has been a horse leech which has never ceased to cry—Give, give. And what have those timid defenders and apologists of Christianity ever gained by all their concessions to the clamor, except contempt for their pains in patching up a truce. And after all former concessions, are they ready now to yield to the last demand and concede that even atheism is entirely consistent with Christianity?—Prof. Halsey in the Interior.

A man named George Martin, who keeps a tavern on Washington street, Sherbrooke, recently drove to a farm he owns in the vicinity, taking with him a bottle of whisky, and a son aged under six years. After treating his hands he left the child in the barn, with the remains of the whisky—supposed to have been about a pint. On his return the whisky bottle was empty, and the poor boy lay stupidly drunk and insensible upon the barn floor. In spite of everything that could be done, and without one interval of consciousness, the poor child died in a little over twenty-four hours, with all the distinctive symptoms of alcohol poisoning.—Montreal Witness.

Triumph of Plastic Surgery.

Diffenbach, of Berlin, was the advanced guard of a famous band of surgeons that are now astonishing the world with their triumphs in plastic surgery—for he really deserves the credit of having revived the wonderful art of restoring lost noses and other organs, almost as good as new. He was so full of his art that he was ever on the qui vive for a subject; and we remember well one day of being told that the great master had noticed a lady in society the evening before who wore a high ruffled collar around her neck, evidently to hide deformity. He requested a private interview with her, saw what is supposed to be a hopeless case, obtained her consent to an operation, and in a few weeks she graced the same circles with a neck as beautiful as that of any lady there.

The fame of this case spread abroad so that in a short time a Polish countess came to him with a head that was little more than a skeleton skull, the fleshy parts having been almost entirely eaten away by scrofula. His skillful hand first gave her a nose and forehead, then cheeks, palate, and lips, and, finally, forsooth, even eyelids; so that she was soon made happy in the ability to appear in society. Nose-making, or rhinoplasty, soon became the furore; and Graefe and Diffenbach restored thousands of these lost organs, so much missed on the human face divine. Diffenbach became the hero of peace, but was carried to an early grave, accompanied, literally, by mourning thousands.

His bold operations, however, inspired others all over Europe, and the triumphs of plastic surgery, as now witnessed in the medical schools and hospitals of the continent, are among the most surprising attainments of modern science. It was long a principle of this art that the parts to be transplanted for the formation of defective organs must not be totally separated from the original attachment; a little link of skin must be preserved in order to keep up the stream of nourishment and nervous energy. But Reverdin of the French Academy, showed a few years ago that this fear is groundless. He would take pieces of skin from distant parts of the body, and even from other bodies, and lay them upon wounds and sores where they would soon form an attachment and become part of the body. He was like the gardener inserting a noble graft on a wild stock. This discovery of the French physician has now become a settled fact, and is daily practiced in the hospitals, causing but little pain in procuring the new graft, and generally none at all to part to which it is applied.

The operator seizes with a pair of pinchers a little fold of loose healthy skin, cuts it off so that the nervous and vascular parts are laid bare and transfers it thus to the defective spot, where he would form new life. It is then fastened securely down with strips of adhesive plaster, and the operation is finished. In about eight or twelve hours the currents of blood begin to commingle, and in twenty-hours the transplanted part has become a portion of the original organism. In another twenty-four hours the outlines of the inlaid section begin to throw out shoots, with the intent to form a seam connection with the surrounding parts. In this way defective surfaces of large extent can be covered by small sections of skin, which will soon join by shoots and fully cover the diseased surface. In this way, also, ulcers on the legs, of considerable size, and of years' standing, have been cured in a few months.

Lesser, of Griefswald, recently took a layer of skin from a sailor and with it covered a large exposed carbuncle on the neck of an old man; others have takeu skin from recently amputated limbs, while Nussbaum actually used pieces takfrom a corpse that had been dead some six or eight hours. Sections of skin have been taken from a negro and ingrafted on white flesh, and not only soon healed but gradually lost their dark color.

But the climax is capped by the experiment of Debreuil, who has succeeded in turning the skin of animals into that of the human subject. He took two sections from the body of a guinea-pig, and placed one on his foot and the other on the cheek of an old woman, and with such success that they grew fast in a little while; but the external skin and the hair gradually peeled off and left a clean and healthy surface. Even oculists have lately begun to use this process for the eyes, taking parts from the eye of the rabbit and transferring them to the human eye. Some years ago a Vienna oculist undertook to cure the opacity of the cornea, which totally intercepts sight, by removing it and inserting that of an animal. This was unsucessful in the case of the human subject. But he succeeded in transplanting the cornea from the eye of one rabbit to that of another, and into that of a cat. This success, however, was only transient as they became dim in a few weeks. But they are still continuing their experiments and will perhaps, finally succeed in giving to men the eyes of animals when their own fail.

One of them claims very satisfactory results in using the cornea of the young pig for the human eye, while another does better with that of the sheep. But the trouble with all is the fact that the operation is not lasting. Nussbaum of Munich, is actually trying to insert a glass lens in place of the cornea; and he succeeded in the case of a rabbit in having the parts heal around it. But so far the goal is not attained, though a great step is gained in proving that foreign parts, even those of the lower animals, can be ingrafted into the human flesh.—Prof. Wells in New York Christian Advocate.

"God is as usefully served by repose," wrote Luther to Melancthon, "and indeed man never serves him better than by keeping himself tranquil. It is for this reason God willed that the Sabbath should be so strictly observed."

Children's Corner.

Duty of Early Piety.

Go thou in life's fair morning,
Go in the bloom of youth,
And buy, for thy adorning,
The precious pearl of truth.
Secure this heavenly treasure,
And bind it on thy heart;
And let not worldly pleasure
E'er cause it to depart.

Go, where the day-star shineth;
Go, where thy heart is light;
Go, ere thy strength declineth,
While every sense is bright.
Sell all thou hast and buy it;
'Tis worth all earthly things—
Rubies, and gold, and diamonds,
Sceptres, and crowns of kings.

Go, ere the clouds of sorrow
Steal o'er the bloom of youth;
Defer not till to-morrow—
Go now and buy the truth.
Go seek thy Great Creator,
Learn early to be wise;
Go, place upon his altar
A morning sacrifice!

A Beautiful Allegory.

Once on a time a little leaf was heard to sigh and cry, as leaves often do when a gentle wind is about. And the twig said:

"What is the matter, little leaf?"

"The wind," said the leaf, "just told me that one day it would pull me off, and throw me to the ground to die."

The twig told it to the branch and the branch told it to the tree.

And when the tree heard it, it rustled all over, and sent word back to the leaf:

"Do not be afraid; hold on tightly and you shall not go off till you want to."

And so the leaf stopped sighing, and went on singing and rustling. And so it grew all summer long till October. And when the bright days of autumn came, the leaf saw all the leaves around becoming very beautiful. Some were yellow, and some were striped with colors. Then it asked the tree what it meant. And the tree said:

"All these leaves are getting ready to fly away, and they have put on these colors because of their joy."

Then the little leaf began to want to go, and grew very beautiful in thinking of it. And when it was very gay in colors, it saw that the branches of the tree had no colors in them, and so the leaf said:

"O, branch why are you lead-colored and we golden?"

"We must keep on our work clothes," said the tree, "for our work is not yet done; but your clothes are for a holiday, because your task is over."

Just then a little puff of wind came and the leaf let go without thinking of it, and the wind took it up and turned it over, and then let it fall gently down under the edge of a fence, among hundreds of other leaves, and it never waked up to tell us what it dreamed about.

A Curious Bird Story.

L. Page and son have been cutting wood on Albright's place in the foothills near San Jose. They had noticed for several days that a number of birds remained constantly upon a tree near them, some going and coming from time to time. Upon cutting down the tree they discovered a limb with a hollow cavity, some two feet in length and three or four inches in diameter, in which were two full-grown birds of some goodly-sized species. There was a small aperture through which the birds were supplied with food from their mates. The limb was cut and the birds liberated. They were neither of them able to fly, having evidently never been out of their imprisonment. How they came inside is a question. It is more than probable that the mother bird was small, and though able to make her nest in the hollow of the tree and rear her young could not extricate them, and they did not gain strength to help themselves until the hollow had so closed that escape was impossible. Those who examined the birds think they are about two years old. They have been fed from their birth by their bird fellows through the aperture in the limb of the tree. A nobler instance of devotion even the human family never exhibited.—San Jose Mercury.

A Bear in School.

Many years ago a bear was caught by a stout lad near the borders of Lake Winnipisogee, in New Hampshire, carried it into town and, after proper drilling, became the playfellow of the boys of the village, and often accompanied them to the school house.

After passing a few months in civilized society, he made his escape to the woods, and after a few years was almost forgotten. The school house meantime had fallen from the school-mistress's hands; and instead of large boys learning to read and cipher, small boys and girls were taught in the same place, knitting and spelling. One winter's day, after a mild fall of snow, the door had been left open by some urchin's going out, when, to the unspeakable horror of the spectacled dame and her fourscore hopeful scholars, an enormous bear walked in, in the most familiar manner in the world and took a seat by the fire.

Huddling over their benches as fast as they could, the children crowded about their school-mistress, who had fled to the fartherest corner of the room; and there stood crying and pushing to escape the horrors of being eaten first. The bear sat snuffing and warming himself by the fire, however, showing great signs of satisfaction by putting off his meal until he had warmed himself thoroughly.

The screams of the children continued, but the school-house was far from any other habitation, and the bear did not seem at all embarrassed by the outcry. After sitting and turning himself about for sometime, Bruin got up on his hind legs and shoving to the door, began to take down one by one, the hats, bonnets and satchels that hung on several rows of pegs behind it. His memory had not deceived him, for they contained as of old, the children's dinners, and he had arrived before the holidays.

Having satisfied himself with their cheese, bread, pies, doughnuts and apples, Bruin smelt at the mistress' desk, but finding it locked, gave himself a shake of resignation, opened the door and disappeared. The alarm was given and the amiable creature pursued and killed, very much to the regret of the townspeople, when it was discovered by some marks on his body that it was their old friend and playfellow.

The Sabbath School.

LESSON XXXIX.—Sept. 30, 1877. QUARTERLY REVIEW.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"For whatsoever ye do, do it heartily, as to the Lord, and not unto men."—Col. 3: 23.

TOPIC.—The Word carried to the Gentiles.

HOME READINGS.

M.	Acts 13: 1-13	Paul in Cyprus.
	Acts 13: 26-41	Paul at Antioch.
T.	Acts 13: 42-52	Turning to the Gentiles.
	Acts 14: 8-21	Paul at Lystra.
W.	Acts 15: 22-31	The Yoke Broken.
	Acts 16: 1-15	Paul sent to Macedonia.
Th.	Acts 16: 22-34	Paul and Silas in Prison.
	Acts 17: 1-4	Thessalonians & Bereans.
F.	Acts 17: 22-34	Paul at Athens.
	Acts 18: 1	Paul at Corinth.
S.	Acts 19: 1-12	Paul at Ephesus.
	Acts 19: 17-28	Power of the Word.
S.	Acts 20: 17-31	Paul at Miletus.

International Series of Bible Lessons for 1878.

STUDIES ABOUT THE KINGDOM OF JUDAH.

FIRST QUARTER.

Jan.	6.	Rehoboam, First King of Judah. 2 Chron. xii. 1-12.
"	13.	Asa Faithful to his God. 2 Chron xiv. 1-11.
"	20.	The Covenant Renewed. 2 Chron. xv. 8-15.
"	27.	Jehoshaphat's Prosperity. 2 Chron. xvii. 1-10.
Feb.	3.	Jehoshaphat Reproved. 2 Chron. xix. 1-9.
"	10.	Jehoshaphat Helped of God. 2 Chron. xx. 14-22.
"	17.	Joash Repairing the Temple. 2 Chron. xxiv 4-13.
"	24.	Uzziah's Pride Punished. 2 Chron xxvi 16-23.
Mar.	3.	Ahaz's Persistent Wickedness. 2 Chron. xxviii 19-27.
"	10.	Hezekiah's Good Reign. 2 Chron. xxix 1-11.
"	17.	Hezekiah and the Assyrians.. 2 Chron. xxxii 9-21.
"	24.	Manasseh brought to Repentance. 2 Chron. xxxiii 9-16.
"	31	Review of the Lessons for the Quarter; or a Missionary, a Temperance, or other Lesson selected by the school.

SECOND QUARTER.

Apr.	7.	Josiah's Early Piety. 2 Chron xxxiv 1-8.
"	14.	The Scriptures Found and Searched. 2 Chron. xxxiv 14-22.
"	21.	Jeremiah in Prison. Jer. xxxii 1-9.
"	28.	The Rechabites, Jer. xxxv 12-19.
May	5.	The Captivity of Judah. Jer. lii 1-11.
"	12.	The Captives in Babylon. Dan. i 8-17.
"	19.	Nebuchadnezzar's Dream. Dan. ii 36-46.
"	26.	The Fiery Furnace. Dan. iii 21-27.
June	2.	The Handwriting on the Wall. Dan. v. 22-31.
"	9.	Daniel in the Lion's Den. Dan. vi 14, 23.
"	16	Messiah's Kingdom. Dan. vii 9-14.
"	23.	The Decree of Cyrus. 2 Chron. xxxvi 22-23.
"	30.	Review of the Lessons for the Quarter; or a Missionary, a Temperance, or other Lesson, selected by the school.

STUDIES IN THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO LUKE.

THIRD QUARTER.

July	7.	Birth of Christ the Lord. Luke ii 8-20
"	14.	The Childhood of Jesus. Luke ii 40-52
"	21.	Ministry of John the Baptist. Luke iii 15-22.
"	28.	Jesus at Nazareth. Luke iv 16-30
Aug.	4.	The Draught of Fishes. Luke v 1-11
"	11.	The Centurion's Faith. Luke vii 1-10
"	18.	The Widow of Nain. Luke vii 11-17
"	25.	The Friend of Sinners. Luke vii 40-50
Sept.	1.	Return of the Seventy. Luke x 17-24
"	8.	The Good Samaritan. Luke x 30-37
"	15.	Importunity in Prayer. Luke xi 5-13
"	22.	Warning against Covetousness. Luke xii 13-23
"	29.	Review of the Lessons for the Quarter; or a Missionary, a Temperance, or other Lesson, selected by the school.

FOURTH QUARTER.

Oct.	6.	Warning against Formalism. Luke xiii 22-30
"	13.	The Gospel Feast. Luke xiv 15-24
"	20.	The Prodigal Son. Luke xv 11-24
"	27.	The Rich Man and Lazarus. Luke xvi 19-31.
Nov.	3.	The Ten Lepers. Luke xvii 11-19
"	10.	Whom the Lord Receives. Luke xviii 9-17.
"	17.	Zaccheus, the Publican. Luke xix 1-10.
"	24.	Judaism Overthrown. Luke xxi 8-24.
Dec.	1.	The Lord's Supper. Luke xxii 10-23.
"	8.	The Cross. Luke xxiii 33-46.
"	15.	The Walk to Emmaus. Luke xxiv 13-31.
"	22.	The Saviour's Last Words. Luke xxiv 44-53.
"	29.	Review of the Lessons for the Quarter; or a Missionary, a Temperance, or other Lesson, selected by the school.

Religious Intelligence.

—Prof. Howard Miller of Pennsylvania is making a census of the Dunker or Brethren church. He estimates the number of members to be about 45,000 in this country.

—The Centenary Methodist church has expressed its desire for the pastoral services of Dr. Thomas, now of Aurora, whose Masonry and very liberal views in religion are well known.

—Of the American population of San Francisco, numbering about 100,000, only 15,000 it is stated, attend public worship This accounts perhaps for much of the anti-Chinese spirit exhibited there

—President Clark, of the Amherst Agricultural College in Massachusetts, who has just returned from Japan, delivered an address a few nights ago in which he said that the Japanese will be great auxiliaries of mission work in China, because they are ready to embrace Christianity and can speak the Chinese language.

—There has been a most remarkable display of hostility of late in Spezia, in Spain, from the priestly party to the circulation of the Word of God. The earnest preacher, who conducted the services in honor of Mary, closed the series of his discourses by an Auto da fe in the court of the vestry of the Spezia Cathedral. There were invited the most faithful of the Paolotti, and there were afresh enacted all the ceremonies that Torquemada used in the times of the Inquisition; and, unable to burn men, they sought to satisfy their earnest desires by burning all the copies of the Wofd of God they could gather up in the city and in the villages near Spezia. Other good works were added to make the fire more fierce and the warning to Protestants the greater. It is said that as the flames arose the cry was heard, "Burn the Protestants!' The Gospel is making itself to be felt and the large distribution of Testaments and religious tracts in Spezia has doubtless greatly contributed to this evidence of violent opposition.—Interior.

News of the Week.

—The courts have appointed a receiver for the broken down State Savings Institution. Spencer, the late President has been tracked to Glasgow.

—Senator Morton was again very low last week, but is getting stronger again. He was visited by President Hayes on Thursday.

—Gov. Wade Hampton of South Carolina, attended the Rockford, Ill., fair last week and made an address. This was the fair that invited Jeff. Davis a year or two ago.

—Indian Inspector Vandever telegraphs Sept. 13 from Messilla, New Mexico, to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs as follows: "The Warm Spring Indians left their reservation and have murdered thirteen persons. Jeffords, former agent of the Chirleahuas, stirred them up to insubordination. He can be convicted on Indian testimony of furnishing whiskey to the Indians."

—Fung Pak, a prominent Chinese merchant, has gone to Hong Kong to carry out the request made by Colonel Bee, and endorsed by the Chinese companies, to visit the districts from whence his people emigrate for California for the purpose of checking or limiting any further immigration.

—A terrible disaster in the English Channel occurred last week. The British ship Avalanche, Captain Williams, from London, Sept. 4, for New Zealand, came in collision with the British ship Forest, Captain Lockhart, from London, for New York, off Portland, and both vessels foundered. The Forest was in ballast and had a crew numbering twenty one. Captain Lockhart, chief mate, and seven others were saved. The Avalanche had a crew of thirty-two and fifty passengers. The third officer and two seamen only were saved. Over 100 lives were lost by this disaster.

—The battles before Plevna last week were severe and bloody. The Turks have not been driven from their strong positions though the Russians have attacked in force, some 50,000 or 60,000 engaged on each side. The Russians report a loss of 300 officers and 12,500 men, 3,000 of whom were killed in the attacks on Plevna. The Turks have fought under cover and at less sacrifice of life, though some important positions have been taken from them. At Lovatz the Russians buried 2,200 dead Turks.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS ILLUSTRATED.*

BY A PAST CHANCELLOR. A Full Illustrated Exposition of the Three Ranks of the order with the addition of the Amended, Perfected and Amplified Third Rank.

The Lodge Room, Signs, Countersigns, Grips, etc., are shown by Engravings.

Copyright 1877 By Ezra A. Cook & Co.,

*This work is now IN PRESS and will be issued October 1st.

Price 25cts. each. $2 00 per doz. Post Paid. By Express per 100 $10 00-

One half Doz. at Doz. rates, 25 at 100 Rates.

[CONTINUED.]

Master at Arms.—"Chancellor Commander, your orders have been obeyed."

Chancellor Commander (two raps).—"Officers, members and visitors of —— Lodge, No. —, Knights of Pythias, permit me to introduce to you Brother Knight John Brown, who has been regularly initiated in the First, Initiatory or Page, proved in the Second, Armorial or Esquire's, and fully charged in the Third, Chivalric or Knight's Rank of this Order, in the usual ritualistic and ceremonial for, (examined in accordance with the law—should such be the case,) and enrolled as a member of —— Lodge, No. —, Knights of Pythias.

"Brethren, join with me in extending a hearty, sincere and chivalric welcome to our Brother Knight."

Chancellor Commander (one rap)—'Lodge will be at ease until the sound of the gavel at the Chancellor Commander's station."

[All gather around and shake hands.]

OFFICIAL VISITATIONS.

FORM OF CEREMONIALS TO BE USED IN SUPREME OR GRAND OFFICIAL VISITATIONS.

The Supreme or Grand Officer, being accompanied by (some one qualified to act as) the Supreme or Grand Guide enter the ante room in the regular way, when, after clothing themselves in the proper regalia or insignia of their rank, the Guide goes to the inner door and works his way into the Lodge in the ordinary manner, when, after the sign is taken up by the Chancellor Commander, or presiding officer, the Guide, while standing at the Altar, says:

Supreme Guide.—"Chancellor Commander, as the Supreme (or Grand, as the case may be) Guide, I am here to inform you that the Supreme (or Graud)—give the rank of the officer—is in waiting in the ante room, preparatory to making an official visitation to this Lodge.* You will therefore have your Lodge in readiness and instructed to give him the proper honors due his office when entering the Lodge."

Chancellor Commander (standing).—"Supreme (or Grand) Guide, in the name of this Lodge I thank you for your courteous notification, and will see that the proper honors are given."

The Guide then gives the countersign and retires. When the Lodge is ready the Guide is notified by the Guide of the Lodge, who comes out for that purpose and then goes in again. The Guide and Officer go to the inner door and give the proper alarm.

Inner Guard (raises the wicket and says in a loud voice).—"Who comes here?"

Guide.—"The Supreme (or Grand) Guide, accompanied by the (naming the officer), in his official capacity for visitation."

The Inner Guard closes the wicket and reports it to the Vice Chancellor; the Vice Chancellor, rising, reports it to the Chancellor Commander.

Chancellor Commander.—"It is my order as Chancellor Commander, that you admit them without further challenge."

Vice Chancellor (to Inner Guard).—"Brother Inner Guard, it is the order of the Chancellor Commander that you admit them without further challenge."

(Inner Guard opens the door and they enter.)

Chancellor Commander (two raps).—"Brethren, assist me in giving the Grand (or Supreme) honors."

All do so, the Guide and Officer going to the Altar, give the proper sign of the rank, which is responded to by the Chancellor Commander, when the Guide escorts the Visiting Officer to the Chancellor Commander's station, at his right hand; the Chancellor Commander hands the Officer the gauntlet—or gavel of authority, who takes it and orders "Recover," when the honors are dropped—or swords brought to a carry—and if armed, says, "Return swords," then gives three raps, when all are seated, the Supreme or Grand Guide in a chair at the right of the Lodge Master at Arms, when the object of the visit is explained and gone into. When ready to retire, he delivers the gavel to the Chancellor Commander, who accepts, (and having been informed of their intention of retiring,) gives two raps and says:

Chancellor Commander.—"Brethren, assist me in giving the Supreme (or Grand) honors," and the Supreme or Grand Officer, accompanied by his Guide, goes to the Altar—while the honors are being given, gives countersign and retires, when the Chancellor Commander orders, "Recover!" "return swords!" and seats the Lodge in the usual manner.

*If the Visiting Officer is a detailed one, his Guide will, at this point, read his commission as such, and in case he comes without a Guide, he may call into service any Past officer or competent member to act as such for him.

AMPLIFIED THIRD RANK CONCLUDED.

PUBLISHERS' PREFACE.

"At the devil's booth are all things sold;
Each ounce of dross costs its ounce of gold.
For a cap and bells our lives we pay,
Bubbles we earn with a whole soul's tasking,
'Tis heaven alone that is given away;
'Tis only God may be had for the asking."

LOWELL.

Little did we think, when reading in youth, of the follies, false methods and narrow views of the Knighthood of the "Dark Ages" so truthfully caricatured in the History of Don Quixote; mentally contrasting them with Christian civilization founded on the Holy Bible; that in our time in our own land an army of Knights more foolish, blind and guilty than those burlesqued by Don Quixote would voluntarily enroll their names and parade the streets of our cities.

Like Masonry and Odd Fellowship, this order makes use of the Bible but like the former it puts the implements of the order on top of the Bible (the first rank excepted.) The fact that the very name "Book of Law" is the term which the great apostle of Masonry, Albert G. Mackey applies to the sacred book on the altar which he says: "is that volume which by the religion of the country is believed to contain the revealed will of the Grand Architect of the universe," (Mackey's Jurisprudence p. 33,) gives good reason for the conclusion that this term was chosen in order that the Bible may be conveniently replaced by any other sacred book when the order is established in heathen or Mohamedan countries.

HISTORICAL SKETCH OF THE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

This secret order which now claims a membership of 100,000 and whose supreme council of the world "composed only of Officers and Ex-Officers of Grand Lodges, which Aug. 14th, 1877, met in Cleveland, Ohio, about 2,000 strong, had its origin in the fertile brain of an ambitious adventurer by the name of J. H. Rathbone. As of the Grange, Washington, D. C., was its birth place and Washington Lodge No. 1, was formally organized Feb. 23d, 1864, though a preliminary meeting for the purpose was held the 19th, four days before. The ritual prepared previously by J. H. Rathbone, was adopted and a committee was appointed to prepare an addition thereto with Rathbone as Chairman. In four days more they met again adopted the additional ritual and appointed a committee to prepare still more ritual which with some revisions formed the three Ranks of the order. March 24th, steps were taken to organize a Grand Lodge, and April 8th, the Grand Lodge of the District of Columbia was organized and they were ready to sell Secrets at wholesale and retail.

Whether the founder of the order, J. H. Rathbone, had expected to have the monopoly of the business of selling the Secrets of the order or not he seems to have been displeased at the formation or perhaps the management of the Grand Lodge, for he resigned his office as Venerable Patriarch and even his membership in the order, but two weeks afterwards. He is soon heard of as again revising the ritual of the order.

Within four months after the organization of Washington Lodge No. 1, two other lodges had been started there and one in Alexandria, Va.

Within six months from the formation of the "Mother Lodge" it with all but one of the children were dead and the Grand Lodge also. In 1866 the members of Franklin Lodge No. 2, Washington D. C., the only surviving lodge started another lodge in the city and the Grand Lodge was also, resusitated soon after. July 1867 the total membership was still but 694, but in three months increased to 1330, and March 10th the District of Columbia Grand Lodge issued charters for the Grand Lodges of Maryland and New Jersey.

August 11th, 1868 the Supreme Grand Lodge of the world was organized at Washington D. C., and at its first session afterwards at Richmond, Va., March 9th, 1869 the membership was reported at over 35,000 with nearly 200 lodges, eight Grand Lodges and an income of $194,573,25, and the year following had increased to 52,000 members, 465 lodges and sixteen Grand Lodges, the total receipt being $541,219,34, at the close of the year 1870 the membership is reported at 84,000.

With this apparent prosperity there had been some fierce wrangling, quite at variance with the great friendship the order professes to inculcate. Even the Civil Courts were several times appealed to, to decide questions of disputed authority and 1870 found two Grand Lodges in both Maryland and New Jersey and a bitter war in the Supreme Lodge of the World, on the question of Rathbone's new rank and a new Obligation ordered by the Supreme Lodge to be administered to every member of the order, which thousands refused to take.

For several years the order has been used by political tricksters nine-tenths of them high Masons to such an extent as to thoroughly disgust its most intelligent members in many localities and its managers are forced to admit a net loss of 5,942 during the past year, while it is undoubtedly true that a very large number still reported as members will never again enter their "Castle Halls."

That this little volume may be blessed of God in the utter demolition of this dark order is the hope and prayer of

The Publishers.

NOTE:—In the book the "remarks" on each rank will follow the rank in its appropiate place.

REMARKS ON FIRST RANK.

"Man-like it is to fall into sin,
Fiend-like it is to dwell therein."

With charity we suppose that the great multitude of the Knights of Pythias are neither wilfully ignorant nor willing to remain guilty.

Will these members of the order, as well as others who read this revelation, carefully compare it with the "Book of Law, the Holy Bible," and if the two are antagonistic, withhold their sympathy and financial and moral support from the order of the Knights of Pythias, as an institution containing germs whose development will prove fatal to the privileges which they most highly prize.

The Knights have one excellent principle, if they mean what they say, viz: the adoption of the Holy Bible as their book of law.

Compare the practices of this order with the precepts of the Bible. "To the law and to the testimony; if they speak not according to this word it is because there is no light in them." Isaiah 8: 20.

"If therefore the light that is in thee be darkness, how great is that darkness." Luke 6: 23.

The lodge members in preparing to receive a candidate for initiation in the first rank array themselves in Masks and Black Robes. The Book of Law says, "provide things honest in the sight of all men." Romans 12: 17.

Is not such a preparation contrary to the "simplicity and godly sincerity" in which Paul rejoiced? 2 Cor. 1: 12, and from which he feared Christians would be led away by Satan? "But I fear, lest by any means, as the serpent beguiled Eve through his subtilty, so your minds should be corrupted from the simplicity that is in Christ." See. 2 Cor. 11: 3.

These remarks apply with equal force to the manner in which the candidate is introduced.

His blindfolded eyes; his white robe; the raps at the lodge room door; the questions and answers following; the slow and solemn parade about the lodge room, all show that it is contrary to the honest yea, yea and nay, nay inculcated by God's word.

But the most fundamental and fatal feature of the order, stamping it an enemy of mankind, by ignoring Christ, may be found in embryo in this question asked in the early part of the initiation. "Do you believe in the existence of a Supreme Being?"

"He that honoureth not the Son, honoureth not the Father which hath sent Him." John 5: 23.

Thus early in their ritual the Knights favorably recognize a man-devised Deism, and ignore Christ who is "the power of God and the wisdom of God." 1 Cor. 1: 24.

This order has a form of godliness but denies the power thereof. (see also prayers on opening and closing the lodge.) The Book of Law commands:—"From such turn away." 2 Tim 3: 5.

The friendship inculcated by this order will be noticed at the close of the second rank.

The obligations of the three ranks partake of one spirit and will be noticed at the close of the amplified third rank.

REMARKS ON SECOND RANK.

Towards the close of the first rank the Chancellor Commander remarks: Friendship has for ages been looked upon as the Corner Stone of every Secret Society.

The editor of the Peoria Transcript, a shrewd business man, said of Masonry: "It is organized selfishness." Such we believe to be the opinion of this order, not only of honest persons outside of the Knights of Pythias but also of its own members.

What a narrow friendship is that which restricts its professed benefits to a favored few!

Not only are all women excluded from the order but at the session of the "Supreme Lodge of the World" at Richmond, Va., commencing March 9th, 1869 the application for a charter by a body of colored citizens of Philadelphia, "praying that they might be permitted to have and enjoy the great privileges and benefits of the Knights of Pythias," was refused."

"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Matt 22: 39; is the rule of the Holy Scriptures. Christ gave His best and greatest blessings to "whosoever" would receive them. Like His heart all hearts should burn with a tender friendship for every member of the human family, and as we "have opportunity" we should, like the good-Samaritan, help the needy wherever found.

Knights of Pythias offer their friendship to a select few. It is a spurious imitation of true friendship more fatal to the best interests of mankind than counterfeit money is to the interests of honorable commercial transactions.

The signs and grips which a candidate receives at the close of his obligation (and which he must conceal even from those nearest and dearest to him, if not members of the order) are put by the Bible into very bad company.

"A naughty person, a wicked man walketh with a froward mouth. He winketh with his eyes, he speaketh with his feet, he teacheth with his fingers.

Frowardness is in his heart, he deviseth mischief continually; he soweth discord." Prov. 6: 12-14.

Life is too short, too solemn to be spent in counterfeiting anything valuable. Let us turn to Christ and with the grace which he gives to those who ask, exemplify by our own lives, and strengthen in every human being that we can influence, Christian or Bible friendship.

"Caution" is unquestionably needful and wise and were it properly exercised the Knights of Pythias and other secret orders would find a far smaller number who would submit to their wretched mummeries and tricks.

But who can fail to see that not a wise caution but suspicion and distrust is really what is taught by the low mean trick of a systematic effort of a body of men to confuse another, and having succeeded in doing so to jerk him from his chair to the floor, blow the desk at which he is seated in pieces and then reproach him with violating his obligation and vote to suspend him perpetually from membership. Could they possibly take a better method to convince the initiate that their pretended friendship is a sham and he must be on a sharp lookout for other tricks?

REMARKS ON THIRD RANK

Of the injurious effects produced by the grand titles used by the order of Knights, we give the result of the opinion of the citizens of the United States as expressed in their National Constitution. Sec. 9: paragraph 7.

"No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States; and no person holding any office of profit or trust under them, shall without the consent of Congress, accept of any present, emolument, office or title of any kind whatever, from any King, Prince or foreign State."

The offensive boasting of Bravery taught in the third degree must be repugnant to every truly brave and well balanced mind.

"Though I were perfect yet would I not know my Soul." Job 9;21

"Where is boasting then? It is excluded." Rom. 3; 27.

In the last days when perilous times come men shall be "boasters" * * * See 2 Tim. 3: 1, 2.

The bravery test in the third degree, reminds us of a story illustrating the estimate placed on such unnecessary tests of courage by a genuine Knight of the olden time.

He with his lady love were seated together witnessing a fight of furious, hungry wild beasts in the arena below. The lady's glove fell into the arena. Said she, if you are loving and brave, bring me my glove. His pride led him to show his courage by entering the fearful arena and recovering the glove amidst shouts of applause from the crowds of shallow spectators ranged around. But the generous impulses of his soul were so severely shocked by the criminal wickedness and want of sensibility of a request to jeopardize his life for the recovery of a glove that he was constrained to show his scorn for such a spirit by throwing the glove into the lady's face and leaving her forever.

The deceit connected with the bravery test aggravates rather than lessens the contemptible nature of the spike farce in the third rank.

Can any candid, noble nature uphold an institution after becoming aware that it systematically practices such chicanery?

Remarks on Amplified Third Rank.

The essential part of the ceremonies of each rank is the OBLIGATION.

In each rank the candidate is asked whether or not he is willing to take a solemn and binding obligation to keep forever secret the mysteries of the rank.

"Let me read it first?" The candidate might reasonably reply. I am commanded to prove all things in the Book of Law, the Holy Bible." (1 Thess. 5, 21.)

"No! you cannot; but I as Chancellor Commander assure you that it will in no wise affect your religion or your politics."

"What guarantee have I that your assurance is good? You wear your title by virtue of the votes of men who have dishonored the God of truth by not confessing His Son, and the Bible warns us not to trust in man".

"Thus saith the Lord: Cursed be the man that trusteth in man." Jer 17: 5.

"When the Lord shall stretch out his hand, both he that helpeth shall fall and he that is holpn shall all down, and they all shall fail together." Isaiah 31: 3.

"I must read the Obligation first, no prudent business man would sign a paper without first reading it." "The prudent man looketh well to his going." Prov. 14: 15.

"We have all taken the oath. You know us, if you cannot conform to our usages you may retire."

The obligations are Oaths; oaths hid from the candidate except as he takes their requirements upon himself; and, "If a soul swear pronouncing with his lips to do evil or to do good, whatsoever it be that a man shall pronounce with an oath and it be hid from him; when he knoweth of it, then he shall be guilty in one of these." Leviticus 5; 14.

Whether, then, the obligations of the Knights of Pythias are bad or good each person taking them can here read the Divine verdict upon the act "GUILTY."

However, with this exposition in hand the oaths are not hid from us, and we have an opportunity to compare them with God's Word. The readers of this ritual can judge successfully whether or not the obligations conflict with the politics or religion of a Christian patriot, a person who recognizes God in Christ as the ruler of the state and also of the church.

The first paragraph of each oath binds to absolute secrecy during life from all but a small though miscellaneous set of men, concerning the mysteries (passwords, grips, signs, etc.,) of the Knights of Pythias.

If you are not a Christian, The Book of Law, God's Holy Word "Now commandeth all men everywhere to repent." Acts 17: 30 Christ says "come unto me." Matt. 11: 28. "Turn ye: turn ye." Ezekiel 33: 11.

The fact that you are a rebellious child does not release you from Christ's requirements. Give up your rebellion.

Christ says: "Follow me," Matt. 16: 24; 4: 19; 9: 9. 19: 21. Luke 18: 22; 5: 27; 9: 59. John 12: 26; 21: 22; 1: 43. And no one can follow Christ in combining with a number of fellow men in the concealment of matters of pretended or general interest. Christ "spake openly to the World." He says: "In secret have I said nothing" John 18: 20.

Friend, the Book of Law shows that the first part of each obligation comes into direct antagonism with your duty. The assurance of the Chancellor Commander to the entrary not withstanding.

How men can be Republicans in sentiment and yet take ows of obedience to an irresponsible despotic aristocracy in secret lodges is a strange anomaly.

That such a rash vow is often repented at leisure the fact that forty-three thousand Knights in the State of Pennsylvania out of forty-five thousand, broke it by refusing obedience to an edict of the Grand Lodge, thus incurring, if the obligation is binding, the fearful self-imposed penalty of suffering all the anguish and torments possible for man to suffer, shows.

It is an historical fact that the Knights of the Dark Ages used to obtain oaths of persons by false pretenses and then make their dupes believe it to be their duty to fulfil them. A practice which gave rise to fearful abuses.

But in the darkness of this modern Knighthood there is a gleam of light. The Knights do not in the obligations fulfil their assurance of non-interference with the politics and religion of the candidate, and since they fail in fulfilling their part of the agreement, of course the covenant is void.

Still those taking these oaths are guilty. They have sinned by taking obligations that were hid from them, see Leviticus 5: 4—6; and also in promising to obey obligations at variance with the will of Christ as revealed in the Bible. And a person who finds himself in this sad condition should confess his sin. "He shall confess that he hath sinned in one of these." "If we confess our sins; he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." 1 John 1: 9.

"He that covereth his sins shall not prosper: but whoso confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy." Prov. 28: 13.

The amplified form of the third rank, we believe no right minded person can read without horror. In the face of God's commands against swearing, unpremeditated profanity is awful; but words fail us when we contemplate a system which puts oaths into its regular order of exercises. The personification of Pluto the God of the infernal regions, (Satan) might be expected in such an assembly. And when the Knights who practice the amplified form of initiation, have concluded their demoniacal rites and "attend" while the prelate implores the blessing of Deity on their deliberations, can we avoid the fearful conclusion that the god of the lower regions rather than the dishonored, disobeyed, insulted Lord of the Holy Bible, attends and accepts their worship?

"I say, that the things which the Gentiles sacrifice, they sacrifice to devils and not to God: and I would not that ye should have fellowship with devils. Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord and the cup of devils; ye cannot be partakers of the Lord's table and of the table of devils." 1 Cor. 10: 20-21.

"Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them, for it is a shame even to speak of those things which are done of them in secret." Eph. 5: 11-12.

"Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil, that put darkness for light, and light for darkness." Isaiah 5: 20.

"Let the wicked forsake his way and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God for he will abundantly pardon" Isaiah 55: 7.

"Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying: I am the light of the world; he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life." John 8: 12.

OBITUARY.

ABRAM STRATTON, of whose death brief mention was made last week came to Bureau county, Illinois, in 1829, from Ulster county, New York, on the shores of the Hudson. He carried a knapsack on his back and a song in his heart, and all the way west of Detroit found no road except an Indian trail. Chicago was then Fort Dearborn, and a small garrison of soldiers defended the trading post there established. After visiting various parts of the State, young Stratton returned on foot to New York, and the following summer shipped his few effects westward by the lakes. He came on foot again to St. Joseph, Michigan, late in the autumn of 1830, and as no vessels were going at that season to Fort Dearborn he hired two Frenchman and a pirogue with a long tow line, and loading up his boxes, they towed them around to the fort. While waiting in Chicago, the inefficient means for crossing the river suggested an improvement which, with the proprietor of the only house and hotel in the place, he put in execution by establishing the first ferry in the future city, which was plied between what are now the North and South Sides. Three weeks were spent in securing a yoke of cattle and building a sled. His camping out, his being followed by the wolves; later, his cabin and companionships his flight three times before the Indians during the Black Hawk war with his young and courageous wife, whom he had found in the county of Peoria in 1829, and to whom he was married in 1831, make up a history as wild and adventurous as anything in the history of this country. Being a man of unusual fortitude, cool and deliberate judgment, of a judicial turn of mind; and having a habit of looking upon every fact and circumstance from a common-sense stand-point his opinions always carried great weight with his fellow citizens. The editor of the Bureau County Republican says of him: "He was known throughout this section of the State as a kind and courteous gentleman." One incident is mentioned of him of which many similar crowd his busy life. One man whom he had showed over his claim afterward dropped a remark to another party that implied that he would like Stratton's claim. The night before the land office was opened at Galena this suspicious stranger passed Stratton's cabin northward and probably reached "Dad Joe's," twelve miles on the way, that night. Encouraged by his wife, young Stratton buckled on his belt that night for a long walk, and, though Galena was seventy miles away, when the land office was thrown open at 9 o'clock the next morning but one in walked Abram Stratton and secured his land.

Favoring the work of the church, he was a faithful and prominent member of the same, and he gave three of his sons a classical course in college. One is editor of the American Wesleyan, Syracuse, N. Y.; another Professor of Natural Sciences in Wheaton College; a third is a Christian worker and a merchant in Wyanet, Ill., and the fourth is at home caring for the interests of the estate. One married daughter resides near. An immense concourse attended his funeral on Friday, Aug 31 at Princeton, Ill., and buried out of sight one of the oldest landmarks of that part of the State, and who had helped so much to make it what it is.

Descriptive Catalogue of Publications of Ezra A. Cook & Co.

13 Wabash Ave. Chicago

BOOKS.

☞ Books at Doz. or Retail Prices sent post-paid. Not less than one-half doz. sent at dozen rates. By the 100 (25 Copies at 100 rate,) Expressage or Postage extra.

☞ Books sent by Mail are not at our risk.

Books at retail or by the dozen, ordered by Express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK; party ordering to pay Express charges.

FREEMASONRY EXPOSED,

by CAP'T. WILLIAM MORGAN.

THE GENUINE OLD MORGAN BOOK:—republished with engravings showing the Lodge Room, Dress of candidates, Signs, Due Guards, Grips, Etc.

This revelation is so accurate that Freemasons murdered the author for writing it. Thousands have testified to the correctness of the revelation and this book therefore sells very rapidly.

Price 25 cents.

Per Doz. Post Paid..... $2.00
Per hundred by express, (express charges extra.).....$10.00

ODD FELLOWSHIP ILLUSTRATED.

A complete expoeition of the Lodge Encampment and Rebecca (Ladies') Degree. The Signs, Grips, &c., shown by engravings.

Single copy, post paid,..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per Hundred, Express charges extra,..... 10 00

EXPOSITION OF THE GRANGE.

EDITED BY REV. A. W. GEESLIN.

Illustrated with Engravings showing Lodge Room, Signs, Signals, etc.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 10 00

Judge Whitney's Defense Before the Grand Lodge of Ill.

Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the Lodge when S. L. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the Lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 20
Per Doz " " 1 50
Per 100, Express charges extra..... 8 00

History of The Abduction and Murder Cap't. Wm. Morgan,

As prepared by Seven Committees of Citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan.

This book contains indisputable, legal evidence that Freemasons, abducted and Murdered Wm. Morgan, for no other offence than the revelation of Masonry. It contains the sworn testimony of over twenty persons, including Morgan's wife, and no candid person after reading this book, can donbt that many of the most respectable FREEMASONS. in the Empire State, with others were concerned in this crime.

Single Copy, post Paid,... ..... 25 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $2,00.
Per 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 10.00.

Valance's Confession of The Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan.

This confession of Henry L. Valance, one of the three Freemasons who drowned Morgan in the Niagara River, was taken from the lips of the dying man by Dr. John C. Emery, of Racine County, Wisconsin in 1848; The confession bears clear evidence of truthfulness.

Single copy, post paid,..... 26 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $1.50.
Per 100 Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

The Mystic Tie or Freemasonry a League with the Devil.

This is an account of the Church Trial of Peter Cook, and wife of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a Reverend Freemason; and their very able defence presented by Mrs. Lucia C. Cook, in which she clearly shows that Freemasonry, is antagonistic to the Christian Religion. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents

Per dozen, post paid..... $1 50
Per hundred Express charges Extra,..... 9 00

NARRATIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

Showing the Conflict of Secret Societies with the Constitution and Laws of the Union and of the States, by FRANCIS SEMPLE.

The fact that Secret Societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of Law is here clearly proved.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20
Per doz. " " $1.75
Per 100 Express charges Extra..... 9.00

THE BROKEN SEAL.

OR PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF Wm. MORGAN,

By SAMUEL D. GREENE,

Price in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.

In Paper Covers per Doz. Post paid.....$4.50
" per hundred by express (ex. charges extra $25.00

Capt. Wm. Morgan was Mr. Greene's neighbor in Batavia, N. Y., and a member of the same lodge with him at the time of the great excitement in 1826. The titles to these chapters are sufficiently exciting to give the book a large sale:—"The Storm Gathering;" "Abduction of Morgan;" "Attempted Abduction of Miller and his Rescue;" "What became of Morgan;" "What Morgan Actually Revealed;" "Confession of the Murderer;" "Allegations against Freemasonry, etc."

THE ANTI-MASON'S SCRAP BOOK,

CONSISTING OF 21 CYNOSURE TRACTS.

In this book are the views of more than a Score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of Secret Societies.

The dangerous tendency and positive evil of organized Secrecy is here shown by the most varied and powerful arguments and illustrations that have ever been given to the public.

Lecturers and others who wish to find the best arguments against the Lodge, should send for this book.

Those who wish to circulate Antimasonic Tracts ought to have the book to select from.

Single Copy, post paid, ...20 cents.
Per Doz. " $1.75
Per 100, Express charges Extra,.....$10.00

Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion.

A clear cutting argument against the Lodge, from a Christian Stand point.

Single Copy post paid.....$ 05
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 3 00

PHELPS' SECRET SOCIETIES Ancient and Modern.

A NEW BOOK OF GREAT INTEREST.

This work is particularly commended to the attention of Officers of The Army and Navy, The Bench and The Clergy.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

"THE ANTIQUITY OF SECRET SOCIETIES, THE LIFE OF JULIAN, THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES, THE ORIGIN OF MASONRY, WAS WASHINGTON A MASON? FILMORE'S AND WEBSTER'S DEFERENCE TO MASONRY, A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRESS OF MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES, THE TAMMANY RING, MASONIC BENEVOLENCE, THE USES OF MASONRY, AN ILLUSTRATION, THE CONCLUSION."

Single Copy, Post Paid..... 50
Per Doz " " $4 75
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$25 00

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' LETTERS

to Col. Wm. Stone, Edward Livingstone, and others, on the nature of Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties.

Price, post paid..... $ 50
Per Doz., " 4 50
Per 100, Express Charges extra..... 25 00

COLLEGE SECRET SOCIETIES.

Their Customs, Character and the Efforts for their Suppression.

BY H. L. KELLOGG.

Containing the opinion of many prominent College Presidents, and others, and a FULL ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER OF MORTIMER LEGGETT

Single Copy, post paid.....$ 35
Per Doz " " 2 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 15 00

MINUTES OF THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION,

Containing addresses by Rev. B. T. Roberts, Chas. D. Greene, Esq., Prof. C. A. Blanchard, Rev. D. P. Rathbun, Rev. D. S. Caldwell, Mrs. M. E. Gage, Elder J. R. Baird and others. Unpublished Reminiscences of the Morgan Times, by Elder David Bernard; Recollections of the Morgan Trials, as related by Victory Birdseye, Esq., and presented by his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Miller; Secretary's report; roll of delegates; songs of Mr. G. A. Clark; paper by Enoch Honeywell; Constitution N. C. A.; reports of committees, and a report of the political meeting.

Single Copy, post paid, ... 25
Per doz. " " $2.00
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 10.00

Proceedings of the Pittsburgh Convention,

Containing Official Reports; Addresses by Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. Rev. B. T. Roberts, Rev. G. T. R. Melser, Prof. J. R. W. Sloane, D. D., Pres't. J. Blanchard, Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D., Rev. Woodruff Post, Rev. Henry Cogswell, Prof. C. A. Blanchard, and Rev W. E. Coquilette, also Report of the POLITICAL MASS CONVENTION, with Platform and Cadidates for the Presidential Campaign of 1876.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25 cts.
Per doz " $2.00
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 10 00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. W. P. M'NARY,

Pastor United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Ind.

This is a very clear, thorough, candid and remarkably concise Scriptural argument on the character of Freemasonry.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 5
Per Doz,..... 50
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$3 00

THIRTEEN REASONS

Why a Christian Should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong.

The author states his reasons clearly and carefully, and any one of the thirteen reasons, if properly considered, will keep a Christian out of the Lodge.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 5
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100, Express charges extra,..... $3.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. JAMES WILLIAMS.

Presiding Elder of Dakota District North-western Iowa Conference, M. E. Church, A SECEDING MASTER MASON.

Published at the special request of the Nine Clergymen of different denominations and others.

Single Copy, post paid..... 10
Per doz. " " 75
Per 100, Express Charges Extra.....$4.00

MASONRY A WORK OF DARKNESS

ADVERSE TO CHRISTIANITY, and Inimical to a Republican Government.

BY REV. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG, [Presbyterian.]

A Seceding Mason of 21 Degrees.

This is a very telling work and no honest man that reads it will think of joining the lodge. Single Copy, post paid,.....20cts.

Per doz. post paid,..... $1.50.
" 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy.

Address of Prest. J. BLANCHARD, before the Pittsburgh Convention.

This is a most convincing argument against the lodge.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz " " 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON SECRETISM

BY REV. R. THEO. CROSS.

This is a very clear array of the objections to Masonry that are apparent to all.

By Rev. R. T. Cross, Pastor Congregational Church, Hamilton, N.Y.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

Its relation to civil Government and the Christian Religion.

By Prest. J. BLANCHARD, at the Monmouth Convention.

The Unchristian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is here proved from the highest masonic authorities.

Single Copy, Post Paid,.....$ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP

AND OTHER SECRET SOCIETIES

BY REV. J. SARVER, Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church, Leechburg, Pa.

This is a very clear argument against Secretism of all forms and the duty to disfellowship, Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications.

Single Copy, Post Paid.....$ 10
Per Dozen " 75
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 4 00

Sermon on Secret Societies,

BY REV. DANIEL DOW, Woodstock, Conn.

The special object of this sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the Character of Secret Societies, no matter what object they profess to have.

Single Copy, post paid.....$ 05
Per Dozen, " " 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 3 00

President H. H. GEORGE, On Secret Societies.

A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian Churches, to disfellowship Secret Societies.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 10 cts.
Per doz, " ..... 75 "
Per 100, Express charges Extra, ... $4.00.

History of the National Christian Association.

Its origin, objects, what it has done and aims to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought; The Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association, Conditions of the Carpenter Donation with engraving of building to be donated by Mr. Carpenter; table, showing the number of pastors and communicants in churches that exclude members of Secret societies; tabular view of local, county, State and National Conventions, and list of organizations Auxiliary to the National Christian Association. Brief opinions of eminent men on secret societies, and testimonies of religious bodies against them. This book will be found invaluable by all who wish to know the character of this reform and how they may do the most to further its objects. It should be in the hands of every Anti-mason.

Price, post paid, 25 cents each; per doz., $1.50. 25 copies or more by express at 8 cents each.

NEW BOOKS

HAND-BOOK OF FREEMASONRY.

BY EDMOND RONAYNE, late Past Master of Keystone Lodge, No. 539, Chicago. A full illustrated Exposition of the Three Degrees of "Ancient Craft Masonry;" Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft and Master Mason, embracing the "Standard Work" of the Order.

Single Copy, $0 50. Per dozen, $4 00. Per 100 $25 00.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WITH SIGNS OF RECOGNITION, PASS WORDS, GRIPS. Etc., and the RITUAL of the MACHINISTS AND BLACKSMITHS' UNION. (The two bound together.)

Single Copy, $0 25. Per dozen, $2 00. Per 100 $10 00.

Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees of Freemasonry

Nothing can more clearly show the abominations of this system of iniquity than its horrible Oaths and Penalties.

Single Copy, $0 15. Per dozen, $1 00. Per 100 $6 00.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret Societies.

A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons the Christian Church.

Single Copy $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100, $4 50.

Secrecy v. s. The Family, State and Church.

BY REV. M. S. DRURY. The antagonism of Organized Secrecy with the welfare of the Family, State and Church is clearly shown

Single Copy, $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100 $4 00.

ANTIMASONIC TRACTS

NOW HAVE SCANDINAVIAN TRACTS, 6 MAN, AND ONE SWEDISH

hese tracts are sold at the rate of $1.00 per 1000 pages.

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosnre Tracts, bonnd together, and is jnst the bing to select tracts from. Price 30 cents. See advertisement

For information ahont Free Tracts see advertisement headed Free Tracts."

Address EZRA A. COOK & Co.,
18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TRACT NO. 1:

HISTORY OF MASONRY.

BY PRESIDENT J. BLANCHARD, OF WHEATON COLLEGE.

This is now published in three tracts of four pages each. Price of each, 50 cents per 100; $4 per 1000.

TRACT No. 1, PART FIRST—Shows the origin of Speculative Freemasonry, and is entiled "HISTORY OF MASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART SECOND—Is entitled "DESPOTIC CHARACTER OF FREEMASONRY"

TRACT No. 1, PART THIRD—Is entitled "FREEMASONRY A CHRIST-EXCLUDING RELIGION."

TRACT NO. 2:

MASONIC MURDER,

By REV. J. R. BAIRD, of Pleasantville, Pa., a seceding Mason who has taken 17 degrees. A 2-page tract at 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 3:

SECRETS OF MASONRY,

BY ELI TAPLEY.

This is a 4-page Illustrated Tract, showing the signs, grips and pass-words, of the first three degrees. 50 cents per 100, or $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 4:

GRAND! GREAT GRAND!!

BY PHILO CARPENTER.

This is a 2-page tract, calling the attention of the public to the despotic and ridiculous titles of Freemasonry. Price 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT. NO. 5:

Extracts From Masonic Oaths and Penalties, as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.

This tract is a reprint of a tract published in 1834, and is a very weighty document. A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 6:

Hon. John Quincy Adams' Letter.

Giving His and His Father's Opinion of Freemasonry (1831.);

AND

Hon. James Madison's Letter,

Giving His Opinion of Freemasonry (1832).

Both of these letters, in one 4-page tract, at 50 cents per 100: $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 7:

SATAN'S CABLE-TOW.

A 4-page tract. This is a careful analysis of the character of Masonic oaths, and shows them to be most blasphemous and unchristian; and the Masonic Cable Tow is clearly shown to be tha able Tow by which Satan is leading thousands to eternal death cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 8:

Is a 2-page double tract, "ILLUSTRATED." The first page represents a Mason proclaiming the wonderful wisdom and benevolence of the order, with an article below, entitled "Freemasonry is only 152 Years Old," and gives the time and place of its birth.

The second side is entitled, "Murder and Treason not Excepted," and shows that the Masonic order is treasonable in constitution, and is both anti-Republican and anti-Christian Price 25 cents per 100; $2 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 9, ILLUSTRATED:

FREEMASONRY IN THE CHURCH.

Copy of a petition for the higher degrees of Freemasonry, in which Blasphemous and Despotic Titles are enumerated and prayed for. The Copy was printed for the use of "Occidental Sovereign Consistory S. P. R. S.," 32d degree—a Chicago Lodge—and was ordered by a deacon of a Christian Church who is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ill.

TRACT NO. 10:

CHARACTER AND SYMBOLS OF FREEMASONRY.

A 2-page tract, (ILLUSTRATED) by its "Grand Secretarics, Grand Lecturers, Perfect Prince Freemasons, Grand Inspector, Inquisitor Commanders, Grand High Priests," etc. The wonderful symbolical meaning of "the Cable Tow." "the Square and Compass," "the Lamb Skin, or white Apron," and "the Common Gavel," are given in the exact words of the highest Masonic authority. 25 cents per 100 or $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 11;

Address of Niagara County Association, New York.

TO THE PUBLIC;

Concerning the Morgan Murder, and the character of Freemasonry shown by this and other Masonic murders. 50 cents per 100.

TRACT NO. 12:

JUDGE WHITNEY AND MASONRY.

This tract contains a condensed account of Judge Whitney's Defense before the Grand Lodge of Illinois, on charge of unmasonic conduct in bringing Samuel L. Keith the murderer of Ellen Slade. and a member of his Lodge, to justice, with Judge Whitney's subsequent renunciation of Masonry,

An 8-page tract, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 13:

DR. NATHANIEL COLVER ON MASONRY,

and

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D.,

Chancellor of the University of New York, on SECRET SOCIETIES A double 4-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 14:

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

ITS RELATION TO CIVIL GOVERNMENT AND THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION.

Opening address before the Monmouth Convention, by PRES. BLANCHARD of WHEATON COLLEGE. This is a 16-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 15:

MASONIC OATHS NULL AND VOID.

A clear and conclusive argument proving the invalidity of any oath or obligation to do evil. By REV. I. A. HART, Secretary National Christian Association. Published by special order of the Association. 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 16:

HON. SETH M. GATES ON FREEMASONRY.

PROOF THAT THE INSTITUTION THAT MURDERED MORGAN IS UNCHANGED IN CHARACTER

This is a letter to the Monmouth Convention by Hon. Seth M Gates who was Deputy Sheriff of Genesee County, and also Secretary of the Leroy Lodge at the time of Morgan's Abduction. A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 17:

Origin, Obligations and Expenses of The Grange.

WITH A CONSTITUTION OF A FARMERS' CLUB.

This little tract ought to be put into the hands of every Farmer in the United States. Four-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 par 1000

TRACT NO. 18:

HON. WM. H. SEWARD ON SECRET SOCIETIES.

Extracts from a Speech on Know-nothingism in the U. S. senate in 1855. The testimony of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS. MILLARD FILLMORE, CHIEF JUSTIC MARSHALL and others is added.

A 2-page tract, 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 19.

BRICKS FOR MASONS TO LAY.

WASHINGTON, MADISON, MARSHALL, RUSH, HANCOCK, ADAMS AND WEBSTER, give brief clear testimony against the Lodge A 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT

OBJECTIONS TO MASONRY.

By A SECEDING MASON, of Cornton, Vermont.

This tract contains many strong arguments against the Lodge drawn from personal experience, observation and study of its character A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 21:

MASONIC CHASTITY

BY EMMA A. WALLACE.

The author, by wonderfully clear illustration and argument, shows the terribly corrupt nature of Freemasonry. No true woman who reads this will ever speak with approbation of this institution A 4-page tract 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT No. 22.

LINUS CHITTENDEN ON FREEMASONRY.

The Author a Seceding Master Mason states his objection to the Lodge, drawn both from experience and observation, in a clear concise and forcible style,

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 23.

MASONIC OATHS AND PENALTIES.

ADDRESS OF REV. A. M. MILLIGAN AT THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION.

This is the clearest and most conclusive argument to show the wickedness of masonic oaths and the duty to disregard and repent of them that we have ever seen.

A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 24.

SHOULD FREEMASONS BE ADMITTED TO CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP?

The principles and teachings of Freemasonry taken from the highest masonic authorities are compared with those of the Bible, several Masonic Oaths are given in whole or in part with the comments of Rev's. Moses Stewart, Nathaniel Colver, and Charles G. Finney, on this character. Those who love a pure Christianity should aid in the circulation of this tract. A 4 page tract, 50cts. per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 25.

The American Party.

ITS OBJECT, ORGANIZATION, PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES.

Some of the ablest men in the nation have prononnced our platform the best that has been presented to the American people for the past fifty years Our Candidates are men of acknowledged ability and honesty, and if every voter in the United States could read this our "POLITICAL TRACT," our Candidates could undoubtedly be elected. One friend pledges a dollar for every other dollar contributed and this 8 page tract costs but $1.00 per 100, or $8.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 26.

FREEMASONRY A RELIGION.

This Tract is made up of quotations from Standard Masonic Authors and nothing could more clearly demonstrate the fact that Freemasonry claims to be a Christless and therefore Anti-christian religion.

An 8 page Tract, $1 00 per 100. $8 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 27.

Duty and Ability to Know the Character of Freemasonry.

Thousands seem to consider it a virtue to know nothing about the character of Secret Societies. This is shown to be a great error if not a crime and our duty to use the knowledge within our reach especially when of such vital importance, is clearly enforced.

A 4 Page Tract. 50 cents per 100. $4 00 per 1000.

Cynosure Tract No. 28.

FREEMASONRY REVEALED.

A LEGAL ATTESTATION BY EDMOND RONAYNE

To the correctiness of the published expositions of Freemasonry. The author very briefly states the mode of preparation and initiation in the various degrees, with the mock murder and resurrection of the candidate in the personification of Hiram Abiff in the 3d, degree and the penalties of each.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100. $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 1, IN SWEDISH,

translated by Prof. A. R. CERVIN. A 15 page tract at $1.00 per 100: $15.00 per 1000.

ENOCH HONEYWELL'S TRACT

TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA. Postage 5cts per 100.

TRACTS FREE.

GERMAN CYNOSUCE TRACT A

Six Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason.

By Rev. A. GROLÆ, Pastor, German M. E. Church, Worchester, Mass

This is our first German Tract, and it is a good one; it ought to have a large circulation. A 4 page tract, Price 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

FREE TRACTS.

A Tract Fund for the Free Distribution of Tracts

HAS BEEN SECURED AND SHOULD NEVER BE EXHAUSTED. A friend has pledged this fund a dollar for every other dollar received, so EVERY NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TRACT FUND COUNTS DOUBLE, and thus $10.00 pays for 20,000 pages of tracts.

The distribution of these tracts has already saved hundreds of young men from the lodge, but there is a great lack of funds to supply the constantly increasing demand for Free Tracts.

During the year 1876 were gratuitously sent out, mostly in very small lots. The present demand is fully 100.000 pages per month. but funds are lacking to meet it.

Many of our most earnest workers in this cause of God are poor men, who would be glad to circulate thousands of pages of Antimasonic literature if they could have them free.

SHALL WE NOT HAVE AN INEXHAUSTIBLE TRACT FUND

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bonnd together and is just the thing to select from. Price 30cents. See advertisement page 16.

Enoch Honeywell Esq., pays for an unlimited number of his tract addressed "To THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA." It is an excelent tract, bearing the printed endorsement of Executive Committee of the National Christian Association. He has furnished the public over 150.000 pages of these tracts during the past year.

TRACTS FREE. If sent by mail, 5 cts per 100 is required postage,

Send Contributions and orders to

EZRA A. COOK.

Tract Committee 18 Wabash Ave Chicago, Ill.

Publishers' Department.

The bright warm days remaining in September and those of October will furnish an excellent opportunity for some workers who are physically unable to brave the cold of later months to canvass for the Cynosure. Some are aware of this and are now at work.

Mrs. H. E. Hayden, Harmon, Ill., writes: "I am trying to get subscribers." Mrs. S. B. Allen, Morrison, Ill., writes: "The paper deepens in interest. Those who take it appreciate it highly. I am now trying to get subscribers." A. Littlefield, Remington, Ind., writes: "They will be making up a club here soon."

We hope wherever it is possible a thorough "house to house canvass" will be made. Do not fail to give members of secret societies an opportunity to subscribe. Perhaps all they need is light.

A gentleman writes from Ripon, Wis.: "I belong to four secret societies including the A. Y. M. and I. O. O. F. and read some of your papers with interest." A canvasser once solicited a subscription from the chaplain of a Masonic lodge. His wife said previously, I do not think my husband will take the paper; but the canvasser persevered and saw the gentleman who said pleasantly and promptly, "O, yes, I think it will be an interesting document to read in the lodge," and handed the price of the paper to the solicitor. Would that it might be candidly read in all lodges. Can you not have every family in your neighborhood, village, town, city, township and in some cases in your whole county visited. Where this work is too great for one to do, can you not separate the field into districts and secure suitable friends to take the different districts? Friends and subscribers are often found where least suspected. A young teacher gave a copy of the Cynosure to the gentleman at whose house she boarded and to her surprise she found him an Anti-mason.

Leon Harkhurst, Baltimore, Md., writes: "I saw your paper to-day for the first time and pronounce it a good thing. Come out from among them, O my people!"

Let us be in earnest about this work. Set your mark high. Ask the guidance and blessing of God upon your efforts and we believe that he will crown them with great success.

Books and Tracts sent Week ending Sept. 15, 1877.

By Express.

L Harkhurst, J Lazenby, S C Kimball.

By Mail.

C W Tietsort, C Townsend, S M B Hoffman, W H Anderson, J Windom, F Long, P Boulware, W Hanna, C D Green, J D Sadler, J Welden, W W Paul, Sr., C Bender, W B Jackson, W H Clay, H Rawlings, W E Renwick, J B Kinter, S H Johns, R B Gray, L J Smith, J H Clark, W W Gallup, J R Enfield, J E Mitchell, H Reich, D Emmons, J Wagner, A Hard, G M Twombly, J G Henshaw, J S Shafer, H S Sands, J H Pool, C Green, J L Cornell, D D Davis, W L Locke, W M Stryker, T H Bailey, C L Tingle, O F Kimball.

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED DURING WEEK ENDING SEPT. 15, 1877.—From M Ambrose, A J Bailey, G Burnett, Dr Bingham, B Burtch, E Bacon, J Brenner, M E Cook, E Coffman, L B Collins, J A Clark, F Fisher, B Gould, H H Hinman (2), D Holt, W Haverstock, A Heard, W C Hopkins, H L Kellogg, A Kingsley, M Leal, A Littlefield, D Messer, M C Mahan, T Martin, D Morrow, W W Paul, M Phillips, J P Stoddard, J Stitt, A Wright, J S Yankey.

EXPOSITION TRACT FUND.

The National Christian Association have a large and prominent stand at the Chicago Exposition building at the north end of the gallery, where many thousands of tracts can be distributed to the throng of visitors there, many of whom will learn for the first time of this great reform. Let every friend who visits the Exposition be sure to call at the stand of the N. C. A. A sign six feet wide and twenty feet long makes the stand easy to find. Ezra A. Cook & Co. furnish the tracts at half price so one hundred dollars will pay for two hundred thousand pages of tracts. It is thought that fully that number of pages will be needed to supply the demand. They will be given out carefully. All contributions will be acknowledged in the Cynosure weekly. Send all contributions to this fund to

EZRA A. COOK & Co.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17, 1877.

GRAIN—Wheat—	No. 2	1 10	1 11
"	No. 3	1 06	1 10
"	Rejected		92
"	Minnesota	1 10½	1 14
"	Winter		1 28
Corn—No. 2		43¾
	Rejected	42½	43
Oats—No. 2			24⅜
	Rejected		21½
Rye—No. 2			55¼
Bran per ton			10 50
Flour—Winter		5 50	7 20
	Spring	2 75	6 25
Hay—Timothy		8 00	9 00
	Prairie	5 00	8 00
Mess Beef		10 00	11 00
Tallow			7½
Lard per cwt			8 75
Mess pork, per brl		12 50	12 62½
Butter medium to best		18	28
Cheese			11
Beans		1 75	2 25
Apples per brl		1 25	2 50
Poultry—Chickens per doz		1 50	3 50
	Turkeys per lb		09
Eggs		14	14½
Seeds—Timothy		1 29	1 40
	Clover		5 75
	Flax	1 20	1 28
Potatoes new per bu		35	40
Broomcorn		3	7
Stone	green to dry flint	8¼	15
Lumber—Clear		28 00	34 00
	Common	9 50	11 00
	Shingles		2 50
WOOL—Washed		34	40
	Unwashed	28	29
LIVESTOCK Cattle Choice		4 50	5 50
	Good	4 50	5 00
	Medium	3 50	4 25
	Common	2 50	3 75
	Hogs	5 00	5 75
	Sheep	3 00	4 75

New York Market.

Flour	$3 50	10 00
Wheat—Spring	1 31	1 38
Winter	1 46	1 48
Corn	53½	98½
Oats	32	44
Rye		60½
Lard		9⅜
Mess pork		18 25
Butter	12	21
Cheese	5	1 ¼
	17½	19⅜
Wool	40	59

$2500 A YEAR. Agents wanted. Business legitimate. Particulars free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

MASON & HAMLIN, Cabinet Organs!

The only Organ declared to be of First Rank by the Judges at Philadelphia.

Gold Medals and Diplomas of Honor awarded them at all the great World Expositions.

Being the only American Organs which have ever obtained any award in Competition with the best European makers.

These celebrated instruments are now offered to the public in New and Elegant Styles at the very Lowest Prices consistent with Best Material and Workmanship. They may be purchased on

Easy Monthly or Quarterly Installments

or Rented until Rent pays for them.

Every organ warranted to give satisfaction. Illustrated catalogue free.

Mason & Hamlin Organ Company

Boston, 154 Tremont Street,

New York, 25 Union Square,

Chicago, 250 & 252 Wabash Ave.

Agents Wanted!

TO SELL THE PUBLICATIONS OF

EZRA A. COOK & CO.

Liberal Terms Offered.

Capable persons who are in need of pecuniary aid may clear

Handsome Profits,

While at the same time aiding the cause of Reform. Apply to EZRA A. COOK & CO., No. 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1	square, 1 insertion,		$3.00
1	square (1 inch deep) one month		7.00
1	" "	2 "	13.00
1	" "	3 "	18.00
1	" "	6 "	25.00
1	" "	12 "	40.00

Discount for Space.

On 2 squares 5 per cent, On 3 squares 10 per cent
On 4 " 15 " " On 5 " 20 "
On ¼ col. 25 per cent On one col. 30 per cent

NEW CLUB RATES

FOR

Either Renewals or New Subscriptions.

Papers addressed to one or different Post Offices as desired.

CLUB RATES INCLUDING POSTAGE.

2 to 4 Subscribers, at $2.00 a year.
5 to 9 " at 1.75 "
10 or more " at 1.50 "

Names for a Club may be sent at different times; THE MONEY FOR THE CLUB TO BE SENT WITH THE FIRST LOT OF NAMES; but other Subscriptions may be added at same rates after Club is full.

The effect of Club Rates is to give the Commission to those who compose the Club and no commission can be allowed on these rates.

$3 GOLD PLATED WATCHES. Cheapest in the known world. Sample Watch Free to Agents. Address, A. COULTER & Co., Chicago.

Discontinuances.

Unless we receive orders to stop the paper sooner, we continue the Cynosure a full month after the time expires. Those wishing their paper discontinued are requested to notify us AT THE TIME THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS EXPIRE.

ADDRESS all letters with subscriptions or orders for books, tracts, and donations to the tract fund, to Ezra A. Cook & Co., No. 13 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

SOMETHING NEW.

A CHART OF MASONRY

Showing the degrees from the first to the thirty-third, entitled

Degrees of Ancient Accepted Scottish Freemasonry,

According to a Manual by Wm. M. Cunningham 33d Degree.

Designed by Rev. P. Stoddard, to explain Freemasonry, as shown by Morgan's Exposition and Richardson's Monitor.

A Neat Lithograph 22x28 Inches.

Single copies finely colored, post paid	$ 75
Per dozen " " " "	5 00
Per 100 " " " " Express charges extra	35 00
Single copy, colored, varnished and mounted postpaid	1 00
Per dozen colored, varnished and mounted, post paid	7 50
Per 100, colored, varnished and mounted, express charges extra	50 00

25 COPIES OR MORE SENT AT THE 100 RATES.

Renewals.

The date at which subscriptions expire, is with each subscriber's name on the address label.

Please send renewals before this date occurs. Notice if the date is changed to correspond soon; if not, or if the paper fails to come, write without delay.

CALIFORNIA

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the WEST and NORTH-WEST, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between CHICAGO and all points in ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, NORTHERN MICHIGAN, MINNESOTA, IOWA, NEBRASKA, CALIFORNIA, and the WESTERN TERRITORIES. Its

Omaha and California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in NORTHERN ILLINOIS, IOWA, DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, COLORADO, UTAH, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, CHINA, JAPAN, AND AUSTRALIA. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for NORTHERN WISCONSIN and MINNESOTA, and for MADISON, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, DULUTH, and all points in the Great Northwest. Its

Winona and St. Paul Line.

Is the only route for WINONA, ROCHESTER, OWATONNA, MANKATO, ST. PETER, NEW ULM, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for JANESVILLE, WATERTOWN, FOND DU LAC, OSHKOSH, APPLETON, GREEN BAY, WAUNAKEE, NEGAUNEE, MARQUETTE, HOUGHTON, HANCOCK, and the LAKE SUPERIOR COUNTRY. Its

Freeport and Dubuque Line

Is the only route for ELGIN, ROCKFORD, FREEPORT, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago and Milwaukee Line

Is the old Lake Shore Route, and is the only one passing through EVANSTON, LAKE FOREST, HIGHLAND PARK, WAUKEGAN, RACINE, KENOSHA to MILWAUKEE.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

are run on all through trains of this road.

This is the ONLY LINE running these cars between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our Sleepers connect with the Overland Sleepers on the Union Pacific Railroad for all points West of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago and North-Western Railway LEAVE CHICAGO as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, Two Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four Through Trains daily. Pullman Cars on night trains, Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta, La Crosse and Winona and points in Minnesota. One Through Train daily, with Pullman Sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains.

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, Two Trains daily. Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, Four Trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points you can have from two to ten trains daily

New York Office, No 415 Broadway; Boston Office, No. 5 State Street; Omaha Office, 245 Farnham Street San Francisco Office, 121 Montgomery Street; Chicago Ticket Offices: 62 Clark Street, under Sherman House; Kinzie Street Depot, corner W. Kinzie; Wells Street Depot, corner Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agents, apply to

W. H. STENNETT, MARVIN HUGHITT,
Gen. Pass. Ag't, Chicago. Gen. Man'g. Chicago.

[Eastern.)

Excelsior Marriage Certificate.

It is decidedly the most BEAUTIFUL, TASTEFUL and SENSIBLE thing of the kind I have ever seen."—Rev. F. G. Hibbard, D. D.

"The most SCRIPTURAL, BEAUTIFUL and APPROPRIATE Marriage Certificate I have ever seen."—Late Rev. H. Mattison, D. D.

"SOMETHING NEW AND BEAUTIFUL, which we pronounce the handsomest thing of the kind we ever laid eyes on."—Meth. Home Journal, Phila. Contains two Ornamental Ovals, for Photographs

A BEAUTIFUL LITHOGRAPH 14 1-4 by 18 1-4 INCHES. 25 cts each, $2.25 per doz- $15 per 100.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., CHICAGO

How to Send Money.

Post office orders, checks or drafts on Chicago or towns east of Chicago, and currency by express may be sent at our risk. If it is not possible to send by either of the four ways named, money in a registered letter may be sent at our risk, but it is not as safe.

TERMS FOR THE CYNOSURE.

$2.00 per annum, in advance.
20c " " " " for postage.

All who canvass for the CYNOSURE are allowed a cash commission of twenty per cent. or twenty-five per cent in books at retail prices, one-half this percentage on renewals, and any one sending $100. for the CYNOSURE during three months, will be entitled to an extra five per cent.

All responsible persons who desire to promote this reform are authorized to act as agents.

$1200 SALARY. Permanent salesmen wanted to sell Staple Goods to dealers. No peddling. Expenses paid. Address S. A. GRANT & CO., 208 Home St., Cincinnati, O.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

"In Secret Have I Said Nothing."—Jesus Christ.

EZRA A. COOK & CO., PUBLISHERS, NO. 18 WABASH AVENUE.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, SEPT. 27, 1877.

VOL. IX., No. 52.—WHOLE NO. 392. WEEKLY (post paid) $2.20 A YEAR.

Contents.

	Page
TOPICS OF THE TIMES	1
EDITORIALS:
A Solemn and Earnest Appeal to Congregationalists	8
The Praise of Men—Paul and Brigham Young	8
The Argument of Numbers	8
CONTRIBUTED AND SELECTED:
A Supposed Case	2
Testimony of the Fathers	2
Misapprehensions about Holiness—III.	2
The Follies of Irreligion	8
College Secretism	3
Mormonism and Freemasonry	3
The Hard Times—Remedy	3
Christian Reforms	4
REFORM NEWS:
Masonic Mob Violence in Iowa; Presbyterial Conference at Mt. Pleasant, Pa.; Gentry Co., Mo., Christian Association; From Bro. Richards	4, 5
CORRESPONDENCE:
A Good Day's Work; Pres. Hayes at Cincinnati; They will not hear; Our Mail	5, 6
N. C. A. Eyes and Ears at the Chicago Exposition	9
Obitnary	9
The Bible in the Public Schools—Sermon by Dr. A. M. Milligan	12
Home Circle	10
Children's Corner	11
Home and Farm	7
Sabbath School	11
Religious Intelligence	13
News of the Week	13
Publishers' Department	16

THE ANNUAL CONVENTION

OF THE NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION OPPOSED TO SECRET SOCIETIES IN DAYTON, O., OCTOBER 23D, 24TH AND 25TH.

It is now only a month until the proposed assembling of our National Convention. In view of the weighty importance of the work before us, there is an urgent demand that every friend of the cause should, at once, arouse to lend what help he can. Let every pastor, in whatever branch of the church, who has sympathy, consult his congregation, or the friends in the congregation, and, if possible secure one or more delegates to attend. Let every neighborhood where are a half dozen anti-secret friends set to work to send a representative. If it be possible every lecturer in the field from Maine to Kansas should turn his face toward Dayton, taking as may seem to him the best route, lecturing as he comes, and at every meeting appointing one or more to attend; and not only should there be an appointment made, but steps should be taken to provide a part, or the whole of the expenses of such a delegation. Committees of active, interested young ladies will be efficient in raising expenses and thus securing the attendance of delegates.

If every friend of the cause will take an interest, lend his or her help, come, or assist in sending some one, no hall in Dayton will hold our convention; and such a gathering would have a most telling effect upon the craft. We ought to show the fraternities that we are in earnest, willing to sacrifice time and money to bear testimony to the truth and honor of Him "who in secret said nothing."

There are many friends of the cause in Dayton, and no doubt free entertainment will be provided for many, if not all.

Able addresses may be expected and such business and discussions as must greatly interest all the lovers of light and opponents of the secret works of darkness. Let there be an awakening then of the friends of anti-secrecy all over the nation.

Brethren in Christ, your names, your faces and your votes will give strength and moral support to the earnest, devoted and self-sacrificing laborers in the field. Your presence will give an impulse to this advancing cause. Let our convention be the largest and most influential ever held in the land.

H. H. GEORGE,
Pres't of the National Convention.

P. S. Will the Religious Telescope and other papers in sympathy please copy.

Notices.

INDIANA STATE CONVENTION.

The fifth annual State convention of Indiana, opposed to secret societies, will meet at Plainfield, Hendricks county, October 17, 1877, commencing on the evening of the 17th at 7 o'clock and closing on the evening of the 19th. Edmond Ronayne and other prominent speakers are expected. It is confidently expected that all the county associations of the State will be fully represented, and all lovers of the cause of Christ will make the necessary sacrifice to meet with us. Come in the name and in the strength of the Lord Jesus. By order of the Ex. Committee.

PETER RICH, Chairman

A MASS CONVENTION will be held at Galion, O., October 3d and 4th to form an auxiliary association. Drs. Wishart, French and George and Rev. J. P. Stoddard are expected.

Also a similar meeting will be held at Morton's Corners, Morrow county, O., Oct. 5th.

Past Master Ronayne will give an exposition of the three degrees of Masonry at Marengo, Illinois, on the 1st, 2d and 3d of October, Monday to Wednesday. A new tabernacle to seat 2,000 persons is being built for the meetings and all the vicinity will be aroused with the interest of the occasion. The remainder of the week Mr. Ronayne spends in Viola, Mercer county, Ill., where he works the degrees.

Topics of the Time.

Wendell Phillips has been nominated by the workingmen for Governor of Massachusetts. He has published a letter condemning the late strike and proposing arbitration as the remedy. Arbitration under compulsion would not be arbitration, but it is true that a voluntary resort to such a measure has been and always will be the sure preventive of such terrible outbreaks as the country has lately experienced. One of the chief obstacles in the way of arbitration of railroad labor has been the Engineer's Brotherhood which is said to be in approaching dissolution, the reaction of the strike having been fatal to it. The railway managers, by such measures as have been adopted on the Michigan Central and Reading roads, of Sabbath rest and of a beneficiary arrangement in case of death, have it in their power to prevent the formation of such orders in the future. The lessons of the past eight weeks should have made them wise in this respect.

The smashing of savings banks is coming to be a melancholy fashion in Chicago. A few weeks since the "State Savings" collapsed, owing two million dollars to twenty thousand persons, most of them already poor. Last Wednesday the "Merchants, Farmers and Mechanics" bank followed into the courts, and as we are making up our forms, a third, the "Fidelity," is said to have succumbed. The first and last named were regarded as very strong banks, fully able to stand any run that might be made by panic-stricken depositors. The other was a smaller institution, but believed to be managed with integrity, and though it has closed that belief is generally unshaken. These failures have fallen with terrible weight on ten thousand families, many of whom must call upon the public this winter or perish; while death has already begun to gather in the suicides, made insane by their losses. The argument for postal savings banks controlled by the government will be reinforced by every failure. The English workingman has a safe place of deposit with a sense of patriotism besides in making his small loan to his government. The "hard times" reduction of all values have been largely the cause of these disastrous failures, though the managers of the State Savings were undoubtedly guilty of great fraud and have fled to Europe from the officers of law and the vengeance of their creditors.

The tour of President Hayes with members of his Cabinet through Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and Georgia is nearly closed. He turned back from Atlanta to Knoxville, Tenn., on Saturday, having been received with enthusiasm in every place through which the party passed. The effects of the visit upon the people in removing the rancor of political strife is regarded as highly satisfactory and the President has not fallen into any follies of speech in referring to the war, with perhaps one or two exceptions. The addition of Wade Hampton to the party at Louisville is regarded with some scruples by many, while more with a better reason will not hold him guiltlesss for playing into the hands of the Oddfellows at Nashville while laying the corner-stone of the new Custom House. The Chicago farce was repeated. The ceremony was under the auspices of the Grand Lodge of that order. After getting through their performance the architect of the building handed a silver trowel to the Grand Master, he passed it to the President who spread the bit of mortar, placed the stone and declared it laid.

McMahon seems to have reached the limit of folly in a manifesto issued last week. If the prosecution of the popular Gambetta, resulting of course in his conviction, was not enough this proclamation places him in a strange light before all civilized nations. Too long to reproduce here a brief remark by the correspondent of the London Times will give its animus. He speaks of the closing sentences as in flat contradiction to the manifesto itself and to all political rules observed by modern civil society. It says, in other words, "I shall accept the decision of the nation if it conforms to mine; I shall brave it if it is contrary to mine." If this sentence exists such as I give it, it can only be a kind of provocation aiming at the spreading of irritation and discouragement throughout the nation. How can the same man say he respects the republic and that he braves the elections? How can he in the same breath declare that he respects the constitution and that he places himself above it.

A Supposed Case.

A few men form a ring and get possession of a railroad, cheating all the original members of the company out of their stock. As this act is not exactly in accord with the Decalogue, or with the received opinions of good society, the ring will need some moral support to sustain itself in the face of the community. It needs the countenance of good, honest men; but how shall it proceed to get it?

Now farmers, as a class, are good, honest men—church-goers, many of them—and if they could be induced to sustain the ring all would be well; all could go to church together, and the ring keep the road and run it for its own benefit, with an odor of piety. But how are farmers to be made to countenance the fraud?

It is easily done. A secret lodge of farmers is established by one of the ring called, an "agent," in every town of the State; and in order to render it interesting and attractive, as well as innocent and pious, farmers' ambitious wives and pretty daughters are made members of the lodge, and decorated with fine ribbons, the badges of office.

A tangible advantage is gained by the farmer who joins the lodge, in the way of cheapening all his purchases. If he wants a stove, a plow, a barrel of sugar, a chest of tea, a clock, or anything else, he makes it known to the clerk of the lodge, by a true grip; the clerk writes to the "agent," a member of the ring, and the article is laid down at the farmer's door, free of all railroad charge for transportation. The ring get the road and moral support, and the farmer gets a saving of some dollars a year. His wife and daughter get office, position, cheapened articles of dress, wherein they gain a sly advantage over their uninitiated female fellow citizens (a great charm to some minds) and above all they have acquired secret grips and signs by which to hold covert intercourse with strange men, and be received by them as friends.

We met a farmer the other day who had thus sold himself for forty dollars; for that was the sum that he had saved by becoming the member of a lodge. I think that he had sold himself cheap; for the American farmer ought to have a price so high that no ring could buy him. He ought to be like those three men who captured Major Andre and would not let him off at any price. The farmer did not say that he would vote for the "agent" for governor, but I fear that he would. He had not voted the American ticket when we last saw him, though he had once been a member of an Anti-masonic society. He was honest in one respect; he had no idea of what use was being made of his vote, and his influence.

Is there anything new under the sun? Three thousand years ago or more, some emigrants, disgusted with the vices and shams of Babylon and Nineveh, left for the new lands in the west, where the moral air was possibly purer. While leading innocent, moral lives there one of the sons becomes lustful for food, and another becomes tricky, and the result was the sale of a man for a mess of pottage.

Yet what shall a man profit if he gains the whole world and sells himself? What is the vote of a man worth who is caught with a bait of forty dollars? How long can American institutions stand based upon such votes?

Everybody by this time has heard what the Pinkston family suffered from secret society men in Louisiana. It should be reflected that every man who sells himself to a secret society has contributed to that horrible outrage. He may get forty dollars for himself; but what is the consequence to others? No American man has a moral right to sell himself to a lodge at any price. He is bound to me, and every other American man, to help sustain American institutions, which he cannot do if he binds himself to a secret lodge, whose head may be in Rome for ought he knows.

The case of Lord Ripon is one in point. He was Grand Master of Masonry in England, and as such negotiated the sham treaty of Washington to reconcile Americans to the loss of their commerce. For this work he was made a Marquis, and then forthwith he became a Jesuit. He sold himself to the lodge; and then, when the hoodwink was removed, he found himself in Rome.

AMERICAN.

Testimony of the Fathers.

BY REV. J. M. BISHOP.

A correspondent of the People's Register, at Chambersburg, Pa., in a late issue in giving the proceedings of a convention recently held at Harrisburg, says: "Ex-bishop Erb takes the ground that the voice of the society [U. B. in Christ] was originally designed to do no more than exclude members of the order of Freemasons."

Whether this correspondent has correctly reported what our venerable brother said at that meeting, we know not, but as we heard him say the same in substance in an address before an annual conference held at Springville, Cumberland county, Pa., in Feb., 1876, and as he is often quoted by some of our younger members as evidence that the opposition of our church to what are known as the minor secret orders is of recent origin, and that it was never contemplated by the fathers, we think this subject is entitled to some consideration.

We wish to call the attention of our venerable brother to a speech made by him before the General Conference at Germantown, Ohio, May, 1849, and published in the Religious Telescope of May 30th of that year, in which he spoke somewhat differently. The subject before the conference was a resolution to make our rule on secrecy to bear against the Sons of Temperance and other newly fledged secret orders as well as against Freemasonry. Upon this resolution many strong speeches were made by the fathers then present, none of whom spoke more decidedly than the venerable ex-Bishop Erb. His speech is thus reported:

"The offence came by the Sons of Temperance if an offence there was. We had been in opposition to secrecy before the organization of the order, and if they had given the offence by joining us and would not retract, hang the mill stone about their neck."

It is further stated by a surviving member of the Germantown General Conference that ex-Bishop Erb said a snake was a snake whether it was a little one or a big one. The resolution passed by 33 yeas, 2 nays, and 2 neutral. Among the former stands prominently the name of Jacob Erb.

Now how stands the testimony of the fathers? Which is right, Jacob Erb's testimony now or Jacob Erb's testimony then? Which has changed in relation to secrecy, the church or some of its ministers? And where would many of the younger fathers be to-day if in 1849 they had associated themselves with the Sons of Temperance? They would long since have been drowned, without the advantage of the old proverb "catching at a straw," as Father Erb's mill stone would have effectually prevented that grapple.

Chambersburg, Pa., Sept. 15.

Misapprehensions about Holiness—III.

BY REV. H. H. HINMAN.

An article in the Presbyterian Quarterly and Princeton Review by Dr. L. H. Atwater, ably discusses the doctrine of the higher life, and attempts to establish the following points:

1. That the doctrine of holiness as held by its advocates is unscriptural.

2. That it lowers the standard of Divine law to mere human capacity, thereby substituting an uncertain and false standard in the place of the Law of God; and

3. It, therefore, destroys all true conception of holiness and discourages all aspirations after real holiness.

I desire briefly to examine the last two propositions.

There can be no other standard of obligation than the Divine law. The only question is, What does the law require? "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and thy neighbor as thyself." This is the law as addressed to a child, a man or an angel. It measures every one's obligation by his ability. It does not require the child to love God with the heart of a man, or an angel, but with all his heart. The measure by which we are to compare our lives is the perfect example of Christ. As he loved his Father with all his heart, so should we love him (not with his) but with all our hearts. As he lived in conformity to every known obligation, so should we. As he consecrated his entire being unto God, so should we consecrate ours. What I believe Jesus would do if circumstanced as I am, that is the measure of my duty. Divine law is all embraced in a single principle—love. "For love is the fulfilling of the law." Rom. 13: 10.

Christ was holy because he was perfectly obedient to all known obligation, and the little child who is perfectly obedient to all known obligation is as truly holy as Christ is holy. His love is infinitely less in what it comprehends, but is as perfect as the love of Christ.

But is there not a sin of ignorance? Are not men responsible for what they might know if they would? Certainly they are, and a refusal to receive the truth implies the highest form of guilt. The wicked walk in darkness because they reject Christ. He is the "true Light that lighteth every man that cometh into the world." "He that followeth him, shall not walk in darkness but shall have the light of life." The condemnation of the wicked is that they reject this light. "They love darkness rather than light because their deeds was evil." John 3: 19. But this is not true of those who are in Christ,—"For in him is no darkness at all. If we say we have fellowship with him and walk in darkness we lie and do not the truth. But if we walk in the light as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another and the blood of Christ cleanseth us from all sin." 1 John 1: 5–7.

This then is the standard of holy living, that we abide in Christ and walk in accordance with all the light that he gives us. There can be no other standard. Whoever sets up another, sets up one of impossible attainment and which is calculated to discourage all honest effort to be holy. To teach that men must necessarily live in sin while they live, is practically to give them license to sin as long as they live.

But to teach that God requires perfect obedience to all known duty as measured by every man's knowledge and capacity, and that nothing more nor less than this can be required, is not to lower the standard of obligation nor destroy a true conception of holiness, but rather to correctly define them. To teach that what God has commanded of us he will graciously help us to perform; that "he that spared not his own Son shall with him freely give us all things;" and that in our perfect weakness we may go to Christ and find that in "the Lord Jehovah there is everlasting strength," is not to be "pharisaical or uncharitable," as Dr. Atwater says; but rather to stand with Christ and be on the Rock.

The Follies of Irreligion.

Now look at some of the objections which are urged most pertinaciously.

1. There is what we may call the church and state objection. The introduction of the Bible into the schools, it is said, makes the state a meddler with the religious affairs of the people, which is contrary to the settled policy of this government. The objection sounds very plausible but it is utterly fallacious. The union of the church and state involves the patronage by the state of a particular church, and its interference in the regulation of doctrinal and ecclesiastical matters. This we deny the competency of the state to do. We deny its right to do it; and the Constitution strictly and very properly prohibits it. But that does not imply that the state shall not recognize any religion at all. It has recognized religion, the religion of the Bible. It has recognized the Bible itself. It is founded upon the principles of the Bible. It appeals to the truths of the Bible, and to the God of the Bible; and to admit the Bible to the schools is no more a church and state measure than to swear upon it in the courts.

2. There is the taxation objection. We are told that it is oppressive to tax a man for the support of a system of education which he does not approve of. That is, you must not be taxed for anything that does not suit you. The police system does not suit the gamblers, therefore they must not be taxed for it. If you do not like the court house, the bridges, the highways, it is oppressive to tax you for them. If you disapprove of the whole school system, it is oppressive to tax you for it. This is really the point of the present objection so far as the Romish church is concerned, and they make no secret of it. But the objection destroys itself. The Romanist demands that the Bible be excluded because he does not approve of its use. Very well. My rights are equal to his, and I disapprove of its exclusion; therefore, upon the very ground of this objection, it is a persecution of me to exclude it.

3. There is the right of the minority objection. This is urged by many who personally want the Bible in the schools. The Bible is the best of books, they say. It is the best of educators. It is the choicest of classics. It deserves a place in the schools. It ought to be kept there; but we must not keep it there against the protest of objectors. That is, you have no right to do what ought to be done because somebody objects! What rare causistry is that! The 13,000,000 majority says to the 3,000,000 minority "We will rule; but we will rule just as you say. We believe that so and so is best; but if you do not think so we will not do it. We ought to take such and such a course; but we will not unless it is perfectly agreeable to you." This government is not one of minorities, but of majorities. The majority is bound, indeed, to consider the interests of all; but it must decide what these interests demand, not upon the judgment of the minority, but upon its own. There can be but one majority. There may be a thousand minorities demanding all sorts of things, impossible things, opposite things.

Furthermore, if the Bible must be excluded upon the demand of a minority, so must any other book. Here comes a Darwinist and says, "I object to your text-books of natural history, because they do not teach evolution." Then they must be excluded. Here comes an Englishman who objects to your text-book of history because of its strictures upon his country. A Southerner protests against your reading books, because they contain the speeches of Webster and Sumner. You may find somebody to object to any book you may have, or any method of instruction. To set up the will of a minority as the law of government, is to repudiate republicanism, and set up an aristocracy in its place, not the aristocracy of refinement and culture, but that of ignorance and stupidity.—Rev. Geo. Huntingdon.

College Secretism.

What do we mean by college secret societies? It is an organization composed of college graduates and under-graduates, under the name of a literary society, but really for the purposes of conviviality. After two years spent in one of the best schools of Ohio, and twenty years spent in observing the evil influences accruing from said societies, I can affirm that literary culture, as an end to be reached through these organizations, is a fraud. The simple truth is, that under the garb of secrecy, young men club together in order to have a good time, and often, regardless of the means employed, they bind themselves together by the most solemn promises, and the initiation to these societies is usually accompanied by scenes which are a disgrace to any institution of learning. Their influence frequently interferes with discipline of the school. They also destroy independence of character and action and brotherly love. Surely scenes of pleasure where the wine cup is passed and cards are shuffled, are not friendly to that methodical use of time and relish for habits of close application whereby alone any respectable progress can be made in knowledge. I apprehend there is little in wine suppers, in moonlight larks, or in practical jokes to fasten a love for study, or is consistent with literary advancement. Indeed, so conspicuous are the dire effects of these secret cliques in lowering the standard of education in our schools that vigorous efforts are being made in many quarters to destroy them root and branch. Great as are the baneful influences of these societies upon intellectual progress, they are far greater within the sphere of morals. The salutary checks thrown around the youth by a Christian home are torn away and the road opened for the development of the most degrading elements of man's nature. Were it necessary I could multiply examples of those who through the evil of these secret organizations have gone forth from college walls most pitiable wrecks. One of the brightest minds of my class went out in deep darkness through the instrumentality of this great curse of our noble institutions of learning. I had in mind at the start to mention more of the evil tendencies of these college secret humbugs but this article already is too long. Let all those who love the youth of our land and who desire to see them lay down fair, open, Christian principles as a foundation on which to rear a noble superstructure of character and life, rally against this great evil which dares to lift up its head so imprudently and boldly in our seminaries of learning. Then the avenues to a scientific and religious education will be made easy, and our sons and daughters will ascend higher up the temple of fame.—Mediapolis Enterprise.

Mormonism and Freemasonry.

There is more of a sameness existing between these two institutions than most people are aware of. The oaths and part of the initiatory ceremonies are the same, or about the same. Joseph Smith, the originator of Mormonism, was himself a Freemason, and with the help of some of his coadjutors, initiated the most of his church into Masonry, and so continued until the Grand Lodge of Illinois revoked their charter while they were at Nauvoo. They did this because Jo. Smith declared that "God had revealed to him a great key-word, which had been lost." Likely this was the word that was lost by killing Hiram Abiff.

In J. H. Beadle's book on Mormonism we find something like this: "Much of it will be recognized as extracts from 'Morgan's Freemasonry Expose,' by those familiar with that work." I ask why Smith would resort to an expose to get this knowledge, he being a Free and Accepted Mason. We will quote again from Beadle: "But Antimasonry was, just then, (about the time when Smith was founding his church,) the great political excitement of New York, and the infant church was easily drawn into that furious and baseless crusade." In this sentence we find the reason why Mr. Beadle did not give the oaths of Mormonism while rsceiving their members into different degrees, as he gave all the other secrets connected with their initiatory ceremonies. The truth is, he himself had had administered about the same oath in Freemasonry.

In the third degree of Mormonism, after the candidates receive a short address by Michael—a conglomeration of Freemasonry and some other heathenish ceremonies—they are placed one at a time at full length upon their backs on an altar, having a keen edged knife drawn the throat for a testimony of their faith. They then all join hands, kneel down, "and slowly repeat after Jehovah another oath." The penalty for the violation of this oath is, the violator is to have "his bowels slit across and the entrails fed to swine," with other penalties equally as detestable as those of Freemasonry.

This degree of Mormonism corresponds with the third degree of Masonry. There are about four estates or degrees in the Mormon endowment, and to a greater or less extent they correspond with the same in Freemasonry. The probability is that Jo. Smith got the first idea of forming the Mormon church in a Freemason lodge.—A. B. Peters in Telescope.

No man becomes at once, and of a sudden, either a fiend or a saint. His descent into a lower, like his ascent into a higher condition, is gradual—always accomplished, tho' more rapidly in some cases than in others step by step.—Guthrie.

The Hard Times—Remedy.

BY B. T. ROBERTS.

[Continued from last week.]

2. Abolish the National Bank Currency. This perhaps cannot be done at once, as the banks have, by law, acquired certain rights. But it should be done as fast as possible without injustice. The issuing of money is no part of banking. Some of our best banks issue no money. Our Constitution vests in Congress the right to coin money. This right is jealously guarded as one of the prerogatives of the Supreme Government throughout the civilized world. Our best writers on constitutional law agree that the phrase "To coin money" applies to paper as well as to metallic currency.

Judge Farrar in his "Manuel of the Constitution," § 568, says:

"Congress is not restricted as to the materials they may make use of or their worth or value, independent of their authorized use as money; nor is it required that they should have any such value. Even the operation of converting them into money is described only by the verb 'to coin,' which, if it means anything in addition to the act of converting it into money, includes only the Government stamp, by which the act is authenticated.

Daniel Webster (Works, vol. 1, p. 315), says:

"It is clear that the power to regulate commerce among the States carries with it, not impliedly, but necessarily and directly, a full power of regulating the essential element of commerce, namely, the currency of the country, the money which constitues the life and soul of commerce."

In his "Money and the Mechanism of Exchange," p. 317, ad sequiter, Professor Jevons says:

"The issue of notes is more analagous to the royal function of coinage than to the ordinary commercial operation of drawing bills. We ought to talk of COINING NOTES, as John Law did; for though the design is impressed on paper instead of metal, the function of the note is exactly the same as that of a representative token. As to the right to issue promises, it no more exists than the right to establish private mints. As almost every one has long agreed to place the coinage of money in the hands of the Executive Government, so I believe that the issue of paper, representative of money, should continue to be practically in the hands of the government, or its agents acting under the strictest legislative control."

In what respect is money issued by National Banks, on the credit of the country, better than money issued directly by the Government? Why lock up in National Banks hundreds of millions of dollars which ought to be at work, employing labor and paying taxes? Why should the Government pay these banks twenty millions of dollars a year interest on bonds held for the redemption of bills which the Government itself should issue? It is a cunning system—which robs taxpayers for the benefit of the rich—which ought to be abolished. The Government should call in at least a portion of its bonds, and issue in their place all the money needed by the demands of an active business. This money should be made a legal tender for all dues to the Government as well as from man to man. You then would have no need for gold except to take to foreign countries. And as the balance of trade is in our favor, gold would accumulate. The Government should keep in reserve a sufficient quantity of coin to exchange for paper money with all who need it. This money should be made convertible into bonds, bearing a low rate of interest, in sums of twenty-five dollars upwards. This would give us a flexible currency. It would not then be in the power of unscrupulous men or corporations to bring on a financial crisis whenever they choose. Our currency would then be on a solid basis. It would then rest upon the entire property of the country.

It is asked, "What right have we as a nation, or as any bank, or individual, to force into the circulation as money its notes upon which it pays no interest?" We answer that right belonging to the nation is implied in the right to coin money. The very idea of a Government implies rights which do not belong to the individual.

3. Repeal the bankrupt law. It is cumbrous and expensive. It disturbs business by injuring credit. It encourages wild ventures by providing an easy escape in case of failure. It divides the debtor's assets among the lawyers; generally leaving the creditors but the merest pittance. It should be at once repealed.

4. Remove restrictions upon foreign trade. I have been a life-long protectionist. But protection is no longer needed. We already manufacture more than we can consume. We must open foreign markets. If we expect others to buy of us, we must buy of them.

But we need also free trade to produce an equilibrium of values among us. Prices are regulated too much by artificial combinations; and too little by the natural method of supply and demand. Manufacturers conspire to raise the price of their goods; and the workmen conspire to raise the price of their labor. These combinations possess most of the odious features of monopoly. They have become so strong that they greatly influence, and in some instances, control legislation. By raising prices above the natural standard, they render it impossible for our manufacturers to compete with others in the markets of the world. All such artificial interferences with business prove destructive in the end. Business never can permanently prosper so long as prices are controlled by these artificial methods. All combinations to raise the price of goods or labor are conspiracies against the public welfare. I see no practical method of breaking up these combinations but by free trade. This, by throwing us open to the competition of the world, will bring back prices to a natural standard.

These are, in brief, remedies for the hard times which, if wisely applied, will prove effective. The people are groaning under burdens which are fast becoming intolerable. They look to the Administration for relief. Unless afforded, they will seek it in a change of rulers, so soon as a change can can be peacefully effected. They can no longer be amused with dead issues. Congress must not spend its time in idle discussions about the President's southern policy. We want a national policy that will set our people to work, our mills to running, and whiten the ocean with our fleets.

I have acted with the Republican party from its beginning. But I express the convictions of many, when I say I can act with it no longer, unless it makes a wise and honest effort to meet the emergencies of the hour.

Rochester, N. Y.

Christian Reforms.

Report of the Committee on Reforms Adopted at the Recent Session of the New York Annual Conference of the Free Methodist Church, held in Wilkesbarre, Pa., and ordered to be printed in the Cynosure.

We are, as a church, deeply interested in three great departments of reform, namely, temperance, anti-secretism, and last, though by no means least, reform from the worldly conformity so conspicuous in the prevailing religion. In regard to this reform we think as a denomination, we have taken advanced ground. Some other denominations are equally radical and active as our own, in temperance and anti-secretism, and we are glad that some are adopting strong measures against the use of tobacco by their preachers; but we know of none who come up to our convictions and practices against fashionable and extravagant attire, costly and splendid church edifices, and the various carnal contrivances to procure money for religious ends. We believe that God has raised up the Free Methodist church to bear no unequivocal witness against these evils. We exhort our brethren to jealously guard against any innovation among us in these respects. Let us be warned by the history of denominations, once as strict as our own, who, yielding little by little, are now foremost in the race of worldliness.

We are more than ever interested in the temperance reform, from the fact that it has assumed so marked a Christian phase. The movement inaugurated, more especially by Mr. Murphy, has our hearty sympathy and support. The blessing of God appears to attend it in the reformation and salvation from sin of many victims of intemperance. We reaffirm the position so often declared by us as a people, that grace is the true basis of reform; therefore the supreme aim should be to secure that change of heart which involves a salvation from all wrong.

We see no reason to change our oft expressed opinion against organized secretism. Corrupt and selfish human nature must naturally and inevitably lead men into secret organization to plan and plot for their own interests, even though at the expense of others. A powerful temptation is thus brought to bear, especially in the great secret organizations, to control church and state and to put under ban all who do not sustain them, and to crush any who may oppose.

Our feelings are excited to abhorrence against Freemasonry, not only on account of its barbarous oaths, murderous penalties and Christless, religious mummeries, but also, as we learn of the religious, or rather sacrilegious, ceremony of baptising four children, recently performed in Jersey City, by a deputy Grand of a lodge of perfection, or symbolic lodge of the Ancient Scottish Rite.

A large region of country has been intensely agitated of late by the revolt of multitudes of railroad employes and miners against the companies employing them. This has resulted in the loss of many lives, in the destruction of millions of dollars worth of property, in the paralysis of some of the most important departments of business, and in great loss to the laborers engaged in it.

While we condemn the capitalists and the great business corporations for oppressing the hireling in his wages, we also condemn the action of the laborers. We think that this excitement and violence is largely due to the workings and suggestions of certain secret organizations, patronized by many of these laborers, which form a kind of communism, which, when fully developed, can only bring ruin to its members, and great injury to the public. We protest against this communism, and exhort our people to give no heed to its mandates, but to firmly discountenance it.

We would call attention to the efforts being made by a number of the most influential clergymen and reformers in our Republic, for an express recognition of the Lord God in the Constitution of the United States. We would second these efforts. We consider this omission of the name of God in the Constitution, and this neglect and refusal to recognize him as the Supreme Jehovah, as a black stain on our national government, and as bordering on impiety, if not actually impious. We regard it as of a piece with those works of the devil exhibited in rank infidelity, and of those by which Satan would through papal machinations, crowd true recognition of Deity out of our public schools, by excluding from them the Bible.

Reform News.

Masonic Mob Violence in Iowa.

221 W. Madison Street,
Chicago, Sept. 19, 1877.

In my last I spoke of the suppression of free speech by lodge hirelings at Marshalltown, Iowa, on the evening of September 11th. In this the lodge-men evidently "reckoned without their host" as was evident from the frequent and unqualified expressions of disapproval to be heard from all quarters. The managing ones learned that the citizens of Marshalltown, who had never been subdued and demoralized by the degrading rites of initiation or bound with clandestine oaths, were not so readily controlled as their own unfortunate dupes, and that public sentiment was decidedly against the proceedings of the previous evening. Those who heard asserted the right to form their own opinions of the speaker and of the performance which they saw, and even official squinting at the "silly, absurd or insane" character of the speaker failed to silence and subdue their indignant spirits. Impelled by a sense of duty or spurred to action by public sentiment which threatened the safety of his pet institution the Mayor, on the morning of the 12th, issued the following proclamation:

PROCLAMATION!

To the Citizens of Marshalltown.

The right of all persons to assemble peaceably together for any meeting not dangerous to public quiet, must be maintained. These are therefore to command all persons not to disturb any assemblage within the city by any unusual noise, or by any playing of instruments for the express purpose of annoying any such assemblage. However silly, absurd or insane a public speaker may be, so long as he keeps within the scope of the law, he must be protected by the law.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto fixed my hand and seal [seal.] this 12th day of September, A. D. 1877.

R. Howe Taylor, Mayor.

At 2 p. m. Bro. Ronayne resumed work on the second degree. The audience listened with marked attention and at the close quietly dispersed without being molested. A committee of citizens waited on the Mayor and the Sheriff of the county and requested protection from the rioters at the evening session and received assurance from both these officials that the right of the people of Marshalltown to peaceably assemble should be maintained. The Sheriff for some reason, however, said, "I do not want to go inside the hall but will remain just outside the door."

Promptly at the hour both Sheriff and Marshall were at their post of "Outside Guardians" and the "clandestine" lodge was duly "tyled" by a man armed with the proper implement of his office, and as promptly the hall was filled with men and women anxious to witness the work of the third degree of Freemasonry.

When Bro. R. had nearly completed his introductory remarks and was about to bring in the candidate, suddenly, without any premonition, we were in total darkness. The gas meters were found to be all right, and the burners were relighted and Mr. Ronayne proceeded. A moment later and darkness again prevailed. It was evident that the lodge employing the band on the previous evening had in some way obtained control of the gas pipes and that we could not depend on that light any farther. The gentlemanly proprietor of the hall did everything in his power to assist and very soon procured lamps, so that the exercises proceeded without further interruption. All retired in good order, and, except a few craftsmen, in excellent spirits; feeling that a decided advantage had been gained and our reform work planted in the very heart of this Masonic stronghold.

But few persons on leaving the hall that night realized from what imminent peril they had so narrowly escaped, and not until the following day was it generally known. An examination revealed the fact that some party unknown had crawled in at a cellar window and had dug down some two feet to the main gas pipe; and, removing a plug, had allowed the gas to escape as rapidly as it would rush out of a hole one inch in diameter. Of course the cellar was very soon filled with the escaping gas and had any one entered it with a light to search for the difficulty, a fearful explosion must have followed. The building if not blown up must have burned and many of its occupants have perished in the flames. Had those present realized the danger at the time as they do now, it would have hardly been possible to prevent a stampede in which not a few would have been injured or killed; but by a merciful Providence all escaped. But no thanks to the lodge or its "hired" emissaries, who were ready to use any means as it appears, however foul, to defeat the object of the meeting and suppress the freedom of speech in Marshalltown.

Who is justly chargeable with these outrageous proceedings? It is a well known fact that the band was hired and as one of the members told me, "well paid" for their work on the previous evening by Masons in the advanced degrees; and it is no injustice or far-fetched inference to suppose that the wretch who entered the cellar was hired and paid by the same parties. He was working in the same interest and seeking to reach the same result as the other "hirelings" who openly assailed the meeting, viz., the suppression of free speech, in direct violation of civil law for the glory of the "craft."

Why did the Sheriff in conversation with the committee decline entering the hall? Was he as a high Mason in the secret of the plot? He must have had some reason for this unusual reluctance to discharge the duties of his office by decining to enter the hall should the public safety require his presence. It is devoutly to be hoped that he would not be a party to such a hellish scheme, even though the "craft" demanded, and his lodge oath bound him to do it. But why this reluctance to go inside the hall, if he did not know or strongly suspect that something unusual was to occur? The affair, when you put this and that together, has a very dark and ugly look about it. It is due to the people whose rights were assailed and whose lives were jeopardized, and to the Sheriff himself, if innocent, that he should explain why he was unwilling to enter a hall where hundreds of the most respectable ladies and gentlemen of the city were assembled. If he refuses to do so, I maintain that it will be no injustice to hold him responsible for being privy to a most infamous plot to sacrifice scores of human beings at the behest and in the interests of that secret banditti called Fremasonry.

Friends of freedom in Marshalltown and throughout our whole country, is it not our duty and has not the time come when we should drive this treason-engendering enemy from our churches and sternly rebuke him at the ballot box? Increasing thousands are saying, Yes. Let us emphasize this declaration at Dayton, and by the help of God strike terror into the hearts of the dark hosts and cause their minions to quake with fear and hide themselves for shame.

J. P. Stoddard.

Presbyterial Conference at Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

Editor Cynosure: While renewing my subscription to your valuable reform journal, a thought has suggested the addition of an encouraging item or two from your cause in western Pennsylvania.

One encouraging feature is the readiness with which our thoughtful people listen to the discussion of these works of darkness which they conceive to have been the source of our late communistic disturbances; and the diligence with which they search to see if what your reform has been urging against secretism be true.

At a meeting of the Westmoreland Presbytery, U. P. church, held in this place, on the 4th and 5th inst., this subject was brought up for conference on Tuesday evening and ably discussed by that very learned and respectable body of ministers. The question discussed was: "Secret societies detrimental to the family, to the church and to the state."

Rev. McBride stated the question and prepared the discussion, followed by Rev. Kelso on the first topic. Rev. Young very clearly and forcibly presented the religious aspect of these societies showing them to be deistical and anti-Christian. His arguments were logical and his conclusions drawn from a wide induction of facts, proving, that by intentionally omitting and expunging the name of Christ from their creed, ritual and worship, they thereby become the enemies of Christ, although they profess to be his friends.

Mr. Vincent discussed the third topic alleging that the orders subverted good order, defied law and thwarted justice. He evinced much acquaintance with, and much study of the tendencies of these societies and their influence in courts and legislatures and the estimation in which Germany, England and other nations hold them. Mr. Vincent is an irrisistible debater, and so fair and gentlemanly as to win the applause even of his enemies.

Other members of the body participated in the discussion until a late hour, holding the people spell-bound by the unveiling of the mystery of iniquity which the craft labor so assiduously to conceal or to clothe in the garments of morality.

The impression made was good and many listeners have since declared themselves fully convinced that the lodge is neither the cradle of patriotism nor the friend of Christianity.

As usual, and as is to be expected, some of the craft declare themselves misrepresented, as a moralist will declare himself misrepresented by the pulpit that preaches that men who are not openly for Christ are against him. This is the misfortune of many candid lodgemen, that they have been blinded by the god of this world and made to believe a lie. Let us not speak censoriously of men but patiently expose these snares by which good men are deceived; holding up the truth as it is in Jesus with power and much assurance and with the Holy Ghost.

Rev. Young was elected delegate to the convention to be held in Dayton, Ohio, in October.

I am sorry to find so few taking the Cynosure, and have urged many advocating its teachings to subscribe. This is an encouragement which all sacrificing workers in the cause owe to the organ of the National Christian Association opposed to secret societies.

Yours truly,

F. Fisher.

Gentry Co., Mo., Christian Association.

In accordance with previous announcement, some of the friends of the reform movement, met at the M. E. church, in Albany on Tuesday, September 4, 1877. The meeting was opened by prayer and officers elected pro tem. Rev. E. G. Cooper was made President and J. P. Needels Secretary. The subject first discussed was the propriety of amending the constitution, which proceeding was attended to with interest. The election of officers for the year was next considered, which are as follows:

President—T. L. Gulick.

Vice President—Lemuel Beauchamp.

Secretary—John P. Needels.

Corresponding Secretary—George W. Needels.

Treasurer—E. G. Cooper.

Executive Committee—G. W. Needels, William Madden, E. G. Cooper, G. Sylvester.

G. W. Needels was voted to attend the National Convention as delegate, at Dayton, Ohio, on October 23, 1877. The business meeting was concluded with short, spicy and interesting speeches from a number present, encouraging and strengthening the faith of those who have so nobly stood in front since the beginning of the reform. Several dollars were given and pledged to help on the cause, which means more than mere sympathy.—Am. Freeman.

From Bro. Richards' Iowa Work.

Bowensburgh, Ill., Sept. 14.

Dear Bro. K.: During the past week, having engagements for three lectures in the U. P. church at Columbus City, Iowa, I repaired thither, and lectured on Tuesday evening, September 4th, Wednesday P. M. at 3 o'clock and Thursday evening to good audiences, which increased in numbers from the first to the last, on Thursday being unusually large.

The people of Columbus City manifested their interest in our reform, by being promptly on hand, and giving the best of attention to the discussion. The lecture elicited a good degree of discussion, not only on the streets of Columbus City but also at Columbus Junction, one and a half miles distant, and I think will do good.

Credit is due to the Rev. James Brown, D.D., of Columbus City, for his energy in giving thorough notice of the meetings. Rev. Bro. Elsey also was active in getting up a meeting in his church (Rehoboth) seven miles southeast of Columbus City, for Friday evening, September 7th, where we had a very good audience.

At the close of the last lecture at Columbus City, the following resolution was prepared and its adoption moved by Dr. Brown, seconded Father James Currie:

Columbus City, Sept. 6.

Resolved, That we have heard with interest and satisfaction the lectures of Rev. J. P. Richards in this place, in exposure of the origin, character and designs of secret associations. His lectures, by fact and argument, establish clearly their anti-Christian character, and their evil and dangerous tendency in a republican government, and we recommend him and his labors to the friends of the cause he represents and wish him God speed in his work.

[Signed.] Rev. Jas. Brown, D.D.
James Currie.

Adopted.

Correspondence.

A Good Day's Work.

Cameron, Marshall Co., W. Va., Sept. 6, 1877.

Yesterday I worked harder for the cause than I had previously done. The county superintendent of Green county, Pa., had an examination of teachers at a church about eight miles from my residence. Being president of the board of directors for one of the townships for which this particular examination was being held, I felt a desire to be present in the interest of our schools; but I was moved by a much stronger desire to do some anti-secret work in the distribution of tracts, and looking up parties outside of my own immediate neighborhood through whom anti-secret work might be done; especially did I desire to reach the teachers of youth. Furthermore I felt it a duty to make good use of my time and opportunities, as it was a sacrifice that did not "cost me naught;" for not having an idle horse to ride I was compelled to take one out of the plow in this busy time and turn the other loose, and set the plowman to doing chores, making the day cost me about three dollars cash.

I found the church about full of ladies and gentlemen and the examination in progress. They were mostly strangers to me. But at the noon recess after greeting the few families faces present, I cast about a little, and by and by, sat down on a board by the side of an anti-secret friend, drawing out a roll of tracts provided for the occasion, and he and I began to look over them a little, much as if they concerned merely our two selves. Immediately, as I expected, we were surrounded by a company of lookers on. Now was my time for work. I looked up to the bystanders and familiarly remarked that I and my friend were just looking over a few tracts that contained valuable information on secret societies, and if they felt interested in the subject I should be glad to offer them some of them. The group were about all secretists of some sort, but most accepted the tracts. One refused to touch a tract; another refused at first, then gave in a little and wanted several. This was the spokesman of the party and began at once the defence of the orders and an onslaught upon the characters and motives of the publishers of such documents. He asked me if I had ever joined any of these orders. I replied in the negative. He then assured me that nobody knew the secrets of these societies but those that had joined them, and that if they should expose them they could not be believed, and that I was opposing what I knew nothing about. Presently he declared that he knew the Masonic oaths, and these quotations were not true, I asked him if he had ever joined the Masons. No, he said. (He had told me that he was a "Knight of the Stars.") I then reminded him that he had just informed us that no one who had not taken these oaths knew anything about them. A few moments later I distributed a number of tracts to a group of ladies who received them gladly, and immediately began to read them and to comment upon them with a degree of intelligence that surprised and gratified me much. I would have much more of this day's work if I had space.

J. W. Moss.

President Hayes at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 17, 1877.

Editor Christian Cynosure—Dear Sir: Saturday night witnessed the reception of President Hayes here. The city papers are replete with glowing accounts of the doings; but the truth is, it was quite a tame affair considering the wealth and population of Cincinnati and its environs. There were less than one thousand persons in the escort from the depot to the Gibson House.

In the Sept. 6th issue of the Cincinnati Enquirer the following special dispatch appeared:

"A Body Guard for President Hayes.—Tiffin, O., September 5.—The De Molay Commandery of Knights Templar of this city, have been invited to act as body-guard for President Hayes at Fremont, Sept. 14th. They will accept."

It would be interesting reading matter to know if they discharged their duty as announced in the telegram. I find nothing said about it in the papers. Masonry did not turn out in her toggery in our streets, but nevertheless had her hand quite up in the affair as it transpired. The Gibson House was the point selected for the speechifying and attendant buncombe of the occasion. From every window of the house streamed a flag, and these flags were generally accepted by the multitude as the banners of all nations, but the well skilled eyes could here and there detect some Masonic devices—not square and compass most certainly, for such would have been just too plain—but others of a less conspicuous character such as the Templar's cross, the dragon and so on.

The Gibson House is situated on the west side of Walnut street, about midway of the block, between Fourth and Fifth streets. Walnut street runs north and south. In front of this house, commencing at a point on a line with its north wall and extending along the curbings of the sidewalk southwardly to Fourth street, were improvised gas jets surmounted with glass shades, elevated to about the height of a lamp post. These jets were arranged in three grand divisions. Masonry always has an eye to an arrangement which will embody a ternary allusion, so as to keep in mind her three symbolic degrees and the ruling power of her craft. The central division was a trifle more elevated than were the other two. In the middle of the center division was to be seen an illuminated five pointed star, the symbol of the talismanic power of the institution and the ever constant reminder of the five points of Masonic fellowship. On either side of this five pointed star were five jets—symbolic of Masonic light, in the cabalism of numbers—united making ten, which Mackey informs us denotes perfection and the consummation of all things. The five pointed star is made up of a triple triangle, which is a figure of five lines uniting into five points, and in the Pythagorean mysteries was an emblem of health. Masonry just at this time appears to be in a pretty healthy condition. The triangle being a symbol of deity in the Masonic nomenclature, becomes intensified in its reference when multiplied by the sacred number three; hence the five pointed star is ever looked to by the craft as the central blazing sun of Masonry and as a power above all power. Directly under this star President Hayes had to walk to enter the Gibson House. The arrangement was significant for the President as Chief Magistrate of the nation is the embodiment of all the power there is in the people as a corporate and political body, but above him and them is a power under which he walks which is supposed not to be seen by the world though perfectly visible to all who are schooled in its mysteries.

The southern division of gas jets were just eighty-one in number. This is the symbolic age of a Knight of St. Andrew or Patriach of the Crusades, which is the twenty-ninth grade of the so-called Ancient and Accepted Rite, and the eleventh conferred in a Grand Consistory. It is made up of nine times nine. Nine in the science of cabalism denotes perfect or finished, because nine months is the required period of gestation for a human being before birth. Now we are informed by Masonry that Enoch built nine arches under ground at the site afterwards occupied by King Solomon's Temple, and that at the bottom of all those arches were buried and concealed the Masonic mysteries, which were afterwards accidentally found and dragged to light. In the degree of the Knight of St. Andrew each arch is made to represent a birth, so that when a Mason has attained the light of that degree he has been born nine times, and as nine is the numerical representative for a birth the symbolic age of the Knight of St. Andrew becomes eighty-one. See it? Just as plain as a nose on a man's face, ain't it? Wonder if President Hayes has yet been inducted into all this? If not it will be strange if he finally escapes. The north division contained twenty-four gas jets; this is composed of three times eight, and eight is Masonically considered the symbol of a cube, and a cube represents a god and these cubes three gods, the exact number of persons in the Masonic godhead, and the number constituting the ruling power of her lodges, to-wit: a Worshipful Master and two Wardens. Of these twenty-four gas jets three were set a little off from the other twenty-one and a little closer together so as to give special significance to the whole twenty-four. These three jets were at the extreme north end of their division, and may be considered as the head of the whole column. Their allusion is explained by the cube.

I met a Mason and he not seeing Masonic devices on the globes, had not noticed the divisions and numerical arrangements of the jets until I called his attention to them. So soon as he saw them he acknowledged the corn and dropped the subject, except to make a brief and unimportant allusion to the Masonic flags. How subtle and cunning is Masonic craft! This matter apparently so unimportant, yet reads volumes. From it is to be drawn line upon line and precept upon precept. It is not to be wondered that the Mason boasts that his light is shining in darkness and the darkness comprehendeth it not, for such is truly the fact.

From here the President goes to Louisville, where he and his party will receive a more resplendent ovation and reception. It is worthy to remark, that every man on the committee of invitation that went to Washington and tendered him and his Cabinet the hospitalities of Louisville were Freemasons.

With these simple statements of facts I close my letter, leaving you to draw your own conclusions. Respectfully, J. H. H. Woodward.

They will not Hear.

Waitsburg, Wash. Ter., Aug. 31, 1877.

Editor Christian Cynosure: In a previous article to the Cynosure I stated some facts concerning the progress and deceptive workings of secret societies in this western country. I will here give a few more thoughts which may be of some interest to your readers. If there is any one thing more binding on Christians than another, it is surely the necessity and duty of seeking to know the whole truth "as it is in Christ Jesus." And especially is this so of the Christian ministry.

Last June, during the session of a Baptist Association, held at Pilot Rock, Umatilla county, Oregon, there were certain steps taken by that Association which clearly developed the true nature and spirit of secretism.

Dr. S. Simpson, one of God's truest servants, whose uprightness and Christian integrity cannot be disputed, also a member of that Association, informed me that he presented a resolution to that body of ministers, simply asking them, as Christian ministers, to investigate the subject of secretism in the light of the Bible, and know for themselves "whether it be of God, or whether it be of men." But to the sad misfortune of the church of Christ, the resolution was almost unanimously rejected, and not even the discussion of its merits allowed in the Association.

I relate this circumstance, not to throw any unjust insinuations on the Baptist denomination but to show the tyrannical and oppressive spirit of secretism.

Can we be true servants in the Master's vineyard, and be ignorant of the cunning devices of our Master's enemies? Can we be true ministers of Christ and not seek to know the truth "as it is in Christ Jesus," and say by our actions we won't investigate, we won't know the truth? I think Jesus would surely say no! In order to successfully combat the "cunning craftiness" of Satan we have the following instruction: "Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." (2 Tim. 2:15.) To study is to investigate, and "hold fast that which is good."

Let every true minister cry separation, and preach "Salvation in Christ alone." And let the daily watchword be "Come out from among them and be ye separate!"

J. C. SPOONEMORE.

Our Mail.

Rev. J. H. Keys, Onarga, Iroquois county, Ill., writes:

"As a Methodist minister, I fully endorse the position you have taken against all secret orders and combinations."

Andrew Alpaugh, Yates City, Ill., writes:

"Please send me another bundle of your papers containing Masonry at a Glance. I have calls for it every day. My shop is the only place in town where such papers can be procured; and I have been expelled from the Masonic and Oddfellow's lodges for having such papers in my possession."

The tyrannical spirit of Masonry shows itself in binding men not only to keep Masonic secrets but also to prevent others from revealing them when possible.

P. P. Swan, Oakwood, Oakland county, Mich., writes:

"When we read the Cynosure we give it to others to read hoping to do some good in that way."

His wife adds:

"I think your paper has just the right ring. May the sound of it go forth into all the land, that our nation may become free from the chains of Masonry."

Elijah Bacon, Chrisman, Illinois, eighty years old last March, renews his subscription for two and a half years; sends five dollars to the lecture fund and writes."

"I always have written without the help of glasses. I believe that I am the only man in this town who unfalteringly votes the American ticket."

Rev. A. Hard, Painted Post, N. Y., writes of the fund for the Publishing House:

"That must be raised."

Alex. Littlefield, Remington, Ind., writes:

"Carry the warfare to the very strongholds of Satan, and may God make your little paper a power to the pulling down of everything that exalteth itself above 'Our Prince Immanuel,' who must be crowned Lord of all and King of Kings. 'He shall reign until he has put all enemies under his feet.' O that glorious, soul-inspiring hymn

'Crown him Lord of all!'

How can any one sing it and not be inspired with more than human fervor and zeal? How can a Christian who may have been inveigled into any of Satan's man-traps, sing it and not feel that he can break his fetters and be a freeman in Christ Jesus once more; daring all the vengeance of men and devils combined, if he can but assist at that grand coronation and sit down at the marriage feast of the Lamb?"

Home and Farm.

A Wife's Power.

The power of a wife for good or evil is irresistible. Home must be the seat of happiness, or it must be forever unknown. A good wife is to a man wisdom, courage and strength; a bad one is confusion, weakness and despair. No condition is hopeless to a man where the wife possesses firmness, decision, economy. There is no outward prosperity that can counteract indolence, extravagance and folly at home. No spirit can long endure bad domestic influence. Man is strong, but his heart is not adamant. He delights in enterprise and action, but to sustain him he needs a tranquil mind; and especially if he is an intellectual man, with a whole heart, he needs his moral forces in the conflict of life.

To recover his composure, home must be a place of peace, of cheerfulness and of comfort. There his soul renews its strength and goes forth with fresh vigor to encounter the labor and troubles of life. But if at home he finds no rest, and is there met with bad temper, sullenlenness, jealousy or gloom, or is assailed by complaints and censure, hope vanishes and he sinks into despair. Such is the case with many who, it might seem, have no conflicts or trials of life; for such is the wife's power.—Sel.

New Remedy for Burns and Scalds.

Dr. G. F. Waters, of Boston, recently tested before the meeting of the Massachusetts Dental Society a new remedy for burns and scalds, consisting of the application of bicarbonate of soda, the simple cooking soda used in all families. The doctor dipped a sponge into boiling hot water, and squeezed it over his right wrist, the water flowing almost completely around the arm, and nearly encircling it with a severe scald two inches in width. Not content with this, he dipped the sponge a second time, and pressed it closely on the under side of his wrist for thirty seconds. He then applied bicarbonate of soda to the scalded surface, and laid over it a wet cloth, and the intense pain was banished as if by magic. On the next day after this severe test, the scald, with the exception of the part purposely made most severe, was practically healed, only a slight discoloration of the skin showing where the scalding water had flowed—this, too, without a second application of the soda. The flesh on the under side of the wrist had been cooked down to the sweat-glands, and the scald was one which ordinarily would have caused an open and painful wound of long duration. The only treatment of this, however, after the first application of the soda, was to keep the part moist with a wet cloth; and no pain was experienced, and it was but a few days before this severe wound was seen to be rapidly healing.

Winter Clothing for Children.

An exchange says: The same frosty but kindly agency which clothes October landscapes in gorgeous beauty impels the opening of chests and drawers where, since June, in fragrant cedar or aromatic camphor, our heavy flannels and woolen garments have reposed secure from the moth. The deep reds, bright scarlets, and warm browns, that offend the eye in midsummer look inviting enough now, and the soft, thick flannels seem to possess almost a human touch of warmth and comfort. While the price of coal has fallen, that of woolen goods has not much advanced, and even the poor may indulge the expectation of getting through the winter quite comfortably. But if the choice lay between clothes and coal, investment in clothes would be more economical. Everybody knows now, or ought to know, that he who wears abundance of clothing to retain the bodily heat requires less food to keep up warmth than does the scantily-clad person, and they who lack both clothes and heat-producing foods must be large consumers of fuel, or suffer. Since children cannot be expected to have correct judgment with respect to the amount, style, and distribution on their persons of their clothing, those who are older must exercise judgment for them, and dress them comfortably regardless of the fashions. It is not uncommon to find little girls of fond and indulgent mammas so attired as to invite attacks of croup, pneumonia and diphtheria.

With dresses barely reaching the knee, a single covering of hose from the knee to the ankle, and nothing thicker next the person than cotton flannel or muslin, it is no wonder that so many little girls die, or what is scarce one degree removed from death, grow up sickly and incapable of discharging in any fit manner the duties of wife and mother. While their brothers are clad in flannel from neck to toe and wear heavy suits of cloth, they, poor things, are often kept in short and cold white dresses, with thin shoes and thin stockings, though frequently wearing on their heads fur caps, and about their shoulders warm wrappings. The more uniform the covering of the body can be, as to warmth and weight, the more effectually are sanitary conditions complied with. Hence the multiplication of waists and bands and gathers about the middle of the body is not in accordance with the laws of hygiene. If wrappings are doubled anywhere, let them be so on the extremities. Boerhave's three golden maxims of health were, "Keep the head cool, the feet warm and the bowels open." We cannot expect children's feet to be warm during winter unless they are sufficiently covered. In this view the present fashion of "knee pants" for boys is unhygienic. Mothers who carefully observe their children's health know very well that boys who wear long pants suffer much less from coughs and colds than do the little fellows in "knickerbockers" and those mammas who keep their boys in short clothes should supplement their "suits" with leggins, which are both healthful and stylish. These come in a great variety of fabric—knitted cloth, velveteen, and gossamer rubber lined with canton flannel. Girls also need these leggins quite as much as boys do, and the same is true of women who are obliged to be out in all weathers.

ANTI-MASONIC BOOKS.

(Not our own Publications.)

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO

13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

FOR CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS OF

EZRA A. COOK & CO., See page 15 of the CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

☞ All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent. discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Freemasonry Self Condemned.

By Rev. J. W. Bain.

We now have a small supply of this deservedly popular book in paper covers, Price 20 cents each by mail.

Elder Stearns' Books.

Stearns' Inquiry Into the Nature and Tendency of Masonry With an Appendix.

458 Pages, in Cloth.....60 cents.
" " Paper.....40 "

Stearns' Letters on Masonry.

Showing the antagonism between Freemasonry and the Christian Religion.
Price, 30 cents.

Stearns' Review of Two Masonic Addresses.

In this scathing review the lying pretentions of the order are clearly shown.
Price, 10 cents.

Levington's Key to Masonry.

This is Rev. Mr. Levington's last, and in the judgment of its author, best work on Masonry. The contents of the Eleventh chapter are thus startling:

"Knights of the Golden Circle—Graphic account of them by a seceding Knight, and remarks thereon, showing the identity of the order with Masonry—Quotations from Sir Walter Scott."

This work is thrilling in statement, and powerful in argument Price. $1.35. 425 pages.

PRICE REDUCED.

Light on Freemasonry

BY ELDER D. BERNARD,

TO WHICH IS APPENDED A

Revelation of the Mysteries of Odd-fellowship by a Member of the Craft.

The whole containing over five hundred pages lately revised and republished. Price $1 50

The first part of the above work, Light on Freemasonry, 416 pages in paper cover, will be sent post paid on receipt of 75 cts.

FOR SALE BY

United Brethren Publishing House,
DAYTON, O.
and by
EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Ave, CHICAGO

Finney on Masonry.

BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE $1.00,

CHEAP EDITION,

Twenty-five dollars per hundred, by express and not less than 25 copies at that rate,

BY MAIL, POST-PAID:

Per doz.....$3 75,
Single copy.....25 c

GOOD TEMPLARISM EXPOSED.

Obligations of the Initiatory Fidelity, Charity, and Royal Virtue Degrees.

This is a small book containing only the Obligations and some of the Odes of the Good Templars.

Single Copy, Post paid,..... 10cts.
Per Doz. 75
Per 100 by Express,..... $4.50

Bernard's Appendix to Light on Masonry,

Showing the Character of the Institution by its horrible oaths and penalties. 25 cents.

ODD-FELLOWSHIP

JUDGED BY ITS OWN UTTERANCES;

Its Doctrine and Practice examined in the light of God's Word

BY REV. J. H. BROCAMAN.

This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-Fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. It was originally published in German.

Price, bound in Boards, 75 cents. Paper Covers 40 cents.

GERMAN EDITION, Entitled "Christian and not." Paper Covers 50 cents each.

HOW TO DEFEAT

Masonic Scoundrelism

Within the Court House.

By J. H. H. WOODWARD,

This pamphlet as its title indicates is designed to put all non-Masons on their guard against lodge trickery and especially to show how to meet and successfully cope with Freemasonry in our Courts.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 10 cts.
Per Doz. 75 cts. Per 100 by Express $5 00

Every Freemason a Blasphemer.

As proved by the Highest Masonic Authority.

By J. H. H. WOODWARD.

By quotations from a score of masonic works of unquestioned authority, the fact of the blasphemous ceremonies and teachings of Freemasonry are so clearly demonstrated as to make it evident that every initiate is of necessity a blasphemer.

10 cents each. 75 cents per Doz. by mail;
By Express, per 100 $5 00.

The Christian Cynosure.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, SEPT. 27, 1877.

A Solemn and Earnest Appeal to Congregationalists.

Dear Brethren: "Whose are the fathers;" and by whom, according to history, popular government has come and remains on earth, we beseech you to suffer this word of exhortation.

The National Congregational Council meeting at Detroit, October 17th, next month, was organized, as you know, at Oberlin, Ohio. Two prominent men were there, C. G. Finney and A. H. Quint; one now a saint in heaven, the other the only permanent officer of the Council. President Finney spoke to you, by request, on the baptism of the Holy Ghost. Dr. Quint, as I am informed by a worthy minister of Christ in Oberlin, smoked tobacco with a secession or anti-war Democrat with whom he companied. President Finney was received by the Council standing and with uncovered heads. Dr. Quint was elected to the virtual control and guidance of the National Council, by making him sole keeper of records and correspondence.

President Finney, as you know, while an unregenerate lawyer, was made a Freemason, but has said to many of you, as he said to me in these words: "As soon as I was converted to Christ, my moral nature loathed it." And in his book which you all have read, or can read without the cost of buying it; he solemnly says that it is preposterous to believe an adhering Freemason on his oath, since he is sworn to conceal, and by adhering affirms his obligation to conceal whatever concerns Masons or Masonry. This book was published before that National Congregational Council was formed; and if you believed that President Finney lied and slandered Freemasonry by calling it a "swindle," "blasphemy," etc., then every member of that Council, who, knowing or believing Mr. Finney's statements to be false, arose reverently and received him with uncovered head, was himself guilty of sacrilege, blasphemy and hypocrisy; and must answer to God for confounding the church of Christ and insulting the angels who guard it.

But if, on the contrary, Mr. Finney argues for and states the truth concerning the lodge which he had joined, and, of course, knew thoroughly; then Dr. Quint is a forsworn hypocrite, guilty, to borrow Mr. Finney's words, of a "perpetual lie" and so utterly unfit to be secretary of the National Congregational Council, or even to sit in communion with the churches of Christ! This last point is put with great clearness and force in President Finney's book.

I have heard no answer, palliation, or excuse for Dr. Quint, except some suggestions by Dr. Roy and others, that he (Quint) is not much of a Freemason, that he does not advise his people to join the lodge, etc., etc.

Let us see how much of a Freemason he is.

At a Ladies Missionary Society meeting, New Bedford, Massachusetts, January, 1872, Rev. T. C. Jerome made the leading address, and with other excellent things, said:

"Masonry is not free, and we have an odd rather than an even fellowship, where half the world is certainly shut out. Are the women not worthy such societies or are such societies unworthy of them?"

Dr. Quint, in reply, said "He was proud of being the Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Masons, and anybody who don't like it can't help himself."—New Bedford Republican."

See a full report in Cynosure, June 28, 1877. This was five years ago, a few months after his election as Secretary of the National Council.

Again, September 18th inst., a soldiers' monument was unveiled in Boston. And though the Masons, as such, took no part in the war, and boasted that Masonic signs would bring favors from rebels; and their chief organ, The Voice of Masonry, in the heat of the war condemned Northern Masons for obeying their officers, and charging on rebel Masons, saying, "Masonry knows nothing about this flag and that flag," yet the lodge came forward to honor the soldiers who fell in the war.

The Boston Herald has this paragraph on Dr. Quint, September 17th, the day before the unveiling of the monument:

"Rev. A. H. Quint, D.D., Masonic Grand Chaplain, will be unable to parade with any of the military organizations with which he is connected, on account of his participation in the Masonic dedicatory exercises. He was first chaplain-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic under its national organization, and performs his share of the Masonic services with the understanding that he be allowed to wear the badges of his Grand Army office."

And, on the next day, this Dr. Quint made a Masonic invocation excluding Christ.

Now we request our Michigan brethren and readers to take effectual means to report the proceedings of the Congregational Council at Detroit, October 17th, and especially to give us the vote on Dr. Quint's re-election as Secretary of that body, and, if possible, the names of those voting for him. If the memory of our fathers and of the Saviour of the world are to be insulted by continuing to put forward this person to represent American Congregationalism, there will soon be, both here and in Europe, two sorts of Congregationalists who cannot walk together in church fellowship.

The Praise of Men—Paul and Brigham Young.

Paul wrote fourteen epistles, received by the most enlightened nations as a portion of their Bible. His eloquence, his sound morals and powerful diversified character place him, as a man, among the leaders of the human race in the march of enlightment and elevation; yet

"His ashes flew
No marble tells us whither."

He is supposed to have been beheaded by Nero; but his funeral, if he had any, and his grave, like that of Moses, is unknown.

Brigham Young, no well-informed person doubts, ordered and approved the Mountain Meadow massacre; was red with other murders; was president of what was called "a latter day church of Christ;" yet repealed and scouted Christ's law of marriage, and human equality and Christian civilization. His followers were avowed rebels to a man in the late slavery rebellion, scoffing and insulting the national flag, and defying its authority. Yet the American press, even, with exceptions, the religious press, instead of treating him as a successful brigand or adroit bandit, chronicles his "last words," his lying in state and his funeral, thronged by thousands, as of some "veiled prophet" or Moslem chief.

Mormonism is Masonry. Joseph Smith, was often at the hotel of Samuel D. Greene, while he was a member of Batavia lodge, with William Morgan. He (Smith) learned his theory despotism of from the sworn submission of the lodge; his doctrine of assassination, from the bloody obligations of the order; and its practice, from the continuous murder of Hiram Abiff. The Endowment House is the human hell where devils are manufactured and drilled to run that system whose god is Satan; whose homes are harems; and its Constantinople, Salt Lake. And the only difference between our Masonry and Mormonism is that Jo. Smith, and Young after him, made their lodge clandestine, and directed it to a specific end like the Ku Klux Klan or the Golden Circle of the South. The power of Mormonism over mind, like that of Islamism, and every Satan worship, is in its rites. There lies its sorcery and charm. The "god of this world" gave Brigham Young, exactly what he promised Christ, viz., "The kingdoms of this world (so far as he went) and the glory of them," and on the same terms, viz., his worship: and whoever loves the praise of men more than the praise of God, is traveling the same road with Mormon and Moslem.

Godless School Books.—Stopping lately at the house of an excellent minister, his little children brought us their new school reading book. Looking it through, while we read "The Kitten says mew" and "The Dog wags his tail;" and, further on, learned how a good boy got a horse and cart; we observed that the name and idea of God was excluded and every thought or word which could lead to him. We are glad to insert the following action of the Wesleyans, passed by the Illinois Annual Conference of the Wesleyan Methodist Connection of America, in conference assembled, September 13, 1877:

Resolved, That this conference refuse to handle or use those books now being published for our common schools excluding the name of God and his Christ; and we ask all Christian people, and well-wishers of our Republic to unite with us in this action.

Elder Wm. Pinkney, Sec.
Elder J. L. Clark, Pres.

The Argument of Numbers.

The New York Independent foots up the denominational opposition to secret orders in the following paragraph:

It will be a surprise to many to learn that about half of all the Christian communicants in the United States, including Roman Catholics, belong to denominations which are opposed to secret societies. If the number of communicants in this country be placed at fourteen millions, nearly seven millions can be classed as opposed to secret societies, as follows:

Roman Catholics, say	6,000 000
Lutherans, say	500,000
United Brethren in Christ	144,000
United Presbyterians	78 000
Friends	60,000
German Brethren, or Dunkers, say	50,000
Mennonites	40.000
American Wesleyans	20.000
Free Methodists	6 000
Total	6,898,000

This table will be seen to be incomplete in the omission of the Reformed and Associate Presbyterians, while the Disciple church, the Seventh Day Baptists, the Adventists and Winebrennarians are with few exceptions opposed to the lodge. A very large proportion of the membership in the Baptist, Congregational and Presbyterian churches, and in the Methodist, aside from the pastors, are of the same persuasion. So that, omitting the Roman Catholics, who, while they oppose secretism outside of their pale, suffer secret orders under the control of the hierarchy, the proportion of one half the Christian communicants in the country holds good. The question is to bring together the influence and prayers of these Christians. Did they flow together efficiently the wheel would soon begin to turn which would grind the lodge to powder.

The Publishing House Fund.—A number of responses to Bro. Lewis' call for ONE DOLLAR subscriptions to this fund have been received from Prof. E. J. Payne, Wasioja, Minn.; John Lazenby, Jacksonville, Ill.; A. M. Durfee, Sherman, N. Y.; John Viall, Kearney Junction, Neb.; A. Hartzell, Golden, Col., while others have given larger sums. It is a good way to share in a noble enterprise for the advancement of the kingdom of Christ and at small sacrifice. During October before the National Convention meets let us have a Publishing House Dollar List numbering thousands.

ON TO DAYTON!—Bro. Dillon writes that a local committee has taken in hand the arrangements for entertaining the National Convention. Calls for lecturers are coming in and he is responding as far as possible. Reduced rates will be obtained on the railroads if possible and proper announcement made. Secretary Stoddard started for appointments in Ohio on Tuesday. He will work rapidly toward Dayton, and be in co-operation with the friends at that point.

—The call for tracts at the Chicago Exposition has exhausted the funds for that purpose in the hands of our publishers, Ezra A. Cook & Co., and friends are desired to contribute more and oftener to this good work. It is stated that 25,000 persons visited the Exposition on Saturday last, and the amount of good done by the distribution of 16,000 pages of tracts cannot be estimated. See the notice on 16th page.

—Rev. H. H. Hinman started eastward from Chicago on his way to Dayton on Friday evening last. His first point of work is at Etna Green, Kosciusko county, Indiana. We shall hear frequently of his labors and successes before the anniversary, and trust from a dozen other workers also.

N. C. A. EYES AND EARS AT THE EXPOSITION.

In some respects the location of the N. C. A. stand could not be better. The stairway near us, the fine view of the waterfall, and the convenient access to the elevator, are all favorable, while the birds-eye view of many machines at work below is better than on the lower floor.

Good fortune also attends us in having next us an attractive display at the stand of Professor A. E. Willis, who is well known as a practical phrenologist and lecturer through the country, and his interesting volume on Human Nature and Physiognomy with illustrations of eyes, mouth, etc., has peculiar charms for those who seek thus how to know human character. The many who pause to look at his illustrations and get their characters recorded, are a very likely class to look over our tracts, etc., and thus obtain a correct impression regarding the special and all-important work of the National Christian Association.

Some ladies approach. One had sympathy for our cause when she saw the tracts, but said she, "This lady's husband is a Mason." "Yes, and I've taken a degree myself," was responded. And so our position was politely announced in the blandest manner in this syllogism: "Masonry is a religion." That part being assented to—"It is not the Christian religion." This was also accepted. Then the conclusion came. "Therefore no Christian should be a Mason." Some glances, a trivial remark or two then onward and away.

A Presbyterian minister said he was in sympathy with us, but if he should come out as an Anti-mason it would split up and ruin his church. He knew however the injury that secret societies were doing and hoped soon to see more clearly what duty demanded and to follow that path.

Another of a different type now demands attention. "Hold the Fort!" The enemy makes a bold assault. The commander is a keen-eyed, wiry, black-haired, active man whose repeater rifle (alias tongue) is fired with great rapidity. He was not a Mason, did not believe in any God. Matter is eternal. Christ and the twelve apostles, etc., never existed. They were merely a form of the ancient mythical faith representing the sun and months, etc. The sun rose daily, that was what Christ's rising from the grave meant. Man could trace effects to causes but landed only in the unknown.

His musketry rattled, but we were unable to see any damage, and a discharge from the fort leveled his banners.

A Presbyterian minister from Canada on his way to Colorado heard some points of doctrine read from Mackey and was surprised. He accepted some tracts and a pamphlet.

A "son of a Methodist minister" defended Masonry, but acknowledged very soon that he had given up his early faith and if he was a good Mason would be content. Christianity and the Bible he had given up and he had read Tom Paine, etc., before he became a Mason, therefore, Masonry must not be charged with his scepticism! Thus the sceptic and Christian become brethren in the lodge and have not Christ to reign over them. T. H.

OBITUARY.

MICHAEL ARTMAN.—This aged and tried friend of reform died Aug. 29th at his home in Hillsdale, Mich., aged seventy-seven years and four days. Mrs. Artman writes of his sickness and death: "His disease was enlargement of the heart, causing dropsy. He was confined to the house some six or seven weeks previous to his death, but not to his bed. He was ready and willing to go at any time; so when the summons came he passed away very easy. He did not feel willing that any of our resident clergy, they all being secret society men, should preach at his funeral; and so an anti-secret society man, Elder Limbocker, of Litchfield, was called on, and he came and conducted the funeral services accordingly, which were held in the Freewill Baptist church."

ROBBINS BURRILL, brother of Dea. Willard Burrill of Oberlin, died recently at his home in Sheffield, Ohio. He was one who had, for Christ's sake and a testimony against evil, come out from the lodge, giving his name for a place on the roll of seceders.

THE CAUSE IN MISSOURI.

Bro. Needels of the Albany Freeman, has published the following notice to friends in Missouri, respecting their present co-operation:

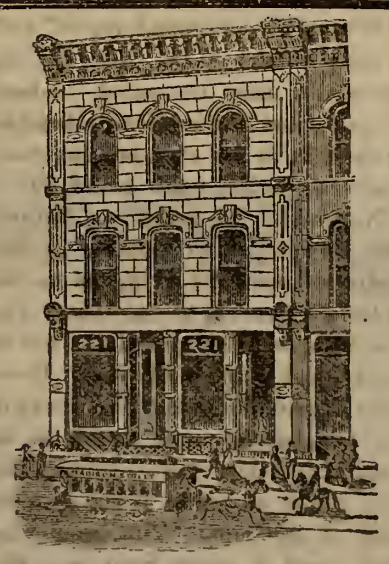
At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Christian Association Opposed to Secret Societies, of the State of Missouri, held August 11, 1877, it was thought best, for several reasons, not to hold a State Convention the present season.

The committee arranged for another meeting to be held at Avalon, Livingston county, Missouri, October 29, 1877. It is desired that all the officers of the State Association be present at that meeting and attend to the business of the Association the same as if a Convention had been held. The employing of a State Agent, and much other matter of importance will be to attend to.

The Executive Committee in the absence of the Association elected A. W. Geeslin as delegate and representative of the State Association to the Convention of the National Association to meet at Dayton, Ohio, October 23, 1877. And now you are requested to do what you can yourself, and engage the co-operation of the friends of our reform to raise the money to bear his expenses to the Convention. Hand it to the United Brethren minister who will take it to Conference, as Bro. Geeslin will go from there to the Convention.

There is much before us to do this year, and we must of necessity do with might that which comes first before us. And relying upon God that rules in the heavens, and that will reign upon the earth, we shall succeed.

G. W. NEEDELS, Cor. Sec'y.



Front view of the CARPENTER DONATION,

The National Christian Association

PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.—Pres. H. H. George, D. D., W. Geneva, Ohio

SECRETARIES.—Rev. W. H. French, D. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; H. L. Kellogg, Chicago.

PRESIDENT OF THE CORPORATE BODY.—Rev. J. B. Walker, D. D., Wheaton, Ill.

VICE PRESIDENT. — Philo Carpenter, Chicago.

DIRECTORS.—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, Archibald Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, H. L. Kellogg, E. Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, J. B. Walker, A. D. Freeman, Thos. Hodge.

RECORDING SEC'Y.—Thos. Hodge, Chicago.

COR. SEC'Y AND GENERAL AGENT.—J. P. Stoddard, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TREASURER.—H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The object of this Association is:—

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the churches of Christ from being depraved; to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform to aid the Association in either of these ways: (1) to establish a Publishing House and Head-quarters in Chicago; (2) to carry on the general work; (3) to maintain the State agents. All donations, (drafts or P. O. orders) should be sent to the Treasurer; general correspondence, etc., direct to the Corresponding Secretary

FORM OF BEQUEST.—I give and bequeath to the National Christian Association, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, the sum of——dollars for the purposes of said Association, and for which the receipt of its Treasurer for the time being shall be a sufficient discharge.

State Auxiliary Associations.

CONNECTICUT.

President, J. A. Conant, Willimantic.
Secretary, D. J. Ellsworth, Windsor.
Treasurer, C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS

President, S. B. Allen, Westfield.
Rec. Secretary and Treasurer, H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
Lecturers, H. H. Hinman, Wheaton, and J. P. Richards, Bowensburg, Hancock Co.

INDIANA.

Pres't, W. P. McNary, Bloomington.
Rec. Sec'y, H. Teter, Westfield.
Treas., Peter Rich, Westfield.
Lecturer and Cor. Sec'y S. L. Cook, Albion.

IOWA.

President, M. S. Drury, Western, Linn Co.
Cor. Sec'y, M. R. Drury, " " "
Rec. Sec'y, E. J. Grinnell, Charles City.
Treasurer, John Dorcas, Shiloh.

KANSAS.

President, H. T. Besse, Sterling, Rice Co.
Secretary, J. Dodds, Winchester.
Treasurer, C. A. Sexton, Topeka.

MICHIGAN.

President, H. D. Inman, Coldwater.
Cor. Sec'y, C. B. Remington, Fentonville
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Bruce, Hickory Corners
Treasurer, C. Quick, Weston.
Lecturer and Agent, D. P. Rathbun, Hickory Corners.

Communications for the Agent concerning lectures or the interests of the cause may be addressed to, or in care of, E. W. Bruce.

MISSOURI.

President, N. E. Gardner, Avalon.
Cor. Sec'y, A. D. Thomas, Arbela.
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Carpenter.
Treasurer, Wm. Beauchamp, Avalon
Lecturer, E. G. Cooper, Albany Gentry Co.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

President, J. F. Browne, Lewiston, Me.
Secretary, S. C. Kimball, Center Strafford
Treasurer, E. Smith, Center Strafford

NEW YORK.

President, L. N. Stratton, Syracuse
Secretary, W. A. Sellew, Rochester.
Treasurer, M. Merrick, Syracuse.
Lecturers—L. N. Stratton, Syracuse; Woodruff Post, Rochester; A. F. Curry, Almond.

OHIO.

President, H. H. George, W. Geneva
Treasurer, J. G. Mattoon, West Unity
Sec. and Lecturer, Wm. Dillon, Dayton

PENNSYLVANIA.

President, A. L. Post, Montrose.
Cor. Sec'y, N. Callender, Green Grove
Treasurer, W. B. Bertels, Wilksbarre
Rec. Sec'y, and Lecturer, J. W. Raynor, Montrose.

WISCONSIN.

President, E. L. Harris, Delavan.
Secretary, U. D. Lathrop, Millard.
Treasurer; Joshua Parish, Delavan

Address of Anti-masonic Lecturers.

General Agent and Lecturer, J. P. STODDARD, Christian Cynosure Office, Chicago.
For STATE LECTURERS State Ass'n list.
Others who will lecture when desired:—
C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
R. B. Taylor, Summerfield, O.
N. Callender, Starrucca, Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
P. Hurless, Polo, Ill.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Mercer Co., Ill.
J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
Josiah McCaskey, Fancy Creek, Wis
C. F. Hawley, Damascoville, Ohio.
W. M. Givens, Center Point, Ind.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
D. S. Caldwell, Clyde, Sandusky Co.,
A. Mayn, Promise City, Wayne Co., Mich.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
C. F. Wiggins, Angola, Ind
E Ronayne, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.
W. M. Love, Baker, St. Clair Co. Mo
A D. Freeman, Downers Grove, Ill.
Jas. Springer, Springerton, Ill.
A. D. Carter, Deersville, Harrison Co. O.
James McCleery, Monroe, Iowa.
R. Faurot, Kendallville, Ind.
J. W. Barlow, Ridgetown, Ont., C. W.

The Home Circle.

The Bright Days in Fall.

'Tis fall,
And calm, gold days
Are dreaming in the skies.
With amber light the far woods blaze,
The shadeless corn lands wear a listless haze,
The river level as the dun mead lies.
Her spell Enchantment lays
On glimmering hills—bright bays—
Wide ocean-ways—
On all.

'Tis calm
Before the end,
In nature as in life
'Tis bright at eventide. I wend
My way through woods where gold and crimson blend,
Through corridors where endless groups extend;
I sigh to think how soon the strife
Of piping winds shall rend
Each leaf and end
The charm.

So years
Grow calm and bright
With a resplendent light,
And discipline ends, and want and care;
'Tis autumn in the heart. The blight
Hangs o'er the leaf. The storms prepare,
And soon beyond the light
Lone winter's night
Appears.

'Tis sweet
In winter days
To mark warm rifts of light
In hedges old, where ardent sunsets blaze
Athwart the crimson seas. 'Tis a delight
On disappearing suns to gaze:
When spring her robe displays,
To follow through warm ways,
Where'er she stays
Her feet.

Then frost
May drain the streams,
But spring is in the heart; her form
We see; she lingers in our dreams.
The snows may fall, and loud may pipe the storm,
The winds return after the sequent calm
We heed them little after spring's first beams
Have lent the earth their charm;
Then winter seems
As past.

'Tis thus
With life; 'tis not
What we are now that joy imparts,
But the near prospect of our future lot.
In fall, approaching winter chills our hearts,
And near spring days the blank storm is forgot.
Like rare fruits by voyagers sought,
Ever from foreign marts
Sweet joys are brought
To us.

At last,
When life is old,
And vanished are its dreams,
Will prospects bright or dark unfold?
Will happy summers lift their fronded palms
In low horizons of fair seas of gold,
Or mystery's voiceless night enfold
Us in its dubious arms,
And leave a cold
Dead past?

The heart
True joy can know
Only when heaven seems near,
And faith sees a horizon dawn and glow
Beyond the scenes that fade and disappear;
When heavenly hills beyond earth's ranges low
Lift their gold summits fair and clear,
And joy—though earth turn sere
And falls the snow—
Impart.

—Hezekiah Butterworth.

Law and Grace.

HEBREWS VII.

The second time when the Bible became a new book to me, was when I discovered that the same covenant which, in Hebrews viii. 12, provides for our sin and our iniquities being "remembered no more," provides also, in verse 10, for our loving and obeying the commandments of our God. I saw that sanctification was by faith, as well as justification. That the same Saviour who delivers from the guilt of sin, delivers also from its power. And that the very righteousness which the law demanded, but failed to procure, was made possible and easy by grace.

Thus a second time the Bible became a new book to me; and from beginning to end I saw unveiled on its pages the blessed secret of living and walking by faith, under the new covenant of grace. Texts which before had no meaning, now became full of light to me. I marveled at my blindness in the past, and could not conceive with what eyes I had been all along reading it; for I had missed the grandest part of the gospel. It had been an unspeakable blessing to me to be delivered from the guilt of my sin, but it was infinitely more glorious to be delivered from its power. For to me the consequences of sin were not as dreadful as the fact of the sin itself; and to know that Christ came to deliver from this bondage was news indeed.

Many Christians try to live Christian lives under the covenant of works. They trust Christ for the forgiveness of their sins, and let him do it all, because they know they cannot help in this matter. But when it comes to their daily living, they feel as if the could and ought to help. It seems to them Christ has saved them from their guilt, and has started them out in their new life with certain powers of their own, which they are responsible for making the most of. And they seek by fleshly resolutions and efforts of their own, with the help of the Lord, to conquer their temptations and "keep the commandments," and to walk worthy of the high calling wherewith they are called, instead of living and bearing fruit altogether by faith in an ever-present Saviour (Gal. ii., 29; John xv., 4, 5).

No wonder the result is a failure. For we are just as helpless in the matter of our daily living as we are in the forgiveness of our sins. The one must be all of grace, and not of works, just as the other was. Resolutions and efforts and the works of the law, can no more enable us to walk in practical righteousness than they could secure to us the forgiveness of our sins. The same grace that saved us, must keep us. The same Saviour who bore our guilt for us, must do our daily work for us also. We cannot be Christians as to pardon and then be Jews as to living.

The covenant of grace is grace throughout. Now I would put the practical question to you each one. How have you lived, or tried to live your Christian life? You received Christ by faith at first, how have you walked in him—by faith or by effort? Under which covenant are you living now—the covenant of law, or the covenant of grace? For the two cannot be dovetailed together. They are in absolute contrast. They begin from exactly opposite points of the compass. In the covenant of grace, Christ does every thing, and we simply trust all to him to do. In the covenant of works, we do it all ourselves. You understand this, as to conversion, and I dare say have, many of you, preached it very eloquently and convincingly to the poor, struggling sinner, when he has been seeking to be saved by works. But have you ever thought that you yourself, on a little different plane, have been seeking to be saved by works? I mean saved from the bondage of sin! With myself my Christian life for many years was all works. It was do, do, do, from morning until night, I verily thought that if I did not do it, it would never be done. Grace had made me alive, I knew, but I thought that the law must keep me alive. I must strive in my own strength!

I have no doubt many of you are just like me. You honestly think it is the right way. But, dear friends, it is the Jewish way, not the Christian. The new covenant takes hold of the matter at the other end. It is not your working in order to make yourself right, but it is Christ making you right in order that you may work. He puts his laws into your minds and writes them on your hearts. He takes away your stony heart and gives you a heart of flesh; and he causes you to walk in his statutes, and promises that you shall keep his judgments and do them. He works in you to will and to do of his good pleasure. And your part in the whole matter is simply to yield yourself up to his working and trust him. As you have received him, so are you to walk in him. You received him by faith and you are to walk in him by faith also. From beginning to end of our Christian experience we are poor sinners, and nothing at all, and Jesus Christ is our all in all.

Now, dear Christian, will you let him? Will you hand yourself over utterly into his care and keeping, and yield yourself up to his working? Will you say, "Lord, I am helpless, I can do nothing against these enemies who come out against me. My only hope is in thee. Do thou fight for me and deliver me."

And then will you trust him to do it? Do you believe he is able? Do you believe he is willing? Can you leave it in his hand?—Mrs. R. Peasall Smith.

Evenings at Home.

It is well for the women of the household to remember that the pleasant evenings at home are strong antidotes to the practice of looking for enjoyment abroad and seeking for pleasure in by and forbidden places; for relaxation and recreation will be indulged in somehow by most men, and happy are they who find in the home circle the diversion they need. A lively game, and interesting book read aloud, or, in musical families, a new song to be practiced, will furnish pastime that will make an evening pass pleasantly.

A little forethought during the day, a little pulling of wires that need not appear, will make the thing easy; and different ways and means may be provided for making the evening hours pass pleasantly and a time to be looked forward to with pleasant anticipations.

We visited once in a large family where it was the duty of each sister, in turn, to provide the evening's occupation, and there was a pleasant rivalry between them as to whose evening should be the most enjoyable. The brothers entered fully into the spirit of the simple home entertainment, and were as loth to be obliged to spend the evening away from home as their sisters and parents were sorry to have them absent. Every one spoke of this family as an uncommonly united one, for each and every member showed such a strong attachment for the home to which each one contributed so much pleasure.—Ex.

The Schools and the Press.

The periodicals and newspapers printed in the United States very nearly equal those of all the rest of the educated world. In 1870 it was estimated that 7642 were published in Europe, Asia and Africa, and in our own country 5871. Since that time our publications have increased, it is supposed, nearly to an equality with those of all the world besides, and our forty millions of people read as much as all the rest of the hundreds of millions upon the same globe who can read at all. To our free institutions much of this inquisitive spirit is due; but to the common-school system we owe the capacity of gratifying our curiosity and cultivating a general knowledge of the condition of our fellow-men. It is estimated that the number of copies of newspapers and periodicals printed in Great Britain in 1870 was 350,000,000, and an equal number in France. The census returns show that in the same year 1,500,000,000 copies were printed in the United States. Our readers consume and pay for a periodical literature twice as great as that of the two populous centres of European civilization; and the census reports show how closely the progress of a demand for newspapers is connected with the advance of the common schools. Where there are no public schools, there are no newspapers; where the teacher leads the way, the press follows. In uneducated Georgia, for example, with a population of nearly 1,200,000, there are only 123 newspapers and periodicals; in Massachusetts, with a population of nearly 1,500,000, there are 280. The circulation of the newspapers of Georgia is 14,447,388; of Massachusetts. 107,691,952. In educated Ohio the annual circulation was, in 1870, 93,000,000 in a population of 2,662,-681. In uneducated Texas, five-fold as large as Ohio, with a population of 884,000, the circulation was 5,813,-432. Only seven copies of a newspaper are printed yearly in Texas for each inhabitant; in Ohio, 35; in Massachusetts, 74; in New York, 113; in Pennsylvania, 67. The total number of publications in North Carolina, we are told, would allow only one paper to each inhabitant every three months; New York prints 113 copies a year for each of its people.

California stands next in this proportion, and allows 83 copies a year to each inhabitant. Its people probably consume at home more newspapers in proportion to their numbers than any part of the world—a proof that the emigrants to the Golden State have been well educated, and their common schools effective. It would, indeed, be ungenerous to pursue further this contrast between the literature and intelligence of the different portions of our country. Temporary obstacles have divided us in this particular. We may reasonably trust that the common schools will win at last an equal victory and control in every section of the Union.—Eugene Lawrence in Harper's Magazine.

Children's Corner.

PROVIDENCE.

"Ah! what will become of the lily,
When the summer-time is dead?
Must she lay her spotless robes away,
And hide in the dust her head?"

"My child, the hand that bows her head
Can lift it up anew;
And weave another shining robe
Of sunshine and of dew."

"But, father, what will the sparrows do?
Though they chirp so blithe and bold,
When the shelter of the leaves is gone
They must perish with the cold."

"The sparrows are little things, my child,
And the cold is hard to bear;
Yet never one of these shall fall
Without the Father's care."

"But how will the tender lambs be clothed?
For you know the shepherd said
He must take their fleeces all away,
For us to wear instead."

"They are warm enough to-day, my child,
And so soon their fleeces grow,
They each will have another one
Before they feel the snow."

"I know you will keep me father,
That I shall be clothed and fed,
But suppose that I were lost from home,
Or, suppose that you were dead?"

"My child; there is One who seeks you,
No matter where you roam;
And you may not stray so far away
That He cannot bring you home.

"For you have a better Father,
In a better home above;
And the very hairs of your precious head
Are numbered by His love."

—PHOEBE CARY.

FREDERICK THE GREAT, AND WHY HE WAS CALLED SO.

BY AMASA LORD.

The present kingdom of Prussia is less than two hundred years old. At the commencement of the eighteenth century, there existed on the southern shores of the Baltic, the marquisate of Brandenburg, about as large as the State of Massachusetts and the small dukedom of Prussia. The Marquis of Brandenburg having come into possession of the duchy of Prussia, succeeded in having the united provinces recognized as a kingdom, with himself as king, and took the title of Frederick I. In 1714 he died and was succeeded by his son, Frederick William I. Previous to his accession to the throne, Frederick William had married his cousin, daughter of George, Elector of Hanover, who subsequently became George I. of England. On the 24th of January, 1712, a son was born to them, who afterwards became Frederick William II., or Frederick the Great—great not in wisdom or goodness, but "great like Cæsar, stained with blood."

When Frederick was a boy, "he was gentle, affectionate, fond of music and books, and clung to his sister Wilhelmina with almost feminine love." But he afterwards became a cruel fiend. One reason for this was that his father was a bloody tyrant, and trained his son to imitate his conduct. Frederick William I. was very desirous that his son whom he called by the diminutive Fritz, should develop warlike taste, deeming the disposition which he had exhibited unmanly, and soon began to despise and hate the child. Still he resolved to leave no efforts untried to make a soldier of his boy. When Fritz was six years old his father organized a company of high born lads to be placed under his command as colonel. When he was seven he was placed under the care of tutors who were directed to press forward his military education with the most merciless rigor. Said his father to them:

"You have, in the highest measure, to make it your care to infuse into my son a true love for the soldier business and to impress on him that there is nothing in the world which can bring a prince renown and honor like the sword; so he would be a despised creature before all men, if he did not love it and seek his sole glory therein."

When the boy had attained his fourteenth year, his father appointed him captain of one of the companies of the Potsdam Grenadier guards, composed of giants, the shortest of whom were nearly seven feet high, and the tallest nearly nine. When he was about seventeen, he was taken on a visit to the court of the king of Poland, which, at that time was exceedingly dissolute. He fell before the great temptations which he there encountered, and it was a fall from which he never recovered. His moral nature received a wound which poisoned all his days. On his return to Potsdam, where was one of the royal palaces, his dissipated habits clung to him and he chose for his companions those who were in sympathy with his newly acquired tastes and character.

Frederick William I., the father of Frederick the Great, was a tyrant not only over his other subjects, but in his own family. He treated them not merely with abusive language, but with personal violence. When the Crown Prince was eighteen years of age, he openly flogged him and then, adding mockery to his cruelty, said:

"Had I been so treated by my father, I would have blown my brains out. But this fellow has no honor—he takes all that comes."

Fritz, goaded to madness, attempted by the aid of a friend (Lieutenant Katte), to escape to England. He was arrested. The King in his rage seized him by the collar, hustled him about, tore out handfuls of his hair, and smote him on his face with his cane. He assumed that his son, being an officer in the army, was a deserter and merited death. He imprisoned him in a strong fortress to await his trial. He assailed Wilhelmina with the utmost ferocity, because she was in sympathy with her brother. "I hope," said he, "to have evidence to convict the rascal Fritz, and the wretch Wilhelmina, and to cut their heads off." "Katte," he exclaimed, "is guilty of high treason. He shall die by the hands of the headsman."

A scaffold was erected in the yard of the castle, where Fritz, then a slender, fragile boy of eighteen, was imprisoned. Katte was taken to the scaffold on the death cart. Four grenadiers held Fritz to the window to compel him to see his friend beheaded. Fritz fainted as Katte's head rolled from the scaffold. A similar fate had been designed for him by his father, but the Emperor of Germany and the kings of Poland and Sweden interfered and his life was spared.

Such were the influences under which the character of Frederick the Great was formed. On the 8th of January, 1733, he was by moral compulsion married to Elizabeth, daughter of the Duke of Brunswick. She was beautiful, amiable, accomplished, and of irreproachable character. But the Crown Prince was cold, severe and unloving. With undisguised reluctance he took the hand of his innocent bride and ever after treated her with the most cruel neglect.

[Continued next week.]

"Johnnie," said a man, winking slyly to a clerk of his acquaintance in a dry goods store, "you must give me an extra measure; your master is not in."

Johnnie looked up in the man's face very seriously and said, "My Master is always in."

Johnnie's Master was the all-seeing God. Let us all, when we are tempted to do wrong, adopt Johnnie's motto—"My Master is always in." It will save us all from many a sin, and from so much sorrow. —S. S. World.

The Sabbath School.

LESSON XL.—October 7, 1877.—PAUL AT CESAREA.

SCRIPTURE.—Acts 21: 8-15. Commit vs. 10-14.

8. And the next day we that were of Paul's company departed and came unto Cesarea; and we entered into the house of Philip the evangelist, which was one of the seven; and abode with him.

9. And the same man had four daughters, virgins, which did prophesy.

10. And as we tarried there many days, there came down from Judea a certain prophet named Agabus.

11. And when he was come unto us, he took Paul's girdle, and bound his own hands and feet, and said, Thus saith the Holy Ghost, So shall the Jews at Jerusalem bind the man that owneth this girdle, and shall deliver him into the hands of the Gentiles.

12. And when we heard these things, both we, and they of that place, besought him not to go up to Jerusalem.

13. Then Paul answered, What mean ye to weep, and to break my heart? for I am ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus.

14. And when he would not be persuaded, we ceased, saying, The will of the Lord be done.

15. And after those days we took up our carriages, and went up to Jerusalem.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"But none of these things move me, neither count I my life dear unto myself." Acts 20: 24.

HOME READINGS.

Acts 8: 4-8 and 26-40....Philip the Evangelist.
Acts 19: 22-27 ....Paul Bound in Spirit.
Acts 22: 22-30 ....Paul Bound with Thongs.
Mat. 5: 10-12 and Jas. 1: 2-4 ... Joy in Temptation.
2 Cor. 4: 5-18....It is a Light Affliction.
Rom. 8: 35-39....What can Separate?

Cesarea was a city on the west coast of Palestine on the line of the great road from Tyre to Egypt, distant from Jerusalem about 70 miles. It was at this time the head of Judea. It was the official residence of the Herodian kings and of Festus, Felix and the other Roman procurators of Judea.

Philip the evangelist is first mentioned in Acts vi. as one of the seven appointed to oversee the daily distribution of food. He appeared as a precursor of Paul in work as Stephen was in teaching. After preaching in Samaria and meeting the Ethiopian eunuch he finally came to Cesarea. He had not seen Paul probably for 25 years.

Prophesy, in a general sense was the foretelling of future events; but in the New Testament it is used also to denote the power of making known the will of God, as did Agabus and the daughters of Philip; hence a prophet might be a simple teacher in religion, an instructor sent from God.

SCRIPTURE COMMENTARY.

V. 8.—And there accompanied him into Asia, Sopater of Berea; and of the Thessalonians, Aristarchus and Secundus; and Gaius of Derbe and Timotheus; and of Asia, Tychicus and Trophimus. These going before, tarried for us at Troas. Acts 20: 4, 5.

Cesarea is mentioned Acts 8: 40; 9: 30; 10: 24; 11: 11; 12: 19; 18. 22; 21: 16; 23: 23; 25 1, 4.

And into whatsoever city or town ye shall enter, inquire who in it is worthy and there abide till ye go thence. Mat. 10: 11; Acts 9: 42.

Philip—Wherefore, brethren look ye out among you seven men of honest report, full of the Holy Ghost and wisdom, whom we may appoint over this business. Acts 6: 3-6. But watch thou; do the work of an evangelist. 2 Tim. 4: 5; Eph. 4: 11.

V. 9.—And it shall come to pass afterward that I will pour out my Spirit upon all flesh; and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy. Joel 2: 28, 29. Acts 2: 4; 13: 1; 15: 32; 1 Cor. 12: 28; Rev. 18: 20; 13: 1, 24, 31.

V. 10.—Then answered Peter and said unto Jesus, Lord it is good for us to be here. Mat. 17: 4; Gen. 30: 27.

Agabus—Acts 11: 27, 28.

V. 11.—The Holy Ghost witnesseth in every city saying that bonds and afflictions abide me. Acts 20: 23; Jer. 18: 11.

But holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost. 1 Pe. 1: 21; 2 Sam. 23: 1; Lu. 1: 70.

The Jews which were of Asia, when they saw him in the temple, stirred up all the people, and laid hands on him, v. 27. And Felix willing to do the Jews a pleasure left Paul bound. Acts 24: 27; 25: 9-12.

V. 12.—Then Peter took him and began to rebuke him, saying, Be it far from thee [or, Pity thyself] Lord; this shall not be unto thee. Mat. 16: 22; Acts 16: 6, 7.

V. 13.—Strengthen thy brethren. Luke 22: 32; Ps. 31: 24; 2 Tim. 4: 16, 17; Acts 20: 28. None of these things move me. Acts 20: 24; Mat. 16: 24, 25; Luke 14: 26; Rom. 8: 25; 2 Cor. 4: 16.

V. 14.—Thy will be done. Mat. 6: 10; 26: 42; Jas. 4: 15.

V. 15.—And when he had landed at Cesarea, and had gone up and saluted the church. Acts 18: 22.

"All men forsook me," is Paul's own account of himself, "But the Lord stood with me and strengthened me." Here is a golden hint for the young who are put to their mettle in refusing a sinful fashion or in bearing a jibe at their conscientious scruples. The young man who can be laughed into a glass of wine, or a game of cards, or a ball-room, may set himself down as a pitiable coward who can be pushed back by a straw. If he is more afraid of a companion's sneer than of God's frown, he is doomed.—Theo. Cuyler.

THE BIBLE IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

THE DUTY OF THE STATE TO ENFORCE THE EDUCATION OF ITS CHILDREN IN THE MORALITY OF THE BIBLE—SERMON BY THE REV. A. M. MILLIGAN, D.D., AUGUST 5, 1877.

TEXT.—"And these words which I command thee, thou shalt teach them diligently to thy children.—Deut. vi. 6, 7.

I hold it to be the duty of the ministry to improve passing providences, and interpret them in the light of God's Word, and when providences are thus fairly interpreted the lesson they teach is the Word of the Lord to the community to whom it is sent. Two weeks ago today this city was in the hands of a mob of wild, infuriated men, breaking into houses and freight cars, pillaging and burning property to the value of millions, and murdering the citizens and soldiers of the State. Last Sabbath in this pulpit I deduced from this providence the lesson that a nation or a city cannot be guarded from danger without Divine protection. Ps. 127:1: "Except the Lord keep the city the watchman waketh but in vain."

But there is another lesson in this providence to which I ask your attention to-day, in answer to the question, How was such a mob possible in the city of Pittsburgh? What were the elements of which it was constituted, and how came they here? I answer that whatever other characteristics may belong to that mob, there was one feature common to every man engaged in that riot and its destructive work; he had not the fear of God before his eyes. I do not apply this passage in the sense of his being a believer, for a man may have the fear of God in a way to restrain his passions, who is not a believer in the highest sense of that term, while no man can be a perfectly safe member of society who is not held in restraint by the fear of God.

But I see the term providence as applied to our calamity, and the idea that its teaching can be interpreted, criticised by the press, and by those who ought to know better. Do they forget the Scripture, "Is there evil in the city and the Lord hath not done it?" or Joseph's words to his brethren who had sold him into Egypt, "It was not you that sent me hither, but God." Or this, "The king's heart is in the hand of the Lord, and he turneth it whithersoever he will, as the rivers of water." If it be a providence, is it blind? Has it no meaning? Does God visit chastisement upon his people without giving them any means of understanding what he is correcting them for? What is the Bible for, with its multiform connections of cause and effect, of sins and their penalties, of providences and their meaning, but "that the man of God may be thoroughly furnished" to interpret at least the great lessons of God's dealings? Besides are there not laws in the moral as well as in the physical world? Has not God declared that "what a man soweth that shall he also reap?" And if we "sow the wind we shall reap the whirlwind." And if we have sown the wind and the whirlwind comes, is it not right to infer that it is the result of our sowing? I, therefore, infer that as we have had scenes enacted in our midst which men controlled by the fear of God are incapable of enacting; that our troubles are the result of having in our community a class of men who have not been trained up in the fear of the Lord; and I infer that in order to the safety of the citizens it must educate them to reverence and obey the commandments of God, and thus, by bringing itself and its citizens in obedience to God, to bring themselves under God's protection and secure safety.

The command of my text is addressed to Israel, not as individuals, but in their national, organic character as a moral person, an individual—Thou shalt teach them diligently to thy children. The precepts of the Bible that are addressed to individuals are for individuals, those addressed to families are for families, and those addressed to nations are for nations. Therefore I take the command of my text to be addressed to nations, to this nation. The nation should employ means to secure the education of its children. By the expression these words in my text is meant "the commandments, the statutes and the judgments" mentioned in the first verse of the chapter, that is, the law of God is applicable to nations. All parts of the Word of God are not equally important to any one end; some parts are intended for the personal salvation of individuals, some parts are for the guidance and direction of the church and her ministry, while other parts are as distinctly intended for men in their civil relations—for nations and their rulers. Of this latter character is this book of Deuteronomy, whose name means the second edition of the law. So also the ten commandments written on two tables of stone, as the constitution of the nation of Israel, organized at Mt. Sinai. The same is true of the prophets, the proverbs of Solomon, the golden rule, and the sermon on the mount. The doctrine of my text is that nations should see to it that their children are prepared for citizenship by a thorough instruction in the moral teachings of the Bible. There is at present a desperate attempt being made to exclude the Bible from the public schools. Against this attempt I lift my protest and present our recent calamity as God's voice of warning.

That the Bible should be taught in the school I argue: 1. From its character as a book. To this outcry against the Bible I may apply the question of Pontius Pilate to the Jews demanding the crucifixion of Christ: Why, what evil hath he done? What harm has the Bible done? that it should be singled out as the one book of all others to be turned out of school. Are its teachings immoral? Are its tendencies bad? I have never heard but one charge of this sort brought against the book, and that is that some plain utterances have the tendency to bring the blush to the cheek of modesty. To this charge I would answer that it is not the book that is impure, but the impure mind that causes the blush. "Evil to him who evil thinks." "The commandment of the Lord is pure," and if its warnings bring the blush to the cheek of guilt it only proves the necessity of the law. Our first parents were ashamed and hid, not because God's law was impure, but because they had broken it. The Bible never alludes to violations of the Seventh Commandment, but to warn against them. And what should we say to a code of laws that would make no mention of that sin to which humanity is most prone. If the Bible made such allusions to that evil as are made in many of our fashionable books that are to be found on our parlor tables it might well be banished.

But irrespective of its divine character, the Bible is the grandest book in the world. It contains the oldest and most reliable history, and many of its historical facts which have been called in question by skeptics have recently been confirmed most strangely by the discoveries of antiquaries among the ruins of ancient cities. It contains the noblest sentiments clothed in the grandest language of any book in existence, its enemies themselves being judges. Infidels writing the life of Jesus have acknowledged it to be the grandest character ever chronicled in story. Rousseau closes a most eloquent comparison or Socrates and Christ with this language: "Socrates died like a philosopher, but Jesus Christ like a God." The maxims of the Bible are incomparably superior to all the teachings of philosophy. Such men as Daniel Webster, Henry Clay and John Quincy Adams have confessed that their sublimest conceptions were caught from its sacred pages. Where is there anything in human language to compare in sublimity with the book of Job, the Psalms of David and the prophecies of Isaiah?

But it is to the moral influence of the Bible that I wish especially to call your attention. In the life of its prominent characters we have brought out and presented for our imitation the most manly virtues, and womanly graces, and even childhood's loveliness is touched with most exquisite grace by the inspired pen—while these pictures of beauty are set in contrast with their opposites in such a way as to bring out in strong relief the beauty of holiness and the hatefulness of sin; the gain of godliness and the ruin induced by sin, so that no one can rise from the perusal of its lessons without feeling that "the way of the transgressors is hard," and that "godliness with contentment is great gain."

The Bible like everything else must be judged by its fruits, and there is no other way in which its excellence and importance can be so well presented. Compare the man who is a diligent student of the Bible, who has a profound respect for its teachings and a high reverence for its author, with the man who never reads it or reads it but to scoff at its teachings and its author; and do I need to use any other terms to describe the most opposite characters? and do I need to ask any community which class is preferable? Even Tom Paine declared infidelity unbecoming a woman. Two travelers benighted on a prairie were compelled to seek lodgings in a rude cabin where the rough appearance of their host made them apprehend the danger of being robbed and murdered in the night, and they agreed that the one should lie awake with weapons ready for defence the first part and the other should watch the latter part of the night. Before they went to sleep the host took down his Bible and read a chapter, and then knelt in prayer. The next morning the Christian asked the infidel why he did not waken him at midnight. "Oh," said the infidel, "when I saw that old man read his Bible I knew we were in no danger, and I laid aside my pistol and fell asleep."

What is true of individuals is equally true of communities and nations. Compare those people who have been educated in the Veda, the Shasta, or the Koran with those who have been educated in the Bible. Compare India with England; compare Turkey with Scotland; compare China with America; compare Switzerland with Spain, or Canada with New England, or the North of Ireland with the South, and everywhere the same results. Where you find an open Bible you find intelligence, virtue and national prosperity and safety; where you do not find that book you find degradation, ignorance, poverty, disorder, despotism and national decay. The poet, contrasting Britain with China, says:

"From the shadow of the world we turn into the younger day, Better fifty years of Europe than a cycle of Cathay."

Queen Victoria when asked by a royal visitor the secret of England's greatness handed him an open Bible and said "that book." Three hundred years of the Bible in the parish school has made the rocky cliffs and heath-clad moors of Scotland the admiration of the world, while the want of it has made the most fertile fields of the Green Isle and the sunniest climes of Spain and Italy to be filled with barreneess and beggary.

The United States, with the Bible, has been the most prosperous nation in the world, while Mexico, without the Bible, is a scene of chronic anarchy and insurrection. Open the map of the world and place your finger on the spot where the Bible is an open book and read by the people, and there you will find order, prosperity and happiness; touch any spot where the blessed book is not read, and there you will invariably find misrule and misery. In our own land, in our own city, who are the prosperous, intelligent, order-loving citizens? Those educated in Bible morality. Who are the rioters, incendiaries, and dangerous elements of society? They are either the infidel communist or the ignorant papist, to both of whom the Bible is equally obnoxious—the one condemning it as false and fabulous, the other as too sacred for the common people—and yet where they have the power consigning it to the flames. From all this I argue that the Bible, as a book, of all other books, should be the book in which our children should be trained.

II. The Bible in the hands and hearts of the people is essential to national prosperity.

First—Because it alone can train a community capable of self-government, or of any free constitutional or republican government.

Train up a child in the fear of God to realize that "thou God seest me" and that for every wicked act and idle word God will bring him to judgment, and his character will be so in harmony with good government that he will hardly feel its restraining power. It is not the penalties of law, but the fear of God that keeps him from transgressing. He becomes not only a law abiding citizen himself, but a guardian of the law, an aid to the executive and a pillar to the government. But here again I prefer to appeal to history. That people to whom the oracles of God were given were a free people, originally a republic, governed by their judges, and although afterwards they chose a king it was against the Divine remonstrance, and even then their kings were limited by a constitution and laws of divine enactment. In modern times who are the people who have achieved liberty and free government? John Calvin and Protestants of Switzerland created the Genevan Republic; William the Silent and Calvinists of the Netherlands formed the Dutch Republic of Holland; Pym, Hampton, Sydney, Cromwell and the English Puritans gave liberty to England; John Knox, Argyle, Melville, Henderson, Cameron and the Covenanters gave freedom to Scotland, and the Puritans of England, the Covenanters of Scotland, the Presbyterians of Ireland, the Huguenots of France and the Dutch Reformed from Holland brought the seeds of liberty here and planted our Republic. In every instance it was a people taught in the Scriptures who achieved the liberty of their country.

On the other hand where has infidelity or Popery ever formed a permanent republic? At the close of the last century—nearly a score of years after the birth of our Republic, France cut off the head of Louis XVI. and proclaimed a Republic, and what was the result? Wild anarchy run riot, property was confiscated and destroyed, whole villages were consumed to ashes, the noblest citizens were hurried to trial and execution without a shadow of crime. The guillotine was running night and day and the gutters of Paris were running with human blood. No citizen was safe, property was worthless and the grandest trophies of art were ruthlessly destroyed. What was the cause? The answer is plain—over the portal of the National Assemby was the inscription "There is no God"—over the gate of the cemetery—"Death is an Eternal Sleep and there is no Resurrection." The Bible was voted "a fable" and burnt in the streets, and a harlot woman was proclaimed "The Goddess of Liberty."

Again in 1848 Louis Phillippe fled from the throne and France again became a republic, but in one night Louis Napoleon, its President, overturned the republic and established an empire which for twenty years held liberty-loving France in the grasp of a despot. Yet again when the empire was crushed by the Prusslans at Sedan, the Commune again took possession of Paris, to destroy with vandal hands the fairest monuments of arts, to lay waste the fairest parts of the city, to murder their prisoners and helpless women, and at this moment the republic trembles as on the crater of a volcano. Where is the Roman republic of 1848? Although such men as Mazzini, Gavazzi and Garibaldi were at its formation it perished, because its people trained by the priesthood to hate the Bible, were incapable of maintaining a republic. The same is true of Spain. Even the eloquent statesman and patriot Castelar could not fan it into life, but it has sunk back into Bourbon despotism. Invariably infidelity with its anarchy, and popery with its despotism, make true liberty and republicanism impossible; and where would our republican liberty be if the Communistic and Catholic elements of our cities were in the ascendant? It would not be at all. I repeat my assertion, and reason and history confirms it, that only a people educated in the Bible are capable of self-government and republican liberty; the rest can only be controlled by priests and despots.

2. The Bible is essential to national prosperity, because by its precepts and principles alone can a nation be brought under the government and protection of God. Ps. 144: 15. "Happy is that people whose God is the Lord." It is manifest that that nation only is safe or prosperous that is under the Divine protection and care. It is equally manifest that God will not long protect or care for a nation that refuses to submit to his government. Allegiance and protection are correlates. No government is bound to protect rebels. Therefore, the way to national prosperity is to anchor the ship of state to the throne of God and place the sceptre of its rule in the hand of the Supreme. How is this to be accomplished? Only by accepting the revealed will of God as its standard of law, and owning allegiance to Divine authority.

But let us look at this in the light of reason and experience. How much respect or obedience will a people render to a law or to a ruler which is only the expression of the will of a bare majority, which may be changed in an hour. The law, or the ruler, is only the creature of their creation, and they can unmake it at will. But if the law be the will of the unchangeable law-giver, if the magistrate be God's minister, to resist the magistrate is to resist the ordinance of God, and receive damnation. The law of God was originally written in the nature of man, but it has been blurred and effaced by sin until selfishness, dishonesty and oppression has taken the place of patriotism in the hearts of men. It is only in the Bible that the law of God can be clearly read, and by accepting its enactments only can nations place themselves under his government, guidance and protection. If a nation desires to be the "happy people whose God is Jehovah," the way to accomplish it is to accept that Word as the ultimate test by which all its laws must be tried, and the authority from which they derive their power. A self-governing people must have the law to which they submit themselves distinctly in their minds, and high in their estimation and regard. This can be done by teaching our children to read the Scriptures—not as they would another book, but as the "higher law" of the land; as the will of that God under whose government and protection our nation exists and prospers.

3. Nations should enforce the study of the Scriptures upon all the children of the land, because God commands it. I have hitherto argued this obligation on rational grounds, but now I make my appeal to the authority of God. My text, as I have shown, is a command of God to nations; a command which they disobey at their peril—not only the danger arising from natural causes, but from the wrath of the insulted Ruler of Nations. God punishes the violations of his law not only by the outworking of natural laws, but also by direct interpositions of his providence, so that an accidental spark and the winds of heaven may lay a city in ashes. So a population, irritated by unjust discriminations against their city, large numbers of men idle in a financial crisis, a railroad strike, and Sabbath time, and an accidental shot, may concur in the providence of God to produce an excitement which no power can control, until the ruin we have seen is the result. Every one of the thousand influences which went to produce these results are in the hand of God, and he guides them at his pleasure; wicked men and devils as well as angels are the agents by whom he accomplishes his purposes. Was it by accident that the catastrophe by which more than two hundred lives were lost at New York by the sinking of a ferry boat in which a party of pleasure seekers were violating the Sabbath occurred? Was it by accident that Chicago was burnt on the Sabbath; and especially that part of the city which had just voted for Sabbath desecration? Was it by accident that Boston was burnt on the Sabbath, and that our Pittsburgh disaster was on the Sabbath? or is there not significance in these judgments, telling us that God is avenging the desecration of his holy day; and if we will not see we shall see that God is pleading a controversy with us as a nation for the dishonor done to his law and authority. God is saying to us by these judgments, "Turn ye at my reproof, turn ye, why will ye die. Why should ye be smitten any more, ye will revolt more and more. Acknowledge my authority, teach your children to know and obey my law, or perish."

4. This nation should diligently enforce the study of the Word of God in the public schools because of the violent opposition arrayed against it. Fas est ab hoste doceri. "It is proper to be taught by our enemies." The point of the enemy's attack warns us of the place of danger.

We have in this nation two elements hostile to our Republican institutions: The infidel Commune and the Jesuitical Priesthood. The Commune has an organization extending over the nations of Europe, bound together by oaths of most horrible character. Their purpose is the overthrow of every existing government, and the establishment of a world-wide Commune; hence they call themselves Internationals, as they sacrifice their nationality to their common cause. They seek to destroy every element of greatness and bring all to a common level; to divide the wealth of the world among their partisans and rule by the will of the mob. It is the spirit of wild anarchy. They cry, Down with the Bible in the school; down with Sabbath; down with every Christian feature of government.

The other element, while very opposite in many respects, is also similar. Jesuitry also seeks the destruction of every government on earth, or what is the same thing, the subjugation of every government on earth to the Roman pontiff, and thus they seek to establish a world empire with the Pope at its head. Hence they are carrying on the conspiracy in every nation and capital. France is to-day in the throes of revolution by Jesuitical intrigues. Germany with the astute Bismarck at the helm, is taxed to the utmost to resist their intrigues. Spain has just succumbed to their power; its republic has fallen, and she has sunk back into the despotic arms of the Bourbons and the priesthood. England has constant trouble from the same cause in Ireland. Mexico is in a state of chronic insurrection from the same influence, and in our own country one of the great political parties is in the hands of the Jesuits—and the same power controlling the rabble in our streets, and the incendiary elements in our mobs is crying, Down with the Bible in the school and down with the school, down with the Sabbath; and as soon as they dare they will cry down with the Republic. Their assault upon the Bible, the school and the Sabbath indicate that Jesuitical cunning understands that these are the three pillars of the Republic, and only by the destruction of these can they hope to succeed, and they will readily combine with the Commune in their common work of destruction—each expecting to foil the other in their future building. I say, Learn from our enemies where our danger lies. Fill up the gap; repair the branches; restore the Bible to the schools; compel every child of the nation to attend the nation's, not Rome's, schools for training recruits, and thus save the legacy our fathers left us—freedom to worship God.

Religious Intelligence.

NOTE.—In this department we shall insert hereafter all notices from churches or pastors respecting situations where the principles of our reform are to be maintained in truth and righteousness. We wish to make the Cynosure more and more a medium of communication between all the churches which either independently or in a denominational capacity forbid the lodge. The following notice is in accordance with this purpose:

Any church wanting a minister opposed to secret societies and all other sins of this age, would do well to address, Baptist Minister, Box 17, Azatlan, Jefferson county, Wis.

—Deacon O. A. Willard, of the First Baptist church of this city and one of the editors of the Evening Post, will commence a series of Bible readings this week Friday evening. He held such meetings in the parlors of the Brevoort House last winter during the revival with great spiritual benefit to many.

—The noonday meeting at Farwell Hall shows an increased attendance, the room on some days being full and many standing, over three hundred being present. Major D. W. Whittle, the evangelist, has conducted several meetings lately. On Monday he led for the last time before going East to join Mr. Moody in New England.

—The first Sunday in October is the day upon which all the churches having missions in the Celestial Empire are requested by the Missionry Conference at Shanghai to pray for the extension of Christianity in China. The Methodist bishops and missionary secretaries call the attention of Methodist churches to the request, and urge them to observe it. We trust that other denominations will do likewise, and that the result may be a larger interest in the Christianization of the Chinese.

—The Friends Iowa Yearly Meeting was held at Oskaloosa opening September 5th. A number of speakers and laborers among the Friends were present from England, Indiana and Ohio. The number of ministers in the yearly meeting was reported to be 123; of members, 8,664; 539 have been received. The Friends are very searching in their records, as they put down the following: No. of families that read the Scriptures daily 977, occasionally 19; No. who have taken or administered oaths 6; No. of males using tobacco 577, of females 99; No. who sell the weed 29, who raise it 9.

—The Rock River Conference of the United Brethren church meets this year at Coleta, Ill. The Christian Radical publishes the list of members. Bishop Wright presides.

News of the Week.

—As we go to press a terrible fire in Washington is reported which has destroyed the Patent Office among other valuable buildings.

—The western-bound Chicago express train, due at Rome, N. Y., at 5:15 P. M., Saturday, collided with a pick-up freight train, by a misplaced switch, one mile east of the Rome depot. Both engines were completely wrecked, and the mail and baggage cars smashed. Three railroad employes were killed and a number severely injured.

—The entire abundant crops of cotton, corn and fodder in the valley of the Black Warrior, Alabama, were swept away by the river's sudden great rise last week, which is within two feet of the terrible freshet of June, 1872. Planters had just commenced picking cotton, and had not hauled the corn and fodder from the fields. The cotton crop destroyed is estimated at 30,000 bales. Most of the planters are ruined and it is doubtful if the actual necessaries of life can be secured now. Tuscaloosa is about the head of the devastated section.

—The cattle disease has been raging for some weeks in various parts of Cleveland and outlying country. Since the disease first made its appearance one hundred and thirty-nine cows have died. The general theory is that the disease is a fever of some kind, and is communicated to native cattle by Texas steers brought here to be slaughtered, many of which are pastured in the surrounding country for a time. The fever is very contagious.

—A great demonstration of workmen of Northumberland and Durham was held on the town moor of Newcastle, Saturday afternoon, in honor of General Grant. Twenty-two trade societies participated in a procession which occupied twenty minutes in passing a given point. The number of persons present on the moor is estimated at forty to fifty thousand.

—In Bulgaria severe fighting before Plevna ceased on the 19th, the Russians holding the Grivica redoubt and pushing their operations by sapping. Osman Pasha has been reinforced in Plevna. The Turks have again assaulted the Russian position in Schipka Pass and have been repulsed. An attack by them on the Russian army on the river Lom near Rustchuck was also repulsed. Some authorities state that the Russian aggressive campaign is probably ended for this season. Possibly diplomacy may prevent its renewal. If so it will be because Turkey is constrained by Germany and Austria to grant terms of peace acceptable to Russia, which would at the same time aggraudize their territory at Turkey's expense. The purpose of the recent interview at Salzburg between Bismarck and Andrassy is now believed to have been to devise a concerted plan of action to that end. Germany and Austria cannot afford to permit Russian overthrow, which would light fires of revolution in the Czar's empire, and thus endanger the entire continent. Their ability to foment Servian, Roumanian and Montenegrin active hostility against the Turks, no less than the danger of Austro-Germanic armed intervention, would leave Turkey little choice but to accept their dictation.

Descriptive Catalogue of Publications of Ezra A. Cook & Co.

113 Wabash Ave. Chicago

BOOKS.

☞ Books at Doz. or Retail Prices sent post-paid. Not less than one-half doz. sent at dozen rates. By the 100 (25 Copies at 100 rate,) Expressage or Postage extra.

☞ Books sent by Mail are not at our risk.

Books at retail or by the dozen, ordered by Express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK; party ordering to pay Express charges.

FREEMASONRY EXPOSED,
by CAP'T. WILLIAM MORGAN.

THE GENUINE OLD MORGAN BOOK:—republished with engravings showing the Lodge Room, Dress of candidates, Signs, One Guards, Gripe, Etc.

This revelation is so accurate that Freemasons murdered the author for writing it. Thousands have testified to the correctness of the revelation and this book therefore sells very rapidly.

Price 25 cents.

Per Doz. Post Paid..... $3.00
Per hundred by express, (express charges extra.).....$10.00

ODD FELLOWSHIP ILLUSTRATED.

A complete exposition of the Lodge Encampment and Rebecca (Ladies') Degree. The Signs, Gripe, &c., shown by engravings.

Single copy, post paid,.....$ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per Hundred, Express charges extra,..... 10 00

EXPOSITION OF THE GRANGE.

EDITED BY REV. A. W. GREELIN.

Illustrated with Engravings showing Lodge Room, Signs, Signals, etc.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 10 00

Judge Whitney's Defense Before the Grand Lodge of Ill.

Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the Lodge when S. L. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the Lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 20
Per Doz " " 1 50
Per 100, Express charges extra..... 8 00

History of The Abduction and Murder Cap't. Wm. Morgan,

As prepared by Seven Committees of Citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan.

This book contains indisputable, legal evidence that Freemasons, abducted and Murdered Wm. Morgan, for no other offence than the revelation of Masonry. It contains the sworn testimony of over twenty persons, including Morgan's wife, and no candid person after reading this book, can donbt that many of the most respectable FREEMASONS. in the Empire State, with others were concerned in this crime.

Single Copy, post Paid,... ..... 25 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $2,00.
Per 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 10.00.

Valance's Confession of The Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan.

This confession of Henry L. Valance, one of the three Freemasons who drowned Morgan in the Niagara River, was taken from the lips of the dying man by Dr. John C. Emery, of Racine County, Wisconsin in 1848; The confession bears clear evidence of truthfulness.

Single copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $1.50.
Per 100 Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

The Mystic Tie or Freemasonry a League with the Devil.

This is an account of the Church Trial of Peter Cook, and wife of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a Reverend Freemason; and their very able defence presented by Mrs. Lucia C. Cook, in which she clearly shows that Freemasonry, is antagonistic to the Christian Religion. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents

Per dozen, post paid..... $1 50
Per hundred Express charges Extra,..... 9 00

NARRATIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

Showing the Conflict of Secret Societies with the Constitution and Laws of the Union and of the States, by FRANCIS SEMPLE.

The fact that Secret Societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of Law is here clearly proved.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20
Per doz. " " $1.75
Per 100 Express charges Extra..... 9.00

THE BROKEN SEAL.

OR PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF Wm. MORGAN,

By SAMUEL D. GREENE,

Price in cloth, $..00. Paper covers, 50 cents.

In Paper Covers per Doz. Post paid.....$4 50
" per hundred by express (ex. charges extra $25.00

Capt. Wm. Morgan was Mr. Greene's neighbor in Batavia, N. Y., and a member of the same lodge with him at the time of the great excitement in 1826. The titles to these chapters are sufficiently exciting to give the book a large sale:—"The Storm Gathering;" "Abduction of Morgan;" "Attempted Abduction of Miller and his Rescue;" "What became of Morgan;" "What Morgan Actually Revealed;" "Confession of the Murderer;" "Allegations against Freemasonry, etc."

THE ANTI-MASON'S SCRAP BOOK, CONSISTING OF 21 CYNOSURE TRACTS.

In this book are the views of more than a Score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of Secret Societies.

The dangerous tendency and positive evil of organized Secrecy is here shown by the most varied and powerful arguments and illustrations that have ever been given to the public.

Lecturers and others who wish to find the best arguments against the Lodge, should send for this book.

Those who wish to circulate Antimasonic Tracts ought to have the book to select from.

Single Copy, post paid,.....20 cents.
Per Doz. " $1.75
Per 100, Express charges Extra,.....$10.00

Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion.

A clear cutting argument against the Lodge, from a Christian Stand point.

Single Copy post paid.....$ 05
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 3 00

PHELPS' SECRET SOCIETIES Ancient and Modern.

A NEW BOOK OF GREAT INTEREST.

This work is particularly commended to the attention of Officers of The Army and Navy, The Bench and The Clergy.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

"THE ANTIQUITY OF SECRET SOCIETIES, THE LIFE OF JULIAN, THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES, THE ORIGIN OF MASONRY, WAS WASHINGTON A MASON? FILMORE'S AND WEBSTER'S DEFERENCE TO MASONRY, A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRESS OF MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES, THE TAMMANY RING, MASONIC BENEVOLENCE, THE USES OF MASONRY, AN ILLUSTRATION, THE CONCLUSION."

Single Copy, Post Paid..... 50
Per Doz " " $4 75
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$25 00

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' LETTERS to Col. Wm. Stone, Edward Livingstone,

and others, on the nature of

Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties.

Price, post paid.....$ 50
Per Doz., " 4 50
Per 100, Express Charges extra..... 25 00

COLLEGE SECRET SOCIETIES.

Their Customs, Character and the Efforts for their Suppression.

BY H. L. KELLOGG.

Containing the opinion of many prominent College Presidents, and others, and a FULL ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER OF MORTIMER LEGGETT

Single Copy, post paid.....$ 35
Per Doz " " 2 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 15 00

MINUTES OF THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION,

Containing addresses by Rev. B. T. Roberts, Chas. D. Greene, Esq., Prof. C. A. Blanchard, Rev. D. P. Rathbun, Rev. D. S. Caldwell, Mrs. M. E. Gage, Elder J. R. Baird and others. Unpublished Reminiscences of the Morgan Times, by Elder David Bernard; Recollections of the Morgan Trials, as related by Victory Birdseye, Esq., and presented by his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Miller; Secretary's report; roll of delegates; songs of Mr. G. A. Clark; paper by Enoch Honeywell; Constitution N. C. A.; reports of committees, and a report of the political meeting.

Single Copy, post paid, ... 25
Per doz. " " $2.00
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 10.00

Proceedings of the Pittsburgh Convention,

Containing Official Reports; Addresses by Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. Rev. S. T. Roberts, Rev. G. T. R. Meiser, Prof. J. R. W. Sloane, D. D., Pres't. J. Blanchard, Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D., Rev. Woodruff Post, Rev. Henry Cogswell, Prof. C. A. Blanchard, and Rev W. E. Coquilette, also Report of the POLITICAL MASS CONVENTION, with Platform and Candidates for the Presidential Campaign of 1876.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25 cts.
Per doz " $2 00
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 10 00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. W. P. M'NARY,

Pastor United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Ind.

This is a very clear, thorough, candid and remarkably concise Scriptural argument on the character of Freemasonry.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 5
Per Doz,..... 50
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$3 00

THIRTEEN REASONS

Why a Christian Should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong.

The author states his reasons clearly and carefully, and any one of the thirteen reasons, if properly considered, will keep a Christian out of the Lodge.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 5
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100, Express charges extra, ... $3.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. JAMES WILLIAMS.

Presiding Elder of Dakota District North-western Iowa Conference, M. E. Church, A SECEDING MASTER MASON.

Published at the special request of the Nine Clergymen of different denominations and others.

Single Copy, post paid..... 10
Per doz. " " 75
Per 100, Express Charges Extra.....$4.00

MASONRY A WORK OF DARKNESS

ADVERSE TO CHRISTIANITY, and Inimical to a Republican Government.

BY REV. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG, [Presbyterian.]

A Seceding Mason of 21 Degrees.

This is a very telling work and no honest man that reads it will think of joining the lodge. Single Copy, post paid,.....20cts.

Per doz, post paid,..... $1.50.
" 100, Express Charges Extra..... 8.00.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy.

Address of Prest. J. BLANCHARD, before the Pittsburgh Convention.

This is a most convincing argument against the lodge.

Single Copy, Post Paid .....$ 05
Per Doz " " 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON SCERETISM

BY REV. R. THEO. CROSS.

This is a very clear array of the objections to Masonry that are apparent to all.

By Rev. R. T. Cross, Pastor Congregational Church, Hamilton, N.Y.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

Its relation to civil Government and the Christian Religion.

By Prest. J. BLANCHARD, at the Monmouth Convention.

The Unchristian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is here proved from the highest masonic authorities.

Single Copy, Post Paid,.....$ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP AND OTHER SECRET SOCIETIES

BY REV. J. SARVER, Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church, Leechburg, Pa.

This is a very clear argument against Secretism of all forms and the duty to disfellowship, Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications.

Single Copy, Post Paid.....$ 10
Per Dozen " 75
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 4 00

Sermon on Secret Societies,

BY REV. DANIEL DOW, Woodstock, Conn.

The special object of this sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the Character of Secret Societies, no matter what object they profess to have.

Single Copy, post paid.....$ 05
Per Dozen, " " 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 3 00

President H. H. GEORGE, On Secret Societies.

A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian Churches, to disfellowship Secret Societies.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 10 cts.
Per doz, " ..... 75 "
Per 100, Express charges Extra, ... $4.00.

History of the National Christian Association.

Its origin, objects, what it has done and aims to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought; The Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association, Conditions of the Carpenter Donation with engraving of building to be donated by Mr. Carpenter; table, showing the number of pastors and communicants in churches that exclude members of Secret societies; tabular view of local, county, State and National Conventions, and list of organizations Auxiliary to the National Christian Association. Brief opinions of eminent men on secret societies, and testimonies of religious bodies against them. This book will be found invaluable by all who wish to know the character of this reform and how they may do the most to further its objects. It should be in the hands of every Anti-mason.

Price, post paid, 25 cents each; per doz., $1.50. 25 copies or more by express at 8 cents each.

NEW BOOKS

HAND-BOOK OF FREEMASONRY.

BY EDMOND RONAYNE, late Past Master of Keystone Lodge, No. 639, Chicago. A full Illustrated Exposition of the Three Degrees of "Ancient Craft Masonry;" Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft and Master Mason, embracing the "Standard Work" of the Order.

Single Copy, $0 50. Per dozen, $4 00. Per 100 $25 00.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WITH SIGNS OF RECOGNITION, PASS WORDS, GRIPS, Etc., and the RITUAL of the MACHINISTS AND BLACKSMITHS' UNION. (The two bound together.)

Single Copy, $0 25. Per dozen, $2 00. Per 100 $10 00.

Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees of Freemasonry

Nothing can more clearly show the abominations of this system of iniquity than its horrible Oaths and Penalties.

Single Copy, $0 15. Per dozen, $1 00. Per 100 $6 00.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret Societies.

A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons the Christian Church.

Single Copy $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100, $4 50.

Secrecy v. s. The Family, State and Church.

BY REV. M. S. DRURY. The antagonism of Organized Secrecy with the welfare of the Family, State and Church is clearly shown

Single Copy, $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100 $4 00.

General Washington Opposed to Secret Societies.

This is a republication of Governor Joseph Ritner's "Vindication of General Washington from the Stigma of adherence to Secret Societies" communicated to the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania, March 8th, 1837, at their special request.

To this is added the fact that three high masons were the only persons who opposed a vote of thanks to Washington on his retirement to private life, undoubtedly, because they considered him a Seceding Freemason.

Single copy 10cts. Per Doz. 75cts. Per 100 $4 50

Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the Initiate?

BY REV. A. L. POST, Proof of the sinfulness of such Oaths and the consequent duty of all who have taken them to openly Repudiate them.

Single copy 5 cents. Per Dozen 50 cents. Per 100 $3.00.

ANTIMASONIC TRACTS

TRACT NO. 1:

HISTORY OF MASONRY.

BY PRESIDENT J. BLANCHARD, OF WHEATON COLLEGE.

This is now published in three tracts of four pages each. Price of each, 50 cents per 100; $4 per 1000.

TRACT No. 1, PART FIRST—Shows the origin of Speculative Freemasonry, and is entitled "HISTORY OF MASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART SECOND—Is entitled "DESPOTIC CHARACTER OF FREEMASONRY"

TRACT No. 1, PART THIRD—Is entitled "FREEMASONRY A CHRISTI-EXCLUDING RELIGION"

TRACT NO. 2:

MASONIC MURDER,

By REV. J. R. BAIRD, of Pleasantville, Pa., a seceding Mason who has taken 17 degrees. A 2-page tract at 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 3:

SECRETS OF MASONRY,

BY ELI TAPLEY.

This is a 4-page Illustrated Tract, showing the signs, grips and pass-words, of the first three degrees. 50 cents per 100, or $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 4:

GRAND! GREAT GRAND!!

BY PHILO CARPENTER.

This is a 2-page tract, calling the attention of the public to the despotic and ridiculous titles of Freemasonry. Price 25 cents per 100; $2 00 per 1,000:

TRACT. NO. 5:

Extracts From Masonic Oaths and Penalties, as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.

This tract is a reprint of a tract published in 1834, and is a very weighty document. A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 6:

Hon. John Quincy Adams' Letter.

Giving His and His Father's Opinion of Freemasonry (1831.);

AND

Hon. James Madison's Letter,

Giving His Opinion of Freemasonry (1832).

Both of these letters, in one 4-page tract, at 50 cents per 100: $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 7:

SATAN'S CABLE-TOW.

A 4-page tract. This is a carefnl analysis of the character of Masonic oaths, and shows them to be most blasphemous and unchristian; and the Masonic Cable Tow is clearly shown to be the Cable Tow by which Satan is leading thousands to eternal death. 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 8:

Is a 2-page double tract, "ILLUSTRATED." The first page represents a Mason proclaiming the wonderful wisdom and benevolence of the order, with an article below, entitled "Freemasonry is only 152 Years Old," and gives the time and place of its birth.

The second side is entitled, "Murder and Treason not Excepted," and shows that the Masonic order is treasonable in constitution, and is both anti-Republican and anti-Christian. Price 25 cents per 100; $3 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 9, ILLUSTRATED:

FREEMASONRY IN THE CHURCH.

Copy of a petition for the higher degrees of Freemasonry, in which Blasphemous and Despotic Titles are enumerated and prayed for. The Copy was printed for the use of "Occidental Sovereign Consistory S. P. R. S." 32d degree—a Chicago Lodge—and was ordered by a deacon of a Christian Church who is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ill

TRACT NO. 10:

CHARACTER AND SYMBOLS OF FREEMASONRY.

A 2-page tract, (ILLUSTRATED) by its "Grand Secretaries, Grand Lecturers, Perfect Prince Freemasons, Grand Inspector, Inquisitor Commanders, Grand High Priests," etc. The wonderful symbolical meaning of "the Cable Tow," "the Square and Compass," "the Lamb Skin, or white Apron," and "the Common Gavel," are given in the exact words of the highest Masonic authority. 25 cents per 100 or $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 11;

Address of Niagara County Association, New York.

TO THE PUBLIC,

Concerning the Morgan Murder, and the character of Freemasonry shown by this and other Masonic murders. 50 cents

TRACT NO. 12:

JUDGE WHITNEY AND MASONRY.

This tract contains a condensed account of Judge Whitney's Defense before the Grand Lodge of Illinois, on charge of unmasonic conduct in bringing Samuel L. Keith the murderer of Ellen Slade, and a member of his Lodge, to justice, with Judge Whitney's subsequent renunciation of Masonry,

An 8-page tract, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 13:

DR. NATHANIEL COLVER ON MASONRY,

and

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D.,

Chancellor of the University of New York, on SECRET SOCIETIES

A double 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 14:

GRAND LODGE MASONRY,

ITS RELATION TO CIVIL GOVERNMENT AND THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION.

Opening address before the Monmouth Convention, by PRES. BLANCHARD of WHEATON COLLEGE. This is a 16-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 15:

MASONIC OATHS NULL AND VOID.

A clear and conclusive argument proving the invalidity of any oath or obligation to do evil. By REV. J. A. HART, Secretary National Christian Association. Published by special order of the Association. 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 16:

HON. SETH M. GATES ON FREEMASONRY.

PROOF THAT THE INSTITUTION THAT MURDERED MORGAN IS UNCHANGED IN CHARACTER

This is a letter to the Monmouth Convention by Hon. Seth M Gates who was Deputy Sheriff of Genesee County, and also Secretary of the Leroy Lodge at the time of Morgan's Abduction. A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 17:

Origin, Obligations and Expenses of The Grange.

WITH A CONSTITUTION OF A FARMERS' CLUB.

This little tract ought to be put into the hands of every Farmer in the United States. Four-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4 00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 18:

HON. WM. H. SEWARD ON SECRET SOCIETIES.

Extracts from a Speech on Know-nothingism in the U. S. Senate in 1855. The testimony of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS MILLARD FILLMORE CHIEF JUSTIC MARSHALL and others is added.

A 2-page tract, 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 19.

BRICKS FOR MASONS TO LAY.

WASHINGTON, MADISON, MARSHALL, RUSH, HANCOCK, ADAMS AND WEBSTER, give brief clear testimony against the Lodge A 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000

TRACT

OBJECTIONS TO MASONRY.

By A SECEDING MASON, of Cornton, Vermont.

This tract contains many strong arguments against the Lodge drawn from personal experience, observation and study of its character A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 21:

MASONIC CHASTITY.

BY EMMA A. WALLACE.

The author, by wonderfully clear illustration and argument, shows the terribly corrupt nature of Freemasonry. No true woman who reads this will ever speak with approbation of this institution A 4-page tract 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT No. 22.

LINUS CHITTENDEN ON FREEMASONRY.

The Author a Seceding Master Mason states his objection to the Lodge, drawn both from experience and observation, in a clear concise and forcible style.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 23.

MASONIC OATHS AND PENALTIES.

ADDRESS OF REV. A. M. MILLIGAN AT THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION

This is the clearest and most conclusive argument to show the wickedness of masonic oaths and the duty to disregard and repent of them that we have ever seen.

A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 24.

SHOULD FREEMASONS BE ADMITTED TO CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP?

The principles and teachings of Freemasonry taken from the highest masonic authorities are compared with those of the Bible, several Masonic Oaths are given in whole or in part with the comments of Rev's. Moses Stewart, Nathaniel Colver, and Charles G. Finney, on this character. Those who love a pure Christianity should aid in the circulation of this tract. A 4 page tract, 50cts. per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 25.

The American Party,

ITS OBJECT, ORGANIZATION, PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES.

Some of the ablest men in the nation have pronounced our platform the best that has been presented to the American people for the past fifty years Our Candidates are men of acknowledged ability and honesty, and if every voter in the United States could read this our "POLITICAL TRACT," our Candidates could undoubtedly be elected. One friend pledges a dollar for every other dollar contributed and this 8 page tract costs but $1.00 per 100, or $8.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 26.

FREEMASONRY A RELIGION.

This Tract is made up of quotations from Standard Masonic Authors and nothing could more clearly demonstrate the fact that Freemasonry claims to be a Christless and therefore Anti-christian religion.

An 8 page Tract, $1 00 per 100. $8 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 27.

Duty and Ability to Know the Character of Freemasonry.

Thousands seem to consider it a virtue to know nothing ab out the character of Secret Societies. This is shown to be a great error if not a crime and our duty to use the knowledge within our reach especially when of such vital importance, is clearly enforced.

A 4 Page Tract, 50 cents per 100. $4 00 per 1000.

Cynosure Tract No. 28.

FREEMASONRY REVEALED.

A LEGAL ATTESTATION BY EDMOND RONAYNE

To the correctiness of the published expositions of Freemasonry. The author very briefly states the mode of preparation and initiation in the various degrees, with the mock murder and resurrection of the candidate in the personification of Hiram Abiff in the 3d, degree and the penalties of each.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100. $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 1, IN SWEDISH,

translated by Prof. A. R. CERVIN. A 15-page tract at $3.00 per 100: $15.00 per 1000.

ENOCH HONEYWELL'S TRACT.

TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA. Postage 5cts. per 100.

TRACTS FREE.

GERMAN CYNOSUCE TRACT A.

Six Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason.

By Rev. A. GROLE, Pastor, German M.E. Church, Worchester, Mass

This is our first German Tract, and it is a good one; it ought to have a large circulation. A 4 page tract, Price 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

FREE TRACTS.

A Tract Fund for the Free Distribution of Tracts

HAS BEEN SECURED AND SHOULD NEVER BE EXHAUSTED. A friend has pledged this fund a dollar for every other dollar received, so EVERY NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TRACT FUND COUNTS DOUBLE, and thus $10.00 pays for 20,000 pages of tracts.

The distribution of these tracts has already saved hundreds of young men from the lodge, but there is a great lack of funds to supply the constantly increasing demand for Free Tracts.

During the year 1876 were gratuitously sent out, mostly in very small lots. The present demand is fully 100.000 pages per month, but funds are lacking to meet it.

Many of our most earnest workers in this cause of God are poor men, who would be glad to circulate thousands of pages of Antimasonic literature if they could have them free.

SHALL WE NOT HAVE AN INEXHAUSTIBLE TRACT FUND

"THE ANTI-MASONIC SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together and is just the thing to select from. Price 20cents. See advertisement page 16.

Enoch Honeywell Esq., pays for an unlimited number of his tract addressed "To THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA." It is an excellent tract, bearing the printed endorsement of Executive Committee of the National Christian Association. He has furnished the public over 150.000 pages of these tracts during the past year.

TRACTS FREE. If sent by mail, 5 cts per 100 is charged postage,

Send Contributions and orders to

EZRA A. COOK.

Tract Committee 18 Wabash Ave Chicago, Ill

Publishers' Department.

Illinois, Ohio and Virginia have the honor of sending in the September clubs of ten up to present date.

Wm. H. Showalter, Stribling Springs, Augusta county, Va., sends a club of ten this week. We hope to receive a fourth club of ten or more, before September closes.

Two more months remain before we again report the number of subscribers on the Cynosure mail list. Let us all work together for an improvement on the last report.

From the many encouragements found in this week's mail we give the following to our readers believing that many of them sympathize with our good friend Thomas Moore, of Milnersville. O., who writes: "I feel much pleased to see the reports in the Cynosure of clubs coming in from various quarters."

Jacob Ackart, Hart's Falls, Rensselaer county, N. Y., writes: "We want a little time to try to get new subscribers. * * I am anxious to increase the circulation of the Cynosure, and will endeavor to get a club to this post-office.

John Fait, Brimfield, Peoria Co., Ill., writes: "I have been trying to get subscribers, but have not succeeded as yet. I think I will get some before the year is out.

C. T. Hussong, Ascension, Sullivan Co., Ind., sends one new subscription obtained after more than one year's effort. He writes: "Let us

PRAY AND WORK ON."

Benj. Borton, Jr., West Unity, O., writes: "I will try to get some subscribers for your paper." We believe him to be one of that class whose "try" is followed with success.

S. C. H. Smith, Belpre, Washington Co., O., writes; "I will try to get some more subscribers for the Cynosure."

Chas. M. Thomas, Wheeling Marion Co., Iowa, in his eighty-sixth year, sends the Cynosure to his son for a year requesting him to get a club for the paper. Mr. Thomas writes he will do all he can, and adds: "I hope to do something more for the Carpenter fund." Cannot many others unable to canvass themselves secure substitutes?

All subscribing now, will have a full report of the Dayton meeting.

The present, is the only time we are sure of. Let us improve it.

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED DUBING WEEK ENDING SEPT. 21, 1877.—J Auten, Rev J Brown, H M Bissell, D C Benson, H Cotterman, H Cadle, R Craig, A M Durfee, J H Dunn, Jno Fait, R Gorley, M R Howard, J H Hanna, A Hartzell, C Hutchins, C T Hussong, H Harnum, Rev W Kindel, A Mitchel, T More (R F), O March, J C Noe, S Y Orr, Mrs L E Packard, G Richey, H Spafford, S S Scribner, N D Strong, W Showalter, C M Thomas, J Teeple, T Watson, M A Wilson.

Books and Tracts sent Week ending Sept. 22, 1877.

By Express.

J S Hickman.

By Mail.

R Drishaus, W Thompson, Box 128, H Russell, S M B Hoffman, M D, J C Noe, W A Jecks, W M Race, Z Bell, E C West, J E Mitchell, S E North, J P Spiers, F VanFassen, C Hutchins, A J Clark, Rev P Klindworth, J Harvey, C T Collins, L D Stewart, A Johnson, H Collins, D Price, J Pierce, G Standart, E F Kind, R E A Walker, J H Chaney, H Wittler, W A Smith, G W Pollitt, H Hamm, D C Benson, J O Wilhelm, E L Sheldon.

Donations to Tract Fund.

John Viall $1, T Hudson $5, A Hard $1.

EXPOSITION TRACT FUND.

The National Christian Association have a large and prominent stand at the Chicago Exposition building at the north end of the gallery, where many thousands of tracts can be distributed to the throng of visitors there, many of whom will learn for the first time of this great reform. Let every friend who visits the Exposition be sure to call at the stand of the N. C. A. A sign six feet wide and twenty feet long makes the stand easy to find. Ezra A. Cook & Co. furnish the tracts at half price so one hundred dollars will pay for two hundred thousand pages of tracts. It is thought that fully that number of pages will be needed to supply the demand. They will be given out carefully. All contributions will be acknowledged in the Cynosure weekly. Send all contributions to this fund to

EZRA A. COOK & Co.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24, 1877.

GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	1 13	1 14
" No. 3	1 09½	1 10
" Rejected		96
" Minnesota	1 14½	1 18½
" Winter	1 25	1 30
Corn—No. 2	42¾	43¼
Rejected	41	41½
Oats—No. 2	23¾	25
Rejected		23
Rye—No. 2		54¼
Bran per ton		10 25
Flour—Winter	5 50	7 25
Spring	2 75	6 00
Hay—Timothy	8 00	9 00
Prairie	5 00	8 00
Mess Beef	10 00	11 00
Tallow		7½
Lard per cwt		8 95
Mess pork per brl		18 00
Butter medium to best	18	30
Cheese	8	18
Beans	1 80	2 00
Apples per brl	1 25	2 50
Poultry—Chickens per doz	1 50	3 50
Turkeys per lb		09
Eggs	14	15
Seeds—Timothy	1 29	1 40
Clover		5 25
Flax	1 20	1 28
Potatoes new per brl	1 25	1 50
Broomcorn	3	7
Hides green to dry flint	8¾	15
Lumber—Clear	28 00	34 00
Common	9 50	11 00
Shingles		2 50
WOOL—Washed	34	40
Unwashed	28	29
LIVE STOCK Cattle Choice	5 00	5 50
Good	4 50	4 90
Medium	4 00	4 40
Common	2 50	3 75
Hogs	5 20	5 90
Sheep	3 25	4 00

New York Market.

Flour	$3 50	10 00
Wheat—Spring	1 33	1 40
Winter	1 50	1 55
Corn	57	58
Oats	33	44
Rye	70	71
Lard		9¼
Mess pork		13 60
Butter	12	21
Cheese	5	12½
Eggs	10	21
Wool	10	59

$2500 A YEAR. Agents wanted. Business legitimate. Particulars free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

MASON & HAMLIN, Cabinet Organs!

The only Organ declared to be of First Rank by the Judges at Philadelphia.

Gold Medals and Diplomas of Honor awarded them at all the great World Expositions.

Being the only American Organs which have ever obtained any award in Competition with the best European makers.

These celebrated instruments are now offered to the public in New and Elegant Styles at the very Lowest Prices consistent with Best Material and Workmanship. They may be purchased on

Easy Monthly or Quarterly Installments

or Rented until Rent pays for them.

Every organ warranted to give satisfaction. Illustrated catalogue free.

Mason & Hamlin Organ Company

Boston, 154 Tremont Street,

New York, 25 Union Square,

Chicago, 250 & 252 Wabash Ave.

Agents Wanted!

TO SELL THE PUBLICATIONS OF

EZRA A. COOK & CO.

Liberal Terms Offered.

Capable persons who are in need of pecuniary aid may clear

Handsome Profits,

While at the same time aiding the cause of Reform. Apply to EZRA A. COOK & CO., No. 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1	square, 1 insertion,		$2.00
1	square (1 inch deep)	one month	7.00
1	" "	2 "	10.00
1	" "	3 "	15.00
1	" "	6 "	25.00
1	" "	12 "	40.00

Discount for Space.

On 2 squares 5 per cent, On 3 squares 10 per cent
On 4 " 15 " " On 5 " 20 "
On ¼ col. 25 per cent On one col. 30 per cent

NEW CLUB RATES

FOR

Either Renewals or New Subscriptions.

Papers addressed to one or different Post Offices as desired.

CLUB RATES INCLUDING POSTAGE.

2 to 4 Subscribers, at $2.00 a year.
5 to 9 " at 1.75 "
10 or more " at 1.50 "

Names for a Club may be sent at different times; THE MONEY FOR THE CLUB TO BE SENT WITH THE FIRST LOT OF NAMES; but other Subscriptions may be added at same rates after Club is full.

The effect of Club Rates is to give the Commission to those who compose the Club and no commission can be allowed on these rates.

$3 GOLD PLATED WATCHES. Cheapest in the known world. Sample Watch Free to Agents. Address, A. COULTER & Co., Chicago.

Discontinuances.

Unless we receive orders to stop the paper sooner, we continue the Cynosure a full month after the time expires. Those wishing their paper discontinued are requested to notify us AT THE TIME THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS EXPIRE.

ADDRESS all letters with subscriptions or orders for books, tracts, and donations to the tract fund, to Ezra A. Cook & Co., No. 13 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

SOMETHING NEW.

A CHART OF MASONRY

Showing the degrees from the first to the thirty-third, entitled

Degrees of Ancient Accepted Scottish Freemasonry,

According to a Manual by Wm. M. Cunningham 33d Degree.

Designed by Rev. P. Stoddard, to explain Freemasonry, as shown by Morgan's Exposition and Richardson's Monitor.

A Neat Lithograph 22x28 Inches.

Single copies finely colored, post paid	$ 7[illegible]
Per dozen " " " "	5 00
Per 100 " " " " Express charges extra	35 00
Single copy, colored, varnished and mounted postpaid	1 00
Per dozen colored, varnished and mounted, post paid	7 50
Per 100, colored, varnished and mounted, express charges extra	50 00

25 COPIES OR MORE SENT AT THE 100 RATES.

Renewals.

The date at which subscriptions expire, is with each subscriber's name on the address label.

Please send renewals before this date occurs. Notice if the date is changed to correspond soon; if not, or if the paper fails to come, write without delay.

CALIFORNIA

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the WEST and NORTH-WEST, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between CHICAGO and all points in ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, NORTHERN MICHIGAN, MINNESOTA, IOWA, NEBRASKA, CALIFORNIA, and the WESTERN TERRITORIES. Its

Omaha and California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in NORTHERN ILLINOIS, IOWA, DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, COLORADO, UTAH, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, CHINA, JAPAN, AND AUSTRALIA. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for NORTHERN WISCONSIN and MINNESOTA, and for MADISON, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, DULUTH, and all points in the Great Northwest. Its

Winona and St. Paul Line.

Is the only route for WINONA, ROCHESTER, OWATONNA, MANKATO, ST. PETER, NEW ULM, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for JANESVILLE, WATERTOWN, FOND DU LAC, OSHKOSH, APPLETON, GREEN BAY, ESCANABA, NEGAUNEE, MARQUETTE, HOUGHTON, HANCOCK, and the LAKE SUPERIOR COUNTRY. Its

Freeport and Dubuque Line

Is the only route for ELGIN, ROCKFORD, FREEPORT, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago and Milwaukee Line

Is the old Lake Shore Route, and is the only one passing through EVANSTON, LAKE FOREST, HIGHLAND PARK, WAUKEGAN, RACINE, KENOSHA to MILWAUKEE.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

are run on all through trains of this road.

This is the ONLY LINE running these cars between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our Sleepers connect with the Overland Sleepers on the Union Pacific Railroad for all points West of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago and North-Western Railway LEAVE CHICAGO as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, Two Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four Through Trains daily. Pullman Cars on night trains, Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta, La Crosse and Winona and points in Minnesota. One Through Train daily, with Pullman Sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains.

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, Two Trains daily. Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For L. Ke Geneva, Four Trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points you can have from two to ten trains daily

New York Office, No 415 Broadway; Boston Office, No. 5 State Street; Omaha Office, 245 Farnham Street San Francisco Office, 121 Montgomery Street; Chicago Ticket Offices: 62 Clark Street, under Sherman House; Kinzie Street Depot, corner W. Kinzie; Wells Street Depot, corner Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agents, apply to

W. H. STENNETT, MARVIN HUGHITT,
Gen. Pass. Ag't, Chicago. Gen Man'g. Chicago.

[Eastern.)

Excelsior Marriage Certificate.

It is decidedly the most BEAUTIFUL, TASTEFUL and SENSIBLE thing of the kind I have ever seen."—Rev. F. G. Hibbard, D. D.

"The most SCRIPTURAL, BEAUTIFUL and APPROPRIATE Marriage Certificate I have ever seen."—Late Rev. H. Mattison, D. D.

"SOMETHING NEW AND BEAUTIFUL, which we pronounce the handsomest thing of the kind we ever laid eyes on."—Meth. Home Journal, Phila. Contains two Ornamental Ovals, for Photographs

A BEAUTIFUL LITHOGRAPH 14 1-4 by 18 1-4 inches. 25 cts each, $2.25 per doz- $15 per 100.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., CHICAGO.

How to Send Money.

Post office orders, checks or drafts on Chicago or towns east of Chicago, and currency by express may be sent at our risk. If it is not possible to send by either of the four ways named, money in a registered letter may be sent at our risk, but it is not as safe.

TERMS FOR THE CYNOSURE.

$2.00 per annum, in advance.
20c " " " " for postage.

All who canvass for the CYNOSURE are allowed a cash commission of twenty per cent. or twenty-five per cent in books at retail prices, one-half this percentage on renewals, and any one sending $100. for the CYNOSURE during three months, will be entitled to an extra five per cent.

All responsible persons who desire to promote this reform are authorized to act as agents.

$1200 SALARY. Permanent salesmen wanted to sell Staple Goods to dealers. No peddling. Expenses paid. Address S. A. GRANT & CO., 2, 4, 6 & 8 Home St., Cincinnati, O.